THE AUBURN COURIER

Microfilmed for:
ECKHART PUBLIC LIBRARY
Auburn, Indiana

STARTS WITH

JAN 4 1894

MICRO PHOTO DIVISION
BELL & HOWELL COMPANY
IL

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JANUARY 4, 1894. NUMBER 1.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

No. 342. 170 Acres of fine land well adapted to grain or stock purposes, 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler.

Frame dwelling: main 22 x 24, wing 14 x 28, wing 14 x 31; 11 rooms, cellar under entire building.

Three good barns, all in good repair, conveniently located; one 36 x 50, another 30 x 66, and the last one 22 x 28. Two good wells, 1 cistern, windmill and elevated tank. Two orchards of about 150 in the two. Fences in fine condition. 150 acres in fine state of cultivation, balance timber. No waste land. Sandy, loamy soil. Easy payment plan.

No. —. 44 Acres of land in Wilmington township.

Frame dwelling, 2 story, 16 x 28; wing, 12 x 28, and summer kitchen. Cellar and well.

Frame barn 40 x 65, granary, wagon house and corn crib combined, 20 x 26, and hog and hen house.

4 Acres orchard, all winter grafted fruit; fences in A1 condition; 5 acres timber; 60 rods tiling. No waste land. Soil, black loam.

Price, $2,500. Easy payments.

No. —. Fine residence property on South VanBuren street.

Elegant property. Splendid location. Fruit in large variety and of best quality.

Price, $1,500.

Vacant lots in Widney's addition on long time, easy terms.

No. 157. 40 Acres, 4 miles north of Butler, Ind.

Good log house and barn. 20 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Soil, black loam. Good fences. ¾ mile to school and church

Price, $1,200. Long time, easy terms.

Dwellings, vacant lots and other desirable property in Garrett to exchange for land in this county and pay cash difference.

80 Acres land in good cultivation to exchange for town property in Auburn, or, will exchange for a well located meat market. Will trade for smaller farm.

Price, $3,300.

80 Acres good land in Butler township, located near school and church and with in 1 mile of railroad.

Good buildings and fences and plenty of fruit.

Price, $4,200.

Will exchange for a smaller tract near some good town.

No. 1900. 85-acre farm, 2½ miles from St. Joe, all under cultivation, no waste land; soil, black sandy loam, no clay; good brick house 14x34 with L 26x28, 8 rooms, good cellar 14x34; 40 bbl. cistern; 96 feet of porch around house, good well; 2 orchards; all kinds of small fruit; barn 36x46; chicken house with 2 acre park, with spring water running through it; 12 acres in wheat, 40 acres in timothy and clover. Will sell for $60 per acre; small payment down, balance on long time, or will take some town property in Auburn or St. Joe.

No. 1890. 120-acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler, 95 acres clear, fences good, 30 acres timber, well drained, part tiled; 2 good orchards and a fine pear orchard; has a good 8-room house, with cellar, cistern, well and barn. Will sell very low and on long time.

No. 1850. 70 acre farm, 3¼ miles from Butler; has 2 frame houses, barn 25x40, young orchard. Will sell for $32 per acre; part cash, balance on long time.

No. 1810. 80 acre farm, 1½ miles from Newville, 65 acres clear, 15 acres timber, good fences; good 9 room house; barn 36x50 feet; orchard of 70 trees; well and cistern; mostly black soil, no waste land; 40 acres in timothy and clover. Farm is in good state of cultivation; 1 mile to school and church. Price $3,200, $500 cash down, balance on long time. This is a bargain.

No. 2600. 80 acre farm, 2½ miles S E. of Auburn, 65 acres clear, balance in timber, no waste land; good 2-story house; good barn 48x80; corn crib, hog pen, wagon and tool shed; cistern, good well with new wind pump and tank; good orchard; good fences; splendid soil. Will sell cheap on long time; will take good house and lot in Auburn or Garrett at what it is worth.

No. 1717. 90 acres of land about 7 miles from Auburn; house 18x24 with L 13 x 17; barn 17x23 with shed 12x23; large granary, well and cistern, orchard; 35 acres under cultivation, 15 acres good timber, balance well drained low land for pasture. Will sell for $3,000, ⅓ cash, balance on long time.

No. 1725. 44½ acre farm, all clear, no waste land; good 4-room house; bank barn 47x76; good orchard; 2 wells. Price $1,800, ⅓ cash, balance on reasonable time.

No. 3,000. 64-acre farm 6 miles east of Auburn, 60 acres clear, 4 acres timber, well drained, all black sandy loam; fair house; good barn, 38x48; one of the best orchards in the county, an abundance of peach, pear, cherries, grapes, currants, berries, etc.; about 18 acres in wheat, 20 acres in grass, no waste land. This farm can be sold very low on terms that will certainly suit the purchaser.

No. 315. 60- acre farm in Jackson tp.; has a 7-room, 2-story brick house, with cellar, well and cistern; barn 32x64; orchard of 80 trees; all clear and in good cultivation. Will sell for $3,000, ⅓ cash, balance on long time, easy payments This is a bargain.

MONEY! MONEY! Do you want to borrow any money? We can loan you any amount you want, from $500 to $20,000, at a low rate of interest, on long time, with privilege of partail payments. If you need money, do not put it off very long, but call at once. The demand for long time loans is increasing and our money cannot hold out long at the present rate of interest.

Do you need any Fire Insurance or Life Insurance? If you call on us and learn our terms, we have a line of the very best companies that pay losses promptly Call at our office, for we have no agents running through the country soliciting. We can save you money if you need anything in this line.

Are you going to travel? If so, come and see us. We can sell you a Railroad or Steamship ticket to any point in the world. If you want any information about rates or tickets—cheerfully given, call on us. No harm done if you do not buy.

We represent the National Building Ass'n. of Indianapolis, the best company of its kind in Indiana Do you want to build or pay off a mortgage on your home, and pay it off in small payments Parties having money to invest will do well to call on us at once.

If you want to buy or sell a farm, town property or personal property give us a call. Our commission will be reasonable.

We make a specialty of handling stocks of goods of all kinds. Can either sell or trade them. We take pleasure in showing our property, free of charge, to any who think of buying.

(We have a number of Western and Southern farms that we can trade for land or town property here. Will give or take the difference.)

We have a No 1 Flouring Mill for sale, situate at LaOtto, we can sell cheap or trade for farm. It is doing a good business.

Rickel & Sprott,

Auburn, Ind.

—UNDER FARMERS BANK.

HARPER'S BAZAR. ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a journal for the home. It gives the fullest and latest information about Fashions, and its numerous illustrations, Paris designs, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dressmaker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared to make its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its bright stories, amusing comedies, and thoughtful essays, satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. The serials for 1894 will be written by William Black and Walter Besant, short stories will be written by Mary, E. Wilkins, Maria Louise Pool, Ruth McEnery Stuart, Marion Harland and others. Out-door Sports and In-door Games, Social Entertainment, Embroidery, and other interesting topics will receive constant attention. A new series is promised of "Coffee and Repartee."

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE	$4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY	4 00
HARPER'S BAZAR	4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE	2 00

Postage free to all subscribers in the United States Canada, and Mexico.

The volumes of the Bazar begin with the first Numbers for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the number current at the time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of Harper's Bazar for three years back, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by mail, postage paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume), for $7 00 per volume

Cloth cases, for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of $1 00 each.

Remittances should be made by Postoffice Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

In Memorium.

"It was Untimely!" No more fittingly could this expression be used than in the sad death of Newton Kurtz Miller. Emerging into early manhood, when life with all its possibilities was bright and full of promises before him, and the goal of his ambition for which he had so unceasingly worked, was just in sight, he is met by the black winged angel of death, whose keen and remorseless sickle of time cut the thread of life and his spirit passed into the boundless realm of the unknown But such is life, strange, though passing strange it is.

The deceased, though but twenty four years of age, had, by his integrity of character and intelligent industry, won the esteem and confidence of the railway company of which he was an employe, and was receiving that promotion which would have been valuable to him had he lived. A mother and three children survive him. Less than a year ago he was united in marriage to Miss Hattie Septon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Septon, of LaGrange, Ind. Consumption, the disease which caused his death commenced to manifest itself a few months ago and then its progress was fearfully rapid. Only a few days before his death, he, accompanied by his wife, went to El Paso, Texas, with the hope that the climate would give him relief, but he died Dec 8, a few days after arriving there. It was a sad journey for the wife with the remains of her husband back to LaGrange where she arrived on Wednesday morning. The funeral was held from the Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. T. E. Hughes preaching the funeral sermon, and the exercises were conducted in accordance with the rites of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of which he was a member, assisted by the K. of P. and Daughters of Rebekah.

For La Grippe.

Has your constitution been wrecked by an attack of LaGrippe. The Great South American Nervine Tonic will quickly restore your shattered nerves, strengthen and cure your digestive organs, regulate your liver and purify your blood; and restore you to perfect soundness again. This great tonic should be used after all sickness. Its power to restore to health is simply wonderful. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1875 CONTINUED.

The contract of removing the old jail to its present site on the corner lot east of the square on the south, was awarded to Abraham McEntaffer for $80, and on its removal the town Board rented the building for a needed place of meeting and for holding municipal elections and, later, bought and fitted it up and connected therewith improvements for housing the fire apparatus.

For many years the town trustees had been compelled to meet sometimes in a storeroom, office or factory and had finally found quarters which at present are restricted in area and unwholesome. They need and ought to have a place of meeting more in accord with the spirit and conditions of the Auburn of 1894.

On the vacated site, the new building was in April located and from then the work of construction was steadily carried on. At one time, two of the large stones, each of which formed a cell wall, fell and were broken, involving a loss to contractors. At another, inferior material had found its way into the work and, condemned by the vigilant superintendent, the wall was rebuilt according to specifications.

Changes greatly to the advantage of the building were authorized by the Commissioners and added about $2,000 to the contract price. The best material was furnished throughout and the job was executed in first-class style at a final cost of only $28,647.78. This was one instance of a thousand where the expense of a public building amounted to less than the estimate, which was in this case $30,000.

This fact spoke well for Mr. Toland, the architect, and for the honesty and economy of all concerned. The contractors did their work admirably and it was said at the time that the building had no unsound material, no defect in workmanship.

For once, the Board of Commissioners received unwonted credit in the candid expression: "They have been faithful to the people in the expenditure of money, and true to themselves in an honest and economical investment of the same."

There are triple grates between cell inmates and liberty. The inner grate is of steel. The interior was supplied with all modern appliances for feeding, heating and locking. Scandinavian locks are attached to each cell and a combination lock to the main entrance.

In reference to this latter, it seems to have been a patent and some years since a gentleman one day appeared before the Board in session. He represented the widow of the inventor, demonstrated that DeKalb county with many others had infringed on the patent, showed where litigation had been invariably followed by decisions in his favor and made it optional with our commissioners to pay him on his demand $300, or a much larger sum if brought into court. The offer was accepted and the drive well swindle on individuals was duplicated upon counties on a greater scale.

To meet expense incurred in building, $29,000 in ten per cent short time bonds were issued. An attempt was made to make these bonds payable at option of the county, but being regarded adversely, the time of redemption was fixed at from two to five years. They were taken at par by home people, redeemed by means of a light additional tax, and the county has a prison that will long answer to the demands made upon it.

Sheriff Meese moved into the residence Dec. 1, 1875. The first occupant of the new jail was George Hobnick, charged with stealing a note from Alonzo Lockwood. His transfer from the old to the new quarters was marked by a pleasant escapade when the prisoner got away from his jailer, much to his anxiety, and then voluntarily walked into his new quarters.

Among notorious criminals who have since been incarcerated in the prison pending trial, were Lewis Abbott, convicted of killing Francis Houlton, of Franklin township, on May 18, 1878, tried in September following and sent to the penitentiary for life; Levi Keesler who murdered Alexius T. Harner on Dec. 14, 1885, in Butler township, and created great excitement by the atrocious character of the crime, was tried and likewise sentenced to state prison for life, and Samuel Deeters, who, in a frenzy of passion over financial losses, assaulted his mother, shot Mrs. Laura A. Lowe, a neighbor who responded to her outcry, also shot her father, Amos Bechtel, on his way for surgical aid and wounded Mr. Yates, a passer by. At this date, Deeters has not had his trial, and the gravity of offense and reputation of attorneys employed, promise to make this case remarkable in the criminal annals of DeKalb county.

The invariable plea for murderers, of insanity was presented in the case of Kessler to no purpose. Judge McBride in sentencing him to prison for life, said "You have shown yourself unfit for liberty and should pass the rest of your life in prison."

The number of inmates of the jail has of late shown a marked increase; during six months there were about sixty commitments and Oct. 1, 1893, eleven cells were occupied.

In earlier chapters, the history of the Auburn Woolen Mills has been written. For years this fine factory had been a valuable auxiliary to the town. There the farmer had found a market for his wool, and there the farmer's wife had her carding done. The company during its existence had prospered. Sylvester Kutzner was president and Thomas D. Gross, secretary.

A notice had been given by them to stockholders for a meeting to be held on Saturday, Nov. 13, but it was not to be. Before that time, fire-scorched walls and smouldering embers marked the ruins of this fine mill at the hands of an incendiary. At 5 p. m. of Nov. 11, flames were seen issuing from the northwest corner of the garret floor of the mills. An alarm was given and met a prompt response. With a handy ladder and a few pails of water, the disaster could have been averted. But there were no ladders, the flames, fed on oily surfaces, soon enveloped the entire building, and involved a destruction of property valued at $15,000.

Several citizens entered the mills and succeeded in getting out the looms and some other material. They saved the annex covering the engine and boiler, on the east side after much exertion, but the calamity reduced the assets of the company to $5,000, and the stockholders not being able to rebuild, a fine trade was destroyed and a loss inflicted upon the community.

Subservient to the law of change, loss in one direction was compensated in some other. We have noted the organization of a bank whose history fitly illustrates those mutations that are liable to affect the most carefully conducted business or financial institution.

On April 1, 1875, the First National Bank of Auburn was opened for the transaction of business. The president, Joseph R. Lanning, and secretary, James V. Hazzard, assisted by George Hazzard of Newcastle and Thomas Newby of Cambridge, the last two being experienced bankers, were present when the books were opened and the institution put in running order.

The necessary deposits had been made at Washington and the bank notes were speedily expected. Fully $5,000 had already been deposited in the huge safe which weighs ten tons, requires the opening of five combination locks, and was regarded as fire and burglar proof.

The first statement was made May 1, when the bank had $30,000 in United States bonds to secure circulation, on which had been paid a premium of $4,510. Resources amounted to $66,078 78. Included in liabilities were deposits subject to check $17,325, demand certificates of deposit $8520 a promising beginning.

During the fall of 1875, Wm. McIntyre sold to the stockholders the building since occupied by the bank and thither the office was soon after removed.

Business continued satisfactory and had settled into a habitual routine when in January, 1877, at the annual meeting of stockholders, the following named directors were chosen for that year: J. H. Ford, W. McIntyre, J. McClellan, J. R. Lanning and G. Hazzard. Mr. Ford was re-elected president; G. Hazzard, vice-president and J. V. Hazzard, cashier. A five per cent dividend for six months was declared and the bank gave every evidence of being in a sound and prosperous condition.

It had been expected that George Hazzard who owned $26,100 of the $30,000 of stock would move to and become a permanent citizen of Auburn and a hearty welcome was promised in that event; but, instead, he resigned his position of vice president in May, 1877, alleging that his business at New Castle would not permit his absence from that place. W. McIntyre was elected to fill the vacancy.

The board of directors was then increased from five to nine, a ten per cent dividend was declared, a movement was started to double the capital, and it was said with confidence that, "Persons wanting a safe, sure investment can obtain it by purchasing stock in this bank."

But at this, the period of greatest prosperity, a grave peril threatened and a blow fell upon the bank, which crippled its resources, affected its credit and carried dismay throughout the community. The very man who had founded, did his best to wreck, the bank. The implicit confidence reposed in his integrity, rendered it easy to effect his purpose.

George Hazzard, on a plea of sudden, transient necessity, secured signatures of leading citizens to notes, aggregating over $30,000. These notes he negotiated and realized upon elsewhere and when his victims sought to recover, he avoided all opportunity of adjustment.

Rumors gained currency derogatory to the solvency of the bank which withstood a run, but Oct. 7, Rowland Ellis, a bank examiner, came to Auburn and began an investigation of the books. At the conclusion of his work, he decided that to save the bank, a certain deposit made at the instance of Hazzard must be satisfactorily explained. A telegram to him in Nebraska, brought out a meeting in Chicago, where he was held by court for $20,000.

He asked and was granted a transfer of his case to Indianapolis, where he obtained a postponement of trial and was admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000. Foolishly following the Auburn parties to Ft. Wayne on their return, they there had him arrested and brought to Auburn where coercive measures secured the endorsers a payment of about $17,000, or over half the amount due them.

A subsequent payment of $6,000 more, materially reduced the deficit, when John J Howes, assignee in bankruptcy of Hazzard, began proceedings to recover this sum, but a restraining order was issued by Judge Gresham and thus the bank was replaced on a sound footing, and from that time has grown in popular favor and monetary strength.

The younger brother, James, was arrested as implicated in the difficulty, passed some time in the jail, but was finally given his freedom; while George, returning to the far west continued a career brilliant in scheming and evasive treachery to friends, fraudulent to even his own attorneys and was last heard from as a prominent politician in Oregon. A report of the condition of the bank on Oct. 3, 1882, gave the total of resources at $147,918.52. Of this, $50,000 was in United States bonds deposited to secure $45,000 of its notes in circulation. George Moss was cashier for a time. Succeeded by W. McIntyre, he was in turn succeeded by his son Wm. H. McIntyre, by whom the arduous and important duties of the office were discharged until the spring of 1893, when father and son retired and Don Garwood became cashier, assisted by Charles McClellan.

During the anomalous and general panic of 1893, the bank was subjected to a crucial test of solvency, but although many thousands were withdrawn by distrustful depositors, all demands were promptly met, cash resources increased and the ordeal was passed with heightened credit, and its numerous patrons were confirmed in confidence. C. A. O. McClellan is the present president and the heaviest stockholder.

(To be continued next week.)

Col. Zollinger Dead.

Col. Charles A. Zollinger, mayor of Ft. Wayne, died suddenly at about 11.30 last Wednesday night. He had been quite sick a few days with neuralgia of the stomach, and it was feared it would attack his heart. This was probably the case, as he awakened about eleven o'clock feeling worse. All possible was done for him, but he died in about twenty minutes. He was one of the best known and most popular men in the city. He had served several terms as mayor years ago, and held that office at the time of his death. He had also been sheriff of his county, Allen, and was state pension agent during Cleveland's first administration, being succeeded in the office by the present agent, Mr. Ensley of this place. He was now again an applicant for the place, and there being no opposition, he easily won. His commission came a day after his death. The funeral was Sunday, Dec. 31, at 1 p. m., the various societies, G. A. R., military, etc., assisting. Many of his Auburn friends would have attended, but no train could be had at a price that would be safe to take. In addition to the civil positions he had held, he had an honorable record in the late war. He served in the Ninth Indiana for its three months of first enlistment. Later he joined the Thirtieth, in which he was captain, and finally helped to organize the 129th, of which he became lieutenant-colonel, and then colonel.

Harriet C. Koontz.

Was born in Auburn, Ind., July 26, 1876, and departed this life Dec. 23, 1893, aged 17 years, 4 months and 27 days.

She seemed always to be of a religious turn of mind, always enjoying church and Sabbath school services. At the age of thirteen years she gave her hand and heart to the M. E. church, and has been a ready and willing worker in the same until her departure to the church triumphant on high. She was ever a whole-souled worker for Christ, and therefore to make broad her usefulness and influence she was a member of the Epworth League, the Young People's Christain Endeavor Society and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and will be greatly missed and mourned by each of them. Though her life so soon departs, her light still remains in many hearts.

The last ceremonies were conducted in the M. E. church of Spencerville, on Christmas day, by Rev. J. J. Fred, her pastor, assisted by Rev. J. W. Thomas, of the Ev. Luth. church.

Short has been your journey, darling,
On life's rough and stormy sea;
Short the journey, great the suffering,
Thou didst bear so patiently.

But that journey now is ended,
No more pain for you to bear;
With the angel band ascending,
Who with thee their joys now share.

Card of Thanks.

We wish, through the columns of the COURIER, to heartily thank our neighbors and friends of Spencerville, for all their kindness and sympathy shown in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved daughter, Hattie. We assure them that it is appreciated in the spirit in which it was given, for we know the people of Spencerville are kind hearted and generous.

MR. AND MRS. BALTZER KOONTZ.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Awarded Highest Honor World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

We begin The New Year with

SWEEPING REDUCTIONS

In Every Department.

Many Nice

Dress Goods and Cloaks

Going at

HALF OUR FORMER PRICES.

We are Selling

CLOTHING

Regardless of Cost.

Now is the time to save money on Carpets and Curtains.

Sixty-five cent carpets now go for fifty-two.

Call to see us. We will make you happy.

SCHAAB & BRO.,

AUBURN.

INEBRIETY IS A DISEASE NOT A CRIME.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

Auburn, Indiana.

Incorporated under the Laws of Indiana and Endorsed by the U. S. Government. With Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Remedies we Cure

DRUNKENNESS AND Morphine Habit.

HOME TREATMENT for the Tobacco Habit and Nerve Exhaustion. No BOLTS. No BARS. No PAIN whatever. Absolute Freedom. IMITATORS, by adroitly worded advertisements, seek to convey the impression that they are handling Dr. Keeley's Remedies and employ his methods of treatment. Such persons are only Imitators and impose an imitation on the Public for the Genuine. For full information as to the Keeley Cure, both at the Institute and by home treatment address

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

AUBURN, IND.

All Correspondence Strictly Confidential.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Are you at all Weak-chested or inclined to be Consumptive, with just a touch of Cough now and then? "Try this Wonderful Medicine." The Cough and Weakness will disappear as if by magic, and you will feel a strength and power never had before.

HAVE YOU A COLD? A Dose at Bedtime will Remove it.

HAVE YOU A COUGH? A Dose will Relieve it.

Bronchitis and Asthma it relieves instantly. The Spasms of Coughing so dreadful in Whooping Cough become less with each dose of medicine. It is an old adage, "Forewarned is to be forearmed." So let it be in your case, who read this, and keep on hand ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Directions accompany each bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AT 25cts., 50cts., AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

A SEWER CAVES IN WITH FATAL RESULTS.

Disastrous Collision in Kansas—Sheep Dying in Texas for Want of Feed—Fifty Thousand Dollar Fire at Red Key, Ind.

DISASTROUS COLLISION.

Two Men Killed and Burned and Many Injured.

A Rock Island freight train crushed into the rear of a Union Pacific freight ten miles east of Lawrence, Kan. The Union Pacific caboose, a passenger coach, a car load of lumber and a car load of hogs were burned. Five men were hurt and the conductor and one passenger on the Union Pacific train are missing. The Rock Island engine was smashed and afterwards caught fire, but no further damage was done to the train.

LATER.—One man is known certainly to have perished in the wreck—J. M. Atwood, conductor of one of the trains, who met his death while bravely trying to warn his passengers of their danger. Two other men, stockmen, are missing and are believed to have perished, but this will not be definitely known until the Union Pacific surgeon has made a thorough examination of the few bones recovered from the ashes of the burnt car. The list of dead, however, doubtless is:

J. H. Atwood, conductor Union Pacific train, Kansas City, Mo.

W. R. Martin, stockman, of Clay Center, Kas.

To this list, before many hours, will surely be added two others, for of the eleven injured, three are fatally hurt. The list of injured is as follows:

George W. Haskins, stockman, of Randolph, Kansas, back burned below neck; will die.

R. E. Posten, stockman, of Hill City, Kansas, badly injured internally; four ribs broken.

T. W. McCrary, stockman, of Tascott, Kansas, back broken at waist; will probably die.

C. W. Fagerburg, stockman, of Oldsburg, Kansas, arm bruised and hand cut.

C. Dither, stockman, of Idana, Kansas, arm bruised and head cut.

Joseph Bertrand, stockman, of Concordia, Kansas, nose broken and head badly cut and bruised.

William Hardesty, stockman, of Delphos, Kas, head cut and arm burned and bruised.

Daniel Taylor, a stockman, of Bellevue, Kas., arm badly bruised and head and face cut.

G. W. Spencer, stockman, of Clyde, Kas., badly cut about the head.

W. R. Gilmore, a stockman, of Idana, Kas., sustained sprained shoulder and contusions.

J. I. West, stockman, of Concordia, Kas., rib broken.

C. W. Mason, stockman, of Concordia, Kas., ribs broken.

Two Are Dead.

The first serious accident during the construction of the new system of sewers in Ann Arbor, Mich., occurred recently, and resulted in the death of two men. Work was being rushed on the sewer through a section where there is a quantity of quick sand. Although extra precaution was taken in curbing the ditch, a small quantity of sand running out underneath caused the curbing to tip, and a large amount of dirt gave way and filled the ditch. Richard Sipple and George Henry (colored) were buried underneath the immense mass of dirt, and when the rescuers reached them both were dead.

Deplorable State of Affairs.

San Antonio (Tex.) special: The men of West Texas are badly ...aged. A dispatch from Fort ... says conservative men esti... 50 per cent. of sheep in that ... die the present winter for ...hing for them to eat except ... There is some water but ...encing and guarding it. ...een killed by the frost. ...n are moving their herds ...co and the cow men swear ... before the sheep will go ...anges. Both sides are ...ady to shoot.

...ill Pay Up.

... Campbell of the South ...nal Bank, has agreed ...ixteen payments, the ...n the bank by rob... ...ber 7. Campbell's ... never been called ...roposition, which is a ... will be accepted. There ...n a clue to the robbery. ... file a trust deed as se...

...Wan's to Be Petted.

... special: Prendergast, the ... is daily growing more sulen... ...her day he refused absolutely to ...o any of the County Jail officials. ...guards treat him the same as they ...e other prisoners, but the assas... ...appears to expect more attention ...n an ordinary criminal.

Resumed.

The Homestead plant of the Carnegie Steel Company has resumed operations in every department to-day. About 2,500 men were given employment. It is understood that the company has orders sufficient to insure operations until April.

Passed the Ordinance.

The Mayor of Jacksonville, Fla., vetoed the ordinance legalizing glove contests, but the City Council passed it over his veto.

Fire at Red Key, Ind.

Ten business houses at Red Key, Ind., were burned with a loss of about $50,000. The insurance will reach over $30,000. The fire caught in a grocery and consumed an entire block.

Three Killed.

Boston special: Three men were killed and several injured by the premature explosion of a blast at Townsend and Washington streets in the Roxbury district.

The Army of Postmasters.

The total number of postoffices in operation in the United States on January 1, 1894, is 83,866. This is shown in a statement prepared at the Postoffice Department, showing the number of postoffices in the country by classes in effect January 1. The number of offices of the three presidential classes were 2,424. There are 151 in the first class, where the receipts are more than $40,000; 674 in the second class, where receipts range from $8,000 to $40,000 and 1,599 in the third class, where the receipts range from $1,000 to $8,000. There are also 65,332 fourth class offices where appointments of Postmasters are not made by the President and where the compensation of the Postmasters for each of the last four quarters of the year amounted to $250 and the receipts $1,000 or less.

MELLO'S WAR.

It Is Waged Against the Encroachments of Tyranny.

Rio Janeiro special: A United Press representative has learned from an unimpeachable authority that Admiral Saldanha De Gama, who is in command of the insurgent fleet in the bay of Rio Janeiro during the absence of Admiral De Mello, when asked what constitutional grounds the insurrection had been started on, replied:

"We are not fighting on constitutional grounds."

"Then on what grounds are you fighting?" he was asked.

"We are fighting against a military tyranny. I will give you an instance of this tyranny that we are fighting to overthrow. At the election in the Amazon district, one Senator and three members of the Chamber of Deputies were to be elected. The Peixoto Government took an active hand in the election, throwing all its influence in favor of the four military candidates, with the result that the civilian candidates were badly defeated. A colonel was elected Senator, and three army captains were chosen to fill the seats for the district in the Chamber of Deputies,' and as Admiral Da Gama made this statement he trembled with indignation. Continuing, the Admiral said that if the movement he is fighting in support of is successful, the question of restoring the monarchy or of continuing the Republic will be submitted to the electors for final decision. It may be pointed out, however, that some of the sympathizers with the insurgent cause admit that a plebiscite will be a farcical proceeding, as the monarchists, supported by the military power of Admiral Da Gama, who is an open supporter of monarchical institutions, will carry the question by force of arms when another revolution would be certain to follow.

This is also the belief of the American naval officers here who will discuss the question of the probable outcome of the present insurrection.

A HORRIBLE FIND.

A Family Lie Dead in Their Beds for Thirty-Six Hours Before They Are Discovered.

Independence (Kas.) special: At 9 o'clock the other morning the home of George W. Reed, manager of the Long Bell Lumber Company, was broken into by Al Brown, Mr. Reed's son-in-law, and neighbors, who had become suspicious that all was not right in the house, no one having been seen stirring for a few days. The discovery made was horrifying. The body of Mr. Reed was found sitting in a chair before a hot stove fed by natural gas. It was clothed only in a night shirt and was in an advanced state of decomposition. The dead body of Edith Scott, a domestic, was found lying on the floor of her little room adjoining. Mrs. Reed and her 5-year-old son were found in bed, the mother unconscious and the boy in a dying condition. Mrs. Reed may possibly recover. The terrible discovery caused the wildest alarm and speculation. Asphyxiation and accidental poisoning are the theories current, also foul play. The fact that two gas stoves in the house were burning at full force practically explodes the theory of asphyxiation, and the fact that no bruises or marks were found on either of the dead renders the murder theory almost incredible. This leaves accidental poisoning as the only theory to accept.

OUTRAGES

Perpetrated Upon the Crew of an American Schooner.

The steamship G. W. Clyde from Turks Island, which arrived at New York recently brings report of an outrage inflicted on the crew of the American schooner Henry Crosby, which lost her bearings and put into port of Old Azua, Santo Domingo. The first officer and four seamen got into the boat and pulled for the shore. When about 300 yards out a file of soldiers in the uniform of the Dominican government came running down to the beach and leveling their carbines at the men in the small boat fired. One of the rowers threw up his hands and fell over into the bottom of the boat. The others paused in surprise and affright when suddenly another volley was sent among them by the soldiers on shore. This time the first officer was struck. The other three sailors turned the boat about and desperately pulled for the schooner. The men were taken on board, when it was found that the first officer had received a bullet in the shoulder and the seaman was struck by several balls. A bad wound in the back made it doubtful if the man would recover. A report of the affair has been made to the United States Government by the Consul General at San Domingo City.

A Holocaust.

Soon after 2 o'clock the other morning fire was discovered in the rear of a cheap restaurant and lodging house on west side of Washington street, just north of Swan Street, Buffalo. In addition to the proprietress a notorious character known as "Scotch Liz," there were from twelve to eighteen lodgers. Six dead bodies have been taken out of the ruins, and the Chief of the Fire Department says that he expects to find other dead bodies in the cellar. The building was old and dry and proved a veritable tinder box. Several of the inmates jumped from the second story and received terrible injuries. Among those injured and taken to the hospital are:

Fred Overman.
Chas. R. Edwards.
John Neil.
George Matthews.
George Anderson.

The names of the dead cannot be learned at this hour.

A Fatal Misunderstanding.

Hattie Ione Nolan, an attractive 18-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Nolan of Elkhart, Ind., committed suicide by shooting herself through the heart. She had just received a package of love letters from her sweetheart, L. W. Smith of Goshen, together with a letter from him breaking their engagement. Handing her mother Smith's letter, she stepped into another room, took a revolver from her father's coat and shot herself through the heart. She died exclaiming, "Good bye, good bye." The sad affair was the result of a misunderstanding brought about, it is alleged, by another suitor. Smith and Miss Nolan were to have been married in November.

Cheers Greet a Verdict.

The jury in the Annie Wagner murder trial at Indianapolis, after being out for twelve hours, brought in a verdict of not guilty. The court room was crowded, and the announcement of the verdict was received with cheer after cheer. During a scene of wild confusion the prisoner fainted away. Annie Wagner was charged with the murder of five members of a family named Koesters, in May last, on account of love for Koesters. A strong chain of circumstantial evidence was woven. Through the trial she manifested the most stoical indifference, and it was not until the verdict of the jury that her feelings obtained mastery over her.

A Desperate Bandit at Large.

Chris Evans, the notorious bandit, escaped from jail at Fresno, Cal., and has not been recaptured. While Mrs. Evans was talking to her husband in his cell a man appeared with Evans' lunch. When the turnkey brought it to the cell both Evans and his wife confronted him with drawn revolvers and forced him to give up the keys. As Evans was leaving the jail he met the City Marshal, whom he shot and seriously wounded. He then held up a newsboy, took his horse and cart and started northward. Posses were quickly organized and have been sent in all directions on horseback and on special engines.

Colorado Compliments.

An infernal machine was picked up in an alley at Loveland, Col., by a 6-year-old boy, who took it home. It was a wooden box about four inches square, neatly wrapped and addressed to "The President, executive mansion, Washington, D. C." On the lid was written: "Compliments of a Colorado miner." The box contained some chemical compound mixed with gun powder, and a cap so arranged that when the lid was removed it would explode.

Bold Robbers.

At Roanoke, Ind., two men were discovered at work boring holes in the Exchange Bank safe. The building was surrounded by a posse of citizens and the burglars were ordered to surrender. Instead they made a break through the back door. A running fight followed and many shots were fired. One robber was chased to Huntington and eluded capture, while the other is in the woods five miles north of town. Officers are still in pursuit.

Brother and Son Killed.

A disastrous boiler explosion occurred at Abe McDonald's saw-mill four miles north of Peru, Ind., in which Bud McDonald and George McDonald, son and brother, respectively, of the proprietor, were killed, their bodies being fearfully mutilated. The son, who was 15 years old, was blown 300 feet. The building was wrecked and the explosion heard for miles. The boiler was second-hand, but was thought to be safe.

Bad Smash-Up Narrowly Averted.

The Baltimore and Ohio limited express was wrecked at Willow Grove station Pa., on the Pittsburgh and Western Railroad. The baggage car was badly wrecked and the smoking car was overturned. No one was injured. Andrew Knox, 15 years old, was arrested for causing the wreck. He was sent to jail in default of bail. The boy started seven sidetracked cars toward the main track. They collided with the express.

He Was Lynched.

Tillman Green, the trusted colored driver for a prominent family living ten miles from Columbia, La., was lynched for an attempted assault on his employer's wife. He broke into her room at night while her husband was absent. She escaped by the rear of the house, gave the alarm, and Green was arrested. He confessed his design and was lynched by a mob, among which were many negroes of the neighborhood.

A Locomotive On Fire.

The engine that lies over at Celina, Ohio, every night on the C., D. & C. R. R., came near being destroyed by fire the other night. Fire broke out in the engineer's cab from some unknown cause, and before it could be stopped had destroyed the cab and burned the wooden jacket off of the boiler, causing great damage. The engine will have to be overhauled.

Carnegie's Help.

Andrew Carnegie has written a letter from New York to Robert Pitcairn, of the Citizen's Relief Committee of Pittsburgh, offering to duplicate all contributions made by the citizens of Pittsburgh for the unemployed, to the amount of $5,000 each working day for two months. If the highest possible figure is realized, the donation will amount to over $250,000.

Death of a Lafayette Editor.

Ross Gordon, editor of the Lafayette, Ind., Leader, died at the home of his son-in-law, John Hart, in that city. Mr. Gordon died a few minutes after he had reached his seventy-second birthday. He had been owner of the Leader for twelve years and was in active management up to within a month of his death.

Fifteen Lives Lost.

Melbourne special: Fifteen lives were lost through the wreck of the Steamer Alert, from Port Albert to Melbourne, which went ashore off Jubilee Point during the terrific gale which swept over Port Phillips. Only one person on board the wrecked steamer was saved.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3 50	@6 00
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4 00	@5 50
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	2 25	@3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59	@ 60
CORN—No. 2	34	@ 35
OATS—No. 2	27½	@28½
RYE—No. 2	47	@ 48
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	27	@27½
EGGS—Fresh	22	@ 23
POTATOES—Per bu	50	@ 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3 00	@5 25
HOGS—Choice Light	3 00	@5 50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	2 00	@4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	56	@ 57
CORN—No. 2 White	36	@ 36½
OATS—No. 2 White	30	@ 32
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	3 00	@5 00
HOGS	3 00	@5 60
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	56	@ 57
CORN—No. 2	32	@ 33
OATS—No. 2	27	@ 27½
PORK—Mess	13 25	@14 00
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3 00	@5 00
HOGS	3 00	@5 55
SHEEP	2 00	@4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	58½	@59½
CORN—No. 2	37½	@ 38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	30	@ 30½
RYE—No. 2	53	@ 55
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3 00	@4 75
HOGS	3 00	@5 75
SHEEP	2 00	@3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	60	@ 61
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	38	@ 39
OATS—No. 2 White	31½	@32½
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	60	@ 60½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	36	@ 37
OATS—No. 2 White	29	@ 29½
RYE—No. 2	50	@ 52
BUFFALO.
BEEF CATTLE—Good to Prime	2 50	@5 25
HOGS—Mixed Packers	4 00	@5 75
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	71½	@72½
No. 2 Red	63	@ 63½
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	58	@ 59
CORN—No. 3	34	@ 34½
OATS—No. 2 White	29½	@ 30½
RYE—No. 1	48	@ 49
BARLEY—No. 2	49	@ 51
PORK—Mess	12 25	@12 75
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3 00	@5 50
HOGS	5 75	@6 00
SHEEP	2 25	@3 25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	66	@ 67
CORN—No. 2	43	@ 44
OATS—White Western	36	@ 40
BUTTER—Choice	26	@ 28
PORK—New Mess	12 75	@14 25

REPORT ON HAWAII.

MINORITY CHARGES VIOLATION OF THE CONSTITUTION.

The Republican Members of the Foreign Affairs Committee Say President Cleveland Overstepped His Powers—Tariff Will Precede Other Legislation.

Unworthy the Nation.

Washington correspondence:

The minority report on the resolutions presented by Chairman McCreary on the day Congress adjourned as a substitute for the Hitt resolutions has been finished. It was prepared by Mr. Storer of Ohio, and is signed by Messrs. Hitt, Harmer, Blair, Draper, and Van Vorhis of New York. It is very voluminous, and goes in detail into the whole history of Mr. Blount's appointment as commissioner paramount and the course of the administration. It reads in part:

When President Cleveland was inaugurated, March 4, 1893, the Hawaiians were under the control of a republican government recognized, not only by the United States but by every civilized nation. This government was in name provisional, but was, in fact, to remain in existence for an indefinite period, until the time when terms of union with the United States should have been agreed upon. The Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Hawaii was in person at his post and the Senate of the United States was in session. The President sent to the Senate the name of Mr. Gresham as Secretary of State, and that body, March 5, confirmed the appointment. It was at that time publicly stated, though as yet not officially known, that James M. Blount started from Washington March 7 on a mission to the Hawaiian Islands with verbal secret instructions from the President. If this be true, his subsequent written instructions, not made public until November last, must have been forwarded to Mr. Blount after his departure from Washington, as they bear date March 11. The treaty sent to the Senate by the outgoing administration Feb. 14, was withdrawn by the President March 9, between the time of Mr. Blount's departure and the date of his written instructions.

Then follow copies of the instructions to Mr. Blount, with Mr. Cleveland's greeting to President Dole. The narrative then proceeds to relate Mr. Blount's action in hauling down the American flag and the investigation which he made. It then discusses at length the President's power to appoint a diplomatic officer armed with powers given to Mr. Blount without the consent of the Senate. The report goes on:

This covers all that is needed to show how the President ignored the plain language of the constitution. He has assumed to appoint of his own volition, without the advice of the senate, a diplomatic officer with paramount powers. To try to argue that Mr. Blount was not a diplomatic officer of the United States, but only "my representative, is idle."

There is no ground of debate now whether the present Hawaiian Government was rightly or wrongly established nearly two years ago. The issue is directly before the House whether to approve and commend the course of the present administration as disclosed by himself. If a President, without the consent of the Senate, can send a paramount diplomatic officer to supersede a minister, leaving the latter only routine duties, he may do it in Great Britain or in Germany as well as in the Hawaiian Islands. That officer, according to the President's apologists, is only the "President's commissioner" and not an officer in the diplomatic services of the United States. The same right asserted here to appoint an ambassador under the name of a commissioner would allow the President to appoint any agent of his own without conference with any other branch of the government to exercise judicial functions paramount to judges already in office by and with the Senate's consent. After a review and consideration of the course of this administration as appears from its own records, the minority of our committee have no hesitation in recommending the adoption of the following substitute for the resolution reported by the majority:

"WHEREAS, Executive communications to Congress disclose that the executive department has been furnishing to a Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States secret instructions to conspire with the representatives and agents of a deposed and discarded monarchy for the overthrow of a friendly republican government, duly recognized by all the civilized nations to which said minister was accredited, and to which his public instructions pledged the good faith and sympathy of the President, the Government and the people of the United States;

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this House that such intervention by the executive of the United States, its civil or military representatives or officers, without authority of Congress, is a dangerous and unwarranted invasion of the rights and dignities of the Congress of the United States, and a violation of the law of nations, and further

"Resolved, That the manner of such attempted intervention by the executive and methods used are unworthy of the executive department of the United States, while the confessed intent of such intervention is contrary to the policy and tradition of the Republic and the spirit of the constitution."

TARIFF WILL PRECEDE.

Other Legislation Will Await the Passage of the Wilson Bill.

A Washington dispatch says that it is generally agreed among Democratic Senators that the financial question will be allowed to remain untouched in the Congress until the tariff bill shall be disposed of. Senator Voorhees replied to a question concerning his silver bill that no effort whatever would be made to press it until the tariff bill should be out of the way. Then, he said, the bill would receive attention and he thought it would prove the solution of the problem. He said he felt confident that after Senators and members had an opportunity to examine it they would see its merits and put it through both houses before adjourning. Representative Bland has also said recently that he did not expect to try to get up his free coinage bill in the House until after the disposal of the tariff.

There is more or less talk of Secretary Carlisle's suggestion favorable to the issuance of bonds to provide for the Government deficit, but that with other financial questions will probably go over until after the tariff question shall be settled. There is a general feeling that primarily the tariff is of greater importance than any other question at present, and the belief is gaining ground that there will be a great effort to provide for the deficit in connection with the tariff bill in some way without issuing bonds. It is known that the silver men who approve bonds have practically appealed their cases from Congress to the country, and they will be prepared to use a vote for bonds against any man who does not favor silver, and to make the war all the fiercer on account of bonds.

MILLIONS OF IDLE MONEY.

New York Associated Banks Still Accumulating Cash.

The New York Financier says that the surplus reserve of the associated banks of New York has now reached the enormous sum of $80,815,150. The official report of the clearing-house shows an increase in the reserve of $2,877,375 for the five business days ending Dec. 30. The actual cash on hand, composed of $106,316,400 in specie and $101,708,200 in legal tenders, amounts to $207,424,600. To an ordinary mind this sum is almost inconceivable, but it becomes plainer when it is known that if it was all in gold eagles and if one man was to attempt to count it, he would be more than three years and six months going through the operation, if he counted one gold piece a second and worked for five consecutive hours each day. What to do with the surplus cash has become a problem which is more intricate than the famous fifteen puzzle.

The banks are making no money, and it is more than probable that at least one bank will shortly go into liquidation on account of the unprofitable business which it is forced to carry. The aggregate deposits of the clearing-house banks is over $500,000,000, and the gain for the past week amounts to $7,590,100. Money continues to flow to this center in an unabated stream, the increase in cash being $4,774,900, of which $1,795,700 was in specie and $2,979,200 in legal tenders. Loans were expanded $1,319,900 and the circulation was contracted $144,600. It is quite probable that Congress will authorize a bond issue in the near future, and there is no doubt that the New York banks will take a large portion of the issue. The averages, as exhibited in the statement, compared with the same time last year, are as follows:

	Dec. 30, 1893.	Dec. 31, 1892.
Loans	$417,606,900	$437,722,600
Specie	106,316,400	75,968,300
Legals	101,108,200	42,018,600
Deposits	506,437,800	444,589,400
Circulation	13,111,900	5,584,600
Total reserve	$207,424,600	$117,986,900
Reserve required	126,609,450	111,147,350
Excess of reserve	80,815,150	6,839,550

GLOBE THEATER BURNS.

Boston's Famous Play-House a Prey to Flames for the Second Time.

Fire at Boston originating in the Globe Theater, Monday night, caused the destruction of the theater and nearly all the other buildings in the square bounded by Washington and Essex streets, Hayward place and Harrison avenue. The total damage is not known, but will reach into the millions.

The fire was discovered in the coat-room of the theater, and in fifteen minutes the entire building was in flames. The building is so located that it was impossible for the firemen to enter it, or to reach the flames except on one side, and in the rear was an old section filled with old buildings which would go very quickly if once ignited. Across the street from the theater are three large hotels, and almost a panic existed among the guests, for at this point Washington street is not more than forty feet wide, and the heat from the theater fire was intense. Fifty fire engines poured water upon the flames, but so hard was the fire to get at that no perceptible effect could be seen. At 2:10 there were five explosions of considerable force, which scattered the embers of the fire skyward and threw down the wall between the theater and the store next south toward Essex street. The whole block seemed doomed, and in five minutes the square bounded by Hayward place, Essex street, and Harrison avenue was a solid mass of flames.

The theater building covers 15,510 square feet of land. In this square there are fifteen buildings besides the Globe Theater on Washington street. The explosions were caused by the calcium tanks in the theater. At 3 o'clock the fire was put under control by the falling of a great party wall which served to smother the furnace within the square. There was still the danger of the explosion, but anxiety was so allayed in that respect. There is not a building of the dozen or more in the square that is uninjured and with only three or four exceptions not even the walls will be saved. Among the largest losers by the fire are the Bryant & Stratton Business College, R. T. Almy & Co., retail clothing; Thomas White & Co., Flinn & Mahoney, European agents; S. C. Chase & Co., rubber goods, Hotel Pierpont; Burleigh's trunk store; A. T. Regan, shoes; Leighs's sewing machine parlors, Willcox & Gibbs, sewing machines; A. F. Robinson & Co., and others. The Globe Theater is the second theater of that name on the same site.

TOOK A FIRM STAND.

United States Action as to Brazil Prevented European Interference.

What might have been a serious international complication growing out of the Brazilian troubles is now regarded as having been practically settled by the firm attitude of the United States in the matter. The sharp rebuke administered to Admiral Stanton for saluting the insurgent flag and the massing of armored cruisers off the Brazilian coast have certainly had a more important purpose than the mere desire to maintain an indifferent neutrality between Mello and the republican government of President Peixoto or the protection of the private interests of American citizens. A Washington dispatch says that Secretary Gresham was advised some weeks ago that there was something more behind the plans of Admiral Mello than the discontent of a few naval officers, and that unless shrewd diplomacy were used the United States might become involved in hostile relations with some of the great European powers.

It is well recognized by the friends of the Brazilian Republic in this country that Admiral Mello stands for the monarchical element in Brazil and that he has been endeavoring to secure the support of some of the great powers in overturning the republic. Monarchist circles in Paris and some of the other European capitals have been in a flutter of expectancy regarding Mello's movements, and it is believed they have been looking to the young son of Count d'Eu, who is the grandson of Dom Pedro, to become the head of the restored empire.

THE INDIAN TERRITORY.

Governor Fishback Thinks It a Nursery of Crime and Lawlessness.

Gov. Fishback, of Arkansas, has published an open letter to President Cleveland relative to the condition of affairs in the Indian Territory. The Governor believes they are such as to cause the gravest alarm, and that they may result disastrously to all the States in the Mississippi valley. He believes the Territory to be a very hot-bed of crime and lawlessness and the rallying place for all the desperadoes in the country. He says "a very large percentage of the bank and train robberies which take place in the West are organized or originate in the Indian Territory. * * * During the past twelve months there have issued from the States of Arkansas, Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma Territory sixty-one requisitions upon Indian Territory authorities for fugitives."

Another evil which Gov. Fishback thinks is due to the evil doers who flock to the Territory is the demoralization of the Indians. Associating with criminals, they themselves, in a short time, become wholly corrupted and ready for any lawless act. Finally Mr. Fishback says this state of things "suggests the very serious question whether the time has not arrived for the Federal Government to assert its right of eminent domain over this portion of the national territory."

FIFTY MILLIONS STARVING.

National Congress at Lahore Asks the Government to Succor Them.

The resolutions adopted by the National Indian Congress declare that 50,000,000 of people are on the verge of starvation, and urge the Government to take immediate steps to succor them. The resolutions adopted by the Congress also recorded the deep regret of the member at the last enactment closing the mints, which it was claimed further burdened the people with taxation and disconcerted important trades and industries, notably the cotton-spinning industry. In addition the Congress emphatically protested against the exclusion of compensation to uncivilized Europeans or Eurasian employes and banks. The next Congress will meet at Madras.

CONDEMNED TO DIE.

THE SLAYER OF CARTER HARRISON MUST HANG.

Prendergast Is Found Guilty of Murder as Charged—Jury After One Hour's Deliberation Decides He Is Sane—Makes the Sign of the Cross.

Death the Penalty.

The Prendergast trial ended in Chicago on Friday, and death is the penalty decreed against the slayer of Carter H. Harrison. The last word of awful accusation was uttered by Attorney A. S. Trude at noon; an hour later the Judge charged the jury, and sixty-two minutes after Prendergast's fate was committed to twelve of his peers a verdict was returned, which read:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Patrick Eugene Joseph Preddergast, guilty of murder, in the manner and and form as charged in the indictment, and fix his punishment at death."

The assassin did not falter at the announcement of his doom; he bent his head slightly, and, touching his forehead with the tips of the fingers of his right hand, then his breast, next his left and lastly his right shoulder—making the "sign of the cross"—he mumbled the words, "In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." The trial was begun Dec. 6 and occupied just twenty court days. Two months ago and a day from the time Patrick Eugene Prendergast committed his crime the death watch was set at his cell to remain with unremitting vigilance until he is led to the scaffold.

ASSASSIN PRENDERGAST.

There was an impressive silence in the court-room when the verdict was brought in. Few of those who were in the court-room when Judge Brentano gave his instructions to the jury had left, for there was a general feeling that the jurors would not be long in arriving at a verdict. It took the Judge twenty-five minutes to read his instructions, the jurors standing while they were being given. The instructions concluded with forms of verdicts to fit every possible conclusion at which the jury could arrive. These, together with all the letters and papers which had been introduced in evidence, were handed to Bailiff Busse, who led the jury to one of the jury rooms adjoining the court room. At the same time the prisoner was taken back to the jail to await the deliberations of the twelve men who held his fate in their hands. Judge Brentano retired to his chambers, and the lawyers and visitors at the trial, among whom were a large number of ladies, remained in their places or gathered in groups to discuss the outcome.

An hour after the jury retired Bailiff Busse was informed by the jury that they were ready to appear in court. He immediately notified the judge and passed out through the covered passageway leading to the jail to notify the officials there to bring the prisoner into court. Those in the court room knew when they saw the bailiff pass to the jail that a verdict had been reached. At once all conversation ceased. The jurors with grave faces filed in and took their accustomed seats. The judge took his place on the bench.

The prisoner, pale and anxious, was brought in by Jail Clerk Price. "Have you agreed upon a verdict?" inquired the judge. Most of the jurors bowed assent; some of them answered audibly. "Hand your verdict to the clerk to be read" and Juror Sutter, who had been chosen foreman, handed the folded document to Clerk Fitzgerald. While the clerk in measured tones read the verdict every ear was attentive to catch its fateful words.

Scarcely was the reading concluded when Clerk Price and Bailiff Busse, who stood on either side of the prisoner, started with him toward the jail. They had nearly reached the exit from the court room when the Judge called them back that the prisoner might be present when the jury was polled. To each juror the clerk put the question: "Was this and is this now your verdict?" and each, as his name was called, rose and answered, "It was and is."

When the last answer was given the prisoner, supported by the two officials, was taken back to jail. "You, gentlemen of the jury, are discharged from further duty," said the Judge. Mr. Wade made the usual motion for a new trial, which the Court directed to be entered, and the Prendergast trial was at an end.

TO FIGHT A THISTLE PLAGUE.

A Bill Introduced in Congress Appropriating $1,000,000.

A bill has been introduced in Congress for the appropriation of $1,000,000 to be expended in the extirpation of the Russian thistle, which is described as "the most pernicious member of the vegetable kingdom." The Russian thistle was carried to North Dakota by some Muscovite immigrants in the seed of grains and plants which they imported. It has spread over both Dakotas, in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin. Whenever a brisk autumn wind blows from the northwest or west its seed is wafted across vast belts of territory on the downy growth which it produces. It scatters everywhere, and is a universal nuisance and pest.

The descriptions of the plant are almost sensational. From the main stalks new offshoots project in all directions, and from these offshoots, as they ripen, further stems extend, like the cactus growths, until a single thistle is as big as a sod cabin. It is a more destructive pest of agriculture than all other plants and all insects combined. It covers the ground, shading the young crops and absorbing, with superior suctional force, the moisture and all the sources of nutrition in the soil. Men and animals are compelled to wear sheetiron bootlegs in passing through the thistle fields in order to protect themselves from its pricks, which are not only painful but as poisonous as the sting of a wasp. In Siberia the thistle has driven farmers entirely away from many hundred square miles of fertile territory, choked up the irrigating canals, and has made the highways impassable for man or beast.

NEWS OF OUR STATE.

A WEEK AMONG THE HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

What Our Neighbors Are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Pointers About Our Own People.

Minor State Items.

LOUIS ELLSBURY of Greenfield, who was stabbed by Robert Gapen a few days ago, died of the injury.

THE millinery store of Mrs. D. F. Britton, at Crawfordsville, was burned out. Loss, $2,000, with $1,600 insurance.

WHILE men were retubing a gas well at Knightstown, an immense flow of oil burst out. It is said to be of the purest grade.

PETER GOSS, fireman on the B. & O. S. W. Railroad, attempted to put a tramp off his train near Mitchell, and was fatally stabbed.

ANDY DOW, 17, was accidentally shot in the face by a neighbor at Madison. He will recover, but will lose his eyesight.

MORRIS GORE, a son of Haymond Gore, at Shelbyville, had his eyes burned out by a cannon firecracker that exploded in front of his face.

A VERY quiet wedding occurred at Fort Wayne recently. The bride was Miss Leona Todd and the groom Charles Jackson. Not a word was spoken as the couple were deaf and dumb.

TRAIN No. 72, a north-bound freight on the Monon, collided with an extra freight at Murray's switch, three and one-half miles south of Orleans. Both engines were wrecked, together with a half dozen cars loaded with merchandise consigned to Chicago. The train crews escaped without injury.

THE town of Ladoga had a big fire the other night. The flouring mill and elevator of A. W. Dougherty & Bro., was burned. The loss is near $25,000, with insurance of $10,000. The house of George Deisher was also burned, and it took hard work to save the heading factory of W. F. Epperson.

GEORGE W. WOODRUFF, the Ross Township, Clinton County farmer, who went sixty-five days last winter without sleep, is again afflicted with the strange malady. It is over four weeks since he has closed his eyes or even felt the least drowsy. Morphine and other drugs have been tried by his physician, but without effect. He will go to a Boston specialist, who gave him relief last year.

THE mails of Mayor John H. Terhune of Anderson, who issued the famous "rawhide" instructions to the police a few days since, are being loaded with threatening letters from various parts of the country. The other morning a letter was received from a crank from Mark Center, Ohio, by the name of William Fishbaugh, who threatened the Mayor for the "inhuman and brutal order." Just the same, the city has fewer tramps now than at any time within the past three months.

ED. SMITH and Frank Brady of Ladego, went hunting, and becoming tired they climbed a fence to rest. The two got to joking one another, and finally Brady pushed Smith off the fence. Smith got up and catching hold of the gun held by Brady, gave it a jerk, trying to pull him to the ground. The gun was discharged and the entire load entered the abdomen of Smith. It made a fearful looking wound and Smith died almost instantly. Brady ran for assistance and the body of Smith was carried home. Smith was 16 years old, and Brady was a few years older.

PATENTS have been issued to Indiana inventors as follows: Charles W. Delaney, assignor to J. W. Dysard, Hammond, coin controlled apparatus; Alphonzo Hayward, Warsaw, heater for stock troughs; Robert H. Kersey, Lebanon, apparatus for heating and circulating hot water; Peter A. Kirchner, Fort Wayne, water alarm for steam boilers; Robert E. Porch, Spiceland, washing machine; John L. Riter, Brownsville, wire fence; James F. Slack, Sugar Branch, whiffletree hook; Charles I. and E. Williamson, Union City, land roller; James J. Wood, Fort Wayne, electric transformer.

JOHN RUDY, a dry good clerk at Yorktown, is a raving maniac as the result of a practical joke perpetrated on him at Cammack station, by some friends. A stranger to Rudy was induced to impersonate a sheriff. The stranger approached the young man and read what purported to be a warrant charging him with larceny. Rudy at once fled and did not stop until he reached home, four miles distant, where he arrived exhausted and became unconscious before an explanation was made. His brain gave way, and it was necessary to call in several men to control him. He imagines that a tribe of Indians are after his scalp. There is much sympathy for the young man, and it is likely that several arrests will be made as a result.

THE Crawford County-seat war has been finally settled, the requisite number of petitioners asking that the county seat be removed from Leavenworth to English having been secured. The County Auditor has so certified to the Governor, and under a legislative enactment of 1889 it is the duty of the Governor to name three disinterested non-resident freeholders to examine the court house property at Leavenworth and assess the damage that will accrue to the town by the removal of the building. The Governor has designated G. D. Ridley, New Albany, Floyd County; John L. Rutherford, Campbellsburg, Washington County, and John G. Offut, Crothersville, Jackson County, to meet on Wednesday, Jan. 10, and assess the value

AT WAR WITH HERSELF.

The Story of a Woman's Atonement, by Charlotte M. Braeme.

CHAPTER XXV—Continued.

All preparations were completed then, and Crown Leighton had never looked so magnificent, never even in those days when kings and queens had held high revel in the vast apartments. Lady Charnleigh's vivid imagination had been allowed to riot; every beautiful combination of flowers, lights, velvet hangings, and marble statuary which it was possible to imagine was there. Nothing was wanting. There were endless vistas of light and blossom; fountains, the silvery spray of which reflected manifold hues; perfume so sweet that it seemed to fill one with ecstasy; music so clear, so harmonious, all assiduous and attentive, rejoiced in this return of olden times.

All the elite of the country had been invited, and Lady Charnleigh remarked with pleasure that scarcely one invitation had been declined. As she went up-stairs to dress, satisfied with the tour of inspection she had made, she met Lady Fanshawe.

"I must express my surprise, Leonie," said that lady, with an amiable smile. "I have never seen anything in better taste; the decorations are superb. My dear child, where have learned to arrange all these things? I have no wish to flatter you, but you were indeed 'born to rank.' It would have been a thousand pities if such talents as yours had been lost to the great world.

And Lady Charnleigh, well pleased, passed on to her dressing-room, where her maid, with a most anxious face, awaited her. There lay the superb costumes ready for the charades and the ball; jewels gleamed from their velvet beds; satin, lace, velvet, and glistening silk lay in picturesque disorder. Lady Charnleigh glanced round with a smile of content. All this was hers. The proud feeling of possession swelled her heart as it never had before. All this was hers to give and to take, to do with as she would. This brilliant festival had sprung from one word of hers; these people, the aristocracy of the county, were all assembling at her bidding and to do her honor.

Presently her eyes fell on the two bouquets, both placed on the toilet table, and a slight shade of perplexity crossed her beautiful face.

"Divide those flowers," she said to her maid; "I shall wear some of each. If Bertram had brought me only a bunch of wild bluebells," she added to herself. "I would rather have them than exotics from a king's garden, but I cannot make Paul unhappy to-night."

A magnificent toilet, in which was to receive her guests, had been prepared; it could be changed afterward for the charade costumes.

"I have never seen you look so well, my lady," said the maid, when the arduous duties of the toilet were completed; and Lady Charnleigh, looking in the glass, felt satisfied.

Her dress was of fresh white, glistening silk, covered with silver net, and trimmed with green leaves; with this she wore the Charnleigh diamonds, known by connoisseurs as the finest stones in England. She was a marvel of beauty, light and brightness.

As she descends the stairs she saw Sir Bertram; he approached her very humbly.

"Do not be angry because I have waylaid you," he said, "I could not rest until I had seen my queen. Oh, Leonie, how lovely you are! Your beauty dazzles me."

"If it pleases you, Bertram," she said, gently, "I am pleased to be beautiful."

His response was one that brought a vivid flush to her face, and sent Lady Charnleigh into the drawing-room looking more radiant than ever.

CHAPTER XXVI.

The festivities of that night were not soon forgotten. It was as though all the beauty and elite of the county were gathered together; and the queen of the brilliant assembly was Leonie, Countess of Charnleigh.

It was perhaps the happiest, certainly the most brilliant, evening of her life. The golden glamour of first love was strong upon her. She knew that one glance from her beautiful eyes would bring the man she best loved on earth to her feet; she saw the bravest and noblest in the land gathered at her bidding to do her homage. The charades were most effective; people were eloquent in their expressions of admiration. The lights and flowers, the gleaming jewels and shining dresses, the rippling fountains, the banks of brillant blossoms, rising one above the other, the superb hangings, the statues half hidden in the foliage, all presented a scene of beauty as dazzling as if it was a novel. The theater, with its pretty stage, was much admired. Lady Charnleigh was surrounded by admirers; her guests seemed never to weary of praising her tact and graceful management. Several times Sir Bertram tried to approach her, but she held up a white finger as though to ward him away.

Captain Flemyng looked around on the scene of magnificence and splendor. Lady Charnleigh was standing where the light from one of the large chandeliers fell full upon her; there was a smile on her radiant face, for the chief magnate of the county, the Duke of Burdon, was complimenting her, and Leonie was young enough to enjoy flattery from a duke.

"She looks like a queen among her courtiers," said the young soldier to himself. "I say from my heart that she reigns here far better than I should."

Some softening thought had evidently passed through her mind, for she smilingly invited him to join her, and he thought she preferred his society to that of Sir Bertram Gordon.

Then the brilliant company went in long procession through the broad, fragrant corridor to the theater, where everything was prepared for them. A pretty little greenroom had been fitted up for those who were to join in the tableaux and charades. One after the other each beautiful picture was received with great eclat, the two favorites being Miss Dacre as Elaine and Lady Charnleigh as Marie Stuart. There was a general demand before the tableaux came to an end that the ladies should wear the same picturesque costumes for the ball.

The music was well chosen. The band had been sent from London, and the first strains of a dreamy German waltz seemed to float away from the flowers and lights. The procession from the theater to the ballroom was even more brilliant than the former one, owing to the picturesque dresses of the ladies.

"My costume is not complete," said Lord Holdene to the young countess; "I want a pair of silver shoe-buckles—those of the regular old-fashioned type."

Lord Holdene had been one of the most efficient actors in the charades, and Lady Charnleigh was very desirous to please him.

"I must dance this first waltz," she said; "then I will see that some are found for you."

The first waltz was with the Duke, and before she could attend to Lord Holdene's request she had to dance with Sir Bertram. Never while the sun shone and the flowers bloomed did Lady Charnleigh forget the happiness of that hour. The lights, the flowers, the fragrance, all seemed to bewilder her. His arm was around her, his eyes were lingering on her sweet face. He was thinking to himself, "She will be mine; to-morrow she will promise to be my wife." When the dance was ended, and the last sweet strains had died, Lady Charnleigh turned to him.

"I am going to the housekeeper's room," she said, "to send Mrs. Fearon in search of some silver shoe-buckles."

He was pleased to linger a few minutes longer at her side.

"I will accompany you," he said; and they left the ball-room together.

She gathered up the sweeping train of purple velvet and threw it over her white arm.

"I wonder if queens ever feel inclined to run," she said; "it is to be hoped that they are not always en reine. One of my childish delusions was that they sat all day with crown and scepter. How many more of my girlish fancies are but delusions, I wonder?"

Before he could reply they had reached the housekeeper's room, and Mrs. Fearon was made acquainted with the difficulty about the shoe-buckles.

"There are sure to be plenty of them, my lady," she replied, "in the large wardrobe in the oak room."

"Then let one of the maids go for some at once," said Lady Charnleigh.

Mrs. Fearon smiled.

"I do not think, my lady, with all due submission, that any of them will dare to go; I will go myself the instant I have finished here."

"I cannot wait. Why will no one dare to go, Mrs. Fearon?"

"There is a belief, my lady, that the oak chamber is haunted; none of the servants will enter it. I am obliged to attend to it myself."

Patience was certainly not one of Lady Charnleigh's virtues. The color flushed in her beautiful face, and the white, jeweled fingers flung back the violet velvet train.

"I will go myself. If I wait until you find a sensible maid-servant, or until you have finished, Lord Holdene will not have his buckles to-night—that is certain."

The housekeeper was far too wise ever to contradict her imperious young mistress.

"As you please, my lady. Shall some one carry a taper for you?"

"No, I will carry it myself. The next time you engage any maids, Mrs. Fearon, take care they have no absurd fancies."

Sir Bertram had stood by, an amused spectator of the little scene; he admired Leonie's impetuous spirited manner, and thought her more beautiful than ever when she was impatient. Mrs. Fearon provided a silver candlestick and a wax taper.

"Pray, let me go with you, my lady, to carry this," she said.

"No, I will not take you from your employment. Is this the key?" For the housekeeper with great solemnity had unlocked a small iron chest and taken from it an antique key.

"This will open the wardrobe, my lady. It used to be a rule of the house that no one should ever open it except the mistress of the house."

"What does it contain—anything very precious?" asked the countess.

"Old-fashioned court dresses and ornaments, antique jewelry, valuable point lace, and other things."

"I wonder that I never thought of looking in it before. Make haste, Mrs. Fearon." Then, with the lighted taper in her hand, she walked quickly through the corridor with Sir Bertram by her side.

"I am very much afraid," she said, laughingly, "that my manners have not that repose which stamps the class of Vere de Vere. How impetuous I am! I could have carried that good Mrs. Fearon off in a whirlwind because she was not quick enough."

"Let me carry the light to the room," he said; but she, in her graceful, imperious way, refused.

"Then let me wait here until you return," he begged; and to that she agreed.

Suddenly Sir Bertram took the taper from her hand, set it down on one of the broad window seats, and took both her white jeweled hands in his.

"Leonie," he said, "you look beautiful enough to-night to bewilder any man. You ought to have been a queen; that diamond crown and these royal robes suit you well. Oh, my queen, my queen, do you not know that I have loved you so long, and have never even dared to touch those soft sweet lips? Your beauty has bewildered me; blame that—not me."

He stooped down and kissed the fair white brow. She was not angry, but she drew back with a quick, sudden movement that made the light in her jewels shine like scattered flames all round her.

"When shall I find those buckles, Sir Bertram? Let me go now, and wait here until my return."

She gathered up her violet train, threw it over her arm, and went up the stairs. When she reached the top, she turned round and smiled on him, the light gleaming in her jeweled crown and on her fair face; and then she passed from his sight, leaving him more deeply in love than ever. As he saw her then, he never saw her afterward, for the same light and brightness never shone upon her face again.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Lady Charnleigh walked on quickly until she reached the door of the oaken chamber. She did not remember ever to have entered this room, which in olden days had been the sleeping-chamber of the mistress of Crown Leighton. The last Lady Charnleigh had died there, and for some untold reason a rumor had arisen that her spirit was not at rest, and that at night she might be seen wringing her hands and weeping bitter tears. None of the servants cared to go near the place after sunset.

Lady Charnleigh looked round with some curiosity; she placed the silver candlestick on the toilet-table, and glanced with wonder at the beautiful ancient room; and while she stood there quite silently the sound of the distant music seemed to float nearer and nearer.

There were four large, lofty windows in the room, and they were hung with dark velvet, bordered with golden fringe. The bedstead resembled a huge hearse more than anything else; the furniture, all made of solid oak, was heavy, massive and magnificent; the great wardrobe reached all across the room. This last was wondrously carved and had huge wings; and near it stood a large mirror in an antique silver frame.

She went to the wardrobe, but stood for a few minutes before the mirror; she still wore the royal dress of Marie Stuart, a robe of violet with a long train, and the famous Charnleigh diamonds, which had been formed into a crown. As she stood before the mirror, the light seemed to center on her; the dark, gloomy oaken room lay all in deepest shade. She was like a vision of light and radiance, "every inch a queen." She looked at her image shining there so fair and bright, and a pleased smile at her own loveliness rippled over her lips.

"It is good to be fair," she said; and her fancy amused itself by picturing life as it must be for a queen. Perhaps that was the crowning moment of her life; she never again knew one so cloudlessly happy. She could hear the sound of music floating around her; her lover, impatiently waiting for her, was not far off. She was pleased with the charm of her own loveliness, and she turned from the mirror with a sense of perfect content.

She unlocked the wardrobe. It was one of unusual size, and on the shelves lay wonders of dress, antique jewelry and ornaments.

"On the very first wet day that comes I will look at all these things," thought the young countess to herself.

She saw dresses of damask, silk velvet trains, ostrich feathers, all the grandeur that had delighted the dead Ladies Charnleigh, and then her attention was attracted to what seemed to be old-fashioned court suits, such as gentlemen might have worn.

"I shall find some buckles here," she thought, lifting up a velvet coat richly embroidered. She was right; there were several pairs of silver shoe buckles of great value, and she chose the prettiest. When she had done so, she replaced some of the velvet garments, and there fell from amongst them an old dressing-gown made of quilted crimson satin. It fell to the ground, and Lady Charnleigh, with a little murmur of impatience, stooped to pick it up. She held it carelessly in her hand, and as she did so there dropped out of one of the capacious pockets a large parchment carefully folded and sealed.

There was no warning, no foreboding of the truth as she bent her fair face wonderingly over the document. Presently her eyes grew dim with an untold horror, her face grew white even to the lips, as she read what was written there.

She tore open the parchment—her lips trembled—her hands shook. This was the missing will—the will to find which that old mansion had been searched and searched in vain. With dim eyes, full of horror, she read:

"I, Ulric, Earl of Charnleigh, being of sound mind, make this my last will and testament. I give and bequeath to Captain Paul Flemyng, son of Charles and Alice Flemyng, my estates and fortune. I bequeath to him all the property of which I am possessed—the mansion and estates of Crown Leighton, together with all the other estates belonging to me, furniture, plate, jewelry, carriages, horses, books, without reserve; and this I do, not because he is nearest of kin, but because he is the son of the only woman I ever loved; and I wish him to give suitable legacies to all my servants, but I absolutely forbid any division of the moneys or lands left to him."

The witnesses to the will were Harriet Simmons and James McCarthy.

The parchment fell from her trembling hands to the floor. It was a scene that would have attracted the notice of an artist—the grand, gloomy room, with its magnificent carvings and furniture, lying in deep Rambrandt-like shadows; the silvery light of that one taper falling on the jewels and the shining queenly robes. The will had fallen from her hands, and she was half crouching, half bending over it, a wail of unutterable misery issuing from her white lips.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

ISLE OF THE BLEST.

A Little Colony Where Poverty, Crime, and Doctors Are Unknown.

A little island, one of the Lipari group, lying to the south of Italy and between it and Sicily, is the happiest land beneath the sun. It is known to the world as Panaria. Within its border there is neither doctor nor dentist. There is no lawyer and no prison, no quarrels between debtor and creditor, and no theft. There is no liquor-seller, nor tobacconist, nor tea merchant; and yet the people are not unsocial nor gloomy. There is no almshouse and no beggar. Each family wins from its own plot of ground enough grain, vegetables, oil, and wine for home consumption, and of the two latter products sufficient is exported to procure from abroad the materials for their simple clothing, which the housewife makes up in complete independence of tailors. The sea yields them all their animal food, except a few chickens for great occasions, as a christening or a wedding. In the whole island there is no carriage road, and few there have ever seen a horse.

This idyllic state of affairs is largely due to the work of a single priest, a sort of Catholic Oberlin, a personal epitome of the Civic Church. When he came to Panaria he found no port, no post, no school, no church, no anything but a verdant and fertile island, and a people, not savage nor bad, but utterly illiterate. He has remained there until this day, devoting himself to their welfare as faithfully as Father Damien to his lepers, baptizing, marrying, burying, preaching, teaching, and growing old serenely in his consecrated service. Thanks to his untiring efforts, Panaria has now a little port, postal communication with the mainland, a submarine telegraph to Sicily, a school, and a commodious church, where 365 mornings of the year and fifty-two afternoons there is service. All the public offices are united in one person. Padre Michelangelo is priest, mayor, harbormaster, postmaster, and master of the marine telegraph, aided in the last named office, however, by his widowed niece.

Royalty and Life Insurance.

The reigning families of Europe are large customers of the various life insurance offices. The late prince consort's life was insured for close upon $5,000,000, which Victoria has now in her possession, and her life, again, is largely insured for the benefit of her younger children, notably for Princess Beatrice. The late Emperor Frederick of Germany was also insured for a very large amount—in the neighborhood of $4,000,000—and he was regarded as a splendid risk until the sudden and startling discovery, only two years prior to his death, that he was afflicted with cancer. The reigning families of Denmark and Sweden, as well as those of Saxony, Wurtemburg and Italy, are likewise good customers of the insurance companies; and so, too, is the Queen regent of Spain, who has her life insured for a very large amount in behalf of her two little daughters.

Oil as a Fuel.

The use of oil as fuel at the World's Fair demonstrated its superiority to coal in many ways. The heat which it furnishes is absolutely uniform; there is no smoke and no ashes. Fewer men are necessary about boilers fired with oil, and the services of firemen or stokers and men to handle ashes is unnecessary. The ratio between coal and oil was found at the Fair to be 133⅓ gallons of oil to the ton of coal; that is, 60,000 gallons of oil consumed daily in furnishing power and heat to the Fair was equivalent to 450 tons of good lump coal. Averaging coal at 15 tons to the car-load, the Exposition management would have had to handle 30 car-loads of coal per day. There would have been, besides, about 10 car-loads of ashes to handle.

THE first arktic expedition on record was Noah's.

BEING TRIPPED UP.

HOW REPUBLICAN ORGANS CONDEMN THEMSELVES.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat vs. Itself on the Tariff Question—High Tariffs Do Not Insure High Wages—Wilson Bill the First Step.

Turning a Sharp Corner.

We have read with some surprise the comments of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat upon the Wilson bill, because we have had in mind that interesting journal's attitude toward the McKinley tariff. In the winter of 1889-90 and during the following spring, while McKinley and the manufacturers who had contributed to the Harrison campaign fund were making their tariff bill, the Globe-Democrat was continually warning them that the Republicans of the West wanted a reduction of the existing duties and would be satisfied with nothing else. "The West insists," said our contemporary, "that when duties are touched they shall be lowered." And when it was apparent that duties were to be increased, the Globe-Democrat berated the committee daily, declaring that there was not "a shadow of an excuse for a single increase" that had been proposed and predicting that the party would have cause to regret bitterly the action of its representatives in Congress.

Immediately after the election of 1890, which marked the great popular revolt against McKinleyism, the Globe-Democrat pointed to its repeated warnings, and asserted that "the McKinley tariff alone was sufficient to account for what had taken place. "In the record of customs revision on the McKinley plan," it remarked, "the last chapter has been closed and the word finis has been written. Hereafter tariff revision will mean a reduction and not an increase of rates. We hope that President Harrison, in his forthcoming message to Congress, will not neglect to remind the party in control that the scheme of tariff revision by marking duties upward instead of downward is played out in this country." A few days after the election it gave its party this advice:

If a statesman held the Speakership at this moment, was at the head of the Ways and Means Committee, or was in any way in a position to dictate to the Republican party in Congress, he would bring about a thorough revision of the McKinley law at the coming short session. Every article advanced by that act would be reduced to the old rates or lower, the rates which were cut would be permitted to stand, and in some cases, which will readily suggest themselves, would be cut still further, and the free list would be enlarged. * * * It would place the party again in harmony with the sentiment of the people, and would close to the Democracy the avenue now open to it to strengthen itself with the country.

Something closely resembling the Wilson bill was needed, it seems, in the opinion of the Globe-Democrat, and needed at once. Similar advice was given at that time by the Omaha Bee, the Chicago Journal and the Chicago Tribune, the last-named paper repeatedly and sharply warning the party that if it should not undo its tariff work it would surely meet disaster in 1892. But, as everybody knows, this advice from several of the leading Republican journals of the Central West was ignored. After the election of 1892 the Globe-Democrat relieved its mind as follows:

The Republican party was beaten because it had taken a wrong position on some of the leading questions of national concern. It was wrong on the Federal election matter; it was emphatically and fatally wrong on the tariff. The passage of the McKinley law of 1890 was the greatest blunder ever committed by any party since the Democratic crime of secession. It overwhelmingly defeated the party in the Congressional election of that year, and it was the leading cause in the overthrow this year. This thing called McKinleyism—this advancing of duties on articles which have been on the dutiable list for from a third of a century to a century—has been condemned finally and eternally by the people. If the Republican party is to win any victories in the future it must drop McKinleyism immediately and permanently and send all the men who cling to it to the rear.

Strong language, but thoroughly in accord with the utterances of this influential Republican journal for the two years immediately preceding. We should reasonably expect that the Globe-Democrat would not refrain from attacking, if partisan interests did not permit it to commend, the pending tariff bill, which so nearly meets the demands it has been urging upon the leaders of its own party in vain for the last three years.

But the Globe-Democrat, to our surprise and bewilderment, declares that the Wilson bill "is destructive and vicious throughout." It complains because the bill enlarges the free list, although it has urged its own party to do this. The McKinley tariff increased the duty on tin plate from 1 cent to 2.2 cents a pound, and although the Globe-Democrat opposed all increases, and afterward called upon the Republican party to repeal them, it now denounces the Wilson bill because in this instance there has been made a reduction which is not so large as our contemporary in St. Louis was calling for so loudly two years ago, for the Wilson bill's duty on tin plate is higher than the duty in the tariff which the McKinley act superseded. We are especially surprised by the Globe-Democrat's anxiety about the reduction of the McKinley tariff's largely increased duties on farmers' products:

Not a single schedule which has guarded a farm or a herd has escaped. Everything of importance that the farmer raises which has had any impost upon it, from the wool on the back of his sheep to his wheat and corn in the field, is savagely and vindictively assaulted by the bill.

We are surprised, as we have said, because the Globe-Democrat has repeatedly and forcibly shown that the duties on a great majority of the American farmer's products are shams. Here is what it said soon after the beginning of the year 1890, for example, when McKinley was preparing the schedules in which an attempt to "fool the farmer" was made by increasing largely the duties on wheat, corn, oats, rye, pork, beef, lard, etc.:

It is a melancholy fact that the American farmer is forced to sell his corn and wheat at unremunerative prices—not because of insufficient protective duties, but in spite of ample favors of that sort. The explanation of his misfortunes must be sought elsewhere. It is very certain that we shall not ascertain that the source of the farmer's distress is a want of more tariff protection. It is obvious that his products could not be enhanced in value by increasing the duties against foreign competition, for such competition does not exist as to any of the things upon which he chiefly depends for his profits. The relief which he asks and deserves will accordingly have to come from some other quarter.

Why, then, should the Globe-Democrat complain because the Wilson bill scales down or removes the high and inoperative and sham duties of the McKinley tariff on "wheat and corn," oats, rye, bacon, beef, pork, lard, tallow, etc.? How can a duty be of service to the farmer upon any agricultural product the exports of which are valued at $30,000,000, $50,000,000, or even $200,000,000 per annum?

Why have the opinions of our interesting contemporary in St. Louis undergone so curious and so surprising a change? Is the Wilson bill—a revision substantially upon the lines heretofore laid down by our contemporary for the guidance of its own party—objectionable to the Globe-Democrat, "odious" and "vicious throughout," simply because it has been framed by a Democratic committee? We are unwilling to accept such an explanation. Is the bill odious because the chairman of the committee has been an editorial contributor, in support of tariff reform, to the columns of our contemporary's Democratic rival in St. Louis? This would be an explanation even less plausible.—New York Times.

Hollow Pottery-Ware Protests.

Some of these Republican protests against the Wilson bill are so hollow that they collapse under the weight of a few facts. For example, the Trenton potters are sending word to Washington that the Wilson rates on pottery will have a "grievous effect" and "necessarily produce disaster." Now, what did the McKinley rate produce in Trenton? A sharp cut in wages and a prolonged and unsuccessful strike against it. The Wilson bill couldn't do worse than that. Yet it was one of the members of the "Trenton Potteries Company," a trust paying dividends of 22½ per cent., that went before the McKinley committee and pathetically said: "It is for you to say, gentlemen, whether this struggling industry shall be destroyed for the benefit of foreign manufacturers." He got his increased protection, and then went home to make a cut of 22 per cent. in wages—to set off, we suppose, against his 22 per cent. dividend.—New York Post.

CLEARING THE WAY FOR BUSINESS.—N. Y. Herald.

Wilson Bill Only a First Step.

When the Wilson bill becomes a law our tariff will be headed in the direction of revenue. Therein is the virtue of the bill. It is supported as a beginning, not as a settlement. In order that the manufacturers may be encouraged to abandon the weakening uncertainties of tariff tinkering, the Democratic party should suffer no delay to interfere with notice of its intention to nominate a Western man in 1896. Manufacturers and business men would see in that the end of tinkering. When the Fifty-fifth Congress meets and receives a tariff message from a Western President the business of the country will have adjusted itself to the idea of a tariff for revenue only, and if Mr. Wilson is still Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, he should be able to satisfy his conception of a tariff for the people and without being held back by a Treasury deficiency or by business conditions.

A Western man in the White House and at the head of a Ways and Means Committee, William L. Wilson, who has become half Western by his intercourse with readers of the Republic, will give us in 1897-8 a tariff for revenue only—you bet.—St. Louis Republic.

An Inadvertent Admission.

The Tribune says of Secretary Carlisle that "he thinks that a man who pleases to buy fancy foreign woolens instead of equally useful American products should not be taxed for his choice." Waiving the fact that imported woolens are by no means all "fancy," the inadvertent admission of the high-tariff organ that the duty is a tax paid by the consumer is worth noting. As the duties on woolens last year amounted to $34,000,000 on $35,000,000 worth of goods—or nearly 100 per cent. of their value—this single item of McKinley extortion is enough to demand a reduction. If American products were "equally useful," is it likely that our shrewd shoppers would have paid this enormous tax for the sake of getting foreign goods?—New York World.

Takes No Stock in It.

The United States Tobacco Journal takes no stock in the contention that high tariffs insure high wages. It says that when the enormous duty of $2 a pound was imposed upon Sumatra leaf tobacco in the McKinley act, the first man to suffer from it was the cigar-maker. The duty paid on wrappers was taken out of the wages of employes. The Tobacco Journal insists that the $1 duty proposed in the Wilson bill would still be too high, and would have to be made up largely by the 150,000 workmen employed in cigar factories. A tax on raw material nearly always takes the ultimate form of a tax on labor.—Philadelphia Record.

End the Uncertainty.

THE sooner the public knows what it is to get the better.—Milwaukee News.

IT'S a pity there can't be a speed premium for the completion of the tariff.—Philadelphia Record.

CONGRESS seems to be more prompt in revising the geography than the tariff.—Boston Herald.

CHAIRMAN WILSON is getting all sorts of contradictory advice from all sorts of people. But the best advice that can be given Chairman Wilson is "Push things."—Boston Globe.

CONGRESS cannot pass a tariff bill too speedily for the best interests of the country, and it cannot be made to take effect too soon.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

THERE is a universal demand for speedy action on the Wilson bill. The people need prompt relief from the burdens of McKinleyism and the business world from the uncertainty which is almost as bad as bad legislation.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

ECCENTRICITIES OF ARTISTS

Painters Who Would Not Be Limited by Ordinary Rules of Life.

There is probably no profession in the whole range of human effort in which more eccentric things are done by its followers than in that of the painter. The following stories, culled from various sources, indicate the truth of this assertion, and will be found amusing as well, says Harper's Young People:

Delacroix, the painter, was walking out one day in Paris with a friend of his when he fell into a brown study.

"What is up with you now?" said the friend.

"I can't get a certain shade of yellow," replied the artist.

"What sort of yellow?"

Just then a cab drove past.

"The very thing!" the painter gasped out. "Stop! stop!"

"I am engaged," the cabby replied, without stopping.

Delacroix started in pursuit, and at a steep place in the Rue de Martyrs overtook the cab. Opening the door he said in tones of entreaty to the passenger inside:

"Do please tell your driver to stop; I want your complexion for a painting on which I am at work. There is a color-merchant close at hand. I shall not detain you above five minutes, and in acknowledgment of the service you render me I will present you with a sketch of my picture."

The bargain was struck; Delacroix got his yellow, and a few months later the "fare" received a sketch of his "Assassination of the Archbishop of Liege."

Another artist, celebrated in his day as a successful painter of portraits, while making a counterfeit presentiment of a lady, perceived that when he came to draw the mouth she tried to render it smaller by contracting her lips.

"Pray do not trouble yourself so much madam," he exclaimed. "If you like I will draw your face without any mouth at all."

A somewhat eccentric individual was the Flemish painter, Craasbeck, of whom it is told that once, fearing that his wife had ceased to love him and anxious to discover if his fears were founded on fact, he resolved upon an extraordinary test. He tore his blouse from his chest and painted just above his heart a very vivid representation of a wound. He then painted his lips and cheeks so they presented a ghastly aspect, covered his palette-knife and his garments with spots of red paint, gave a shriek, and fell to the floor as if dead. The test was successful. Mme. Craasbeck, hearing the shriek, rushed into the room, and supposing that her husband had been killed or had killed himself, gave way to what was to the supposed victim on the floor a series of very gratifying outbursts of grief. What the lady said when her lord and master sat up and informed her that he was only shamming, history does not record; but if she failed to go from one extreme to the other, and give him a good scolding, she certainly missed a good opportunity, and showed herself a woman of marvelous self-control.

Dishonesty at Church Fairs.

To charge from fifty cents to one dollar for a boutonniere which represented only the cost of picking the flowers out of the fields is robbery pure and simple, writes Edward W. Bok in "At Home with the Editor" in the Ladies' Home Journal. On two different occasions that I distinctly remember where I was asked fifty cents for not five cents actual worth of flowers, I was laughingly told by the young lady to whom I tendered a bank note that, "We never give change at this fair, and gentlemen, like yourself, won't insist upon it, we know." It was not enough that I was overcharged, but I must be twice robbed, and this, in each instance, in a church and in the name of charity! Is it any wonder, I ask, that it is so difficult to induce men to attend bazaars and fairs? They know what is in store for them if they attend. They know that the innocent "twenty-five cents admission" represents an exit costing all the way from $10 to $25, in proportion to their good-nature. I am calling this practice by its proper name, because I think it is time that the great and noble works done for honest charity in this country should not be asked to suffer, as many of them are undoubtedly suffering to-day, from this and other forms of abuse practiced in the name of charity. And I do not believe that the managers of charitable fairs really have an accurate realization of the rapidly growing aversion on the part of men for these events. If they had this knowledge I think they would apply the remedy without delay.

Great Is Kansas.

Kansas has farms valued at $450,000,000, which produce every year $140,000,000 worth of crops. Over $2,000,000 is invested in best sugar factories, and the sorghum cane produces 1,500,000 pounds of sugar and 5,000,000 gallons of syrup. The dairy products are valued at $30,000,000.

Testing a Diamond.

Make a small dot on paper, then look at it through a diamond. If you can see but one dot, you can depend upon it that the stone is genuine; but if the mark is scattered or shows more than one, you will be perfectly safe in refusing to pay 10 cents for a stone that may be offered you at $500.

Famous Prisons.

Two famous Parisian prisons will shortly be demolished. They are the Roquette, near Pere le Chaise cemetery, and the prison of Ste. Pelagie, with its sorrowful souvenirs of the reign of terror. The government intends to build a large prison in their stead.

Nice Climate.

At Great Falls, Montana, the mercury has been known to drop 25 degrees inside of five minutes.

Possibly.

The golden candlesticks used in the temple at Jerusalem were supplied with pure olive oil.

Word Evolution.

Neighbor was once only a nighboor or the boor or farmer who lived nearest.

HUMOR OF THE W

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY OF THE PRESS.

Many Odd, Curious, and Laughable of Human Nature Graphically Fo by Eminent Word Artists of Our Co —A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

BE content with your lot a trying to sell it.—Dallas News.

THE whisky drinker's cou is apt to be all awry.—Lowell

IT'S the corpulent person w let life go to waist.—Lowell C

BELLES, like other racers, times win by a neck.—Ge News.

"I CAN only be assister to the typewriter said to her emp —Plain Dealer.

THE storm scenter is usually cated in the Weather Bureau.— lanta Constitution.

"MONEY talks," but the least li scare will shut it up tight.—Bi hamton Republican.

WHEN a man has no bills agai him he must feel as if he belong the nobility.—Siftings.

IF you'll notice, it is generally breezy sort of fellow who puts on fewest airs.—Buffalo Courier.

DO MEN ever remember the pro ises they make to traveling salesm and women?—Atchison Globe.

IT is probably when he "blows in" that a man flings his money the winds.—Boston Transcript.

EVERY man is supposed to know his own business, but it is hard for his friends to believe it.—Puck.

THE politician isn't narrow-minded —he is willing to put himself into anybody's place.—Elmira Gazette.

YOU can't tell the size of a man's bank account by the magnitude of his chrysanthemum.—Philadelphia Record.

"WILLIE," said the history teacher, "how did Cleopatra die?" "She bit herself with a snake," said Willie.— Puck.

EVERY husband hears a great deal about some other husband who let's his wife manage the money.—Atchison Globe.

"THIS is a strange proceeding," said the absconding cashier as he grabbed the money, "and I can't account for it." —Plain Dealer.

DESPITE the apparent humbleness of his calling the tailor is sure to be a man of wait in any community.— Detroit Tribune.

DON'T imagine that putting "raw materials" on the free list is going to abolish butchers' bills.—Martha's Vineyard Herald.

"I'VE come down to turn out the gas," remarked Miss Sweet's father as he collared Mr. Staylate.—Binghamton Republican.

AN Irish chiropodist announces that he has "removed corns from all the crowned heads of Europe."— Philadelphia Record.

"You may twim my mustache, aw," said Gilly to the barber. "Yes, sir," replied the latter; "did you bring it with you?"—Brooklyn Life.

NOTWITHSTANDING the provisions of the tariff bill the sugar men will get along somehow if they only have enough sand.—Rochester Post.

NO WOMAN is going to saw wood and say nothing. If she has to saw the wood the world will certainly hear from her.—Galveston News.

THE practice of speaking of a railroad train as feminine gender is wrong, especially if they are mail trains.—Binghamton Republican.

GUEST (angrily)—"Say, boy, I've been waiting here an hour." Waiter —"That's all right, boss. I've been waiting here five years."—Detroit Free Press.

"Do you think that gratuitous advice ever results in good?" "I know it does—that is, to the one who gives it. It makes him feel good."—Boston Transcript.

YOUNG CALLOWE—"I expect to start for London and Paris to-morrow. Can I do anything for you?" Prunella—"Yes; be sure not to miss your steamer."—Life's Calendar.

MRS. CHATTER—"Do you believe that cures can be effected by laying on of hands?" Mrs. Clatter —"Most certainly. I cured my boy smoking in that way."—Brooklyn Life.

KRANICH—I vas be sufferin' insomnia, doctor. Doctor—Ind Kranich—Yah. Vhen I vas asleep, I vas snore so loud dot geeb mineself avake der whole —Life.

FRIEND—I don't see ho income, you manage to Florida and summer Sharpp—You forget h dodge both coal and York Weekly.

"THIS life," said the on the cellar stair with in his hand, "would be of sweet surprises if co up as easily as the pr Washington Star.

"DOAN put yer min' too m outward decorations," said Eben. "Hit am bettah ter hab bage undah yoh waistcoat dat chrysanthemum in yer button-hole Washington Star.

MRS. ELDERLEIGH—"Do you love your teacher, Johnny?" Johnny— "Yes, ma'am." Mrs. Elderleigh— "Why do you love her?" Johnny— "'Cause the Bible says we're to love our enemies."—Puck.

GALLUP—"Do you think I can safely trust a business secret to Banks?" Higbee—"I should say so. I lent him a sovereign nearly a year ago and he has never breathed a word about it since."—Tid Bits.

"WHAT are your hopes for the future?" asked the solemn man. "I have none just now," replied the youth. "To-morrow is my best girl's birthday, and I'm worrying about the present."—Life's Calendar.

"THE wall flower," remarked the philosopher, "is often the only girl in the ball-room who can cook a dinner." "Yes," responded Miss Worldling, "and the girl who dances is the only one who can digest it."—Detroit Free Press.

THE FAIR.

Everyone should see the large stock of

HOLIDAY GOODS

at the

JOHNS

Which will be sold this year at about cost, owing to the hard times.

Yours,

J. C. HENRY.

DON'T IF YOU DON'T WANT BARGAINS.

2 JOHNS 2

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....DECEMBEB 28, 1893.

JANUARY SLAUGHTERING SALE.

ONE FOURTH OFF ON EACH PURCHASE

Commencing Monday, Jan. 1st, and continuing for Thirty Days.

JUST THINK OF IT! 25 Cents on each and every dollar you spend at my store during this sale. Nothing reserved. Everything must go. Remember, the Stock is all New and Fresh, our Assortment Greater than any House in the County. This is a Bona Fide Sale, all in good faith. We only ask an inspection, which will prove itself. Our goods are all marked in PLAIN FIGURES. You can easily figure it out yourself. Just 25 cents off on each dollar, no matter how large or small your purchase is. You will be allowed one-fourth off. Think of the saving this will be. It's less than the first cost of the goods. But no matter where the loss comes from, so it doesn't come out of the customer. This sale includes the entire stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing, Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods of every description. Remember, One-Fourth Off During January.

G. H. YESBERA,

THE LEADING CLOTHIER & GENTS' FURNISHER.

P. S.---Merchant Tailoring not included in the above, but will allow an extraordinary reduction on all Tailor-Made Goods. G. H. YESBERA, The Merchant Tailor.

SEE

D. A. HODGE

For the Holiday Trade,

We have on display the most complete line of

WATCHES, DIAMONDS & JEWELRY

In the City. Handsome Novelties in

SILVERWARE.

Inspect our line before purchasing! - - -

The Best Shoes for the Least Money.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

$5, $4 and $3.50 Dress Shoe.
$3.50 Police Shoe, 3 Soles.
$2.50, $2 for Workingmen.
$2 and $1.75 for Boys.

LADIES AND MISSES,
$3, $2.50 $2, $1.75

CAUTION.—If any dealer offers you W. L. Douglas shoes at a reduced price, or says he has them without the name stamped on the bottom, put him down as a fraud.

W. L. DOUGLAS Shoes are stylish, easy fitting, and give better satisfaction at the prices advertised than any other make. Try one pair and be convinced. The stamping of W. L. Douglas' name and price on the bottom, which guarantees their value, saves thousands of dollars annually to those who wear them. Dealers who push the sale of W. L. Douglas Shoes gain customers, which helps to increase the sales on their full line of goods. They can afford to sell at a less profit, and we believe you can save money by buying all your footwear of the dealer advertised below. Catalogue free upon application. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of the Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1894, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, Jackson, Michigan.

The Transfer Books will close on January 12 and remain closed until January 25.

R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio.

OLD ELK BOURBON & PURE RYE

...ed pure and unadulterated direct from the distillery. ...nounced a pure and wholesome tonic-stimulant by the medical fraternity everywhere. Gives life, strength and happiness to the weak, sick, aged and infirm.

If you cannot procure it of your druggist or liquor dealers, upon receipt of $1.50 we will express prepaid to an address a full quart sample bottle of Old Elk Rye or Bourbon.

STOLL, VANNATTA & CO., DISTILLERS, Lexington, Ky.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

The County Lawsuit.

As mentioned several times in these columns, the county has been having a big lawsuit on its hands, at Angola. After nearly three weeks of slow work, in which every point was fought over by the attorneys and a score or two of witnesses examined, then cross-examined, then examined again, the attorneys made their closing pleas and it went to the jury Friday afternoon. The next day they brought in verdict against the county, of $100. The amount claimed by the Foundry Company was about $600. The whole thing is to be deplored. It has been expensive to both sides, and of course with the verdict as it is, the county will have the heaviest bill, as it will have to pay the costs. It does seem as if a business firm like the foundry, and a board of intelligent men like the commissioners ought to have been able to make a bargain that would be understood and lived up to by both sides. But it seems they did not. The Foundry is apparently the winner, for a judgment of $1 against the county would make the county pay costs, which in this case are large. On the other hand the verdict for $100 only looks bad for the foundry, for if their bill for $600 had been all right, the jury should have given them the full sum. Many people blame the commissioners for refusing to pay the bill, and say that it would have been cheaper to pay the full $600 than got into a law suit. But this is bad reasoning. If the commissioners do not refuse to pay a bill they consider unjust the floodgates would be down and all sorts of bills, good and bad, would be rushed in on them. In fact such bills have been piled in on the board too often, and some times have been paid. And several of them, the board refused to pay in full. And the parties have sued the board, and in instances we remember a few years ago, the board was beaten. It makes but little difference which course the board takes, some one will find fault. Within an hour of the time we heard a man insist that this $600 should have been paid rather than have a law suit, we heard another say that the board always allowed every bill that came up, no matter how fraudulent. And so it goes. There is one idea that has got out, that should be corrected. The commissioners did not charge up wages while attending court at Angola. They simply got witness fees the same as others, and we presume it was not enough to cover expenses.

CHICAGO refused to allow tin horns to be blown New Years. They should be prohibited for ever.

PRENDERGAST who killed Mayor Harrison of Chicago, was sentenced to death last week. The jury pronounced him sane, and he will have to hang.

CLEVELAND'S last message, explaining the Hawaii business, seems to have paralyzed a great many of the patriots who were trying to get us into trouble with that little country.

VERY few mills and factories are now shutting down and twice as many are starting up. Let the new tariff bill be passed so as to give them cheaper raw material, and we believe both capital and labor will be benefited.

Now comes the supreme court of Michigan and by a decision December 22 gives all the U. B. Church property to the radicals. The cases in other states we believe went the other way. It is an unfortunate quarrel, at best.

GOVERNOR of Florida says Corbett and Mitchell can't fight in his state. He lines up with our own Gov. Mathews. Now let the other governors fall into line with these two nervy officials and put a stop to this brutal bussiness.

EASTERN steel mills want the 75 cents a ton tariff taken off of the iron ore they get from Cuba and the countries of the Mediterranean. This would enable them to compete with the ore mined in Michigan and used in mills west of the Alleghanies. A tariff of 75 cents gives the steel business all to western firms.

THE American League of Wheelmen should have credit for a good piece of work in the interest of better roads. Last week they brought in a monster petition asking to have a new department created, the Department of Highways. The petition was the largest ever seen in Congress, there being 1,400 yards long, with 150,000 names and weighed 600 pounds.

COL. I. B. MCDONALD, of Columbia City, and Dr. Norman Teal, of Kendallville, are candidates for state pension agent, since the death of Col. Zollinger. It ought to come to this congressional district, or at least to northern Indiana. The other candidates are: M. V. B. Spencer, Capt. Hettler, Capt. Reese, J. H. Rohan, S. M. Hensch, of Ft. Wayne; A. D. Owen, of Posey county; Capt. Allen, of Frankfort; M. M. Justus, of Bluffton, and Joseph Riley, of Indianapolis.

Same as Usual.

Our present congressman has done nothing in this part of the district so far, but to complete a long and unbroken line of blunders. The like was never known before, and we hope never will be again. At Kendallville he had set aside a number of good men who were applicants for the postoffice, and selected a man from the country who was not an applicant, same as he had done at Ligonier. Now the people are kicking. Here is an item from the Kendallville Standard:

These are hot times for the Kendallville postoffice. A strong effort is being made to defeat McNagny's choice which is understood to be Abraham Orr. Petitions have been circulated pro and con in regard to the matter. It is the field against Orr. After Orr has been laid upon the shelf we presume the old time fellows and possibly some new ones, will bob up serenely and ask for the place. We hear that one of the arguments against Orr is that he is incompetant and that his appointment would be a disgrace upon the party, etc. On this line a private letter purporting to have been written by Mr. Orr, has been taken to Washington to exhibit to the appointing power and in this way show his incapacity. It is claimed that the letter discloses some shocking bad orthography, penmanship, grammar, etc. It looks a little as if our Democratic friends were getting fastidious.

To Societies, Churches, Etc.

Notices of churches, meetings, socials, and similar gatherings will hereafter be made in the COURIER under a separate head; notices not to exceed five lines will be inserted free. If more space is desired, the regular rate of five cents a line will be charged. We believe, however, that a small notice placed under the proper head, will be as good for all purposes, as several notices of greater or less length scattered over the paper. Our object is to save room, as it has often happened that good reading matter has been crowded out, by the demand for space for free notices.

Obituaries, cards of thanks, etc, should be made reasonably short, for if several are in the paper at the same time, it is impossible to get in a proper amount of reading matter. There should be no poetry added, not more than one verse. Poetry with an obituary is now out of date. The only way poetry is allowable is to have a verse or two in the body of the article, and even this is seldom seen now.

Factory Building for Sale.

I will sell the factory, known as the Boyer & Kandel factory, near the Lake Shore depot. Or I will trade it or rent it. Terms reasonable.

47tf GEO. W. HUSSELMAN Auburn.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathews & Gerke.

Our New Year Greeting.

As the rich glow of sunset steals o'er the bosom of earth—all glorious in delightful blendings of crimson and gold—and finally sinks beneath the shadows of the western horizon, peaceful twilight links it to the somber shades of night. All is forgotten and nature sleeps restful in the hope of rosy morn, with its new responsibities and adventures. So it is with the last hours of the year. All the glories of the old year seem to be concentrated in one masterful review, as the fleeting moments glide into that vast forever of the past. Departing, the past is hidden behind the brighter moments of the present, as effectually as the silvery starlight fades into the splendor of a new born day. Sweet memories linger around each heart like gentle gales from the incense-laden bowers of earth's sunny clime; or the last gleam of sunlight at eventide. Hopes and fears alike fill the soul with unutterable awe at the prospects arising from the gloomy silence of the past. The experiences of the twelve month just ended, are but the prophetic forerunners of the future. The hour was marked, the doleful sounds pealed forth, and 1893, is known no more in the circulating time currency of the present. It is now a back number and its achievments and failures will be known only in the annals of history. The year 1893, was remarkable in many ways. Being the World's Fair year, it served admirably as the period of time in which America exhibited her pride and grandeur, coupled with the friendship and open handed hospitality of one of her most illustrious cities—Chicago,—to the mighty nations of earth. Millions of people found a royal welcome to the homes and hostage of Chicagoans, and it is with pleasant recollections that these events are consigned to the pages of history. It was again remarkable because of the pressing questions under which our government labored. Financial depression caused panic and disaster to follow in the wake of continued prosperity. The unparelleled stringency of money matters and a corresponding lack of confidence was the means of an appalling number of business and bank failures. Again it was remarkable on account of the unprecedented number of men and women out of employment, and the attendant want and suffering. The nation seems to be groaning under its mighty burden of—not bread-winners, but bread-seekers,—who are traversing the continent from center to circumference in quest of the necessaries of life. This picture of course, is not a pleasant one to contemplate when it is looked at from the dark side; but when the Providential bearing upon the subject is considered, the year 1893, is still found remarkable for its abundance of natural things. Mankind has been blessed with all the good things that the earth produces, and there is enough for all. Hard times are the means of grace through which humanity is made to know its dependence upon sovereignity. Though some have failed to materially realize upon their business ventures, others have, by persistency and careful management, netted handsome per cents., upon their investments. As individuals of the latter class we would send forth our Happy New Year Greeting, which is heartily extended to all readers of the COURIER. We have been manufacturing cigars in Auburn, for several years. Our goods have gone out to test the competitive vicissitudes of the trade, and have created a demand so enormous as to convince us that "our goods are our best advertisement." In looking over the vast field, where the popularity of Young America, Bill Head, Receipt and K. & B., cigars is fully known and felt, we are conscious that our efforts in catering to the public, have not been in vain. Perceptible prosperity has crowned our labors, and in common with humanity our humble thanks are rendered. And now, as we approach the threshold of the future, to embrace the untried realities of 1894, we hope the public will continue the bestowal of good wishes, as in the past, and so far as lies in our power, earnest endeavors shall be made to merit increased patronage. We hope to beat the record of 1893. This is the resolution, and we trust a corresponding resolution has found develpment in the mind of every COURIER reader. With light hearts and cheeks aglow, we greet you all and wish you a HAPPY AND A PROSPEROUS NEW REAR.

KESSLER BROTHERS.

COMMISSIONERS' ALLOWANCES.

POOR.

W R Coburn	$ 30 00
John Baker	3 00
M E Garrett	5 00
H E Trout	2 00
S G Stone	1 90
L Strong	9 00
J C Brown	1 75
S and F Barney	5 20
H J Crooks	31 47
A Levy & Co	40 17
D T McNabb	3 50
E C Miller	19 00
R Sharpless	10 00
R S S Reed	30 65
Hebel Bros	47 03
J B Bennett	41 90
J H Knauer	1 50
John Kruger	2 02
M E Reynolds	8 25
F M Hines	25 00
H J Mosey	9 63
Joseph Girardot	42 00
Grueter Bros	6 00
Boyer & Leas	4 70
Kurgner & Myers	2 50
Bishop & Lackey	3 00
D J Blair	23 60
F A Hoff	6 71
David Beber	35 00
S Hollister	12 50
Schaab & Murphy	4 15
F H Kring	14 20
G M Grogg	11 20
A Lewis	70 73
Campbell & Son	4 85
D S Ober	11 88
Schaab & Bro	86 33
C Baker	1 50
F A Hoff	14 15
C W Bartels	24 25
F E Davenport	5 04
A J and G M Ralston	10 45
John Kruger	27 94
J Beuret	36 92
Raut & Co	6 30
Joseph Ramier	17 74
M E Garrett	15 44
Brown C & Boland	25 92
Mrs M Jones & Son	46 34
Bishop & Lackey	2 45
Ellen Long	32 50
Rachel Wood	13 00
Hebel Bros	3 26
C C Shaffer & Co	23 25
Robbins & McCord	26 30
Frank Bowman	4 20
Wm Buss	58 31
A Bartels	144 20
E T Hull	1 20
J A Potter	5 50
Pifer & Bishop	17 40
J E Pearce	13 10
C Snell	41 00
O P Myers	18 37
D A Sebring	21 25
J W Shaffer	15 35
W J Whetsel	11 10
J C Henry	4 00
W H Fair	5 70
C E Kirkland & Co	16 00
Ira Brandon	6 00
J W Sheffer	3 00
F G Fried	10 00
H W Bowman	23 75
Nusbaum & Nusbaum	61 25
J P Strouse	9 00
Henry Stormm	12 00
O O Himes	24 34
I O Buchtel	17 50
Supt of the Feeble Minded	6 20
E T DeLapp	60
D W Jenner	25
F Broughton	9 00
S Henry	12 00
Joseph Wingard	9 50
A B Darby	62 50
G Wolf	95
F Snyder	35 00
J O Blake	12 50
J N Wilson & Son	12 65
Mary Sawvel	16 50
Frank Hilt	9 00
R S S Reed	24 05
C C Shaffer & Co	17 [illegible]

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Campbell & Son	$ 90
A Lewis & Co	2 97
Joseph Miller	1 70
Frank Weaver	1 00
E Metcalf	10 50
L D Robbins	10 00
J H Baker	17 55
C Baker	75
G A Mader	46 84
H E Trout	7 20
Brown C & Boland	42 85
J Pfefferl	7 00
Schaab & Bro	6 75
F E Davenport	75
F A Hoff	95
J C Henry	8 45
Schaab Furnishing Co	3 50
Wm Click	92 00
J H Weaver	158 95
W H Kiblinger	101 52
Auburn Iron Works	25 01
Zimmerman Co	2 30
W H Kiblinger	8 34
Auburn Mining Co	221 52
Schaab & Bro	12 04
S Burress	75

SALARY.

H J Shafer	$ 50 00
Lyman Lockwood	40 40
C M Merica	302 00
F M Hines	15 00
R Sawvel	550 00
H N Coffinberry	593 27
H N Coffinberry (fees)	40 35
D D Moody (fees)	86 50
G C Ralston	642 34
John Hoffelder	73 50
Lyman Lockwood	38 50
James M Henderson	76 25

FEES TURNED OVER TO COUNTY.

G C Ralston	$ 88 05

BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

R Sawvel	$ 165 50

STATIONERY.

F E Davenport	$ 15 85
W B Burford	644 52
J A Barns	35 15
Stevens & Campbell	7 10
A J Little	9 00
M E Gardner	2 25
C M Merica, postage	8 85
S Williams, "	3 55
R Sawvel: "	13 50
G N Coffinberry "	16 25

COURT EXPENSES.

John Hoffelder (cash advanced)	$ 137 58

MISCELLANEOUS.

C E VanAuken	$ 8 50
Robbins & McCord	6 10
A J and G M Ralston	40
Wm Little	2 50

DITCHES.

C E VanAuken	$ 234 00
C E VanAuken	65 00
J J VanAuken	43 50
E B Weaver	30 25

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

J J VanAuken	$ 6 50
H N Coffinberry	16 60
Joseph Wilson	20 00
Thomas Bubb	20 00

CRIMINALS.

Bishop & Lackey	$ 5 95
Schaab & Murphy	14 00
Mrs M Jones & Son	6 86
Raut & Co	75
G C Ralston	366 89

INSANE.

Valentine Steffe	$ 2 00

GLADSTONE was 84 last Friday, Dec. 29.

Winter Millinery at Cost

And below. We are offering our entire stock at greatly reduced price, to suit hard times. All will do well to call and see the hats, caps, bonnets and sailors, and prices on same. We will reduce stock if low prices will do it. Trimmed hats $1 and up; Sailors, 3 cents and up; All goods in proportion. Room at my residence, North Maple St., Corunna, Ind. MRS. W. H. TRUMBULL.

TIME TABLE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST.

Boston Express	5:21	am—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:30	pm—ex Su
New York Limited	7:45	pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation	7:15	am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:38	pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)	7:35	pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 19, 1893

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, dp	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc	12 25	5 26	7 18
Auburn	12 29	5 30	8 37
Waterloo	12 43	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 56	5 53	9 45
Steubenville	12 59	5 57	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 14	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 30	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 am
Angola	12 25 pm	2 08 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 08	2 30	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 27	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 32	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn	3 11	3 11	9 34
Auburn Junc	3 38	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 19, 1893.

Stations—		WEST-BOUND.
Bellaire	lv	a m *7.28	p m *11.47	a m 9.51	p m *3.46	.....
Zanesville		9.58	2.11	a m †12.29	p m 6.20	a m 6.25
Newark	ar	10.45	2.50	1.12	7.08	7.15
Columbus	ar	p m 12.05	3.50	2.15	8.15	8.25
Mansfield	lv	12.40	.....	a m	8.49	10.23
Deshler		3.20	5.32	10.05	a m 12.02	.....
Defiance		4.05	6.15	11.00	1.10	.....
Auburn Jc		.....	7.12	p m 12.23	a m 2.12	.....
Chicago	ar	10.00	11.50	6.40	7.30	.....

Stations—		EAST-BOUND.
Chicago	lv	a m *10.15	p m *3.00	a m †6.05	.....	p m *8.25
Auburn Jc		p m 3.10	7.55	p m 12.26	a m 6.17	a m 11.20
Defiance		4.05	8.55	1.40	7.46	12.20
Deshler		4.46	9.40	2.30	8.45	1.20
Mansfield		7.47	.....	.....	9.45	4.10
Newark	ar	9.25	a m	a m	10.55	5.48
Columbus		.....	.....	p m 11.15	p m 12.05	8.25
Zanesville	lv	10.20	.....	a m 12.56	11.30	6.41
Bellaire	ar	a m 12.50	.....	3.25	2.40	9.02
(EASTERN TIME.) Wheeling	ar	2.30	.....	5.00	4.20	p m 10.40
Pittsburg		.....	p m 4.15	7.50	.....	p m 4.15
Washington D.C		p m 2.05	3.25	.....	a m 5.30	.....
Baltimore		3.40	4.25	.....	6.40	.....
Philadelphia		6.08	6.58	.....	9.25	.....
New York		8.25	9.30	.....	p m 12.10	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. Sleeping and dining cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't G. P. Ag't, Chicago. City Office, Auburn, Ind.

A GREAT REDUCTION!

In order to reduce our Stock, we will give from now until February 1, '94, TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT OFF in Cash on every article purchased during the time mentioned above. Come early and be convinced.

Boston One Price Clothing Store.

It's Like Finding Money.

No dull trade at Bishop & Lackey's, if prices are any inducement.
Its a Clearance Sale. Unprecedented in Values,
Unprecedented in Quality.

BLANKETS.

50 pair Large size white, worth $3.00, now $1.69.
40 pair All-Wool, red and white, worth 3.25, now 2.42.
25 pair All-Wool, red and white, worth 4.00, now 3.25.
15 pair finer goods at proportionate prices.

FLANNELS.

500 yards Auburn Factory, worth 40c. now 25.
400 yards New Albany Factory, worth 40c. now 25.

DRESS GOODS.

500 yards 48-inch Serge, former price 48c. now 29.
We show the largest line of Fine Dress Goods in Northern Indiana, at proper prices.

UNDERWEAR.

This Department is full and complete. We continue to show all styles and qualities in women's, children's, men's and boys' underwear at correct prices.
50 Doz. men's all-wool, reduced from $1.25 and $1.50 to 75c. Very cheap to close.

CLOAKS.

⅓ Off on all Ladies' and Children's Wraps.

Bishop & Lackey,

Shaffer Block. AUBURN, IND.

PRECIOUS TIME WASTED.

Such is liable to be the case unless you have a Good Reliable Timepiece, and now is the time to get one, as

F. J. YESBERA

Has Just Received a Full Line of LADIES' and GENTS' WATCHES that he intends selling at Prices that DEFY COMPETITION. Come and see. Has also a COMPLETE LINE of JEWELRY, CLOCKS, SILVERWARE, MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, SPECTACLES, Etc. Call and get his prices. You cannot afford to miss such bargains.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Have You Tried BRINK'S Thill Coupling? If not! Send to Holcomb & Co., Bloomville, O., and get a Sample pair, only 25 cents. Money returned if not satisfactory.

Dr. F. M. Hines, Physician and SURGEON.

Office over J. C. HENRY'S Grocery, in the Ford Block,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ RESIDENCE, at the Samuel Swihart residence on South Jackson St. near the Church Furniture factory, and just across west from the German Methodist church. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

P. P. P. C.

Positive Painless Pile Cure.

The most complete, practicable and painless method of treating all curable diseases of the rectum ever placed before the public. Piles are permanently cured in a few weeks by the use of this treatment. Fissure, Catarrh, Inflammation Ulceration, Prolapsus, Constipation, Bleeding, Blind and ITCHING PILES are cured as if by magic. I claim the most complete, successful, simple and original common sense method ever offered to the suffering public. Your correspondence solicited.

S. U. TARNEY
Sole Proprietor and Manufacturer
Auburn, Ind.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock,--
--$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,

REPAIRS

All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and

BUILDS FOR THE TRADE:

Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work

Warranted First-Class in All Respects.

☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

New years day was fine.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

See Clapp's notice of picture frames.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Mrs. H. A. Stevens is visiting her people at Paxton, Ill.

Walter Penfield went up to Dundee, Mich., on a visit last week.

Miss Ada McEntarffer of Ligonier, has been here a few days, a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Buchtel.

Josiah Teeters and wife were home for the holidays, from their present home at Oberlin, Ohio.

Nettie and Daisy Denison, of Grant township, daughters of Trustee G. O. Denison, were in Auburn Tuesday.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

MARRIED:—At the Lutheran parsonage Jan. 1, 1894, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, Mr. Frank Depew to Miss Carrie Lockwood.

B. F. Cornelius, of Troy, came over on Friday last to do business at the county seat. Always glad to meet him.

E. D. Beadle moved Monday into the residence he lately purchased, on North Main street south of the woolen mills.

Miss Neva Bell of Detroit, spent the Christmas days with her mother here, and her sister, Mrs .G. H. Yesbera and family.

Cal. Burse of near St. Joe sold his farm last week to Curt Warstler of the same place, through the agency of Rickel & Sprott.

John Sibert, son of Mrs. Rebecca Dickinson, returned Monday to his home at Bodkins, Ohio, after a pleasant visit with friends here.

Zeineth Stamets, who is studying medicine, returned to Ft. Wayne Tuesday, where he is attending lectures. Will Swarts went back on Monday.

GOOD ROOMS TO RENT:—A suite of four desirable rooms in good location with pleasant surroundings. Call on W. E. Rush, North Main street, Auburn. 1-3

It is claimed that the mercury stood higher in Auburn Tuesday morning, Jan. 2, than it did July 4 last. It will be remembered we had a frost that morning.

Hi. Bartholomew, of Waterloo, was here Tuesday. He was one of the boys who saw "Sheridan's ride," and he has promised the COURIER his experience on that occasion.

We had a light fall of snow again on Saturday evening, the weather then turning colder. As the roads had been thawed up and got rough, it did not make sleighing.

Mrs. G. H. Yesbera, Mrs. Barns and her sister, Mrs. Kelley, went to Albion Saturday to remain over Sunday with the family of J. J. Martin and to call on other friends.

George Ettinger fell on the streets in a fit Monday morning. He was picked up unconscious and carried into Shaffer's furniture store and medical aid given, and he soon got all right.

Auburn's young people who came home for the holidays, have mostly scattered out again, and have gone so many different ways that we have not been able to keep track of them.

L. J. Gengler, the Garrett attorney, came over to attend to some cases in court Tuesday. He had finished his cases in the court at Albion, and took the east bound train to this place.

J. R. Burnston, of Garrett, was here last week. He says it was a little premature to say that the shops at Garrett were starting up in full force. They are only working a part of the time.

LOST:—An overcoat, between Myers & Kutzner's livery barn and my residence. Finder will please leave same at Kessler Brothers' cigar factory.
1-3 W. F. Kessler.

WANTED:—A reliable person in Auburn, Ind., to handle our line of household goods. 1-2
A. J. Conroy & Co.,
223 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

MARRIED:—At the parsonage of the Reformed Church in Auburn, Jan. 1, 1894 Emmett S. Ginther and Tillie Pfirman, both of Newville township, this county. R George Engelman officiated.

LOST: Somewhere on Main street, Auburn, Dec 19, a red leather pocket bill book, containing money, draft and other papers. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving at this office or with D. Z. Hoffman.

Miss Sadie Bryant, daughter of John B. Bryant, of Artic, was visiting last week in the family of Cyrus Wyland. She was the teacher of the Junction school last winter, and was greatly liked by the pupils and patrons.

J. G. Clapp's prize rebus contest was decided Tuesday, Jan. 2. Several answers were very close, and some were very funny, but no one found the correct solution, all erring on the same points, and many on more.

E. S. Lacey of Fremont, who has been coming here some weeks for treatment of lung trouble by Dr. Buchtel, is gaining steadily, and reports himself better than for a long time before. He also looks much better. Glad to hear it.

Monday, J. W. Johnson traded his Auburn property for the farm of Jacob F. Snyder, in Franklin township, through the Rickel & Sprott agency here. This popular firm is doing a large amount of business in the real estate line.

A. C. Wilson, so long connected with the Church Furniture Company, goes this week to Little Rock, Ark., where his daughter, Mrs. Minnie Shaffer resides. He will find employment there, and may eventually move his family to that place. We would greatly dislike to see them leave Auburn.

J. R Cosper on Monday gave a deed of his property to the parties holding the notes forged by Byron Cosper, thus making them whole, but sacrificing his all, even the house that was to shelter his old age. He is very sick, and we feel that few men would have made this sacrifice under the circumstances.

Hicksville had a bad fire Saturday morning. The business rooms destroyed were Roberts' agricultural room, Fisher's drygoods store, M. N. Crary's grocery, Dalrymple's drug store, R play's grocery and the Strauss & Co. clothing store. The city hall was destroyed, and other buildings impaired. Loss is said to be over $30,000.

The new Lu-mi-num bicycle for '94 will be made in three models, viz. Ladies' Safety, Roadster and Racer. The frame of each and every wheel is submitted to a test of 2,000 pounds weight, and warranted to carry One Ton before leaving the factory. The Lu-mi-num will be the lightest, strongest and most beautiful wheel ever produced.
Auburn Cyclery.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

I. N. Fisher's daughter is here from Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. Ab. Kelley, of Waterloo, was in town Tuesday.

Rev. O. E. Eagy and wife visited in Auburn over the holidays.

Mrs. Frank McDowell spent New Years with friends in Elkhart.

Letter from Butler Center delayed; just here. Will appear next week.

Mrs. Clint Potter had two sisters from Toledo visit her over holidays.

Brant's Balsam, the great cough cure, always in sight at F. E. Davenport.

Commissioners allowances are late this quarter, owing to delay in the board's work.

Dan Link, who spent holidays at home has returned to his legal studies at Chicago.

Mrs. W. H. Rakestraw returned Monday from a holiday visit with friends at Milford.

Josephus Shilling reports a good deal of winter plowing going on in Concord township.

Pearl Kelley made a short visit this week with the relatives in Waterloo, returning to-day.

A. B. Richards took charge of Cook Ford's feed store, a few days while Mr. Ford was sick.

Mrs. Pierson of Chicago has been here a few days visiting her father Dr. S. B. Johnston.

Nice white roses and primroses for sale at Fleming's green-house, all suitable for holiday flowers.

Willie Campbell went back to Logansport Tuesday, where he does the trimming in Cool's buggy factory.

Frank Campbell, who works at the body factory, says they have work nearly all the time and the outlook is good.

We are sorry to learn the death of Baltzer Koontz' daughter, at Spencerville. He and his family have our sympathy.

John P. Kandel of Muncie was here Tuesday. He says their business, which is manufacturing buggies, is very satisfactory.

Mrs. Morse and daughter Lela, of Angola, spent New Years with the family of Frank Zimmerman and Mrs. Geo. Weamer.

Mr. Kiblinger returned Friday from his visit to his father's. Mrs. Kiblinger and Katie continued their visit a few days longer.

C. S. Stoy and Editor Gardner of Butler were in Auburn Saturday, looking for the democratic meeting that wasn't called.

John Sibert, son of Mrs. Rebecca Dickinson, returned Monday to his home at Bodkins, Ohio, after a pleasant visit with his friends here.

LOST.—Setter pup, ten months old, black on head and one hip. Finder please return to Auburn Foundry and Machine Works and receive reward.

Oscar Ensley came up from Indianapolis Saturday for a few days visit here. His youngest sister, Amber, had been here some time, visiting their relatives.

Don't forget to attend the "Poverty Social," given in the basement of the M. E. Church next Saturday evening. Watch for the program to be left at your door.

The worst things to be found in the country now is the lack of ready cash and bad roads. For open-handed hospitality the country was never in better spirits.

C. H. Brown of St. Joe was here Saturday. He says the News of that place will soon start up again, having been leased by two young men from Hamilton.

As seen by our Garrett letter, W. S. VanZile was killed last week. He formerly lived at St. Joe, and was at one time a teacher. He was a man highly respected.

Eugene Hoffman, of Washington, and his brother David of this county, paid a visit Tuesday to their sister, Mrs. A. A. Roland. This is their first meeting in many years.

Miss Flora Hoffman entertained quite a large party of her friends last Monday evening very pleasantly. Music and games, followed by a dainty lunch, were features of the evening.

We acknowledge a fine serenade Tuesday evening, by Ernest Sheets, Richard Shull, Lew Willis and Preston Wilcox. They also gave a quartet at the musical that was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Bachtel and Mr. Draggo had a little racket last week about the matter of grinding that flour for the poor. But we feel sure it was all owing to a misunderstanding on Mr. Bachtel's part, for Mr. Draggoo was careful not to say anything against Mr. Bachtel.

Hard times or no hard times, Ira Brandon is alway at the front. He opens up the new year with a bran new ad. Our people have always found the Family Grocery a good place to deal at, and Mr. B. an accommodating gentleman, who has tested the advantages of advertising.

We publish to-day the second of S. W. Widney's poems. Critics will accord it a high degree of merit as poetry, and read in connection with the scripture it paraphrases, it is quite a literary study. Note also the contraction for "Indiana," at the close. Now we use that for "Iowa" and use "Ind." for Indiana.

It seems like a novelty to see farmers plowing for spring crops in January, but that is actually what many of the DeKalb fellows are doing. The fine weather at this time affords the opportunity for getting ready to catch the early bird. All things being equal, there ought to be abundant crops next year.

The COURIER thanks many friends for New Year's gifts of subscription. The first man in 1894 was Elmer Walter, the second being Charles Eckhart, then came Daniel Welch, Mrs. Thomas Lipsett, J. E. Dermott and John Ludwig, the last being sent by Ira Brandon. The other names will appear on the regular list.

Court.

The big Grand Rapids case is going on yet, the pleas of the attorneys being finished Wednesday evening, and the case given to the jury. Jones, an engineer, was hurt by a water pipe at Muskegon and sues for damages. T. R. Marshall, Judge McClellan and W. L. Penfield are for Jones; and Judge Zollars and Judge Ninde for the road. This strong array of legal talent has made the case very interesting. Mr. Rose has presided with marked success and ability. The grand jury is at work with Prosecutor Butler and Deputy Prosecutor West at the helm and Jay Love as grand jury baliiff.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

WANTED.—Oak and Elm Hub Timber. Zimmerman Mfg. Co. 4t

Read carefully G. H. Yesbera's new advertisement. There are splendid bargains.

Cold noses speedily and pleasantly warmed by smoking Kessler Bros.' Bill Head.

Subscribe only for the authorized edition of the World's Parliament of Religions, by Dr. Barrows. Sold by M. B. Willis. 51-3t

Call for County Orders.

All orders in series L to No. 1750 are called. Interest stops on same Jan. 1st, 1894. R. SAWYER, Co. Treas.

Brand Splinter New Mouldings.

Finest finish and latest style. Any sized frames made to order. We can save you money. J. G. CLAPP.
51-3w

L. A. S. Entertainment.

The Ladies' Aid Society to the Sons of Veterans of this place will give an entertainment next Monday evening in the G. A. R. Hall. A program has been prepared and a good time is expected. All are cordially invited to come and spend a splendid evening. No admission.

Compliment to an Auburn Girl.

From the Ft. Wayne Gazette.

Among the many excellent features of the Sons of Veterans' entertainment at Standard hall the other night, was the finely executed recitations by Miss Olive Elson, of Auburn, who has achieved a proficiency in that art second to none in this part of the state. Her services are greatly in demand and especially by the old soldiers, whose organizations always secure her when possible, to call back to them in recitation pathetic memories of the long ago. Her father being one of the heroes of the war, she has been honored by being adopted a daughter of the 30th Indiana regiment. The Sons of Veterans are to be congratulated on having secured her for their anniversary, and many who heard her recitations have expressed themselves as anxious for her return.

Married.

January 2, 1894, at the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church at Hillsdale, Mich., by the Rev. J. A. Crawford, Mr. James H. Gordon and Mrs. Lizzie Kelley,

After a day or so spent with Mr. Gordon's people at Hillsdale and Angola, they will return to Auburn, and in a few days go to Omaha, Neb., their future home.

Mr. Gordon has been in business in Omaha for some years. Mrs. Kelley has for five years past been a resident in Auburn, where she has made many friends and has been also connected with the COURIER office, in which she has been a most faithful and interested assistant, and has acquired an ability and skill in the work rarely attained by any lady. The best wishes of our people and especially the workers in her church, and most decidedly of the COURIER folks, go with her and her husband to their new home in the west.

"Look Pleasant, Please."

We remember when we were a little curly haired boy, our father took us to a gallery to have our picture "taken." We stood in mortal agony and copper-toed boots for what seemed hours, while a jack-in-the-box was manipulated for our amusement. The picture was finally taken and the little old tin type is still in our possession. Many are the faces brought to mind by these same old tin types. But the tin types like the plain but fondly cherished faces they display, are of the past. "Sitting" for a picture is no longer painful or tedious. The art of photography has progressed as few others have, until it stands as near perfection as seems possible. J. G. Clapp, our Main street photographer, knows that to be abreast of the times, the finest results must be obtained, and now is endeavoring to out do his own excellent work, and has secured the assistance of a first class artist from the city. He found this necessary to take care of his immense business.

The Laundry as a Civilizer.

The above would make a good topic for an article written on the elevating effect of cleanliness. But we use it to call your attention to the fact that we have added to our enterprises one whose constant aim and labor will be in the course of purity. We refer to the Auburn Steam Laundry, of Ryan & Lane, mention of which we made last week. These young men have fitted up the laundry formerly conducted by L. E. Lane, with entirely new mechinery. Ther have a beautiful little two-horse steam engine, a large steam washer, steam dryer and wringer, steam starcher and steam ironer. The steam washer is about six feet in length by four or five in diameter, and is automatic in its operation. The steam starcher for collars and cuffs resembles a barrel churn and operates much on the same plan, the wash being placed in the barrel, the air-tight lid being screwed on and the barrel slowly revolving, end over end. Next is another machine that looks much like a creamery separater. This is the wringer. The goods being placed within the machine revolves at the rate of 12,000 per minute, and the water is by centrifugal force driven through the selve-like sides and the goods are literally pressed dry.

Then there is the steam ironer. The revolving iron has in its axes a gas burner, which is easily regulated. As the machine supplies any pressure desired and feeks itself, a very high polish can easily be produced. It was this machine that caused the delay last week. The company putting in the machine sent the wrong style of burner and the work had to wait until one could be ordered. They have a great deal of work already and we predict for them a big trade. If they do the right kind of work, there is no reason why work should be shipped out of town.

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Dr. Mott's Nervorine Pills are guaranteed and sold by Matheny & Gerke. 43tf

Always accepted with "many thanks,"--Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

Sweet, refreshing slumbers and pleasant dreams—the results obtained by smoking the Young America.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisements upon the inside pages of this paper, among which will be found some important announcements.

For pains in the chest there is nothing better than a flannel cloth saturated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of Mystic Cure, and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

The makers of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer offer all nervous suffers advice and consultation of the doctor free of charge. Inclose stamp to the J. W. Brant Co., Albion, Mich., or 42 Dey St. New York. Ask F. E. Davenport.

Now is the time when your catarrhal trouble begins to annoy and wreck the Respiratory and Nervous systems. Drs. Nusbaum & Nusbaum cure what they promise. Rooms especially fitted to treat diseases of nose and throat. Also diseases of women.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY:—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its actionu pon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cts. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. tf

"During the epidemic of lagrippe, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy took the lead here and was much better liked than other cough medicine." H. M. BANGS, druggist, Chatsworth, Ill. The grip is much the same as a very severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. This remedy is prompt and effectual and will prevent any tendency of the disease toward pneumonia. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR
BRINGS RESOLUTIONS of REFORM.

Just as successfully as mother earth brings forth fruit and flowers

The habits, purposes, successes and failures of the year 1893, will not be adequate to the great demands of the great year of 1894.

NO RESOLUTION OF REFORM

Is of more importance than in the purchase of the necessaries of life. Especially is this true when you endeavor to find out how much your money

WILL BUY

in the way of

GROCERIES!

We wish all our friends a Happy New Year, and especially invite everybody to call at the Family Grocery when in need of: Bread, Cakes, Groceries, Cigars, Tobacco, Confectionery, Soap Brooms, Flour, and General Merchandise. We will save you money.

IRA BRANDON.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The L. L. C. will meet Saturday with Mrs. Swineford.

The C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. DeWitt. Subjects, Modern Europe,—Rome. Paper by Miss Davis.

The S. H. G. will meet Saturday with Mrs. W. H. McIntyre. Roll Call, New year quotations. Historical program.

The young ladies of the M. E. church will give a poverty social Friday evening in the basement. All are cordially invited.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Jan. 9 with Mrs. Ellen Keeran at 7 p. m. All members requested to attend and all others invited.

Auburn Musical on Monday. Piano duet, Miss Grube and Miss Saxton; paper, Wildred Kline; Violin solo, Dr. Buchtel; vocal duet, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Nusbaum; song, Dr. Coats; singing, recitations.

The Ladies' Nickel Social of the Lutheran church will meet in the lecture room Friday evening. The election of officers will take place at the same time. All the members are requested to be present.

FOR THE FORT WAYNE TIMES.

The Triumphant March of Jehovah.

A paraphrase on Habakkuk III: 3.

BY S. W. WIDNEY.

From Teman's land Jehovah came,
From Paran's sunlit height;
From Sinai's summit—wrapt in flame,
He thundered in his might.

His glory deck'd each twinkling star,
O'er the celestial plains;
His praise rose from the teeming earth,
In loud undying strains.

High on mid air, the lightnings flash
Shot from oling from his hand,
And at his feet devouring plagues.
Went forth at his command.

He stood and scann'd the wide spread earth.
Nations affrighted fled,
Earth's tow'ring pillars were convulsed,
And Sirion bowed his head.

From Egypt's tents a piercing wail,
Told of affliction dire;
I saw the tribes of Midian quail
Before Jehovah's ire.

Why was it thus that Israel's God,
Clad in terrific might,
Forth in his flaming chariot rode,
With steeds of living light.

Did Jordan's wave provoke thy wrath,
Or Red Sea roaring wide,
That thou didst sweep that awful path,
Deep through their rolling tide?

The affrighted mountains trembling stood,
While thou wast passing by;
With terror groaned the hoary flood,
And raised his hands on high.

Full in the sight of Israel's host,
Thy dreadful bow was bent,
While through the tribes on Canaan's coast,
Thy glittering arrows went.

On high, the glorious king of day,
And gentle queen of night,
Wondering, paus'd on their shining way,
To view the awful sight.

Thy chosen Israel to save,
Thou walkedst through the deep—
On either hand the liquid wave,
Stood in a towering heap.

With brow of storm, and eye of fire,
Thou marchedst through through the land,
While on the heathen, ruin dire,
Was poured from thy right hand.

Auburn, Ia., Dec. 24th, 1893.

Nelson Prentiss.

Nelson Prentiss, of Albion, the venerable pioneer of Noble county, is lying very ill at his home there with little or no hopes of his recovery. He is over 80, and a severe attack of the grip left him too weak to rally. He has long been a leading figure in the county and one of the best posted of the early settlers there. He has also been prominent in educational works, and was county superintendent and school examiner many years. Later. A telegram from J. J. Martin, Tuesday, says he died at 2:20 p. m. that day. The funeral is at 2 p. m. to-day. His age was 80 years, 4 months and 17 days.

WE ARE

Pleased to announce to the good people of Auburn, and vicinity, that we are now ready to supply you with first-class

BOOTS & SHOES.

Please call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere.

It is No Trouble to Show Goods.

R. SHULL,
AUBURN, IND.

1894!

During the year 1894 we will be

ON DECK

With a full line of

China Ware, Glass Ware, Tin Ware, Wall Paper, Window Blinds, Notions, Novelties, 5 and 10 cent Goods.

Don't fail to come and see us for we will have the goods and sell them right.

OLDS BROS.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNES, - - PUBLISHER.

A MEAN man can get religion, but he can't stay mean and keep it.

NINETY-FIVE per cent. of vacant public lands are in the arid region.

THERE'S a good deal of difference between frankness, bluntness and brutality.

WHAT delightful experience for Dr. Depew and the Pope to find that each knew all about the other.

THE cat has nine lives, which shows that nature had a pretty fair idea of what the cat would have to go through.

LET a man wait fifteen minutes on on a corner for a friend, and in five minutes every window in the neighborhood has a woman behind it watching that man "who acts so suspicious."

NEWS of the amicable settlement of the Lehigh strike must be welcome tidings everywhere. The strike has involved all parties concerned in losses which cannot be reimbursed. The winter will be hard enough without a longer continuance of unnecessary idleness enforced by the strike.

ONE of the funniest stories about Bernhardt is her assertion that as an actress it was to the church and to the church alone that she owed her calling. Her youth was intoxicated by the music and the pomp of the liturgy, as by the solemn silence which prevailed while the preacher was in the pulpit, and at times she felt as if she was transfigured and was ascending direct to heaven.

"AFTER THE BALL" will no longer afflict the ears of residents of Mankato, Kan. The city council has so decreed. What a field Congress might make for itself if, instead of wrangling everlastingly over the tariff, silver and other issues which refuse to remain settled, it would resolve itself into a regulator of musical nuisances, following the example of the Mankota solons.

INSURANCE against blindness is, in England, at least, an actual fact. A company there will insure persons between the ages of sixteen and forty-five at the rate of three shillings a year. In the event of losing their sight, this sum entitles them to a sum of two hundred and sixty dollars a year, payable in quarterly instalments, for so long a period as the blindness continues.

"THE army is no longer a refuge for drunken loafers," says the superintendent of recruiting service. This remark was made in allusion to the great increase in the number of recruits offered within the last few months. But can it be true that the army has hitherto been "a refuge for drunken loafers?" Do the rules of the service authorize recruiting officers to enroll such persons? Does the remark apply to officers as well as men? Further information on the subject would be interesting.

BUTTER, now indispensable to the meal, was in ancient times used as an ointment. Herodotus, a Greek historian, is the first writer who mentions butter, B. C. 500. The Spartans used it as we do cold cream, and Plutarch tells how a hostess was sickened at the sight of one of her visitors, a Spartan, who was saturated in butter. The Scythians introduced butter to the Greeks, and the Germans to the Romans. But the Romans, like the Spartans, anointed their bodies with it.

THE fate of an empire has often been decided by indigestion. Everybody knows the famous remark about the relation of the length of Cleopatra's nose to the world's destiny. If Alexander had not drank one bowl of wine too much he might have prolonged his victories. And now, by eating three hard-boiled eggs at breakfast, Mr. Gladstone has narrowly escaped illustrating the fact that great issues hang on mighty small threads. The eggs prompted a severe bilious attack, which almost carried the good old patriarch into the "land o' the leal." If they had, they would have been infamous in history.

IT is high time that a new conception of Uncle Sam should take the place of the libelous caricature that has had its run for a century or more. Where is the artist who seeks fame? Let him give us a picture of Uncle Sam more liberally endowed with meat on his bones, with better fitting clothes and a trifle handsomer face, if possible. Cut his hair, trim up his whiskers and give him an eagle eye—two of 'em. Make his figure a sculptor's model of strength and beauty. Place in his right hand the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States as it is, and the Monroe doctrine. Then put a chip on his shoulder and let him alone.

FURTHER disclosures about the Bank of Rome implicate the government still more deeply. In order so keep up Italian bonds in European markets the bank squandered $5,000,000, which the government agreed to make good, and in an unsuccessful attempt to fulfill this immoral undertaking the bank was authorized to issue millions of duplicate notes, thus deceiving the public, robbing its depositors and patrons and corrupting the currency of the country. When a reigning house condescends to swindling its own subjects its days ought to be short, but Italy has not apparently energy or means enough even to rebel against betrayal and pillage of itself by its own rulers.

THE police of Paris are getting hold rapidly of the new anarchist society there. Such organizations always contain a number of informers ready, as soon as wanted, to tell lies if truth will not serve, and as willing to commit the infamies of anarchy as the infamy of informing. To such creatures conscience is an unknown thing. The bitter controversy raging in France over the latest outrage is largely due to knowledge that the police are now training the wretches to swear to any untruth that may seem necessary to gratify rival faction passion. Dupuy's official chair and the tenure of Casimir-Perier's ministry are alike imperiled, not only by the anarchist who threw the bomb but by the other anarchists, the informers, panders and instigators of perjury that have become for the hour active in the French capital.

SAMUEL N. CLIFFORD keeps a grocery store in Chicago, and, as all grocers should, he possesses sand. Whether he puts any of that sand in his sugar only he knows, and the presumption is that he does not. That he puts it into his daily actions he abundantly proved, for early the other morning three robbers appeared in his store. They considered themselves bold, bad men and were armed to the teeth with revolver, hatchet and club. They thought to intimidate Grocer Clifford, who was alone, to rifle his money drawer and run away with his cash. But the grocer would not have it that way. He defended both money-drawer and cash with so trusty a pistol and so true an aim that one of the robbers is dead and the other has a game leg as the result of a bullet inserted in it. All of which goes to show that when it comes to preventing robberies the police are a good thing, but a revolver and sand are better.

A SOUTH DAKOTA cowboy named De France, out of work, rode into Chadron, Neb., and in order to get food held up and robbed a mail carrier. He got just 1 cent. Judge Dundy, at Omaha, sentenced the poor fellow, on his plea of guilty, to imprisonment for life. The same judge some time ago sentenced Mosher, the Capitol National Bank robber of Lincoln, who had stolen nearly $1,000,000, to the penitentiary for five years. If the old adage be true, "It is a sin to steal a pin; it is a greater to steal a 'tater," Mosher should live to be as old as Methuselah and serve that life sentence. If the sentence of both these men is strictly according to law, and a judge has no discretion in extraordinary cases, either of premeditated and deliberate crime or of offenses of impulse as the result of destitution, then the law should be speedily changed. Abuses like these destroy all respect for law and go far to explain, if not to excuse, the claim that so-called legal justice among men is a fraud.

THE Erie Canal cost the State of New York $44,465,414, and Captain De Puy, who has given many years' study to canal improvement and transportation, claims that if the State will now complete the improvements recommended by Engineer Seymour in 1881, to dredge it out another foot and lengthen the locks, which will cost only $3,500,000, the canal will be able to carry all the grain of the Northwest at rates that could not be touched by the railroads. By this improved method of canal transportation a steamer or an electric boat could push one canal boat and pull two more, and with a continuous train, such as the canal would accommodate, there could be transported 30,685,920 bushels of grain every day, or 6,444,043,200 bushels in the 210 days of canal navigation each year. The cost of transportation would be reduced to about a quarter of a mill per ton per mile. According to the statistics furnished by the collector at Buffalo this past season of 1893 the Erie Canal carried 48,042,714 bushels of grain, 3,300,012 bushels of seed, or a total of 51,343,626 bushels. Canal stock is taking a fresh start everywhere, and Chicago's great ship canal is bound to take an important position in the transportation world, regulating the rates of other carriers as well as opening the way for water transportation from Chicago to the Gulf of Mexico.

The Frog Knew What to Do.

Some time ago the Landmark printed a story about a frog taking a stick in its mouth to prevent a snake from swallowing it, and later H. Fetter's story about a partridge holding a leaf over its body to hide itself from a hawk. A gentleman recently related to us another frog and snake story, equally as good if not better than either of those referred to, which is vouched for by W. A. Myers of Osbornville, Wilkes County, who, if we remember aright, was an eye-witness of the occurrence. The frog in this instance was a bullfrog. A blacksnake looking for his dinner had seized the frog by the hind leg and attempted to swallow it. The frog seized hold of a bamboo briar with its mouth and held on like grim death, while the snake tugged at its extremities. The snake wrapped its tail around a convenient shrub to give himself more purchase and leaned back to his work with a will, but it was no go. The frog held on to the bamboo briar, and as the snake could not pull him loose he finally gave it up as a bad job and retired from the field.—Slatesville Landmark.

GOING IN FOR GORES.

DADO-LIKE EFFECTS ALSO ON THE INCREASE.

Huge Balloon Sleeves, Ruffles, and Festooned Ribbon—The Overskirt Is Here, Having Crept Upon Us Like a Thief in the Night.

Many New Modes.

VERY many six-gored skirts fit closely to almost the knees. Three deep ruffles of lace, each apparently mounted upon festooned ribbon, cover the skirt to the foot and emphasize its sudden flare into fullness. The bodice to be worn with such a skirt is all insertion, ribbon and frills, and the whole thing is a perfect frenzy of fuzzy fabric. Nine-gored skirts are delicate, butterfly things, and especially suit women with hips just a bit too large. There is something about the swish of the fullness of a nine-gored skirt that makes a woman seem made to dance in a butterfly gown and be adored and petted forever. And if a few more gores, more or less, is going to thoroughly imbue men with that idea, women will go in for gores. Dado-like effects increase. Broad bands surround the skirt at the foot, and these are enriched with braiding, festooning and designs till all a woman needs is a mantelpiece and a few windows to be a good imitation of her own parlor wallpaper.

The first skirt pictured in this column is trimmed with two gathered ruffles, each forming a small head and ornamented with jet passementerie. The material used in the model is a sage-green flowered woolen goods. The bodice has a silk yoke of silk illusion covered with black lace, and is edged with a fancy passementerie of jet beads. Under the arms are strings of the beads attached in the center of the front and back to the passementerie. The sleeves have two puffs of the goods covered with black lace, and the long cuffs are made in the same manner.

SLEEVES WHICH MAY OUTLAST THEIR DRESS.

Gigot sleeves of jeweled brocade and in color contrasting with the rest of the gown are used with elegant dressee. Indeed, some very elaborate sleeves are sold ready made, and material is purchased for the rest of the gown after the sleeves are secured. A gown so designed was built around a pair of salmon brocade sleeves that were thickly sewn with emeralds. The material of the rest of the gown was a silk of emerald tone shot with pink, an overdress of emerald velvet lined with salmon silk being worn. This is but one piece of evidence to the fact that you may have a gown of shreds and patches and be very swell indeed; that is, you may devise a gown of the bits left over from other dresses, and if the pieces be beautiful and if they be combined with grace and art, the resulting gown is one to rave over and to excite the envy of every one. That accomplished, the gown's a success.

The huge balloon sleeves seen in the next illustration are entirely of brown velvet, and on a dress which is new in every part, but the license granted this winter for using again parts of costumes sees many a pair of handsome sleeves figuring effectively beneath different shoulder puffs and ruffs from the ones originally worn with them. The fabric of this dress is real-brown broad cloth, the bodice having short draped basques and a round velvet yoke finished with three figured satin ruffles. These ruffles are repeated at the foot of the bell skirt.

HERE IT IS.

One of the most innocuous forms of overdress is one simulated by a draping of ribbon from a ribbon belt. Each fall of ribbon is twisted to a point in front and tied in a pretty butterfly bow at the side. Such an affair will, of course, catch on every available corner, but what has a pretty girl to do but catch things? But what all these innocent and pretty looking decoys have been leading women up to for the past few months is well shown in the third illustration. Here it is, as the sideshowman would say, "as large as life, as plain as day, twice as natural and even more alluring"—the overskirt. Ugly as we thought it last spring, it has crept upon us till dresses like this model are offered, made and worn. The materials are rich, and it is yet to be seen whether the women who cannot trig themselves out in costly fabrics will adopt this nightmare mode of the summer and fall. The underskirt is made of beige velvet and is banded around the bottom with gold galloon. The overskirt is cloth, plain back and front and forming draped points at the sides, with the cloth taken bias. The bodice has a draped plastron and is trimmed with velvet revers that form epaulettes at the shoulders and a round collar in back. From the shoulder seam to the bottom comes a band of galloon, but only down the front. Extending from either side and coming over the passementerie band are two jacket flaps, ornamented with fancy gold buttons. The standing collar is made of folded cloth and the belt consists of a band of galoon. The sleeves have a large puff and a long, tight cuff.

A word of warning should be spoken to the woman who has passed from very slender girlhood into a prettily plump and rounded young matronhood.

SURRENDERING GIRLISHNESS WILLINGLY.

She is more than likely to go on designing gowns for herself as she was, rather than as she is. As she is now, if she puts herself into a simple round waist of soft silk and an unlined skirt with a deep hem and a sash belt, she is going to look as if she were trying to dress like a girl; whereas, if she will adopt the pretty gored skirts and fluttery overdress, and the trimly fitted bodice with crisp frills and furbelows, she will look like a girl, only that people will add that she is so much prettier than she used to be when she was "so very thin." Women seldom wish to dress inappropriately, but they often do not realize the changes time slowly makes. They fail to seize upon the fashion that suits each stage of their beauty, and that each stage shows them more lovely than in the preceding one. For a woman to cling to the fashion she has outgrown is to betray herself as growing old, while to change her mode of dress to suit her own changes is to prove herself developing year by year into more and more gracious beauty. A tasteful model for her who is bidding good-by to slenderness is the artist's fourth offering. As sketched it is made throughout of velvet in a violet shade, trimmed with the same goods of almond color and with rich embroidery. The use of velvet for trimming is now so general and this model is so well designed for its use in that way that it would be hardly the thing to make the costume without having velvet for yoke, belt and sleeves. But the dress itself might safely come from less expensive goods if desired. The deep yoke of almond velvet is outlined with two rows of embroidery and is gathered at the neck. The remainder is made of Parma violet velvet with a round belt of the same hooking beneath a bow in front. The sleeves have a full puff with a small frill banded with gold embroidery. The gored skirt has a fan panel of pleated almond-green velvet at the left side, edged with gold embroidery, and a band of the same comes up the seam on the right side.

"PRETTIER THAN SHE USED TO BE".

In the last picture there is shown a bodice well suited to the young matron just warned against the appearance of overyouthfulness. It shows a pretty arrangement of draped mousseline de soie. It is cut in a slight V in front and hooks in the center, each side of the draped plastron being finished with a small head. In order to hide the hooks and eyes a serpentine ruching made of the mousseline and ribbon comes down the middle. The straps over the shoulders are made of cream guipure lace over black velvet and are alike in back and front. Each end is finished with a pleated piece of mousseline headed by three rows of black baby ribbon and finished at the waist with bows of the same. The sleeves are enormous puffs caught up at the inner seam with two ribbon bows and finished by pleated bands of mousseline de soie.

Young matrons are wearing picturesque gowns with very heavy petticoats of brocade; over these are looped skirts of rich silk of a color to match one of the shades in the brocade. This overskirt opens wide in front and is looped most coquettishly at sides and back, the petticoat showing all around at the foot. The bodice is pointed deeply in front and is short at sides and back, the overskirt being fulled to it. A deep stomacher of the brocade makes the point in front. Great crescents of brocade are set on each shoulder over the low puffs of silk that make the sleeves, which puffs are the size of a prize pumpkin and end at the elbow, a fall of rich lace finishing them. Deep yokes of lace, square front and back, have at the shoulders a lace frill set in so full right at the very top of the shoulder that the folds fall well to each side like a cape and outline the sides of the yoke. This garniture may be worn with a low neck evening gown, and turn it into a reception or dinner rig and not spoil it a bit for a return to its original use.

Copyright, 1893.

A VAGABOND in Stepney who had become so low that he could not get a glass of anything to drink, pinned a temperance badge to his coat, in the hope that somebody would ask him to "take something" under the mistaken impression that he would refuse. But the ruse did not succeed. He was too well known.

DON'T CARRY COUNTERFEITS.

It Is Contrary to Law and May Entail Disagreeable Consequences.

"A man better have a live rattlesnake in his pocket than a counterfeit dollar carried as a pocket piece," said Inspector Lawrence of the Treasury Department to a Minneapolis Journal man when talking about the carrying of coins or bills which one knows to be counterfeit.

"A great many men do not know the danger they run in this thing," he said. "Suppose, for instance, that a man has a counterfeit dollar which he has had for years—one that he has picked up somewhere and carries as a pocket piece. He goes into a store one day, buys some article or other, and gets a lot of silver coin in change. He goes from the store, say to a saloon, where he buys a drink, or to some drug store to get something or other—it matters not where he goes provided there is one of these 'smart' young fellows behind the counter who is always ready to take somebody up on something or other.

"Paying for his purchase with one of the dollars the man behind the bar, or the counter, as the case may be, flings the dollar back with the remark that it is counterfeit. The purchaser, somewhat abashed and not liking the eying of the crowd around, begins to make excuses to the effect that he did not know it was counterfeit, and so on, and the clerk, who is anxious to make a record as a counterfeit detective, suddenly calls in the police and the man is arrested and searched. On his person is found the other counterfeit dollar, and the possession of the two dollars is prima facia evidence that he intended to pass both of them, and that man hasn't got enough friends in the world to keep him out of the penitentiary. True, it looks hard, but that man had no business carrying around a counterfeit coin for a pocket piece or any other reason. It is a plain violation of the law to carry counterfeit money around with you, something which many people do not realize.

"Suppose I happen to know that a man, a cashier in one of the banks in Minneapolis or St. Paul, for instance, has a counterfeit $20 bill in his possession. I go into that bank, call him by name, and ask him for that bill. He says he hasn't got it. 'But,' I rejoin, 'you did have such a bill yesterday in your possession, for I have the testimony of two reputable men that they saw you show it around to some parties. Now I want that bill; you have no business with it.' He demurs and makes various excuses and does not give me any satisfaction. What do you suppose I do? I go out and get a search warrant and I go through every dollar of money in that bank, dollar by dollar or bill by bill, until I find that counterfeit $20 bill and then I confiscate it. There used to be no law against this sort of thing, but there is one now, and the public generally ought to know the facts in the case. And formerly it was not an offense to make the dies which are used in counterfeiting—anybody could make them and anybody could have them in their possession so long as they were not used, but that has all been changed now."

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE SEA.

Signs that Terrify Jack Tars Who Believe in Witchcraft.

A sense of unreality, weirdness, and sometimes of uncanny feeling actuates nearly every one connected with the sea, this being particularly strong on a moonlight night, when the water of the ocean looks more cruel if, withal, more beautiful than at any other time. Then it is that a ring around the moon is frequently to be observed, and the sailors believe that this is a sure sign of bad weather; while Longfellow, in his "Golden Legend," interprets it thus:

I pray thee put in yonder port,
For I fear a hurricane;
Last night the moon had a golden ring,
And to-night no moon we see.

We have often noticed how quaint the fisher-folks are who live in solitary places near the ocean, and this is true to a greater or less extent of all dwellers by the sea. It is believed on Cape Cod and in many other districts along the New England coast that a sick man cannot die until the ebb tide begins to run. Watchers by beds of sickness anxiously note the change of the tide, and if the patient lives until the turn, he will live until the ebb. The best educated and most intelligent people on the New England coast are not entirely free from this superstition, and to them there is a vivid meaning in Dickens' description of the death of Barkis, "And it being high water, he went out with the tide."

The belief that the ninth or tenth wave was more powerful than the others has existed since Ovid's time, who says: "The wave that is now coming o'ertops all the others; 'tis the wave that comes after the ninth and before the tenth." Even nowadays at the seashore you will hear people counting the waves and saying that the next one will be the biggest. Fishermen on our own coast think that the swell sometimes noticed during a fog is caused by it, and they call it the fog-swell, while in reality it is simply the incoming tide; but fog is associated with such terrible disasters in the minds of fishermen that it is little wonder it is believed to have power to raise the waters of the sea.

Woman, though bringing good luck to man on land, is proverbially the opposite on the sea, and at a certain place the waters of the ocean are reputed to enrage themselves at the sight of a woman. Storm-raising witches are quite well known to New England. There was Polly Twitchell, who lived in Casco Bay in the seventeenth century. She was said to raise storms, wreck ships, and put to sea in severe gales. Goody Cole, in Whittier's "Wreck of Rivermouth," prophesies disaster. The skipper says:

I'm scary always to see her shake
Her wicked head.

The ballad recounts that she was jeered at by the pleasure party, and in revenge predicted the loss of the boat, which occurred soon after.—Boston Transcript.

Utah.

Utah has 300,000 acres of arable lands, watered by 1,000 miles of canals. One canal, that of Bear river, cost $2,000,000. The irrigated lands produce annually 6,000,000 bushels of grain. There are over 3,000,000 cattle, and the mines in twenty years have produced $150,000,000 in gold and silver.

DIED OF LOVE.

A Traveler's Pathetic Account of an Incident in Bird Life.

Dr. Junker, a scientific explorer, traveled through Africa without armed escorts, and accompanied only by his native attendants and carriers. He had brought from west of the Makua a pair of red-tailed gray parrots. Their wings being clipped, they were allowed to go about freely in the inclosure; but the queen, who was specially attached to Dr. Junker, would perch half the day together by his side.

Unfortunately the pair came to a tragic end. The kingbird had somehow fallen from the perch and received internal injury. Seeing him on the ground, bleeding at the beak, I brought him to my couch and laid him first on one side, then on the other, to give him a little ease; but all to no purpose, and in about an hour he lay dead, with outstretched wings.

Meanwhile, the queen parrot, which had probably witnessed the accident, came in and began to behave in a most extraordinary manner. First she imitated to the life all the movements of her dying consort; then she crouched at some little distance, changing her position whenever he did, sighing, laying her head now on one side, now on the other; in short, acting exactly as if she were suffering from the same injury that had befallen her mate.

I kept my eyes riveted on the inseparable pair, and my amazement soon changed to a feeling of deep sympathy. The paroxysm of impulsive imitation lasted long enough to produce a marked effect on the organic functions of the little creature. Her grief, or whatever inexplicable influence it may have been, caused so profound a disturbance in the system that the vital action suddenly ceased while she was yet mourning the loss of her companion.

Without heeding the risk, she had drawn so near the fire that I was obliged at last to move her to a place of safety. But the end was not already at hand. She refused the most tempting morsels, and within twenty minutes of her partner's death she had breathed her last gasp.

What are we to make from this far from solitary case? By what name shall we inscribe the puzzle? Imitative impulse, instinct, heart-broken sorrow for the dear one—what shall we say caused the death of our little gray parrot?

A White House Mistress.

"When, then, will you marry me?"

It was the hundredth time of asking, and the first time of showing impatience.

"I will marry you, sir, when you are elected judge!"

The young man's eyes flushed sharply.

"And I," he retorted, "will have you when your father is elected Governor of Tennessee!"

"A Rowland for an Oliver." The speakers were David T. Patterson, a clever young Democratic lawyer of Tennessee, and Martha Johnson, eldest daughter and child of Andrew Johnson, who was at that time the apparently hopeless candidate of his party for the Governor of his State. The time was the night before the election, and the place the parlor of the Johnson homestead at Greenville, Tennessee, writes M. V. Moore in a delightful sketch, with portrait, of Mrs. Patterson the only surviving member of the immediate family of Andrew Johnson, in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Whether both these young people had private knowledge of the Democratic victory which was to sweep their State on the morrow, or whether they were merely amusing themselves with "lovers' perjuries," for Jove's and their own amusement, cannot be known, as the wedding day was settled for them by the result of the election, and their marriage was solemnized at their Greenville home on the thirteenth of December, 1856, David T. Patterson having been elected judge on the same ticket with his future father-in-law.

Faithful Maoris.

That was a touching story told in the papers the other day about the accident in the Motu bush, twenty-four miles from Opotiki, says the Aukland News. A party were clearing brush, when a European got his leg broken. One of the Maoris bound up his leg with a skill that subsequently elicited the praise of the surgeon; then five white and five Maoris started to carry the wounded man to Opotiki by the Motu road, which for miles is a mere ledge on the side of a precipice. The rivers were in flood and the fords washed away. The waters were up to the necks of the bearers, and the tallest of the men had to hold the stretcher up above their heads. They had to start in the evening, when tired by a hard day's work.

The Maoris behaved like men and heroes, some of them taking a double turn in the carrying when from excessive fatigue their white companions were unequal to it. When they got to the journey's end they fell on the ground and went fast asleep. I have known of a good many accidents in the bush at the Thames and elsewhere, and the behavior of men on these occasions is really an honor to human nature.

And an incident such as I have narrated shows how much of the heroic there is in the nature of the Maori.

Waves Like Mountains.

The largest waves are seen off Cape Horn, between latitude 55 south and longitude 105 west, rising to forty-six feet in height and 765 feet from crest to crest.

Rich in Remains.

There have been more remains of mastodons and other extinct mammoths found in Ichtucknee River, Florida, than in any other stream in the world.

IN the foot-ball season the college student becomes more and more what the insurance companies call "an undesirable risk."

ANOTHER ROYAL WEDDING.

Czarowitz of Russia to Marry the Daughter of the Prince of Wales.

Announcement has been officially made of the betrothal of the Grand Duke Nicholas, eldest son and heir-apparent of the Czar of Russia, and Princess Victoria, second daughter of the Prince of Wales. This will make a triple matrimonial connection between the royal families of Russia and Great Britain. To begin with, the Czarina, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Princess Alexandra of Wales, mother of the bride-to-be, are sisters, while the sister of the Czar is the wife of the Duke of Edinburgh, second son of Queen Victoria. Should the Czarowitz outlive his father his English-born wife, if she too is living, will become Empress of Russia.

THE CZAROWITZ. PRINCESS VICTORIA.

The Grand Duke Nicholas was born May 18, 1868, while the natal day of Princess Victoria was July 6 of the same year. The Czarowitz bears a striking resemblance to his cousin and future brother-in-law, the Duke of York.

Princess Victoria has had little opportunity to distinguish herself. She is—as all princesses are conceded to be—amiable, and by courtesy at least is beautiful.

LONDON'S THATCHED COTTAGE.

Quaint and Picturesque Relic Which Is Soon to Be Torn Down.

The last thatched cottage in London is about to be torn down. Few Londoners even are aware of the existence of this quaint relic of a time when life was a much simpler thing than it is to-day. But the almighty pound crushes out sentiment in the modern Babylon just as the almighty dollar does in this country, and as a consequence this unique object will in the near future give place to the ever-extending piles of brick and mortar.

LONDON'S LAST THATCHED COTTAGE.

The cottage is set in a little bit of country scenery hedged in by the prosaic environment of a London district. It stands on some ground adjoining the disused grave-yard in connection with Paddington Green and adjoins St. David's Welsh Church. The building consists of two dwellings with rough-cast walls, wooden porches and quaint little windows. The thatched roof is large, and from it peep out several dormer windows. There is a fair-sized piece of ground attached to the cottage, and some trees grow therein, giving it, in a measure, the surroundings which a thatched roof naturally suggests.

Maids in Their Nighties.

A astonishing exhibition of girlish charms at the Opera-House last evening furnished a theme for an immense lot of gossip in this town today, says a Patterson (Pa.) special to the Philadelphia Record. A camp of the P. O. S. of A. gave a benefit entertainment, the chief feature of which, according to the official program, was a "nightgown drill." This drill was just what the name implied.

The lights in the room were slightly lowered to give the scene a more realistic effect. The audience sat breathless for a minute or two, and then from the wings of the stage emerged a vision of maiden loveliness. A pretty girl of interesting years walked slowly before the footlights. Her only robe, so far as the charmed spectators could see, was a white flowing gown of the simplest make. The soft material clung nicely to the prettily rounded shoulders. Those delicate curves of the young woman's physique seemed all the more entrancing beneath this bewitching garb. Her hair fell loose upon her shoulders. Her snow-white feet and ankles twinkled beneath the filmy lace at the bottom of the gown.

Hardly had the audience recovered its breath before another girl, dressed just as the first, appeared. Then another and another, until seventeen bewitching girls, with loose-flung hair and twinkling feet, were upon the stage. Each young lady carried a lighted candle. They marched back and forth across the stage and performed various evolutions. They refused to respond to an encore.

Saving Crops in Oregon.

Farming is business and the crops must be saved in the far West. A visitor at the Polk Butler settlement on Des Chutes Ridge, Ore., a few days ago, noticing that the schoolhouse was still closed and the fall term, long overdue, has not yet begun, asked when school would commence. "Not till the wheat gets dry," was the reply. "Why, what's the school to do with the wheat?" was the natural query. "We're drying it in the schoolhouse," was the explanation. Wet wheat was spread all over the schoolhouse floor, from three to five feet deep.

In Badgerdom.

Wisconsin raises every year $105,000,000 worth of farm products. The oat crop is 43,000,000 bushels; corn, 38,000,000; wheat, 21,000,000; barley, 12,000,000. The live stock is valued at $80,000,000. Over 10,000 square miles are underlaid by mineral deposits.

LILLIAN RUSSELL'S success is pronounced. All the cigarette dudes are stuck on "Nicotine."

A Twenty-Pointer Deer.

Lord Burton's magnificent twenty-pointer deer, killed recently in Glenquoich Forest, proves to have been an exceptional one in several particulars. The stag, which is not at all remarkable for size of body in proportion to its massive head, was shot through the back at a distance of 300 yards, and it is said that this is the only known instance of a twenty-pointer having ever been killed in a Scotch forest. One eighteen pointer killed in 1890 comes nearest. Lord Burton's trophy has ten perfectly developed tines on each of its magnificent brow antlers and the top of each horn forms a massive cluster of seven palmated tines, each point matching in every detail with the corresponding one opposite. It is seldom that such magnificent antlers are found nowadays.—London Telegraph.

In Torment.

Surely if there are unhappy sufferers on earth upon whom the angels look down in pity it is the people agonized with rheumatism. They are in torment the year round, with little or no respite. Now, there is no evidence to which publicity has been given in behalf of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters more concurrent and convincing than that in behalf of its efficacy in incipient rheumatism. And since rheumatism and rheumatic and simple gout are among the most obstinate complaints to which this admirable remedy is adapted, and since they all have a fatal tendency to attack the vital organs, the advisability of an early use of the Bitters, when they manifest themselves, must be apparent. Efficacious, and most signally so, are the Bitters, too, in malarial diseases, kidney and bladder inactivity, constipation, dyspepsia, liver complaint and nervous ailments.

Rheumatism vs. Gout.

Mrs. H.——: "Now, doctor" said an old lady somewhat impatiently, "I want you to tell me if you can cure my rheumatism."

Dr. W——, judging from the tone that evasion was out of the question; thus replied:

"Madam, how do you know whether you have rheumatism or gout?"

"Well, doctor, what is the difference between them?"

Dr. W——, with a comical twinkle and a solemn countenance—Madam, rheumatism is the result of original sin: gout is actual transgression."

History does not relate what assistance the old lady gave the doctor in coming to a definite diagnosis.—Boston Gazette.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last fifteen years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Lamp Rock of Central Asia.

On the shores of Lake Rangkul, in the Cashgar Mountains, in Central Asia stands the famous "Lamp Rock of Asia," which is so called from a cave in its side from which a constant stream of pale greenish light is emitted. Ney Elias, the English adventurer, who passed it in 1885, thinks it possible that the light is due to some phosphorescent mineral in the sides of the cavern near its opening. The natives of that section have never attempted to investigate the matter, each seeming content with the story told by his father, which is this: "The cave is the dwelling place of a demon, who guards vast treasures stored there, and the light is from a diamond worn in band around his forehead.—St. Louis Republic.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should not be neglected. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are a simple remedy, and give prompt relief. 25 cts. a box.

WIFE—Poor Mr. Zaneigh! I hear that his family troubles are preying upon his mind. Husband—O, if that's so, they'll soon be at an end. Wife—How? Husband—They'll starve to death.

GIVE ATTENTION to the first symptoms of a Lung Complaint, and check the dreaded disease in its incipiency, by using Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, a safe, old fashioned remedy for all Affections of the Lungs and Bronchia.

WHEN two people get mad at each other, each begins to think of how much he has done for the other.

Hatch's Universal Cough Syrup takes right hold. Sold everywhere. 25c.

THE trouble usually is that a man likes too many women, and a woman likes one man too well.

SEE "Colchester" Spading Boot ad. in other column.

IT is very rare that any one borrows a Bible, though this does not indicate that every one owns one.

Beautiful birds and fragrant flowers are nature's charm, but a divinely lovely complexion comes from the use of Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

TELL us a woman's age and we can tell you what she prays for.

IT FILLS THE BILL

—a dose of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Sick Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly and permanently cured.

Glen Easton, Marshall Co., W. Va.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.:
Dear Sir—Two years ago I was pale and emaciated, food fermented in my stomach. A physician pronounced my case "Catarrh of the Stomach," but he could not help me. I lived a month without solid food and when I tried to eat I would vomit. At this time I began taking Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and in two weeks I was decidedly better. I am now in good health, and never felt better in my life. I have a better color, eat more, and have no distress after eating—having gained thirteen pounds since I began taking them.

Yours truly, MARY ANGUISH.

MISS ANGUISH.

The Plan of Selling Medicines Through Dealers, ON TRIAL, IS PECULIAR TO PIERCE

CATARRH IN CHILDREN

For over two years my little girl's life was made miserable by a case of Catarrh. The discharge from the nose was large, constant and very offensive. Her eyes became inflamed, the lids swollen and very painful. After trying various remedies, I gave her S.S.S. The first bottle seemed to aggravate the disease, but the symptoms soon abated, and in a short time she was cured.

DR. L. B. RITCHEY, Mackey, Ind.

Our book on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free. SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Ely's Cream Balm WILL CURE CATARRH

Price 50 Cents.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

THIS IS THEIR DEPARTMENT OF THE PAPER.

Quaint Sayings and Cute Doings of the Little Folks Everywhere, Gathered and Printed Here for All Other Little Ones to Read.

The Burro Balked.

Newport, R. I., proudly boasts a burro whose stubbornness has seldom if ever been equalled by one of his tribe. The other day this burro, while crossing the track of an electric street railroad, took it into his head to balk. After beating him until he was tired the owner of the burro, a boy, dismounted and tried to lead him. But the burro braced his legs and held back bravely. Then the boy got behind and tried to push, with equally poor success. He pushed on one side; he pushed on the other, but it was all without avail and the discouraged boy finally "gave the crowd leave" to pelt his balking property. This was done with a heartiness that would have appealed to a less hardened animal, but Mr. Burro resolutely kept his place upon the track, not flinching even when a car came along with a clatter of its gong. Taking in the situation and not wishing to kill the burro the motorman stopped his car after it had bumped the animal pretty hard. But the burro didn't care. Then an attempt was made to start the car slowly, but the obstruction only braced himself the stouter.

Just as a dynamite cartridge was about to be sent for some one of the passengers hit upon a happy plan. Two men took hold of each of the burro's four legs and lifted him off the track as though he were a heavy table. They set him down upon one side of the car, which then proceeded upon its way. Seeing himself foiled the burro allowed his young master to mount and then trotted off as peacefully as though he were the best behaved burro in Rhode Island.

WOULDN'T MOVE EVEN FOR A CAR.

The Life of American Sailors.

Whether or not the distinguished author of "The Wreck of the Grosvenor" and the "Merchant Sailor" shares the mistaken idea of superior inducements on American ships I am unable to say; but he certainly implies that he does by the striking comparison that he draws in quoting a certain ship-owner who said in effect that the disgraceful condition of things on the British ship forty years ago was driving the flower of Britain's youthful seamen to the United States, as to the Mecca of gentlemanly officers and seamen. That statement is forty years old according to Scribner's Magazine. At that time American ships were manned by good seamen and officered by educated men, while Great Britain was protesting against the compulsory examination of officers.

To-day conditions are almost wholly reversed, and we find British officers necessarily holding a certificate that proves some degree of education and the American ships officered by bullies worse than the "typical Blowhard," worse even than the most brutal of imaginary Ducklings and with absolutely no credentials to merit of any kind. The other day an American ship arrived in San Francisco from New York in which the second mate had wounded one of the crew in seventeen places on the head, besides biting a piece out of his arm and trying to gouge his eyes out—a typical second mate to serve as a hero to a sea story. This is no exceptional case, but an almost every-day occurrence, which the Shipping Commissioners' records will prove. These cases of brutality go unpunished, otherwise they would not occur so frequently.

An Easy Electrical Experiment.

Take a glass, expose it to the fire so that it shall be perfectly dry, and place it upside down upon a table. Afterward take a tray, perfectly dry, and place it upon the glass in such a way that it shall preserve its equilibrium. Finally take a sheet of paper slightly smaller than the tray, heat it, and rub it rapidly with a brush, it will become quickly electrified. Then place it upon the tray. An electrical machine will thus have been constructed without any expense. If the finger be brought near the tray, a spark will appear. This spark will be so much brighter and the series of sparks will be so much the longer in proportion as the glass and tray are dryer. If, while the sparks are being drawn from the tray, the room be darkened, these sparks will appear extremely brilliant.

Engineering Item.

The total heat of combustion of one pound of hydrogen is 62,032 units, and of one pound of carbon 14,500 units. It requires 1,213.4 units of heat to convert water at a temperature of zero to steam of 100 pounds pressure, but as steam is generally generated from water averaging about sixty degrees, the total heat required to convert it into steam is only 1,153.4 units, and one pound of bituminous coal of average quality contains heat enough to convert twelve and one-half pounds of water at this temperature into steam of 100 pounds absolute pressure.

An Explanation.

Dick Hicks—Did papa buy me a little sister and brother? Mrs. Hicks—Yes, dear. Dick Hicks—And is that how he comes to be always broke? Mrs. Hicks—Ye-es, dear.—Truth.

A Mean Trick on Baby.

Mr. Noopop—My baby cries all night. I don't know what to do with it. Mr. Knowitt—I'll tell you what I did. As soon as our baby commenced to cry, I used to turn on all the gas. That fooled him. He thought it was broad daylight and went to sleep.—Life.

A Smart School.

A facetious schoolmaster asked the class in arithmetic, "If 5½ rods make a perch, how many will make a pickerel?" At which a smart boy responded, "Please tell us first, if two hogsheads make a pipe, how many will make a meerschaum?"—New York Ledger.

His Scheme.

"Hush, Willie, hush!" said Mr. Hicks to his noisy son, as they sat at dinner. "You are noisy enough for six boys." "Well, give me turkey enough for three boys and I'll keep the others quiet," said Willie.—Harper's Bazar.

He Thought He Knew.

Teacher—Tommy, what do you know about the great American desert? Tommy—Please, ma'am, it's pie.—Judge.

TO TEACH AND SHELTER.

W. H. Webb's Magnificent Academy and Home for Shipbuilders.

Through the philanthropy of one of New York's most prominent and highly respected merchant princes, William Henry Webb, one of the grandest institutions ever erected to aid the aged and needy and to teach the young will in a short time be dedicated. The institution is the Webb Academy and Home for Shipbuilders at Fordham Heights. It cost $500,000 and is endowed with $1,500,000 more. The institution contains apartments for aged and needy shipbuilders and a school where a competent staff of instructors will teach young men all the arts of shipbuilding. The home has accommodations for 125 shipbuilders and their wives, and the school will accommodate thirty students, who will receive tuition and board free.

WILLIAM H. WEBB.

Commodore Webb, who erected the home, is now 78 years old. He entered the shipbuilding trade when 16 years old, and since then has built more ships than any man who has been in the business before him. He built vessels for Italy and Russia, and sold one which he had built in war times to the Emperor of France. All told he turned out 150 vessels. Mr. Webb believes that more American ships should be built, and to encourage American shipbuilding is part of the object of the institution which he has founded.

WEBB'S HOME FOR SHIPBUILDERS.

PARISIAN DRESSES.

Hunting Now a Great Fad with French Women.

What a French woman does she does with a vim. She was second to her English sister in taking to the bicycle, but she now transcends her, and her latest notion is to ride to the theater on a wheel and have it checked like an umbrella or an overcoat. Now the French girl has gone wild over hunting, and all day long she prowls through the woods, with her gun slung over her shoulder, looking for game and occasionally hitting

FRENCH HUNTING COSTUMES.

PARISIAN STREET COSTUMES.

it. Of her hunting costume we give two illustrations. We also present illustrations of two street costumes which are very attractive.

For the Future Settler.

It is said there is room behind the Olympic range in western Washington for 8,000 homesteaders, in addition to the 4,000 or 5,000 already settled there. As yet the country is cut off from the outside world, is sparsely settled and is as much of a wilderness as Kentucky was in the days of Daniel Boone.

Colorado's Contribution.

Colorado has 3,000,000 acres under artificial irrigation. The farm products exceed $12,000,000 a year; there are 1,500,000 cattle, 2,000,000 sheep; the coal field cover 40,000 square miles; the supplies of marble, granite and other building stone are inexhaustible.

THEY DANCE AND GAMBLE.

Two of the Chief Occupations of the Ute Indians.

Five dances are numbered in the catalogue of the Ute Indians of Colorado, and each one of these has a sacred or mystic significance. The Dog Dance is danced by men only and is a kind of war dance. The Tea Dance is danced by men and women and the Ghost Dance, similar to the Sioux dance of the same name, is also danced by both sexes. The Lame Horse Dance is exclusively for women and the Bear Dance for both men and women. The latter, which takes place in March, is for the purpose of assisting the bears in the mountains to recover from hibernation, to provide food for the living bears and the spirit bears in the happy hunting grounds, to charm the dancers against dangers from bears, and is besides a social function.

WAR DANCE DRESS

Besides dancing, hunting and gambling are the chief occupations of the Utes. Gambling has a great fascination for them and many a man has lost everything he possessed, even his clothes, by betting on horse races, foot races or the Mexican game of monte. The women are as inveterate gamblers as the men.

SAFETY LOCK FOR POCKETBOOK

An Ingenious Device for Protecting the Money One Carries.

The various kinds of pocketbooks are innumerable, and it seems almost impossible that anything new in regard to them could be conceived by the human brain. Yet some inventor has launched upon the trade a purse which at first sight presents no marked peculiarities. Externally one cannot help but notice a total absence of hook or spring for locking the purse, and no matter how much one may press or pull, it does not open. The hand which holds the article in question in the accompanying sketch furnishes the key for the solution of the puzzle. To open it requires that it be held as indicated, and raised on a level with the eyes. Through this elevation a small counterweight is displaced, which is attached to the hook of the lock, and by which two small springs are released, thus allowing the purse to open automatically.

A NEW POCKETBOOK.

Obscure Prescription.

A prescription written by a well-known physician in New York recently, says the New York Tribune, gave the following directions: "First day take three pills at intervals of an hour; second day take two pills at intervals of an hour; third day take one and then stop."

This is certainly obscure, and as a matter of fact the wording of the prescription came near causing serious trouble. The direction for the third day would be likely, of course, to make any one pause to consider what was meant by the whole, but, if that last direction had not been given it would have been easy for some people to interpret the directions a "take three pills every hour during the first day and two pills every hour during the second day." What was meant, of course, was that three pills were to be taken on the first day, one pill at a time, with an hour between every pill, two pills on the second day, one at a time, with an hour between each, and one pill only on the third day.

But there certainly was danger in the directions to people who were either not quick to grasp a point or were careless in following the whole meaning. Suppose, for instance, some one had undertaken to read the directions on the installment plan, so to speak—that is, suppose he had thought "Sufficient to the day is the evil thereof," and had considered that it would be time enough to study the direction for the second day when the second day came. Then he might have taken three pills every hour for twenty-four hours, and the coroner could have done the rest.

But to be serious, it is desired here to impress upon physicians that no room should be left for doubt as to their meaning, and upon those who read the directions of physicians' prescriptions that they should read the whole carefully, and then hesitate if they are in doubt.

A Curious Coptic Custom.

The Coptic patriarch of Alexandria is never allowed to sleep more than fifteen minutes at any one time, and if the attendant should allow the holy one's nap to extend beyond the allotted time the penalty is decapitation. Upon being aroused at the end of each quarter hour the patriarch arises and spreads his rug upon the floor, kneels upon it, bows his head three times to the east, and again retires.

Is This Authentic?

It has been calculated that 800 shots were fired for every man wounded during our late civil war.

Mountains of Fuel.

The great ocean steamers use from 190 to 220 tons of coal per day.

IN EVERY Receipt that calls for baking powder use the "Royal." It will make the food lighter, sweeter, of finer flavor, more digestible and wholesome.

"We recommend the Royal Baking Powder as superior to all others."—United Cooks and Pastry Cooks' Association of the United States.

He Has the Proof.

"Uncle Eben," said the young man who was disposed to be jocular, "do you believe there is luck in a rabbit's foot?"

The old man's eyes twinkled. Putting his hand in his pocket he drew forth a velvety rabbit's paw and said gravely, as he held it at arm's length:

"See dat?"

"Yes."

"Well, dere ain't no use tryin' ter tell me dat luck doan go wid dat rabbit's foot. I's got de proof right hyur in de kitchen."

"Proof of the luck that goes with that rabbit's paw?"

"Yessir," and the old man's eyes twinkled more than ever. "De rabbit dat used ter wear dat paw is cookin' in de pot dis minute. An' if a rabbit stew ain' luck, what is?"

An Attractive Sign.

The Celestials are crowding together in several parts of the Australian colonies. A storekeeper, wishing to secure extra trade by advertising his goods in the Chinese language, made a bargain with one of them to paint a sign, expecting, of course, that it would be a very enticing one.

It did not answer his expectations, however, for the only perceptible effect it had on the emigrants from the Flowery Land was to excite a grin of the broadest dimensions. At length the puzzled storekeeper, by means of a considerable monetary inducement, obtained a correct rendering in English of the announcement and found, to his intense chagrin, that it read: "Don't buy anything here; storekeeper a rogue."

Nothing New Under the Sun.

Ancient Egypt, writes a correspondent of the St. James' Gazette, is "looking up" in every way. Some of its contrivances appear to have been quite up to date. Actually, they had already, more than 2,000 years ago, what we call "a penny in the slot" for the extraction of something useful, pleasant, or otherwise desirable. Hereon, the philosopher of Alexandria, describes an automatic machine, which he asserts to have been in use in the Egyptian temples already for a long time past even before his time. By throwing a piece of money in the slot the worshipers received some consecrated water through a valve. The stature, or stand, the two-armed lever with its clothing valve and the other details of the machine are all correctly described.

Uses of Silver.

Silver for other purposes than coin has a very extended use. The uses for it in tableware are well known, and for plating more is consumed than in all other of the industrial arts. It is also used in dentistry, photography, and on mirrors. It is the foundation of indelible inks, is found in surgery and forms a nitrate in medicine. In mineral water machines it forms the interior of condensers and the lining of the block tin pipe. It is used in galvanometers, and in electricity where the best conductor is essential for the most delicate tests. About $9,000,000 annually is used in the arts in the United States, $2,500,000 going into solid spoons and forks.—Hardware.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures Incipient Consumption. It is the best Cough Cure. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

A MAN finds salvation free till he joins the church.

Catarrh

Is a Constitutional Disease

And Requires

A Constitutional Remedy

Like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, permanently cures Catarrh by eradicating the impurity which causes and promotes the disease. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for Catarrh when other preparations had failed. Hood's Sarsaparilla also builds up the whole system, and makes you feel renewed in health and strength. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills, Biliousness, Jaundice, Indigestion, Sick Headache.

DO YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL?

READ THIS ABOUT CALIFORNIA!

The WABASH RAILROAD has placed on sale low rate single and round trip tickets to all principal Pacific coast points, giving a wide choice of routes both going and returning, with an extreme return limit of Nine Months. Stop-overs are granted at pleasure on round trip tickets west of St. Louis and the Missouri River, and by taking the WABASH but one change of cars is necessary to reach Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Sacramento and Portland, Ore. Remember the WABASH is the peoples favorite route and is the only line running magnificent free Reclining Chair Cars and Palace Sleepers in all through fast trains to St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address any of the undermentioned Passenger Agents of the Wabash System.

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
F. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, N. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
S. B. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. CHANDLER, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

PATENTS, TRADE-MARKS, Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATENT OFFICE, Washington, D. C.

"German Syrup"

Regis Leblanc is a French Canadian store keeper at Notre Dame de Stanbridge, Quebec, Can., who was cured of a severe attack of Congestion of the Lungs by Boschee's German Syrup. He has sold many a bottle of German Syrup on his personal recommendation. If you drop him a line he'll give you the full facts of the case direct, as he did us, and that Boschee's German Syrup brought him through nicely. It always will. It is a good medicine and thorough in its work.

$7.00 Will pay for a one inch advertisement one week in 100 Illinois Newspapers—guaranteed circulation 100,000 copies. Send for Catalogue. STANDARD-UNION 93 S. Jefferson St., Chicago, Ill. (This advertisement measures one inch.)

DR. KILMER'S SWAMP-ROOT CURED ME.

Dropsical Swelling, Cold as Ice. LIFE WAS A BURDEN.

"Swamp-Root" saved my life after I had suffered everything but death. I send you my photograph and this description of my case and you can use it if you wish. My hands were as cold as ice; fire would not warm them. Dropsical swellings of the lower limbs; I could not button my shoes. Exertion completely exhausted me; death seemed so very near. The swellings have gone and all my troubles have disappeared. My health is better now than it has been for years.

"SWAMP-ROOT CURED ME."

Tell doubting ones to write me I will tell them all about it." MRS. R. J. CUTHBERT, Jan. 15, 1893. Marietta, Shelby Co., Ind.

At Druggists 50c cents and $1.00 Size. "Invalids' Guide to Health" free—Consultation free. Dr. Kilmer & Co., - Binghamton, N. Y.

Dr. Kilmer's U & O Anointment Cures Piles—Trial Box Free — At Druggists 50 cents.

THE JUDGES of the WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION Have made the HIGHEST AWARDS (Medals and Diplomas) to WALTER BAKER & CO. On each of the following named articles:

BREAKFAST COCOA,
Premium No. 1, Chocolate,
Vanilla Chocolate,
German Sweet Chocolate,
Cocoa Butter.

For "purity of material," "excellent flavor," and "uniform even composition."

WALTER BAKER & CO., DORCHESTER, MASS.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMS & SON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent is obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

ST. JACOBS OIL MAKES A Perfect Cure of BURNS, BRUISES, SCALDS, CUTS AND WOUNDS.

One bottle for fifteen cents, Twelve bottles for one dollar, } by mail.

R·I·P·A·N·S

Ripans Tabules are the most effective recipe ever prescribed by a physician for any disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Buy of any druggist anywhere, or send price to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, 10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

Especially for Farmers, Miners, R. R. Hands and others. Double Sole extending down to the heel. EXTRA WEARING QUALITY. Thousands of Rubber Boot wearers testify this is the best they ever had. Ask your dealer for them, and don't be persuaded into an inferior article.

NICKEL PLATE. The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R. SOLID THROUGH TRAINS BUFFALO CHICAGO. LOWEST RATES. THROUGH SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston. SUPERB DINING CARS. Cuisine Unrivaled. For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. D. F. HOBNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CLEVELAND, O.

ASTHMA CURED. POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC. Gives Relief in One Minute. Total Package cost 25 cents. Sold by druggists. One Dollar. Sent by express, prepaid, on receipt of $1.00. Sample free. Address Thos. Popham, Phila., Pa.

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission to handle the best medical Ink Erasing Pencil. Address Monroe Eraser Mfg. Co., X.

PATENTS and PENSIONS Secured. Fitzgerald & Co., 7th and G. Sts.

F. W. N. U.

When Writing to Advertisers mention this paper.

It Will Be Too Late.

If you will let a cough run on until it has affected your lungs, it will be too late, as consumption will surely be the result and death will end all. Why are so many people careless about a cough? Be careful, there is danger, and if not stopped in time it will certainly cause serious trouble and probably prove fatal. If you will only send for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup it will cure you, as it has never failed to cure the very worst cases, and is guaranteed to give satisfaction. You can try this for 25 cents, why delay. By all druggists.

THE couples eloped from Kentucky and came over to Jeffersonville, Ind., and were married there, on Thursday of last week. And it wasn't a very good day for weddings either.

Lagrippe Cured.

About a year ago I took a violent attack of lagrippe. I coughed day and night for about six weeks; my wife then suggested that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. At first I could see no difference, but still kept taking it, and soon found it was what I needed. If I got no relief from one dose I took another, and it was only a few days until I was free from the cough. I think people in general ought to know the value of this remedy, and I take pleasure in acknowledging the benefit I have received from it. MADISON MUSTARD, Otway, Ohio. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord's.

Do This Now.

Do you need a cough medicine? If so send for a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup; it will help you as it has helped others. Do this now or it may be too late. Many cases of consumption have originated out of a slight cough, and you cannot afford to take chances This medicine will cure any cough or cold, or any affection of the throat or lungs. Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup is the best for lagrippe, as it has never failed to cure. It is sold on a guarantee, and you will be satisfied if you will only give it a trial. Price 25, 50 and $1 by druggists.

"Come, Gerald, forgive me for my cruel words."

"It's not your cruel words; it's the price of your bonnet."

Distemper—Its Cause and Treatment

Is the title of our little book which tells all about one of the most loathsome and dangerous diseases affecting horses, sheep and dogs, with unquestionable proof of the merits of Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure in the treatment of the same. Sent free by addressing the Well's Medicine Co., LaFayette, Ind. This remedy is sold by Matheny & Gerke.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in

DeKalb Co.:
Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

"Royal Ruby" Port Wine.

If you are reduced in vitality or strength by illness or any other cause, we recommend the use of this Old Port Wine, the very blood of the grape. A grand tonic for nursing mothers, and those reduced by wasting disease. It creates strength; improves the appetite; nature's own remedy, much preferable to drugs; guaranteed absolutely pure and over five years of age. Young wine ordinarily sold is not fit to use. Insist on having this standard brand, it costs no more. $1 in quart bottles, pints 60 cts. Royal Wine Co. For sale by

F. E. Davenport.

Judge—Discharged! But don't let me see you here again.

Graduate O'Taff—'Tis me wud be sorry to see yer 'oner resign!

Home Testimony.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 25, 1893.

DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

GENTLEMEN:—Send at once by express one gross of your "Dr. Mott's Nervetine Pills." They give satisfaction in every case, and is the best medicine for all nervous diseases. Yours truly, 43tf

MATHENY & GERKE.

Spatts—There is something very profound about Codling.

Bloabumper—You allude to his ignorance, of course?

Will Make Hens Lay.

Well's Hoosier Poultry Powder is the greatest egg producer known. A small sum expended for it will pay one hundred per cent on the cost in an increased amount of eggs, as it furnishes all the material necessary for their construction, and keeps the hens in good healthy condition. Price 25 cents. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

Clerk at the Desk—This is a bad half-dollar, sir.

Jones—That's all right. I had a bad dinner, too.

How's Your Horse?

Morris' English Stable Liniment will positively cure his lameness, sprains, bunches, sweeney, galls, puffs, poll evil, scratches, callouses, barbed-wire cuts and flesh wounds of every description. No other preparation equals it for promptness, safety and economy. Price 50 cts. and $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

"A few million years hence the sun will give out no more heat."

"Well, most of us won't be in need of heat."

To Horse Owners.

For putting a horse in a fine healthy condition, use Morris' English Stable Powders. They tone up the system, aid in digestion, cure loss of appetite, relieve constipation, correct kidney disorders and destroy worms, giving new life to an old or over-worked horse. 25 cents per package; 5 for $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke. tf

Cure Your Cough.

The persistent cough which usually follows attack of the grip can be permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. W. A. McGuire, of Ashtabula, Ohio, says: "La Grippe left me with a severe cough. After using several different medicines without relief, I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which gave a permanent cure. I consider it to be without an equal. I was formerly troubled with severe lung trouble and spent hundreds of dollars with no lasting benefit. I now feel that I am cured of my cough through the use of a 50 cent bottle of your valuable medicine." For sale by Robbins & McCord.

WATERLOO.

Miss Mary Eberly spent the holidays at home in Waterloo.

Mrs. Shiruc spent New Year's day with her sister, Mrs. Edge.

Mrs Bowlby has been a long time sick with lung fever, but is now improving.

Tony Lahman, of New York, is in Waterloo on a visit to his mother and family.

Harry Sinclair, from Saginaw, Mich., spent the holidays with his friends in Waterloo.

F. W. Beidler spent Sunday and perhaps Monday with his family. He was on the street Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Will Blair, of Butler, a sister-in-law of Gen. Blair, has been spending several days with the family of L. J. Blair.

Linda Deventer is at home from Chicago during the holidays A gentleman is here also, to whom it is said the lady is to be married.

John M. Heldt, of Ft Wayne, spent several days, including New Year's, in Waterloo, visiting his sister, Mrs. Edward Braun and family.

Mrs. William Maxwell has had quite a serious time with the grip, and been confined to her bed for a number of weeks. She is improving, it is said.

Mr. and Mrs. Currer, from Chicago, have returned home after spending some time visiting Mrs. S. Edge, who is aunt to Mrs. Currer, and her mother, Mrs. Shiruc, who lives three miles from Hudson.

New Year's night Phil Plum lighted in front of his store at the outer edge of the pavement with gas. This is a great improvement. He also keeps a first-class grocery, well stocked and prices cheap as any.

Mrs. Juliette Dickinson ventured out a short distance to a neighbor's January 1st, for the first time since her severe attack of grip. The day was so warm and pleasant and the sun so bright it would seem quite safe.

Mrs. Ada Long is at present visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Benage Long. She expects to return to her home at Los Angeles, Cal., the 10th of this month. Her sister, Mrs. Celia Fisher, of Fort Wayne will accompany her.

Mrs Klutz and Mrs. McClure spent Christmas at Decatur, Ind., with Mr. and Mrs. Dell Locke. When they returned home Master Leon Locke accompanied them. Little Lucille Locke visited her mother's aunt, Mrs. William Jackman, over Christmas.

The L. M. C. hold their meeting Jan. 6, 1894, at the home of Mrs. Emma Plum. The program for the evening is responses. Subject: The New Year, The Constitution: Leader, Mrs. Faucett; Indiana Writers, Mrs. E Jackman; Charade, Mrs. R. Smith. Table Talk. Subject: Eminent Women, conducted by Mrs. Winslow.

GARRETT.

Did you "swear off."

Rev. Lamport is on the sick list.

Dr. Hughes was at Chicago Monday.

Mrs. Wm. Knight is visiting at Lorea, Ind.

Miss Juliet Millard is visiting at Warsaw.

R. N. Miller is visiting at Lebanon, Penn.

Mrs Etta Talbert was at Albion last week.

Miss Laura Conway is visiting at Chicago.

S. D Furnish, of New Era, was in town Monday.

Recorder Williams was in the city Monday.

W. H. Laudon was at Sturgis, Mich, last week.

Mrs. Frank Walters and children are at Bremen.

Frank Phillips, of Chicago Junction, is visiting here.

Engineer Lantz and wife were at Three Rivers, Mich.

Attorney Shaffer, of Auburn, was in the city Thursday.

Howard Carpenter, of Chicago, was in the city Sunday.

Ed, Murphy, of Milwaukee, is visiting relatives in the city.

Earl Lawrence, of South Chicago, was in the city last week.

Mrs. Henry Shelter is visiting her daughter at Galion, O.

Charles Sellers, of Mentone, Ind., is visiting his parents here.

G. W. Lackey will adopt the cash system at his dry goods store.

Claud Briss, of Logansport, is visiting in the family of J. P. Newell.

Mrs. C. V. Inks, of Ligonier, visited in the family of Charles Barnhart, James Duncan, of Chicago Junction, is visiting with Mike Connors and wife.

Mrs. J. G. Philbrick and Mrs E Vanness, are visiting at Chicago Junction, O.

Billy Beebler has been confined to the house several days with a sprained ankle.

Miss Della Robbins, of Cromwell, was a guest in the family of P. G. Bovee, last week.

Miss Dott Butter, of Cheltenham, Ill. was the guest of Nellie Bicknell this week.

John A. Marvin, of Lansing, Mich., was visiting his brother Hi. here last week.

Miss Gertie Bailey and cousin, of Chicago, are the guests of Miss Hettie Olery.

George Metzger and wife are both confined to their beds by a severe attack of the grip.

Reyher & Co. are holding their annual closing sale. Here is the place to get bargains.

Edward Goetz, of Mansfield, Ohio, has been the guest of J. Wm. Wagner the past week.

Frank Elston and wife, of Bairdstown, O., have been visiting friends here for a week past.

Mr and Mrs. Sparrow, of Kimmel, were the guests of George Haverstick and wife several days last week.

Mrs. Ella Vivian and son Johnny were at Auburn the fore part of the week, the guests of Miss Laura Keeran.

Johnny Wolff, who has been working in a machine shop at Shelby, Ohio, for the past two months, is visiting in the city.

Mr. Joseph Billingham, of Dallas, Texas, arrived in the city Sunday evening on No. 7 and took his office Monday morning. We welcome him to our town.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

TAX RATES FOR 1893.

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF DeKALB COUNTY, IND.:

IN COMPLIANCE with the laws of the State of Indiana, I, Reuben Sawvel, Treasurer of said county, hereby notify the Tax Payers thereof that the rates of taxation for the year A. D. 1893, are correctly stated in the following table, showing the amount of taxes in cents levied upon each one hundred dollars valuation and on each poll, in the several townships and incorporated towns in said county, as the same appears on the Tax Duplicate of DeKalb county for said year.

TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNS.	State Tax	Benev. Institutions	State School	St. Debt Sinking Fd	Perm. Endowm't Fd	County	Township	Tuition	Special School	Special Road	Road	Corporation	Ad. Special School	Bond Sinking	Special Dog	TOTAL	First Installment	Second Installment
Per $100 Valuation.
Butler Township	10	05	13½	03½	55	10	10	05	10							122	66	56
Poll	50		50					25								125
Jackson Twp	10	05	13½	03½	55	10		20	10	10						137	78½	58½
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Concord Twp	10	05	13½	03½	55	10	15	20	05	05						142	76	66
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Newville Twp	10	05	13½	03½	55	15	10	20	10	05						147	81	66
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Stafford Twp	10	05	13½	02½	55	15	15	05	10							132	71	61
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Wilmington Twp	10	05	13½	03½	55	05		05	15	05						117	68½	48½
Poll	50		50					50								150
Union Township	10	05	13½	03½	55				10	05						102	58½	43½
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Richland Twp	10	05	13½	03½	55	05	10	05	10	10						127	73½	53½
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Fairfield Twp	10	05	13½	03½	55	10	10	02	10	02						121	66½	54½
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Smithfield Twp	10	05	13½	03½	55	10	10	15	10	10						142	81	61
Poll	50		50													100
Franklin Twp	10	05	13½	08½	55	10	10	20	10	05						142	78½	63½
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Troy Township	10	05	13½	03½	55	10	10	05	05							117	61	56
Poll	50		50													100
Keyser Township	10	05	13½	03½	55	05		05	15	05						117	68½	48½
Poll	50		50													100
Grant Township	10	05	13½	03½	55	05	10	05	10	05						122	68½	53½
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Auburn Town	10	05	13½	03½	55		15	35	20		45	25			100	227	123½	103½
Poll	50		50					50			50				200	200
Waterloo Town	10	05	13½	03½	55	05	05	10								107	53½	53½
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Butler Town	10	05	13½	03½	55	05		15	25				05		100	137	81	56
Poll	50		50										50		200	150
Ashley Town	10	05	13½	03½	55	10	25	50	05		15		15			207	106	101
Poll	50		50					25	50		25					200
Garrett City	10	05	13½	03½	55	05	15	17	15		20	07			100	166	90½	75½
Poll	50		50				50	50			125				200	325

Also $1 for one dog, $2, for each female dog, and $2 for each additional dog.

The Road and Special Road Tax are included in first installment. The Poll and Dog Tax are divided equally between the two installments.

Taxes of 1893 are due the first day of January, 1894, and may be paid in full or in two installments. The first installment must be paid on or before the third Monday in April, 1894, the second installment on or before the First Monday in November, 1894. If the first installment is not paid when due both installments become delinquent. Ten per cent will be added and I shall at once proceed, as the law requires, to collect the same, together with the costs that may accrue, by distress and sale of personal property.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for the penalty and charges on delinquent taxes resulting from any omission of the person paying, to state definitely on what property, in whose name, and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

Persons owing delinquent taxes should pay them at once. The law is of such a character that there is no option left to the Treasurer but to enforce the collection of the delinquent taxes, however much he may regret to collect the same by sale of property.

"The owner of property on the first day of April each year, shall be liable for the taxes of that year. The purchaser of property on the first day of April shall be considered the owner on that day."

Examine your receipts before leaving the office and see that all your property is included.

No county order will be paid to any person owing delinquent taxes.

The annual sale of lands and lots for delinquent taxes will occur on the second Monday in February, 1894.

Come early and avoid the rush of the last few days. We have 6,000 receipts to make and all cannot be made the last few days.

The books will positively be closed on the evening of the 3d Monday in April and no one will be allowed to pay after that date without penalty.

Parties sending by others, or by letter, to pay tax, should not fail to send description of their land and lots.

No receipts will be made out for any party until they are ready to pay.

Assignees, Guardians, Administrators and others who pay taxes on property in trust, and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as individual estates, etc., are earnestly requested to settle such taxes before the the last few days, as it requires considerable time to make the divisions and separate receipts therefor. As the Treasurer cannot know the location of each person's property, taxpayers should designate the property on which they wish to pay taxes, and see that all property is specified on their receipts. If they have land in more than one township or town, or desire to pay taxes on lands not in their name, call the Treasurer's attention to the matter.

REUBEN SAWVEL, Treasurer.

Mrs. J. W. Smith, living on the north side, died of consumption Sunday morning and was buried Tuesday, Rev. Dr. Kemp officiating.

The Rileys, who played here four nights last week, gave very creditable performances, and should they ever return, will be greeted with full houses.

MARRIED: Miss Ida Suter and Mr. Wm. Homerich, at the Methodist parsonage, Sunday morning, by Rev. A. L. Lamport. We wish the young couple much happiness.

Every New Year's night for the past sixteen years the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have given a ball and they have always been a success, but the one Monday night is said to have been grander than any previous ones.

Miss Jennie Smith, the celebrated railroad evangelist, preached at the Methodist Church Sunday evening and after the service a watch meeting was held. Miss Jennie is a very entertaining speaker and always draws large crowds whenever she speaks here.

The firm of Lackey & George of the Palace Dry Goods Store has been dissolved, Elwood H. George retiring. We hear that he will go to California in the spring. We regret to see Mr. and Mrs George leave, but if they do, we wish them abundant success in their new home.

It was the custom this year in the large cities for the proprietors of first-class hotels and restaurants to give a dinner to poor children, and O. M. Sinrick, proprietor of the B. & O. lunch and dining rooms at this place, was not out done by any of them. About two weeks ago he inserted a notice in the newspapers saying that he would give a free dinner to all poor children of the city under ten years of age on Christmas day. According 268 children appeared at the depot at the appointed time a dinner that the hungry little ones will never forget. Every town is in need of thousands of men like Mr. Sinrick in these hard times.

Conductor W. S. Van Zile met with an accident at the B. & O. yards in South Chicago last Friday night which resulted in his death His train was leaving that city and he was going over the cars when the train "broke in two" and he fell between the cars and the wheels passing over him killed him almost instantly. His remains were brought here Saturday night and were laid to rest at Auburn Monday. A gentleman from Marysville, O., whose name we didn't learn, preached the funeral. The O. R. C., the O. R. T., B. of R. B. and B. of L. E. attended in a body. The deceased leaves a wife and several small children who have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad hour of bereavement.

GAS ADDITION.

Rev. H. A. Croy is still improving.

A. Stutz has been quite seriously indisposed.

Miss Anna Felt will go to Whitley county to visit relatives.

Mrs. Wm. Waters has returned from visiting with friends at Newville.

Dan. Link, from Chicago, has been visiting his cousin, Martin Apple, and other relatives.

Mrs. Hendrickson, of Pleasant Lake, is visiting with her mother, Mrs. Samuel Goodman.

Cliff Metcalf and wife have been called to the country by the severe illness of his mother, Mrs. B. Metcalf.

Mr. Depew has purchased the Antrup property in McClellan & Baxter's addition and will become a citizen of Gas-town.

Mrs. George Bowman went to Waterloo Tuesday to join her husband, who has work there. They go to housekeeping there at once.

ST JOE.

Ex-postmaster Abels is also on the sick list.

Mrs. B. A. Woodcox is quite sick with an attack of the grip.

George Bleeks, B. A. and G. W. Woodcox were at the Hub on Friday.

Rev Fairfield, of Angola, lectured at the Christian Church Friday evening.

Postmaster Baker has moved the office to the hardware store of E. Case & Co.

W. D Rickel, of the firm of Rickel & Sprott, was in town Wednesday of last week.

Mr. Hood, of Maysville, who bought the butcher shop of Wm. Curie, took possession New Years.

A daughter of George Hamm who was recently married to a man in Garrett, removed to that place the fore part of last week.

We understand that the plant of the defunct St. Joe News has been leased to some parties at near Hamilton who will start up again this week.

M. F Body, who has been for the last three years an invalid owing to a spinal affliction, is in very poor health at present owing to a severe attack of grip.

We asked one of the proprietors of the Big (4) where Mort. was and he answered, "Gone to Michigan Ci——. We want to say that he went of his own accord"

Mrs. J. D. Leighty entertained her Sunday school class at her residence on Christmas night The class say that if Aunt Kate can't entertain its no use to go elsewhere.

C. A. Washler has traded his town residence to Roland Beerse for what is known as the Henry Robertson farm two and one half miles east of this place. Washler will move his family there the first of March.

Rev. Sherman of the Christian Church, while on his way to Canada to hold a series of meetings, stopped over Sabbath with the church here, preaching Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. He always draws crowded houses.

E. J. Boyle, an old resident of this vicinity, but of late a Wolverine, was in town Friday and Saturday of last week. Eph looks as though old time was dealing very leniently with him. Is it possible that Eph is after somebody's scalp.

CONCORD.

Cora D. took dinner with pa Keller Sunday.

Alonzo Ferrell, of Waterford, spent a few days with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James and son Walter, of Ft. Wayne, are visiting relatives.

George Simonton and J. D. Smith returned home this week from Ashland, O.

Mrs. Will Sheldon, of Garrett, paid her two sisters a visit, Mrs. Jennie Hull and Mrs Annie Ricketts.

Mrs. Cedelia Morr and daughter Mary visited relatives in New Paris, Waterford and Goshen holiday times.

Mrs. R K. Griner, of Vermontville, Mich., is here visiting her many friends. Her coming is highly appreciated.

Rev. Lineberry, delivered an excellent sermon and also very touching when relating the departure of the old year.

Charlie and Lolo White, of Butler, visited their grand parents, J. B. Whites and Mr. and Mrs. C. Keller, over Sunday.

Large attendance at the Keller sale; will shortly move to Butler. Regret to see them go. Mr Keller and family are sociable and kind neighbors and best wishes go with them.

Mr. Charles Lere, of Portland, Ind., accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Koontz, and his niece, Mrs. Sidel, of Steuben county, gave their sister, Mrs. Christian Smith, quite a surprise last Monday by visiting her.

Last week, memory being short, omitted the grand reunion of the Nelsons, held at the residence of L. D., on the old home farm. Miss Olive came home from Huntington to be present. Relatives from Auburn, Nelson Morr and sister Dollie, Mrs. Elson being present.

A few days ago little Miss Nona High was going to St. Joe to purchase some New Year's presents for her pa and ma and Cora, but unfortunately lost her pocket book containing between three and four dollars. Any one finding it can return it to her pa, M. A. High.

December 31, school met pursuant to order and elected the following named persons to office: Supt., J. B. Dragoo; Assistant, F Buchanan; Secretary, Alice A. Dragoo; Treasurer, M. A. High; Librarians, Flossie Buchanan and Minnie Baker; Chorister, Hattie Dragoo; Organist, Nelia Gifford and Mattie Buchanan. Corps of teachers as follows: Mrs. F. Buchanan, Mrs. Lovina Johnson, Mrs. Jennie Hull, Amos Seberts, F. Buchanan, Henry Seberts. Class No. 9 undecided.

SUMMIT.

Mrs Duncan is slowly improving.

Aunt Betsey Yothers is on the sick list.

P. H. Grambling is so he can be around again.

Mrs. John Penick went to Waterloo last Saturday on business.

Miss Margaret Mortorff has been visiting in Hudson the last week.

Mr. Sumner Bixler, of Hudson, was on our streets one day last week.

Miss Lena Shiffli, of Angola, visited her parents, Mr. Joseph Shiffli over New Years.

Mrs. George Busang has been very sick the past week, but is better at this writing.

D. Boyer and family, of Hamilton, visited Mrs. B.'s parents, G. D. Conrads, last Sunday.

Mrs. Viola Snowberger's niece, Miss Della Barnhart, of Waterloo, visited her the past week.

Miss Etta Parish visited her friend, Miss Lydia Timmerman, in Huntertown over Christmas.

Miss Lucy Kemp, of Steubenville, was the guest of Miss Nora Hockenberger, last Saturday night.

Mrs. George Erwin and son Charles visited relatives near Golden Lake Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Lucy Pefferorn, of Angola, is home visiting her parents, Mr. John Pefferorn, at this writing.

Mrs. Alva Snowberger, of Wolcotville, visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. Viola Snowberger, one day last week.

Balser Shoudel, of Chicago, was here last week shaking hands with old friends. He says there is no place like Summit.

Mrs. Henry Lawson's mother, Mrs. Margaret McDougle, who has been in Ohio since October, came home New Year's day.

Misses Caroline and Lucy Dopp, of Angola, came home last Saturday and will remain till after New Year's with their parents, Mr. A. Dopp.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

Here's the Idea

Of the Non-pull-out Bow

The great watch saver. Saves the watch from thieves and falls—cannot be pulled off the case—costs nothing extra.

The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

Can only be had with cases stamped with this trade mark.

Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases are now fitted with this great bow (ring). They look and wear like solid gold cases. Cost only about half as much, and are guaranteed for twenty years. Sold only through watch dealers. Remember the name

Non-pull-out

Keystone Watch Case Co., PHILADELPHIA.

KING OF THE HEADACHE

CURES HEADACHE IN 20 MINUTES

99% SURE CURES

SPEEDY AND HARMLESS PRICE 25¢

SENDING THE PATENT TO SEC. KING OF THE HEADACHE CURES ANY KIND OF HEADACHE WITHOUT A PAIN

Prepared by

THE HOUSEHOLD REMEDY CO. HUNTINGTON, IND.

Sold by Matheny & Gerke, Auburn.

Cures Dyspepsia.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone, I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good good any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy: a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottle 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Mrs. Youngbusband—You make light of everything I do.

Youngbusband—You must except your tea biscuit, my dear.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the New Great South American Kidney Cure. This new remedy is a great Surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Druggists, Auburn, Ind.

"I gave Robbins a cigar out of this box a few days ago."

"Has he got even with you yet?"

Health and Happiness!

HONEY OF FIGS is the QUEEN of all cathartics; syrups or pills. One anticipates its taking with pleasure. No other remedy sells so well or gives such satisfaction. It acts gently on inactive bowels or liver, relieves the kidneys, cures constipation, colds, fevers, nervous headaches, etc, and restores the beauty of health. Ladies and children prefer it. Doctors and druggists recommend it. The Fig Honey Co. of San Francisco. Try a bottle. Only one cent a dose. Matheny & Gerke wholesale and retail agents for DeKalb county.

Old Lady—Why don't you newsboys keep yourselves clean?

Newsboy—Huh! Wot's the good of a feller a feelin' above his occupation?

See the World's Fair for Fifteen Cents

Upon receipt of your address and fifteen cents in postage stamps, we will mail you prepaid, our Souvenir Portfolio of the World's Columbian Exposition. The regular price is fifty cents, but as we want you to have one we make the price nominal. You will find it a work of art and a thing to be prized. It contains full page views of the great buildings, with descriptions of same, and is executed in the highest style of art. If not satisfied with it after you get it, we will refund the stamps and let you keep the book. Address H. E. BUCKLEN & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Mother—Horrors! How did you tear your clothes so?

Small Boy—Tryin' to get over a barbed-wire fence without tearin' 'em

All Free.

Those who have used Dr. King's New Discovery know its value, and those who have not, have now the opportunity to try it, free. Call on the advertised druggist and get a trial bottle free. Send your name and address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pill free, as well as a copy of Guide to Health and Household Instructor, free. All of which is guaranteed to do you good and cost you nothing. Robbins & McCord's drug-store. 4

Lawyer—I'm sorry, but hearsay won't do here. We must have evidence which no one dare dispute.

Client—Heavens, man! My mother-in-law saw it.

FAYETTE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Is beautifully located and its buildings are very attractive. In order to give ample accommodation for the present demand, another large building has been added. No saloons. Equipments are excellent; pure associations. Teachers are specialists—men and women of power and culture, carefully selected for their special work. Normal, Commercial, Scientific, Shorthand, Typewriting, Elocutionary and Musical departments in addition to the regular college courses. Our aim is to endow each pupil with the four great essentials to true success: vigorous health, accurate knowledge, right purpose, and executive ability. $27. pays tuition, board and room-rent, for 10 weeks; $75. for 30 weeks.

For Catalogue, address, J. E. DODDS, Pres't, Fayette, O.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.

ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JANUARY 11, 1894. NUMBER 2.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

No. 342. 170 Acres of fine land well adapted to grain or stock purposes, 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler.

Frame dwelling: main 22 x 24, wing 14 x 28, wing 14 x 31; 11 rooms, cellar under entire building.

Three good barns, all in good repair, conveniently located; one 36 x 50, another 30 x 66, and the last one 22 x 28. Two good wells, 1 cistern, windmill and elevated tank. Two orchards of about 150 in the two. Fences in fine condition. 150 acres in fine state of cultivation, balance timber. No waste land. Sandy, loamy soil. Easy payment plan.

No. —. 44 Acres of land in Wilmington township.

Frame dwelling, 2 story, 16 x 28; wing, 12 x 23, and summer kitchen. Cellar and well.

Frame barn 40 x 65, granary, wagon house and corn crib combined, 20 x 26, and hog and hen house.

4 Acres orchard, all winter grafted fruit; fences in A1 condition: 5 acres timber; 60 rods tiling. No waste land. Soil, black loam.

Price, $2,500. Easy payments.

No. —. Fine residence property on South Van Buren street.

Elegant property Splendid location. Fruit in large variety and of best quality.

Price, $1,500.

Vacant lots in Widney's addition on long time, easy terms.

No. 157. 40 Acres, 4 miles north of Butler, Ind.

Good log house and barn. 20 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Soil, black loam. Good fences. ¾ mile to school and church

Price, $1,200. Long time, easy terms.

Dwellings, vacant lots and other desirable property in Garrett to exchange for land in this county and pay cash difference.

80 Acres land in good cultivation to exchange for town property in Auburn, or, will exchange for a well located meat market. Will trade for smaller farm.

Price, $3,300.

80 Acres good land in Butler township, located near school and church and with in 1 mile of railroad.

Good buildings and fences and plenty of fruit

Price, $4,200.

Will exchange for a smaller tract near some good town.

No. 1900. 85-acre farm, 2½ miles from St. Joe, all under cultivation, no waste land; soil, black sandy loam, no clay; good brick house 14x34 with L 26x28, 8 rooms, good cellar 14x34; 40 bbl. cistern; 96 feet of porch around house, good well; 2 orchards; all kinds of small fruit; barn 36x46; chicken house with 2 acre park, with spring water running through it; 12 acres in wheat, 40 acres in timothy and clover. Will sell for $60 per acre; small payment down, balance on long time, or will take some town property in Auburn or St. Joe.

No. 1890. 120-acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler, 95 acres clear, fences good, 30 acres timber, well drained, part tiled; 2 good orchards and a fine pear orchard; has a good 8-room house, with cellar, cistern, well and barn. Will sell very low and on long time.

No. 1850. 70 acre farm, 3¼ miles from Butler; has 2 frame houses, barn 25x40, young orchard. Will sell for $32 per acre; part cash, balance on long time.

No. 1810. 80 acre farm, 1½ miles from Newville, 65 acres clear, 15 acres timber, good fences; good 9 room house; barn 36x50 feet; orchard of 70 trees; well and cistern; mostly black soil, no waste land; 40 acres in timothy and clover. Farm is in good state of cultivation; 1 mile to school and church. Price $3,200, $500 cash down, balance on long time. This is a bargain.

No. 2600. 80 acre farm, 2½ miles S.E. of Auburn, 65 acres clear, balance in timber, no waste land; good 2-story house; good barn 48x80; corn crib, hog pen, wagon and tool shed; cistern, good well with new wind pump and tank; good orchard; good fences; splendid soil. Will sell cheap on long time; will take good house and lot in Auburn or Garrett at what it is worth.

No. 1717. 90 acres of land about 7 miles from Auburn; house 18x24 with L 18 x 17; barn 17x23 with shed 12x23; large granary, well and cistern, orchard; 35 acres under cultivation, 15 acres good timber, balance well drained low land for pasture. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time.

No. 1725. 44½ acre farm, all clear, no waste land; good 4-room house; bank barn 47x76; good orchard; 2 wells. Price $1,800, ½ cash, balance on reasonable time.

No. 3,000. 64-acre farm 6 miles east of Auburn, 60 acres clear, 4 acres timber, well drained, all black sandy loam; fair house; good barn, 38x48; one of the best orchards in the county, an abundance of peach, pear, cherries, grapes, currants, berries, etc.; about 18 acres in wheat, 20 acres in grass, no waste land. This farm can be sold very low on terms that will certainly suit the purchaser.

No. 315. 60-acre farm in Jackson tp.; has a 7-room, 2-story brick house, with cellar, well and cistern; barn 32x64; orchard of 80 trees; all clear and in good cultivation. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time, easy payments. This is a bargain.

MONEY! MONEY! Do you want to borrow any money? We can loan you any amount you want, from $500 to $10,000, at a low rate of interest, on long time, with privilege of partial payments. If you need money, do not put it off very long, but call at once. The demand for short time loans is increasing and our ability cannot hold out long at the present rate of interest.

Do you need any Fire Insurance or Life Insurance? If you call on us and learn our terms, we have a line of the very best companies that pay losses promptly. Call at our office, for we have no agents traveling through the country soliciting. We can save you money if you need anything in this line.

Are you going to travel? If so, come and see us. We can sell you a Railroad or Steamship ticket to any point in the world. If you want any information about rates or tickets—cheerfully given, call on us. No harm done if you do not buy.

We represent the National Building Ass'n. of Indianapolis, the best company of its kind in Indiana. Do you want to build or pay off a mortgage on your home, and pay it off in small payments. Parties having money to invest will do well to call on us at once.

If you want to buy or sell a farm, town property or personal property, give us a call. Our commission will be reasonable.

We make a specialty of handling stocks of goods of all kinds. Can either sell or trade them. We take pleasure in showing our property, free of charge, to any who think of buying.

(We have a number of Western and Southern farms that we can trade for land or town property here. Will give or take the difference.)

We have a No. 1 Flouring Mill for sale, situate at LaOtto, we can sell cheap or trade for farm. It is doing a good business.

Rickel & Sprott,
Auburn, Ind.
—UNDER FARMERS BANK.

HARPER'S BAZAR, ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a journal for the home. It gives the fullest and latest information about Fashions; and its numerous illustrations, Paris designs, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dressmaker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared to make its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its bright stories, amusing comedies, and thoughtful essays, satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. The serials for 1894 will be written by William Black and Walter Besant, short stories will be written by Mary E. Wilkins, Maria Louise Pool, Ruth McEnery Stuart, Marion Harland and others. Out-door Sports and In-door Games, Social Entertainment, Embroidery, and other interesting topics will receive constant attention. A new series is promised of "Coffee and Repartee."

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE	$4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY	4 00
HARPER'S BAZAR	4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE	2 00

Postage free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

The volumes of the Bazar begin with the first Numbers for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the number current at the time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of Harper's Bazar for three years back, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by mail, postage paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume), for $7.00 per volume.

Cloth cases, for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of $1.00 each.

Remittances should be made by Postoffice Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

First Boy—Which do you like best, your father or your mother?

Second Boy—Well, I like my father best, mostly, but I like my mother best at mealtime.

THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder Receives It

Chicago Tribune.

For leavening power, keeping qualities, purity and general excellence, the World's Fair jury decided that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder had no equal. On each of its claims it was awarded a first prize or a diploma. All the baking powders entered for prizes were subjected to a most exhaustive examination, and the jury was the best equipped to make the decision of any ever got together. Their verdict was supported by the testimony of Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington. Dr. Wiley is an expert on food products and the highest authority on such matters in America. This verdict settles a long debated question as to which among the many baking powders is the best.

Farmers Institute at St Joe.

As announced recently in the COURIER the DeKalb county Farmers' Institute meets next week in St. Joe, Jan. 17 and 18. The address of welcome will be by Ex Auditor C. C. Walter and response by Hon. R. M. Lockhart. There are good papers and talks both days, such as "Courage in Farming," by B. A. Hadsell; "Small Fruits," S. H. Hine; "Corn Crops," J. A. Mounts of Montgomery county; "Fencing," H. M. Widney; "Dairying," James Hodges; "Sheep Husbandry," by A. B. Walsworth; "Birds of Prey," by Mrs. Jane L. Hine. Morris Widney will give some of his excellent bass solos, and there will be papers, recitations, discussions, etc., by Cal. Husselman, Mrs. Carrie Francis, J. E. Dermott, Emery Jounson, J. P. Bonnell, Ott Widney, Mrs. May Hadsell, E. Headley, L. C. Loveland, J. M. Henderson, Nelson Hall, Chris Curie, Emma Curie, and others. It will probably be the best meeting of the kind we have held in the county. St. Joe always rises to the occasion.

Regie—I heard papa say the other day that labor is sweet and noble.

Mamma—So it is, Regie.

Regie—Then, mamma, why does papa hire a man to cut the grass while he sits on the piazza and only looks on?

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of Its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1875 CONTINUED.

Matters in the line of education were not confined to the schools, for in the spring of 1875, a spelling school epidemic broke out and became the rage throughout the country. Auburn citizens took a lively interest in this spontaneous but short-lived revival of the old-fashioned spelling school.

Actuated by curiosity and ambitious for offered prizes, a large assemblage met on the evening of March 12, in Ensley's Hall and were called together by W. L. Penfield. The contest was begun and continued with ever lessening numbers until midnight, when the "school" was adjourned until the Monday evening following. It was then continued by seven persons to whom the strife had been reduced. Gradually one after another went down until but two stood eager and watchful in the war of words.

The winner of the first prize was C. D. Hare, of the second H. C. Peterson, and Mrs. Casebeer was third. There could only good grow out of popular attention to orthography, and it was with regret that interest was seen to decline as swiftly as it had arisen, but it had brought to light the fact that this valuable school study had been suffered to fall into disuse.

On July 5, the school board bought of J. H. Ford for $675, lots No. 79 and 80, W. A., upon which to build a ward school house sometime during the summer. Bonds to the amount of $3,000 were authorized by the town trustees to provide the means. The contract for the proposed building was awarded during July to Messrs. Lewis Griffith and George S. McCord, of Ft. Wayne, for $2,157 56, and the work was to be finished by August 20. The house was built of brick, is two storied and its dimensions are 36 x 36 ft. School was taught therein for a time when the building stood vacant, the outlay seemed ill placed and premature and the unattractive structure, surrounded by rank vegetation in summer, suggested the unfinished university on a Kansas prairie. The necessities of cramped accommodations have of late finally brought about the use of the building for a primary school.

Considerable outlay was made in papering, refitting and reseating the old academy. C. P. Houser, agent of C. E. Dickinson & Co., provided new and commodious desks and seats at a cost of $847.60, and the building in the First Ward was expected to relieve the lower grades from evils of overcrowding.

Meanwhile the school board added very much to the appearance of the new school grounds in the central western part of the town by planting out shrubbery, making walks, and surrounding them with a fence. S. B. Duncan furnished 150 evergreens at a cost of $112 50 and eight chestnuts for $6 00, and Albert Wells received $35.50 for 150 young forest trees. This foresight bears present fruit in adorning and beautifying the grounds and the refreshing shade afforded the troops of children during summer's hottest days, richly rewards the prudent outlay.

Notwithstanding provisions for seating it became evident from the enumeration of 507 children, which represented a gain of 61 over the previous year, that a large school building was a necessity of the immediate future.

J. E. Rose resigned his position as a school trustee and J. J. Littlefield was appointed his successor. A. R. Hoffman, accompanied by Charles Shepherd, went west. Mr. Hoffman had proved himself a teacher of marked ability, his services were of a high order and his many friends saw his departure from Auburn with regret.

On July 5, Orlando M. Record presented an application to the school board for the position of Principal of the schools and was engaged for one year at a salary of $1,000. He was the first teacher to be hired other than by the month and for single terms. James S. Otis, a graduate of the Butler schools, a young man of brilliant promise and a present prominent educator in Ohio, was hired as assistant to Mr. Record. Addie E. Thomas, Ida Mahurin, Laura Clark and Hattie Griswold, qualified by tact and experience, were the other teachers engaged.

The schools opened auspiciously and the usual routine was being regularly conducted on the lines of study and discipline when the schools were dismissed for the day and, as it proved, to assemble no more in the old academy. In the early evening of Oct. 16th, an alarm of fire was given and soon the tidings spread that the school house was burning. Men were promptly on the spot, but they had no ladders nor other appliances to reach and attack the fire, which originated in the west end of the building. The population of the town crowded to the scene and looked on helplessly while the building, in a short time enveloped in flames, slowly burned.

With coolness, many desks and school books could have been saved uninjured, but in the excitement, windows and doors were smashed in, desks broken into fragments and books scattered upon the floor to be lost. Such books as were saved were stored in the house of Mrs. Puffenbarger, close at hand, but the greater number in the higher rooms were destroyed, involving a heavy charge to parents to replace them, although greatly assisted by Mr. Houser, then keeping the pioneer book store of the town. He declined to profit by the public misfortune and generously supplied text books at a minimum of price.

Prudent forethought had placed $3,000 insurance on the building and $500 on the furniture in the Ætna Fire Insurance Company of New York. This was promptly paid and was a great help in subsequent building. Dr. Littlefield resigned his position on the school board and removed to Adrian, Mich. His place was taken by Wm. McIntyre.

There was some salvage on seats which were repaired, others got, three rooms were secured on second floor of Ensley's block, and on Nov. 15, the public schools were re-opened.

The demand for a new school house was imperative, and in this emergency, the Town Board issued $10,000 of eight per cent bonds, the last payable nineteen years from date. These bonds were taken by New York parties and the proceeds of sale were turned over to the school board to be applied in erecting a school house.

All the years since 1876, the taxpayers of Auburn have been paying eight per cent interest, owing to fixed dates and long time. Seventeen years have passed and 136 per cent in interest has been paid on two bonds that mature in '94 and '95 respectfully. This costly financiering which hampers the much needed demands of the present, should impress the public with the importance to them of electing to office men who have been successful in conducting their private affairs and who would as safely and conservatively manage those of the public.

Work was begun upon the first Auburn High School building in the spring of 1876, under the general management of the school board. The site was well chosen, the structure was of brick two stories high, in dimensions 61 x 75 feet and the highest point was sixty feet above ground. The foundation walls were of freestone and supplied a roomy basement.

The contract was let to James W. Case, who, it will be remembered was one of the builders of the academy. Out of thirteen contractors, Mr. Case was the successful bidder and the job was awarded to him at $9,670. The other bids ranged all the way up to $13,000.

The building was erected in accordance with plans and specifications prepared by Messrs. Moser & Gibbs, of Toledo, Ohio. S. B. Gibbs of the firm was engaged by the board to supervise the work. Some changes for the better were made in the way of substituting iron cornices, etc., for wood, which increased cost some hundreds of dollars. This school house was substantially built at a personal loss to the contractor, who erred in making his bid too low. The furniture, consisting of convenient and comfortable modern seats and desks, was furnished by C. P. Houser at a cost of $800.

Heating was effected by means of two Boynton patent hot air furnaces which cost $400. The entire cost of that first building was $12,332.

Michael Seiler, of Fairfield township, a graduate of the State Normal School, was the first superintendent in this school house. His salary of $1,050 per annum, though high, was compensated by the system, the methods and the management introduced and successfully employed by him in grading, teaching and disciplining the schools.

(To be continued next week.)

The Young Folks Met.

About two score of young lads and Misses met by invitation last Thursday evening at the residence of J. A. Barns for a little evening party in honor of Miss Pearl Kelley, who was on the eve of her departure to her new home in Omaha. The evening was very rainy and disagreeable, but that did not prevent the young people assembling at the appointed hour, seven o'clock. The evening passed away pleasantly with conversation, music and innocent games to help the hours along. Then there was a lunch of cake and ice cream, followed by a parting visit all 'round, when they separated with many good wishes. The lads and lasses who enjoyed the occasion were: Fred Clapp and Merle Stone, of Albion; Mary Jones, of Butler; Willie Eaton, of Chicago, and of Auburn were:

Elsie Caruth,	Dallas Gibson,
Gertie Caruth,	Thos. Husselman,
Walter Penfield,	Dot Gibson,
Dollie Husselman,	Blanche Penfield,
James O'Simons,	Jessie Boland,
Mayene Buckley,	Eddie Baker,
Grace Weamer,	Charles Hamilton,
George Boland,	Maud VanAuken,
Harry C. Trentman,	Gay Simons,
Will Coffinberry,	Ethel McKay,
Charlie L. Schaab,	Katie Cool,
Paul Davenport,	George Cool,
Will Buckley,	Ethel Hodge,
John Richards,	Rowena Tefft,
Harry Lewis,	Clara Somers,
Anna Trentman,	Maggie Ford,
Chas. O. Borst,	Pearl Kelley.

AN ODD REGULATION.

HOW THE HOUSE OF COMMONS GETS MEMBERS TO PRAYERS.

Piety Not Always the Incentive to Punctuality—Spurred by the Desire to Sit During the Day's Proceedings—The Ceremonial of Opening the House.

The house of commons is unique among the legislatures of the world in having no complete accommodation for its members. There are altogether 670 members of the house, and there are exactly 430 seats, of which only 306 are on the floor. The speaker takes the chair at 3 o'clock, except on Wednesdays, and unless the house has agreed to what are called "morning sittings," which begin at 2 o'clock. Three o'clock is sufficiently late in the afternoon, judging by the example of other legislatures, but it is too early for the men of business, the practicing lawyers and the men of fashion, who still form so large a factor in the membership of parliament. It is rarely therefore that there are more than a few members in attendance at that hour. Another reason for this abstension may be that this is the hour of devotion. Each sitting of the house is begun by the solemn reading of prayers by the speaker's chaplain, at present the well known Archdeacon Farrar. Those who attend prayers reap an immediate and earthly reward. On the large table that stands in front of the speaker's chair there is a box which contains a number of cards with the word "Prayers" printed upon them.

The member who has attended prayers writes his name on this card and thereafter places it in the small slot which is at the back of each seat in the house, and for that particular evening that seat is his. He may leave the seat for hours, but he is entitled to it whenever he returns and can expel any person who may have taken it during his absence. There are only two classes of persons in the house who have any settled rights with regard to seats. The front bench on the right hand side of the speaker's chair is called the treasury bench, and on this sit the various members of the existing administration. The bench immediately opposite is called the front opposition bench, and on this sit the members of the previous administration.

There are, it will be thus easily understood, two peculiarities under these circumstances about the attendance at prayers. First, the gentlemen usually present are not always those most distinguished for their piety. The caustic editor of Truth has taken in recent years to laying the foundation stones of nonconformist places of worship, but nobody would be less likely to set up a claim for special piety than Mr. Labouchere. Nevertheless, every night of the week Mr. Labouchere listens with pious attention to the ministrations of the chaplain. The secret reason is that the first seat on the front bench below the gangway is a place peculiarly well suited for the guerrilla that is ever on the watch for the moment to make an onslaught on a wicked administration, and Mr. Labouchere, as the chief of the guerrillas, is especially fond of this seat and has occupied it for years. This incumbency, though sanctified by so many years of usage, has still to be won by regular attendance at every evening's prayers. The rule is inflexible, except in the cases already mentioned, that a seat can be held only for one night, and that then it shall be won by attendance at prayers. The second peculiarity is that the men who are most in want of the assistance of prayers, as having the heaviest responsibility upon their shoulders—the members of the administration and the leaders of parties—are always conspicuously absent.

Just before prayers are begun the procession of the speaker to his place in the house takes place. Enough of the old ceremonial still exists to make this a quaint and interesting spectacle. The speaker still wears the large, full bottomed wig of state occasions, is dressed in a short tailed coat, covered by a sweeping robe, wears knee breeches and low shoes with large buckles. Behind and before him is a small cohort of attendants—the sergeant-at-arms bearing the mace, the chaplain with prayerbook in hand, the trainbearer holding up the train and two or three other attendants, the exact purpose of whom it is impossible to tell beyond the desire to make the procession more imposing in point of numbers. The sergeant-at-arms, like the speaker, is arrayed in knee breeches, with low shoes. He carries a sword by his side, but is allowed to dispense with the wig. The ceremonial is made more imposing by the policemen and attendants, who shout along the corridors which separate the speaker's house from the house of commons: "Speaker! Speaker!" a shout which has a strange, indefinable effect, however often heard, and stirs the blood somewhat as the dreams of De Quincey were moved by the recollection of the Roman consul passing over the Appian way. It sounds like a reminiscence and momentary embodiment of all the fierce struggle, oratorial triumphs, tragic and world shaking events which are associated with the history of the august parliament of Great Britain.

When the speaker reaches the lobby, the chief of the police force attached to the house repeats the cry, "Speaker!" with the additional words, "Hats off, strangers," and it is rarely that the lobby, however noisy and tumultuous before, does not fall into a certain timid silence as this black, solemn and picturesque group sweeps by.

When the speaker enters the house, every member rises from his seat. The speaker bows two or three times as he walks up the floor, and some of the country gentlemen and the more ceremonious members of the house bow at the same time.—Thomas Power O'Connor in Harper's Magazine.

We begin The New Year with

SWEEPING REDUCTIONS

In Every Department.

Many Nice

Dress Goods and Cloaks

Going at

HALF OUR FORMER PRICES.

We are Selling

CLOTHING

Regardless of Cost.

Now is the time to save money on Carpets and Curtains.

Sixty-five cent carpets now go for fifty-two.

Call to see us. We will make you happy.

SCHAAB & BRO.,
AUBURN.

INEBRIETY IS A DISEASE NOT A CRIME.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,
Auburn, Indiana.

Incorporated under the Laws of Indiana and Endorsed by the U. S. Government. With Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Remedies we Cure

DRUNKENNESS
AND
Morphine Habit.

HOME TREATMENT for the Tobacco Habit and Nerve Exhaustion. No BOLTS. No BARS. No PAIN whatever. Absolute Freedom. IMITATORS, by adroitly worded advertisements, seek to convey the impression that they are handling Dr. Keeley's Remedies and employ his methods of treatment. Such persons are only Imitators and impose an imitation on the Public for the Genuine. For full information as to the Keeley Cure, both at the Institute and by home treatment address.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,
AUBURN, IND.

All Correspondence Strictly Confidential.

FAYETTE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Is beautifully located and its buildings are very attractive. In order to give ample accommodation for the present demand, another large building has been added. No saloons. Equipments are excellent; pure associations. Teachers are specialists—men and women of power and culture, carefully selected for their special work. Normal, Commercial, Scientific, Shorthand, Typewriting, Elocutionary and Musical departments in addition to the regular college courses. Our aim is to endow each pupil with the four great essentials to true success: vigorous health, accurate knowledge, right purpose, and executive ability. $27 pays tuition, board and room-rent, for 10 weeks; $48, for 20 weeks.

For Catalogue, address, J. E. DODDS, Pres't, Fayette, O.

Awarded Highest Honor World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
[illegible] A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Situation in Brazil—England to Strengthen Her Navy—Crushed by an Avalanche—World's Fair Exhibitors Must Stand the Loss—Last Year's Crops.

BRAZILIAN WAR.

The People Are Anxiously Awaiting the Naval Battle.

The New York Herald's Montevideo, Uruguay, special says: The Herald's correspondent at Rio sends word that the heat there is excessive, and the general feeling among the residents is one of resignation, coupled with a wish that something may happen soon, even if it be the worst that could possibly result from an attack on the rebel ships by the government's new cruisers and torpedo boats.

There are daily rumors in the capital of the arrival of Peixoto's fleet outside the bay, but still it does not appear, while every night Mello's ships, which are reported to be hovering about the entrance of the bay, are rumored to have landed a body of rebel soldiers from Rio Grande Do Sul. Fort Villegaignon now barely responds to the fire from the loyal guns, and appears to be reserving her ammunition, while the rebel ship's crew are busily engaged coaling and building up barriers of cotton or hay on Cobras Island. Peixoto's men meanwhile are busy planting additional heavy guns and also arching rapid fire guns upon the hills facing the bay. They are receiving war supplies from Europe by way of the railroad from Santos.

Exhibitors Must Stand the Loss.

Washington special: Exhibitors whose goods were destroyed by fire in the World's Fair will have to stand whatever loss occurred to them by such destruction, unless they bring an action in the courts to show that there was criminal negligence or complicity on the part of the exposition officials. The Government is not responsible for the safety of goods in bonded warehouses, which are established for the convenience of importers, but when merchandise stored therein is destroyed, it generously remits the duties which otherwise would have to be paid on such goods. The railroads have held the exhibitors by the throat in this matter, said an official of the Treasury Department this month, and they are responsible for the delay in removing the exhibits, which have been ready for shipment some time. Other persons who will lose by the fire are those who while in Chicago, bought exhibits for delivery after the fair was over and who have not yet received them.

The Big Fight.

Jacksonville (Fla.) special: A glove contest arranged with the same conditions under which Corbett and Mitchell are matched is to take place in this city the latter end of the week. The principals are Green Harris of Tennessee, and Perry Watkins of Florida. Purse, $550. Although the Duval Athletic Club deny it, it is generally known that this will be in the nature of a challenge to Governor Mitchell. If the contest is allowed to go on, it will be taken for a certainty that the Corbett-Mitchell battle will take place, while, if it is stopped, the courts will be asked to decide the matter.

More War Ships.

The London Daily News publishes a long leader acknowledging the necessity that Great Britain build eight more war ships, eight first-class cruisers and many smaller vessels, in order to equal the combined fleets of Russia and France. The News hints that the Government will not rest content with mere equality, but desires to provide against all possible combinations and emergencies.

Fire at Lafayette.

Fire destroyed the D. N. Foster Furniture and Carpet Company at Lafayette, Ind. It was a "smoke fire," the firemen being unable to reach the flames. The building belongs to A. G. Carnahan, and is insured for $14,000. The building loss will be comparatively small. There is $19,000 insurance on stock, divided between nine companies.

Last Year's Crops.

The Government crop report for 1893 shows a yield of 396,000,000 bushels of wheat, 1,619,000,000 bushels of corn, 638,854,850 bushels of oats, 26,555,446 bushels of rye, 69,869,495 bushels of barley, 12,132,311 bushels of buckwheat, 183,034,203 bushels of potatoes, 483,023,963 pounds of tobacco and 65,766,158 tons of hay.

Children the Victims.

At Vandalia, Ill., a disease something like the grip is prevailing among children. Several cases have proved fatal. The victims while at play, apparently well, are suddenly stricken, fall over unconscious, and remain so until death.

Crushed by an Avalanche.

A dispatch from Urbino, Italy, says it is reported there that three houses at Porte d'Azzo, in the Apennines, were crushed by an avalanche falling on them. Seven persons were buried in the ruins. Three of them were taken out dead.

Riot in the Ottumwa Jail.

A riot occurred at the county jail at Ottumwa, Iowa. Thirty persons got angry because they were refused more supper. They broke up all the furniture in the jail, tore off the cell doors, threw them into the corridor and pelted the family of the turnkey with coal, which they hurled through the "chuckhole." A platoon of police was called and quelled the disturbance. The ringleaders were locked in close cells.

Race War.

Black Rock, Ark., is considerably excited over a notice found posted on one of the leading stores the other morning warning all colored persons to leave the town inside of ten days, and also warning white property owners to have the colored people vacate or they would have their property burned. Some of the citizens consider it a hoax, while others think there is an organized conspiracy to drive the colored people from the town. There are between 300 and 500 of these in the town, and some of the mill-owners have been employing them instead of white labor in operating their mills. Several barns have been burned in portions of the county, and it looks as if a vigilance committee would have to get to work.

FIRE AT THE FAIR.

The Peristyle Succumbs to the Flames—Then the Art Palace and Grand Music Hall Fell.

Chicago special: Before the gaze of a vast throng the beautiful Peristyle of the World's Columbian Exposition met a glorious end, and the magnificent column sank to ashes in a funeral pyre. With it went the Casino and Music Hall flanking the Peristyle at either end before the destruction of the grand water entrance to the fair had been completed, the great manufacturers' building, containing $2,000,000 worth of exhibits, packed and ready for shipment, was on fire in a dozen places, while brave firemen with heroic energy were risking life and limb to stay the destruction. Fifty thousand people watched the desperate fight and cheered the efforts of the men who on the roof, 250 feet or more from the ground, were struggling to beat back the flames. It was a grand contest and was waged for hours without an apparent gain on either side. The blaze played in the woodwork of the roof, gradually eating through and dropping burning brands amidst the costly exhibits on the floor below. There other detachments of firemen were stationed to extinguish the brands as they fell, and inside the building fire engines were playing streams to soak the floors and make them less combustible. Among the exhibitors a semi-panic reigned and frantic foreigners were using every effort to remove goods to places of safety. Two firemen were killed and several injured.

DOLE DECLINES

To Surrender the Hawaiian Government.

Victoria (B. C.) special: The following is a summary of the situation at Honolulu on January 1, 1894, when the Warimoo, just arrived here, left that port: Minister Willis, in reply to a communication from President Dole, demanded of the Provisional Government that it surrender to the Queen, who promised amnesty to all.

President Dole replied, refusing to consider this demand. A week of terrible fear ensued after the arrival of the revenue cutter Corwin. Minister Willis held the menace of using force with the Provisional Government and the citizens got in readiness to rush to arms, though it was generally believed the minister was bluffing. All fears were ended by receipt of the United Press dispatch per steamer Arawa on December 27.

All is quiet at Honolulu. The Provisional Government has a force of men under arms and the palace strongly fortified. Minister Willis received a bulky batch of dispatches. He immediately entered upon renewed intercourse with Liliuokalani. Houses are being searched for concealed arms.

On the 16th the alarm was revived by the British Minister receiving permission from the Government to land marines from H. M. S. Champion for protection of British interests. Capt. Rooke stated that he expected the Queen to be restored by the American forces and would land fifty marines.

BAD BLUNDER.

Two Officers and Twenty-Six Men Slaughtered.

Liverpool special: A dispatch from Sierra Leone, northwest coast of Africa, says: Capt. Lendy and Sergt. Lislon of the British army, together with twenty-six men of a West India regiment, have been killed at Warina, in the interior, by French troops.

Capt. Lendy has charge of the newly organized frontier police and it is surmised that the French mistook him and his men for the natives against whom they were then operating.

According to all accounts the French opened fire upon the British troops without provocation or warning. How they could have made such a mistake it is very difficult to conceive, as the West India regiment wear bright scarlet uniforms, carry British arms, and observe all the regulations of army discipline.

The attack took place in the district whose possession is still a matter of dispute between France and England. Some time ago Capt. Lendy was supposed to be hemmed in by natives near Koranko and a detachment of the West Indian Regiment was sent to his aid. Then a larger force from the same regiment was dispatched after the first. It is not known whether both forces were with him at the time of the French attack.

Capt. Lendy left Liverpool in November, 1892.

NOT ENCOURAGING.

The Iron Trade Review Does Not See a Brilliant Future.

The Iron Trade Review says: The close of 1893 recorded the lowest prices for iron and steel in the history of the trade. There has been a disposition to think the coming of 1894 would arrest the downward tendency, but evidences are to the contrary. It is known that on ores, offers have been made for the coming year lower than were touched in 1893 on standard grades; in pig iron, the opening of the year brings a report of an offer by a northern furnace, using Lake Superior ores, to sell for deliveries running into the spring at a figure not touched by December transactions.

The study of costs is the most serious business brokers have on hand today, and, while every buyer may be satisfied that what is raw material to him has touched a level that leaves the maker without profit, he knows that with greater reductions the market may be still further depressed, and that with foreign competition added to that at home, the tendency must be further downward.

TO BLOW UP

The Iowa State Capitol, Law-Makers Included.

Des Moines (Iowa) special: George Redenour, a private detective of this city tells a thrilling story of a plot he claims to have unearthed to blow up the State Capitol and other public buildings in Des Moines with dynamite. Redenour has been a private detective for sometime, and has recently done a number of good jobs. He gave the police information which led to the arrest of William McKenna, alias Frank Doty, and Charles Robson, for safe-blowing and postoffice robbery. He says he has overheard the conversation of the plotters, two of whom, at least, are from Chicago, and he thinks they are Anarchists. He says they are manufacturing dynamite bombs and are preparing to blow up the Federal Building and Court House. The latter building, he says, is to be blown up to liberate Robson and Doty. The blowing up of the Capitol is to be done, he says, while the Legislature is in session.

Conflicts Between Troops and Peasants.

Rome special: At the Calinsetta demonstration the other evening, under the auspices of the Fasci Del Lavorctori, it wound up in a conflict between the troops and peasants. One soldier was wounded by a peasant, and when this was learned the troops fired a volley into the crowd, killing ten and wounding several others.

Cut in Twain by a Grip.

Chicago special: A man who was not identified, but who is supposed to have been a peddler, met a frightful death while he was attempting to board a Milwaukee avenue grip train. His body was severed completely above the waist before the gripman could stop the train.

None of the trainmen apparently saw him fall. He must have been stunned, for he made no outcry. He fell with his head inside the rail and was rolled some distance. When the wheels passed over him that side of the car was raised off the track. The conductor knew something was wrong and signaled the gripman to stop. Before the train was stopped three trailers passed over his body. When found the two portions of the man's body were some feet apart.

A Full Jail.

Fifty-two prisoners are now waiting behind the iron barred gratings of Cook County, at Chicago jail, charged with murder. Besides this large number of men who are to be tried for their lives, over 500 other prisoners charged with almost every crime on the calendar are in the jail awaiting trial.

At no time has the County Jail been so completely crowded with prisoners as within the last few months. Not a cell is empty. Few contain less than two prisoners. In many instances three and even four persons are crowded within the narrow walls of a single cell. The women's quarters are as full as the men's. But since the release of Anastasia Biechke a few months ago, no woman remains there under the charge of murder.

After Mello.

Officers in command of the ships belonging to the Government of President Peixoto of Brazil, have received instructions to immediately embark provisions, coal, and other supplies, and proceed with all possible haste to Pernambuco, where they will join the Nictheroy and American, and prepare for a combined movement against Admiral Mello and Admiral Da Gama. It is also stated that agents in Europe of President Peixoto have been instructed to do their utmost to raise the money necessary to complete and provision two war vessels of Brazil which are now at Toulon, in order that they may as soon as possible reinforce the fleet in the Brazilian waters.

A Murderer Escapes.

Toledo special, Chief of Police Raitz has returned from Indianapolis with Mrs. George Kohler, on complaint of whom the police arrested George Kohler, her husband, for the murder of Mrs. Gottlieb Stahl nine years ago. The woman was taken before the Prosecuting Attorney for examination. It turns out that she was not, as first stated, divorced from Kohler, and is still his lawful wife. In this relationship she cannot give evidence against the prisoner, who will be released. The police firmly believe that Kohler is the man who murdered Mrs. Stahl.

Flown Into a Well.

The boiler of Haney Brothers' sawmill, near New Lexington, Ohio, exploded, seriously injuring Ira Haney, engineer, and slightly injuring other hands about the mill. The boiler was thrown end over end about forty feet and the engine and machinery were scattered in every direction. The engineer was badly scalded and hurled quite a distance, landing in a well containing several feet of water, from which he was rescued in an unconscious condition. It is thought he will recover. The boiler was old and has long been considered unsafe.

Determined to Fight.

Jacksonville (Fla.) special: So certain are members of the Duval Athletic Club that the Corbett-Mitchell fight will be pulled off in this city, that another gang of men has been put to work on the arena which is now over half completed. Soon, officials say, they will issue a statement in which their plans will be disclosed. These plans are said to be so perfected that there will be no way by which the fight can be prevented.

Mormons in Paris.

The Paris correspondent of the London Globe says that the arrival of a prominent Mormon elder in that city is the chief gossip of the boulevards. The correspondent adds that the Mormor came to make converts, which Utah sorely wants, and that he intends to confine his labors to the quarters in Paris inhabited by the working classes before going to the well-explored Mormon hunting-grounds of Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany, and Switzerland.

New Gold Field.

Denver special: Another gold camp has come forth seeking public recognition. Unconfirmed reports have been received of this new field during the past two months and the first strike of note was made last week. The new strike is on Crooked Creek, near Buena Vista. The lucky prospectors are H. E. Woodward and Lewis Weinberg, who found free gold in white quartz in their claim, named the Nellie Blye, reported to assay twelve ounces to the ton.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3 50	@ 6 00
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4 00	@ 5 80
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	2 25	@ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	61½	@ 62½
CORN—No. 2	35	@ 36
OATS—No. 2	29	@ 30
RYE—No. 2	45	@ 46
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	26	@ 27
EGGS—Fresh	21	@ 22
POTATOES—Per bu	50	@ 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3 00	@ 5 25
HOGS—Choice Light	3 00	@ 5 50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	2 00	@ 3 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	56	@ 57
CORN—No. 2 White	35½	@ 36½
OATS—No. 2 White	31	@ 32
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 5 00
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	58	@ 59
CORN—No. 2	32	@ 33
OATS—No. 2	28	@ 29
PORK—Mess	13 00	@13 75
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 5 00
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 50
SHEEP	2 00	@ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	58½	@ 59½
CORN—No. 2	36½	@ 37½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	31	@ 32
RYE—No. 2	52	@ 54
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 4 75
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 75
SHEEP	2 00	@ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	61½	@ 62½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	38	@ 39
OATS—No. 2 White	28	@ 30
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	61	@ 62
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	36½	@ 37½
OATS—No. 2 White	29	@ 29½
RYE—No. 2	50	@ 52
BUFFALO.
BEEF CATTLE—Good to Prime	2 50	@ 5 25
HOGS—Mixed Packers	4 00	@ 6 00
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	72½	@ 73½
No. 2 Red	63	@ 65
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	60	@ 61
CORN—No. 3	34½	@ 35½
OATS—No. 3 White	29	@ 31
RYE—No. 1	47	@ 48
BARLEY—No. 2	50	@ 51
PORK—Mess	12 50	@13 00
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 5 50
HOGS	5 75	@ 6 50
SHEEP	3 00	@ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	68	@ 69
CORN—No. 2	43	@ 44
OATS—White Western	36	@ 41
BUTTER—Choice	20	@ 26
PORK—Mess	13 75	@14 00

FAIR IS FIRE SWEPT.

COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION BUILDINGS CONSUMED.

The Peristyle in Ruins—Casino and Music Hall Devoured by Hungry Flames—Vast Fiery Furnace in the Great Manufactures Building.

Loss of Life and Thousands.

Fire licked up a large part of the remnants of the World's Columbian Exposition Monday night. The South Park Commissioners will not tear down the majestic Peristyle, nor will the touch of the wrecker defile the Music Hall or the Casino. A vexed problem that touched the sentiment of the world to the quick has been solved. To-day the Park Commissioners have to deal with ruins where proud buildings stood. Twenty thousand spectators, according to a Chicago dispatch, saw the east end of the Court of Honor vanish in smoke and flame. The fire started in the Casino, destroyed that building, then swept northward along the Peristyle into Music Hall, and from there across and into the Manufactures Building. For three hours the flames raged along the east end of the Court of Honor until nothing was left but charred timbers and blackened plaster. A shower of sparks fell upon the ice in the lagoon until it looked like a sea of fire; they fell upon the adjacent buildings, threatening them with destruction. It was a magnificent spectacle that drew ceaseless exclamations of wonder and awe from the spectators that crowded the grounds in the vicinity of the fire. It was the greatest pyrotechnic display of the Fair.

Manufactures Roof Catches.

But the work of destruction did not end with the burning of these buildings. Firebrands were carried to the roof of Manufactures Building, and the promenade around the crown of that enormous structure was soon on fire. The wind was strong and the flames soon reached the immense wooden ventilators under the eaves, and they were soon burning fiercely. The clere-story under the roof was quickly in a blaze. From this and through the great holes made in the glass roof fell a continuous shower of firebrands, and in twenty minutes there were over a dozen small conflagrations in the Belgian, French, German and English sections. Firemen and Columbian Guards fought these fires so successfully that, although the facades and exhibit structures were destroyed, probably not more than a dozen cases containing exhibits were burned. The goods jeopardized represented $2,500,000; the loss is not over $100,000, principally by water. How much insurance is carried will not be learned for some time, as many of the policies were written in foreign countries. There is little if any insurance on the Manufactures Building, and none on the Casino, Peristyle and Music Hall.

The fire worked clear around the inside of the dome, burning itself out at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning.

As in the Cold Storage fire, life was lost in fighting it. William Mackie, of Engine Company No. 61, fell from the Peristyle and died an hour later at Mercy Hospital. Three other men were injured.

The fire was discovered at 5:30 o'clock on the second floor in the northwest corner of the Casino. C. Mason, a guard on duty in Music Hall, saw it and ran to a fire-alarm box and tried to turn in an alarm, but the key would not work. Then he went to another box, and again failed. He tried a third with the same result, and then a fourth. Then he gave it up and hunted up a telephone, and succeeded in getting an alarm at last. By this time the flames had gained a strong headway. Marshal Malley responded with one engine, and immediately turned in a 4:11 alarm.

A week ago twenty engines would have responded to this call, but owing to the changes that have been made in the arrangement for fire protection at the Fair only ten engines responded. These found that they had more than they could contend with, so a special call was sent in, and this was soon followed by a second special. It was too late to attempt to save the Casino, and the firemen devoted most of their attention to saving the Agricultural Building and to checking the flames on the Peristyle.

Tramps Suspected of Arson.

It is more than probable that the fire was started by tramps. They have been fairly swarming in the Fair grounds since the first of the month, especially around the Casino and Music Hall. There is no guard at all stationed in the Casino nor in fact anywhere nearer that point than Music Hall, where one man keeps watch. There is also a guard in the Convent of La Rabida. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon a dozen tramps walked into Music Hall, where Guard C. Mason was on duty. He ordered them to leave, but they made an insolent reply and refused to go. Mason succeeded in driving them out. They went in the direction of the Casino, and in an hour after the fire was discovered. No one had any right to be around the Casino and there has been no fire there for months, but there were a number of old packing cases and a quantity of excelsior in the building, and if the fire was not started by design it could easily have been started by means of a cigar stub or the ashes of a pipe carelessly emptied in the inflammable stuff that thickly covered the floor in places.

The estimates on the value of the goods which were jeopardized by the fire in Manufactures Building vary widely, though it is probable that $2,000,000 is a conservative approximation of what remained on the floor when the fire broke out. The foreigners have had a hard time getting their exhibits shipped from Chicago. A statement prepared by Collector Clark, at the last meeting of his chief inspectors, showed that only one-third of the foreign goods had been started home. Two months have passed since the work began. At the present rate it looked as if the last of the foreign goods would not be out of Jackson Park before May 1. The delay in shipment is said to be due to the railroads.

The Buildings Destroyed.

Manufactures and Liberal Arts Building was the mammoth structure of the Exposition and notable for its symmetrical proportions. It was the largest building in area ever erected on the western hemisphere and the largest under a roof in the world. Despite its immense proportions every available foot of space in the great structure was taken. It was three times larger than the cathedral of St. Peter in Rome and four times larger than the old Roman Coliseum, which seated 80,000 persons. The cost of this immense structure was $1,700,000. Material, 17,000,000 feet of lumber, 12,000,000 pounds of steel in trusses of central hall, 2,000,000 pounds of iron in roof of nave. There were eleven acres of skylights and forty car loads of glass in the roof. The Peristyle, with the Music Hall and Casino at either end, was the most imposing object seen by the World's Fair visitor as he approached Jackson Park and Lake Michigan. Music Hall, which was situated on the shore of Lake Michigan at the northerly end of the great peristyle, was 140 feet wide by 246 feet long and about 65 feet high. The Casino was one of the most popular structures on the ground, and it was generally admired for its beauty of architecture. It was situated at the south end of the peristyle.

WILLIS' DEMAND ON DOLE.

Formal Statement of President Cleveland's Attitude Toward Hawaii.

The Canadian Pacific steamer Warrimoo arrived, bringing Honolulu advices. Most intense excitement prevailed throughout Honolulu until the arrival of the revenue cutter Corwin. After that Minister Willis made his demand upon President Dole to surrender the Government to the Queen. The Provisional Government promptly refused and Minister Willis took no steps to enforce a compliance with his order. The excitement then rapidly subsided, and for a week before the sailing of the Warrimoo there had been perfect tranquillity.

The demand of Minister Willis upon the Provisional Government to step down and out was couched in the following words:

Mr. President and gentlemen, the President of the United States has very much regretted the delay in the consideration of the Hawaiian question, but it is unavoidable. So much of it as has occurred since my arrival has been due to certain conditions precedent, compliance with which was required before I was authorized to confer with you. The President also regrets, as most assuredly do I, that any secrecy should have surrounded the interchange of views between our two governments. I may say this, however, that the secrecy thus far observed has been in the interest and for the safety of all your people. I need hardly promise that the President's action upon the Hawaiian question has been under the dictates of honor and duty. It is now and has been from the beginning absolutely free from prejudice and resentment, and entirely consistent with long-established friendship and treaty ties, which have so closely bound together our respective governments. The President deemed it his duty to withdraw from the Senate the treaty of annexation, which had been signed by the Secretary of State and agents of your government, and to dispatch a trusty representative to Hawaii to impartially investigate the causes of your revolution and to ascertain and report the true situation in these islands. This information was needed the better to enable the President to discharge a delicate and important duty. Upon the facts embodied in Mr. Blount's report the President has arrived at certain conclusions and determined upon a certain course of action, which it becomes my duty to acquaint you with. The provisional government was not established by the Hawaiian people nor with their consent or acquiescence, nor has it since existed with their consent. The Queen refused to surrender her powers to the provisional government until convinced that the minister of the United States had recognized it as the de facto authority, and would support and defend it with the military forces of the United States, and that resistance would provoke a bloody conflict with that force. She was advised and assured by her ministers and leaders of the movement for the overthrow of her government that if she surrendered under protest her case would afterward be fairly considered by the President of the United States. The Queen finally yielded to the armed forces of the United States then quartered at Honolulu, relying on the good faith and honor of the President, when informed of what occurred, to undo the action of the Minister and reinstate her.

The President has, therefore, determined that he will not send back to the Senate for its action thereon the treaty which he withdrew from that body for further consideration March 9 last. In view of these conclusions I was instructed by the President of the United States to take advantage of an early opportunity to inform the Queen of this determination and of his views as to the responsibility of our Government. The President, however, felt that we, by our original interference, had incurred a responsibility to the whole Hawaiian community, and that it would not be just to put one party at the mercy of the other.

I was, therefore, instructed at the same time to inform her that the President expected that she would pursue a magnanimous course by granting full amnesty to all who participated in the movement against her, including persons who are or who have been officially or otherwise connected with the provisional government, depriving them of no right or privilege which they enjoyed before the revolution last January, and that all obligations created by the provisional government in the course of administration should be assumed.

In obedience to the command of the President I have secured the Queen's agreement to that course, and I now deliver a writing, signed by her and duly attested, a copy of which I will leave with you.

It becomes my further duty to advise you, sir, the executive of the provisional government, and your ministers, of the President's determination of the question, which your action and that of the queen devolved upon him, and that you are expected to promptly relinquish to her her constitutional authority. And now, Mr. President and gentlemen of the provisional government, with a deep and solemn sense of the gravity of the situation and with the earnest hope that your answer will be inspired by that high patriotism which forgets all self-interest, in the name and by the authority of the United States of America, I submit to you the question: Are you willing to abide by the decision of the President? I will leave this with you, Mr. President, as your stenographer may not have got every word, and it may help him. I will also leave the certified copy that I referred to, the agreement of the Queen.

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Willis' remarks, President Dole on behalf of the provisional government made a brief statement refusing to surrender any portion of the power represented by him and his associates and declining the offer of the Queen, and the conference was at an end. The excitement in Honolulu, which was at fever heat before the meeting, quickly subsided as the news became known, and since Dec. 19 perfect tranquillity has prevailed throughout the islands.

A YEAR'S CRIMES.

The Record of 1893 Has a Hopeful Look.

In what may be called the world's moral departments some of the statistics for 1893 have a hopeful look, so far as this country is concerned. The number of murders and homicides of various kinds, amounting to 6,615, shows a slight falling off as compared with 1892, when there were 6,791, whereas for ten years previously they showed a steady increase. The record of suicides on the other hand is not so encouraging, as it numbers 4,436 as against 3,800 in 1892. For the last fifteen years suicides in the United States have increased steadily and out of proportion to the increase of population. The enormous disproportion between males and females is shown by the fact that while 858 of the latter took their own lives there were 3,578 of the former.

As the outcome of murders and other crimes 126 persons have been executed legally, as against 107 in 1892, and 230 have been lynched, as against 236 in 1892. The increase in legal and the decrease in illegal hangings would indicate healthier conditions in the operations of justice, for it is the first time in fifteen years that the record of lynching has shown a decrease. The statistics, as usual, point to the South as the favorite locality of Judge Lynch and mob law. While 17 have been lynched in the Northern 183 have been lynched in the Southern States, and of these 183 no less than 154 were colored men.

Churches as Shelters.

Dr. John A. B. Wilson, a New York minister, delivered a stirring sermon Sunday on the destitution of the poor in that city. Between 40,000 and 50,000 men, he declared, walked the streets shelterless every night. "Let us see to it," he finally said, "that, if no other home can be provided for the shelterless, the churches shall be opened to them, no matter what the inconvenience to ourselves. It was done centuries ago, why not do it now? Open the churches to the people day and night, for sitting-rooms, for reading-rooms, for lodging-rooms, for warmth and shelter. Who ever fleemed it sacrilege during the war, when church buildings were converted into hospitals for the wounded? There is now no holier use to put them to under heaven or in heaven than to open them to these poverty-stricken and wounded brethren of our Lord and ours."

HOOSIER HAPPENINGS

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCISELY CONDENSED.

What Our Neighbors are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers About Indianians.

A Converse Enoch Arden.

A case which in many respects resembles that of Enoch Arden developed at Converse. A day or so ago Mrs. Noah Long, who with her children moved to Converse, a year or more ago, received a letter from her husband's sister, stating that Mr. Long, who mysteriously disappeared while he and his family were living in Carroll County, four years since, was alive and well in Arizona. Long married his wife, who was a Miss Retta Eltzroth, in 1883, in Carroll County, and they lived together happily, three children being born to them, until February, 1890. Then Long took two horses to Frankfort, Ind., sold them for $250 and disappeared suddenly and completely. His father supposing he had gone West made many trips beyond the Mississippi in search of him, but not a trace of him was found and last year Mrs. Long, in despair moved to Converse. Alleging abandonment, she sued for divorce and got a decree, which, however, in accordance with the Indiana statute forbade her marriage within two years, the husband being a non-resident. Mrs. Long, however, met and became infatuated with a butter-maker named A. R. Anderson and being anxious to wed him, they went to Michigan and were married and now reside in that State. The information just received that Mr. Long is alive, reasonably happy and meditating a visit to his old home, caused a sensation at Converse where the family is known.

Minor State Items.

THE number of children of school age in Shelby County is 9,077.

FARMER WINTHAUS was kicked to death by his horse near Moore's Hill.

THE Anderson Flint-Glass Bottle Works Company has reorganized with $100,000 capital.

KNOX COUNTY farmers are beginning to give a good deal of attention to the cultivation of plum trees.

CHARLES CRABB, a crippled chicken huckster, was assaulted and robbed near Dublin. The highwaymen got $40.

JOHN HAMILTON, one of Muncie's oldest citizens, was stricken with paralysis and is not expected to live.

AT the close of 1893 there were 485 boys in the Indiana Reform School. All except eleven of the number are able to write letters.

LUTHER MORRIS of Fairmount, has been sued at Marion for $2,000 damages for operating a saloon and the court is asked to abate the nuisance.

MISS MAGGIE HAUSER, aged 50, of Hope, Bartholomew County, daughter of the late Martin Houser, died suddenly of heart disease. She weighed 300 pounds.

MRS. AUGUSTA SCHMIDT, who killed her tenant, Oscar Walton, in October, was refused bail in a habeas corpus proceeding at Kokomo. She will be tried January 29.

WILLIAM MURPHY, a Paragon store-keeper, discovered burglars in his store, and opened fire on them. One was wounded and they were tracked by the blood into the country.

EUGENE F. BRADY of Lafayette, the Deputy United States Marshal who was so badly shot last September while in pursuit of the Dalton gang in Indian Territory, has so far recovered as to be able to get around.

IT has just come to light that Senator Calvin S. Brice's recent visit to the gas belt cities was for the purpose of closing a deal whereby about 15,000 acres of gas lands in Madison, Delaware, Jay, and Blackford Counties will be drained to furnish gas for the Lima (Ohio) gas field, where the supply is failing. It has been determined to lay a sixteen-inch main direct from these fields to the Ohio cities where gas is now being used, and the work will begin in a very short time. Thousands of acres of gas territory have been leased from the farmers during the past season, because they were in need of money. There will be almost seventy-five miles of pipe line, and the cost will reach $1,000,000, it is said.

PATENTS have been issued to Indiana inventors as follows: James V. Ashcraft, Dunkirk, pliers; Frederick Berner, Jr., Indianapolis, assignor of three-fourths to M. B. Christ, wood embossing machine; William T. Easter, Muncie, medical case; William K. Fraley, Lebanon, hoof trimmer; Charles M. Kiler, assignor of one-half to S. Urmston, Indianapolis, station indicator; Charles N. Leonard, Indianapolis, continuous table for physicians; George Philion, Mishawaka, truck; William H. Spence, Fairmount, blackboard eraser; John R. Staudt, Indianapolis, flour bolt; James W. Underwood, Sheridan, gas heating apparatus; Samuel D. Van Pelt, Anderson, slate-dressing machine; John L. Wagner, Terra Haute, box car door.

THE death of Mrs. Peter McPherson at Muncie is making no end of superstitious gossip there. A few evenings ago Mrs. McPherson was at a social gathering and some one late in the evening discovered just thirteen people present. Another thoughtless person stated that disaster and death would follow some member of the party before the new year passed. "As the Lord would never again permit those same persons to again meet alone," Mrs. McPherson, being a susceptible woman, was much affected and at once announced that she felt ill and was conveyed home. She was closely watched, but grew worse until death relieved her sufferings. Just before her spirit passed away she opened her eyes and said: "The Lord's will be done," then quietly passed away.

TIMOTHY O'CONNOR, Linden farmer, was accidentally shot and killed by his brother while coon hunting.

WM. CLEARY entered a gas regulator at Muncie, to make some repairs. The gas exploded and he was seriously injured. The fire spread to the Port Glass Works, but was extinguished with small loss.

HARRY HOOVER, Ira Eads, Charlie Shoeniker and Lee Davis, prisoners in the Fowler Jail, escaped by sawing out a window and lowering themselves to the ground with blankets. The Sheriff offers $100 reward for their capture.

OMER ISGRIGG, young man living near Thorntown, had his right arm torn off at the elbow, while feeding a corn husker.

FIRE at Fortville destroyed the four-story business block of Joseph Binn & Sons, general merchants, and the saloon of Charles Shaffer, and wrecked a residence of Luna Hudson. Loss, $10,000, partially insured. The fire was caused by a natural gas jet.

A 14-YEAR-OLD boy named Armstrong went into the stable of John Hogeman near Prescott, Shelby County, to feed a stallion, when the animal rushed on him and tore through one cheek with his teeth and otherwise injured him. Prompt assistance saved the boy's life.

M'KINLEY SWORN IN.

Inaugurated Governor of Ohio for the Second Time.

William McKinley has been once again inaugurated as Governor of Ohio. Among those who stood near him while the oath was being administered by the Chief Justice was one who, sixteen years ago this month, participated in the inauguration of George B. McClellan as chief executive of New Jersey.

Despite his personal desire for a quiet inauguration, the ceremony at Columbus was attended by considerable eclat. Governor McKinley was escorted to the Statehouse by the joint House and Senate committee, reaching the building a few minutes before 12. The structure was filled to overflowing and the Statehouse ground was packed. The ceremonies were very simple. Prayer was offered by Rev. T. E. Taylor, and the oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Joseph P. Bradbury. Governor McKinley then delivered his inaugural address.

WM. M'KINLEY.

HORNBLOWER IS OUT.

Majority of the Senate Committee Against Confirmation.

William B. Hornblower, President Cleveland's nominee for the vacancy on the United States Supreme bench, received a knockout blow Monday. At the meeting of the Senate Judiciary Committee Senator Hill was instructed to make an unfavorable report from a majority of the committee on the nomination. Mr. Hill, according to a Washington correspondent, has been gunning for Mr. Cleveland's man for months, and now apparently the game is in his hands. While the report does not make confirmation absolutely impossible it is thought Hornblower's fate is settled.

WILLIAM B. HORNBLOWER.

The fight on Hornblower has been wicked. While that gentleman is a capable lawyer, his attitude toward corporations and the apprehension that he might overturn important decisions affecting railroads caused him to be subjected to the sharpest sort of criticism.

CONDITION OF TRADE.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review Shows No Changes.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The cloud of uncertainty does not lift as yet. Strong confidence is expressed in nearly all markets that trade must improve with the new year, but it is yet too early to expect important change, if really on the way. In the main the conditions continue unchanged. But the proposal of an income tax is not calculated to inspire confidence, nor does it encourage hope that uncertainty about revenue laws will be speedily terminated.

The condition of the Treasury excites less interest with the gold reserve lower than ever and the entire available reserve reduced to $90,000,000 than smaller losses caused when the free gold exceeded $100,000,000. Yet the deficit of $27,664,329 in the first half of the current year, the decrease of $30,744,958 in customs receipts for six months, and $10,654,161 in the internal revenue point to a large deficit for the year and a greater reduction of Treasury balances than can be safely permitted. At the point of danger is the large volume of paper circulation, with a narrow gold reserve, the proposal to issue fifty millions more paper by means of coining silver bullion held is not reassuring, and the Chamber of Commerce has earnestly urged an issue of short-time bonds, as recommended by the Secretary of the Treasury. Money from the interior still floods this market, commercial inactivity still causes the amount of idle funds to swell beyond all precedent, and rates are so low that speculation might be dangerously stimulated if a feeling of hopefulness prevailed. Thus it may be fortunate that diminished earnings repress ardor in stock speculation, and heavy supplies in sight deter speculation in products. The disbursement of $65,000,000 at New York, $27,000,000 in Boston and Pittsburg for January interest and dividends, has produced nothing like the usual demand for securities, though after several days of excessive selling the stock market r

AT WAR WITH HERSELF.

The Story of a Woman's Atonement, by Charlotte M. Braeme.

CHAPTER XXVII—Continued.

She was no countess after all; the gorgeous fabric of wealth and magnificence had crumbled to nothing beneath her feet. She was no countess—nothing but Leonie Rayner; the grand inheritance of Crown Leighton was not hers, after all; she who had lavished thousands on petty caprices and graceful fancies had not one shilling in the world that was legally her own.

"I was so happy," moaned the girl—"I was so happy, and now——"

Then rose before her the dim vista of years when poverty and privation would be her lot—hard work, toil, obscurity her portion—and this after she had reigned queen of the bright, gay world. She was too stunned for tears—no words could describe the chaos of her thoughts, the whirl of her emotion. No longer a countess—no longer the mistress of that superb mansion—no longer a queen—no longer one of the richest heiresses in England, of whose wealth men spoke with wonder. It was as great a fall as woman ever had. Two minutes before she had reached the climax of magnificence and grandeur, peerless in her radiant beauty, dressed in the robes and jewels of a queen. Now, what was she? An usurper, an intruder, an interloper. She had no right to Crown Leighton—no right to the diamonds that crowned her—no right to the name that had been as music in her ears. A cry of despair escaped her—utter, hopeless despair.

"I will kill myself," she said, in her anguish; "for I never can go back to that life again."

How long she crouched there, her brain burning and her mind full of dark, confused thoughts, Leonie never knew. A noise upon the stairs aroused her, and she started up.

Her first honest impulse was to rush down through the crowd, to tell Paul Flemyng, and to place the will in his hands. That was her first impulse, and she rose to act upon it. As she passed the large mirror, she caught a glimpse of herself, and it frightened her. Was that the radiant, beautiful girl she had seen so short a time before? All the bloom had died from her face, leaving it ghastly white; the violet eyes were dim and wild; the light seemed to her excited fancy to have faded from her jewels. Oh, cruel mockery, that diadem of gems, those queenly robes! She laughed to herself—a harsh, discordant laugh, unpleasant to hear.

"I am no longer a countess. I am penniless, obscure, a pauper, not a queen."

It was surely the sorest blow that could have befallen her. She had loved her position, her magnificence, so well. She had enjoyed them so well—she had graced them so prefectly.

"I will go and put this in his hands," she said, "and then I will go straight out from that brilliant crowd—out to cold darkness and death. I have drunk of the wine of life, and cannot taste the lees."

Was there a hot breath on her white shoulder, or was it only her fancy? Was there a voice hissing in her ear, or was it a delusion? What was the voice saying?

"Let it be as it is for one night longer. Go down and complete your triumph—go down where men wait for you with honeyed words. Reign queen to-night—to-morrow let poverty come and do its worst. There is no need to make a sensation among all those people—no need to publish your downfall to-night."

Was there a hissing, sharp voice whispering these words, or was it her own fancy? She pushed the diadem and the golden-brown hair from her brow.

"Many a woman would have been driven mad by such a shock," she said to herself.

Then she stood hesitating, with the parchment in her hand.

"Shall I take it to him now, or shall I wait until to-morrow?

"To-morrow will do," said the tempter. "What difference can it make? Enjoy your reign a few hours longer—make the most of the next few hours. Leave it until to-morrow."

"I might just as well wait until to-morrow," she said, piteously; "it would be so sad to spoil the fete and turn all into confusion."

Then sudden hot anger flushed in her face and flamed in her eyes.

"I would fain do as Sardanapalus did," she cried—"burn Crown Leighton to the ground, and die in the ruins." Then the fierce hot anger died. "I was so happy," she said, despairingly; "Heaven might have let me keep what I believed to be mine. Perhaps I had better take this to Paul at once—it will be less torture than keeping it by me until to-morrow."

She walked toward the door; she saw herself seeking him, placing the will in his hand, and saluting him by his new title—Earl of Charnleigh. Then came a vivid remembrance of the time when her heart had thrilled with ecstasy at the sound of her title.

"I will not be so hasty—I will wait until to-morrow," she said; "I will enjoy these few hours, and then——"

In the anguish of the moment she even forgot her love and the lover who was waiting for her. She took the parchment, hid it in the wardrobe, locked the door, and then slowly descended the stairs.

"To-morrow," she moaned to herself—"it will be all over to-morrow."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"Leonie, how long you have been, my darling! What is the matter? Your face is white, your lips tremble. Leonie, have you been frightened?"

Although she loved Bertram better than her life, in the supreme anguish of that hour she had forgotten him; and now, at the sound of the kindly voice—at the sight of the frank handsome face—a keen sense of what she was losing came over her. She went up to him, and as he stretched out his hands to her, she laid her head on his breast, forgetting everything in her sick, hopeless despair.

"My darling," he said, anxiously, "what is the matter? Ten minutes ago you were all radiance and light—now you are pale, depressed. What has happened to you, Leonie?"

She raised her colorless face.

"Is it only ten minutes since I left you, Bertram?"

"That is all," he said.

"It seems to me ten long years—ten long, dreary, despairing years. I am so tired. Oh, Bertram, how that music wearies me! Will it never stop? I am so tired."

"My darling, you have been doing too much. Your spirits carry you away, and then you are exhausted. Do not go back to the ball-room—let me bring you some wine and rest yourself. I will not even speak to you, nor will I allow any one else to tease you."

"No, no," she said, "I must go back—I have been away so long."

She made a desperate effort to rouse herself. He looked at her in silent wonder. She reminded him of a fair and blooming flower blighted by some cold, frosty wind. The bloom and radiance had left her face—even the queenly, graceful figure seemed to shrink and grow less, while the regal robes and jewels had lost half their brightness.

"Leonie," said Sir Bertram, "you frighten me. I am quite sure you are ill."

"I am not. Do as you propose—go and fetch me some wine, and bring it to me in the morning-room."

He placed her in a chair, and left her without a word. Her brain was whirling.

"To-morrow," she said—"all this will be over to-morrow. I shall be flattered and loved—I shall be queen of a brilliant fete—I shall be mistress of Crown Leighton until to-morrow; and then all will be over, and the sun of my life set. To-morrow! Shall I live to face it all—the comments, the gossips, the sneers! These fine ladies who protest that I am a model of graceful manners, will find out then that I am low-bred and very deficient—what has passed for animation will become vulgarity. I know the world, and hate it while I love it. Its triumph over me shall not begin to-night. For this one night it shall be at my feet, and I will trample on it."

Then Sir Bertram came in with the wine, and she drank it. It brought the warmth and color back to her face. He was much relieved.

"You are better, Leonie. Oh, my darling, you must never look that way again! Promise to be careful of yourself; you are not strong. You alarmed me when I saw you. I thought the ghost that haunts the oak room had appeared to you."

A deep, tearless sob broke from her lips.

"The ghost of the oak-room," she repeated, wearily—"I saw it, and it has nearly killed me."

He thought her manner strange, but ascribed it all to over-fatigue. He drew nearer to her, and rearranged her diadem, which had half fallen from the fair, statcly head.

"You have all a queen's dignity, and all a woman's charm," he said. "Oh, Leonie, was any one ever so fair and so peerless as you?"

She smiled; the wine had given her a kind of courage that she mistook for strength.

"Are my jewels all in order, or need I send for Florette?" she asked, carelessly.

"They are in perfect order. Your appearance now is my care, Leonie; it concerns no one but myself."

He did not know what had happened. What would he say or think when he had discovered that she was simply poor and obscure Leonie Rayner, the ex-governess? Would it make any difference to his love?

She looked up at him.

"Give me your arm, Bertram. I must go to the ball-room. Hark! that is my favorite waltz. Tell me before you go—do you love me very much?"

A beautiful light came into his face.

"You will never know how much, sweet."

"Would you care just as much for me if I were very poor, and you knew me only as Leonie Rayner?"

"Just as much," he replied, "my love does not depend on your circumstances. If you were made queen to-morrow, I should love you just as dearly; and if to-morrow you became a beggar, it would make no difference in my affection—nay, I am wrong—I should love you all the better."

"Is it true?" she asked.

"Most assuredly it is; the only thing I should regret in that case would be that I am not a rich man—that I could not surround you with all the luxury and magnificence to which you have been accustomed."

"Are you not rich, Bertram?" she asked, wistfully.

He laughed.

"No, my queen—not what people call rich, in these luxurious times; my estates are mortgaged. I wish that I were rich enough to purchase the whole world, so that I might endow you with it."

"You shall not spoil that compliment by any other," she said; "we will go. Where is my programme? I have missed two dances. I have to apologize to two gentlemen. The next is the 'Lancers,' and I am engaged to Lord Holdene. He ought to thank me for these silver buckles."

Then from the very depths of her young heart there came a most woeful sigh. If he had never asked for those buckles, that will would perhaps never have come to light.

For a few minutes after she re-entered the ball-room, Leonie stood bewildered. Then she recovered herself. Lord Holdene came up and offered a hundred apologies for having mentioned the silver buckles. She looked up at him with a vague, dreamy smile, as though she did not even understand the words. She was thinking to herself that it was not his fault—that it was not what people would call fate or chance that had led her to the oak-room, but the very hand o Providence, and he had been led thither in order that justice might be done.

Then Captain Flemyng saw her and hastened to her.

"I could not imagine what made the ball-room so suddenly grow cold and dim, Lady Charnleigh," he said. "Why have you been so long absent?"

"I have been searching in a haunted room for silver buckles," she replied, trying to still the quivering of her lips and speak in her natural voice.

But something in the tone struck him as strange—a weary, hopeless ring that told of pain and sorrow. He looked tenderly and anxiously at her.

"You are over-tired, Lady Charnleigh. Let me persuade you not to dance, but sit down and rest."

She laughed.

"No, I could not sit still; I like continual movement. Where is Ethel? Is she enjoying herself?"

"Yes; and so is every one else. The young ladies of the county ought to be deeply grateful to you; I have heard many of them say that they never enjoyed an evening so much before. You must give us some more charades, Lady Charnleigh, and more balls."

She laughed again. How little he knew that this was the last night of her reign—that with the sunrise of the morrow all her wealth and magnificence would vanish into thin air—that henceforward he would rule at Crown Leighton, and give balls and parties—that he would succeed to the glorious inheritance she had valued so!

"They shall remember my last night at Crown Leighton," she said to herself; "they shall talk of it, and tell each other that I died a queen."

With Leonie, to will was to do. She called all her magnificent courage into play, she resolutely trampled under foot all remembrance of the oaken chamber and what it contained, she remembered only that this was her last appearance as Countess of Charnleigh, and that people must not forget it.

Such was the case; no one so brilliant or beautiful had been seen there for many long generations. She danced, and the grace, the perfection of her movement, was marvelous; she talked, and men gathered round her, charmed out of themselves. She had never been so brilliant. Her anecdotes, her repartees, her sparkling sallies were repeated one to the other; her beautiful face grew brighter and more radiant every minute. People no longer wondered at the spell she cast around her; there were men in that room who thought that to have won a smile from her they would have gone through any difficulty. As the cloud of homage rose and seemed to float round her, she smiled bitterly to herself, saying:

"It is my last triumph; to-morrow the dark waves of poverty will rise and ingulf me, and the world will hear no more then of Leonie, Countess of Charnleigh."

CHAPTER XXIX.

It was when the ball was drawing to a close that Paul Flemyng found an opportunity of slipping a folded paper into Lady Charnleigh's hands.

"Read this, Leonie," he whispered, "and permit me to call for the answer to-morrow."

She took it and placed it in the folds of her dress. To-morrow he would know all—to-morrow he would be Lord Charnleigh, and she Leonie Rayner; their positions would be reversed.

Then came the faint gray dawn of the June morning, and one by one the guests departed from the brilliant scene. Each visitor expressed so much pleasure, and seemed so truly delighted, that no greater compliment could have been paid to their hostess than their regret at leaving.

"Give us another ball soon, dear Lady Charnleigh," whispered one of the younger girls; "this has been so delightful!"

Leonie laughed aloud; the young girl started back at the harsh, unnatural sound.

"I am tired, my dear," said Leonie, seeing the startled look; "remember that I have been making myself amiable ever since nine o'clock this morning, and to be constantly amiable is the hardest task in the world."

Sir Bertram came up to say farewell.

"I shall come for my answer to-morrow, Leonie; you have given me hope this evening."

"Not to-morrow, Bertram," she pleaded, piteously. "I am so tired—wait until Thursday. I shall have recovered then."

"I will wait just as long as you please," he said. "You will be mine in the end, Leonie; that is all I care for."

A sudden impulse came over her to throw herself into his arms and tell him all—he would console and comfort her; but she set her foot resolutely upon the impulse. This night should pass over without her secret being known.

So she stood until the last of her guests disappeared, graceful, bright, and charming to the end, her gay words never faltering; then she was left in that brilliant ball-room alone. She looked around, with a flush on her face, on the flowers and the lights, the wondrous combinations of color that she herself had effected.

"I have died a queen," she said. "I have not given way for one moment. I have smiled with the bitterness of wrath in my heart. I have talked and laughed when like Cæsar, I would fain have folded my mantle round me and died. Now I look my last on the brilliant paradise that will know me no more."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

WALKING ON STILTS.

It Is a Common Practice in One Province of France.

The majority of the people in the western portion of the French province of Gascony walk on stilts. That is a district known as the Landes, with a sea line bounding the French side of the Bay of Biscay and extending at its greatest breadth about sixty miles back into the country. The Landes form one of the wildest and strangest parts of France, and the inhabitants are fully as strange and uncultivated as the black pine forests, the dreary swamps and the far-spreading deserts of fine white sand which they inhabit. Most of them are shepherds, and they elevate themselves on stilts five feet high in order to be above the marshes and the sand blasts. These stilt-walkers present strange and uncouth figures as they progress over the wilderness of country in attendance on their flocks, sometimes at the rate of six or seven miles an hour. They rest by the aid of a third wooden support, pursuing meanwhile their everlasting occupation of knitting. In appearance the Landes shepherd looks like an uncouth mass of dirty wool. On his body he wears a fleece like a rude paletot, his thighs and legs on the outside are protected by greaves of the same material, and his feet are encased in sabots and coarse woolen socks.

In some parts of Malaysia the natives walk almost habitually on stilts. Nature and necessity have brought about this result, as excessive inundations of river and sea often submerge the whole surface of the land in many places, rendering ordinary modes of locomotion impossible. In parts of Holland also it is a very ordinary sight to see people walking about upon stilts of various sizes.

This Seems an Outrage.

There is a queer kind of justice in this world. A lawyer in New York, Francis Henry Weeks, who embezzled over $1,000,000 from the widows and orphans whose fortunes lay in his hands, was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in Sing Sing. Then a little lad, not yet out of his teens, was sentenced to fifteen years in the same prison for having stolen a watch, chain and locket, the value of which was $75.

This may be lawyers' justice, but it doesn't seem the justice of common sense nor is it tinged with one streak of Christianity. Sentencing the arch betrayer of widows and orphans and the embezzler of $1,000,000 to undergo a less severe sentence than that inflicted on a youthful and an ignorant boy is not the way to impress the American people or anybody else that we are living under equal laws. Sing Sing is a fit place for Lawyer Weeks; a reformatory should be the place for the youthful stealer of a watch, locket and chain.

The Omnibus in Paris.

An excellent feature of the omnibus system of Paris are the stations which occur at frequent intervals along each line, at which all vehicles stop. Here passengers may wait comfortably, protected from sun, rain and wind, provided with seats, and in winter furnished with fire. Here they take numbers, that is, tickets which entitle them to places in the omnibuses when their turn comes. The seats in Paris omnibuses are not to those who push the hardest. It is only at the stations that the vehicles stop. Passengers may descend at any point, and the regulations require that if seats are not full the cars stop when signaled for those who wish to mount.

The trains and omnibuses accommodate forty persons with seats. Six more are permitted on the rear platform. Twenty of the seats are on the roof and are reached by a rear stairway.

Exhibited the Corpse in the Window.

In Philadelphia the other day there was a striking evidence of the intense desire of some people to "exhibit the remains" at funerals. A man had died of diphtheria and the authorities very properly refused to permit a public funeral. So the family had the coffin containing the corpse stood on end in front of a window of the house so that the face of the dead could be viewed from the street.—New York Tribune.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC.

CALIFORNIA'S EXPOSITION IS NOW ON VIEW.

Indications Are That the Show Will Be a Financial and Artistic Success—Brief Description of the Buildings—Patterned After the "White City."

Midwinter Fair Begins.

The California Midwinter Fair is now open to the public. Here, in this Western metropolis, writes a correspondent, at the extreme edge of the Western hemisphere, with the placid waters of the great Pacific in view, the hand of man has created a city neither so beautiful, so wonderful, nor so extensive as the now quickly fading White City by Lake Michigan, but one that is truly grand and of which the people of California and the other Pacific States may justly be proud. It was only in the latter part of last May, when the end of the Chicago Fair was in view, that some Californians in Chicago conceived the idea of having a fair in San Francisco. Shortly afterward it was decided to go ahead in the matter and Golden Gate Park was selected as the location for the fair, conceded by all to be one of the prettiest spots on the face of the globe. Aug. 24, in the presence of 80,000 people, the enterprise was inaugurated by turning the first shovelful of dirt, immediately after which the work of grading commenced, followed in a few weeks by the inauguration of work on the main structures.

Patterns After Chicago.

The Manufactures and Liberal Arts Building is the largest on the grounds. This building is Moorish in design, with all the picturesque effects to which that style of architecture readily lends itself. The Mechanical Arts Building is the second largest structure, and is nearly pure Indian in design and highly artistic in its rich, Oriental style. By far the most striking architectural feature of the exposition is the Horticultural and Agricultural Building. It is in Spanish mission style and is a low-roof design, so much in favor on the coast. This structure contains the greatest display of the products of the soil of California ever put together, and that is synonymous with saying that is such a display of agricultural and horticultural material as the United States have never seen placed on exhibition. It is typical and almost exclusively Californian and will afford visitors an opportunity of judging of the vastness and variety of California's resources, such as no amount of travel and observation could give.

AGRICULTURE BUILDING.

The Fine Arts Building is intended for a permanent structure, constructed of brick and iron. The Administration Building, like its namesake at the Columbian Exposition, which faced the grand basin, is directly in the rear of the allegorical fountain. In this the sculptor has tried to tell the whole history of the state and much can be plainly read from its design. The familiar statue of California, crowned with a wreath of poppies, stands on a pedestal whose rugged character suggests the mountain regions. The principal central figure is the eagle, emblematic of the state's loyalty to the nation. The central figure of the grand court is the electrical tower. On the ground floor is a pavilion for the use of the public and flanking the open space there are four Moorish pavilions, containing four stories and decorated in Oriental colors. The base of the tower occupies a space of fifty feet square, while the first gallery, eighty feet from the ground, has a seating capacity of 200. There are three other galleries of large seating capacity, the topmost one being within six feet of the pinnacle.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING.

The concessional features of the Midwinter Exposition are both numerous and interesting. There is a modest counterpart of the great Ferris wheel of the World's Fair in the Firth wheel, which is 125 feet in height. There are Chinese, Japanese, Hawaiian, Esquimaux, Canadian and German villages, an ostrich farm, a Colorado gold mine, a scenic railway, a Santa Barbara aquarium containing a dozen sea lions, a reproduction of Cairo street, a Turkish theater, a Moorish mirror maze, a reproduction of the celebrated Prater of Vienna, a tomalehouse, a reproduction of Anne Hathaway's cottage, and last, but by no means least, a '49 mining camp. This camp occupies a space 450 feet long and 250 feet wide. In the center of the camp is a street 450 feet long, lined on each side with old-time shanties which do service as newspaper offices, saloons, hotels, theaters, and gambling houses, as in the days of yore, representing a typical mining town. Mackay's, Perkins', and Jones' cabins are set up just as they were when the millionaire miners deserted them. The camp promises to be one of the most interesting spots on the Exposition grounds, as it is the intention to faithfully represent the days of '49 by mock duels, trials, lynchings, and other episodes of those stirring times.

FINE ARTS BUILDING.

VOTE TO TAX INCOMES.

The Democratic Majority Decides to Levy a Tax of 2 Per Cent.

The advocates of the individual income tax proposition were triumphant at a recent meeting of the Democratic Ways and Means Committee, says a Washington dispatch. The eleven members were present when the final meeting was held at the Treasury Department. Comparatively little time was wasted in discussion. The ground had all been argued and fought over time and time again, and at this meeting the issue was joined on two propositions, one to levy a tax of 2 per cent. against individual incomes over $4,000 and against the incomes from corporations (that is, the difference between the gross income and the operating expenses, or, in other words, the net income); and, second, a proposition offered as a substitute by Mr. Cockran (N. Y.) to tax the incomes from corporations 1 per cent. and inheritances 5 per cent., to place a tax of 10 cents on whisky and to restore sugar to the dutiable list at ½ a cent a pound.

MANUFACTURES BUILDING.

The vote on Mr. Cockran's substitute proposition, which was taken first, resulted in its defeat—7 to 4—as follows:

Yeas—Wilson, Cockran, Stevens and Montgomery.

Nays—McMillin, Turner, Whiting, Bryan, Bynum, Tarsney and Breckinridge.

The original proposition was then submitted and carried by a vote of 6 to 5, as follows:

Yeas—McMillin, Turner, Whiting, Bryan, Bynum and Tarsney.

Nays—Wilson, Cockran, Stevens, Montgomery and Breckinridge.

It was also decided, in connection with the latter proposition, to increase the whisky tax 10 cents a gallon—that is, from 90 cents to $1—to be levied against whisky in as well as out of bond. Upon the representation that this increase would work undue hardship to the owners of whisky in bond it was decided to extend the bonded period from three to eight years. The tax on playing cards, at one time fixed at 6 cents a pack, was reduced to 2 cents, and the contemplated tax on perfumes and cosmetics was discarded. No increase was made in the tax on cigars, but the increase on cigarettes—$1 per 1,000—was allowed to stand.

The committee estimates that the tax on the incomes from corporations and individuals (corporations being treated as individuals) will raise $30,000,000 revenue—$12,000,000 from corporations and $18,000,000 from individuals. The increase in the whisky tax, it is estimated, will give an additional revenue of $10,000,000 per annum. The proposed tax on inheritances, which was to be levied in case the proposition for an individual income tax failed, was not deemed necessary.

IN A PITCHED BATTLE.

Two Hundred Men and Boys Fight Out a Bitter, Long-standing Feud.

The other night 200 men and boys engaged in a pitched battle at Dayton, a small town southwest of Webster City, Iowa. For some time past a feud has existed between the two towns of Dayton and Frazier, and a large party of miners from the latter town visited Dayton for the purpose of demolishing it. During the battle City Marshal Larson was shot through the stomach, the bullet passing through his body. John Gustafson was literally cut to pieces, and among a half dozen others injured more or less was Frank Doud, United States Marshal under President Harrison for Dakota.

The miners, the dispatch says, went to a dance at Dayton, where a New Year's dance was in progress. Entering, they scared the ladies present, and it was but a moment until they had cleared the room. Shortly after this they went to a restaurant owned by a man named Tucker. The men who were at the dance had armed themselves, and the City Marshal was at the restaurant trying to quiet the miners and induce them to leave town. Some one fired a shot, and it entered the City Marshal's body. The riot was on then in earnest. Knives, pistols, and clubs were used. An armed patrol of about twenty men was stationed at different parts of the city by the Mayor, and late the following afternoon they, in company with the Sheriff from Fort Dodge and a posse from the same place, arrested eight of the ringleaders.

Was Swelled by $6,861,662.

The public debt statement shows the net increase of the debt, less cash in the treasury, during the month of December to have been $6,861,662. The interest-bearing debt increased $90, the debt on which interest has ceased since maturity decreased $25,850 and the debt bearing no interest increased $2,062,361. The reduction in the cash balance during the month was $4,824,061. The interest-bearing debt is $585,039,310, the debt on which interest has ceased since maturity is $1,913,530 and the debt bearing no interest is $376,653,077, a total debt of $963,605,917. The certificates and treasury notes offset by an equal amount of cash in the treasury amount to $604,317,424, an increase during the month of $5,088,122. The gold reserve is $80,891,600 and the net cash balance $9,483,955, a total available balance of $90,375,555, a decrease during the month of $4,824,061. The total cash in the treasury on the day the statement was issued was $737,614,701. The total amount of national bank notes outstanding Dec. 21, 1893, was $208,442,027, an increase in circulation since Dec. 31, 1892, of $34,141,215 and a decrease in circulation since Nov. 30 of $408,761. The circulation outstanding against bonds Dec. 31 was $185,087,705.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WILSON TARIFF BILL AND THE PROPOSED BOND ISSUE.

Chief Topics at the National Capital—Free Silver People Against Bonds—It Is Believed the Wilson Bill Will Become a Law.

Bones of Contention.

Washington correspondence:

THE two chief topics of discussion at the capital are the Wilson tariff bill and the proposed bond issue. The free silver people are decidedly against any issue of bonds, taking the position that all that is needed is a plentiful coinage of the white metal and its use as money. The Texas delegation will be solidly against any issue of bonds. Representative McMillin, of Tennessee, believes a measure should at once be passed providing for the use of the seigniorage of the silver bullion. This would afford temporary relief, he thinks, and possibly obviate the necessity of issuing bonds. It has been asserted that until the silver bullion now in the treasury is coined there can be no seigniorage, but the men who favor its use argue that when it is known the bullion will coin fifty million dollars more than was paid for it there can be no reason for hesitating about it. They do not believe it necessary to coin the seigniorage, but that certificates may be issued against it.

The Wilson Bill.

As to the Wilson tariff bill, the general opinion is that it will pull through in some shape or other. Representative Tarsney, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, who has just returned from his home in Missouri, says he found no one among his constituents dissatisfied with the tariff bill. Representative Hayes, of Iowa, says the bill will become a law in time and that all differences about it will be adjusted within the party, so that there will be no fatal break over it. Representative Stevens, of Massachusetts, who is a member of the Ways and Means Committee, and an extensive woolen manufacturer, says the bill will pass the House unchanged, and that whatever changes are made before the measure becomes a law will be made in the Senate. Representative Cousins of Iowa, on the other hand, viewing the situation from a Republican standpoint, says that if all the Democratic members of the House that he has heard express themselves against the bill actually vote as they talk now, the bill will certainly be beaten in the House, to say nothing of the Senate, where its chances are at least doubtful. However, he says, it is pretty hard to get a Democrat to kick out of the party traces, so you cannot just figure on results when Democratic bolting becomes an essential element in the calculation.

Routine Proceedings.

Since the reassembling of Congress after the holidays but little has been done. Filibustering on the Hawaiian matter and the Wilson tariff bill has been the rule in both houses. It has been almost impossible to accomplish anything more than the confirmation of appointments. The indications now are that the leaders of both parties in both Senate and House, will unite with the presiding officers in action, which will compel the transaction of business. In any event, exhaustive debates are certain to ensue upon both questions mentioned above, and also the matter of bonds.

In the Senate Monday Senator Hoar's resolution of inquiry into Mr. Blount's compensation was referred after a hot discussion. Among the nominations sent to the Senate was that of J. M. B. Sill, of Michigan, to be Minister and Consul General to Corea. An adverse report on the nomination of Hornblower for the Supreme bench was agreed to by the Senate Committee. The tariff bill was taken up in the house, the Democrats having mustered a quorum. Mr. Wilson made a speech in its favor. Chicago members of Congress agreed to push the McGann bill for the construction of a new public building at Chicago. Secretary Carlisle urged on the Ways and Means Committee the necessity of a loan to supply the Treasury's needs.

BOOMING THE SOUTH.

Capital Turning the Tide of Immigration in That Direction.

The immigration sentiment in the South is taking on practical forms. Within two months, writes a Washington correspondent, three colonies have been brought from the West and settled in Maryland, near Chesapeake Bay. A few days ago a number of colonists bound together by the same creed arrived from Europe, and went down to North Carolina to occupy a tract of land bought by them. These are signs of a general movement. The Southern Governors met at Richmond last April and adopted an address of welcome to intending settlers. They assured freedom of opinion and protection of rights under the law to all honest, well-meaning people. Several States have followed up this formal expression by organizing immigration bureaus and preparing facts about their lands, and the prices of them for inquirers. In a notable way this has been done by Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Texas and Arkansas. And now capital has taken the Southerners at their word and is going about the work of placing immigrants in these Southern States after the same plans and methods which settled the great Northwest so rapidly. Perhaps the wholesale response to their invitation will startle the Southerners. There is no doubt that it is coming, and on a scale for which the South is little prepared. There are 30,000,000 acres of uncocupied lands in the South.

Overflow of News.

E. H. JONES has been convicted of murder at Georgetown, O.

THE Children's Endowment Association assigned at Minneapolis. The assets are $175,000; liabilities unknown.

SHERMAN JEWETT WILLIAMS, a high school student, committed suicide at Buffalo, illness making him temporarily insane.

JAMES F. GALVIN, the base ball pitcher, was arrested at Cleveland, charged with stealing a diamond pin and gold watch.

FRIENDS of Prof. S. C. Shortiedge, who killed his wife at Medea, Pa., ask that a commission inquire into his sanity.

JAMES DUGAN, arrested on suspicion at St. Louis, proves to be one of three men who killed a man in Hennepin County, Minn.

R. J. HOSPER, accused of poisoning his wife, has been placed on trial at Joliette, Que. The case is complex and sensational.

NEW YORK CITY officials will ask the Legislature to permit the issue of $1,000,000 in bonds, the proceeds to be used in employing 1,200 men to work on the parks.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Odd, Curious, and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

Let Us All Laugh.

A SCENTER shot: Shooting a skunk.—Union County Standard.

WHEN a man falls his friends say he has gone up.—Galveston News.

JAGSON says you never know how empty a man is until he's full.—Elmira Gazette.

WHEN young ladies preside at a church tea they reign as well as pour.—Lowell Courier.

WHAT an awful blow it would be to a long-haired musician to become bald.—Atchison Globe.

IT is impossible to have the last word with a chemist, because he always has a retort.—Boston Courier.

PATIENT—"Doctor, I feel that I am at death's door." Doctor (enthusiastically)—"Oh, don't fear. We'll pull you through."—Puck.

BRIDE—Why do they give us so many things we are too poor to use? Groom—Yes, this cook-book, for instance.—Detroit Tribune.

WHEN people are slow and behind the times there is nothing like counting them to bring them to their census.—Rochester Democrat.

SHE—"All of which convinces me that you married me for my money." He—"Well, it may not seem probable, but I honestly loved you."—Life.

TEACHER—"What happened when the man killed the goose that laid the golden egg?" Dick Hicks—"His goose was cooked."—Brooklyn Life.

"DID Dumley's marriage involve any financial responsibility?" "Oh, yes; his wife requires him to earn enough to pay his laundry bills."—Judge.

BELOVED—"Why, what a time to be calling! It's half-past 9. The lights are out at 10." Lover—"Just like me. I'm always early."—Detroit Tribune.

SPECTATOR—Doesn't it require a deal of courage to go up in a balloon? Aeronaut—Not a bit, ma'am. It's the coming down in it.—Boston Transcript.

TRAMP—"Please, mum, have you any cold vittles?" Housekeeper—"I am sorry to say, sir, that everything is hot." (Slams the door.)—New York Weekly.

TRAVELER—"Will you find out for me when the next train moves?" The Other Man—"I find out? Why, man, I'm a police detective."—Boston Transcript.

WOOL—"I suppose it's not a commendable thing to confess, but I must say I hate children." Van Pelt—"Why don't you join Mr. Gerry's society?"—Life.

MISS SOFTLY (who has been attending a course of lectures)—"O, Professor, I saw such a funny old fossil in the museum to-day! I thought of you at once."—Vogue.

STUDENT—"I will tell you frankly that I shall not be able to pay for the suit till next year. When will you have it ready?" Tailor—"Next year."—Fliegende Blatter.

"I SEE your hired man is an octoroon." "Oh, no. He's a white man. He's been eating some of my daughter's cooking-school experiments this week and he's bilious."—Judge.

TEACHER—"Can any of you tell me what is meant by 'home industries?'" Billy Bright (promptly)—"Up to our house they're mostly sawin' wood an' carryin' in coal."—Buffalo Courier.

HICKS—"'Cold in death.' Do you think that a good expression?" Wicks—"It depends a good deal upon the kind of a life which has been led by the deceased."—Boston Transcript.

AT THE SALON.—"Can you tell me what that picture represents?" "That is Queen Cleopatra. Have you never heard of her?" "Never in my life. I so seldom read the papers."—L'Intransigeant.

"Made an awful mistake at the Cotrox's reception. Stepped up to one of the guests and told him to call me a horse and carriage." "Did he do it?" "No. He called me an ass."—Indianapolis Journal.

MATRIMONIAL ADVERTISEMENT.—"A lady, young, pretty, bright and poor, desires to make the acquaintance of a man with the opposite qualities, with a view to a happy marriage."—Fliegende Blaetter.

CHOLLY—I should hate to marry such a bright woman. Why, last week her husband sent her a telegram saying he should stay late at the office and she sent an answer to the club that she would sit up till 3.—Life.

DEACON GOODE—"I hear that Mrs. Tollings is very ill. It is no doubt a trying time with you at home." Tollings—"You may well say that, deacon. Taking care of the furnace is alone enough to make life miserable."—Boston Transcript.

"WHERE is Ella?" "She left the ball-room a few minutes ago, saying that she didn't fancy being squeezed in the crowd." "Was Charley with her?" "Yes; and I think that by this time he has found a place where there is no crowd."—Judge.

VISITOR—I am most grieved to learn of your mistress' illness. Nothing serious; no great cause for alarm, I trust? The New French Maid—No, monsieur; nozzing beeg, nozzing grande. Somezing—what you call leetle, petite. Visitor—What is it? The New French Maid—Eet is what zey call ze little—small—small-pox.—Tid-Bits.

Letters.

Letters which it is desired to protect against unauthorized opening (by moistening the pasted portion) may be securely sealed by using a solution of oxide of copper in ammonia as paste. When applied to the paper it dissolves the cellulose, and on drying, the two surfaces adhere indissolubly together.

EVEN monkeys coming to talk won't throw any additional light on the burglaw business. Monkeying with that speaks for itself.

DON'T READ THIS, IF YOU DON'T WANT BARGAINS.

THE FAIR.

Everyone should see the large stock of

HOLIDAY GOODS

at the

2 JOHNS 2

Which will be sold this year at about cost, owing to the hard times.

Yours,
J. C. HENRY.

2 JOHNS 2

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....JANUARY 11, 1894.

JANUARY SLAUGHTERING SALE.

ONE FOURTH OFF ON EACH PURCHASE

Commencing Monday, Jan. 1st, and continuing for Thirty Days.

JUST THINK OF IT! 25 Cents on each and every dollar you spend at my store during this sale. Nothing reserved. Everything must go. Remember, the Stock is all New and Fresh, our Assortment Greater than any House in the County. This is a Bona Fide Sale, all in good faith. We only ask an inspection, which will prove itself. Our goods are all marked in PLAIN FIGURES. You can easily figure it out yourself. Just 25 cents off on each dollar, no matter how large or small your purchase is. You will be allowed one-fourth off. Think of the saving this will be. It's less than the first cost of the goods. But no matter where the loss comes from, so it doesn't come out of the customer. This sale includes the entire stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing, Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods of every description. Remember, One-Fourth Off During January.

G. H. YESBERA,

THE LEADING CLOTHIER & GENTS' FURNISHER.

P. S.---Merchant Tailoring not included in the above, but will allow an extraordinary reduction on all Tailor-Made Goods. G. H. YESBERA, The Merchant Tailor.

Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of the Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 29th of January, 1894, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, Jackson, Michigan.

The Transfer Books will close on January 12 and remain closed until January 25.

R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio. MATHENY & GERKE, Auburn, Ind.

OLD ELK BOURBON & PURE RYE

Shipped pure and unadulterated direct from the distillery. Pronounced a pure and wholesome tonic-stimulant by the medical fraternity everywhere. Gives life, strength and happiness to the weak, sick, aged and infirm.

If you cannot procure it of your druggist or liquor dealers, upon receipt of $1.50 we will express prepaid to any address a full quart sample bottle of Old Elk Rye or Bourbon.

STOLL, VANNATTA & CO., DISTILLERS, Lexington, Ky.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS.

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Matheny & Gerke, Auburn.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

December Credits.

The following patrons paid various sums on subscription in December and have thanks for same:

Warren McNabb,	Mrs. Wm. Shutt,
Samuel Grosh,	D. H. Dove,
Samuel Brandon,	James Sherwood,
Henry T. Myers,	G. L. Esselburn,
Frank Wingard,	Sophia McNabb,
S. P. Imhoff,	Wm. L. Nelson,
Mrs. Kittie Weaver,	Mrs. E. Snyder,
Joseph Wilson,	Eli Miers,
S. F. Morr,	Charles Kelley,
Martin Weizel,	C. A. Jenkins,
A. Bartels,	John W. Tarney,
Henry Emme,	Hugh Harter,
J. C. Cramer,	James Sechler,
M. J. Thomas,	Murray A. Smith,
Daniel Thomas,	W. H. Myers,
George E. Cox,	N. Thomas,
D. Tomlinson,	C. B. Walter,
C. P. Urie,	Orange Herrick,
G. H. McNabb,	James May,
Jerry North,	M. D. Triplet,
Frank Latson,	B. F. Myers,
A. J. Sternberg,	R. S. S. Reed,
C. Teutsch,	M. F. Franks,
W. H. Snyder,	R. B. Showers,
F. Bills,	John Lumm,
S. Morr, Jr.,	N. B. Hathaway,
John Sheffer,	T. H. Leasure,
T. J. Saxton,	M. Kiplinger,
Henry Stomm,	C. L. Thomas,
John Hinkle,	Samuel Miller,
Samuel Morr,	James Barton,
Gandy & Nickey Co.,	C. A. Meades,
Mary Thomas,	B. F. Cornelius,
C. C. Hoffman,	C. H. Brown,
J. C. St. Clair,	John Hoffelder,
J. H. Hornberger,	G. I. Patterson,
Elijah Saylor,	Geo. Foster,
J. M. Brown,	Barbara Cupp,
J. F. Shuman,	Mrs. S. C. Swineford,
O. H. Widney,	J. G. Clapp.
A. Kinsey,	Samuel Warner,
Dr. B. S. Sheffer,	M. Keesler.
Isaac Meese,	N. J. Stook,

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

WONDERFUL CURES —BY— DR. TOWNSEND.

FREE CONSULTATION.

Dr. I. S. Townsend,

Formerly of the New York Polyclinic, and Lecturer in Medical College, Cincinnati, Ohio, will make the following visits:

Butler, Aldrich House, Monday, Jan. 22, and Monday, Feb. 19.

Kendallville, Bowen House, Tuesday, Jan. 23, and Tuesday, Feb. 20.

Garrett, Ross House, Thursday, Jan. 25, and Thursday, Feb. 22.

Angola, Hendry House, Friday afternoon, Jan. 26, and Saturday, Jan. 27; Friday afternoon, Feb. 23, and Saturday, Feb. 24.

Dr. I. S. TOWNSEND devotes his entire attention to diseases of the Eye, Ear, Throat, Lungs, and to all chronic, Private and Nervous Diseases and Deformities, as Granulated Lids, Cross Eyes, Deafness, Discharge at the Ears, Bronchitis, Chronic Cough, Goitre, (big neck) Fever Sores and Ulcers, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, all Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Heart, Stomach and Nervous Diseases; Chorea, (St. Vitus Dance) Epilepsy (Fits), General Debility, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, and all diseases due to bad blood.

Epilepsy, or Fits, positively cured by a New Never failing Remedy.

Rectal Diseases. Dr. Townsend makes a specialty of all forms of Rectal Diseases. Piles—Internal and External, Itching and Bleeding, Rectal Ulcers, Fissures, Fistula—which are often taken for Nervous and Lung Diseases, all cured if taken in time. Remember I cure all forms of Piles without pain, interruption or detention from business, and without the use of Knife, Caustic, Ligature or Injection. Come and be convinced. Dr. T. has made these diseases an exclusive specialty for years.

Small Tumors, Cancers, Warts, Moles, Etc., removed without acids, knife, pain or scar. New method. It is not boasting when we can truthfully say we can remove Superfluous Hair, Freckles, Pimples, Redness in the Face, Birth Marks, and Small Pox Marks.

Catarrh. New Home Treatment, with apparatus invented by the Dr. Examine it. Unsurpassed. Cheap.

Guarantee to cure every case of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Piles, Tape Worm and Stricture, Rupture or Hernia.

I will give special attention to difficult cases and to cases other physicians have failed to cure.

Persons applying for treatment will please bring from two to four ounces of urine for analysis.

Those unable to see the Doctor, address Box 1408, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Reference by permission to following Banks outside of Cincinnati, where the doctor has visited for nine years: Lima National Bank, Lima, Ohio, President, B. C. Faurot; Cashier, F. L. Langan; City Bank, President, T. T. Mitchell; Cashier, E. B. Mitchell; Foster & Co., Bankers, Fostoria, Ohio, Cashier, J. E. Wilkison; Findlay, O., First National Bank, President, E. P. Jones; Cashier, Chas. E. Niles; Kenton Nat onal bank, Asher Letson, President; H. L. Runkle, Cashier.

Those not able to see the Doctor at Hotel can treat by correspondence by addressing, I. S. TOWNSEND, M. D., Cincinnati, Ohio, Box 1408.

To Societies, Churches, Etc.

Notices of churches, meetings, socials, and similar gatherings will hereafter be made in the COURIER under a separate head; notices not to exceed five lines will be inserted free. If more space is desired, the regular rate of five cents a line will be charged. We believe, however, that a small notice placed under the proper head, will be as good for all purposes, as several notices of greater or less length scattered over the paper. Our object is to save room, as it has often happened that good reading matter has been crowded out, by the demand for space for free notices.

Obituaries, cards of thanks, etc., should be made reasonably short, for if several are in the paper at the same time, it is impossible to get in a proper amount of reading matter. There should be no poetry added, not more than one verse. Poetry with an obituary is now out of date. The only way poetry is allowable is to have a verse or two in the body of the article, and even this is seldom seen now.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the city of Garrett and Keyser township, DeKalb County, Indiana, that the undersigned a male inhabitant of the state of Indiana, over the age of 21 years, will apply to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at its March session, 1894, for a license to retail vinous, malt and spirituous liquors in less quantity than a quart at a time, and with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit:

Lot number four (4), in Block nineteen (19), in the original plat of the incorporated city of Garrett, DeKalb county, Indiana.

GEORGE BEHLER.

Garrett, Ind. Jan. 11, 1894.

EXTREME cold ruled in Europe last week when we had warm weather. Many deaths by freezing are reported.

MANY republicans seem to think more of the government of the Sandwich Islands than for that of the United States.

HENRY P. SCHERER was elected Tuesday evening by the Ft. Wayne council to be mayor in place of the late Col. Zollinger.

JOHN R. HOPKINS, the newly elected democratic mayor of Chicago, is a great-grandson of Stephen Hopkins, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

JUDGE ZOLLARS was elected member of the democratic state central committee for this district at the meeting at Ft. Wayne Monday. The choice is a good one.

THE great ship canal from Liverpool to Manchester was opened to business Jan. 1. It is thirty-five miles long and will make Manchester a seaport almost as valuable as Liverpool.

JUDGE LONG of Michigan, about whom there has been so much talk, has had his pension reduced from $72 to $50 per month, for the reason that he does not require the help of an assistant.

TOLEDO had a terrible fire last Wednesday night, in which the loss was nearly a million. It was the worst fire the city ever had. Thursday night another fire burned up about $50,000 of property.

WE know a man who has joined all the secret political societies till he has his conscience covered with seven layers of secret oaths. He does this at the request of any political shyster, and never thinks how un-American it is. Politics should be public.

A FRENCHMAN claims to have discovered that electricity is a good fertilizer for crops. He puts up a pole with a lightning rod extending above the top, and the electricity that accumulates is distributed over several acres of ground by parallel wires laid under ground.

THE Lagrange Register says a number of Lagrange farmers have large flocks of sheep, over 1,000 each for several of them. "But now this is all ruined by the Wilson bill." By the way, the Wilson bill has not passed yet, yet it seems that its poisonous breath is sweeping down the poor sheep by thousands in a flock.

THE Warsaw Indianian is now owned entirely by Gen. Reub. Williams and his son, M. R. Williams. They purchased the interest of the late Quincy A. Hossler, for $7,000. This shows the value of the plant to be about $14,000, but it is good property at that. It gets, and has had for many years, the entire printing of the county.

AFTER Zollinger's death, there was a meeting of the Indiana members of congress and our two senators to consider as to putting up another man for the place. Though it is generally conceded that the appointment should come to this district, our member, McNagny, was the only one reported absent. It is out another proof that the Twelfth District should have another sort of member to represent it.

LAST week at the meeting in Indianapolis, of the State Board of Agriculture, J. E. McDonald, editor of the Ligonier Banner, was elected member for this, the Sixteenth District. The vote stood, McDonald, 38; Lockhart, 20. Mr. Lockhart has been a member for many years, is a practical farmer, and was one of the best officers the board ever had. We do not know whether Mr. McDonald was ever a farmer or not, but presume he will make a good officer.

CONGRESS, the House at least, will vote on the Wilson tariff bill Jan. 25. This gives about three weeks for discussion. This looks like a long time to talk on a subject that has already been fully discussed, but the republicans and populists are trying, as they did with the repeal bill, to prolong the debate for months. In the mean time many democratic members are absent, and had to be sent for. They should be heavily fined.

ABRAHAM ORR last week publicly declined to be made postmaster at Kendallville. It will now be in order for McNagny to go up there and hunt up another manifestly ignoramus. He had refused to appoint any one of a half dozen capable men, preferring Orr, who is said to be illiterate. McNagny has in every way proved himself as incapable of filling the large office to which a mistaken people elected him. If proof of this were not found in his every act and every omission to act, the utterly ridiculous course he has taken in the appointment of postmasters would settle it. McNagny is an iridescent failure.

LIARS are not uncommon and ignorant people bob up everywhere. But the one who combines both these undesirable qualities is he who keeps telling you that the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, demonetized silver and made gold our only standard. We have often exploded this lie, but it still travels and still finds a few weak minded people who believe it. But we wish to say once more: Read the repeal bill. That will settle it. Then read the Sherman law, especially what is left of it after the purchasing clause is left off. That will settle it. Silver is left a legal tender just as it was before, and more silver is likely to be coined than was coined before. But the same old lie will be accepted by the same thoughtless people right along, no doubt.

WE are still living in republican times, but republicans are too ashamed of it to own it.

SPECIMENS of gold were found Monday at Elwood, Indiana, when digging a vault. It will be looked into further.

FIRE in the World's Fair grounds Monday evening destroyed the beautiful peristyle and all the adjoining buildings including the casino, and the music hall. The great manufactures building, which still contains more than two millions worth of exhibits, caught fire, but was saved with though greatly damaged. It was an exciting time for eight hours.

Dead-Letter Office Curiosities.

[From Harper's Young People.]

The oddest class of unmailable letters are the misdirected. These form a curious study, and are accorded careful special treatment. They number about two thousand daily. They are forwarded daily from the mailing offices, not being detained or advertised as dead letters are. Postmasters are unable to deliver them on account of some error or deficiency in the address, or because the writing is illegible. The clerks on this work have from long experience become very expert in handling these letters, and deliver many thousands of them yearly. Very many errors occur from haste and carelessness, and are at once apparent to the corrector. For instance, a letter may be addressed "40 Milk Street, Boston, N. H." of course it must mean Boston, Massachusetts, because that is the only Boston we have with named and numbered streets. Often the state is omitted entirely; sometimes the state is given and no office; sometimes only a county, and so on. Very frequently the name of the office is spelled from the sound as pronounced by some ignorant person. "Senoch, DicKalp Co., Ill.," occurred on such a letter, instead of Somonauk, DeKalb County, Illinois. "Hay Sugar, Miss," was intended for Hashuqua, and "Tannebebo, La.," for Tangipahoa. When a letter bears an address of special oddity the clerk is permitted to attach to it a little printed slip bearing the following request:

POSTOFFICE DEP'T, DEAD LETTER OFFICE
WASHINGTON, D. C.....188..

POSTMASTER—Upon the delivery of this letter, please obtain the envelope, if agreeable to the party addressed, and return it to the Dead Letter office. If the letter cannot be delivered you will, at the expiration of seven days, stamp the letter with your post marking stamp, and return it and this circular to the Dead Letter office, with your next return of unmailable letters, duly numbered and entered on the list, Form No. 1522.

D. P. LEIBHARDT,
Superintendent.

When the empty envelope returns she has proof positive of the correctness of her work. An envelope thus recalled was addressed "Mr. Brown, Oil Corp, Miss." There was no such postoffice in Missippi or elsewhere, but the clerk knew that there was an Alcorn University, a negro college, located at Jackson, Mississippi. So she wrote the new address in full on a slip, and sent the letter forward. The return of the empty envelope within a few days proved her surmise correct. Sometimes when the title of the office is a descriptive one, some curious changes of phraseology take place. A letter addressed to "Silver Mountain, Colo," was meant for Silver Peak; another written "Green Mound, Ill.," was intended for Blue Mound. Again, "Black Cock, Colo., was written for Black Hawk. "Copperfield, Vt.," did duty for Copperas Hill.

For instance, a letter written in Rhode Island was addressed "Miss Baylies, Church Home, corner of Herkimer St."—nothing more. There are a number of Herkimer streets and of church homes, so the address might have been more definite. The clerk sent the letter to the Church Charity Foundation in Brooklyn, New York, and delivered it. Another odd class are those that have only initials to guide the clerk. One came thus: "U P S Ohio." It was correctly interpreted Upper Sandusky, Ohio. Still another ran thus: "I S N S." It belonged to the Iowa State Normal School, at Cedar Falls, Iowa. Another read "No. 607 3rd St. C. N." and was safely delivered at Camden, New Jersey. A letter mailed at Cedar Hill, Ohio, was addressed to "Mr. J. R. Dodge, Statistician"—no more. Mr. Dodge was known to the clerk as the statistician of the Agricultural Department at Washington, D. C., so she was able to forward the letter.

Occasionally an attempted witticism like this is perpetrated:

"Sylvester Brown, a red-faced scrub,
To whom this letter wants to go,
Is chopping cord-wood for his grub,
In Silver City, Idaho."

Odd Fellows' Banquet.

St. Joe. News.

The Odd Fellows' banquet on New Years night was a grand success. The G. A. R. hall was filled to overflowing and everybody enjoyed themselves very much. The conundrum supper was one of the principal features. The looks of surprise which came over the faces of the partakers of the food can only be imagined by those who were surprised themselves. The Odd Fellows will have a neat little sum to place in their treasury as a result of their banquet. Nearly everything being donated by the members, the money was clear profit. Taken altogether the affair was a success from every standpoint, and a fitting remembrance of the first day of the year of 1894.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

POURING COUGH SYRUPS INTO THE STOMACH

Upsets the whole system and does not cure a Cough or Cold. May's Throat Diamonds are dissolved in the mouth, also burnt and the smoke inhaled. In that way you reach and medicate the mucous membrane affected.

MAY'S THROAT DIAMONDS

IS THE SUREST REMEDY

Ever discovered for Catarrh in the head and will strengthen your throat. Try them for Clearing the Voice.

SOLD AT 25c. A BOX.

Throat Diamond Mfg. Co., NAUGATUCK, CONN.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

BRIGGS' KIDNEY PILLS

WILL CURE Lumbago, Weak, Painful Back, Rheumatism, Nervousness, Sleeplessness & Female Weakness.

Why go to water cures when BRIGGS' KIDNEY PILLS will cure you? In every case it secures a cure. This New Remedy is the latest discovery of Medical Science. Delay not, but procure a box of this infallible remedy; it will do for you what it has done for thousands. Address,

E. S. BRIGGS, Ashland, O., U. S. A.

(BY MAIL, $1.00.)

SOME FAMOUS DWARFS.

One That Was Served In a Pie and Passed as a Talking Cat.

One of the most celebrated of little men was Jeffrey Hudson, who figures in Sir Walter Scott's "Peveril of the Peak." His history has been so often written as to bear but a brief mention. A whimsical mite was he, presented by the Duchess of Buckingham to Queen Henrietta Maria, the wife of Charles I., served up in a cold pie, and many were the pranks in which he took a part. For instance, there was the party of tattle baskets, as they were vulgarly termed, sitting down to enjoy the "cup that cheers" and a dish of gossip at the same time, while Butterkin, the cat, sat gravely by.

The meal over, one guest offered puss a bit of cheese, and was almost paralyzed to have that animal speak up and say, "Butterkin can help himself when he is hungry," and then make off down stairs, leaving the old crones with uplifted hands, in wild confusion, shouting at their hostess, "A witch, a witch, with her talking cat!" while it might have gone very hard with the poor woman had it not soon been found that a wag, for a joke, had killed and flayed her pet grimalkin and dressed wee Jeffrey in its skin.

When knighted by the king, Hudson assumed many high and mighty airs, although he was the butt as well as the amusement of the court; was once almost drowned in a basin of water, and would have been blown into the Thames but for a shrub that saved him. But Lord Minimus (as he was dubbed) really had his doughty adventures; was sent on diplomatic missions; fell into the hands of a Turkish pirate, who carried him off a prisoner to Barbary, and finally distinguished himself by shooting a Mr. Crofts in a duel, that gentleman having at first come to answer the small man's challenge armed only with a syringe filled with water.

A contemporary of Jeffrey was Richard Gibson, an artistic lilliputian, who studied under Sir Peter Lely, painted very creditable historical pieces and miniature portraits and taught drawing to the royal Princesses Mary and Elizabeth, who were afterward queens of England. He was appointed, in his youth page of the back stairs, and was married to Anne Shepherd, another court dwarf exactly his own height, having a most brilliant wedding, King Charles giving away the bride, while the queen presented her with a diamond ring, and Edmund Waller, the poet to their majesties, composed a poem on the event. This diminutive pair, 3 feet 10 inches high, passed a long and happy life together, and had nine children, five of whom grew to maturity and were full ordinary size.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST.

Boston Express	5:21 am	Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:30 pm	ex Sn
New York Limited	7:35 pm	Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation	7:15 am	Daily
Mail and Express	12:38 pm	ex Sn
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)	7:35 pm	Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 19, 1893.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Express	Freight
Fort Wayne, dp	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25	5 26	7 48
Auburn	12 29	5 30	8 37
Waterloo	12 43	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 58	5 53	9 45
Steubenville	12 59	5 57	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 14	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 30	6 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Express	Mail
Jackson dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 am
Angola	12 25 pm	2 08 pm	6 51
Pleasant Lake	1 05	2 20	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 27	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 33	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 06	9 24
Auburn	3 11	3 11	9 34
Auburn Junc.	3 38	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 50	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 13, 1893.

WEST-BOUND.

Stations—
Bellaire lv	*1.25 am	*11.47 pm	9.51 am	*3.48 pm	.....
Zanesville	9.58	2.11	12.29 am	6.20 pm	6.35 am
Newark ar	10.45	2.50	1.12 pm	7.05	7.15
Columbus ar	12.05 pm	3.50	2.15	8.15	8.25
Mansfield lv	12.40	.....	2.55	9.09 am	10.23
Deshler	3.20	5.32	10.05	12.02 pm	.....
Defiance	4.05	6.16	11.00	1.30 am	.....
Auburn Jc.	.....	7.12	12.25 pm	2.12	.....
Chicago ar	10.08	11.55	6.40	7.20	.....

EAST-BOUND.

Stations—
Chicago lv	10.30 am	*3.00 pm	6.05 pm	.....	6.25 am
Auburn Jc.	3.10 pm	7.55	12.25 am	8.47	11.20 am
Defiance	4.05	8.55	1.40	7.46	12.30 pm
Deshler	4.46	9.40	2.20	8.45	1.28
Mansfield	7.47	.....	4.55	8.46	4.18
Newark ar	9.25	.....	6.08	10.58	5.49
Columbus	.....	.....	7.15	12.05 pm	8.25
Zanesville lv	10.20 am	.....	12.56 am	11.30	6.42
Bellaire ar	12.50 pm	.....	3.25	2.40	9.02
(across river)
Wheeling ar	2.30	.....	5.00	4.20	10.40 pm
Pittsburg	.....	4.15 pm	7.50	.....	4.15
Washington D.C	4.05 pm	8.00 pm	3.25 am	5.30	.....
Baltimore	5.10	9.25	.....	6.40	.....
Philadelphia	6.00	10.55	.....	9.25	.....
New York	8.20	9.30	.....	12.10 pm	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. Sleeping and dining cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't G. P. Ag't, Chicago. City Office, Auburn, Ind.

A GREAT REDUCTION!

In order to reduce our Stock, we will give from now until February 1, '94, TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT OFF in Cash on every article purchased during the time mentioned above. Come early and be convinced.

Boston One Price Clothing Store.

It's Like Finding Money.

No dull trade at Bishop & Lackey's, if prices are any inducement.
Its a Clearance Sale. Unprecedented in Values,
Unprecedented in Quality.

BLANKETS.

50 pair Large size white, worth $3.00, now $1.69.
40 pair All-Wool, red and white, worth 3.25, now 2.42.
25 pair All-Wool, red and white, worth 4.00, now 3.25.
15 pair finer goods at proportionate prices.

FLANNELS.

500 yards Auburn Factory, worth 40c. now 25.
400 yards New Albany Factory, worth 40c. now 25.

DRESS GOODS.

500 yards 48-inch Serge, former price 48c. now 29.
We show the largest line of Fine Dress Goods in Northern Indiana, at proper prices.

UNDERWEAR.

This Department is full and complete. We continue to show all styles and qualities in women's, children's, men's and boys' underwear at correct prices.
50 Doz. men's all-wool, reduced from $1.25 and $1.50 to 75c. Very cheap to close.

CLOAKS.

⅓ Off on all Ladies' and Children's Wraps.

Bishop & Lackey,
Shaffer Block. AUBURN, IND.

SEE
D. A. HODGE
For the Holiday Trade,
We have on display the most complete line of
WATCHES, DIAMONDS & JEWELRY
In the City. Handsome Novelties in
SILVERWARE.
Inspect our line before purchasing!

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Dr. James Adams,
VETERINARY SURGEON
Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Have You Tried BRINK'S Thill Coupling? If not! Send to Holcomb & Co., Bloomville, O., and get a Sample pair, only 25 cents. Money returned if not satisfactory.

Dr. F. M. Hines, Physician and SURGEON.
Office over J. C. HENRY'S Grocery, in the Ford Block,
AUBURN, IND.
☞ RESIDENCE, at the Samuel Swihart residence on South Jackson St. near the Church Furniture factory, and just across west from the German Methodist church. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

P. P. P. C.
Positive Painless Pile Cure.
The most complete, practicable and painless method of treating all curable diseases of the rectum ever placed before the public. Piles are permanently cured in a few weeks by the use of this treatment. Fissure, Catarrh, Inflammation Ulceration, Prolapsus, Constipation, Bleeding, Blind and ITCHING PILES are cured as if by magic. I claim the most complete, successful, simple and original common sense method ever offered to the suffering public. Your correspondence solicited.
S. U. TARNEY
Sole Proprietor and Manufacturer
Auburn, Ind.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

FARMERS BANK.
Capital Stock.--
--$40,000.00.
Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.
ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,
REPAIRS
All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and BUILDERS FOR THE TRADE:
Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work
Warranted First-Class in All Respects.
☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar!

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

W. H. Less and wife, of Waterloo, were in town Tuesday.

Lewis Olinger, of Corunna, was in town on business Tuesday.

C. P. Hamman has been helping in the Auditor's office a few days.

Adam Kline, of Hicksville, O., is here visiting his brother, Michael Kline.

Walter Hartman went back to Ann Arbor Tuesday to resume his law studies there.

Conductor Mogford of the Jackson branch is laid up with a severe attack of the grip.

Mrs. Roether and her daughter, Mrs. Frank Ross, of Garrett, were calling on friends here this week.

W. H. McDowell, of Van Wert, Ohio, was here a few days this week. He says all goes well down there.

A sister to old Mrs. Hannah Sherlock, Mrs. Easter Zollinger, died at her home in Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 31.

D. A. Garwood is covering his new residence so he can go on with the inside work this favorable weather.

J. H. Gugerli has finished up the second story of his business block. Chris. Baker did the plastering.

The McGibeny family played in Goshen last week. Our people will remember this company of excellent specialties in music.

Walter Carpenter, one of our young friends from Garrett, paid this office a brief visit Saturday. Always pleased to meet him.

Two Davids, David Hough and David Andrews, met at the office of their mutual friend, the COURIER, last week. They are a jolly couple.

Pearl Kelley is at Albion this week visiting her relatives, the family of J. J. Martin. She returns Friday. They start for the west on Monday.

MARRIED:—At the M. E. parsonage at Hamilton, Jan. 5, 1894, Lemuel N. Chapman and Mary Kegerreis, by Rev. A. H. McKee, pastor of M. E. church.

Herb Martin, of Albion, after a visit of a week or so with his relatives at and near Columbia City, returned to Auburn Friday and back to his home Saturday.

John Witt was here Saturday and brings word of the death of his elder brother, Charles Witt, at his home in Kendallville, Dec. 28. The funeral was Dec. 30.

Consumption is a common, terrible disease, but can be prevented and cured by prompt use of Brant's Balsam. Warranted. 25 and 50 cent bottles of F. E. Davenport.

Uncle Henry Shull has lost a pair of gold rimmed spectacles which he prizes greatly. Anyone finding them will confer a favor by returning to him or leaving at this office.

Connors and Eva Flint, who were arrested for supposed complicity in the Keesler train robbery, and kept in Albion jail awhile, have been released, as there was no evidence.

The commissioners have put up the new smoke stack at the jail and it is a great improvement. The work is by the new foundry in Stamestown, the Auburn Iron Works, and is a good job.

S. M. Williams and wife go to Hillsdale this week to make their home. They have proved worthy and desirable citizens and our people, especially our musical people, will regret to have them go.

Monday when congress met the democrats of the House had a quorum, the speaker having ordered the arrest of absentees. All the time there had been a large number of republicans present, but they would not vote.

M. B. Masters, over in Gas Addition, took advantage of the warm weather last week to do some plowing. This reminds us that our friend Stephen Masters down in Arkansas, can't start the plow much earlier than that.

Mrs. Lucy C. Miller, Bingham, Mich., writes makers of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer: "I needed HELP if any poor mortal ever needed it." Many others need help for their nerves. Call on us for $1 bottles. Warranted by F. E. Davenport.

We received last week, the usual holiday letter and subscription in advance from Mrs. Guy Plumb, at Easton, Md. The friends here will be interested to know they are all well. The COURIER folks reciprocate the friendly sentiments of the letter.

The Clipper gave up a few inches of its valuable space last week to a rocky joke on Commissioner Hoffelder. But as the class of people who read that sheet must have a taste for any sort of nastiness, we presume they enjoyed it as much as they would the rape or seduction article that it crowded out.

Big lot of the leading citizens of St. Joe were here last week to see if they could not get a guardian appointed for John Bleeks, the old man who is trying to run a saloon in that place. They claim he is unable to run the business, and is wasting his substance in all sorts of foolishness.

Boys can't always behave themselves, even at a church social. A little wagon that was used to bring supplies to the M. E. social last Saturday evening was taken away and hid so the parties could not find it to take their things home. They found it next day, Sunday, but it was a very poor trick to play on them.

The S. H. G. meets with Mrs. Ernest Sheets Saturday, at 2:30 o'clock. Program: Quotations at roll call, Bryant; American Commonwealth, Chapt. 10, Mrs. Clifton; History, Connecticut, Mrs. Henry; Helena, Mother of Constantine, Mrs. McIntyre; What Constantine did for Christianity, Mrs. Moody; Music, Mrs. Moss.

Mrs. Solomon Stoner, of Garrett, was here Monday on some legal business. She was accompanied by her son, Elmer Stoner, now of Chicago, and both made a friendly call on the COURIER. We were pleased to meet them. Elmer is a machinist and has been in Chicago some time. He, however, expects to turn his attention to the insurance business.

R. W. Cobb, of the Auburn Cyclery, left Saturday for New York, where he will attend the opening exercises of the National Cycle Show, which will be held from Jan. 8 to 13. He will remain several days, during which time he will look into the details of New Models and Novelties in the Cycle Exhibit, which will be the most important in Cycledom.

The First National Bank had its annual election of officers Tuesday. Judge McClellan remains president, but Wm. McIntyre retires from the vice-presidency and is succeeded in that position by Don A. Garwood, who has for the past year been cashier. Charles McClellan, who has been assistant cashier, was elected cashier. From this we infer that his services as assistant cashier have proved acceptable to the bank.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Read our announcements of socials, clubs, etc.

Ev. Watson, of Warsaw, was on our streets this week.

Dr. Mott's Nerverine Pills are guaranteed and sold by Matheny & Gerke. 43tf

The book that is richest in humor of any now published—Samantha Allen at the fair, M. B. Willis, agent.

Bread, cakes, pies, etc., etc., together with all kinds of candies, always new and fresh, at the Union Bakery. 2-4

The Union Bakery for fresh bread and all baked goods, candies, etc., as well as the best canned fruits, etc. Call there. 4

Geo. Lee, the laundry man, has moved to Ft. Wayne. He could not compete with the fine new steam laundry of Ryan & Lane.

HOUSE TO RENT:—A desirable dwelling in good location. Call at the residence on North VanBuren St., second north of M. E. church. Mrs. J. J. Zent. 2tf

Reynolds, the man who lectured on the streets here last year, and sold his book, "The Twin Hells," has been put into the Texas insane asylum.

Mrs. Cyrus Olinger, of Mt. Ida, Kansas, is here visiting the families of her father, L. Bowers, and her daughter, now Mrs. Ollie Clay.

Ernest Peters, of Jackson, reports Henry Lindorfer a little better now, but he has been very sick. We hope to hear of his full recovery.

L. Bowers is as regular as clockwork in paying up his subscription. You can depend on him at New Years, as sure as New Years comes.

Dr. E. L. Siver, of Fort Wayne, was here this week. He is a director of the First National Bank, and we presume came up to attend the election of officers.

Fresh bread, the nicest and best, always to be had at the Union Bakery. DeLong & Keeran will be pleased to have your patronage.

The K. P. Lodge has a public installation, followed by a banquet, Friday evening. It will be a brilliant affair, as the boys of that order never do things by halves.

There is a rumor that old Mr. Rinehart, who used to live here, killed his son a week or two ago at or near Bluffton. Whether true or not he had a hard reputation when here.

If the late Nelson Prenties could see his picture in last week's Albion Democrat, he would wish he had died sooner. It looks like the late lamented "Elder Joel H. Austin" in Hood's medicine ads.

In addition to the books before mentioned, M. B. Willis has secured the agency for the county, of the book of season, "Samantha at the World's Fair." See him at once and give an order.

The L. A. S. entertainment at the G. A. R. hall Monday evening was well attended. The room was filled to its utmost capacity and some were unable to gain admittance. The program was a good one and was enjoyed by all.

Henry Shoemaker was picked up on South Jackson street last Thursday evening about seven o'clock, where he says he was knocked down with a sand bag or something of the sort. He had bruises on his head, both front and back as if made with something like a sand bag, and his face showed a good deal of blood and mud. He said a man on a bicycle came along and ran against him, and that either this man or someone else, knocked him over. He claims they took about $50 in money that he had. He had been drinking, and may not have a clear idea of what really did happen but at all events he was considerably bruised up and his money was gone.

The Gas Supply.

People who used natural gas here found it totally shut off last Friday morning. An examination of the pipe line east of town and near gas well No. 1, disclosed several leaks. The pipe was taken up at those points and new ones put in and then the gas came on with a pressure more like it used to show when the wells were first bored. These wells have never been cleaned out since the day the first went into use, and it is no wonder the gas does not come as freely as then.

Union Bakery Changes.

Last week R. B. McKahan sold out the Union Bakery to O. V. DeLong and John Keeran, who will continue the business on the same lines as before. The new proprietors are good, active young business men, and Mr. DeLong has had ample experience in the business before, as he conducted a bakery at St. Joe. They will keep the same baker, Ralph Thomas, who has been baking there for some time, so that the excellent quality of their bread will remain as before.

We hope to see the new firm prosper. Mr. McKahan has made many friends here, by his pleasant ways, and our people will dislike to see him leave. His wife has also made many friends, though being an invalid, she has remained close at home. They will return this week to their old home, Ligonier.

Changes of Venue.

In nine cases out of ten this is unnecessary and is in the main only a device to save some criminal from having justice meted out to him. But why should the people of the county be put to this extra expense in order that punishments due to criminals may be made lighter? If a man has committed a crime, he should be punished, and there should be as great an effort made to secure his punishment as there is to shield him. And there is a leaning towards mercy on the part of all courts and all juries, especially at the present time. There is a danger that this tendency to the side of mercy will be carried to excess, and the criminal let off with a punishment too light for his crime. In any case, there is little or no danger that the punishment will be too severe. Then let the home jury try all these cases. We are satisfied that any jury of DeKalb county citizens will render as proper a verdict as a jury in any other county. Let us try our cases at home and save a part of the expense. Let DeKalb county stop airing her dirty linen under the nostrils of her neighbors. Since writing the above, we find that the Deeters case for killing Bachtel and his daughter, Mrs. Lowe, has been taken to Angola. We think this course is wrong, for it puts a needless expense on the county. We do not know whose fault this is, that of the law, or of the officials or of the attorneys. We say again, we should try our cases at home.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

WANTED.—Oak and Elm Hub Timber. Zimmerman Mfg. Co. 4t

Read carefully G. H. Yeshera's new advertisement. There are splendid bargains.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

Cold noses speedily and pleasantly warmed by smoking Kessler Bros.' Bill Head.

LOST.—Setter pup, ten months old, black on head and one hip. Finder please return to Auburn Foundry and Machine Works and receive reward.

GOOD ROOMS TO RENT:—A suite of four desirable rooms in good location with pleasant surroundings. Call on W. E. Bush, North Main street, Auburn. 1-3

LOST:—An overcoat, between Myers & Kutzner's livery barn and my residence. Finder will please leave same at Kessler Brothers' cigar factory.
1-3 W. F. Kessler.

WANTED:—A reliable person in Auburn, Ind., to handle our line of household goods. 1-2
A. J. Conroy & Co.,
223 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Court.

Work on the Grand Rapids case was going on when we closed last week. Jones, an engineer, was severely hurt by a defective spout that fell on him while taking water on his engine. The jury went out Thursday and were out about twenty-four hours. Their verdict was that Jones should have $7,000, if he was entitled by law to any. The law point is to be settled by the presiding judge, James E. Rose, who has the case under advisement for a few days. Jones had been paid over $1,500 by the railroad, and this makes the total sum over $8,500.

Poorman, accused of chicken stealing, was let off for want of proof.

Deeters, the murderer, was called up on Monday and put in a plea of not guilty, and plead insanity. An affidavit was put in stating that he could not get justice done in DeKalb county, and he was given a change of venue to Steuben. He will be tried there at their next term of court, which convenes there the first Monday in February.

Lee Foo Ton, our Chinese laundryman, managed to make the court understand last week that he wanted to get naturalized. He took out his first papers two years ago, and has been in this country since 1881. Now, he wanted to get his second papers. Judge Powers at first thought this was all right, but on looking up the law, he found it says we can naturalize "persons of African descent and white aliens," and leaves it doubtful if any others, as Chinese, who are of the "Mongolian" or yellow race, can be naturalized. So George will have to wait till Judge Powers can get an answer to a letter of inquiry he has sent to the U. S. attorney-general at Washington. As several Chinamen at Indianapolis were naturalized a few years ago and voted at the general election, it would appear that there is some later law than that found by the Judge.

Tuesday, the case from Fairfield for disturbing meeting came up. It will be remembered that several boys were tried in 'Squire Walborn's court a short time ago and fined. One of them, a son of Dave Goodrich, appealed to court, and for want of evidence against him, was acquitted.

The grand jury is still in session and will likely continue till the last of the week.

John Clayton was given ten days in jail for larceny and $1 fine.

Sigmond Mosier, for the same offense, got the same dose.

Frederick Boger came into court on Monday, drunk, and caused a disturbance and finally shook his fists at the court. Judge Powers hauled him up for contempt of court and sent him to jail till next morning without costs. He will probably give the court room a wide berth hereafter when he wants fun.

The case of Martin L. Treesh against Martin Wetzel was dismissed.

Elijah Imhoff was made guardian for Peter Humbarger; G. W. Bleeks was made guardian for his father, James Bleeks at St. Joe, a matter we have heretofore explained. Wm. Goodwin was appointed guardian for Henry Goodwin. Albert Buchanan was appointed guardian for Emily Buchanan. The last named is the widow of the late John Buchanan. She has been in the insane asylum a number of years.

Dr. K. K. Wheelock got a judgment of $56 on a note against Jacob Gratz.

James W. Clark against Geo. H. Dunn, note, was dismissed at defendant's cost.

In the partition case of Johanna Shull, J. J. VanAuken, Jacob Walborn and James McClellan were appointed commissioners to partition the land.

Sherman and Stella Edge were divorced, as were also Edward and Belle Smallwood.

C. M. Phillips, sitting as special judge, granted a divorce to Frank and Susan Fisk.

A good deal of other work of various kinds has been done, especially in the matter of estates, etc., and many motions heard in other cases.

Garrett Banking Company.

Garrett Republican.

At a stockholders' meeting of the Garrett banking company, on January 3, 1894, the following officers were elected: H. N. Coffinberry, president; Jacob Bogert, vice-president; T. O. Mitchell, cashier; H. N. Coffinberry, Jacob Bogert, T. O. Mitchell, Reuben Sawvel and T. J. Knisely, directors. T. O. Mitchell deserves especial praise for the safe conservative and accomodating course pursued as cashier, and the Republican predicts for him a bright future. As regards the Garrett banking company and its officers generally, we will say that their business dealings are above censure, and we are proud of their every public act. Depositors need never fear loss from this institution.

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Always accepted with "many thanks,"—Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

Sweet, refreshing slumbers and pleasant dreams—the results obtained by smoking the Young America.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisements upon the inside pages of this paper, among which will be found some important announcements.

For pains in the chest there is nothing better than a flannel cloth saturated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of Mystic Cure, and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

LOST: Somewhere on Main street, Auburn, Dec. 19, a red leather pocket bill book, containing money, draft and other papers. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving at this office or with D. Z. Hoffman.

Now is the time when your catarrhal trouble begins to annoy and wreck the Respiratory and Nervous systems. Drs. Nusbaum & Nusbaum cure what they promise. Rooms especially fitted to treat diseases of nose and throat. Also diseases of women.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY:—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action pon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cts. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. tf

"During the epidemic of lagrippe, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy took the lead here and was much better liked than other cough medicine." H. M. Bangs, druggist, Chatsworth, Ill. The grip is much the same as a very severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. This remedy is prompt and effectual and will prevent any tendency of the disease toward pneumonia. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR
BRINGS RESOLUTIONS of REFORM.
Just as successfully as mother earth brings forth fruit and flowers
The habits, purposes, successes and failures of the year 1893, will not be adequate to the great demands of the great year of 1894.
NO RESOLUTION OF REFORM
Is of more importance than in the purchase of the necessaries of life. Especially is this true when you endeavor to find out how much your money
WILL BUY
in the way of
GROCERIES!
We wish all our friends a Happy New Year, and especially invite everybody to call at the Family Grocery when in need of: Bread, Cakes, groceries, Cigars, Tobacco, Confectionery, Soap Brooms, Flour, and General Merchandise. We will save you money.
IRA BRANDON.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Schaab.

The S. H. G. will meet Saturday at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Ernest Sheets.

The Loyal Temperance Legion will meet next Sunday at 4 p. m. in the church of God. A large attendance is desired.

DeKalb county Farmers' Institute at St. Joe, Jan. 17 and 18. See program.

Next Saturday the O. L. S. C. meets with Mrs. M. McClellan. Rome and Making of Modern Europe, Miss Davis; Roman and Medieval Art, Miss Ober; Reading, Miss McDowell.

The ladies of the Lutheran church will give a supper in the lecture room next Saturday evening, Jan. 13. Supper from 5 to 8 o'clock. Mite 15 cents. Everybody come.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. Jas. E. Rose on next Friday afternoon. A large attendance is desired as business relating to the interest of the society will be considered.

CALIFORNIA MIDWINTER FAIR

Harrington's Excursion Feb. 24, 1894.

Send for book giving full particulars as to how the party will travel, list of hotels where they will stop, price of tickets and map showing route over which this excursion will pass. Seven thousand miles will be traveled in elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars, with Dining Car attached, for the exclusive use of this party. Do not forget that if you are going to California and do not wish to return with this party, you can do so, and so have the benefit of this special service of elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, as well as visit all the many points of interest mapped out for this tour en route to San Francisco.
Call on or address 2 7
G. L. HARRINGTON,
46 N. High Street,
Telephone 868. COLUMBUS, O.

CHRISTMAS AND JULY 4.

Christmas Day Was Warmer and no Joke Either.

(FT. WAYNE JOURNAL)

Last year, the old year just passed away, will bear the palm as regards many things, but in nothing is it more startling than in the kind of weather that has been making people ill during the holidays which have just passed.

Some persons have jokingly said that it was warmer on Christmas than on the Fourth of July. This statement made just in fun, was so unusual that of course nobody believed it or thought of it being true. A look at the figures for the temperature of these two days, however, will force the oldest citizen of Allen county to admit that he never saw the like before.

In the office of the Salamonie Natural Gas Company at Ft. Wayne the the temperature affects the flow of gas and consequently the thermometer is registered every hour of the day, and throughout the night hours a watchman faithfully records the condition of the temperature. The records are all preserved and are absolutely correct.

The other day the book was examined by a Journal reporter and the following result obtained:

HOUR	CHRISTMAS	JULY 4
12 o'clock p m	54°	60°
1 a m	54	48
2 do	54	46
3 do	52	44
4 do	52	42
5 do	50	44
6 do	48	50

WE ARE

Pleased to announce to the good people of Auburn, and vicinity, that we are now ready to supply you with first-class

BOOTS & SHOES.

Please call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere.

It is No Trouble to Show Goods.

R. SHULL,
AUBURN, IND.

1894!
During the year 1894 we will be
ON DECK
With a full line of
China Ware, Glass Ware, Tin Ware, Wall Paper, Window Blinds, Notions, Novelties, 5 and 10 cent Goods.
Don't fail to come and see us for we will have the goods and sell them right.
OLDS BROS.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

Advertising is Seed Sowing

The requisites are: First, good seed. Second, good ground. Third, good sowing.

It cannot be gainsaid that the harvest resulting from a good sowing of good advertising seed in good newspaper ground, is far more certain than any harvest that the average farmer can realize.

A MAN can't help having his judgment warped by a hot temper.

WHEN a man is "generous to a fault," it is generally a fault of his own.

THE Rev. Dr. Withrow says that Mr. Stead should go home. But have the English no rights?

NEXT to an elevator, the icy sidewalk probably has the most to do with man's getting up in the world.

VAILLANT, the French bomb-thrower, is said to be very vain. But the big head never yet checked the guillotine.

LIFE never seems to be such a hollow mockery to a gray-haired man as when his gushing love letters are being read in a breach-of-promise case.

WHAT's this? Englishmen admitting that the Bank of England is not perfect? They'll be doubting the divine right of royalty the next we know.

THOSE Mexicans who are risking their lives, their fortunes, and their more or less sacred honor in kidnapping American girls for wives are going to a lot of useless trouble. Let them telegraph to Massachsetts for a few eligible young women and then listen for the galloping hoof-beats that will sound the answer.

A BRILLIANT triumph of Miss Dorothea Klumpke, of San Francisco, in passing successfully the examination of the Paris Academy of Sciences for the degree of doctor of mathematics, deals another blow to the notion that the feminine brain is unable to cope with abstruse scientific problems. Miss Klumpke enjoys the distinction of being the first woman who ever won this honor in France.

THE grand jury of Kings County, New York, is surprised and dismayed to learn that the inmates of the county jail are "the offscourings of society." This is indeed depressing. It shows that the standard of Kings County criminals is very low. Steps should be taken to "pinch" a few doctors of divinity, two or three judges, a bank president or two, and a sprinkling of professional men to leaven the lump. Ward McAllister might be inveigled across the river and chucked in.

WALTER AIKEN, of Franklin, N. H., whose death was recently announced, was a fertile inventor. His father first conceived the idea of a cog rail for steep grades on railroads and tried to apply it to Mount Washington, but he could not interest capital in it in his early days, and the honor of the achievement later went to another. But the son assisted in building the road and designed the locomotive used on the road. He also built the hotel at the top and the signal-service station there for the United States Government.

FORTUNE does not smile alike upon all the members of the mug-punching Costello family. Martin, otherwise known as "Buffalo," of that ilk, has escaped the meshes of Hoosier law after they were fairly wound about him, but his brother John has been laid by the heels in the county jail at Rondout, N. Y., and has a year in the penitentiary ahead of him. The difference seems to be that Martin is a professional walloper of his fellow men while John is a mere amateur who whiles away his idle moments in terrorizing rural policemen. Martin receives distinguished consideration; John gets twelve months. Which is altogether inequitable and unjust.

THE fleets of all the world are witness to the revolution wrought in naval ships by the American monitor. All the naval powers were quick to see and adopt the armor idea, and they have ever since been engaged in rebuilding their navies, while we have been content to witness the results of their experiments until it was necessary for us to rebuild our own navy. We waited wisely. The great guns, many weighing 110 tons, with which England and other nations armed their monster ships, are now declared by Admiral Hornby to be failures. He says moderate-sized guns of about twenty-five tons each are the best. This is another American idea, developed in our new navy. Our new naval steel guns, long and comparatively light, are undoubtedly the best in the world.

IF we would preserve this country, we must preserve the forms of law. The men who tacitly or actively encourage less intelligent men to lynch men for unproven crimes are conniving at mob murders. Mob murders pave the way for mob law. The community which permits a lynching within its borders has given a blow to the law from which it will take a generation to recover. Ignorant men who are allowed to take the law into their own hands for punishing crimes against the person will take the law into their own hands for other purposes. The workingmen of Spokane, who tried to terrorize the courts, to interfere with civil suits, to blow up buildings, and to maltreat individuals, because they wanted work, were simply carrying out that spirit of mob law which seems to be eating into the American body-politic like gangrene.

IT has been demonstrated again and again that the blood and bombs anarchists, with the exception of a few crazy and irresponsible enthusiasts, are rank cowards. From Johan Most, who hid under his mistress' bed to escape arrest, down to Williams, the English apostle of dynamite, who is now eating his words for fear of a mob, the whole red-mouthed, blatant, beer-guzzling gang have shown their pusillanimity when threatened with real danger or even with legal proceedings. They are poltroons, and the hubbub now being raised throughout Europe over the creature Vaillant is not creditable to the intelligence or the courage of the constituted authorities. No vigilance can guard against fanatics like Pallas and Vaillant; no vigilance is necessary against the yawping crowd who menace society, from a sanitary standpoint only, through their unwashed hides and scurvy personality. They won't bite.

WHY will fool letter-carriers tamper with mail matter, in the face of certain detection? James Palmer, a Chicago carrier of five years' standing, is the latest victim of his cupidity and stupidity. Detected in opening a letter and abstracting money therefrom, he has before him the prospect of a long term in the penitentiary. He must have known, as every one else knows, that while justice is leaden-heeled in pursuit of the ordinary offender, the postoffice thief has not one chance in a thousand of escaping punishment. The Government is relentless, and properly so, in demanding the extreme penalty of the law upon those who tamper with the mails, and the postoffice detective system is practically infallible. There is no hope of escape. Yet at frequent intervals some poor idiot robs a letter of a few dollars and repents his folly behind iron bars until the outside world has forgotten his name.

MRS. LOZIER, of New York, the president of Sorosis, has been contributing to a symposium on "What Girls Should Read." Her recommendations are somewhat startling, unless New York girls are far ahead of other girls intellectually—a supposition that is absurd, of course. For girls under 14 Mrs. Lozier prescribes such light literary pabulum as Ruskin's lectures. As soon as the girls reach the age of 14 they are to be put to work on Motley's "Dutch Republic," the "French Revolution," and similar light and entertaining volumes. Then Mrs. Lozier would have the young women get down to serious business by reading "Spencer, Huxley, Tyndall, Darwin, and Winchell's book on geology." This for girls of 14, heaven help them! Unfortunately the president of Sorosis does not map out the curriculum further. Young ladies of 15 would probably be nourished on the Alcestis of Euripides, Kant's "Critique of Pure Reason," and Flamsteed's "Explication of Hieroglyphic Figures," with occasional excursions into Sanscrit and the Vedic literature. Mrs. Lozier ought to continue her program. It is interesting.

Juvenile Darwinian.

A great newspaper reports not only the affairs of nations, but the doings and sayings of those infantile American sovereigns whose very names are unknown to the public. Here, for example, is a news item from the New York Herald:

Mary, the nurse, came in from a turn in the park, carrying the pride of the family, a young gentleman some fourteen months old.

"O, ma'am," she said, "George spoke this afternoon for the first time."

"Really! What did he say?"

"Why, I was showing him the animals, and he made me stop before the cage of monkeys; and he clapped his hands and said 'Papa! papa!' real plain."

Fun in the Kitchen.

We have all heard of parlor games, but it has remained for a little girl to invent a kitchen game.

"Say, Dinah," said five-year-old Molly, "let's play I'm an awful-looking tramp. I'll ask you to give me a piece of pie, and you get frightened and give it to me."—Harper's Young People.

CAUSE OF THE PANIC.

TREASURY WAS EMPTIED BY THE REPUBLICANS.

Mr. Cleveland Left a Clear Surplus of Over One Hundred Millions at the Close of His Former Administration—Admission of New States.

Meet the Situation Boldly.

There is an opportunity for the President. If not a positive duty, by a special message to Congress, to lay before the country the exact condition of the national treasury and the steps by which this condition has been brought about. The exhaustion of the treasury is the direct result of a deliberative policy. The people are entitled to know just how that policy has worked, since they are now appealed to in its defense. They can in no way gain this knowledge so well as from an authoritative official statement of the process by which the the treasury was reduced from abundance to bankruptcy.

The Republican organs do not tell this. They dwell on the fact that the revenues have fallen off in the last six months. They do not explain that this temporary deficiency would be of trifling importance had not the Treasury been emptied of its accumulations and the expenditures raised beyond the revenues by the policy steadily pursued, both by the Congress and the executive, from 1889 to 1893. Mr. Cleveland left a clear surplus of over a hundred millions, independent of the reserve for the protection of the currency, with the ordinary expenditures averaging $263,000,000 a year, or $105,500,000 less than the annual revenues. He received back a Treasury actually emptied, with even the gold reserve impaired, and the ordinary expenditures raised, by an enormous pension list and other fixed charges, to $383,500,000, the actual payments last year exceeding the actual receipts.

The excess of expenditures over receipts could be easily met and corrected if the Treasury reserves had been left unimpaired. But they were gone. In one summer, during the panic of 1890, the Secretary of the Treasury poured into the market a million dollars a day for seventy days, in the purchase of bonds, paying in that year alone a premium of over twenty millions to extinguish a debt not due. No doubt it was a help to business, but it exhausted the resources of the Government; so that in the worse currency panic of last summer the Secretary was powerless. During the three years from 1889 to 1891, $48,000,000 of the surplus had gone, not to the payment of debt, but to the payment of premiums alone.

But this was not the worst. It was no doubt expected that the silver bullion purchased under the Sherman law would serve for the redemption of the Treasury notes issued against it. But the plan was a failure. The actual effect of the law was to drain the Treasury of its sound assets and substitute an accumulation of unmerchantable silver bars, which cannot be used in the payment of obligations and represent an absolutely dead investment.

As the national credit lies at the foundation of business credit, distress and panic were the only possible results of this reckless and unfortunate policy, associated, as it was, with a tariff whose very purpose was to hamper commerce and whose effect was to demoralize industry. The present administration has thus to meet the catastrophe ripened under its predecessors, with the expenditures already fixed and the immediate resources of the treasury exhausted.

The Government is actually in debt, as the result of the policy inaugurated by the billion-dollar Congress. The present Congress will have to provide for this deficit by a loan. It should do so boldly and promptly, taking care that the country shall understand exactly where the responsibility belongs.—Philadelphia Times.

Trying to Shanghai Reform.

The Washington Post aptly recalls the story of the British herring curer, who was for free trade in everything but herring, anent the mass of correspondence now being poured in on Chairman Wilson by every mail, of which the following is a characteristic sample:

I understand you propose to put poultry on the free list. I am raising Shanghai chickens out here in Nebraska and get $5 a pair for them; but if you let in chickens from China free, it will destroy my business. I have been a Democrat all my life, but if what you are proposing is Democracy, I have voted the Democratic ticket for the last time.

There are numbers of Democrats of this Shanghai breed in various States who are for the party so long as Democracy is their especial rooster. Their ideas of political duty and of public policy are bounded by the palings of their hencoops. They look on China as a personal enemy, just as they regard commercial freedom as a china egg contrived to hatch out a brood of misfortunes for their personal bedevilment and aggravation.

These Shanghai poultrers, who are willing that everybody else, even to the herring curers, should be taxed to support the Government, and that their own lifelong Democracy should make them "deadheads in the enterprise," delight to call themselves Democrats when they have an ax to grind; but they think it most intolerable that any chicken of theirs should ever get the ax. Such lifelong Democrats don't know the meaning of the title they disport; and the sooner they shall drop off the Democratic roost into the Republican henyard the better it will be for the interests of Democracy and for the chicken-eaters of the country.—Philadelphia Record.

New States.

Bills have passed the House of Representatives to admit to Statehood Utah and Arizona, and doubtless New Mexico will soon be added to the list, and possibly Oklahoma. It is claimed by the Republicans that Utah ought not to be admitted because of its having tolerated and sanctioned polygamy. It is conceded that this institution is no longer sanctioned or defended. Utah has a larger population than two or three combined of the six States admitted within the past few years, and is in every way better equipped for Statehood than any of them. It is claimed that Arizona and New Mexico have not the requisite population to entitle them to admission as States. Possibly that may be true, but this objection comes with poor grace from those who favored the admission of Idaho, Wyoming, and Washington. It is not denied that these States were all admitted for the sole purpose of adding Republican strength to the Senate.

Now that the Democrats are in the ascendant it may be that they feel well assured that Democratic Senators will come from these new States, and on this account are zealous for their admission. Republicans set a bad example, and they have no occasion to find fault if their opponents follow it. They refused to take in Utah and New Mexico, as they would probably add to the Democratic strength in the Senate. It becomes the Republicans to keep silent, not murmur or complain, but quietly take some of the medicine they had administered to their political antagonists. It is an old saying that "curses, like chickens, always come home to roost." Mean and dishonest precedents are very apt sooner or later to trouble those who set them. To make the charge that the motive of the Democrats in pressing the admission of Utah and Arizona is to get more political power in the Senate is an admission that this was the object of admitting Idaho and Wyoming to statehood when neither of them had a population to justify it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

High Tariff Produces Trusts.

Trusts are the natural and legitimate offspring of a high tariff. Offering a bounty to manufacturers causes them to enlarge their plants and increase production beyond the normal demand. Tempted by the prospect of large profits, which are rendered certain by the prohibition of foreign competition, capitalists invest in manufacturing enterprises, and the result must be that home competition produces an excess of that kind of goods which renders it certain that some must go to the wall unless a combination is formed to limit production, fix prices, and parcel out the territory which each factor in the combine shall supply. An overproduction of the goods would necessarily knock down the price. The home competition would be a regular cut-throat business. The artificial stimulant given to the home producer by the tax levied upon the products of foreign competitors, being a violation of the natural laws of trade, must finally result in disaster,—such as attends the violation of any other natural law. By organizing a trust the home manufacturers can establish an artificial price without reference to the cost of production. They are only limited in their prices by the amount of duties imposed upon foreign competing product. If they go beyond that the foreign manufacturer is invited to become a competitor. Hence the constant clamor for an increase of tariff taxes by American producers. Raise the tariff walls so high that importation is prohibited, then the trust can prevent domestic competition, and they can rob the consumer to their heart's content. Repeal the tariff laws and a death-blow is struck to trust organizations. It is a truthful statement made by the McKinleyites that the object of a high tariff is to check importations and give better prices to American manufacturers. A tariff for revenue can only be incidentally protective, and does not stimulate to its ultimate injury.

Strong Views on the Tariff Question.

If ever pearls were cast before swine it is in the effort of the administration to deal considerately and tenderly with the tariff hogs who have fed so long at the public trough. A univeral squeal is set up at the prospect of a decrease in the quantity of their swill. They denounce the measure in unstinted terms. They deride the consideration shown them. They call its authors hypocrites and cowards who got into office on a false pretense of making a purely revenue tariff, and now dare not do it; in fact, never intended to do it. They point with scorn to the admission that the bill is still largely protective, and ask if this is what the Democracy promised.

It only shows how useless have been the concessions to the greedy beggars. The recipients for years of public charity, they now have the insufferable effrontery, in a time when everybody is curtailing expenses, either voluntarily or compulsorily, to demand that their gratuities shall be continued at full tide. The abuse would have been no greater had the bill, as it should, have cut right to the revenue line. We do not share the apprehensions expressed by the committee that this would have injured any of the propped industries, and find in the list of our exports of manufactured goods ample proof for the opinion. But, after all, we apprehend that the wrath with which the Wilson bill is met is not so much because of the cuts it makes in the stealings as it is because the gang see in it the speedy abolition of their privileges. They see that it is only a step to be speedily followed by longer ones until freedom of trade is established forever.—St. Paul Globe.

Agricultural Implements.

Some high tariff journals claim that if the Wilson bill passes, this country would be flooded with all kinds of farm implements from abroad. This statement betrays the inexcusable ignorance of those who make it. If there is any kind of manufacture of which American mechanics have absolute control it is the production of agricultural machinery. They sell the tools, implements, and machinery of the farm in all parts of the world in competition with those made elsewhere. The superior skill and workmanship of American mechanics give them a monopoly. The farmers in the South American republics will not buy an English or German machine at any price. Without successful competition in any country the only possible reason for a duty on farm machinery is that it furnishes an excellent opportunity to organize a trust, enabling it to make its own terms with those who use the implements in our own country. Our Minister to the Argentine Republic, Mr. Pitkin, was interviewed the other day in Boston, and in it he said: "You cannot get an Argentine farmer to touch anything in the shape of an agricultural implement unless it is of American manufacture."

Keeps McKinley Busy.

McKinley's Ohio knitting is keeping him very busy at this time. He has landed the State up to its neck in debt; his party is fighting tooth and nails over the flesh pots; there is a lot of official crookedness to be straightened out; and the little Major is not much of a business man at best.—Detroit Free Press.

An Amusing Mistake.

An amusing incident once arose from the striking resemblance that existed between the late Gen. Lewis Cass and a certain Mr. Guy, a Washington hotel keeper. A newly elected Southern Congressman who had put up in Guy's hostelry didn't like his room, and went down-stairs to complain about it. On the way he met Gen. Cass, and, taking him for the landlord, treated him to some very emphatic comments upon the indignity he felt he had received.

"Sir," the General sternly replied, as soon as he could get a word in, "you have made a mistake. I am Gen. Cass, of Michigan."

"Gen. Cass!" the Congressman stammered in some confusion. "I beg a thousand pardons. I took you for Mr. Guy, who is an old friend of mine. Pray excuse me, sir."

The General bowed stiffly, and went out, but almost immediately returned, and again happened to meet the Southerner. The latter had seen Gen. Cass go out, and felt sure of his man this time. He came up, slapped him heartily on the shoulder, and said with a laugh:

"Say, Guy, I've a good joke to tell you. I met that stupid old Cass just now and thought it was you, and began to abuse him about my room."

"Young man," replied the General, drawing himself up more sternly than ever, "you've met that stupid old Cass again."

THE remains of a race of Illiputians, believed to be the ancestors of the Mexican Aztecs, were unearthed in East Tennessee.

GUN AND TRAP.

Clay Pigeons Take the Place of Glass Balls or Live Birds.

Since the advent of clay pigeons trap-shooting has been an all-year-round pastime, although autumn is the proper season for the sport, as the live birds are the strongest on their wing and at their best in every point.

READY.

In some States a man has to be a member of some incorporated club to enjoy the privilege of filling live pigeons full of shot.

Some years ago glass balls were in use when live pigeons could not be procured. But while the speed and direction could be regulated, the best shots soon got so they could break the balls every time, and, as it was hard to distinguish between a chip caused by a shot or by contact with a stone, frequent disputes arose. Glass balls soon gave way to clay pigeons,

CLAY-PIGEON TRAP.

TRAP FOR LIVE PIGEONS.

which are now generally used in practice shooting, and in matches when live birds cannot be had. The clay pigeons are made of different compositions and in slightly varying shapes, but clay and pitch are usually the materials, and the size and shape are those of an ordinary saucer. When released from the traps their gyrations are of such an order that a good eye and a steady nerve are required to break them. A device used in practicing trap and snap shooting, especially by young hands, is a magazine trap, worked by the foot of the gunner, or by a friend, who pulls the string. All traps are worked in this way. The trap throws a paper target high in the air with great speed. To hit it requires a quick gun. The clubs buy birds as they can, picking them up in small lots from farmers if in a country location, or else placing an order far in advance with some middleman. Prices range from $2 a dozen upward, according to the scarcity of the birds. Generally men have to search high and low, for none but strong, active birds will do for the traps. Each club has a trusted messenger who keeps the bird supply up to the mark.

A CLAY PIGEON.

TRUE HOSPITALITY.

It Consists in Letting Guests Do as They Desire.

Have we not all, at some time in our life, accepted an invitation to a certain house, and upon our arrival and until the return to our own home been absolutely worried to death by the importunities of an overzealous hostess who was so anxious for our comfort and enjoyment that she did not leave us one minute to do as we felt inclined ourselves.

Before we came she had planned rides and drives, theater parties, calls and dances, all of which we were expected to take part in, regardless of our own feelings or desires. The mistake was made in all kindliness, yet it failed in its effect, and instead of our having an enjoyable time, we felt as though we were a waxwork figure trotted out daily for inspection.

Now, the secret of true hospitality is to adapt yourself to the whims and inclinations of your guests rather than mapping out a fixed program that they are expected to follow to the letter. If they enjoy reading, let them revel in the library; if ill-health or fatigue keeps them in their room, do not annoy them by over-attention, yet show a kindly consideration that will prove they are not forgotten.

If the hostess suggests anything that the guest has no desire to participate in, the refusal should be received graciously, and no show of disappointment or ill-humor displayed. When the time comes for departure it is decidedly rude to urge a longer stay, though there need be no lack of hospitality in the adieu and kindly wishes that speed the parting guest. In every particular let the desire of the visitor be of paramount importance, and you will have learned the simple secret of true hospitality.—New York Journal.

No Marriage in Church for Him.

"If I ever get married in church again you can call me a goat!" said a bashful man the other day.

"What's the matter now?"

"Matter enough," he retorted; and he seemed to get mad as he thought of it. "I was married not long ago, and as my wife's parents were pillars of the church, it had to come off there, so they thought. Well, some repairs were being made in the church, so the marriage took place in the Sunday-school room. There's where the whole trouble came in. We stood on the platform where the superintendent's desk stood, and before the minister got started I noticed a great many people smiling in the audience. I didn't know what to make of it. They all seemed to be looking over my head. I never said anything till the thing was done; then I turned around and looked up. What do you think I saw? One of those confounded mottoes hanging over our heads, and it said, 'Suffer little children to come unto me.' Isn't that enough to make a man mad?"—Toledo Blade.

MINDING ONE'S OWN BUSINESS.

How the Rockefellers Came to Have Money to Burn.

The Rockefellers have magnificent houses on Fifth avenue, writes a New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Times, but their mode of life is simple in the extreme. John D. lives on Fifty-fourth street, just west of Fifth avenue. William lives on Fifth avenue, near Fifty-fourth street. This is the millionaire district. H. M. Flagler, the Vanderbilts, William C. Whitney, Andrew Carnegie, and other big men live not a stone's throw away.

Like the Vanderbilts, the Rockefellers are steady church-goers. They sit under Dr. John R. Paxton, the famous soldier preacher, who was the pastor of Jay Gould and who also preaches to the daughter and sons of that great financier. At the same church attend a dozen or more of the richest men in New York who do not seem in any way displeased by the habit Dr. Paxton has of saying hard things against the rich. The oil kings are liberal men with their money, although they make but little ado over their charities. Most of the money they spend in this way is spent under the direction of Dr. Paxton and nothing is heard of it in the public press.

Take them all in all, they are the sort of men whom wealth in no way changes. They are the same men to-day that they were when they were struggling for wealth in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, and when physical courage as well as mental acumen of the highest sort was needed in order that they might hold their own against the fierce opposition of desperate men. But the Rockefellers had the requisite nerve, and in the end they won. They are called monopolists and other hard names, and it is not necessary here to consider the fitness of such epithets. One fact stands clear. These men started with nothing, practically speaking, and to-day one of them is valued as being worth $130,000,000 and the other almost as much. As an object lesson in the art of how to do it, these figures and facts speak more forcibly than almost anything else could.

A Dainty Form of Compliment.

"Absolutely the most satisfactory compliment which ever drifted my way," said a woman last week, "I received to-day.

"I was hurrying through one of the blocks between Fifth and Sixth avenues, just below Twenty-third street, when I saw approaching me a woman whom I thought I knew. I took her to be an out-of-town friend, and my pleasure to meet her was the greater from its rarity. I hurried forward, not waiting to fairly reach her before beginning my delightful greeting. The words froze on my lips, however, as we actually met, for I saw that though the likeness was extraordinary, even at close quarters, she was not the person for whom I had taken her.

"'O,' I said with a smile of apology, 'I beg your pardon. I thought you were a friend of mine.' She smiled too, and then after a second of survey and hesitation which subtly pointed the remark, said, with a graceful bow and a charming air of breeding, 'I wish I were, madam,' and passed on.

"The whole thing took a breath to do, though it has taken several to tell, and she was almost out of hearing before I could rally and call, 'Thank you,' after her. I shall never see her again, of course, but I shall always remember her quick tact and delightful courtesy." — New York Times.

AT its birth a trust or combine is always christened with the assurance to the dear people that it will make the article or articles it manufactures or deals in cheaper; that the trust is formed for the purpose of reducing cost of production, selling, etc., and therefore it is a blessing, a ministering angel, that should be gladly welcomed by all good citizens. Strangely enough, however, when a trust goes to pieces for any reason, which is not uncommon, for thieves will fall out, the very first thing the public hears is a doleful cry from the ex-members of the defunct trust that the prices of their wares have disastrously declined. The latest example of this is the glass trust, organized to reduce the price of glass, of course, but when the trust disbanded so did the combine prices, which declined 20 per cent at once, and are likely to go still lower. The logic of trust-makers is as crooked as their methods.

MARSHAL MARTINEZ CAMPOS, the famous Spanish General who was so severely wounded at Barcelona the other day by the dynamite bomb of the anarchist Pallas, is a little man, slightly over five feet in height. He comes of a bourgeois family, and is so modest about his performances, which include the restoration of the late King Alfonso to the throne in 1874, that he would not accept any of the honors which both Don Alfonso and his widow, in turn, sought to bestow upon him. Queen Christina has had to content herself with making nobles of his two sons, who are cavalry officers, one being created Duke of Seo d'Urgel and the other Marquis de Baxtan.

THE Czar of Russia is intensely devout. He carries religion into every ceremonial of his official life. When the keel of his new yacht was laid recently it began with religious services in which the Czar kissed the prelate's hand and was sprinkled with holy water. After this he remained for a quarter of an hour with the Empress in silent prayer in front of the altar.

A Boon to Humanity.

A number of our great and most inverate tobacco smokers and chewers have quit the use of the filthy weed. The talismanic article that does the work is No-to-bac. The reform was started by Aaron Gorber, who was a confirmed slave for many years to the use of tobacco. He tried the use of No-to-bac, and to his great surprise and delight it cured him. Hon. C. W. Ashcom, who had been smoking for sixty years, tried No-to-bac, and it cured him. Col. Samuel Stoutener, who would eat up tobacco like a cow eats hay, tried this wonderful remedy, and even Samuel, after all his years of slavery, lost the desire. J. C. Cobler, Lessing Evans, Frank Dell, Geo. B. May, C. O. Skillington, Hanson Robinett, Frank Hershberger, John Shinn and others have since tried No-to-bac and in every case they report not only a cure of the tobacco habit, but a wonderful improvement in their general physical and mental condition, all of which goes to show that the use of tobacco had been injurious to them in more ways than one.

All of the above gentlemen are so well pleased with the results that we do not hesitate to join them in recommending it to suffering humanity, as we have thoroughly investigated and are satisfied that No-to-bac does the work well and is a boon to mankind. The cost is trifling—a dollar a box—and the makers, the Sterling Remedy Company, have so much faith in No-to-bac that they absolutely guarantee three boxes to cure any case, or refund money. One box in every instance in the above effected a cure, with one or two exceptions. No-to-bac has a wonderful sale upon its merits alone throughout the United States, and can be secured at almost any drug store in this country or Canada, and it is made by the Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago office, 45 Randolph street; New York office, 10 Spruce street.—From The Press, Everett, Pa., Dec. 15, 1893.

Archaic and Other English.

"Meeching" (sly, sneaking, or underhand,) is a true archaism of respectable lineage. It is clearly defined in the Biglow Papers:—

But I am no one of the meechin' kind that sets and thinks for weeks
The bottom's out o' the Universe 'cos their own gilpin't leaks, and is very old English. Hamlet calls the murderer in the dumb-show "miching mallecho," and the other Elizabethans use it, too, and all with one vague connotation of illicit love-making:

Sure she has
Some meeching rascal in her house.
Beaumont and Fletcher.—"Scornful Lady," V. 1.

It is interesting to note, however, that this special connotation was not "classical," and has not been preserved in the American use. The word is the middle English "michen," which has simply the sense of secret or underhand, and is so used in the "Romaunt of the Rose." Mr. Skeat connects it intimately with Hamlet's "hugger-mugger," (secret,) and with the still vexed "curmudgeon."

Such words as these are for all practical purposes Americanisms now, and are best classed and defined therewith; and so long as in the glossaries a proper note is kept of their original habitat no harm is done, especially as the words which have so clear an ancestry as "meeching" are not numerous. If we reject them, we must reject also such characteristic words as "boss," (Dutch, "bass,") "stoop," (door step; (Dutch, "stoep,") "portage," (French,) "bankit," (foot pavement; French, "banquette,") "Vamoose" and "mosey," go away; (Spanish, "vamos.") Carry it far enough, and we shall have hardly anything left but neologisms.—The Gentlemen's Magazine.

Trapping a Criminal.

Two brothers, Cucchi by name, villains of the deepest dye, found the neighborhood of Ajaccio too hot to hold them, and resolved to take refuge in Sartene. They found a small boat upon the beach, and desired the owner to put out to sea.

"Impossible," said the man, "the boat is too small for such a voyage, and would certainly founder."

"Do as you are bid," said the Cucchi, covering him with their guns.

Under these circumstances, the boatman had no alternative; so he got in, and they pushed out to sea. But the waves were high, and, by a little dexterous management, he contrived to make his boat rock in such a fashion that the bandits became violently sick.

"You see I was right," he coolly remarked, when his passengers seemed sufficiently reduced; "you will certainly be drowned if we go on thus. You had much better let me put you ashore, and go back for a stronger and better boat."

"So be it," gasped the bandits. "Oh, anything is better than this!"

They were put on shore, and in due time the boatman returned with a larger boat, but at the bottom of it lay four gendarmes disguised as sailors, and the brothers Cucchi were taken before they had time to discover the trick.—The Contemporary Review.

A Royal Saxon Anniversary.

Great preparations are being made in Saxony for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the entrance of the King into the army, which anniversary occurs Oct. 24. Every court in Europe will send representatives to Dresden to congratulate the venerable monarch. The young crown prince of Germany will then present himself to the King in the uniform of the Saxon regiment of which he was recently made an honorary officer.

How the Mexican Boundary Is Marked.

The international boundary line between the United States and the Republic of Mexico is marked by pyramids of stones placed at irregular distances along the line all the way from the Rio Grande to the Pacific Ocean. Wherever it was found practicable to do so these pyramids were built on prominent peaks, as road crossings, fords, etc. The line was not surveyed, as is the usual custom, the location of the mountains being based on astronomical calculations and observations.—St. Louis Republic.

Hay.

Hay is said to be the most valuable crop in Maine, as it is throughout the United States; and next in order in that State is the apple crop. This is much below the average this year, and potatoes were also cut short by severe drouth.

Risks of Railroaders.

Considerable risk attends employment on railroad lines. By the report of the Inter-State Commerce Commission it appears that one employe in every twenty-nine was injured last year, and one in every 322 was killed.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

Are annually lost because poor seed is planted. Now, when you sow you want to reap. For instance, A. M. Lamb, Penn., made $5,803 on ten acres of vegetables; R. Bey, Cal., cropped 1,213 bushels Salzer's onions per acre; Frank Close, Minn., 100 bushels of spring wheat from two acres; A. Hahn, Wis., 1,410 bushels potatoes per acre; Frank Winter, Montana, 216 bushels 8 pounds oats from one bushel planted. This is what Salzer calls reaping.

If You Will Cut This Out and Send It With 10c to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive their mammoth catalogue and ten sample packages of farm seeds. Catalogue alone, 5c postage.

Lucidity and Simplicity.

The Frenchman asked the American sparmaker what he was making

"A yard," was the repry.

"How much have you got done?" was the next question.

"A yard."

"Where did the spar come from?"

"The yard."

And the Frenchman was very much surprised at the lucidity of the answers and amazed at the simplicity of our language.—New York Press.

See "Colchester" Spading Boot ad. in other column.

ADAM'S fall is supposed to have happened in the afternoon—at the approach of Eve.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures Incipient Consumption. It is the best Cough Cure. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

THE champion lightweight—A short ton of coal.

ABOVE ALL OTHERS,

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in every disease caused by torpid liver or impure blood. For Dyspepsia, Liver and Bowel derangements, and kindred ailments, nothing approaches it as a remedy.

PIERCE GUARANTEES A CURE

OR MONEY RETURNED.

AURELIA VANZILE.

MRS. AURELIA VANZILE, of Hamilton, Ind., writes: "My friends said I would never be any better, for I had ulceration of the bowels. By the time I had taken a bottle and a half of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the bleeding had almost stopped. My appetite was good, nothing seemed to hurt me that I ate. My improvement was wonderful. Several years have passed and my cure is permanent."

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Read the Label. Send for Book.

THE JUDGES OF THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION Have made the HIGHEST AWARDS

(Medals and Diplomas) to

WALTER BAKER & CO.

On each of the following named articles:

BREAKFAST COCOA,	. . . .
Premium No. 1, Chocolate,	. .
Vanilla Chocolate,	. . . . .
German Sweet Chocolate,	. .
Cocoa Butter,	. . . . .

For "purity of material," "excellent flavor," and "uniform even composition."

WALTER BAKER & CO., DORCHESTER, MASS.

Ely's Cream Balm

Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Restores the Sense of Taste and Smell. Heals the Sores.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

CARE OF CLOTHING.

VALUABLE HINTS WHICH WILL SAVE TIME AND MONEY.

A "Complete" Wardrobe Isn't Very Extensive or Expensive—Science of Dressing Well on a Small Expenditure—Care of What Clothes You Buy.

Suggestions for Men.

There are few men who recognize the importance of economy in wearing apparel; few who take proper care of their clothing, and still fewer who know how to make the best of what they have, so as to cause their limited assortment to answer all the purposes of an extensive wardrobe. A society man or a man of ample means, of course, need give little thought to these matters. It is the "middleman" who needs advice; the one who cannot keep up with the whims and caprices of fashion; who cannot afford to comply with every suggestion of his tailor and who must either take care of his own clothes or have his wife or some one else do so for him. A complete wardrobe consists of a dress suit, including a "Tuxedo," the ever popular frock coat, the modest diagonal or cork-screw, and the distinctively cassimere or cheviot business suit—at least three changes—and four or five pairs of trousers, varying in color and pattern so as to answer for any occasion and look suitable with any coat and waistcoat. In addition a man should possess overcoats for spring, fall and winter wear, besides an ulster for very severe weather.

EFFECT OF TOP POCKETS.

By exercising a little care in hanging up or laying down garments, by using the brush and whisk broom now and then, and by having the tailor examine them at intervals, their preservation and their neat appearance will be insured. When arriving at business in the morning, an office coat should be donned. The business coat should not be thrown carelessly on a chair or in some corner, but should be hung on a hook or over the back of a chair, and protected from dust. A mistake is often made in hanging a coat on a hook without regard to the hanger, and its weight causes the cloth to bulge out in the most conspicuous part, which draws the garment entirely out of shape. The ordinary wire coat-hanger sold on the street is preferable to the use of the tape hanger attached to the garment, but a wooden shoulder, easily and cheaply made, should be provided, broad enough to prevent the break which the wire shoulder occasions. When sitting down the trousers should be pulled up a trifle at the knees, not enough to shorten them conspicuously at the ankle, but just sufficient to prevent the usual bulging, which makes them so unsightly.

COAT CARELESSLY HUNG.

Side pockets in trousers save the waistcoat to a considerable extent, says the New York World. The "top pocket" compels the lifting of the side of the waistcoat whenever the hand is placed therein, which wears off the edge or the binding and causes wrinkles across the body of the waistcoat at the hollow of the waist. During the night the trousers should be placed over a chair in preference to hanging them up by the buckle straps. The latter course, to some degree, draws them out of shape. Throwing them carelessly on a chair produces wrinkles or creases.

THIS IS THE WAY TO HANG TROUSERS.

The use of the modern trousers stretcher does to some extent preserve the shape, but unless properly used it does more harm than good. The waistcoat should be laid flat on the table or elsewhere, instead of hung up at the shoulders. Using a table upon which to brush garments is preferable to any other course, and a little household ammonia should be used to remove spots which the brush or broom does not displace. Carelessness while eating produces these spots more than any other cause, particularly with portly gentlemen. Those who are careless in this respect should always cover their chest with a napkin while eating.

The cost of keeping one's clothing in good order is trifling, either in time or money. To have a tailor examine them occasionally and put them in order is the best and most prudent course. It is a considerable saving in the end. In selecting a tailor for this purpose, one should be chosen who makes the renovating and repairing of clothing a specialty, otherwise the charges will be unreasonably high.

DEFENDED THE INNOCENT.

A Lie That Saved a Man from a Senseless Mob.

You all know what happened to horse thieves in Nevada thirty years ago. Well, not long after the gold fever broke out I went West to do what I could to help the souls of some men who were seeking their fortunes in that wild country. I established myself at —— gulch; and as I was not too much of a prude in religious matters, I really won the confidence of the mining community, who felt a bit of pride that they had a parson among them who wanted to see things done "on the square."

One evening as it was getting dark I was standing in front of my cabin, which was a quarter of a mile from the miners' huts. Suddenly a man whom I did not know, but who might have seen me before, came running toward me. He was almost dead from fatigue and terror. The perspiration dripped from his face and hands, though it was a cool evening. His jaws were so parched that he could scarcely articulate a word. He fell on his knees before me hoarsely whispering: "Innocent, innocent!" while he glanced back over his shoulder with a look of dread, his eyes almost bursting from their sockets. In a moment I grasped the situation, and without a word hurried him into my cabin and concealed him.

Five minutes later a party of angry miners, one of whom carried a noose in his hand, drew up before my door. I met them with a cool, inquiring look. "Parson, we're after a horse thief. Have you seen a stranger about here?"

I looked the leader straight in the eye. I knew he would believe me without question. "Yes, ten minutes ago I saw a man running toward the river."

They wheeled about and were gone. They searched the bank until dark, and then concluded that he had drowned in trying to cross the stream, gave up the hunt.

About 10 o'clock the man whose life my falsehood had saved struck over the hills and doubtless reached one of the neighboring camps.

The missing horse returned to the stable of his own accord about dinner time the next day.

I may add that my conscience never troubled me on the score of what I did.

The Dead Letter Room.

An interesting portion of the Dead Letter Office is the room in which an accumulation is made of those articles on which an insufficient amount of postage is paid, or which have been incompletely or wrongly addressed, writes Alice Graham McCollin, in an interesting sketch of the presiding genius of the Dead Letter Office, in the Ladies' Home Journal. It is a most heterogenous collection, ranging in kind from skulls to confectionery, and in value from one cent to one thousand dollars. Sales of these articles are held annually, and after they have been held for claim for over two years, and after every effort has been exhausted to find the owners the parcels become matters of public investment. Most of the packages contain articles of too small value to be sold separately, so parcels containing the contents of several packages are made up and sold at an average price of sixty cents each. The attempt is made to have articles in each package worth that amount. The original wrappers are removed from the parcels, and new ones, on which is written a description of the contents, substituted. This description is also entered in the auctioneer's sale book, and from this description, not from a personal examination, the purchase is made. The sale is held in December, before the holiday season, and continues for about a week. The proceeds, like the money found in unclaimed letters, are delivered to the Third Assistant Postmaster General for deposit in the United States Treasury.

Dressing the Children.

For the little girl's gowns, after white has been laid aside, soft cashmeres of gray, wood or steel blue are fancied, and occasionally one sees a toilette made of old rose or of the faintest shade of yellow, writes Isabel A. Mallon, in an article on "Dressing Our Little Women," in the Ladies' Home Journal. However, this, of course, is the gown selected for a festivity, and not the one preferred for general wear. Pretty plaids are especially liked for the girl of seven, and with such a gown she will almost invariably have a coat of the same material, with very wide Empire revers, faced usually with a bright color, while her hat is a large felt one, trimmed with rosettes, wings, or feathers.

The shoes and stockings of the small women continue to be black, the former being for state occasions of patent leather, and for general wear of soft kid.

The Main Thing.

Little Henry's father and mother wish him to be a French scholar, and knowing that a foreign language is most readily acquired in childhood, they have given him a French governess, with whom he is expected to talk French.

Henry gets along pretty well, but is not yet to be mistaken for a native Parisian. The other day he discovered that the barn was on fire. He ran into the house quite out of breath.

"O madamoiselle," he exclaimed, rushing into the school-room, "I don't know whether it's la feu or le feu, but anyhow there's a big blaze in the barn!"

A Curious Shower.

On the night of April 19, 1889, there was a "heavy shower of snails" near Tiffin, Ohio.

BRAZIL will greatly oblige the rest of the world by making up its mind as to what kind of government it wants and remaining in that fame of mind four or five consecutive weeks.

PROBABLY it is safe to say that incomes of $5,000 will not be taxed. That is the salary of a Congressman.

Why Windmills Burned Down.

Of the production of fire by the friction of wood against wood, windmills of the old construction gave, on a large scale, some disastrous examples. When the force of the wind increased, the miller was obliged to bring each of the sails in succession to the ground, in order to "unclothe" it; but when sudden squalls came on this was impracticable, and the mill, in extreme cases, ran away, i. e., could not be stopped.

Everything was now done to increase the grip of the wooden brake round the great wheel on the driving shaft, and water was poured copiously over them, but in spite of all this, flames would sometimes burst out from the intense friction, and the mill be probably burned down as the result. The beautiful machinery of the modern windmill, by which the miller controls the action of the sails from the interior of the building, has reduced this danger to a minimum.—Notes and Queries.

She Married Three.

Hengrave Hall, near Bury St. Edmunds, which has been sold for over $450,000, at one time belonged to Penelope, a daughter of Earl Rivers. Of this fair aristocrat an amusing story is told. She had three suitors at the same time, Sir George Trenchard, Sir John Gage and Sir William Hervey; and, to keep peace between the rivals, she threatened the first aggressor with her perpetual displeasure, telling them that if they would wait she would have them all in turn—a promise which she actually performed. The gentleman first favored was Sir George Trenchard. He died shortly afterward, and it was not long before she became Lady Gage. Sir John, by whom she had nine children, died in the year 1833, and two years later his widow was led to the altar by Sir William Hervey. The lady survived all her husbands.

One Letter Missing.

A missing letter sometimes plays havoc with the sense of a phrase, as the following examples will show: "The conflict was dreadful, and the enemy was repulsed with considerable (s)laughter. In consequence of the numerous accidents occasioned by skating on the river, measures will be taken to put a (s)top to it. Miss Brown was politely drawn up the ship's side by means of a (c)hair. A gentleman was yesterday brought up to answer a charge of having (b)eaten a coachman for having demanded more than his fare; and another was accused of having stolen a small (b)ox out of the mail; the stolen property was found in his waistcoat pocket."

Muscle and Vigor—A Difference.

Many muscular men succumb to fatigues borne with ease by persons far their inferiors in physical strength. Muscle does not imply vigor. In fact, it is not difficult of proof that athletes do not live as long nor enjoy as good health as the average individual who is vigorous—that is to say, whose digestion and sleep are unimpaired, whose nerves are tranquil, and who has no organic tendency to disease. These requisites of vigor are conferred upon those inherently weak, no less than upon those debilitated through wasting disease, by a thorough, persistent course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the leading national tonic, indorsed and recommended by physicians of eminence. It will not endow you with the muscle of a Corbett, but it will infuse energy into your system, and renew the active and helpful performance of its functions. It averts and cures malarial, rheumatic, and kidney complaints, and overcomes dyspepsia, constipation, liver trouble and nervousness.

Built of Straw.

A bridge of straw is said to be built across the Red River in Texas. The bed of this river is very wide, and is a fine, red, treacherous sand, making heavy hauling impossible. The bridge is really a causeway, three miles long, about five feet high, and wide enough for two teams. It was constructed by a near-by settler, who charges a small toll for its use. It is built of alternating layers of long grass and sand, and is rebuilt every season, as the high water washes it away. An attempt has been made to build an iron bridge, but it was washed away almost immediately, and the straw bridge is said to have proved itself better and cheaper.

Parricides.

In Ashantee parricides are tied hand and foot to stakes driven in the ground near a large ant hill. The ants are then irritated by sticks thrust into the entrance of their dwellings, a guard is set at a respectful distance to prevent rescue, and the prisoner is left to be eaten alive. In forty-eight hours nothing is left of the criminal but a neatly-cleaned skeleton.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

"WHAT are you doing in my house?" asked a man who surprised a burglar at his unlawful work. "Your house!" exclaimed the burglar, as he commenced once more to put silver spoons in his pocket. "You seem to imagine that I don't know the title of this property is in your wife's name."

STIR up the liver, remove disease, promote good cheer and good health, by the use of Beecham's Pills.

LADY of the House (consulting card in her hand)—You a singing master! But we do not want a singing-master! Herr Pumpernickel—Bardon; de lady next door tolt me you vant von badly. She sent me.

Ringing Noises

In the ears, sometimes a ringing, buzzing sound, or snapping like the report of a pistol, are caused by Catarrh in the head. Loss of smell or hearing also result from Catarrh, which may develop into Bronchitis or Consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Catarrh by thoroughly purifying the blood and building up the entire system. Get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, sick headache, jaundice, indigestion. 25c. Try a box.

ASTHMA CURED.

POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC Gives Relief in Five Minutes. Trial Package sent FREE. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent post-paid on receipt of $1.00. Six Boxes, $4.50. Add. Thos. Popham, Phila., Pa.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The official reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others, yielding 160 cubic inches of leavening gas per ounce of powder, a strength greatly in excess of every other powder tested.

Odd Japanese Marriage Customs.

A Japanese wedding would appear to be a melancholy affair. It is not good form for the bride over there to admit that she is glad to get married. When she is told of the prospect she is expected to howl loudly and long. Also she must keep it up by day and by night until the ceremony takes place. After she has been richly dressed for the event she must renew her shrieks and hang back until one of the attendants throws a veil over her face. Then an old hag takes her on her back and carries her to a sedan chair. When she arrives at the bridegroom's house she is a wife, the simple ride in the flowery chair being the only legal ceremony required, though profuse entertainment and congratulations from assembled guests follow her arrival.

South American Ruins.

Major William Sully Beebe, a retired Connecticut army officer, has completed a theory whereby he attempts to prove that there are more ancient ruins in Bolivar and Peru than there are in Egypt. He declares the most ancient remains of former civilization on this continent to be those ruins of temples and of cities that are found in the neighborhood of Lake Titicaca, on the Bolivia-Peru border. These relics are scattered over a great extent of country, and reveal remarkable skill in stone-cutting, in architecture and in ornament. This region is 14,000 feet above the sea level, and too cold to provide sustenance for more than a sparse population, but there is little doubt that its climate and its population were once very different.

The Noisiest Animals.

What animal can make the most noise? The elephant. During the breeding season in the forests of India and Ceylon the trumpeting and roaring of the animal is continuous and terrific and can be heard for miles. The feline family are wont to scare their prey thoroughly by their overpowering noise. Thus the roar of the adult lion is terrific, the windpipe being enlarged so as to give the animal a larges volume of air proportionately than any other animal. The male gorilla has an awful sounding voice. When attacked it utters a short, jerking, acute bark, like that of an angry dog. To this succeeds a low growling, which might be mistaken for distant thunder.

She was a dear, sweet girl, with a complexion of angelic loveliness, such as all young ladies possess who use Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

EVERY man in the world is telling what he would do if he were a woman and every woman tells of things she would not do if she were a man.

LITTLE GIRL (to boy aged 12 who has been abusing brother)—Why don't yer pick out a feller o' yez own size when yer feels like hittin' any one? Don't yer come near me if you know what's good for yourself, for though I ain't much on the fight I'm a huckleberry on the scratch, I can tell you!"

The Puzzle Solved.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the many modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

HAWKING is a favorite pastime in Persia, and every man of standing has his falcons and his falconers. No man, in fact, who loves the pleasures of the chase in that country is regarded as a good sportsman if he does not keep his partridge hawks and at least a pair of fleet greyhounds.

FOR COUGHS AND THROAT DISORDERS use BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. "Have never changed my mind respecting them, except I think better of that which I began thinking well of."—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. Sold only in boxes.

A YOUNG lady who expected a telegraphic message from her "young man" waited in the office for it. After awhile the little machine began to click. "That's from Jack," she said; "I know his stutter."

ROUGH, WINTRY, CHANGEABLE WEATHER produces Catarrhs, Coughs, Disorders of the Lungs, &c., which Jayne's Expectorant promptly cures if faithfully administered.

A WOMAN never quits lecturing a man after she finds out that he will listen to her.

For weak and inflamed eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. It is a carefully prepared physician's prescription.

THE banana has a great variety of uses. It is said that flour is now made from it. It is no secret that the skin makes low slippers.

Sore throat cured at once by Hatch's Universal Cough Syrup. 25c.

AT a recent ball: Gawkins—I waltz miserably. Miss Shapely—They won't notice it. I have red stockings on.

FITS! All fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

WHEN a man hires a dress suit to go on a tare he must pay the rent.

Extreme, Chronic, Torturing Cases of NEURALGIA

ARE CURED BY ST. JACOBS OIL. PROMPT AND SURE.

GET THERE ELI

SALZER'S NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS — POTATOES $2.50 PER BRL

The person planting Salzer's Seeds never knows of hard times, because they double all yields! Try it for 1894 and be happy. Vegetable seeds for the million. 35 pkgs. Earliest Vegetables ever seen, $1.00 post paid. Largest growers of Farm Seeds in the world. TRIAL sample pkg. "Get There Eli" Radish 8c for one in 15 days and catalogue for 2c postage. Catalogue alone, 5c. for postage.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO. LA CROSSE, WIS.

One bottle for fifteen cents, Twelve bottles for one dollar, } by mail.

R·I·P·A·N·S

Ripans Tabules are the most effective recipe ever prescribed by a physician for any disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Buy of any druggist anywhere, or send price to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, 10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

TRADE MARK "Linene" REVERSIBLE COLLARS AND CUFFS.

The "LINENE" are the Best and Most Economical Collars and Cuffs Worn.

They are the only goods made that a well-dressed gentleman can use in place of linen.

Try them. You will like them; they look well, wear well and fit well. Reversible; both sides alike; can be worn twice as long as any other collar. When one side is soiled use the other, then throw it away and take a fresh one.

Ask the Dealers for them. Sold for 25 cents for a Box of 10 Collars, or Five Pairs of Cuffs.

A Sample Collar and a Pair of Cuffs sent by mail for six cents. Address, Giving Size and Style Wanted,

REVERSIBLE COLLAR CO., 27 Kilby Street, Boston, Mass.

NICKEL PLATE.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R.

SOLID THROUGH TRAINS

BUFFALO & CHICAGO.

LOWEST RATES.

THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address

A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. R. F. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CINCINNATI.

WANTED MEN to TRAVEL. We pay $50 to $100 a month & expenses. STONE & WELLINGTON, MADISON, WIS.

$7.00 Will pay for a one inch advertisement one week in 100 Illinois Newspapers—guaranteed circulation 100,000 copies. Send for Catalogue. STANDARD-UNION 93 S. Jefferson St., Chicago, Ill. (This advertisement measures one inch.)

GLOSTER'S STRANGE WOOING

Of Queen Anne is illustrated by fine original engravings in Brown's unique 1894 Shakesperian Almanac. Specimen, together with EARTH LIFE sent on receipt of address and stamp. DR. BROWN, 47 Grand St., Jersey City, N. J.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Consumptives and people who have weak lungs or Asthma, should use Piso's Cure for Consumption. It has cured thousands. It has not injured one. It is not bad to take. It is the best cough syrup. Sold everywhere. 25c.

"August Flower"

"I am Post Master here and keep a Store. I have kept August Flower for sale for some time. I think it is a splendid medicine." E. A. Bond, P. M., Pavilion Centre, N.Y.

The stomach is the reservoir. If it fails, everything fails. The liver, the kidneys, the lungs, the heart, the head, the blood, the nerves all go wrong. If you feel wrong, look to the stomach first. Put that right at once by using August Flower. It assures a good appetite and a good digestion.

A Weak Digestion

strange as it may seem, is caused from a lack of that which is never exactly digested—fat. The greatest fact in connection with appears at this point—it is partly digested fat—and the most weakened digestion is quickly strengthened by it.

Scott's Emulsion

The only possible help in Consumption is the arrest of waste and renewal of new, healthy tissue. Scott's Emulsion has done wonders in Consumption just this way.

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All druggists.

"MOTHERS' FRIEND"

MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY.

Colvin, La., Dec. 2, 1886.—My wife used MOTHER'S FRIEND before her third confinement, and says she would not be without it for hundreds of dollars. DOCK MILLS.

Sent by express on receipt of price, $1.50 per bottle. Book "To Mothers" mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

"Only One Night Out."

The Quickest Time Ever Made

—TO—

FLORIDA

—OR—

NEW ORLEANS

—VIA—

C. H. & D. R. R.

—AND—

CINCINNATI,

—FROM—

Toledo, Detroit or Chicago.

For Rates, address D. G. EDWARDS, General Passenger Agent, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"COLCHESTER" SPADING BOOT.

For Farmers, Miners, R. R. hands and others.

The outer or tan sole extends the whole length of the sole down to the heel, protecting the shank in ditching, logging and other work. Best quality throughout.

ASK YOUR DEALER.

DO YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL? READ THIS ABOUT CALIFORNIA!

The WABASH RAILROAD has placed on sale low rate single and round trip tickets to all principal Pacific coast points, giving a wide choice of routes both going and returning, with an extreme return limit of Nine Months. Stop-overs are granted at pleasure on round trip tickets west of St. Louis and the Missouri River, and by taking the WABASH but one change of cars is necessary to reach Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Sacramento and Portland, Ore. Remember the WABASH is the peoples favorite route and is the only line running magnificent free Reclining Chair Cars and Palace Sleepers in all through fast trains to St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address any of the undermentioned Passenger Agents of the Wabash System.

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. CHANDLER, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

1,000,000 ACRES OF LAND for sale by the SAINT PAUL & DULUTH RAILROAD COMPANY in Minnesota. Send for Maps and Circulars. They will be sent to you

FREE.

Address HOPEWELL CLARKE, Land Commissioner, St. Paul, Minn.

DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES CURED by Peck's Invisible Ear Cushions. Whispers heard. Successful when all remedies fail. Sold by mail. Dr. F. Hiscox, 853 B'way, N.Y. Write for book of proofs FREE

PATENTS and PENSIONS Secured. No advance fee. Fitzgerald & Co., "15th and G," Washington, D. C.

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

It Will Be Too Late.

If you will let a cough run on until it has affected your lungs, it will be too late, as consumption will surely be the result and death will end all. Why are so many people careless about a cough? Be careful, there is danger, and if not stopped in time it will certainly cause serious trouble and probably prove fatal. If you will only send for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup it will cure you, as it has never failed to cure the very worst cases, and is guaranteed to give satisfaction. You can try this for 25 cents, why delay. By all druggists.

Lagrippe Cured.

About a year ago I took a violent attack of lagrippe. I coughed day and night for about six weeks; my wife then suggested that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. At first I could see no difference, but still kept taking it, and soon found it was what I needed. If I got no relief from one dose I took another, and it was only a few days until I was free from the cough. I think people in general ought to know the value of this remedy, and I take pleasure in acknowledging the benefit I have received from it. MADISON MUSTARD, Otway, Ohio. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord's.

Do This Now.

Do you need a cough medicine? If so send for a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup; it will help you as it has helped others. Do this now or it may be too late. Many cases of consumption have originated out of a slight cough, and you cannot afford to take chances This medicine will cure any cough or cold, or any affection of the throat or lungs. Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup is the best for lagrippe, as it has never failed to cure. It is sold on a guarantee, and you will be satisfied if you will only give it a trial. Price 25, 50 and $1 by druggists.

Distemper—Its Cause and Treatment

Is the title of our little book which tells all about one of the most loathsome and dangerous diseases affecting horses, sheep and dogs, with unquestionable proof of the merits of Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure in the treatment of the same. Sent free by addressing the Well's Medicine Co., LaFayette, Ind. This remedy is sold by Matheny & Gerke.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in

DeKalb Co.:
Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

ADULTERATED WINE

is injurious, but nothing gives strength, and tones up the stomach like a pure old port wine. "Royal Ruby Port," so called for its royal taste and ruby color, is on account of its purity, age and strength, particularly adapted for invalids, convalescents and the aged. Sold only in bottles (never in bulk) while cheap wine is sold by the gallon and gives a larger profit to the seller but less to the user. This wine is absolutely pure, and has the age without which no wine is fit to use. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby"; quart bottles $1, pints 60 cts. Sold by

F. E. Davenport.

Home Testimony.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 25, 1893.

DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

GENTLEMEN:—Send at once by express one gross of your "Dr. Mott's Nerverine Pills." They give satisfaction in every case, and is the best medicine for all nervous diseases. Yours truly, 43tf

MATHENY & GERKE.

The great gold fields of South Africa were discovered in 1866 by an elephant hunter named Hartley.

To Horse Owners.

For putting a horse in a fine healthy condition, use Morris' English Stable Powders. They tone up the system, aid in digestion, cure loss of appetite, relieve constipation, correct kidney disorders and destroy worms, giving new life to an old or over-worked horse. 25 cents per package; 5 for $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke. tf

Cure Your Cough.

The persistent cough which usually follows an attack of the grip can be permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. W. A. McGuire, of McKay, Ohio, says: "La Grip left me with a severe cough. After using several different medicines without relief, I tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which effected a permanent cure. I have also found it to be without an equal for children, when troubled with colds or croup." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

The little island of Malta has a language of its own, derived from the Carthaginian and Arabian tongues. The nobility of the island speak Italian.

Cures Dyspepsia.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone, I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good good any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy: a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandeet medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottle 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Willie—What is a phonograph?
Mamma—A thing you talk to and it talks back.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phœbe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her, and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thomas Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption. He tried without result, everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medecine in coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. Regular size 50c. and $1. 5

WATERLOO.

Master Harold Blair returned to his home in Laporte last Monday after a visit of several weeks with his grandfather and aunt Rose.

Monday morning of this week is the first time this winter the writer has seen the delicate frost tracing on the windows New Years morning.

During the moderate weather we have had, the spring bulbs have thrown up their shoots and should we have a few more such days the blossoms will appear.

On the evening of January fourth the order of Maccabees held their installation in their hall over the Citizens bank building A number of guests were invited and a supper partaken of Rev. Dr Fry delivered the address, which is spoken of as very fine and intensely interesting.

Thursday evening, January ninth, the L. M. C. will hold their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Winslow The program consists of Responses from Emerson; The Concord Writer, Leader, Mrs Smith; Paper, Physical Culture, Mrs Fausett; Reading, Humorous Selections, Miss Maxson; Table Talk, Congressional Doings, conducted by Mrs. Winslow.

Rev. Richard E Locke is preaching in Old Colony Chapel, (Congregational) Tyler street, Boston. He seems very fortunate in making more than ordinary friends. Rev. Edward L. Clark, pastor of the Central Congregation church has recently presented him with a complete set of the Encyclopedia Britannica costing $150 and invaluable to him for what they contain. Rev. Clarke has also invited him in case of sickness to come at once to his house and remain. A prominent Congregational minister from New York, who made the acquaintance of Rev. Locke in Boston, also gave him a pressing invitation to visit him at his home. Few young men are so favored on their own merits and it speaks well for him.

BUTLER.

The basket factory is pushing along with over thirty men employed.

J. A. Campbell, wife and daughter Florence spent New Years with his brothers in Toledo.

A great many of our people are complaining of grip, not a few being confined to their homes.

Oliver Oberlin and Carrie Coleman after a running courtship of about six years, have finally married. May their future life be as full of happiness as their past has been of uncertainties.

Rev. Tedro of the U. B. church undaunted by the severely adverse decision of the Michigan supreme court, is vigorously repairing the walls of his church preparatory probably to their complete demolition by another adverse decision.

Bro Cain, of the M. E. church, has finally wheeled the old waterlogged craft into line and is pouring broadside after broadside into the barepoled, defenseless hulks of the enemy. May his artillery prove as effective as his zeal is energetic and unrelenting.

With the cry of distress from every quarter, the people of Butler do not seem to share to any great extent in the general want and suffering. The greater part of our people seem to have listened to the voice of wisdom and have prepared for the "rainy day" when the sun of prosperity beamed upon them.

Lincoln Everetts, living five miles north of Butler, became suddenly insane a short time ago from a severe attack of grip and made a violent attempt upon the life of his wife, child and other friends who happened to be present. Fatal results were averted only by the coolness, courage and powerful strength of his brother in law, William Ball, who seized him when he was in the act of taking his wife's life and after a desperate struggle overcame his mad frenzy. He is reported slightly improved at this writing.

Many of our people are wondering when the Deeters trial is to take place. It would seem that six months in the county jail ought to cool, not only the prisoner, but his prosecutors as well. Let the man have a fair, speedy trial and pay the penalty of his crime, not prolong it into weeks of useless wrangling for the sole purpose of feeding hungry lawyers, as the recent suit of the county at Angola was prolonged beyond the time needed to get all the evidence before the jury that each side had to adduce, for no other purpose than to pile up a big bill of cost for a defenseless county to pay.

CONCORD.

Raymond Hennesey has the grip.

F. E. Draggoo, of Auburn, was home last Sunday.

Mrs. Eliza George is visiting relatives in Wayne county, Ohio.

G. W. Draggoo and daughter Alice, drove to St. Joe, Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Gibford and son Charles drove over to Auburn Thursday.

Stella Herrick of St. Joe, visited a few days with her cousin Mabel Culbertson.

Jack Johnson came out Saturday with his running horse. The way he goes, net many will kick dust in his face.

By a mistake of our kind editor two of our most competent teachers names were overlooked in last week's issue, Mrs. Josie Morr and Mrs. Ella High.

Violet Barney, Leona Tustison and Bessie Patterson, of St. Joe, boarded the west bound train Saturday and came to Concord and made a few purchases and returned on the east bound train. The girls believe in the old adage "short stay and long friendship."

Last Saturday Mrs. Wm. Shutt, of Spencerville, went up to St. Joe to do some shopping, and while in the big 4 met with an accident. In passing from the store into the drug store she did not notice the offset and fell heavily to the floor inflicting an ugly wound on her right temple.

EAST DEKALB COUNTY.

Mrs. Sam. Easterday is very ill.

Newville U. B.s are holding a revival.

Worth Coats made a flying trip to Waterloo last week.

C. R. Scoville has returned from the southern part of the state.

Mrs. Nellie Emerson, of Gladbrood, Pa., and Mrs. Lottie Matthews, of Toledo, O., have been summoned home to see their father, Wm. R. Chilson, who is suffering from Bright's disease and cannot recover.

A taste of the grand jury might not be amiss for those so-called young ladies and young gentlemen who disturb religious meetings by whispering, nudging, pulling cloaks, etc. It is hoped a hint is sufficient, if not—"a word to the wise"—

RUSTIC.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

TAX RATES FOR 1893.

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF DeKALB COUNTY, IND.:

IN COMPLIANCE with the laws of the State of Indiana, I, Reuben Sawvel, Treasurer of said county, hereby notify the Tax Payers thereof that the rates of taxation for the year A. D. 1893, are correctly stated in the following table, showing the amount of taxes in cents levied upon each one hundred dollars valuation and on each poll, in the several townships and incorporated towns in said county, as the same appears on the Tax Duplicate of DeKalb county for said year.

TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNS.	State Tax	Benev. Institutions	State School	St. Debt Sinking Fd	Perm. Endowm't Fd	County	Township	Tuition	Special School	Road	Special Road	Corporation	Ad. Special School	Bond Sinking	Special Dog	TOTAL	First Installment	Second Installment
Per $100 Valuation.
Butler Township	10	05	13½	03	½	55	10	10	05	10						122	66	56
Poll	50		50					25								125
Jackson Twp	10	05	13½	03	½	55	10		20	10	10					137	78½	58½
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Concord Twp	10	05	13½	03	½	55	10	15	20	05	05					142	76	66
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Newville Twp	10	05	13½	03	½	55	15	10	20	10	05					147	81	66
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Stafford Twp	10	05	13½	02	½	55	15	15	05	10						132	71	61
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Wilmington Twp	10	05	13½	03	½	55	05		05	15	05					117	68½	48½
Poll	50		50						50							150
Union Township	10	05	13½	03	½	55				10	05					102	58½	43½
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Richland Twp	10	05	13½	03	½	55	05	10	05	10	10					127	73½	53½
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Fairfield Twp	10	05	13½	03	½	55	10	10	02	10	02					121	66½	54½
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Smithfield Twp	10	05	13½	03	½	55	10	10	15	10	10					142	81	61
Poll	50		50													100
Franklin Twp	10	05	13½	03	½	55	10	10	20	10	05					142	78½	63½
Poll	50		50					25	50							175
Troy Township	10	05	13½	03	½	55	10	10	05	05						117	61	56
Poll	50		50													100
Keyser Township	10	05	13½	03	½	55	05		05	15	05					117	68½	48½
Poll	50		50													100
Grant Township	10	05	13½	03	½	55	05	10	05	10	05					122	68½	53½
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Auburn Town	10	05	13½	03	½	55		15	35	20		45	25		(100	227	123½	103½
Poll	50		50						50			50			(200	200
Waterloo Town	10	05	13½	03	½	55	05	05	10							107	53½	53½
Poll	50		50					25	25							150
Butler Town	10	05	13½	03	½	55	05		15	25				05	(100	137	81	56
Poll	50		50											50	(200	150
Ashley Town	10	05	13½	03	½	55	10	25	50	05		15		15		207	106	101
Poll	50		50					25	50			25				200
Garrett City	10	05	13½	03	½	55	05	15	17	15		20	07		(100	166	90½	75½
Poll	50		50					50	50			125			(200	325

Also $1 for one dog, $2, for each female dog, and $2 for each additional dog.

The Road and Special Road Tax are included in first installment. The Poll and Dog Tax are divided equally between the two installments.

Taxes of 1893 are due the first day of January, 1894, and may be paid in full or in two installments. The first installment must be paid on or before the third Monday in April, 1894, the second installment on or before the First Monday in November, 1894. If the first installment is not paid when due both installments become delinquent. Ten per cent will be added and I shall at once proceed, as the law requires, to collect the same, together with the costs that may accrue, by distress and sale of personal property.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for the penalty and charges on delinquent taxes resulting from any omission of the person paying, to state definitely on what property, in whose name, and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

Persons owing delinquent taxes should pay them at once. The law is of such a character that there is no option left to the Treasurer but to enforce the collection of the delinquent taxes, however much he may regret to collect the same by sale of property.

"The owner of property on the first day of April each year, shall be liable for the taxes of that year. The purchaser of property on the first day of April shall be considered the owner on that day."

Examine your receipts before leaving the office and see that all your property is included.

No county order will be paid to any person owing delinquent taxes.

The annual sale of lands and lots for delinquent taxes will occur on the second Monday in February, 1894.

Come early and avoid the rush of the last few days. We have 6,000 receipts to make and all cannot be made the last few days.

The books will positively be closed on the evening of the 3d Monday in April and no one will be allowed to pay after that date without penalty.

Parties sending by others, or by letter, to pay tax, should not fail to send description of their land and lots.

No receipts will be made out for any party until they are ready to pay.

Assignees, Guardians, Administrators and others who pay taxes on property in trust, and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as individual estates, etc., are earnestly requested to settle such taxes before the the last few days, as it requires considerable time to make the divisions and separate receipts therefor. As the Treasurer cannot know the location of each person's property, taxpayers should designate the property on which they wish to pay taxes, and see that all property is specified on their receipts. If they have land in more than one township or town, or desire to pay taxes on lands not in their name, call the Treasurer's attention to the matter.

REUBEN SAWVEL, Treasurer.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Are you at all Weak-chested or inclined to be Consumptive, with just a touch of Cough now and then? "Try this Wonderful Medicine." The Cough and Weakness will disappear as if by magic, and you will feel a strength and power never had before.

HAVE YOU A COLD? A Dose at Bedtime will Remove it.
HAVE YOU A COUGH? A Dose will Relieve it.

Bronchitis and Asthma it relieves instantly. The Spasms of Coughing so dreadful in Whooping Cough become less with each dose of medicine. It is an old adage, "To be forewarned is to be forearmed." So let it be in your case, who read this, and keep on hand ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. ☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AT 25cts., 50cts., AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Not Afraid of Free Wool.

Noble county farmers have organized an association to raise fine Merino sheep. How foolish! Don't they know that sheep are threatened with a new disease called "free wool?" As they are thus threatened it is plain that the sheep will have no lambs, the lambs will have no wool, the wool will make no cloth, the cloth will have no sale, and the sheep themselves will die. All because they are merely "threatened with free wool." If anyone don't believe this gloomy story, ask a republican editor.

For La Grippe.

Has your constitution been wrecked by an attack of LaGrippe. The Great South American Nervine Tonic will quickly restore your shattered nerves, strengthen and cure your digestive organs, regulate your liver and purify your blood; and restore you to perfect soundness again. This great tonic should be used after all sickness. Its power to restore to health is simply wonderful. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

The Truth About It.

The Hamilton Advocate has joined the list of terror-stricken, who peddle pitiable tales about the "suffering poor in Auburn." We do not suppose it would avail much to contradict these silly rumors. There is not much, if any, more hardship from poverty in Auburn, than is the case every winter, and what there is, is being cared for in a way that prevents any suffering. If anyone suffers it is his own fault. Of course in a manufacturing town like ours there is always a considerable amount of want at this season of the year. Many hands, even those who get high wages, spend every penny they get, part of it at least, in things they do not need, and even in the indulgence of vice Such ones of course are hard up all the time, and in winter often have to be supported by the public. But the man who uses his wages properly seldom comes to want If all our people were of the last named class, there would be very little want in Auburn.

ST JOE.

M. F. Bady is still in very poor health.

Frank Hamilton returned to Purdue University last Tuesday.

Mrs. J. R. Culbertson is very sick and her friends are seriously alarmed at her condition.

J. P. Widney has purchased the residence of Ed Leighty and will make St. Joe his future home.

Frank Bishop is back again at Wittenberg college after a ten days' visit with his parents at this place.

Harry Meek has so far recovered from his sickness as to be again at his post in the store of S. and F. Barney.

George W. Bleeks has rented what is known as the Moody farm, and will move there in the near future.

M. T. Bishop has purchased the nice, new residence of Sam Warner and it is rumored will make it his future home.

C. A. Woodworth returned to Ypsilanti, Michigan, Saturday and will resume his musical studies where he left off last spring.

Will Curie came in contact with a mad cow a few days ago. The outcome of it is that Will walks with the aid of a crutch.

Bishop & Filley are building sheds for their lumber business on the vacant lot north of the hardware store of the E. Case Co.

Our schools are all again in running order, and with the exception of a change in the teachers in the grammar department, the same as before the vacation.

The many friends of Aaron Thomas will be glad to learn that the B & O. people have promoted him to the foremanship of the Auburn Junction section.

Attorney Tanberg, of the hub, found very little sympathy for himself when he came down here last Friday to offer his services as attorney to James Bleeks We are told that Bleeks told him that he had never employed him and did not need the services of him or any other attorney.

James Corbett (Cal. Day, of this city,) and Charles Mitchell (Tha. Kessler, of Spencerville,) had a pugilistic encounter here Saturday evening that we think turned out about as will the encounter in Florida. Our Jim was best, and if our neighboring town wishes to hold the belt they will have to furnish better men or less tangle leg.

Surprised.

The patrons and pupils of Butler Center school, wishing to show their esteem for their teacher, Miss Mary Essig, prepared a pleasant surprise for her. On Christmas night about seventy gathered at the home of G. W. Buritner, her boarding place, and having let her brother Will into the plot, he detained her until about 8 o'clock when all was in readiness for her arrival. Her feelings can better be imagined than described, when on entering the house she found it filled almost to overflowing. And this was not all. From somewhere out of sight there came a beautiful upholstered rocker, which in a neat little speech was presented her by Phil Holman, in behalf of her pupils. Of course she was greatly affected by this token of their esteem. All came with well-filled baskets and after supper the time was spent in games and social conversation until a late hour, when all went away thinking it was indeed a merry Christmas.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Resolutions of Respect.

We, the members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Spencerville, Ind., mourn the death of our young sister, Hattie Koontz, who died Dec. 23, 1893, in the seventeenth year of her age. This being the third time death has entered our union and claimed one of our dear ones.

WHEREAS, our Heavenly Father has called from us our sister, let it be Resolved, that as members of the Spencerville Union, we feel that by the removal of our sister to a brighter home above, our Union has lost a true christain worker.

Resolved, that we will strive to do more faithfully, the work our Master has given us to do, until we are called to join our sister beyond the skies, and that we acknowledge His right to take that which He has given, and that we will cherish the memory of our sister, with the blessed assurance that all was well with her, and she was fully prepared to meet her Savior in peace.

Resolved, that we, as members of this Union, tender to the family of our deceased sister our heartfelt sympathy in their deep affliction, knowing that the parents have lost a kind and loving daughter, but may they one day all meet as an unbroken family around God's bright throne in Heaven.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, and to the county papers.

The Two-Per-cent Debt Law.

A case that will test this point has recently been argued before our supreme court. The law is in the form of an amendment to our state constitution, and the argument now urged against it is that it was not passed in the manner required by the constitution. The constitution provides that amendments to it must pass "both houses" of the legislature and be then referred to the next legislature, in which it must pass "both houses." It must then be submitted to a vote of the people at large, and if it receives a majority of the popolar vote it then becomes a part of the constitution The amendment containing the two per cent restriction passed both houses of the legislature of 1877, but when it came to the next legislature, that of 1879, it passed the Senate but was defeated in the House, by a vote of thirty-five to forty. The clerk however got it mixed up with some other amendments that did pass, and certified that all of them had passed both houses. The amendments were then all submitted to a vote of the people, and received a majority. Everyone has till now supposed that this amendment was passed, and corporations have had to look out and not get a debt greater than two per cent on their assesment. Now, however, the matter is in doubt. The court has taken a few weeks to study the thing over.

A NARROW ESCAPE!

How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting; but, thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband bought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it, as I now have a splendid appetite, and sleep well. I weighed 125 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 130½. Its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry Starr, Pottsville, Pa., October 12, 1892.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. This great discovery by an eminent specialist in heart disease, contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

What Can't Pull Out?

Why the

Non-pull-out

Bow on the Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases, made by the Keystone Watch Case Company, Philadelphia. It protects the Watch from the pickpocket, and prevents it from dropping. Can only be had with cases stamped with this trade mark.

Sold, without extra charge for this bow (ring), through Watch dealers only.

Lots of watch cases are spoiled in the opening. An opener to obviate this sent free.

How's Your Horse?

Morris' English Stable Liniment will positively cure his lameness, sprains, bunches, sweeney, galls, puffs, poll evil, scratches, callouses, barbed-wire cuts and flesh wounds of every description. No other preparation equals it for promptness, safety and economy. Price 50 cts. and $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

In China a boy begins his schooling at five years of age and is at his study nearly twelve hours a day, seven days in the week.

Will Make Hens Lay.

Well's Hoosier Poultry Powder is the greatest egg producer known. A small sum expended for it will pay one hundred per cent on the cost in an increased amount of egg, as it furnishes all the material necessary for their construction, and keeps the hen in good healthy condition Price 25 cents. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

In China, white is the color of mourning; in Egypt, yellow; in Turkey, violet; in Ethiopia, brown; in Europe, during the middle ages, white.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the New Great South American Kidney Cure. This new remedy is a great Surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Druggists, Auburn, Ind.

Jess—Jack told me last night that my face was my fortune.
Bess—How very unkind of him.

Health and Happiness!

HONEY OF FIGS is the QUEEN of all cathartics; syrups or pills. One anticipates its taking with pleasure. No other remedy sells so well or gives such satisfaction. It acts gently on inactive bowels or liver, relieves the kidneys, cures constipation, colds, fevers, nervous headaches, etc., and restores the beauty of health. Ladies and children prefer it. Doctors and druggists recommend it. The Fig Honey Co. of San Francisco. Try a bottle, Only one cent a dose. Matheny & Gerke wholesale and retail agents for DeKalb county.

Willie—I can dress myself.
Bobbie—That's nothing; I can wipe my own nose!

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise.—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, will remove Pimples, Boils, Salt Rheum and other affections caused by impure blood.—Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers.—For cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try Electric Bitters—Entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.—Price 50cts. and $1.00 per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 5

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

$5, $4 and $3.50 Dress Shoe.
$3.50 Police Shoe, 3 Soles.
$2.50, $2 for Workingmen.
$2 and $1.75 for Boys.
LADIES AND MISSES,
$3, $2.50 $2, $1.75

CAUTION.—If any dealer offers you W. L. Douglas shoes at a reduced price, or says he has them without the name stamped on the bottom, put him down as a fraud.

W. L. DOUGLAS Shoes are stylish, easy fitting, and give better satisfaction at the prices advertised than any other make. Try one pair and be convinced. The stamping of W. L. Douglas' name and price on the bottom, which guarantees their value, saves thousands of dollars annually to those who wear them. Dealers who push the sale of W. L. Douglas Shoes gain customers, which helps to increase the sales on their full line of goods. They can afford to sell at a less profit, and we believe you can save money by buying all your footwear of the dealer advertised below. Catalogue free upon application. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Sold by RAUT & CO., Auburn, Ind.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.

ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JANUARY 18, 1894. NUMBER 3.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

No. 342. 170 Acres of fine land well adapted to grain or stock purposes, 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler.

Frame dwelling: main 22 x 24, wing 14 x 28, wing 14 x 31; 11 rooms, cellar under entire building.

Three good barns, all in good repair, conveniently located; one 36 x 50, another 30 x 66, and the last one 22 x 28. Two good wells, 1 cistern, windmill and elevated tank. Two orchards of about 150 in the two. Fences in fine condition. 150 acres in fine state of cultivation, balance timber. No waste land. Sandy, loamy soil. Easy payment plan.

No. —. 44 Acres of land in Wilmington township.

Frame dwelling, 2 story, 16 x 28; wing, 12 x 28, and summer kitchen. Cellar and well.

Frame barn 40 x 65, granary, wagon house and corn crib combined, 20 x 26, and hog and hen house.

4 Acres orchard, all winter grafted fruit; fences in A1 condition; 5 acres timber; 60 rods tiling. No waste land. Soil, black loam.

Price, $2,500. Easy payments.

No. —. Fine residence property on South VanBuren street.

Elegant property. Splendid location. Fruit in large variety and of best quality.

Price, $1,500.

Vacant lots in Widney's addition on long time, easy terms.

No. 157. 40 Acres, 4 miles north of Butler, Ind.

Good log house and barn. 20 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Soil, black loam. Good fences. ¾ mile to school and church.

Price, $1,200. Long time, easy terms.

Dwellings, vacant lots and other desirable property in Garrett to exchange for land in this county and pay cash difference.

80 Acres land in good cultivation to exchange for town property in Auburn, or, will exchange for a well located meat market. Will trade for smaller farm.

Price, $3,300.

80 Acres good land in Butler township, located near school and church and with in 1 mile of railroad.

Good buildings and fences and plenty of fruit.

Price, $4,200.

Will exchange for a smaller tract near some good town.

No. 1900. 85-acre farm, 2½ miles from St. Joe, all under cultivation, no waste land; soil, black sandy loam, no clay; good brick house 14x34 with L 26x28, 8 rooms, good cellar 14x34; 40 bbl. cistern; 96 feet of porch around house, good well; 2 orchards; all kinds of small fruit; barn 36x46; chicken house with 2 acre park, with spring water running through it; 12 acres in wheat, 40 acres in timothy and clover. Will sell for $60 per acre; small payment down, balance on long time, or will take some town property in Auburn or St. Joe.

No. 1890. 120-acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler, 95 acres clear, fences good, 30 acres timber, well drained, part tiled; 2 good orchards and a fine pear orchard; has a good 8-room house, with cellar, cistern, well and barn. Will sell very low and on long time.

No. 1850. 70 acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler; has 2 frame houses, barn 25x40, young orchard. Will sell for $32 per acre; part cash, balance on long time.

No. 1810. 80 acre farm, 1½ miles from Newville, 65 acres clear, 15 acres timber, good fences; good 9 room house; barn 36x50 feet; orchard of 70 trees; well and cistern; mostly black soil, no waste land; 40 acres in timothy and clover. Farm is in good state of cultivation; 1 mile to school and church. Price $3,200, $500 cash down, balance on long time. This is a bargain.

No. 2600. 80 acre farm, 2½ miles S.E. of Auburn, 65 acres clear, balance in timber, no waste land; good 2-story house, good barn 48x80; corn crib, hog pen, wagon and tool shed; cistern, good well with new wind pump and tank; good orchard, good fences; splendid soil. Will sell cheap on long time; will take good house and lot in Auburn or Garrett at what it is worth.

No. 1717. 90 acres of land about 7 miles from Auburn; house 18x24 with L 13 x 17; barn 17x23 with shed 12x23; large granary, well and cistern, orchard; 35 acres under cultivation, 15 acres good timber, balance well drained low land for pasture. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time.

No. 1725. 44½-acre farm, all clear, no waste land; good 4-room house; bank barn 47x76; good orchard; 2 wells. Price $1,800, ½ cash, balance on reasonable time.

No. 3,000. 64-acre farm 6 miles east of Auburn, 60 acres clear, 4 acres timber, well drained, all black sandy loam; fair house; good barn, 38x48; one of the best orchards in the county, an abundance of peach, pear, cherries, grapes, currants, berries, etc.; about 18 acres in wheat, 20 acres in grass, no waste land. This farm can be sold very low on terms that will certainly suit the purchaser.

No. 315. 60- acre farm in Jackson tp.; has a 7-room, 2-story brick house, with cellar, well and cistern; barn 32x64; orchard of 80 trees; all clear and in good cultivation. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time, easy payments This is a bargain.

MONEY! MONEY! Do you want to borrow any money? We can loan you any amount you want, from $500 to $20,000, at a low rate of interest, on long time, with privilege of partail payments. If you need money, do not put it off very long, but call at once. The demand for long time loans is increasing and our money cannot hold out long at the present rate of interest.

Do you need any Fire Insurance or Life Insurance? If you call on us and learn our terms, we have a line of the very best companies that pay losses promptly. Call at our office, for we have no agents running through the country soliciting. We can save you money if you need anything in this line.

Are you going to travel? If so, come and see us. We can sell you a Railroad or Steamship ticket to any point in the world. If you want any information about rates or tickets—cheerfully given, call on us. No harm done if you do not buy.

We represent the National Building Ass'n. of Indianapolis, the best company of its kind in Indiana. Do you want to build or pay off a mortgage on your home, and pay it off in small payments. Parties having money to invest will do well to call on us at once.

If you want to buy or sell a farm, town property or personal property, give us a call. Our commission will be reasonable.

We make a specialty of handling stocks of goods of all kinds. Can either sell or trade them. We take pleasure in showing our property, free of charge, to any who think of buying.

(We have a number of Western and Southern farms that we can trade for land or town property here. Will give or take the difference.)

We have a No. 1 Flouring Mill for sale, situate at LaOtto, we can sell cheap or trade for farm. It is doing a good business.

Rickel & Sprott,

Auburn, Ind.

—UNDER FARMERS BANK.

---

wrong, marry him, and money and lands will all be his own then: the will of the late Earl will be carried out, and yet you will be Lady Charnleigh." So spoke the subtle, tempting voice "There is no need to mention the will, no need to lose all that you value so highly, no need to say one word of having found it. Marry Paul Flemyng, and then you will endow him with all your worldly goods. It cannot matter how he becomes possessor of the estates, if he does possess them. It cannot matter whether they are yours, and you give them to him, or whether they are his and he gives them to you. Do not mention the will—you are doing no wrong. Paul will be master of Crown Leighton, as the late Earl intended him to be, and you will retain your independence."

A terrible temptation! She fought against it for a few minutes; from her lips came the murmur of a prayer:

"Keep me in all honor, oh Heaven! Keep me in all truth!" Then the subtle words rang in her ears once more:

"Marry Paul Flemyng, and all will be completely his—as completely as if you showed him the will, and left yourself at his mercy. Why go through all the pain, why expose yourself to all the comments, the gossip, and the sneers? He says he would rather marry you than be a king; so that, in reality, you are doing him a kindness, and no wrong."

Her head drooped among the leaves and passion-flowers that climbed round the window. She buried her face in her hands.

"I must marry him," she cried, passionately. "I cannot give up all this that my soul loves best. I cannot lose wealth, position, and grandeur, all at one blow. I cannot be a slave where I have reigned a queen."

Then there came to her better thoughts.

"I do not love him, and I do love Bertram with all my heart. I had better tell the truth and leave all to him. Bertram would marry me if I were a beggar."

But Bertram had told her he was not rich.

"If I did marry him," she said, "we should be poor. If it is, as he says, a struggle for him now, what would it be were I his wife?"

The grandeur, magnificence and luxury that she had always loved seemed to her now dearer than ever. If she might have kept her wealth, how it would have delighted her to lavish it on Sir Bertram!

"We might have been rich and happy together; as it is we must part. I must marry Paul Flemyng, and restore to him what is his."

So right and wrong battled in her soul—honor fighting dishonor—the better, higher and nobler nature struggling against the lower one. Sometimes right swayed her, and she resolved, come what might, she would be true to herself; she would give Paul Flemyng the will; she would give up at once the grand inheritance of Crown Leighton; she would marry Sir Bertram if he still urged her to do so; she would say good-by to the glorious life she had been leading lately; she would keep her conscience free and unsullied before Heaven. Then came a regretful vision of all she would lose, of the diamonds worth a king's ransom, of this beautiful Crown Leighton, of the fetes and balls, of the homage and adulation that followed her. And wrong swayed her. She would not mention the will, she would carefully keep all knowledge of it from Paul Flemyng, but she would marry him, so that ample justice might be rendered to him after all.

And with this resolve Leonie drew a deep breath of relief. There would be no need to give up all; no need to proclaim herself a beggar and no countess, no need to leave this fairyland; she could keep all and yet not do wrong—at least not much—for she could not dupe herself so far as to consider that she was acting rightly.

So on that fair June morning, while the sun shone and the birds sang, she deliberately and willfully sold the peace of her soul, the tranquillity of her conscience, her honor and loyalty; she willfully bartered them for wealth and title.

She raised her fair face from the dewy passion-flowers, and already it was changed; there was on it the expression of one who had a secret to keep; the clear, candid light that reveals the beauty of a truthful soul was no longer to be seen: she had on that June morning taken to herself a burden that she would never more lay down. For her resolve was formed. The battle was lost—loyalty, truth, and honor retired from the contest defeated; dishonor, untruth, pride, ambition, love of splendor and luxury had won the victory. Let fate do its worst, she had made hers, and let fate do its worst. She lay down on the bed, and, worn out with the storm of emotion, fell into a deep, dreamless sleep.

The sun was high in the heavens when she awoke and found Florette standing by her with a tempting cup of tea. With that first waking moment came a rush of thought. What had happened? She had found a will and was no longer Lady Charnleigh. She gave a sigh of unutterable relief as she remembered that she had decided upon keeping that will a secret and remaining at Crown Leighton. She experienced a pain words cannot describe as she remembered again that she must give up her lover and live without his love. Of what use was the bright sunshine? Suns would rise and set, yet the day would never bring him to her again. An utter loathing came over her.

"Draw down those blinds," she said; "I detest the sunshine, and I should be glad if any one could stop the birds from singing."

Shining of sun and song of birds were never more to bring happiness to the girl who had sold her soul in order to keep the title of Countess of Charnleigh.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

A Great Puzzle to Tenderfeet Simply Explained.

One of the greatest mysteries to the minds of the tenderfoot among the cowboys of the western plains and the hunters of the Rockies is how the stubborn little bronco can be taught to stand for hours without being hitched and with the curb rein simply thrown over its head. A rider is never known to dismount without first having thrown the rein over the head of the horse, but what charm lies in this action is unknown to the easterner, and yet the explanation is a most simple one. The secret lies in the fact that the bronco has been broken to a bit with a "spade," a broad piece of metal so placed in the middle of the bit that when the curb rein is drawn the spade comes hard against the roof of the bronco's mouth. The rider teaches the bronco the uses of the spade in this fashion: Having dismounted, the breaker throws the curb rein over the bronco's head so that the rein lies partly on the ground. Then the breaker waits until the bronco moves. The movement is usually sudden and impetuous. The breaker, with equal suddenness places his foot hard upon the dragging end of the rein, and the spade is driven into the roof of the bronco's mouth. It is a stubborn beast that does not stop short when he feels the spade.

This discipline is repeated again and again, until the beast learns that to move while his rein hangs over his head and trails on the ground is to stir the spade into activity. When the breaker is sure that the bronco has learned his lesson it is pretty safe to turn the beast loose with the rein over his head.

The Russian Peasant.

A writer who has spent many years in Russia thus speaks of the Russian peasant: "Easily satisfied, self-indulgent, weak, he does not care to ri the world. So long as he can exist allow his wife and children to e and so long as he can obtain for or credit vodka enough to keep going, he is content. He has no of any higher civilization, or any of home comfort. For the rest he his 'little father,' the Czar; fears in a superstitious sort of way, and Lieshui (wood spirits) and other su natural objects of his national folk in a very real way; observes the ch festivals with bibulous piety; att church at Easter; tolerates his and knows absolutely nothing o affairs either of this world or o next. But education is making strides, and the younger generati growing up with advantages to w its forefathers were strangers. is stealing gradually over the Would that it might chase awa drink demon! With the vodka reduced to moderate dimensions, would be a chance even for Russia."

The Police Force of Berlin

The policemen of Berlin, Ger cannot complain of their lot, for only work during the day. Aft p. m. Berlin is confided to a numb men who are called watchers o night. These men wear a specia form and carry a whistle and and patrol the city until 5 or 6 o in the morning. Berlin is mann 3,500 policemen entirely drawn the ranks of non-commissioned of who must have spent at least nine in the army before they are eligib a post in the police force. The p men live on excellent terms wit townspeople, and are both liked an spected. Berlin is divided into ei two police districts, each officered lieutenant of police, who has him two sergeants, two telegraph two messengers, twelve policeme two detectives, the latter carryin volvers.

Saved from an Awful Deat

A party of cattlemen out on th jave Desert recently came acros trail of two men and two burros. aimless, zigzag course of the showed that those who had m were lost, and the cattlemen at set out to find them. Late in the ing the cattlemen came upon a man lying under a mesquite bus side a hole dug six feet deep sand, murmuring in delirium the point of death. He had been out water more than three day had lain down to die. A mile on they overtook an old man, w llirious, was crawling on hand knees toward a pool of brackish beside which stood the two The two men were miners, wh lost their way a week before. men recovered after a few days

Awarded Highest Honor World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

MAP SHOWING MORE IMPO

VICTORIA'S STABLES.

Even Dukes Consider It an Honor to R Over Them.

In the garden of Buckingham P ace, London, one of the seats Queen Victoria, are the royal stabl better known, perhaps, as "The Roy Mews." The head functionary of t Royal Mews is the master of t horse, always a man of wealth a rank as well as of great political fluence. The salary is $10,000 a ye with the right to stable a certa number of horses in the Royal Mew The office goes with the governme and in 1889 was filled by no less personage than the Duke of Po land.

The main entrance to the stable through a handsome gateway the opens on Buckingham Palace ro A sentry from the Buckingham P ace Guard always stands outsi The courtyard of the stables is ab 400 feet square, and here are qu tered 110 magnificent horses, in c

WHO IS AT OUR GATE?

A Sermon Suited to the Times.

The following is a brief synopsis of a powerful discourse which was recently delivered by Rev. Dr. Henry Johnson at the First Presbyterian church at South Bend:

And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate.—Luke 16-20.

These words invite us to study two hemispheres. The one is the hemisphere of riches and the other is the hemisphere of poverty. They exist to-day as they existed eighteen centuries ago. The one is represented by the man clothed in purple and the other by the beggar clothed in rags. But in the study of the two men we must remember that their character did not depend upon an accident. The fact that one was rich and the other was poor did not determine the character. For the reason that a rich man may be a very good man and a poor man may be a very mean man. Lo the poor man may be good and the rich man selfish and bad as in the parable. But who was at the gate?

Well, it was Lazarus the beggar. He was there in the providence of God. He was no anarchist who demanded a division of the property that he had not earned. He did not envy the rich man in his palace with his people and luxury. But he was in need and was at the gate asking only for the crumbs. He would be grateful for the smallest crumb that might fall from the luxurious table. His presence at the gate, however, was probably unwelcome to the rich man in his palace. The beggar disfigured the landscape. The man in purple would probably give more to have him removed from the gate than he would give to satisfy hunger. The beggar was an eyesore to the selfishness of the palace. But that rich man was on trial before the beggar at the gate. His compassion, his pity, his love for neighbor was all on trial. But there was no compassion to respond even with a crumb. We too are on trial for the poor are at our gate. And they are there in the providence of God. We cannot relieve ourselves of the responsibility. We are on trial before them. Either our compassion will respond with bread and garments and shelter, or else it will commit suicide. When I read a poem or stand in the presence of a brilliant picture I am on trial. Poem and picture will make me either better or worse, larger or smaller, richer or poorer.

So we are all on trial before the poor at the gate Hence it is no time for expensive amusements and brilliant entertainments. We must practice self-denial that we may give to our brother at the gate. A New Testament christianity can never spend this winter in expensive and fashionable amusements while the poor are at our gate asking for crumbs. The Master expects us to display the spirit of the good Samaritan in these trying times. Hence, let us not play the Nero while Rome burns, but rather give bread and garments and wood to the poor at our gate. What compassion throbbed in the breast of our Savior! He went about doing good; He identified Himself with the hungry and naked. For that reason He is at our gate in the person of the beggar, asking for the crumbs that fall from our tables. You are on trial before your Lord and He gives you the opportunity to give bread to His hunger and a garment to protect Him from winter's storm. The man at the gate will be to you a means of grace. If you are equal to your responsibility you will close the winter a richer and larger and nobler man. If the church will do its duty to the poor at her gates there may come to her from her risen Lord a richer spiritual blessing than she has ever known in her history. The man at the gate will give the church the opportunity of revealing the fact that she is the best friend of God's poor.

It was beautiful to read in the Chicago papers of last week that eight of the churches were feeding the poor at their gates and opening their doors to shelter them from winter's storm. These temples of God have never been used for a nobler purpose. The lesson of the hour is to remember this trying winter the poor at the gate.

But there is another man at the gate. He is the man that steps from the ship at Castle Garden. He invites our most earnest work. The church and school must inspire him with a love to our institutions or else our flag will be in peril. They must give him wings—must inspire him with aspirations or he will become a weight to drag us down The republic will stand and the flag of Washington and Lincoln will wave only when intelligence is married to conscience. Your rich men must furnish the church with money to elevate this man at the gate. But especially must the church look after the children of this man.

For this reason we must stand by our public school. It is one of the greatest instruments for the elevation of the children at the gate. Whoever would destroy it strikes a blow at the flag. It is the American boy's college and the marble statuary to guard citizenship. The New York Press of last week published a circular that was born at Baltimore asking for a division of the public school fund for the reason that the Catholics of that old city wish their portion of the school fund to sustain their parochial school. The circular has been sent to the city council and to the members of the legislature. The battle is to be fought in Maryland and if successful will be continued in other states. But what does it mean?

Well, it means the destruction of the public school, for if the Catholics can take their share of the school fund for the support of their parochial schools, then other denominations can knock at the same door. The Presbyterian, the Methodist, the Baptist, the Christian, may equally insist on the honoring of of their drafts. That would destroy the school fund and our glorious public school system would soon become a memory. Hence, if the circular born at Baltimore accomplishes its purpose it will mean the overthrow of our public schools. The objection is that there is no religion taught in the common schools.

Well, the home and the church must not throw that additional responsibility upon the school. The duty of the hour is to rally around our public school. Select teachers of character whose example will be an inspiration to the pupils committed to their care. We owe it to the children at our gates to elevate the standard of our public school. Let us invite teachers of character and true education and pay them in accordance with their worth. The noble teachers of our city do not receive nearly what they are worth. Let us stimulate them with money and influence and they will do well by the children at our gate. Hence, if we would perpetuate our institutions let us see to it that no blow is struck at our public schools.

What I have said of our church I say of all churches. If the Presbyterian church, which I love, shall ever in the future ask for a division in the school fund I shall oppose her with all the energy of my being.

But there is another man at our gate. He is the man of Africa and Asia and the islands of the sea. He needs our gospel to lift him from the shadow into the light of our christianity. What is good for America and Europe is equally good for heathen lands. They are at our gates, for the telegraph and steamship have annihilated distance. The lesson of the hour is to give the gospel to the world and then God's kingdom will come and we shall strike hands with the man at the gate.

FEBRUARY 19 is the 30th anniversary of the founding of K. P. order. Many cities will celebrate.

A Quarter Century Test.

For a quarter of a century Dr. King's New Discovery has been tested, and the millions who have received benefit from its use, testify to its wonderful curative powers in all diseases of the throat, chest and lungs. A remedy that has stood the test so long and that has given so universal satisfaction, is no experiment. Each bottle is positively guaranteed to give relief or the money will be refunded. It is admitted to be the most reliable for coughs and colds. Trail bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Large size 50 cents and $1. 6

We begin The New Year with

SWEEPING REDUCTIONS

In Every Department.

Many Nice

Dress Goods and Cloaks

Going at

HALF OUR FORMER PRICES.

We are Selling

CLOTHING

Regardless of Cost.

Now is the time to save money on Carpets and Curtains.

Sixty-five cent carpets now go for fifty-two.

Call to see us. We will make you happy.

SCHAAB & BRO.,

AUBURN.

INEBRIETY IS A DISEASE NOT A CRIME.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

Auburn, Indiana.

Incorporated under the Laws of Indiana and Endorsed by the U. S. Government. With Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Remedies we Cure

DRUNKENNESS AND Morphine Habit.

HOME TREATMENT for the Tobacco Habit and Nerve Exhaustion. No BOLTS. No BARS. No PAIN whatever. Absolute Freedom. IMITATORS, by adroitly worded advertisements seek to convey the impression that they are handling Dr. Keeley's Remedies and employ his methods of treatment. Such persons are only Imitators and impose an imitation on the Public for the Genuine. For full information as to the Keeley Cure, both at the Institute and by home treatment address

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

AUBURN, IND.

All Correspondence Strictly Confidential.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Are you at all Weak-chested or inclined to be Consumptive? Will you cough? Cough now and then? "Try this Wonderful Medicine." The Cough and Weakness will disappear as if by magic, and you will feel a strength and power never had before.

HAVE YOU A COLD? A Dose at Bedtime will Relieve it.

HAVE YOU A COUGH? A Dose will Relieve it.

Bronchitis and Asthma it relieves instantly. The Spasms of Coughing so dreaded in Whooping Cough become less with each dose of medicine. It is an old adage, "To be forewarned is to be forearmed." So let it be in your case, who shall deny, keep on hand ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Directions accompany each bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AT 25cts., 50cts., AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, . . . PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S HAPPENINGS.

The Big Prize Fight May Not Take Place in Florida—Anarchists Attempt to Loot and Burn Rome—Watchman Gagged and Safe Robbed at Zanesville, Ohio—Mother and Daughters Cremated.

RIOT AT ROME.

Anarchists Attempt to Loot and Burn the City.

Rome special: The discovery of an anarchistic plot to loot and burn the city caused the police and military authorities to take extraordinary precautions to prevent any attempt to carry out the plans of the conspirators. A number of anarchists from the adjoining districts sought to enter the city, but were prevented by the military. A number of shots were exchanged by the rioters and the troops, but so far as known nobody was hurt. Finding that it was impossible for them to get into the city, where, there is no doubt, they intended to join the anarchists resident in the city in rioting, the mob scattered in different directions. They are now scouring the country, carrying terror to the quiet people living there. They go to every house and demand of the occupants the surrender of whatever firearms they may have.

The Big Fight.

Jacksonville (Fla.) special: The Duval Athletic Club has played its last card in the contest it has been waging with Gov. Mitchell and has lost. That card was a personal appeal by Manager Bowden to the Governor, begging him to cease his opposition and allow the club to pull off the Corbett-Mitchell mill publicly in Jacksonville. But the Governor was obdurate and told Bowden that the fight should not take place in Jacksonville or in Florida if he could prevent it.

At the conclusion of the interview neither Bowden nor the Governor was disposed to talk at any length. When asked for a statement, Bowden replied: "You may say that the situation is unchanged. My interview with the Governor has resulted in nothing. The fight, however, will take place. I advise all those who desire to witness it to assemble in Jacksonville on or before January 24."

When Gov. Mitchell was asked for a statement he said: "As far as I am concerned, the situation remains unchanged. I will not desist in my determination or in my efforts to stop the fight."

Fight at Rio.

Rio Janeiro special: The siege of Bage by the insurgents' forces has been raised. After the rebels had resisted for eighteen days the sorties of the Government troops, who are commanded by Gen. Carlos Telles, the latter made a final sortie and put the insurgents to flight. It was a complete rout for the insurgents abandoned their baggage and munitions of war. The government loss was thirty-six killed and ninety wounded. The insurgents lost 400, killed and wounded. Two government soldiers, who had been captured by the enemy, were burned alive.

Bold Burglars.

Four masked men entered the residence of August Inhoff, a wealthy German farmer, four miles south of Vincennes, Ind., and covering the occupants with revolvers, ransacked the house, carrying away jewelry, money, etc. Three hundred dollars was in the house, which they failed to find. The family was engaged in a game of cards when the men entered. After satisfying themselves that they had secured all the valuables, they disappeared in the darkness, taking Mr. Inhoff's gun and revolvers with them.

Robbed the Safe.

Three masked men entered the soap factory of Schultz & Co., overpowered Watchman Day, and after binding and gagging him, threw him in a closet. The safe in the office was then blown open and $3,800 in checks, $200 in money and a diamond ring were taken. The robbers then made their escape.

Fatal Flames.

The store and residence of Fred Houson were totally destroyed by fire at Mills, a small village sixteen miles west of Barboursville, Ky. Mr. Houson and his son managed to escape from the burning building, but Mrs. Houson and her two daughters perished in the flames.

A Mob at Kansas City.

J. V. McNamara attempted to deliver his lecture against Catholicism at Kansas City, Mo. He had not proceeded far, when he was attacked by a mob, who used pistols and stones. He would have been badly used up had not his friends and the police driven the mob off.

The Fire Fiend.

At Roodhouse, Ill., fire destroyed the stores of H. C. Deck, general dealer; the hardware store of H. Wilson and the Nebo Hardware Company, the bakery of John Deinhart and the Globe Hotel. Estimated loss, $25,000; insurance, $15,000.

Mid-Winter Fair.

Gov. Markham of California, has designated the 27th inst. as a public holiday, in honor of the ceremonial opening of the mid-winter exposition.

$46,000 for the Unemployed.

Forty-six thousand dollars has been raised for the relief of the unemployed of San Francisco, and 5,000 men have been put to work in Golden Gate Park.

Boiler Explosion.

The boiler on the ferry boat Acorn exploded at Middleport, Ohio. Engineer Jos. Pettit was scalded to death. The boat was badly damaged by the explosion.

Explosion in a Railway Station.

London special: Great excitement has been caused at Islington, a northern suburb of London, by an explosion of what subsequently proved to be an infernal machine in the railway station there. The machine had been left in the station and had been placed among the goods waiting shipment. When the explosion occurred the goods were set on fire. The flames gained little headway, however, and were extinguished before much damage was done. After the excitement had abated somewhat an investigation was made, when it was found that the machine had consisted of a number of glass tubes that had been filled with a liquid. Some of this liquid remained in one or two of the tubes that had not been entirely destroyed by the shock, and it was sent to a Government chemist for analysis.

DESPERATE BATTLES

Fought Between Farmers and a Gang of Thieves.

For several weeks the farmers in the Armstrong neighborhood, about three miles from Jeffersonville, Ind., have been constantly missing chickens and grain. A man named William Pate, who has recently moved into the neighborhood, was suspected. Several nights ago Ben Veasey was shot through the arm by an unknown man while watching his henhouse, and the next night John Armstrong and William Cass, an inmate of the Armstrong house, were attacked by two unknown men. Cass shot one of them as they were retreating over a high board fence, but he escaped, and it is supposed that they sought vengeance, as the other night the house of Armstrong was surrounded by about six or eight men, and when the inmates, consisting of John Armstrong, William Armstrong, William Cass, and Ray Howard emerged from the house they met a fusilade of bullets from unknown assailants. A ball cut through the coat of William Armstrong and several through the clothing of Cass. Cass grappled with one of the would-be assassins, and a gun was pointed directly at his face, but he turned it aside just as it exploded, and his hand was severely burned by the powder. After a time the would-be murderers were driven away, but returned an hour later and again began the attack. By this time assistance had arrived from the surrounding country and the unknown men were driven away. One was shot and fell in the road, but was assisted away by his comrades. The whole country is up in arms against the thieves. Sheriff Davis has arrested Pate, and more arrests are expected soon. Pate is held simply on suspicion.

DROWNED.

Sailors Perish in Chesapeake Bay.

Baltimore special: By the capsizing of a small ferry boat, the following persons were drowned: Neal Finlayson, William H. Nelson, Robert J. Wilson, John Hughes of the British steamer, Mareca; Peter Safranski, the ferryman, and a sailor, name unknown.

Three men were rescued by the crew of the police boat, Lannon. The doctors at the city hospital spent several hours in restoring animation in their almost lifeless forms. Unless pneumonia sets in, they will live. Their names are: James Carr, Harry Green, and A. Verman. With the exception of Safranski, the men all belonged to the British steamer, Mareca.

The sailors employed the ferryman to row them from the foot of Broadway over to their vessel. The wind was blowing a gale. The boat was swamped before it had gone 500 yards. The cries of the drowning men were heard on board the police boat Lannon and its search-light revealed the struggling men in the freezing water. One of the Lannon's boats was immediately launched, but before it reached the spot six of the men had disappeared. In attempting the rescue of the remaining three men, the boat was swamped, throwing Lieut. Napier and his two men into the water. Grasping the exhausted sailors, Napier and his men supported their inanimate forms and held their heads above the water until their lusty yells brought help. A boat from the Mareca, manned by six sailors, came none too soon. The benumbed men were drawn into the boat and hastily carried to the hospital. All of the drowned seamen belonged to England.

APPALLING CALAMITY.

Another of Those Events for Which China Is Distinguished.

The latest advices from Shanghai, received by the steamer Peking, which has arrived at San Francisco, gives details of an appalling calamity at Ningpo which resulted in horrible death by fire of nearly 300 Chinese women and children. On Dec. 8 an annual theatrical performance in honor of the gods was being given in the temple. Over 400 were present, the women and children being on the balconies of the two stories of the temple while the men were in the yard. The performance was on a large stage in the temple-yard. The audience were eating and drinking and many were smoking. A boy carelessly threw a cigarette which he had been smoking into a heap of straw at the foot of the stairs leading to the second story of the temple. The straw was dry and instantly blazed up, burning the staircase and thus cutting off all escape from the top floor. There was a wild rush for safety. Some were trampled to death, some jumped out of the windows and were dashed to pieces on the stone payment below, while the greater part of the women sat in their seats paralyzed by terror and were burned alive or suffocated by smoke. The fire engines from the foreign settlement in Ningpo were promptly on hand, but could do nothing to stop the flames. In an hour and a half the temple was in ruins. Many bodies were so badly burned as to be unrecognizable.

FROM RIO.

The Insurgent Forces Destroy a Government Fort—Government Losses.

A special to the United Press from Rio Janeiro, Jan. 5, via Montevideo, says: A letter received in this city by an insurgent sympathizer from a friend who is with Admiral De Mello, sent by way of Sae Paule, says that Admiral De Mello's flagship, the Aquidaban, was near Desterre. He was engaged in fitting out five steamers that were to be used to convey troops to Rio Janeiro. It is reported that the insurgent forces effected a landing on Eugenho Island and destroyed the Government fort that was in course of construction there. It is also said that the Government forces on the island sustained considerable loss. There is a rumor in circulation that insurgents made a similar dash upon the Government works on Moncaugue Island, north of Nichteroy, and that they captured three field pieces. The insurgents, not having sufficient men to hold either Eugenho or Moncaugue Islands, were compelled to retire.

SCOUNDRELS

Who Attempt to Destroy People's Property.

Wabash (Ind.) special: Last April unknown parties made an attempt to blow up the saw-mill owned by John Blackburn, in Fulton County, a large stick of dynamite being placed in the fire-box, where it exploded. The mill was damaged about $500, but the breaks were repaired. No further trouble developed until last week, when Mr. Blackburn found a half-pound stick of dynamite in one of the flues of the boiler. It was removed without harm. The other night Lewis Bowman, watchman, overheard persons talking on the inside of the mill and he closed the door, hoping to retain them as prisoners. Their strength was superior to his, and they forced open the door and escaped, firing at Bowman, who received a bullet through the arm. The scoundrels are believed to have been there for the purpose of again wrecking the mill. Mr. Blackburn has no clue to their identity.

Slain in a Snow Slide.

A snow slide came down the mountains at Mullan, Idaho, carrying everything before it. Several miners' cabins in its path were crushed and buried. Cornelius McGrevy and John Bollen were eating dinner in their cabins at the time and before they realized their danger the slide was upon them, crushing the life out of them in a twinkling. It is feared others were buried under the immense avalanche of snow. Not until spring comes will it be known how many perished. The town of Mullan narrowly escaped being carried away.

Terrible Accident.

Long Island City (L. I.) special: About sixty men were thrown into Newton Creek by the collapse of a section of a temporary drawbridge over the creek connecting Bradley avenue at Laurel Hill, with Meeker avenue, Brooklyn. Just how many were drowned cannot as yet be determined. The following were on the bridge at the time and have not been seen since: Patrick Briody, H. Marckey, George Mills, Michael McGurkey, and James Smith.

British Tea-Laden Craft Lost.

The City of Peking brings news that the British bark Clan Grant, 2,358 tons, from Amoy bound for New York, with 1,000,000 pounds of tea, valued at $375,000, was totally lost in the Java Sea. The captain, crew and passengers were rescued and landed in Singapore. The ship and cargo were fully insured. At Shanghai, on the 8th, fire destroyed thirty houses. One hundred houses were burned in Canton, Dec. 20, and 300 houses near Foo-Chow were burned on the same date.

Tired of the Practice.

A novel crusade against the social evil was begun at Cleveland, Ohio, recently, when four keepers of disreputable houses were arrested on indictments returned by the grand jury. It is proposed to test the statute designating such places as nuisances. The crusade was started by citizens tired of the police policy of granting immunity to all immoral women who register and submit to medical examination.

Brutal Murder by Negroes.

Four negroes entered the home of Frederick Benny, near Florissant, Mo., and made a demand for money. The demand not being acquiesced in, the quartet beat Benny, who is over 70, and his wife aged 65, so severely that the latter is dead and the former cannot recover from his injuries. A hired man who ran to their assistance was beaten into insensibility. The negroes then secured $300 and fled.

Children Burned.

A small frame house occupied by Philip S. Dobson at Des Moines, Iowa, was burned. The mother had stepped out for a few moments and upon returning found the house in flames. She could not tell in what part of the house her two only children, little girls 2 and 3 years of age, were. Before help could reach them they were burned alive.

Dynamite Fiends.

At Indianapolis Edward Elam, broker, had a dynamite boom with the fuse lighted put in his overcoat pocket. It failed to explode. He found it when he got home.

An attempt was made to blow up with dynamite a tenement house at No. 54 Avenue D, New York. The front of the house was blown out.

Horribly Burned.

A horrible accident, that will probably result in the death of a 5-year-old girl, occurred at Warren, Ohio. Mrs. Gus Fields went away from home for a few minutes, and when she returned her little daughter, who was left alone in the house, was burned in a terrible manner, not a stitch of clothing remaining on the child's body.

Three Men Killed by a Train.

West-bound express No. 12 on the Pennsylvania road run down and killed three unknown Hungarians in Carney's tunnel, near Greensburg, Pa. The men were tramping eastward and stepped off one track to avoid a freight train, when they were struck by the express coming in the opposite direction.

A Baby Cremated.

The young child of Mr. and Mrs. Slate Darroll was almost cremated at Delphos, Ohio. The baby was playing about the stove and while the mother was out of the room for a moment its clothes caught fire and the child was burned so terribly that it died a short time afterward. Its mother is nearly crazed with grief.

Another Trotting Circuit.

The Northwestern Ohio Trotting Circuit was organized at Lima, Ohio. Their circuit embraces Toledo, Tiffin, Lima, Bowling Green, Piqua, and Wapakoneta. The spring meetings open on June 5.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3 30 @ 6 00
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4 00 @ 5 50
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	2 25 @ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	62 @ 63
CORN—No. 2	35 @ 36
OATS—No. 2	30½@ 31¼
RYE—No. 2	46 @ 48
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	24½@ 25½
EGGS—Fresh	19½@ 20½
POTATOES—Per bu	50 @ 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3 00 @ 5 25
HOGS—Choice Light	3 00 @ 5 50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	2 00 @ 3 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	56 @ 57
CORN—No. 2 White	35½@ 36½
OATS—No. 2 White	31 @ 32
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59 @ 60
CORN—No. 2	32½@ 33½
OATS—No. 2	28 @ 30
PORK—Mess	13 50 @14 00
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 50
SHEEP	2 00 @ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	58½@ 59½
CORN—No. 2	36½@ 37½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	31 @ 32
RYE—No. 2	52 @ 54
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 4 75
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 75
SHEEP	2 00 @ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	61½@ 62½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	38 @ 39
OATS—No. 2 White	28 @ 30
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	61½@ 62½
CORN—No. 3 Yellow	36½@ 37½
OATS—No. 2 White	29 @ 29½
RYE—No. 2	50 @ 52
BUFFALO.
BEEF CATTLE—Good to Prime	2 50 @ 5 25
HOGS—Mixed Packers	4 00 @ 5 00
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	72½@ 73½
No. 2 Red	64 @ 65
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	60 @ 61
CORN—No. 3	34½@ 35½
OATS—No. 3 White	29 @ 31
RYE—No. 1	47 @ 48
BARLEY—No. 2	50 @ 51
PORK—Mess	12 50 @13 00
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 25
HOGS	3 75 @ 5 25
SHEEP	2 00 @ 4 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	68 @ 69
CORN—No. 2	43 @ 44
OATS—White Western	36 @ 40
BUTTER—Choice	20 @ 26
PORK—Mess	14 00 @14 75

FIFTEEN ARE KILLED.

FRIGHTFUL RAILWAY WRECK IN NEW JERSEY.

Two Trains on the Lackawanna and Western Collide—Cars Filled with Persons En Route to New York to Work Are Smashed Into Pieces.

Signals Could Not Be Seen.

[illegible] into [illegible] Morristown [illegible] avenue [illegible] Lackawanna cut [illegible] train had [illegible] and [illegible] She was [illegible] she [illegible] upon [illegible] main- [illegible] experi- [illegible] be as [illegible] must [illegible] it his [illegible] sun- [illegible], yet [illegible] her [illegible] over [illegible] said; [illegible] be [illegible] birds [illegible] birds [illegible] ness [illegible] in [illegible] ss of [illegible] Ex- [illegible] the [illegible] cow- [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] to [illegible] ched [illegible] grown [illegible] wown [illegible] crown [illegible] dorse, [illegible] con is [illegible] the [illegible] n The [illegible] gonco [illegible] h a [illegible] so [illegible] that [illegible] made [illegible] the [illegible] with [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] lies [illegible] w the [illegible] gives. [illegible] and [illegible] ual [illegible] pon [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] ast [illegible] hels [illegible] hi [illegible] nd [illegible] ha to [illegible] en his [illegible] ir [illegible] he [illegible] ev [illegible] as [illegible] in [illegible] se to [illegible] er [illegible] no [illegible] re [illegible] we [illegible] th [illegible] hars [illegible] we an [illegible] mal- [illegible] th [illegible]

MAP SHOWING MORE IMPORTANT RAILROADS WHICH [illegible] DURING THE YEAR 189[illegible]

VICTORIA'S STABLES.

Even Dukes Consider It an Honor to Rule Over Them.

In the garden of Buckingham Palace, London, one of the seats of Queen Victoria, are the royal stables, better known, perhaps, as "The Royal Mews." The head functionary of the Royal Mews is the master of the horse, always a man of wealth and rank as well as of great political influence. The salary is $10,000 a year, with the right to stable a certain number of horses in the Royal Mews. The office goes with the government and in 1889 was filled by no less a personage than the Duke of Portland.

The main entrance to the stable is through a handsome gateway that opens on Buckingham Palace road. A sentry from the Buckingham Palace Guard always stands outside. The courtyard of the stables is about 400 feet square, and here are quartered 110 magnificent horses, in con- [illegible] its function is to help keep up [illegible] fiction that lawyers as a body [illegible] public-spirited citizens. Its [illegible] members are about the only pe[illegible] who profit financially by the secu[illegible] enjoyed by the residents of Mu[illegible] ers' Row."

ENTRANCE TO THE QUEEN'S STABLES.

on the platform less than [illegible] ahead of the oncoming engine of death and called out: "Jump for your lives."

All of the passengers on the platform escaped. The baggage-handler in the baggage-car and the express messenger also heard his warning cry and sprang through the side door just as the engine of the local train—which, according to the trainmen, was running at a rate of twenty miles an hour—crashed into it.

It was fully five minutes after the crash before the passengers on the two trains could realize the full extent of the catastophe. Then came the greatest confusion imaginable. The trainhands led the passengers to the work of rescue. Three mangled bodies were pulled out of the wreck within ten minutes. The passengers crowded about and rendered valuable service in caring for the injured. Several men who attempted to assist fainted upon seeing the sickening condition of the bodies dragged out from under the wreck.

A call was sent to Jersey City for doctors, ambulances and coffins. A relief train was sent to the scene from Hoboken, and thirty physicians arrived from that place and Jersey City. One by one the injured were taken out and placed in the cars. They were sent to the Christ and St. Mary hospitals in Hoboken. The bodies of the dead were removed to the morgue. Coroner Volk had been notified and took charge of them as soon as he arrived.

HAS SAVED TWENTY-ONE LIVES.

The Noble Record of Frederick Charles Wilson.

It falls to the lot of but few men to be able to boast of as noble a record as has Frederick Charles Wilson, night engineer for the Morgan steamship line on pier 25, North River. Early one morning a drunken man walked off the pier and would have been drowned had not Wilson bravely gone to his rescue. "That's my twenty-first," remarked the hero, as the inebriate, after being deposited on terra firma, reeled away with a grunt of thanks. And this told the whole story. Over a score of persons owe their rescue from watery graves to Wilson.

Wilson is 33 years old, and has been in the employ of the Morgan line most of the time since his 13th year. He was born in Boston, Jan. 28, 1860, and is a regular water rat. He is of less than medium height, weighs about 135 pounds, has a big, laughing hazel eye, and a modest way of forgetting almost everything about his life-saving exploits.

In the winter of 1880-81 Wilson quit the Morgan line and tried his fortunes with the Boston and Nantasket Beach Railway. He was watchman for the railroad at the beach, and while there had his first experience as a life-saver. On the night of Feb. 1, 1881, he heard a cry for help. Running along the beach he found that the cry came from a man on a spar. He got a line, and with its aid rescued the man and carried him a shore. One by one fourteen men on the ill-fated brig Gracie Lothrop were rescued, together with $17,000 in gold. By noon next day the brig had been beaten to fragments by the storm.

Capt. Josh James, of the United States life-saving station at Hull, interested himself in Wilson, and a little later tendered $50 in money to him, saying that it was a reward sent from New York.

"Send it back and tell 'em I only want a medal," said Wilson, and that is the last he ever heard of it.

HAWAIIAN MESSAGE.

ALL CORRESPONDENCE TRANSMITTED TO CONGRESS.

Everything Is Sent to Congress Except That Which They Have Already Received and a Dispatch from Minister Stevens Dated October 8, 1893.

All Now Laid Bare.

STORY OF A COMPOSER.

"Faust" the Great Work of the Late Charles Francois Gounod.

Charles Francois Gounod, who died of paralysis at Paris, was one of the greatest composers of the century. He was born June 17, 1818, and showing in early life a fondness for music he entered the Conservatoire at Paris, where he studied the piano with Zimmerman and harmony and counterpoint with Reicha, Lesueur and Halevy. In 1837 he was awarded the second prize for composition, and two years afterward he carried off the first. His first great opera was "Sappho," which was produced in 1851. In 1859 "Faust" was brought forth in the Theater Lyrique, and it met with unparalleled success at once. Among other productions were "The Queen of Sheba," "The Two Queens of France," "Romeo and Juliet," and several hundred minor compositions.

CHARLES FRANCOIS GOUNOD.

Machines that Almost Think.

An automatic winder of cotton thread has been contrived, a mechanism which takes thread from eight large spools loosely wound and transfers it to eight small spools containing 200 yards; these small spools having received 200 yards exactly, stop revolving, a knife cuts a slot in the spool, the end of the thread is fastened in this; the machine then cuts the thread, off drops the spool into a trap, takes eight empty spools from as many hoppers, places them on the spindles and fills these as it did the previous set. The machine goes through the entire process in just forty-five seconds, making all changes automatically and with the greatest precision. In another machine the small spools are placed on an inclined track, and in rolling through the machine receives on each end a ticket cut from a long strip or roll of previously printed tickets placed on a stand above the machine. After the ticket is cut, paste is applied to the back and it is then pressed upon the spool, which has rolled into proper position to receive it—this at the rate of ninety spools per minute.—Sun.

What Could Have Ailed Her?

The human body is a very delicate and highly complex organization, and it is not surprising that it sometimes breaks down for no easily ascertainable reason. A farmer met the village doctor, according to an exchange, and said:

"If you happen to be out our way any time, I wish you'd stop and see my wife. She don't seem to be feeling very well."

"What ails her? What are some of her symptoms?"

"I dunno. This morning, after she'd milked the cows and fed the pigs and got breakfast for the men and washed the dishes and built a fire under the boiler in the washhouse and done a few little odd jobs round the house, she complained of feeling tired-like. I shouldn't wonder if her blood was poor, and I guess she needs a dose of medicine."

He Was Excused.

A bride tells of a difficult moment of her recent wedding trip. A few days of it were spent with an uncle of hers, very deaf and very pious. When they sat down to dinner on the night of their arrival, the uncle asked the groom to say grace. Much embarrassed, as he was unaccustomed to officiating in this way, he leaned forward, murmuring a request to be excused. Whereupon the uncle, watching him, only waited until his lips stopped moving to utter a sonorous "Amen!" in response. It is hardly necessary to say that the blessing for that meal went unsaid.

REPORTS of outrages committed by tramps in the rural districts show that these vagabonds are becoming desperate and dangerous. They take by force what is denied them and [illegible] O'Connell.

PUT your trust in God, but be sure to see that your powder is dry.—Oliver Cromwell.

OUR country is wherever we are well off.—John Milton, in a letter to Heinbach, 1666.

THE sick man of Europe.—Nicholas I. of Russia, speaking of the Turkish Empire.

PEACE with honor.—Beaconsfield, after his return from the Berlin congress of 1878.

I BESEECH your lordships to be merciful to a broken reed.—Francis Bacon, to his Judges.

LIFE would be quite tolerable if it were not for its amusements.—Sir George Lewis.

WORK OF MASKED MEN

PASSENGER TRAIN HELD UP IN MISSOURI.

Hannibal Flyer on the Burlington Road Stopped by Five Men Near St. Joseph, Mo., Who Loot the Express and Mail Cars.

Torpedoes on the Track.

Five men held up the Hannibal and St. Joseph fast train, "Eli," Wednesday night, four miles east of St. Joseph, Mo., and robbed the express and mail cars. The men placed torpedoes on the track and swung a red lantern to stop the train, and as it slowed up three men climbed into the engine cab. Revolvers were thrust into the faces of the engineer and fireman and they were told to throw up their hands. It was an old-fashioned robbery, but it was successful in every detail. The engineer and fireman were forced to walk back in front of the robbers to the door of the express car, and the messenger was told to open the door. Express Messenger G. A. Wetzel did not suspect that there were robbers outside, and when he heard the engineer calling, he opened the door. As he did so two of the robbers leaped in. They secured the contents of the safe. The mail car was entered in the same manner as the express car. The mail agents were unarmed and made no resistance. It is reported that a registered pouch was carried off by the robbers. Other mail pouches were cut open and rifled, and everything of value in sight was taken. The passengers were not disturbed. As soon as the train had been looted it proceeded on its way.

The rear brakeman, John Ryan, had been sent back to flag approaching trains. When the robbers released the lion, an elephant or a buffalo in creation, and will give battle to the lion intent on making a feast of the young calf, which clung close to its mother and the rhinoceros with glaring eyes and steaming nostrils breathing defiance at the foe. The rhinoceros had been badly wounded, and in sympathy with her, the tourist sighted his rifle and sent a bullet through the lion's head.

as in its mad rage it attacks a rock or whatever stands in its way. In its wanton display of strength the black rhinoceros tears up bushes and small trees and digs the earth with its fore feet, throwing the clay backward like a dog. In appearance the animal is clumsy, yet it can keep pace with a swift horse for a short distance. All the mammoths of the wilds give it a wide berth.

Recently a tourist in Boerland was witness to a remarkable scene in the wilds. A wounded rhinoceros cow with her calf was keeping a magnificent lion at bay. There the mighty beasts confronted each other [illegible]

KEPT THE LION AT BAY.

Cruel Women.

A contributor writes as follows [illegible] Anti-Vivisection, the organ of the anti-vivisectionists: Whether women know it or not it seems to me that on their account are perpetrated some of the most atrocious cruelties in the world. For them the glorious plumaged birds are snared and slain; for them the almost human seal is hunted and butchered—the mother killed while seeking to protect their offspring with their lives, the offspring crying, it is said, like human babies, in fear, and the pangs of slow starvation. Perhaps to those women who do not read, these things are unknown—and I know that with others the passion to decorate themselves with feathers and make a show before their humbler neighbor with their costly sealskin coat—obtained at the price of more than mortal anguish—is such a ruling passion that they will tread on quivering breasts and palpitating hearts to obtain them.

Then look at the fashionable women who hunt and fish—not many, perhaps, in this country, thank heaven; and the women who join in chasing on horseback a poor little fox or hare with the ignoble desire to kill something, and ride in at the death with glee. Just so long as there are such women to become mothers of men just so long will there be murder and every other crime in the world committed by men.

Then as you go through the city streets you see my lady sitting placidly in her carriage drawn by horses frantic with pain, champing the bit till the foam flies against their breasts from torture of the checkrein, the torture of flies from which they cannot protect themselves with their docked tail, in summer, or the chill of winter reaching to the marrow of their bones as the result of clipping.

Women could remedy all of these cruelties, in the course of time, if they willed so to do. It may not be known in this world what lies at their door, but if the Hindoo belief is true, that we shall change places with the animals in the next world, there will be a vast multitude of women, as well as men, wishing they had never been born.

Two Notable Women.

Mrs. Daubney, probably the oldest member of the Wesleyan denomination in the country, died on Tuesday, at Thornton, near Horncastle, in her 103d year. She had been identified with the Wesleyans ninety [illegible] thirty-foot bank into the cottonwood River at Emporia, Kan., and was drowned.

AFTER living on sandwiches four days at Wilkesbarre, Pa., the Shackford Opera Company secured funds to go to New York.

CHARLES O. KELLAR was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment for embezzling $2,700 from the Chattanooga Brewing Company.

THE Ohio Wool Growers' Association at Columbus adopted resolutions strongly protesting against placing wool on the free list.

A MOVEMENT is on foot among Pennsylvania Democrats to nominate A. D. Markley as a second candidate for Congressman-at-large.

AROUND A BIG STATE.

BRIEF COMPILATION OF INDIANA NEWS.

What Our Neighbors Are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers About Indianians.

Minor State Items.

THERE were 266 marriage licenses issued in Gibson County last year.

E. C. WILSON'S large residence, at Noblesville, was destroyed by fire. Loss $3,000.

A SILVER fox was recently captured in Putnam County. They are said to be scarce in that vicinity.

AT least 500 people have so far signed the pledge at the Francis Murphy Temperance meetings at Albany.

THE barn belonging to Albert Ribble, southeast of Muncie, was destroyed by fire and six head of horses burned.

IT is reported that the driving park at Richmond has changed hands and races will be held there next season.

MISS MAUD OTT, daughter of John Ott of South Bend, was overcome by coal gas. Immediate efforts saved her life.

CHARLES and Harry Hale were perhaps fatally crushed beneath the timbers of a barn that collapsed at Butlerville.

THE attempt to get Detective Morris out of the Peru Jail by habeas corpus proceedings, was a failure, Judge Cox refusing the writ.

THE Southern Indiana Press Association met at Seymour, read several papers, elected officers and decided to hold the midsummer meeting at Madison.

A VALPARAISO man is going to sail with a party from Philadelphia to South America in search of $75,000 in gold that was buried there before the war.

WHILE boys were playing in a sand pit at Porter, they found a box containing gold and silver undertaking furnishings. Where they came from is a mystery.

THOMAS JONES, aged 68, of Rockport, was stricken with paralysis while teaching his Sunday-school class and died. He had taught twenty years without missing a Sunday.

JAMES LEMON, Anderson Hatfield, and Frank Stevens, charged with complicity in the killing of Abe Stumpff in a potato patch at Marion, a few months ago, were released by order of court.

AN incendiary burned the stables of Township Trustee John C. Chambers, in Lewis Township, Clay County. The contents, including twelve head of horses and cows, were destroyed. Loss, $500.

LEE WAH SING, a Chinese laundryman at Logansport, has received word from Chicago that the highbinders there had decreed his death because he had insulted one of them last summer. Lee has sought police protection.

A MAN supposed to be A. C. Davis of Kokomo, was picked up on the Cleveland Railroad at Marion in an unconscious condition. He was cut about the head and bore other injuries. It is supposed he was struck while walking on the track.

A COMPANY of Indianapolis and Chicago capitalists have organized with $100,000 capital stock to investigate the oil field in the vicinity of Albany. Oil has been discovered near here that flows from the well as clear as water. Thousands of acres of land have already been leased.

MRS. MARTIN HOWLEY, an aged woman, was found in a dying condition in the back yard of her residence at Fort Wayne, and died shortly after being taken into the house. It developed that her son Martin, with Henry Holt, a boarder, became involved in a quarrel, in which the mother interfered. The boy knocked her down and afterwards struck her a brutal blow in the face and kicked her several times in the abdomen and back. At the postmortem it was found that three ribs had been loosened by the kicks. Young Howley was arrested, charged with murder, and Holland is also in jail to await further action.

THE other evening, as passenger train No. 76 on the Evansville and Richmond road was nearing Westport, the eastern terminus of the road, Engineer Spellman was signaled to stop. He immediately applied the air brakes, and looking out of the cab window, discovered a number of men standing beside the track. Visions of the robbers passed before him, and he released the brake before the train came to a standstill and put on a head of steam. As the train sped by a number of shots were fired after it. The story of the attempted holdup has been kept very quiet by the road and officials, but detectives have been put to work on the case by the company.

PATENTS have been issued to Indianians as follows: Benton Dearinger of Mooreland, assignor of one-half to J. W. Dick of Hagerstown, corn planter; John B. Haberle of South Bend, sprinkler; Adam Heim, assignor of seven-sixteenths to G. W. Heim of Owensville, machine for attaching dress labels; Winfield S. Jewell of Indianapolis, and A. C. Stevens of Des Moines, time and dating stamp; Charles A. Johnson of Mount Jackson, ribbon reversing mechanism for typewriting machines; Caleb J. Kelly of Terre Haute, piston-rod packing; Joseph Randel and J. P. Henderson, assignors to National Metallic Pocket-fastener Company of Logansport, staple-inserting and clinching machine; Volney P. Parks of Fort Wayne, pavement; Isaac Ringer and H. Eviston of Indianapolis, assignors to Indianapolis Basket Company, shipping basket; James J. Wood of Fort Wayne, alternating current dynamo; James J. Wood of Fort Wayne, connection between separately excited dynamos and their exciters.

IT is said that Edward Martin, who was arrested at Muncie with counterfeiters' tools found in his house, had succeeded in getting into circulation a large amount of the "queer." The dealers pronounce it dangerous owing to its perfection.

A FATAL accident occurred three miles south of Muncie. William Fuson, aged 19, was assisting his uncle in getting timber, when a tree fell on the young man. His head was mashed into a shapeless mass, and the body could not be extricated for sometime. The tree had been cut down, but lodged in another tree, and unexpectedly fell.

JOHN MINNICK, superintendent of the Lebanon Electric Light Company, was instantly killed by a telegraph pole, on which he was stretching a wire, breaking with him and he fell under it. His neck was broken. Minnick's home was in Lawrenceburg, where he has a mother.

HON. D. R. ALTON, ex-Commissioner of the Live Stock Board under the late Secretary Rusk, has a fine stock farm at Vincennes. Within the last ten days he has lost three valuable stallions valued at $2,000. He carried no insurance on the horses. All died suddenly. Dr. Smithers, a veterinary surgeon, has decided that all died from arsenical poison.

AT WAR WITH HERSELF.

The Story of a Woman's Atonement, by Charlotte M. Braeme.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Continued.

As she stood there, Lady Fanshawe drew aside the velvet hangings, and entered the room.

"Lady Charnleigh, are you here, alone?" she said. "Miss Dacre has been looking for you. You must be very tired."

"I wonder what she will say," thought Leonie, "when I tell her all? Will she like the governess as well as she liked the Countess, or will she be the first to say that 'I never had any style and was quite unfit for my station?' I suppose the world is all false alike."

"I have never known anything go off so successfully as this ball has done, Lady Charnleigh. You have gained golden opinions, my dear child. I am inclined to think that fortune was not blind when she chose you for a lady of title and wealth."

"You think I make a better Countess than I did a governess?" said Leonie.

"Yes. I will say more—there is no one living who would grace your position or fill it as you do."

"Thank you, auntie; now good-night, or rather, good-morning. Hark! The birds are singing and the sun will soon shame these lights. Au revoir, auntie—pleasant dreams!"

Leonie swept up the grand staircase, her velvet train falling in graceful folds, her fair head erect and stately, a smile on her lips, her whole energy bent on one object—not to give way. Florette was waiting for her.

"How long can I control myself?" thought Leonie. "I feel burning tears close to my eyes, and I must let them flow; there is a burning pain at my heart, and I must be alone that I may weep it away."

Florette proceeded to remove the costly diadem, the necklace of diamonds, the ornaments, the rich trailing velvet robes, and Leonie stood quite still. She felt that if she either stirred or spoke the torrent of grief must have its own way.

"Shall I lock those diamonds up now, my lady?" asked Florette.

Leonie looked at them—a few hours more and they would no longer be hers. She would feast her eyes on them while she could.

"Leave them until the morning," she answered slowly. "I am very tired; you can go now. Good-night."

At last she was alone—the long pent-up sorrow could have its way. She locked the door, and, as the wild torrent of sobs rose to her lips, she flung herself on the ground, not caring whether she ever rose again or not.

So lately queen of one of the most brilliant fetes ever imagined, now she lay alone, battling as best she could with her sorrow and her despair. Deep, bitter sobs shook the prostrate figure; "it was too hard," she said to herself. She had been so unutterably happy; and now it was all over. She could never enjoy one moment of life again.

She wept until her tears was exhausted, and then something like the gloom and sullenness of despair came over her. The morning sun was shining and the birds singing their matin hymns, for the first time a loathing for sunshine and beauty came over her—she would fain have turned her face to the wall and died.

A sensation of deadly faintness came over her, when she remembered that the had not tasted food since dinner-time on the previous day. She went to she window and opened it, thinking the fresh air might revive her. Dear Heaven, how beautiful it was! The sky was one mass of pale pearl tints streaked with gold, the morning air was full of sweet and rare perfume, the dew was sparkling like diamonds on the grass, the flowers were all at their fairest, the lilies opened their cool, white cups, the roses sent forth a cloud of perfume, and the birds sang as though there was no sorrow in the world. How fair and tranquil it was, the tall trees stirred so gently by the sweet Western wind, and the green boughs rustling with a noise like faint music.

So faint, so still, so full of beauty! Her hot, tired eyes wandered over the flowers and trees. It was indeed an earthly paradise—could she leave it? No, a thousand times no!

The cool morning air refreshed her; it seemed to drive away the fever that burned on her face and in her heart. All this fair prospect, these gardens, these grounds, the rich woodlands, the fertile meadows, the park, had all been hers yesterday. Could she lose them now? A thousand times no!

Temptation comes to us at different times; it assails a man when through the open door of a brilliantly lighted room, he hears the click of the billiard balls—he forgets his invalid wife at home, and yields to it. It assails us in those moments when we are weakest. It came to Leonie Rayner that fair June morning while the dew lay on the grass, and the birds sang in the trees—a swift, sudden, terrible temptation that made her tremble with its force, that flushed her face, and caused her to raise her eyes to the fair morning heavens.

"No, not that. Let me lose all—let me die—but keep my honor and my truth unsullied—oh, great Heaven!"

A terrible temptation it was—one that left her powerless. She trampled upon it as she would have done upon some noisome reptile springing at her throat. She refused to hear it; then she faltered ever so slightly, and looked it in the face.

What was it? The words seemed to grow clear to her mind as though they were distinctly spoken.

"No one knows anything about the will—why mention it? Destroy it; there is no human being who will be any the wiser; destroy the will!"

Again and again the words seemed to be repeated, "Destroy the will!" She could have fancied the whisper re-echoed from every corner of the room. The birds seemed to sing it, the wind to repeat it, and Leonie sat down deliberately to look her temptation in the face.

Would it be so very wrong after all to keep what she had longed looked upon as her own? It was her own; she was most certainly nearest of kin to the dead earl; and therefore she had a right to the title and estate. Was it just to deprive her of them because the earl had loved Paul Flemyng's mother? That gave him no right to the lands and revenues of Crown Leighton.

That it was an unjust will she felt quite sure; yet it was a will made when the earl was of sound mind, and every law of honor and honesty compelled her to give it up.

Had not Lady Fanshawe said that no one would ever grace the position Leonie held as she did? Surely, if she was doing the best possible for the fair name of the Charnleighs, it would be folly to make way for one who would perhaps not fulfill the duties half so well.

All that sophistry could devise she thought of; but there was no getting over the broad, plain fact that Lord Charnleigh had not left his fortune to her, but to some one else, and to that person it ought to go—honor was imperative. For her to keep what belonged to another was so clearly stealing as for her to put her hand into a stranger's purse. The money, the land, the title, were not hers, but another's, and she had no possible right to them.

"Yet," cried the unhappy girl, despairingly, "I cannot give them up. I have been so happy, I have loved my life so well, I cannot—Heaven help me—I cannot give them up!"

As she turned despairingly away, her eyes fell on the little note Paul had given her, which as yet she had neither remembered nor read.

CHAPTER XXX.

"MY DEAREST LEONIE,"—the note began—"I will not tease you with a long letter. I did not intend to trouble you at all this evening, but that I can no longer conceal the deep, true, ardent love for you that fills my whole heart. I have seen you this evening so lovely, so radiant, so gracious, that it seems to me the whole world must be longing to take my prize away. Leonie, I am not a poet,—I cannot woo you in musical song. I am a soldier, loyal and true, and gifted with no great eloquence. I could not tell you how I love you—I have no words at my command that can describe my love—but I kneel at your feet, and pray you to be my wife. Be my wife, sweetest? I shall have earth's fairest price then. I would rather call you my wife, and know that I had won your love, than I would be crowned king; and, if you will trust yourself to me, I will make you happy. With my sword I will win a name even grander than that of Charnleigh. I will give my whole life to you. You will not keep me waiting for an answer, sweet—I could not bear long suspense. I shall come to hear my fate to-morrow. Yours, in life and death, PAUL."

Swift, sudden, and terrible came the temptation, and it mastered her.

"Marry Paul and you will do him no wrong; marry him, and moneys and lands will all be his own then: the will of the late Earl will be carried out, and yet you will be Lady Charnleigh." So spoke the subtle, tempting voice. "There is no need to mention the will, no need to lose all that you value so highly, no need to say one word of having found it. Marry Paul Flemyng, and then you will endow him with all your worldly goods. It cannot matter how he becomes possessor of the estates, if he does possess them. It cannot matter whether they are yours, and you give them to him, or whether they are his and he gives them to you. Do not mention the will—you are doing no wrong. Paul will be master of Crown Leighton, as the late Earl intended him to be, and you will retain your independence."

A terrible temptation! She fought against it for a few minutes; from her lips came the murmur of a prayer:

"Keep me in all honor, oh Heaven! Keep me in all truth!" Then the subtle words rang in her ears once more:

"Marry Paul Flemyng, and all will be completely his—as completely as if you showed him the will, and left yourself at his mercy. Why go through all the pain, why expose yourself to all the comments, the gossip, and the sneers? He says he would rather marry you than be a king; so that, in reality, you are doing him a kindness, and no wrong."

Her head drooped among the leaves and passion-flowers that climbed round the window. She buried her face in her hands.

"I must marry him," she cried, passionately. "I cannot give up all this that my soul loves best. I cannot lose wealth, position, and grandeur, all at one blow. I cannot be a slave where I have reigned a queen."

Then there came to her better thoughts.

"I do not love him, and I do love Bertram with all my heart. I had better tell the truth and leave all to him. Bertram would marry me if I were a beggar."

But Bertram had told her he was not rich.

"If I did marry him," she said, "we should be poor. If it is, as he says, a struggle for him now, what would it be were I his wife?"

The grandeur, magnificence and luxury that she had always loved seemed to her now dearer than ever. If she might have kept her wealth, how it would have delighted her to lavish it on Sir Bertram!

"We might have been rich and happy together; as it is we must part. I must marry Paul Flemyng, and restore to him what is his."

So right and wrong battled in her soul—honor fighting dishonor—the better, higher and nobler nature struggling against the lower one. Sometimes right swayed her, and she resolved, come what might, she would be true to herself; she would give Paul Flemyng the will; she would give up at once the grand inheritance of Crown Leighton; she would marry Sir Bertram if he still urged her to do so; she would say good-by to the glorious life she had been leading lately; she would keep her conscience free and unsullied before Heaven. Then came a regretful vision of all she would lose, of the diamonds worth a king's ransom, of this beautiful Crown Leighton, of the fetes and balls, of the homage and adulation that followed her. And wrong swayed her. She would not mention the will, she would carefully keep all knowledge of it from Paul Flemyng, but she would marry him, so that ample justice might be rendered to him after all.

And with this resolve Leonie drew a deep breath of relief. There would be no need to give up all, no need to proclaim herself a beggar and no countess, no need to leave this fairyland; she could keep all and yet not do wrong—at least not much—for she could not dupe herself so far as to consider that she was acting rightly.

So on that fair June morning, while the sun shone and the birds sang, she deliberately and willfully sold the peace of her soul, the tranquillity of her conscience, her honor and loyalty; she willfully bartered them for wealth and title.

She raised her fair face from the dewy passion-flowers, and already it was changed; there was on it the expression of one who had a secret to keep; the clear, candid light that reveals the beauty of a truthful soul was no longer to be seen: she had on that June morning taken to herself a burden that she would never more lay down. For her resolve was formed. The battle was lost—loyalty, truth, and honor retired from the contest defeated; dishonor, untruth, pride, ambition, love of splendor and luxury had won the day. For this Leonie had parted with a birthright she could claim never more.

She would hide the will, but not destroy it—there was some kind of compromise with her conscience in this idea. She would hide it, and never mention it, but marry Paul Flemyng, and so restore to him what was his own. That was the resolve she made deliberately. She knew right from wrong—honor from dishonor—truth from falsehood; but the temptation had been too strong for her—it had mastered her, and she had weakly succumbed to it.

"I will remain Lady Charnleigh, mistress of Crown Leighton, queen of the county," she said to herself, "and I will not count the cost."

Yet even as she said the words she knew what the cost would be—the misery of her whole life: there rose before her the grand princely head and noble, handsome face of Sir Bertram—she must give him up. If she kept Paul Flemyng's wealth, she must also keep his love; and yet she knew that she had no thought for any other man save Sir Bertram.

"I must lose my love," she said, with a great tearless sob, "but I shall keep my fortune."

She was tired and exhausted, she said to herself. She would think no more, but would keep to the resolve she had made, and let fate do its worst. She lay down on the bed, and, worn out with the storm of emotion, fell into a deep, dreamless sleep.

The sun was high in the heavens when she awoke and found Florette standing by her with a tempting cup of tea. With that first waking moment came a rush of thought. What had happened? She had found a will and was no longer Lady Charnleigh. She gave a sigh of unutterable relief as she remembered that she had decided upon keeping that will a secret and remaining at Crown Leighton. She experienced a pain words cannot describe as she remembered again that she must give up her lover and live without his love. Of what use was the bright sunshine? Suns would rise and set, yet the day would never bring him to her again. An utter loathing came over her.

"Draw down those blinds," she said; "I detest the sunshine, and I should be glad if any one could stop the birds from singing."

Shining of sun and song of birds were never more to bring happiness to the girl who had sold her soul in order to keep the title of Countess of Charnleigh.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

A Great Puzzle to Tenderfeet Simply Explained.

One of the greatest mysteries to the minds of the tenderfoot among the cowboys of the western plains and the hunters of the Rockies is how the stubborn little bronco can be taught to stand for hours without being hitched and with the curb rein simply thrown over its head. A rider is never known to dismount without first having thrown the rein over the head of the horse, but what charm lies in this action is unknown to the easterner, and yet the explanation is a most simple one. The secret lies in the fact that the bronco has been broken to a bit with a "spade," a broad piece of metal so placed in the middle of the bit that when the curb rein is drawn the spade comes hard against the roof of the bronco's mouth. The rider teaches the bronco the uses of the spade in this fashion: Having dismounted, the breaker throws the curb rein over the bronco's head so that the rein lies partly on the ground. Then the breaker waits until the bronco moves. The movement is usually sudden and impetuous. The breaker, with equal suddenness places his foot hard upon the dragging end of the rein, and the spade is driven into the roof of the bronco's mouth. It is a stubborn beast that does not stop short when he feels the spade.

This discipline is repeated again and again, until the beast learns that to move while his rein hangs over his head and trails on the ground is to stir the spade into activity. When the breaker is sure that the bronco has learned his lesson it is pretty safe to turn the beast loose with the rein over his head.

The Russian Peasant.

A writer who has spent many years in Russia thus speaks of the Russian peasant: "Easily satisfied, self-indulgent, weak, he does not care to rise in the world. So long as he can exist and allow his wife and children to exist, and so long as he can obtain for cash or credit vodka enough to keep him going, he is content. He has no idea of any higher civilization, or any sort of home comfort. For the rest he loves his 'little father,' the Czar; fears God in a superstitious sort of way, and the Lieshui (wood spirits) and other supernatural objects of his national folk-lore in a very real way; observes the church festivals with bibulous piety; attends church at Easter; tolerates his wife, and knows absolutely nothing of the affairs either of this world or of the next. But education is making great strides, and the younger generation is growing up with advantages to which its forefathers were strangers. Light is stealing gradually over the land. Would that it might chase away the drink demon! With the vodka evil reduced to moderate dimensions, there would be a chance even for rural Russia."

The Police Force of Berlin.

The policemen of Berlin, Germany, cannot complain of their lot, for they only work during the day. After 10 p. m. Berlin is confided to a number of men who are called watchers of the night. These men wear a special uniform and carry a whistle and sword and patrol the city until 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning. Berlin is manned by 3,500 policemen entirely drawn from the ranks of non-commissioned officers, who must have spent at least nine years in the army before they are eligible for a post in the police force. The policemen live on excellent terms with the townspeople, and are both liked and respected. Berlin is divided into eighty-two police districts, each officered by a lieutenant of police, who has under him two sergeants, two telegraphists, two messengers, twelve policemen and two detectives, the latter carrying revolvers.

Saved from an Awful Death.

A party of cattlemen out on the Mojave Desert recently came across the trail of two men and two burros. The aimless, zigzag course of the trail showed that those who had made it were lost, and the cattlemen at once set out to find them. Late in the evening the cattlemen came upon a young man lying under a mesquite bush, beside a hole dug six feet deep in the sand, murmuring in delirium and at the point of death. He had been without water more than three days and had lain down to die. A mile further on they overtook an old man, who, delirious, was crawling on hands and knees toward a pool of brackish water, beside which stood the two burros. The two men were miners, who had lost their way a week before. Both men recovered after a few days of care at the ranch.

Religion to Encircle the Earth.

It is reported that a movement is on foot, with its headquarters at Pittsburg, to girdle the earth with a series of religious conventions on the 1900th anniversary of the Christian era. A great expedition will start out, numbering, it is thought, some 1,000 persons, who will go entirely around the world holding rousing religious services at every important stopping place. The first service will be held in San Francisco and the last in New York. Bombay, Jerusalem, Rome and London will be taken in on the way. The services are to be entirely nonsectarian. Several weeks will elapse between each service, and it is calculated that the expedition will take a year in making its rounds, and that it will cost each of the crusaders about $1,000.

MAP SHOWING MORE IMPORTANT RAILROADS WHICH WENT INTO RECEIVERS' HANDS DURING THE YEAR 1893.

VICTORIA'S STABLES.

Even Dukes Consider It an Honor to Rule Over Them.

In the garden of Buckingham Palace, London, one of the seats of Queen Victoria, are the royal stables, better known, perhaps, as "The Royal Mews." The head functionary of the Royal Mews is the master of the horse, always a man of wealth and rank as well as of great political influence. The salary is $10,000 a year, with the right to stable a certain number of horses in the Royal Mews. The office goes with the government and in 1889 was filled by no less a personage than the Duke of Portland.

The main entrance to the stable is through a handsome gateway that opens on Buckingham Palace road. A sentry from the Buckingham Palace Guard always stands outside. The courtyard of the stables is about 400 feet square, and here are quartered 110 magnificent horses, in connection with the care of which is required a small army of men. The floors of the stables are all sanded in patterns. In one part of the courtyard are the royal carriages, eight in number. The most magnificent of these, indeed the most magnificent in the world, is the "glass coach," built in 1761 at the cost of $45,000. The paintings on the panels are beautiful and so valuable that $25,000 was offered for one panel. The last time the Queen used this carriage was about twenty years ago, when she opened Parliament in state.

ENTRANCE TO THE QUEEN'S STABLES

NEW WAY TO CLEAN PIPES.

A Little Explosion Scientifically Planned Expels All the Nicotine.

An English novelty in the way of a pipe cleaner has just been sent to this country. A picture of it is shown here. Briefly, the patent consists of a hollow chamber and cover, the bottom being provided with a rubber washer that insures a good fit into the bowl of any sized pipe. The cleaner is charged with the heads of two or three fusees and another is fixed in the cover by its stem fitting into a tube made for the purpose. This one being ignited and the cover being replaced on the body of the cleaner—previously adjusted to the bowl of the pipe—and held down by means of a non-conducting knob, an explosion takes place as the several fusees ignite, which serves to drive out every atom of nicotine deposit through the stem, leaving the pipe absolutely clean and dry. The operation is perfectly cleanly and simple and has none of the dangers attendant upon the usual method of prodding and stringing

IT BLOWS THE NICOTINE OUT.

More Truth Than Poetry.

There is a whole lot more truth than we wish there was in the following extract from Arthur McEwen's syndicate letter to the Los Angeles Express:

"Judges are lawyers, and are prone in practice to regard the courts as being inventions for the use and benefit of their profession. It is judges who are principally to blame for the accumulation of unhung killers in the jail. When a lawyer takes the case of a murderer he sets about delaying the time of trial, knowing that the greater the space between the crime and the facing of a jury the better the prospect of acquittal. Delay is got by asking for continuances, which the judges grant. The alleged convenience of an attorney is considered paramount to the interest of justice. At best the law is sufficiently cumbrous and productive of delay, but the judges could expedite trials greatly if they were not disposed to accommodate the bar to a scandalous extent. As for the Bar Association, its function is to help keep up the fiction that lawyers as a body are public-spirited citizens. Its own members are about the only persons who profit financially by the security enjoyed by the residents of Murderers' Row."

STORY OF A COMPOSER.

"Faust" the Great Work of the Late Charles Francois Gounod.

Charles Francois Gounod, who died of paralysis at Paris, was one of the greatest composers of the century. He was born June 17, 1818, and showing in early life a fondness for music he entered the Conservatoire at Paris, where he studied the piano with Zimmerman and harmony and counterpoint with Reicha, Lesueur and Halevy. In 1837 he was awarded the second prize for composition, and two years afterward he carried off the first. His first great opera was "Sappho," which was produced in 1851. In 1859 "Faust" was brought forth in the Theater Lyrique, and it met with unparalleled success at once. Among other productions were "The Queen of Sheba," "The Two Queens of France," "Romeo and Juliet," and several hundred minor compositions.

CHARLES FRANCOIS GOUNOD.

Machines that Almost Think.

An automatic winder of cotton thread has been contrived, a mechanism which takes thread from eight large spools loosely wound and transfers it to eight small spools containing 200 yards; these small spools having received 200 yards exactly, stop revolving, a knife cuts a slot in the spool, the end of the thread is fastened in this; the machine then cuts the thread, off drops the spool into a trap, takes eight empty spools from as many hoppers, places them on the spindles and fills these as it did the previous set. The machine goes through the entire process in just forty-five seconds, making all changes automatically and with the greatest precision. In another machine the small spools are placed on an inclined track, and in rolling through the machine receives on each end a ticket cut from a long strip or roll of previously printed tickets placed on a stand above the machine. After the ticket is cut, paste is applied to the back and it is then pressed upon the spool, which has rolled into proper position to receive it—this at the rate of ninety spools per minute.—Sun.

What Could Have Ailed Her?

The human body is a very delicate and highly complex organization, and it is not surprising that it sometimes breaks down for no easily ascertainable reason. A farmer met the village doctor, according to an exchange, and said:

"If you happen to be out our way any time, I wish you'd stop and see my wife. She don't seem to be feeling very well."

"What ails her? What are some of her symptoms?"

"I dunno. This morning, after she'd milked the cows and fed the pigs and got breakfast for the men and washed the dishes and built a fire under the boiler in the washhouse and done a few little odd jobs round the house, she complained of feeling tired-like. I shouldn't wonder if her blood was poor, and I guess she needs a dose of medicine."

He Was Excused.

A bride tells of a difficult moment of her recent wedding trip. A few days of it were spent with an uncle of hers, very deaf and very pious. When they sat down to dinner on the night of their arrival, the uncle asked the groom to say grace. Much embarrassed, as he was unaccustomed to officiating in this way, he leaned forward, murmuring a request to be excused. Whereupon the uncle, watching him, only waited until his lips stopped moving to utter a sonorous "Amen!" in response. It is hardly necessary to say that the blessing for that meal went unsaid.

REPORTS of outrages committed by tramps in the rural districts show that these vagabonds are becoming desperate and dangerous. They take by force what is denied them, and, not satisfied with receiving food and shelter, they have begun ransacking houses for money and putting inmates to the torture in order to compel them to deliver up valuables. The farmers should protect themselves against these modern free companions by force and arms. They should provide themselves with firearms and use them on the slightest provocation. A tramp filled with bird shot is a tramp reformed, so far as housebreaking and violence are concerned. The peppering of a few vagabonds in every county will stop the lawlessness.

DEATH does not end all. Look at the large number of contested-will cases.—Texas Siftings.

A PIG-HEADED BRUTE.

The Black African Rhinoceros Is One of the Most Savage Animals.

If the entire world was searched over a more irascible, obstinate, reckless and pig-headed brute could not be found than the black rhinoceros of South Africa. It dreads nothing in creation, and will give battle to a lion, an elephant or a buffalo equally as in its mad rage it attacks a tree, a rock or whatever stands in its way. In its wanton display of strength the black rhinoceros tears up bushes and small trees and digs the earth with its fore feet, throwing the clay backward like a dog. In appearance the animal is clumsy, yet it can keep up with a swift horse for a short distance. All the mammoths of the wilds give it a wide berth.

Recently a tourist in Boerland was witness to a remarkable scene in the wilds. A wounded rhinoceros cow with her calf was keeping a magnificent lion at bay. There the two mighty beasts confronted each other, the lion intent on making a feast of the young calf, which clung closely to its mother and the rhinoceros with glaring eyes and steaming nostrils breathing defiance at the foe. The rhinoceros had been badly wounded, and in sympathy with her, the tourist sighted his rifle and sent a bullet through the lion's head.

KEPT THE LION AT BAY.

Cruel Women.

A contributor writes as follows to Anti-Vivisection, the organ of the anti-vivisectionists: Whether women know it or not it seems to me that on their account are perpetrated some of the most atrocious cruelties in the world. For them the glorious plumaged birds are snared and slain; for them the almost human seal is hunted and butchered—the mothers killed while seeking to protect their offspring with their lives, the offspring crying, it is said, like human babies, in fear, and the pangs of slow starvation. Perhaps to those women who do not read, these things are unknown—and I know that with others the passion to decorate themselves with feathers and make a show before their humbler neighbor with their costly sealskin coat—obtained at the price of more than mortal anguish—is such a ruling passion that they will tread on quivering breasts and palpitating hearts to obtain them.

Then look at the fashionable women who hunt and fish—not many, perhaps, in this country, thank heaven; and the women who join in chasing on horseback a poor little fox or hare with the ignoble desire to kill something, and ride in at the death with glee. Just so long as there are such women to become mothers of men just so long will there be murder and every other crime in the world committed by men.

Then as you go through the city streets you see my lady sitting placidly in her carriage drawn by horses frantic with pain, champing the bit till the foam flies against their breasts from torture of the check rein, the torture of flies from which they cannot protect themselves with their docked tail, in summer, or the chill of winter reaching to the marrow of their bones as the result of clipping.

Women could remedy all of these cruelties, in the course of time, if they willed so to do. It may not be known in this world what lies at their door, but if the Hindoo belief is true, that we shall change places with the animals in the next world, there will be a vast multitude of women, as well as men, wishing they had never been born.

Two Notable Women.

Mrs. Daubney, probably the oldest member of the Wesleyan denomination in the country, died on Tuesday, at Thornton, near Horncastle, in her 103d year. She had been identified with the Wesleyans ninety years. The death is also announced of Mrs. Elizabeth Oliveria Prescott, in her 92d year. She was the eldest granddaughter of Oliver Cromwell, of Chestnut Park, the last of the Protector's descendants to bear his name.—Westminster Gazette.

A BOSTON newspaper man speaks of Josiah Quincy as the best listener he ever knew, and says that he is not always giving interviews nor speechifying on all occasions, as some men do, but he "saws wood, and his woodpile is a big one."

IT is a little singular that the person born with a silver spoon in his mouth seldom makes a stir in the world.—Boston Gazette.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Many Odd, Curious, and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

STANDS to reason—the debater.—Philadelphia Record.

A BOX party—the Christmas shopper.—Philadelphia Record.

LUMBERMEN are not necessarily loggerheads.—Lowell Courier.

THE faro-dealer admits raw material free.—Galveston News.

A GROSS-OUTRAGE—finding it a few packages short.—Florida Times.

TALK about women being flighty! Look at bank cashiers.—Texas Siftings.

AN empty stocking can be pronounced a false yarn.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NOT even a canal horse would ever get ahead if he didn't have a pull.—Boston Transcript.

IT is a poor cordage trust that has not more than one string to its bow.—Washington Star.

A MAN can talk himself out of a job easier than he can talk himself into one.—Atchison Globe.

THE blossom has left the buttonhole these influenza days and settled on the nose.—Omaha World.

WHEN the Hawaiian patriots say they "have the spirit of '76" that takes in about all of them.—Plain Dealer.

JAGSON says you can't blame a theatrical company for being spiritless when the ghost won't walk.—Elmira Gazette.

STRONG—Would you call Supple's wife handsome? Weak—Yes—if I was talking to Supple.—Raymond's Monthly.

THE money a man tucks away in his "inside pocket" may be looked upon as a vested security.—Yonkers Statesman.

WHEN you speak to a youth about book learning these days he thinks you are just in from the race-track.—Dallas News.

BLOBBS—Why do you call your girl a silent belle? Slobbs—Because I kissed her and she never tolled.—Philadelphia Record.

THE boiler-maker, with oratorial tendencies ought to have little trouble in riveting the attention of his hearers.—Buffalo Courier.

IT argues no lack of ability in a boy that he doesn't make an opening for himself by going skating on too thin ice.—Philadelphia Times.

THE iron founder may be a large-proportioned man, but he never yet, in his business, succeeded in casting a shadow.—Yonkers Statesman.

"YOUR neighbor appears to have failed a great many times." "Just twenty-four times. The next will be his silver bankruptcy."—Fliegende Blaetter.

BRIDEGROOM (at the end of the wedding)—"Well, I am glad it is all over." Married Friend—"All over? Great Scott, man! You have only just commenced."—Puck.

MISS BACON—"On the ranch we girls ride the horse bare-backed." Mr. Knickerbocker (severely)—"I should think the sun would blister you terribly."—Scribner's.

MAY—"What made you tell that horrid Miss Stumble that she danced like an angel?" Arthur—"Because I thought they never danced, and neither will she."—Tid-Bits.

"WHAT is your objection to private theatricals?" he asked of the sour-faced man. "The publicity that is invariably attached to them," was the reply.—Washington Star.

SHE—"I wonder if there will be anything to talk about in the next world!" He—"Oh, yes. You know there is always something to say on the other side."—Boston Transcript.

VISITOR—"And which is the older, Tommy, you or Willie?" Willie—"We're tie." Visitor—(mystified)—"What do you mean by tie?" Tommy—"We're twins."—Philadelphia Record.

LIFE is full of disappointments. Many a girl who expects to marry and settle down finds she has to settle way up on the top floor of a ten-story tenement house.—Elmira Gazette.

"CAN I change my occupation under the terms of this insurance policy?" "What do you wish to be?" "A foot-ball player." "No." "Can I become a Brazilian insurgent?" "Yes."—Life.

PROPRIETOR—"What's the row at that bargain counter?" Floor-walker—"No row at all. A party of college girls are among the crowd, and are working to the front by a flying wedge."—Puck.

VEXED WIFE—"There is no calamity that can befall a woman that I have not suffered." Amiable Husband—"Wrong, my dear; now, you have never been a widow." Vexed Wife—"I said calamity, sir!"—Brooklyn Life.

LADY—"There were chickens in those eggs you sold me yesterday. Are you going to make me pay for them?" "No, ma'am, as you didn't order spring chickens, we'll just charge 'em to you as eggs."—Raymond's Monthly.

OVERGROWN COLORED BOY—"Say, boss, don't youh wanter boy fer to learn to be a jock?" Horse-owner—"By the time you've learned to ride you'll be too heavy." Boy—"Den you kin bet on de odder horse, an' you'll have a shuah thing, boss."—Good News.

THOMAS P. EGAN, of Cincinnati, who will go to Antwerp in May as a representative of the United States at the World's Fair to be held there, is a millionaire who began his career in business on a salary of $2 a week. He was born in Ireland, educated in Canada, learned his trade in Ohio and married a German clergyman's daughter in Ravenna. He spends his evenings at home, where, he says, every man who has a family should be found.

A wicket man is annoying Dr. Mary Walker. Shoo him away, Dr. Mary!

THE FAIR.

DON'T READ THIS, IF YOU DON'T WANT BARGAINS.

Everyone should see the large stock of

HOLIDAY GOODS

at the

2 JOHNS 2

Which will be sold this year at about cost, owing to the hard times.

Yours,

J. C. HENRY.

2 JOHNS 2

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....JANUARY 18, 1894.

THE great Star piano factory at Richmond, Indiana, burned Jan. 10. Loss $250,000, with $40,000 insurance.

CONGRESS is wrestling with the new tariff bill. It will be taken up a section at a time and short speeches made. It will probably be voted on in the House in about two weeks.

THE COURIER would be glad to see either Col. McDonald, Dr. Teal or Mr. Spencer get the state pension agency. We believe they deserve it and it ought to come to this district.

SCOTT HARRISON, brother of Ex president Harrison, is not likely to be confirmed, as customs officer at Kansas City. Claim he voted both times for Ben., though otherwise a democrat.

NATIONAL republican committee met last week. They favor admitting all the territories now, especially Utah, which they now think will be republican. Heretofore they have opposed Utah's admission.

AWFUL cabbage story comes up from Munce. Claimed they they found several gold pieces in a head of cabbage. We hope this will not cause a rise in the already high price of that article—cabbage we mean.

GOV. WAITE, of Colorado, sent a message to his legislature the other day, asking them to make a law to receive Mexican silver dollars and make them legal tender in the state. The members laughed his plan to scorn.

CHARLES L. CENTLIVER, the founder of the great Centliver brewing business at Ft. Wayne, died suddenly at his home there last Saturday morning. Dr. E. J. McOscar, a DeKalb boy, was his attending physician. Mr. Centliver was born in Alsace, now a province of Germany.

NEW JERSEY legislature is getting "same like Kansas." They are running a double senate, democratic and republican, as they are a tie, and each wants to elect a U. S. senator. Take the COURIER's plan and elect senators by a vote of the people. That will end such expensive nonsense.

UNIONS of churches are not common, but the Baptist and Christian denominations are talking of doing this very strange thing. It may not come soon, but there is a possibility for future union. There is not so very much difference in doctrines and the united church would probably take the name of "Christians."

W. P. BIDWELL, editor of the A. P. A. paper at Ft. Wayne, the "American Eagle," has been called before court to answer to a charge of criminal libel. His paper had stated that a young lady in the Catholic Orphan Asylum there had been confined in a dungeon, and intimated that a priest had something to do with it. The managers of the asylum say the story is a lie, and was circulated by the A. P. A. folks, to create opinion against Catholics. They have no dungeon. A civil suit will also be brought, asking $10,000 damages.

JANUARY SLAUGHTERING SALE.

ONE FOURTH OFF ON EACH PURCHASE

Commencing Monday, Jan. 1st, and continuing for Thirty Days.

JUST THINK OF IT! 25 Cents on each and every dollar you spend at my store during this sale. Nothing reserved. Everything must go. Remember, the Stock is all New and Fresh, our Assortment Greater than any House in the County. This is a Bona Fide Sale, all in good faith. We only ask an inspection, which will prove itself. Our goods are all marked in PLAIN FIGURES. You can easily figure it out yourself. Just 25 cents off on each dollar, no matter how large or small your purchase is. You will be allowed one-fourth off. Think of the saving this will be. It's less than the first cost of the goods. But no matter where the loss comes from, so it doesn't come out of the customer. This sale includes the entire stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing, Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods of every description. Remember, One-Fourth Off During January.

G. H. YESBERA,

THE LEADING CLOTHIER & GENTS' FURNISHER.

P. S.---Merchant Tailoring not included in the above, but will allow an extraordinary reduction on all Tailor-Made Goods. G. H. YESBERA, The Merchant Tailor.

Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of the Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1894, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, Jackson, Michigan.

The Transfer Books will close on January 12 and remain closed until January 25.

R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio. MATHENY & GERKE, Auburn, Ind.

OLD ELK BOURBON & PURE RYE

Shipped pure and unadulterated direct from the distillery. Pronounced a pure and wholesome tonic-stimulant by the medical fraternity everywhere. Gives life, strength and happiness to the weak, sick, aged and infirm.

If you cannot procure it of your druggist or liquor dealers, upon receipt of $1.50 we will express prepaid to any address a full quart sample bottle of Old Elk Rye or Bourbon.

STOLL, VANNATTA & CO., DISTILLERS, Lexington, Ky.

RESTORED MANHOOD,

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

Sold by Matheny & Gerke, Auburn.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

Notice to Non Residents

State of Indiana, DeKalb County. } SS

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term, 1894. John Davis is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, on notes, by The Auburn Foundry and Machine Works, and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridic l day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 11th day of January, 1894.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

J. W. Baxter and C. M. Brown, Attorneys.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Rosa Saxton is plaintiff, and The Auburn District Fair, H. Eugene Trout, D. J. Swartz, F. J. Yesbera, David A. Sebring, Jacob B. Casebeer, Timothy J. Mahoney, Hugh N. Culbertson, Willis B. Brown, George L. Lanning, John L. Davis, Frank E. Davenport assignee of John L. Davis, Sherman Hollister, Christopher C. Shaffer, Sylvester Rogers and John E. Walters are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three thousand seven hundred and ninety-five dollars and sixteen cents, with interest on said decree and cost, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, February 10, 1894,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the door of the court house of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following real estate, to wit:

Forty (40) acres of land off of the north end of the west half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section twenty-eight (28) township thirty-four (34) north of range thirteen (13) east, and also a strip of land fifty-three (53) feet wide off of the west side of that part of said west half of said southwest quarter (¼) lying south of said forty acres, all situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws

GEORGE C. RALSTON, Sheriff of DeKalb County, by R. Blum, Dep.

Auburn, Indiana, January 15, A. D. 1894.

C. F. Emannel, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

WONDERFUL CURES —BY— DR. TOWNSEND.

FREE CONSULTATION.

Dr. I. S. Townsend,

Formerly of the New York Polyclinic, and Lecturer in Medical College, Cincinnati, Ohio, will make the following visits:

Butler, Aldrich House, Monday, Jan. 22, and Monday, Feb. 19.

Kendallville, Bowen House, Tuesday, Jan. 23, and Tuesday, Feb. 20.

Garrett, Ross House, Thursday, Jan. 25, and Thursday, Feb. 22.

Angola, Hendry House, Friday afternoon, Jan. 26, and Saturday, Jan. 27; Friday afternoon, Feb. 23, and Saturday, Feb. 24.

DR. I. S. TOWNSEND devotes his entire attention to diseases of the Eye, Ear, Throat, Lungs, and to all chronic, Private and Nervous Diseases and Deformities, as Granulated Lids, Cross Eyes, Deafness, Discharge at the Ears, Bronchitis, Chronic Cough, Goitre, (big neck) Fever Sores and Ulcers Brights Disease Rheumatism, all Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Heart, Stomach and Nervous Diseases: Chorea, (St. Vitus Dance) Epilepsy (Fits), General Debility, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, and all diseases due to bad blood.

Epilepsy, or Fits, positively cured by a New Never failing Remedy. also Rectal Diseases. Dr. Townsend makes a specialty of all forms of Rectal Diseases. Piles—Internal and External Itching and Bleeding, Rectal Ulcers, Fissures, Fistula—which are often taken for Nervous and Lung Diseases, all cured if taken in time. Remember I cure all forms of Piles without pain, interruption or detention from business, and without the use of Knife, Caustic, Ligature or Injection. Come and be convinced. Dr. T. has made these diseases an exclusive specialty for years.

Small Tumors, Cancers, Warts, Moles, Etc., removed without acids, knife, pain or scar. New method. It is not boasting when we can truthfully say we can remove Superfluous Hair Freckles, Pimples, Redness in the Face, Birth Marks, and Small Pox Marks.

Catarrh. New Home Treatment, with apparatus invented by the Dr. Examine it. Unsurpassed. Cheap.

Guarantee to cure every case of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Piles, Tape Worm and Stricture, Rupture or Hernia.

☞ I will give special attention to difficult cases and to cases other physicians have failed to cure. ☜

Persons applying for treatment will please bring from two to four ounces of urine for analysis.

Those unable to see the Doctor, address Box 1408, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Reference by permission to following Banks outside of Cincinnati, where the doctor has visited for nine years: Lima National Bank, Lima, Ohio, President, B. C. Faurot; Cashier, F. L. Langan; City Bank, President, T. T. Mitchell; Cashier, E. B. Mitchell; Foster & Co., Bankers, Fostoria, Ohio, Cashier, J. E. Wilkison; Findlay, O., First National Bank, President, E. P. Jones; Cashier, Chas. E. Niles; Kenton Nat onal Bank, Asher Letson, President; H. L. Rankle, Cashier.

Those not able to see the Doctor at Hotel can treat by correspondence by addressing, I. S. TOWNSEND, M. D., Cincinnati, Ohio, Box 1408.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Winfield Nelson, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WILLIAM SEELY, Administrator.

Jan. 15, 1894.

Receiver's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, receiver of the Eagle Iron Works, a corporation, will on the premises of said corporation at Auburn Junction, in DeKalb County, in the State of Indiana, on

Friday, February 9, 1894,

At the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidders the entire plant of said corporation, consisting of the real estate described and bounded by a line as follows:

Commencing five (5) chains and forty-eight (48) links west of a point on the west side of the Detroit, Eel River Railroad right of way on the south side of the township line between sections six (6) of township number thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east in DeKalb county, Indiana, and section thirty-one (31) in township number thirty-four (34) north of said range county and state, and extending from thence south about three hundred and fifty (35) feet, or until it strikes the right of way of said railroad thence running northeast along said right of way two hundred and forty six (246) feet thence northwest about one hundred and ninety-eight (198) feet to said township line, and thence west along said township line one hundred and ten (110) feet to the place of beginning.

Also the tangible personal property of said corporation, consisting of machinery, tools, patterns, iron, stoves, manufactured goods, castings and material for carrying on the business of a foundry and machine shop.

On sale of personal property will be made in bulk or in parcels as the receiver may determine on date of sale and upon the following terms:

One-third (⅓) cash on date of sale, one-third (⅓) in three months, and one third (⅓) in six months from the date of such sale, deferred payments to be evidenced by the notes of the purchaser, to bear interest at six per cent. without relief from valuation and appraisement laws and with attorneys' fees, and as to the real estate, to be secured by mortgage on the premises sold, as to the personal property, to be secured to the satisfaction of the receiver, provided that each purchaser may at his option pay the entire amount of his purchase in cash.

—SAMUEL D. HANNA, RECEIVER.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 127. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recomendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Mrs. Harmon, of Ohio, is visiting Mrs. A. R. Stevens.

Samuel Miller, of Angola, is lying very ill at his home.

Mrs. Ed Ettinger and baby, of Angola, came down Tuesday for a visit under the parental roof.

Mrs. Ella Reed is not as well as she has been. She was taken suddenly Saturday with a hard chill.

Mrs. Husselman came over from Auburn Monday to see her sister, Mrs. Reed, returning home Tuesday.

Isaac Speer has been under the weather to such an extent as to be unable to be at his business rooms for about a month.

The meetings at the Methodist church still continue, with good houses and much interest. Services are held every afternoon and evening.

Mrs. R. H. Murch, of Butler, was in our town Tuesday. She came to see her old friend and schoolmate, Mrs. C. R. Reed, who is critically ill.

The Presbyterian social meets Friday of this week at the home of Mrs. Ally Johnson. The members are engaged in the laudable work of making quilts, etc., for the poor.

Miss Effie Locke has been making a delightful visit in Lima. Her aunt, Mrs. Donza, gave a party in her honor. On her return, accompanied by her escort, she visited her brother, Del. Locke, and his wife at the New Burt hotel at Decatur.

Mr. and Mrs. Fausett have been visiting in the northern part of Michigan for several weeks past. Mr Fausett has a brother there. They intend visiting Mrs. Fausett's relatives before they return, also the Lieb family, who formerly resided in Waterloo.

Mrs. Ada Long made farewell calls upon her friends here last week Tuesday. Wednesday morning she went to Fort Wayne, whence she and her sister, Mrs. Celia Fisher, took their departure for California. Mr. and Mrs. Benajah Long have heard from them twice since they were enroute.

Tuesday evening the L M. C. met at the home of Mrs. Beidler. The exercises consisted of Responses—subject, Washington; lesson for the evening, National Development, leader, Miss Mattson; medley poem, Mrs. Keep; character study from fiction, Cooper's Natty Bumpo, Mrs. Boozer; table talk, conducted by Mrs. Winslow, Work for Women.

GARRETT.

The shops were closed Friday.

Geo. Metzger was at Walkerton Monday.

Mrs. J. J. Kesselmeyer was at Chicago last week.

Sam Bevier was at Auburn Junction Saturday.

Edward Orr, of Corunna, was in the city Friday.

Mrs. John Robbins, of Auburn, was in town Monday.

George Hurni spent Sunday with his parents at Auburn.

Attorney R. Dexter Tefft, of Auburn, was in the city Friday.

Simon Dolan, of East St. Louis, Mo., visited his parents here this week.

A blind man has been in this city selling wire puzzles which he made himself.

John McNabb, of Columbia City, was the guest of his brother Warren over Sunday.

Mrs. Sarah Bovee, who has been on the sick list for the past month, is improving.

Wm. Leedy, solicitor and collector of the Fort Wayne Journal, was in the city Monday.

Ed. Hilliard and Locke Van Lear transacted business at the countyseat Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Orr returned Friday after a week's visit with relatives at Kendallville.

The revenue collector was in the city one day last week. We understand that he found the cigar factories all o. k.

Mrs. Henry Shelter returned this week from Galion, Ohio, where she has been visiting her daughter for the past month.

The ladies of the Episcopal church will give a box social at their parish house Friday evening. The public is cordially invited.

Elmer Blue, of this city and a gentleman named Beyers, from Defiance, gave a sparring exhibition at North Baltimore, Ohio, last evening. A number of people from here attended.

E. B. Thumms has been appointed postmaster here and will take the office in a short time. A better appointment could not have been made, as he is well suited to the position. Here's success to him.

Abrams & Dawson have opened a cigar factory over P. K. David & Son's grocery. They have employed a Mr. Mahoney to work for them and expect to manufacture none but first class goods. We wish the new firm much success.

A report reached here that express train No. 14 almost met with a bad wreck at Bremen, Ind., Sunday evening. Some lawless people of that village had laid a large piece of timber across the track, with the expectation of derailing the train. The engineer saw the obstacle and stopped the train just in time to prevent a bad accident.

The ladies of the O. R. C. gave a burlesque initiation at the hall last Thursday. It was called the "Oh, Why" degree and every gentleman in attendance was compelled to "ride the goat." A very fine supper was also given and those who were present report a very pleasant time. They will produce the entertainment again in the near future, we understand.

CONCORD.

Mrs. Wayne Scott has been very sick again.

Ben Wasson reports the fattest cow bought of G. W. Draggoo.

Ora Hatch and James Smith are furnishing ties for the B. & O.

Mrs. Hannah Johnson is slowly recovering from her recent sickness.

It looks passing strange to see so much plowing done in the winter season.

Several attended the funeral of Mel Davis last Monday at Grove Bethel.

Mrs. Wm. Shutt's attending physician reports her seriously injured from her fall.

Abe Culbertson was taken with the grip while attending church last Sunday.

Mrs. P. K. Griner returned to her home in Vermontville, Michigan, Thursday.

Several good speakers will be in attendance at the Jenkins school house on the evening of Jan 20.

A goodly number of our young people attended the protracted meeting at Rehobeth Sunday evening.

Mattie Shearer was home from Auburn Sunday, and of course her sweet William freighted her back to Auburn.

M. Andress and family and F. M. Monroe and family, of St. Joe, were the guests of their mother, Mrs. H. Milton, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Swineford were the guests of Mr. Swineford's parents in St. Joe last Sunday. Mrs. S. has very poor health.

Thursday last when Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Shurtz were absent a thief entered their residence by crawling through the pantry window and relieved Mr. S. of his best suit and revolver. Later the section men found the revolver on the railroad where it was supposed to have been dropped by the thief, and Mr. S. recovered it.

Wednesday last we called on Mrs. John Hamilton and found her cheerful yet very helpless from her paralytic stroke. She now has an attack of sciatic rheumatism in her right limb, but notwithstanding all is very fortunate in having her only son so large and strong he can lift his mother and place her in any position she dictates. We shall not forget the praise due their only daughter, Mollie, who has taken up her mother's work although so young.

SUMMIT.

Mrs. J Barker has been very sick, but is better at this writing.

Two neighbors quarreled over a game of cards. When the quarrel was over one said "I wouldn't have this get out for anything." We withhold the names.

N. Elliott has been on the sick list the past week.

John Moore, of Hudson, was on our streets last Thursday.

M. P. Barker went to Waterloo last Wednesday on business.

A. McDowell and family, of Hudson, were in town last Friday.

Mike Miller, of Auburn, made our town a short call last Thursday.

Geo. Erwin and family visited Thos. Hammon and wife last Sunday.

Mrs. Marker, of Steubenville, visited Mrs. Betsy Yoethers last Saturday.

Henry Lawson and wife were guests in the family of A. A. Forney last Sunday.

Mrs. Kate Hilt was called to the bed side of her aunt, Mrs. Sawvel, last Friday.

Mrs. Geo. Bushong has been quite sick the past few weeks, and is no better at this writing.

Aunt Betsy Yoethers has been having the grip the past two weeks, but is slowly improving.

Miss Margaret Mortorff went up to Jennings, Mich., last Thursday to make an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Ida Harper.

BUTLER.

Mrs. John I. Champion is reported very poorly again.

Grip continues to claim about its usual number of victims.

Henry Aldrich is reported quite ill and confined to his home.

J A Campbell is spending a few involuntary days at Auburn as a witness in the Jennings suit.

Lincoln Evertts has continued to grow worse, and we believe he has now been removed to the hospital.

Some miscreant burned the Deeters log house, situated three miles west of Butler, last Sunday night.

John Snyder, of Pleasant Lake was calling on Butler friends last week. His step mother, Catharine Rogers, is very poorly.

The M. E. friends continue their revival efforts with fair success. The attendance is large and the interest manifestly on the increase.

The lecture delivered last Saturday night at the Lutheran church, under the auspices of the Butler Schools, by Arnold Tompkins of the Chicago University was listened to by a crowded house with the deepest interest. It was surely one of the finest efforts our people have had an opportunity to hear in a long time.

Miss Sadie Hamilton, sister of Mrs. Romain Campbell, visited with her over Sabbath, also her two aunts, Mrs. Button and Mrs. Sellers, of Angola, came down and helped to fill out the company. Mrs. Sellers, who lives about five miles north of Angola and is about 45 years old, had never ridden upon the cars before, though living almost in sight of them about half her lifetime.

EAST DEKALB COUNTY.

King Rex is at home.

Mrs. Milo Rex is quite ill.

Lee Reinhart is entertaining the grip.

Miss Letitia Scoville has returned to Hicksville.

Mrs. Dickerhoof returned to her home in Ohio last week.

Miss Mary Mann is visiting Mrs. Charlie Rempis, of Waterloo.

Stewart Wartenbee's youngest son is visiting under the parental roof.

Clyde Freeburn, from Nebraska, is at his grand-parents', Wm. R. Wilson's.

Mrs. Haight, Mr. and Mrs. Tarney and others, of Newville, are on the sick list.

Miss Carrie Zimmer, of South Scott, was the guest of Mrs. Cam. Hadsell Sunday.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Every Man whose watch has been rung out of the bow (ing), by a pickpocket,

Every Man whose watch has been damaged by dropping out of the bow, and

Every Man of sense who merely compares the old pull-out bow and the new

Non-pull-out

will exclaim: "Ought to have been made long ago!"

It can't be twisted off the case. Can only be had with Jas. Boss Filled and other cases stamped with this trade mark——

Send for a watch case opener (free).

Keystone Watch Case Co., Philadelphia.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 19, 1893.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.		Exp'ss		Fre'gt
Fort Wayne,...dp	11 45	am	4 45	pm	6 40	am
New Era.....	12 14	pm	5 14		7 27
Auburn Junc.....	12 25		5 26		7 16
Auburn.....	12 29		5 30		8 37
Waterloo.....	12 43		5 41		9 04
Summit.....	12 56		5 53		9 45
Steubenville.....	12 59		5 57		.....
Pleasant Lake...	1 05		6 03		10 12
Angola.....	1 14		6 14		10 50
Jackson.....	3 30		8 35		4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight		Exp'ess		Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 55	am	11 20	am	6 30	am
Angola.....	12 25	pm	3 08	pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake...	1 05		3 20		9 01
Steubenville.....	.....		3 27		9 07
Summit.....	1 25		3 32		9 11
Waterloo.....	2 30		3 00		9 24
Auburn.....	3 11		3 11		9 34
Auburn Junc...	3 28		3 14		9 38
New Era.....	4 05		3 24		9 50
Fort Wayne...	5 25		3 55		10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 19, 1893.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
	a m	p m	a m	p m
Bellaire.....lv	*7.28	*11.47	9.51	*3.46	.....
Zanesville.....	9.58	2.11	12.29	4.26	6.25
		a m	p m	p m	a m
Newark.....ar	10.45	2.50	1.12	7.05	7.15
	p m
Columbus.....ar	12.05	3.40	2.18	8.15	8.25
			a m
Mansfield.....lv	12.40	.....	.....	9.00	10.22
Deshler.....	3.20	5.32	10.05	a m 12.02	.....
Defiance.....	4.05	6.15	11.00	1.10	.....
		7.12	p m 12.25	a m 2.12	.....
Auburn Jc.....
Chicago.....ar	10.08	11.55	6.40	7.20	.....
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
	a m	p m	a m	p m	p m
Chicago.....lv	*10.15	*3.00	*4.45	.....	*6.25
	p m		p m	a m
Auburn Jc.....	8.10	7.55	12.45	6.17	11.20
					a m
Defiance.....	4.05	8.55	1.40	7.45	12.30
Deshler.....	4.46	9.40	2.30	8.45	1.20
Mansfield.....	7.47	.....	.....	8.45	4.10
		a m	a m
Newark.....ar	9.25	.....	.....	10.55	5.49
			p m	p m
Columbus.....	.....	.....	11.15	12.05	8.25
			a m
Zanesville.....lv	10.20	.....	12.56	11.30	6.41
	a m
Bellaire.....ar	12.50	.....	3.25	2.40	9.02
(EASTERN TIME)
Wheeling.....ar	2.30	.....	5.00	4.20	10.40
		p m			p m
Pittsburg.....	.....	4.15	7.50	.....	4.15
	p m	p m		a m
Washington D.C	2.05	3.25	.....	5.30	.....
Baltimore.....	3.10	4.25	.....	6.40	.....
Philadelphia.....	6.05	6.55	.....	9.25	.....
				p m
New York.....	8.25	9.30	.....	12.10	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. Sleeping and dining cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't. G. P. Ag't. Chicago. City Office, Auburn, Ind.

A GREAT REDUCTION!

In order to reduce our Stock, we will give from now until February 1, '94, TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT OFF in Cash on every article purchased during the time mentioned above. Come early and be convinced.

Boston One Price Clothing Store.

BISHOP & LACKEY.

Scattered to the Four Winds.

[All Idea of Profit.]

A JANUARY EPISODE.

A lady took time to travel down our way to see if we really meant what we said.

"What's the price of that muff?"

"One ninety-nine."

"That cloak?"

"Four ninety-nine."

She figured a moment after the manner so delightfully feminine and then said, "I'll take 'em both."

She told her friends afterwards, and they told us, that it was the biggest day's saving she ever made in her life.

Your time next.

We will commence at once, right now, to create an immense stir among all cloaks in our stock, which can only be done by marking them at prices low enough. We will offer them at one-half off the former price. Do you realize what this means?

$10 buys a garment worth $20;
7 buys a garment worth 14;
5 buys a garment worth 10;

And so on through the entire stock. We also place on sale this week a line of white quilts at attractive prices. Strictly one price and that the lowest.

Bishop & Lackey,

Shaffer Block. AUBURN, IND.

SEE

D. A. HODGE

For the Holiday Trade,

We have on display the most complete line of

WATCHES, DIAMONDS & JEWELRY

In the City. Handsome Novelties in

SILVERWARE.

Inspect our line before purchasing! - - -

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Have You Tried BRINK'S Thill Coupling? If not! Send to Holcomb & Co., Bloomville, O., and get a Sample pair, only 25 cents. Money returned if not satisfactory.

Dr. F. M. Hines, Physician and SURGEON.

Office over J. C. HENRY'S Grocery, in the Ford Block,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ RESIDENCE, at the Samuel Swihart residence on South Jackson St. near the Church Furniture factory, and just across west from the German Methodist church. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

P. P. P. C.

Positive Painless Pile Cure.

The most complete, practicable and painless method of treating all curable diseases of the rectum ever placed before the public. Piles are permanently cured in a few weeks by the use of this treatment. Fissure, Catarrh, Inflammation Ulceration, Prolapsus, Constipation, Bleeding, Blind and ITCHING PILES are cured as if by magic. I claim the most complete, success full, simple and original common sense method ever offered to the suffering public. Your correspondence solicited.

S. U. TARNEY
Sole Proprietor and Manufacturer
Auburn, Ind.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.--
--$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,

REPAIRS

All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and

BUILDS FOR THE TRADE:

Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work

Warranted First-Class in All Respects.

☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Walter Penfield returned to school at Lima last Tuesday.

A. Lewis has been quite sick for several days, but is now better.

Read the fine sermon by Rev. Henry Johnson, that we publish to day.

Miss Marie Young, who has been sick a week or more, is convalescent.

Mrs. Wm. Waisworth, east of town, has been quite sickk, but is improving.

Wrestling, boxing and other athletic sports at Armory Hall Saturday evening.

Oh, the roads! the roads! In the language of the street, "their name is mud."

John Turner has moved here from Hudson, and will hereafter make his home at Auburn.

The lost sign of Geo. Lee, the Chinaman, is said to be doing duty on a hen coop in Waterloo.

J. W. Smith, one of our young friends from Wilmington, transacted business in town last Thursday.

The social at Lutheran church was well attended last Saturday eve, and all were pleasantly entertained.

Some boys of Union Chapel should remember that a lot of Fairfield boys were fined for disturbing meeting.

Harry Stafford is at home for a time, having been telegraph operator for some time at Alida, on the B. & O.

Miss Bertha Yates, of Reading, is here and will remain, a guest of her sister, Mrs. Geo. Lanning, till spring.

Chester Hodge and Miss Kittie McQuilkin are to be married to-day. The COURIER sends congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Shull entertained very pleasantly a small whist party at their residence last Thursday evening.

Albert Robbins has about recovered from the bite Sheriff Ralston's dog gave him, but it was a pretty bad thing for a time.

Marshal Baker was kept busy the first of the week cleaning the crossings. The soft weather always brings that kind of work.

Don't let children suffer with croup when you can get such large bottles of Brant's Balsam for 25 and 50 cents at F. E. Davenport's.

Hon. M. F. Franks was here Tuesday to make arrangements for the sale of Mrs. Griffith's personal property, which takes place Jan. 27.

Some lady who got off at Auburn from the south bound Lake Shore train Christmas forenoon, lost a purse on that train. She can hear of it by calling at this office.

NOTICE:—My wife, Ella R. Waters, has voluntarily left my bed and board and I hereby notify all persons not to give her credit on my account. Wm. A. Waters.

Charles Hornberger, of Elkhart, was down here for a day or two, the last of the week. There is some attraction here besides the sale of their electrical apparatus.

Mel. Davis, of south Jackson, died last Saturday and was buried Monday. It was but a short time ago that his wife died. We are told they leave several helpless children.

W. H. Kiblinger has been confined to his room for several days, but is able to sit up and is improving. We hope it is nothing serious, and that he will soon be able to be out again.

Miss Laura McManis, the lady whistler who was here a year or so ago, gave a series of entertainments in the Seventh Presbyterian church at Indianapolis—her home city—last week.

Mrs. Sarah Griffith will have a sale of her personal property at the old Nelson Griffith residence a mile southwest of Corunna, on Saturday, Jan. 27, at 10 a. m. Some desirable property will be disposed of.

The Y. P. S. C., the Presbyterian church will entertain an evening social at the home of Mrs. A. J. Ralston on Friday evening of this week, Jan. 19. Everybody come and have a social time. Mite 10 cents.

FOR SALE:—Will sell at a reduced figure, for the want of room, three or four of my High Bred Holstein-Friesian Heifers, one, and two years old, or will trade for fresh cows. A. G. Lodewick, Auburn, Ind. 3-4

Green's restaurant at the south end was burglarized again Monday evening, and the thieves got a lot of plunder. It was pretty well settled who got the goods the other time, and it would be well to watch the parties.

Mr. Sodtman of Jackson, was here Monday. He reports Henry Lindorffer in very poor health. Mr. Sodtman is the man who did the stonework on the two Fairfield bridges last summer that were so favorably spoken of.

No bicycle has ever been accorded a greater reception all over the country than has the Cleveland since its first introduction. The will be nothing better than a '94 Cleveland. Auburn Cyclery opens for business Feb. 1.

Uncle Geo. Weeks had a serious fall on the sidewalk on South Cedar street last Friday on his way home. He was seen by W. H. McIntosh, who tried to help him up, but he was obliged to get help to get him home. He is now able to be out again.

Physicians state that many cases supposed to be female disease are in reality a derangement of the nervous system; quickly relieved and cured by Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, the great new discovery for nervous troubles. $1 of F. E. Davenport.

The League "Chainless" Ladies' Safety is the coming wheel for the fair sex. This wheel made many friends and was the center of attraction at the National Cycle exhibit in New York. It will be ready for market about March 1, at which time it may be seen at the "Auburn Cyclery."

James H. Gordon and his wife, formerly Mrs. Lizzie Kelley, and the children, Pearl Kelley and Grace Gordon, started on their westward trip Tuesday noon over the Lake Shore. They leave many friends who regret to see them go But their home calls them. Their future address will be Omaha, where many good wishes follow them.

Hood's calendar for 1894 is out, and like its predecessors, will be welcome in any home which it enters. A happier combination of calendar, of beauty and utility, of art and advertising, has seldom been produced. To be appreciated it must be seen, the beautiful head of a girl, just "Sweet Sixteen," being lithographed in many delicate colors, while the pad in plain figures is printed in harmonious and pleasing colors. Get a copy of your druggist or send six cents in stamps for one and ten cents for two copies to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell Mass., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Read our announcements of socials, clubs, etc.

J. A. Sawyer is visiting at Evansport, Defiance Co., Onio.

The editor of the Clipper, Hank Little, is on another ten days' drunk.

Dr. Mott's Nervetine Pills are guaranteed and sold by Matheny & Gerke. 43tf

P. J. Lockwood at Washington, sends word they have a fine boy baby, but that Mrs. L. is dangerously ill.

The book that is richest in humor of any now published—Samantha Allen at the fair, M. B. Willis, agent.

Bread, cakes, pies, etc., etc., together with all kinds of candies, always new and fresh, at the Union Bakery. 2-4

The Union Bakery for fresh bread and all baked goods, candies, etc., as well as the best canned fruits etc. Call there. 4

Our old friend J. J. Becher sent in his subscription last week by C. C. Kryder, who reports Mr. B. and wife in fair health.

L. T. Rice's youngest girl has been sick with some throat trouble. Dr. Sebring is treating her and she is recovering.

HOUSE TO RENT:—A desirable dwelling in good location Call at the residence on North VanBuren St., second north of M. E. church. Mrs. J. J. Zent. 2tf

D. D. Snyder, of Danville, Ill., was here yesterday. He brings word that the family are all well. His brother, Simon, of Angola, was here with him.

Fresh bread, the nicest and best, always to be had at the Union Bakery. DeLong & Keeran will be pleased to have your patronage.

Uncle Henry Shull has lost a pair of gold rimmed spectacles which he prizes greatly. Anyone finding them will confer a favor by returning to him or leaving at this office.

Mr. Cobb, of Auburn Cyclery, returned from New York Monday. He reports the cycle show as most elaborate, there being over 200 exhibitors representing upwards of $70,000,000, showing to what importance the bicycle has grown in this country. How little did the last generation dream of the vast proportions of this then unknown business. Truly, we live to learn!

Literaries, or debating societies, have been organized at a number of the district school houses. The one at Carmer's meets on Thursday evenings, and while very crude, is still an educator Very weighty questions are taken up and discussed with impunity. The question for this evening is, "Resolved, that education should be compulsory up to the age of fourteen."

Visit J. G. Clapp, Auburn, whose beautiful work is giving the best of satisfaction, and he is making very fine finish and perfect likeness of the most fastideous people of this and adjoining counties. His business has so increased that it was necessary to employ Mr. G. A. Ostergren, of Chicago, who is also a very fine workman. They also have a nice new stock of mouldings; any size frames made to order. They can please you. 3 5

Sheriff Ralston and Deputy Blum were telephoned to come to the Junction on Monday, and to call at the "red house" there. They were looking for a man and supposed he had been seen at that "resort." On getting there however they did not find their man, but several other men made a wild break for liberty. They got sight of and recognized two or three Auburn toughs, and also learned that a well known citizen of Waterloo had escaped just before they reached the house.

Mrs. Lockwood, who has been sick for so long, died Saturday evening, at the residence of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Caruth. The funeral was from the home, on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. D. Brosy, of the Lutheran church. Her children were present, except P. J. Lockwood of Washington, D. C., who sent a letter that his wife was so ill he could not come; and Irvin Lockwood, of Keyser township who is lying seriously ill.

Bills are out for a wrestling match at Armory Hall, Saturday evening, Jan. 20, between Henry West, of this place, and James Morgan, of Cincinnati, Morgan to throw West three falls in one hour for $25 a side and 75 per cent gate receipts Before the wrestling exhibition there will be a glove contest for points between Elmer Blue, of Garrett, and Kid Moore, the champion feather weight of Indiana. Other athletic sports will also be indulged in to entertain the audience. A fee of 25 cents will be charged at the door.

Court.

A great deal of odd and extra work has been done. The grand jury reported many changes and improvements that were greatly needed at the County Home, and this is a matter that will soon demand serious attention. W. H. Mader was fined for assault and battery; Daniel Carpenter for obstructing the highway; Charles Boigegrain, Marion Cramar and Rolland Edge were fined for violating the liquor laws; B. Rainier and Marion Cramar were each fined for gaming. In the matter of partition of property asked by Mrs. Martha Washler, a partition was ordered. The report of the men who partitioned the Shull property, we reported last week, was accepted. Valorous Brown, the Columbia City mill man, got a judgment of $317 against the Auburn Church Furniture Co. The Keystone Watch Case Co. got a judgment against H. N. Kingsbury for $630. One of Sheriff Kalston's boarders, Clayton, is out in the pure air again, and the Dago from Butler, charged with a nameless crime, is also at liberty to go back to the old sod. The investigation of John L. Davis' matters took several days. The point is to see whether he had a legal right to give mortgages to several parties only a few days before his assignment. The case between George Shoner and the Samuel Jones estate has taken some time. It was to settle the legality of the mortgage sale of some of the Jones land by Shoner. The jury brought in a special verdict, that Shoner's action was all right. But we believe the judgs will have to settle the law question, and it may not go that way. Next came on the Jennings will case from Troy township. Peter Jennings, a pioneer over eighty, died about a year ago. Now there is an effort to break the will on the ground that he was not capable of making a will at the time. Many of the citizens of Troy are here as witnesses. Court lasts next week and the week after, closing Saturday, Feb. 2.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

WANTED.—Oak and Elm Hub Timber. Zimmerman Mfg. Co. 4t

Read carefully G. H. Yeabers's new advertisement. There are splendid bargains.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

Cold noses speedily and pleasantly warmed by smoking Kessler Bros.' Bill Head.

LOST:—Setter pup, ten months old, black on head and one hip. Finder please return to Auburn Foundry and Machine Works and receive reward.

GOOD ROOMS TO RENT:—A suite of four desirable rooms in good location with pleasant surroundings. Call on W. E. Rush, North Main street, Auburn. 1-3

LOST:—An overcoat, between Myers & Kutzner's livery barn and my residence. Finder will please leave same at Kessler Brothers' cigar factory. 1-3 W. F. Kessler.

A Church Burglar.

This is the strangest burglary of all. On Monday night someone broke a window in on the east side of the basement of the M. E. church, and then reached in and swung it open, and entered the basement. From there into the auditorium there is a stairway but no door. He then went into the pastor's study, probably opening the door with a false key. In the study he pried open the locked drawers in which Mr. Wooton keeps his sermons and similar papers, and also pried open the doors below the drawers. The marks show he used a chisel, and possibly a "jimmy," or small crowbar to pry these open. The edges of the wood were crushed and torn, showing great force used. Nothing is missed, and there was nothing of value there except a silver baptismal bowl which was probably not noticed. What a man wanted to break into a church for, is a wonder. He was evidently a burglar, with a burglar's set of tools.

The K. P. Installation.

Last Friday evening was a time that will long remain a bright spot in the memory of the K. P's. and Pythian Sisters of Auburn, as well as a score or two of invited guests. It was a public installation of both orders that called the company together and filled their elegantly furnished hall. The solemn and instructive installation services were conducted in an impressive and scholarly way by George King, who took the place for the time, of the retiring officer, G. L. Lanning. Wils. McClellan acted as grand marshal and did his part exceedingly well, if his bright sword did bother him a little. Hugh Culbertson, as prelate, managed to keep down his native jollity very effectively while he made the new officers take their solemn obligations. After the K. P. installation was over the Pythian Sisters, led by Mrs. H. J. Shafer, entered, when their installation ceremonies were conducted by Mrs. Geo. Lanning. The ladies did their parts fully as well as the gentlemen did theirs, and when the editor of this paper completes his great work on "Ceremonials of Societies and How to Conduct Them," there will be found therein a distinct instruction advising that all gentlemen be excluded from participation even as wall flowers and bouquets when ladies' societies are doing work. Then followed an address by C. M. Brown, which was full of good thoughts, well expressed and well received. We shall mention right here that splendid music was furnished by Borst's orchestra, assisted by Mrs. Garwood, Mrs. Charles Nusbaum and Miss Lettie Meese and James Eldridge, who played the organ. Dr. C. E Nusbaum sang some very fine songs, as did also the quartet. W. B. Brown, Dr. Coats, C. E. Nusbaum and Ernest Sheets, Rev. A. S. Wooton opened the meeting with prayer, and assisted in a simlar way at the banquet. Mine Host, Hollister, had plates laid for eighty, and it took nearly "two runs" to accommodate the company. We have before had occasion to note the superior style in which Mr. Hollister gets up a great banquet. But this surpassed all his former efforts. We did justice to it then—we can't now. Let us say it was splendid and stop at that. Then there were the speeches by Mr. Penfield and Dr. W. H. Nusbaum and another song by the quartet, all brilliant, witty and scholarly. H. C. Shull's speech, however, carried the house by storm, and when he made it certain that there was "A hole in the bottom of the sea," the entire company agreed with him and joined "the song of 99 verses." The whole affair was brilliant from first to last.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the New Great South American Kidney Cure. This new remedy is a great Surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Druggists, Auburn, Ind.

Notice.

After Jan. 21, we the undersigned, agree to close our shops on Sunday, and no more meat will be sold on that day in any shop in Auburn. We think this plan best for ourselves and for the people of Auburn.

J. W. SHEFFER;
W. C. MCNABB,
A. H. GILLIS & CO.
RAINIER & POTTER.

Health and Happiness!

HONEY OF FIGS is the QUEEN OF all cathartics; syrups or pills. One anticipates its taking with pleasure. No other remedy sells so well or gives such satisfaction. It acts gently on inactive bowels or liver, relieves the kidneys, cures constipation, colds, fevers, nervous headaches, etc., and restores the beauty of health. Ladies and children prefer it. Doctors and druggists recommend it. The Fig Honey Co. of San Francisco. Try a bottle. Only one cent a dose. Matheny & Gerke wholesale and retail agents for DeKalb county.

Smoke the K. & B. ten cent cigar.

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Always accepted with "many thanks,"---Kessler Bros.' Little Salesman.

Sweet, refreshing slumbers and pleasant dreams—the results obtained by smoking the Young America.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisements upon the inside pages of this paper, among which will be found some important annnouncements.

For pains in the chest there is nothing better than a flannel cloth saturated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

In addition to the books before mentioned, M. B. Willis has secured the agency for the county, of the book of season, "Samantha at the World's Fair." See him at once and give an order.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of Mystic Cure, and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

Now is the time when your catarrhal trouble begins to annoy and wreck the Respiratory and Nervous systems. Drs. Nusbaum & Nusbaum cure what they promise. Rooms especially fitted to treat diseases of nose and throat. Also diseases of women.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY:—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action pon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cts. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. tf

"During the epidemic of lagrippe, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy took the lead here and was much better liked than other cough medicine." H. M. BANGS, druggist, Chatsworth, Ill. The grip is much the same as a very severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. This remedy is prompt and effectual and will prevent any tendency of the disease toward pneumonia. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A H PPY NEW YEAR

BRINGS RESOLUTIONS of REFORM.

Just as successfully as mother earth brings forth fruit and flowers

The habits, purposes, successes and failures of the year 1893, will not be adequate to the great demands of the great year of 1894.

NO RESOLUTION OF REFORM

Is of more importance than in the purchase of the necessaries of life. Especially is this true when you endeavor to find out how much your money

WILL BUY

in the way of

GROCERIES!

We wish all our friends a Happy New Year, and especially invite everybody to call at the Family Grocery when in need of: Bread, Cakes, groceries, Cigars, Tobacco, Confectionery, Soap Brooms, Flour, and General Merchandise. We will save you money.

IRA BRANDON.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Notices of meetings of societies, church socials, etc., not exceeding five lines, published under this head without charge. Five cents will be charged for each line in excess of five lines.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Sprott.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Presbyterian church have a social at Mrs. A. J. Ralston's to-morrow evening. Mite 10 cents and a social evening.

The ladies' nickel social of the Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. May next Friday, Jan. 19, at 2:30 p. m. All the members are urged to be present.

The nickel social of the Methodist church will meet with Mrs. Dr. Casebeer next Friday afternoon. Please bring your thimbles as the society has work to do.

There will be a box social at G. A. R. hall this Saturday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Ladies are expected to bring a box. All are invited.

The S. H. G. meets with Mrs. Penfield. Quotation from Proverbs; American Com., Mrs. Clifton; History, Maryland, Mrs. Henry; Recitation, Mrs. Penfield; Mothers of great men, Mrs. Baldwin; Solo, Mrs. Moss.

Program for Auburn Musicale for Jan. 22, 1894: Piano duet, Mrs. Moss and Miss Hoffman; Song, Mr. Lochner; Humorous Musical Reading, Pauline Rose; Vocal Solo, Edna Davis; Piano Solo, Maggie Snyder; Song, Mr. Hastings.

The C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. McDowell Saturday at 2 p. m. Program: Modern Europe, Miss Davis; Roman and Medieval Art, Miss Ober; Paper, What Constantine did for Christianity, Mrs. Nickey; Reading, Mrs. Dewitt; Box, Mrs. Zent

CALIFORNIA MIDWINTER FAIR

Harrington's Excursion Feb. 24, 1894.

Send for book giving full particulars as to how the party will travel, list of hotels where they will stop, price of tickets and map showing route over which this excursion will pass. Seven thousand miles will be traveled in elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars, with Dining Car attached, for the exclusive use of this party. Do not forget that if you are going to California and do not wish to return with this party, you can do so, and so have the benefit of this special service of elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, as well as visit all the many points of interest mapped out for this tour en route to San Francisco.

Call on or address 2 7

G. L. HARRINGTON,
46 N. High Street,
Telephone 868. COLUMBUS, O.

Rainfall and Snow.

The amount of rainfall and snow in DeKalb county for the past year, is reported by Alex. Provines, of Jackson township, by mohths, as seen in this table:

	RAIN		SNOW
January	0	inches	22	inches.
February	2	"	15	"
March	1⅝	"	2	"
April	5¼	"	3	"
May	1¾	"	0	"
June	4⅜	"	0	"
July	2¾	"	0	"
August	¼	"	0	"
September	1⅝	"	0	"
October	2	"	0	"
November	2⅜	"	2½	"
December	2½	"	15	"

These figures show very plainly the dry months of last year, when we see only a quarter of an inch of rainfall in the entire month of August.

Judge—Did you really call this gentleman an old fool last night?

Prisoner (trying to collect his thoughts)—The longer I look at him the more probable it seems to me that I did.

WATCH THIS SPOT

For Bargains in Good Serviceable Footwear next week.

R. SHULL.

A FEW OF THE MANY Bargains we are offering:

200 Pairs Men's Pants, lined with Cotton Flannel worth $1.25, only 90 cents.
Lot Cottonade Pants, - - worth $1.00, only 75 cents.
Lot Wool Shirts, - worth $1.00 to $1.25, only 75 cents.
Lot Men's Wool Socks, - worth 20 cents, only 12 cents.

OLDS BROS.

North of Court House.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - - PUBLISHER.

NOBODY has hit the bull's eye yet in the Brazilian shooting match.

HAS any one heard yet of the impending danger of a failure of the ice crop.

ANY man who deliberately takes human life is sane enough to pay the penalty.

A MINER may be ever so well off, but he can't help getting in a hole occasionally.

AMIDST all of these fierce attacks upon Liliuokalani we must remember that she is an orphan.

THE umbrella originally was taken from the Egyptian. At present it's taken indiscriminately.

SPAIN has transported 100 anarchists. They will doubtless bring up in the United States sooner or later.

SEVERAL of New York's millionaires are thinking of moving West. This ought to give the old town a boom.

"You were always a fault-finder," growled the wife. "Yes, dear," responded the husband, meekly, "I found you."

"THE tax on cigarettes," says the Chicago Record, "would be in effect a tax on dudes." Then let the tax on cigarettes be put on without fail.

NATURAL GAS doesn't seem to be a success in Buffalo, judging from that $150,000 explosion. The fire which followed placed the whole city in danger.

WHAT is needed in modern etiquette is some polite form for introducing train-robbers to police detectives without unduly shocking the detectives.

ANYONE who has ever seen a French funny paper will understand why the merry Parisians put make-believe bombs about a city still red with innocent blood and regarded it as jest-worthy.

A THOUGHT too unusual in these corporation days was behind the exclamation of the builder of the Louisville bridge as he saw his victims dashed to death—"I will be eternally damned for it!"

THERE would be fewer bridge disasters like that at Louisville if it was clearly understood that the inquest upon the body of the guilty contractor would have to precede the investigation into the causes of the wreck.

EVERY man wants more credit than he deserves. But it is a foolish notion. If you have the reputation of being able to jump thirty feet, and are not able to do it, the time will come when you will be called upon to try, and fail.

THAT grand old dame in Jersey who lived to be one hundred and five, and then was killed in an accident, recalls the rhyme about the English peeress who "lived to one hundred and ten, and died from a fall of a cherry tree then."

MR. GLADSTONE, who has permitted imperial troops to fasten Cecil Rhodes' South African Company on that part of the world, must realize, on hearing Rhodes' threat of secession and independence, what Lear meant by a serpent's tooth and a thankless child.

GOV. WAITE'S call for an extra session of the Legislature is dated Dec. 25, 1893. As Christmas day is a legal holiday in that and all other States of the Union, the question is being asked, Is the call legal and binding? The courts will probably be asked to decide the matter.

BARON CREWE, whose death is announced, was one of the few unofficial Liberal peers who remained loyal to Mr. Gladstone. He paired in favor of the home rule bill. He was uncle of Lord Houghton, the present Viceroy of Ireland, who comes into an immense fortune through his death.

PROF. TYNDALL'S father was a shoemaker in an Irish village, and lived in rooms in the rear of his small shop. But he had more than a share of learning, and was witty and sarcastic in argument. His son was sent to the local grammar school, and one of his old chums there says that young Tyndall was an effeminate boy, who gave little promise of living to be seventy-three years of age.

CIGARETTE-SMOKERS are abhorred by all civilized people, and are constantly being told of the vicious results of the habit. As a contribution to the argument which may be brought against the vice comes the interesting information that it has been discovered that all the cotton-wool and lint used in one of the Paris hospitals has for years been sold by the servants to the makers of cigarette papers.

THERE is an old rhyme or song, "The farmer feeds them all," and according to the report of the Secretary of Agriculture this is true, and may be added to say that he clothes them all, since agriculture, directly and indirectly, furnishes hundreds of thousands a livelihood. Farmers have reason to be proud of their calling, the oldest and most independent work in the world; the original "first families" were farmers.

IN 1754 the first public library established in the English-American colonies was founded in New York, with the avowed object of promoting a spirit of inquiry among the people by a loan of books to non-subscribers. Nearly £600 were raised, and a foundation was laid for an institution which still exists and is an ornament and a blessing to the city of New York. The trustees received a charter afterwards from Gov. Tryon. This institution was named the New York Society Library. In 1876 it contained 64,000 volumes.

EVIDENTLY the average citizen of the Sagebrush State is not heartily en rapport with the custom of bargain and sale marriages of rich American girls with foreigners of a certain type, if we may believe the Bulletin, which says: "John Mackay paid $5,000,000 of gambling debts for his Italian son-in-law, Prince Colonna. That money came out of Nevada, and if it were invested in irrigation work in the State hard times would vanish. But no; it goes to a profligate macaroni chewer, so that he may wallow in luxury."

THE educational world has lost a valued worker and a most accomplished woman and teacher by the death of the venerable Elizabeth P. Peabody of Massachusetts. She was a prolific contributor to educational literature and a warm and enthusiastic friend of the schools, but her principal achievement, and the one which longest will preserve her memory, was her introduction into the United States of the Froebel kindergarten system. In this direction, as in many others, she was a leader in educational reforms, and her death has deprived the schools of the United States of a stanch friend and wise counselor.

THERE is no way for the farmer to manage screenings now so good as to burn them. With the improvements that are made in farming mills all the grain cracked or otherwise is got out of the screenings, and the weed seeds usually contain acrid properties that make them as likely to do harm as good. The notion that the gizzard of fowls will destroy the vitality of weed seeds has been the occasion of disseminating many bad weeds. It is a delusion that cannot too soon be got rid of. Some weed seeds will grow better for passing through the gizzard, and there are others which the fowl will not eat at all, which go directly into the manure when fed in the poultry house.

"THEY don't fall in love as frankly, as honestly, as irretrievably as they used to do. They shilly-shally, they pick and choose, they discuss, they criticise." That is Mr. Grant Allen's opinion of the young men of the present day. Well, a certain amount of hesitation is pardonable before entering upon a state out of which there are only two ways, and both unpleasant. But the trouble is not so much that men pick and choose as that they do not choose at all. They are indifferent; they do not marry. Mr. Grant Allen says that it is due to the "cumulative effect of nervous over-excitement." It is an age in which there is no leisure. But the present age has always been wrong, and always will be wrong.

FROM an esteemed Minnesota contemporary we learn that the Common Council of the beautiful city of Mankato, in that State, has enacted an ordinance providing that "all persons who shall sing or whistle 'After the Ball' in that city between the hours of 6 a. m. and 10 p. m. shall be fined half a dollar for each offense." The enactment, while vigorous, does not seem to be altogether well directed. The boys in this locality, and presumably in Minnesota, do not get onto their great singing and whistling act until after 10 o'clock, and therefore the ordinance does not protect the slumbers of staid citizens. Again, the penalty is ridiculously inadequate. It should be murder in the second degree, or at least manslaughter, and the offense should include "Boom-ter-a-ra" and "The Old Oaken Bucket," and "Farewell," and various other public nuisances. The only thing that should go free is "Irene, Good-night," for that means that it is time to go home.

The Twelve Good Rules.

In his poem entitled "The Deserted Village," Goldsmith describes the old inn on whose parlor-walls there hung, besides other things, "the twelve good rules." It seems that these rules were drawn up by King Charles I., and as they are never displayed nowadays it may be interesting to state what they were. Here is the list: 1. Urge [drink] no health. 2. Profane no divine ordinances. 3. Touch no state matters. 4. Reveal no secrets. 5. Pick no quarrels. 6. Make no comparisons. 7. Maintain no ill opinions. 8. Keep no bad company. 9. Encourage no vice. 10. Make no long meals. 11. Repeat no grievance. 12. Lay no wagers.

WHAT is regarded as competent authority places the cotton crop this year at 8,000,000 bales, or more than a million bales above the estimates of the Department of Agriculture. If it shall prove that the later estimate is correct the price must remain at a low figure despite the unlawful and incendiary efforts of White Caps to put up the price by threats to burn the property of those who offer to sell below ten cents per pound.

CAPES ARE IN STYLE.

THEY'RE ALL THE GO FOR EVENING TOILETS.

Especially Convenient for Theaters-Goers—Made in Many Styles and of Any Suitable Material—Two Promenade Costumes—Skirt Without a Seam.

Modes in the Metropolis.

New York correspondence:

CAPES are the favorite wear for the theater costumes, and nothing is more important than the right sort of a wrap for these toilets. It needs to be something warm, it must be loose, that the draperies worn beneath it may not be crushed, and it should be prettily a part of the costume and yet not ornate enough to attract undue attention if the wearer reaches the theater by the cars. By many the street cars are used for transportation to evening engagements, and besides, in these hard times when cab bills are the first to seem extravagant, many a woman may wish to economize in them without giving up altogether the custom of making a dressy appearance at the play-house. The cape slips on and off easily, and the outside may be of some dark rich shade that will be quiet enough to suit the most fastidious, while the lining may be of a bright color and a rich material that shows vividly when the cape lies over the back of the seat and makes part of the effect of the costume. In the initial picture there is shown a dainty little cape, made of woolen ottoman and worn over a costume made of changeable silk and trimmed with lace and gold passementerie. The yoke and bodice of the wrap are of a contrasting shade of velvet, and the whole is lined with quilted satin and garnished with two ribbon bands around the bottom with rosette bow and long ends of the same in front. The medici collar is edged with swan's down, which also trims the edges of the yoke.

For the richer trade, ermine capes are much in vogue. These are invariably put on a yoke, that is, one with the high collar. Of late the skirts have been so arranged that the tails or points of black form spiral lines about the cape. Where the whole garment is not of ermine, and we are not all millionaires, the yoke and collar alone are, and the cape part is of seal, French seal, or even of velvet. Ermine is even more economically employed as revers or shoulder frills outlining the yoke, yoke and cape in such case being both of the darker fur or velvet. When velvet is the material of the gown, the dress is itself warm enough to make a heavy or long wrap unnecessary. There are stunning little collarettes scarcely more than the yoke of a cape would be. These are, to tell the truth, made of odds and ends of fur, several different kinds being blended in the construction of one of these butterfly things. This seems to make no difference in the cost, however, and one of these collarettes costs almost as much as a long cloak. They come in the usual combination of sealskin and ermine, with astrakhan set into the seal in a series of points. Lace is added to these collarettes with curious effect. An especially beautiful one was of seal, with a very high ermine battlemented collar. From under the lower battlements a rich flounce of yellow lace escaped.

AS BAGGY AS A MAN'S COAT.

The third picture in this column displays a rich and handsome theater wrap made of white cashmere with designs in different shades of Oriental colors. It is lined with quilted white broche silk, and trimmed about the bottom, at the neck and down the front with bands of Mongolian goat. In the second illustration there is a black silk coat, the neck and fronts trimmed with bear and a muff of that skin accompanying. The garment is further ornamented by a handsome jet trimming. With its full, loose sleeves this coat has many of the advantages of a cape without the latter's disadvantages. Of course, any handsome fur could replace the bearskin.

A novelty is the theater boa, which is very large and thick, of feathers or fur, and attached to it is a deep frill of fur or velvet that forms a cape over the shoulders and back and a jabot to each side of boa in front. Another novelty is a cape formed of two deep points of satin of bright hue and covered with lace. These points fit down the front and back, to the waist line and out over the shoulders. A shoulder piece of fur is arranged so full at each shoulder that it hangs to either side over the arm, and may or may not be secured by buttons to the side of the points. When left free, the fur part can be thrown from the arms without replacing the entire garment.

A FLARING WRAP.

Where does all the money come from? First, we must all dress in blue for the street; then fashion positively says brown; then black is the only correct thing. Whatever is decreed to be correct, it does not last long enough to give a woman with a desire for economy a chance to wear out her dress of one color by the time another is commanded. Now, in the fourth illustration there appears a gown of dark green and greenish red changeable woolen suiting. Green was a short time ago the correct thing for street wear, but brown pushed it hard in popular favor, and finally passed it, and is now the accepted out o' doors color. This gown is planned as a visiting dress, and is trimmed with red moire antique, which is taken for panel and plastron. The bell skirt has no seam, as the panel divides the edges, and one side is left open for the slit, which is closed with hooks and eyes. The edges in front are faced with watered silk and ornamented with buttonholes that hold small red buttons spun with wide meshes of green silk. The bodice fronts are folded surplice fashion and the circular basque is lined with red silk and faced with a narrow bias fold of moire. The belt hooks in front and is ornamented with two rows of buttons and imitation buttonholes made of red silk cord. The collarette has a round yoke open in front and trimmed with imitation buttonholes and buttons, and is finished with a circular frill scalloped with red silk at the edge and lined with red. The sleeves have a deep cuff, buttoning up the inner seam, and big ball puffs, and the cuffs open over a watered silk panel inserted in the upper arm.

A SKIRT WITHOUT A SEAM.

A pair of handsome walking dresses are shown in the last cut. At the left there is a dress of blue Scotch mixture. The round bodice closes on the shoulder and under the left arm. It has pointed revers of red satin, edged with fur, and the short basques and standing collar are made of the same shade of satin and also edged with fur. The bell skirt is garnished with a scalloped band made of bias red satin, the scallops finished with fur. The smaller scallops on the standing collar and the top of the band around the skirt are piped with black velvet. Mode colored cloth comprises the other dress. The bodice is made of satin and hooks at the shoulder and under the arm. It is garnished with bolero fronts of mode cloth caught in the center with a full ribbon rosette, forms a round decollete in back and is edged with fur that stops at the top of the bolero in front, each fur end being finished with a long bow and streamers of satin ribbon. The puffed sleeves have a deep plush cuff of the same shade as the fur. The bottom of the bell skirt is garnished with a deep plush band edged with festoons made of two bands of ribbon held in place with full ribbon rosettes.

Not even the wearers themselves know how much their dresses depend on pad for fit. Most dressmakers pretend they do not use pads, for it hurts a customer's vanity to know that she is being made lovely by such means, and it does not increase her good opinion of her dressmaker. The really wise dressmaker makes her customer lovely no matter how slab-sided she is, and lets the poor woman think it all "clever fit" and the excellent emphasis the wonderful modiste has given to all the "good points." Pads are inserted between the dress and its lining and do not appear on the inside of the gown. Hair is usually worn, and in case of a great deal being used the modiste always tells the slab-sided deceived one that the gown must be brought back to be taken in a little if it stretches. This means that the pads are to be renewed when they get hard. But little Miss Slab-sides does not know this, and it is just as well she should not. Some dressmakers use excelsior, which is beautifully light and changes very little. It is a queer thing that women nearly always believe they have a good figure, and that the gown that makes them look the best is the gown that best fits them, instead of the gown that is the most carefully and artistically padded. Just now pads are much used on the outer round of the shoulder and a little down the arm. This gives a sloping effect to the shoulders which delights the woman, and she finds it not at all difficult to believe that her anatomy has altered itself in that way. Hips are almost always padded, and under the arms where almost all women are a little hollow, and where a little fulness does so much toward making the bust seem big and the waist small, which constitutes a good figure according to the modern way of thinking. The properly proportioned woman is wider at the hips than she is at the shoulders, but now the fashion is making women seem much wider at the shoulders than anywhere else. We all like it, too. What is proportion compared to fashion?

TWO PROMENADERS.

Copyright, 1894.

THE victoria regia was taken from Guiana to England in 1838.

FOXY SUGAR TRUST.

HAS IT TRICKED THE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE?

Trust Statistics from Willett & Gray's Statistical Sugar Trade Journal—McKinley's Hard Lesson—Specific Tariff Duties Cheat the People.

Samples of Protection.

Just why the Ways and Means Committee left ¼ cent per pound duty on refined sugar, is a mystery to those who are unacquainted with the insidious workings of our pet and spoiled trusts. It was generally known that the sugar trust secured its ¼ cent duty from McKinley and Aldrich by corruption and bribery. It was also known that this trust had made $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 a year out of this duty, besides half as much more of legitimate profits. It was known, too, that the total labor cost of refining sugar is less than 1-7 cent per pound and as low as in any other country. Then, why did Wilson leave such a duty?

There is but one explanation consistent with the facts and with the undisputed integrity and honor of Mr. Wilson and his committee—the duty is the result of misrepresentations made to the committee. Otherwise, if the committee had intended to levy a duty for revenue or to protect sugar growers, it would certainly have placed the same duty on raw as on refined sugar. The misrepresentation probably consisted in leading the committee to believe that the export duty paid refiners in foreign countries would put our refiners at a disadvantage, unless they were protected by a small duty. The sugar trust presented statistics to this effect. This is evident from what appeared in Willett & Gray's Statistical Sugar Trade Journal of Sept. 28. After stating that Germany is paying a bounty of 21½ cents per 100 pounds on the exportation of granulated sugar, from Aug. 1, 1892, to July 31, 1895, this journal continues:

"Any reduction of present duty on refined sugars would certainly produce an interesting condition of things in the sugar trade, for in order to compete with Germany, for instance, at a disadvantage of 21½ cents per 100 lbs. in this one respect, American refiners might be obliged to transfer their refineries to Germany, or if the business continued here it would be at the expense of all the wholesale grocers, who would be obliged to forego the selling of American sugars, while the American refiners would come into close relations with the retail grocers direct. This would mean 'chaos' to the refined-sugar trade, and would not cheapen sugar to the consumer, because refiners everywhere would be in constant competition for raw sugars with which to supply America with refined, and prices of raws would rule at a much higher average price than now."

If it was upon information of this kind that Wilson decided to leave a duty on refined sugar, the matter should be reconsidered. The Berlin Zuckerindustrie at once took Willett & Gray to task and showed the falsity of their figures. It showed that German refiners, when they purchase raw sugars, have to pay an export bounty on them of what is equivalent to 15 cents per 100 pounds on refined sugar—leaving a net premium of only 6½ cents per 100 pounds to exporters of refined sugar. This bounty of 1-6 cent per pound will only pay one-third of the freight across the Atlantic. Without any duty, then, our refiners would have a natural protection of ¼ cent per pound even as against the most favored refiners in Europe. That they could compete even without this natural protection is evident from what Willett & Gray's journal told us, on June 16 last, when it ridiculed Germany's little refineries, the largest of which could only melt 1,000 barrels a day, while three refineries in this country were constantly melting 14,500 barrels per day. It laughed at the idea of preventing "the economies which come from consolidating the business" by the attempt "to divide up the business into German sized companies." Beyond a doubt sugar is refined as cheaply, and probably more cheaply, in this than in any other country.

It may be well to call the attention of sugar producers to the inadvertent admission of this semi-official organ of the sugar trust that "prices of raws would rule at a much higher average price than now," "because refiners everywhere would be in constant competition," if the duty were abolished and "chaos" should reign—that is, if the power of the trust to "regulate" prices of both raw and refined sugars were taken away, as it would be by the removal of a duty.

But this journal does not mind "putting its foot in it" occasionally, if by so doing it can save any part of the duty on refined sugar. It has thrown its reputation as a statistical journal "to the dogs" in its desperate efforts to mislead Congress and to preserve its right to export $20,000,000 a year from our sugar consumers—as the ¼ cent per pound enables it to do.

As another example of the bad effect upon statistics, of mixing them up with protection and trusts, take the last issue of this same sugar journal (Dec. 28). On page five, it is stated that "making up the average prices for the year we find that centrifugals have averaged 3.68c per lb., while granulated has averaged 4.84c per lb., a difference of 1.16c per lb., which has been the usual difference, and was the usual difference ten years ago, when the business was entirely in the hands of independent refiners."

Turning back to page 3 we find tables giving weekly quotations of raw (96 degrees centrifugal) and refined (granulated) for the last ten years. These show that during the year 1884 the average difference between the prices of raw and refined sugars was less than 13-16, or about 4-5 cent per pound. At no time in 1885 was the difference as great as 1 cent, and the average for the whole year was 5-8, or .634 cent. In 1886 the average difference was .718 cent, and in 1887, the last year before the trust got control of the refineries, the average difference was .685 cent. The average difference for the next two years—1888 and 1889—was 1¼ cents. Thus is this statistical journal condemned out of its own mouth.

During the last four or five months scarcely a number of this journal has appeared that did not contain unfair or inaccurate statements, intended to deceive the legislators at Washington. This is but one of the pernicious effects of protection. Take away the duty which protects this greedy, audacious, law-defying trust, and, besides cheaper sugar, we will have more accurate and reliable statistics.—Byron W. Holt.

Cheats the People.

In specific tariff duties there is a form of robbery which is generally concealed from public view.

In all manufactures the cost of production is being lowered from year to year. Let a specific duty which amounts to 10 per cent. ad valorem remain unchanged for twenty years and it may be 100 per cent.

Carnegie's boast is that his mills can turn out more steel now with 2,000 men than they could ten years ago with 10,000. That is an example. Carpets which would have cost $5 a yard fifty years ago can now be made for $1 or less. A specific duty of $2.50 a yard in Hamilton's tariff, or say 50 per cent., would now be 240 per cent.

Specific duties prevent the people from getting the benefit of improved processes and lower cost of production. Ad valorem duties follow the reduced cost without being obliged to wait for the people to find out their disadvantage and to get mad enough to defeat the lobby.

Specific duties are the protected manufacturer's pet arrangement. Ad valorem duties are much safer for the people.—St. Louis Republic.

A Great Fight.

The war is on! The thousands of selfish interests that have been fastening on to our body politic for many years are forming in solid phalanx for the fight. On one hand are the people whose very vitals have been sucked dry in order that the privileged might revel in luxury. On the other side stand the privileged classes, who will fight for their privileges until the last one has gone down. It will be a great and, perhaps, awful contest, for be it known that the privileged classes believe in the enforcement of law only so long as those laws are framed to suit them. It will be a great fight on the right of men to get full value for their money. We of the producing class work for low wages and pay high prices for the necessities of life. The privileged classes, through the assistance of Government, get high prices for the things that have been made at low wages. Thus, all the milk in the cocoanut flows to them, while we get the husks. It will be a great fight. In the end the common people will win, and the trusts and other iniquitous designs to rob the laborers of the fruits of their toil will go to the wall. But it will be a great fight.—National Economist.

Larger Revenues from Lower Rates.

One of the Republican scarecrows that are now being used to frighten Democrats away from tariff reform is a so-called "estimate" that the Wilson bill will cut down revenues $70,000,000. How unreliable—indeed how absurd—such an estimate is may be seen by a casual glance at the official statistics of the government during the last fifty years.

Indeed the refutation of this absurd "estimate" is found in the daily experience of every retail merchant. When these men cut prices for holiday trade or any special sale they expect to more than make up the difference in price by the increased number of sales. The same is true of importations. With a lower rate of duty importations are often so stimulated that the net receipts of revenue are greatly increased.

The Walker tariff of 1842 is a good illustration. When this low tariff bill was passed in 1846 the collections increased $5,000,000 the first year, and in ten years increased from $26,000,000 to $64,000,000.—Oakland County Post.

McKinley's Hard Lesson.

At last we have evidence that McKinley did learn something, after all, from the terrible beating his party got under his leadership in 1890 and 1892. In his message to the Ohio Legislature on Monday he warned the majority that it would be held by the people to the strictest accountability. He said, "it should keep the expenses safely within the revenues," evidently having in mind the awful blunder he and his party made in Congress in bankrupting the Treasury. "There should be no increase in the rate of taxation," he added, as though to say, "Take warning by me and my bill and avoid the fate that overtook me." The Governor's formal inauguration will not occur until next week; when, it is reported, he will take occasion to deliver himself on national politics. We shall hope to see him then draw further lessons of reproof and repentance from his own experience.—New York Post.

Not Afraid of Wilson.

Neither the panic nor the fear of a reduction of the tariff has had much effect on the cotton mills of the country. Some of those in the East were stopped a few days for repairs, but they were all running last week, and there isn't a cotton mill in the United States that didn't earn at least 6 per cent. during the year on the capital invested. The cotton mills of the South have for the most part done considerably better than that.

According to the Chronicle of Augusta, Ga., the six mills in that city and vicinity have paid, or will pay, from 6 to 10 per cent. in dividends on their capital, amounting to $4,500,000, and it must be remembered that the companies are capitalized for considerably more than is actually invested in the works. One of them increased its capital 50 per cent. and will pay a 3 per cent. semi-annual dividend.

Mockery of Overproduction.

The ability of any industry to invade the markets of other countries implies its ability to hold the market of its own country against the same competitors, and it is a mockery to talk of overproduction as long as there are so many millions of hungry people to feed and so many millions of ill-clad people to clothe, and only a law of Congress to forbid that exchange of the products of labor by which both ourselves and they could enjoy more of the goods and necessaries of life.—Wm. L. Wilson, in the Forum.

Meaning of Free Wool.

Free wool means cheaper and better clothing for our people and a better market and higher prices for wool. The protectionist howlers know it as well as the Democrats. Hence their distress lest the Wilson bill will take effect before the next wool clip is marketed. Nothing but delay can save the calamity lies from refutation.

Taxation and Robbery.

When the law compels me to contribute my just quota to the support of government, it is taxation; when it compels me to contribute to the support of any private enterprise, it is robbery. The first is a tariff for revenue; the second is a tariff for protection.—Wm. L. Wilson, in the Forum.

The Wilson Bill.

THE one urgent need of the country at the present time is to have the tariff settled.—Philadelphia Times.

IT is said that there is some accidental protection in the Wilson bill. Well, let it go at that. Pass it. Get it out of the way!—Atlanta Constitution.

THE House has the new tariff bill. If it knows what is good for itself and the country it will pass it on to the Senate in a hurry.—Atlanta Journal.

"IT is the uncertainty that hurts." It was the uncertainty that hurt last fall when the repeal bill was undergoing prolonged and useless discussion. It will be the uncertainty that kills if something is not soon done to relieve it.—Washington Post.

UNTIL confidence, based upon fully known conditions, can be established either by the defeat or the passage of the Wilson bill, business depression and suffering will unquestionably abide with us. The Wilson bill should be promptly killed or passed.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

WILL TALK ALL WEEK

LONG DEBATES ARE AHEAD OF CONGRESS.

House Will Grapple with the Tariff, and the Senate with the Federal Elections Law—Hawaii May Intrude—Many Amendments Offered.

Getting Down to Business.

Washington correspondence:

DEBATE and not action will mark the proceedings of Congress for several days. In the House the feature will be the tariff debate, and in the Senate the bill to repeal the federal elections law. Anent the Hornblower nomination, it is the expressed determination of the Senators who sustain the majority report of the Judiciary Committee adverse to confirmation to insist upon final action, so in view of the extent to which Senators have interested themselves in the case, it may occupy the attention of the body in executive session for two days.

Otherwise Senator Gray, of Delaware, will call up the elections repeal bill. The bill will be made the unfinished business and be kept before the Senate until passed or defeated. It is understood that the Democratic Senators have decided to refrain from extended debate on this subject and will content themselves with two or three speeches, which may be made by Senators Gray, Bate and Hill. The Republican speakers will be Senators Lodge, Frye, Chandler and Hoar, and perhaps others. The present expectation is that the debate will consume at least two weeks.

Coming events will cast their shadows before in the shape of a tariff speech, to be delivered by Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire. Of course there is always present a possibility of resolutions and speeches on the subject of Hawaii during the morning hours, and this probability is reduced almost to a certainty by the recently published correspondence. But tariff will be the almost exclusive talk in the House. The House will take up the consideration of the bill under the five minute rule, and the paragraphs will be open to amendments. The desk of Chairman Richardson is covered with amendments that will be proposed by various members who want to make sure that their propositions will receive proper attention. The order of consideration of amendments has been under consideration by Chairman Richardson. He was inclined to hold, so he stated to those who asked him in regard to the matter, that amendments would be considered received as they were proposed, without reference to the relation of the schedule which they affected to the order of the bill. Unless he has changed his mind, therefore, there will be no priority given to amendments to one section over those to another. The bill will be thus discussed and open to amendment this week and next, and then a vote taken on its passage Monday, the 29th inst. The scheme for internal revenue will be reported to the House by Chairman Wilson as an independent, separate measure. The friends of the income tax proposition will endeavor to attach it to the pending bill, and upon the motion may come one of the most interesting struggles of the debate unless the matter is settled in caucus.

Routine Proceedings.

In the House, Wednesday, Mr. Boutelle (Rep.), of Maine, again precipitated a heated discussion in regard to his Hawaiian resolution. Then Mr. Hopkins (Rep.), of Illinois, took the floor to conclude his speech on the tariff bill begun Thursday. Mr. Cummings (Dem.), of New York, from the Naval Committee, reported the Boutelle resolution calling on the Secretary of the Navy for information on Hawaiian matters and as to his authority for delegating to Commissioner Blount control of the United States naval forces. The resolution was reported back with an amendment asking for information in the Navy Department from March 4, 1892, instead of 1893. Mr. Cummings asked for its immediate consideration. As this required unanimous consent, Mr. Dockery (Democrat), of Missouri, objected. Mr. Cummings then asked that the resolution lie on the Speaker's table without losing its privileges, and this was ordered. Debate on the tariff was continued. Congressman Tom L. Johnson characterized the bill as a protection measure. In the Senate a resolution by Senator Peffer as to the inadequacy of the force in the office of the supervising architect of the treasury to prepare drawings for new public buildings was laid before the Senate in the morning hour, and was the subject of a discussion.

Hawaii was debated in the Senate Tuesday. Mr. Turpie denounced ex-Minister Stevens and Mr. Davis the flag incident. Speeches in the House upon the tariff bill were limited to one hour. Many members took part in the debate.

Debate on the tariff bill was continued in the House Friday. "Jerry" Simpson spoke in favor of the measure. By a party vote the nomination of Isaac J. Wooten to be agent at the Nevada Indian Agency was confirmed in the Senate. By a vote of 9 to 3 the House Coinage Committee ordered a favorable report on the bill for the coinage of silver in the treasury. The postponement of action in the Hornblower nomination is exciting much comment.

Discussion of the tariff bill under the five minute-rule was begun in the House Monday. Numerous amendments were offered. By a vote of 30 to 24 the Senate rejected the nomination of W. H. Hornblower to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The Senate passed House bills authorizing construction of certain dams across the Kansas and Mississippi Rivers, and the bill granting lands at the junction of the Colorado and Gila rivers for use as a territorial prison.

Multum in Parvo.

OUR time needs stronger souls.—Beethoven.

CONSCIENCE! Man's most faithful friend.—Crabbe.

WHAT you dislike in another take care to correct in yourself.—Sprat.

THE country is both the philosopher's garden and his library.—Penn.

CONTENTMENT is natural wealth, luxury is artificial poverty.—Socrates.

A DESIRE to resist oppression is implanted in the nature of man.—Tacitus.

WEAKNESS on both sides is, as we know, the trait of all quarrels.—Voltaire.

GOOD will, like a good name, is got by many actions, and lost by one.—Jeffrey.

A MAN'S opinions are usually of much more value than his arguments.—O. W. Holmes.

THE coldest bodies warm with opposition; the hardest sparkle in collision.—Junius.

SOCIETY is built upon trust, and trust upon confidence in one another's integrity.—South.

A GERMAN art critic writes: "Chopin dreamed beautiful things; Beethoven made them real."

"SWEET SIXTEEN."

An Exquisite Calendar.

Hood's calendar, which is always looked for with interest and pleasure, has made its appearance for the year 1894, and is in many respects more beautiful than ever. The head is that of a lovely girl just "sweet sixteen," lithographed in delicate and natural colors. Besides being a thing of beauty, the calendar is especially valuable for the general information presented.

The figures are plainly printed in pleasing and harmonious colors and the effect as a whole is most satisfactory. The calendars can be obtained of almost any druggist, or by sending six (6) cents in stamps for one and ten (10) cents for two to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. An edition of over eight millions of these calendars was printed in order to supply the immense demand. This seems a simple statement, but its meaning is almost beyond human conception. The card used for the upper portion of this number of calendars would cover nearly fifty-two (52) acres of ground, and the paper consumed in making the pads, if cut in one continuous strip of the same width as the pads, would be over eighteen thousand (18,000) miles in length.

These calendars are issued by the proprietors of Hood's Sarsaparilla, the well-known medicine which has gained such renown by its wonderful cures in cases where the blood was poisoned or impure. The history of this preparation is entirely unique, the business having grown from a small retail trade until, at the present time, the great laboratory in which it is made has a capacity for fifty thousand (50,000) bottles a day and is the largest building in the world devoted to the manufacture of a medicine. The sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla in all sections of the country are enormous. The proprietors have never claimed that it would cure every ailment, but they show by thousands of testimonials that Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies and vitalizes the blood, builds up the system, and cures those diseases caused by impure blood and debility, such as scrofula, salt rheum, catarrh, rheumatism, etc. As a preventive of the grip, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved to be unequalled, and it restores the wasted vital forces after a siege of that dreaded malady and fortifies the system against future attacks.

The fact that great care is exercised in the preparation of this medicine and that nothing has ever been claimed for it except as warranted by previous cures, has much to do with the confidence felt by the public in its curative powers. The motto of the proprietors is, "It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story," and it is what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done, as shown by the published statements of persons whom it has cured, that has placed it at the head in the field of medicine in the present day.

Luminous Fungi.

There are probably few who have not met with cases of luminous fungi. The writer of this paragraph well remembers an old oak tree, hollow with age, and exposing a large proportion of decayed wood, which glowed at night almost as brilliantly as if a light had been placed inside the hollow shell. In some parts of the world, species with this characteristic are much more common than in others. In the islands of the Indian Ocean a genus, known as Pleurotus, furnishes a species, according to a French mycologist, which is so abundant, and in which the phosphorescence is so enduring that the native women use it for personal adornment in the hair and dress. It is said that the glow will continue occasionally for twenty-four hours.

216 BUS. 8 LBS. OATS FROM ONE BUS. SEED. C

This remarkable, almost unheard-of, yield was reported to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., LaCrosse, Wis., by Frank Winter, of Montana, who planted one bushel of Great Northern Oats, carefully tilled and irrigated same, and believes that in 1894 he can grow from one bus. of Great Northern Oats three hundred bushels. It's a wonderful oat. If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with 8c postage to the above firm you will receive sample package of above oats and their farm seed catalogue.

"GEORGIA is a rapid State." "What's up now?" "Well, you know, they got that nigger that recently stole the mule?" "Yes." "Well, our Governor telegraphed to 'hold him,' and here's the answer—'Can't; we've lynched him!'"

$4 to California.

This is our sleeping car rate on the Phillips-Rock Island Tourist Excursions from Chicago to Los Angeles or San Francisco, via the scenic route and Ogden. You can go with Phillips, the best of all excursion managers, for he has each party accompanied by a special agent who goes the entire trip with patrons. These personally conducted excursions leave Chicago twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday.

We have also a daily tourist car service, via our Southern route, through the beautiful Indian Territory and Fort Worth to Los Angeles and San Francisco. The tourist car rate via this route, the same. Apply at Rock Island ticket office, 104 Clark street. John Sebastian, G. P. A., C., R. I. & P. Ry., Chicago.

"WAS YOUR elopement a success?" "Hardly." "What went wrong?" "Her father telegraphed us not to return and all would be forgotten."

SEE "Colchester" Spading Boot ad. in other column.

THERE are not many men who think their wives have any sense in money matters.

"My dear fellow, she is an angel. How exquisitely lovely her complexion is. They say she uses Glenn's Sulphur Soap."

THE worthless man always lives to go to the worthy man's funeral.

THE REV. W. J. WALKER'S PRAYER.

REV. W. J. WALKER.

Vanclave, Jackson Co., Miss.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—I wish to inform you of the benefit my wife has received from the use of your medicines. I must say that your "Favorite Prescription" is the best female regulator on earth; my wife has been cured by the timely use of it.

I have been using the "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Pleasant Pellets," and I am fully satisfied they are all you claim them to be; so, wishing you abundant success, and hoping that the Almighty God will continue His blessings toward you in your noble work, I am,

Respectfully, W. J. WALKER.

PIERCE GUARANTEES A CURE OR MONEY IS REFUNDED.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

COCOA and CHOCOLATE

Highest Awards (Medals and Diplomas) World's Columbian Exposition.

On the following articles, namely:

BREAKFAST COCOA, PREMIUM No. 1 CHOCOLATE, GERMAN SWEET CHOCOLATE, VANILLA CHOCOLATE, COCOA BUTTER,

For "purity of material," "excellent flavor," and "uniform even composition."

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO., DORCHESTER, MASS.

PATENTS and PENSIONS Secured. No advance fee. Fitzgerald & Co., "9th and G," Washington, D. C.

BEING A MAN MONKEY.

A Mechanical Tail Has Been Devised Which Greatly Facilitates the Business.

I had a chat the other morning with Mr. Arnold and the brothers Donaldson, the monkey performers and contortionists, says a writer in Pearson's Weekly.

It has long been the ambition of acrobats to invent a useful mechanical tail, without which no man can properly imitate a monkey. At length the tail has been devised. Arnold and the Donaldsons are the only people in the secret, and they now hang and swing by their tails, to the disgust of rival man monkeys.

So like the original are their antics and their whole get up that from a distance it is impossible to tell, as they swing from bars and ropes inside a cage, that they are not apes. The masks they use alone cost $15 apiece, and are so naturally made that they have even deluded the real animal. Let one of my informants speak for the trio:

"Before we could attempt to imitate a monkey in public we went through a course of the closest study in various zoological gardens. It was months before we were proficient, but then we did not consider ourselves so until, having donned our monkey's dress, I approached a cage of real apes, one of whom actually came to the bars and scratched my head.

"An acrobat and contortionist has to crowd all his work into a short space of time, for after he has reached 32 years of age his work begins to deteriorate. We experience no difficulty whatever about blood rushing to the head. When we begin to train we could only hang our heads down for half a minute, and even then we were nearly suffocated. Now we can hang for ten minutes and feel no ill effects.

"The great thing is to get the cords of the legs to stretch, which they do gradually, and to loosen the hips. So long as the cords of the leg will give, almost anything can be done with them. For instance, we find it quite easy to cross the right leg over the left, bring the latter over the right shoulder, and finally crowd the toes under the arms—a feat that looks exceedingly difficult.

"A great deal depends upon the backbone. By constant practice it can be made to bend like a whalebone to the shape of the letter C, either backward or forward. One of our troop can spin on his head, but that trick came to him naturally and it is impossible to teach it. The chief ailments which befall acrobats are strains and the dislocation of the hips."

BOYCOTTING A JAIL.

Tramps Insist on Better Food or They'll Ruin the Sheriff's Business.

An unusual strike has occurred here, says a Mount Holly correspondent of the New York Herald. It was not among the members of any labor organization—as is often the case—but was confined to the tramps who are locked up in the county jail, and who boldly threatened to boycott the institution unless the sheriff supplied them with better food.

The spokesman, a thick-set tramp, known among his companions as "The Tank," out of compliment to his abdominal development, was plain and outspoken in his demands to one of the keepers.

"See here," he said, "what's on the card for dinner to-day?"

"Bean soup and bread," was the reply.

"It won't do," was the reply. "This bean business is gettin' played out. What we want is more meat and wegetables, and we're goin' to have 'em or know the reason why. We can't keep up our strength on no such grub as we've been havin'—see!"

"You fellows are gettin' too gay," said the keeper with a sneer. "Next thing you'll be wantin' ox-tail soup and sweetbreads. We're givin' you good grub—good enough for anybody—and you'll either eat it or live on your shape."

"Hold on there!" interrupted another tramp with a red nose and a bad list to port, "we've got something to say 'bout that. We've got the lay of the land pretty well in this county, and we know the sheriff's office wouldn't be wuth a half interest in a yaller dog if it wasn't for the profit out of feeding us tramps. Everybody knows that. Now I'll come down to business. Ef you don't feed us up high we'll boycott the jail, and every man on the road'll fight as shy of the place as if it was full of smallpox. Now I've had my say, and ef the goose don't hang high after this you'll hear from us."

This threat took all the fierceness out of the keeper, who promised to see what he could do in the line of a more attractive menu.

Married a Century.

We have all heard of tin weddings, celebrated after ten years of marriage, of crystal weddings after fifteen years, of china weddings after twenty, of silver after twenty-five, of gold after fifty, and of diamond after seventy-five—or, as Europeans celebrate it, after sixty-two and a half years. But the scale of celebrations does not seem to extend any further, and one wonders what precious thing would be selected to give its name to a wedding anniversary recently celebrated in Hungary—the one hundredth anniversary of the marriage of Jean Szathmary and his wife.

This appears to be a circumstance which is entirely impossible. But the marriage of the aged pair is duly and officially recorded as having taken place in May, 1793, at which time, according to the record, they were of marriageable age. As in Hungary at that time a bridegroom must have reached the age of twenty and a bride that of fifteen, the pair must now be at least one hundred and twenty and one hundred and fifteen years old.

The one hundreth anniversary was celebrated at the town of Zsombolyi, in the Banat, which has for a long time allowed the venerable couple a pension in recognition of their great age and fidelity to each other.

Even the oldest residents of Zsombolyi have no other recollection of Jean Szathmary and his wife than as old people. Not one relative of either survives. Their century of wedded life is so well and officially attested that many notables and Hungarian officials attended the anniversary celebration and gave them many presents.

Scott's Bluffs.

Along the Nebraska River rises a succession of beetling cliffs of indurated clay and sandstone, bearing the semblance of towers, castles, churches and fortified cities. They received the name of Scott's Bluffs from a melancholy incident. A number of years ago, while a party were descending the river in canoes, their frail barks were overturned, their provisions lost or spoiled, and their powder wet. The rifles were, of course, rendered useless, and they were unable to procure food by hunting and had to depend upon roots and wild fruits for subsistence.

They made their way on foot, as best they could, suffering extremely from hunger, until they reached Laramie's Fork. Here, Scott, one of the party, was taken ill, and his companions came to a halt until he should recover sufficiently to proceed.

While searching for edible roots, they discovered a fresh trail of white men, who, it was evident, had recently passed. What was to be done? By a forced march they might overtake the travelers and thus be able to reach the settlements in safety.

"What shall we do with Scott?" said one. "He can't walk."

For a moment all were silent. They realized that they were too weak to carry him, and if they waited for his recovery all were in danger of perishing from starvation and exhaustion.

"We must leave him here," some one said, gruffly. "To wait for him means death, and to try to take him along can't mean anything else."

It was a cruel thing to do, but it was at length decided to abandon the poor man to his fate. Leaving Scott to infer that they were in search of food, the whole party set off on the trail. They succeeded in overtaking the white men of whom they were in quest, but concealed their faithless desertion of their unfortunate comrade.

The following summer some of the same party were visiting the region again. They came suddenly upon the bleached bones and grinning skull of a human skeleton, which by certain signs they recognized as the remains of Scott. This was sixty long miles from the place where he had been left; and it appeared that the wretched man had crawled that almost incredible distance before death put an end to his miseries. The wild and picturesque bluffs in the neighborhood of his lonely grave have ever since borne his name.

A Lucky Presentiment.

An incident of the recent race between the train robbers and their pursuers, which resulted so disastrously to the former, was told during the past week. One of the party who went out from Kalispell to join the chase was a young man who had been in bad health. He was suffering from lung trouble and had had several hemorrhages. Thinking the open air would do him good, and that if he happened to get shot by the outlaws it would only hasten the inevitable end, he started.

On the day before the fight he thought he would take a walk up the railroad alone. The air was cool and bracing and the outdoor life had already accomplished more for him than physic had ever done. So he started. A couple of miles from where he left the party he saw a pile of railroad ties alongside the track.

The idea struck him that that would be a good hiding-place for a bandit. As he drew nearer to it the desire to look behind that pile of ties became stronger as the distance lessened, and when he reached it the impulse was nearly irresistible. Still, some indefinable instinct told him not to. Love of life is strong, even in a man who thinks consumption is at out to take him off.

The young man obeyed the instinct instead of the impulse.

When Jones surrendered he called the young man out of the crowd and said: "See here, young man, you were nearer death when you were walking up the railroad track than you would have ever known if I hadn't been caught. I was behind that pile of ties. If you had as much as made a move toward looking behind that pile you would never have known what killed you." The subject of this incident now thinks life sweeter than ever because of the close call he had.—Helena (Mont.) Independent.

Magnesia Fire Brick.

The subject of obtaining higher temperature in steel furnaces has lately been discussed by the Society of Civil Engineers, Paris. At present, it is stated, the temperature is limited by that at which the walls of the furnace begin to fuse, and even Deeners firebricks are not found proof against this. Magnesia is claimed to be capable of standing far higher temperatures than that kind of brick, the principal difficulty in using it being the excessive shrinkage to which it is liable when heated—a cube of magnesia of ten-inch edge, in the raw state, is said to shrink to one of six-inch edge, when sufficiently calcined—and such being the case, furnace linings made of this material are liable to crack badly; as a remedy for this state of things, the magnesia is caused to undergo its maximum possible contraction before being placed in the furnace, though for this an excessively high temperature is required. M. Lencauchez claims to have overcome these difficulties, and has exhibited a number of perfectly solid bricks of magnesia, which were as dense as granite, and had been thoroughly shrunk. The composition of this brick is 96.25 to 93.25 magnesia, 1.50 to 3.00 lime, 0.75 to 1.25 alumina and iron oxide, 1.50 to 2.50 silica.—Sun.

Terrible Suffering.

It does not take a very large coin to burn a hole in a small boy's pocket.

"Did you have a good time in the country, Bill?"

"No, 'mos' died. We boarded at a farm-house."

"Wasn't it nice?"

"Yes, nice 'nough; but on the train a old woman give me a cent, an' when we got to the farm I found out there wasn't a store within ten miles."—Good News.

Dangerous Cargoes.

When the 700-ton Austrian bark Vila was picked up at sea by the Norwegian fruit steamer Breidabilk and brought to this port a couple of months ago much curiosity was expressed as to what could have caused her crew to desert her. With the exception of being partially dismasted she was in perfect condition, and the loss of her masts might have occurred after the crew left her. She had sailed from Egypt with a cargo chiefly made up of old bones, and no word was heard of her until she was picked up off Hatteras by the Breidabilk. All the bark's papers and every scrap of food had been taken from her, and the fate of her crew is a mystery.

The experience of the three-masted schooner Wallace J. Boyd, which recently arrived at Philadelphia from Montevideo with a similar cargo of old bones, may afford an explanation of the mystery surrounding the Vila. The crew of the Boyd say that nothing could ever induce them to ship again on a bone-laden vessel. Within a few days after leaving port the vessel became infested with scorpions and other pestiferous bugs, which came out of the cargo and penetrated every nook and corner of the craft. The men were driven from their bunks in the forecastle, and every effort to rid the schooner of the plague was unavailing. Five or six times a day all hands were compelled to strip, bathe, and change their clothing, but the smaller insects hung on in spite of all this. On a day which was damp and warm the torment was aggravated by the appearance of large, green bugs, which swarmed over everything and continued their ravages until port was reached.

It is believed that the creatures were in the bones when they were gathered on the Argentine plains, and the excessive heat of the hold during the voyage through the tropics caused them to breed in enormous numbers and forced them on deck. It is possible that the crew of the Vila was driven from her by a similar cause and met a worse fate.—New York Tribune.

The Best Food.

In the Forum Prof. W. O. Atwater claims the best food in the sense of that which is sold at the highest price is rarely the most economical for people in health. The food that is best fitted to the real wants of the user may be the very kind which supplies the most nutriment at the lowest cost. Round steak at 15 cents a pound contains as much protein and energy, is just as digestible and is full as nutritive as tenderloin at 50. Mackerel has as high nutritive value as salmon and costs from an eighth to half as much. Oysters are a delicacy. If one can afford them there is no reason for not having them, but 25 cents invested in a pint would bring only 29 grams, about an ounce, of protein and 360 calories of energy. The same 25 cents spent for flour at $6 a barrel, or 3 cents a pound, would pay for 420 grams of protein and 13,700 calories of energy.

Maintaining His Record.

He drove up to the way station on a Southern railway and, standing beside the driver, saw the train disappearing down the valley. He watched it for a moment, and then sinking into the seat gave a vent to a hearty flow of tears.

"I—I've lived here forty years," he sobbed, "and never missed a train before. It's o-o-only 7:50, and there's the 7:23 train already gone. I'm t-t-twenty-seven minutes late, that's all, and the train's gone."

The station master came up at this moment, and his face grew sad as he touched the weaping man.

"That's all right, Jim," he whispered; "tha.'s the 5 o'clock express; your train won't be here for twenty minutes yet."—Harper's Bazar.

An Unseen Enemy

Is more to be dreaded than an open and visible one. That subtile and lurking foe, which under the generic name of malaria manifests itself, when it clutches us in its tenacious grasp, in the various forms of chills and fever, bilious, remittent, dumb ague or ague cake, can only be effectually guarded against by fortifying the system against its insidious attacks with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a thorough antidote to the poison of miasma in the system, and a safeguard against it thoroughly to be relied upon. In the event of a malarious attack avoid poisoning your system with quinine, and use instead this wholesome remedy, unobjectionable in taste and far more efficacious than any drug. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaints and rheumatism.

Precious Stones.

Among the interesting facts not generally known are that the supply of rubies has generally diminished for centuries, and that now a ruby the size of a carat or over is worth from three to ten times as much as a diamond of similar size; that the sapphire is the same stone as the ruby, but different in color; that the "star" sapphires, the rarest variety, exhibit by a reflected light a six-pointed star; that the turquoises are American; that an imitation of the turquoise is cut from the teeth of fossil animals; that spinels resemble very much precious gems; that the tourmaline has electrical properties when heated.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

{SEAL} A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

KEEPING everlastingly at it brings success, but the trouble is that most of us keep everlastingly at the wrong thing.

Hood's Permanently Cures

Because it reaches the seat of disease in the blood. By purifying, vitalizing and enriching the blood, it expels every taint of Scrofula, Catarrh, Malaria, etc., and so renovates and strengthens the vital fluid, and through it the whole system, as to enable it to throw off future attacks of disease. Be sure to get Hood's, and only Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills, Sick Headache, Jaundice, Indigestion. Try a box. 25c.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Riding Down a Wolf.

It has been often noticed in India how fast a wolf travels by means of a lounging, loping trot that is by no means suggestive of speed. While one gallops after it as hard as a good horse can go, the wolf pursued, never apparently hurrying, lollops along at a pace that equals that of the following steed. I have heard it said that no horseman ever rode a wolf down; but to this statement I must demur, inasmuch as I have done this thing. Perhaps my wolf was sick.

Be that as it may, I did, when out pig-sticking in the Ganges country over against Colgong, follow a wolf, and that wolf turned sharply when I closed with it, and the horse I rode (a rare good one) kicked it over with his fore feet, and made the matter of spearing my wolf simplicity itself. One of my companions of that day found explanation of this performance in the fact that I had ridden another man's horse with my own spurs.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Life of a Locomotive.

The life of a locomotive is from twenty to thirty years. Some have lasted much longer, the Baltimore and Ohio sold "grass hoppers" for instance, which were shown at the World's Fair. They were built in 1835 and were used as switchers at Mount Claire as late as last spring. Of course, certain parts of an engine wear out quickly and have to be renewed from time to time, but the frame, the boiler, and the wheels are good for many years of service. Perhaps the high rates of speed at which trains now run may shorten the careers of engines, but as the new machines are built heavier and stronger than their predecessors it is probable that they will "live" as long as those before them.—Baltimore News.

The Champion Story.

Georgia again comes to the front with the "champion" story: "Some time ago a baby's little finger ring was missing and could not be found. When last seen the child had it on and was feeding some chickens, but no trace of it could be found, and the subject was dismissed until the other day, when a hen came off with a brood of chickens, and lo and behold, around the neck of one of the tiny creatures was the baby's ring. It is believed that the hen swallowed the ring, but how on earth did it get on the little chick's neck?"

Southern Railroad Building.

The financial depression this year has not had a very decided effect on railroad construction in the South. The total number of miles of railway built in this section since the 1st of January is only fifty-seven miles less than was built during all of last year. The total new mileage in the south for this year, up to December 1, was 1,112 miles. Texas leads with 216 miles, Florida comes a close second with 208 miles and Georgia is third with 171 miles.—Atlanta Journal.

The Hittites.

The Hittites of Jewish history, who were long a puzzle to the anthropogists, are now believed to have been a Semitic tribe speaking a dialect akin to the Phœnician, and it is ascertained that the so-called Hittite inscriptions are really the work of another people, the Chaldi, whose origin is not yet discovered. At present the tendency is to show that these were of Aryan or Indo-Germanic origin and probably immigrants from Europe.

"DO YOU understand Latin?" asked thestudent. "I regret to say I do not." "Oh, well, I can make myself understood, I suppose, in German; lend me five dollars."

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures Incipient Consumption. It is the best Cough Cure. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

ABOUT all some men do is to spend their time getting ready to do something thay never do.

Sicily's Brigands.

Sicily, that lovely island which is a natural paradise and has at times supported a large population in luxury, had been reduced to such a condition by brigandage at the time Victor Emanuel ascended the throne that land could not be given away, and the old nobility which had enjoyed ample incomes for generations from their broad acres, were reduced to positive misery. The King employed one gang of brigands to hunt down another gang, and he made each locality responsible for depredations committed within its limits. The plague was thus extirpated.

Leprosy.

Leprosy is said by the Chinese to result from the eating of too much fish, but the real cause is still a mystery. Poor blood and uncleanly habits have doubtless a great deal to do with it, but a satisfactory investigation as regards the best means for its prevention and cure is much needed. There can be no doubt that in the south of China the disease is greatly on the increase.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Exactly What She Meant.

It had been over four months since they were engaged, and as they read the evening paper together he said:

"See, my dear, only $20 for a suit."

"Is it a wedding suit?" she asked, sweetly.

"No, a business suit."

"Well, I meant business," she answered.—Life.

Schiffmann's Asthma Cure

Instantly relieves the most violent attack, facilitates free expectoration and insures rest to those otherwise unable to sleep except in a chair, as a single trial will prove. Send for a free trial package to Dr. R. Schiffmann, St. Paul, Minn., but ask your druggist first.

"WHAT kind of a clock is that, Jawkins? It doesn't seem to be right." "Sh—sh! It's called the married man's delight, my boy. The hands stop at 10 o'clock every evening, but the ticking goes on as loud as ever. See?"

KEEP UP THAT RASPING COUGH at the peril of breaking down your Lungs and Throat, rather let the afflicted immediately resort to Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, which cures all Coughs and Colds, and ameliorates all Lung Complaints and Throat-ails.

MISSIONARY—I have come here, brethren, to devote my life to you. Cannibal Chief—All right; thanks. But we'll wait awhile until you are a little fatter.

FOR THROAT DISEASES AND COUGHS use BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Like all really good things, they are imitated. The genuine are sold only in boxes.

SO MANY friends who look sympathetic when you tell your troubles, think to themselves that it serves you right.

Hatch's Universal Cough Syrup is a Positive cure for Croup. 25c.

WHEN a base ball player enthusiast says his prayers, he refers to the Lord as "Our Final Umpire."

BEECHMAN'S PILLS are a certain cure for weak stomach and disordered liver, and are famous the world over. 25 cents a box.

WHAT should be done with people who are too mean to live, and who are still not fit to die?

FITS! All fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

YOU can make up a quarrel, but it will always show where it is patched.

Sure Cure for Sprain, Bruise or Hurt!

Use ST. JACOBS OIL

You'll Use it Always for a Like Mishap.

—ELY'S CREAM BALM—Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores Taste and Smell, and Cures

CATARRH

Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head. Apply into the Nostrils. It is Quickly Absorbed. 50c. Druggists or by mail. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

One bottle for fifteen cents, Twelve bottles for one dollar, } by mail.

R·I·P·A·N·S

Ripans Tabules are the most effective recipe ever prescribed by a physician for any disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Buy of any druggist anywhere, or send price to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, 10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

NICKEL PLATE.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R.

SOLID THROUGH TRAINS BUFFALO & CHICAGO.

LOWEST RATES.

THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address

A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. B. F. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CINCINNATI.

"COLCHESTER" SPADING BOOT.

Best in Market.

BEST IN FIT. BEST IN WEARING QUALITY.

The outer or tap sole extends the whole length down to the heel, protecting the boot in digging and in other hard work.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM, and don't be put off with inferior goods.

Colchester Rubber Co.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMS & SON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

"German Syrup"

I simply state that I am Druggist and Postmaster here and am therefore in a position to judge. I have tried many Cough Syrups but for ten years past have found nothing equal to Boschee's German Syrup. I have given it to my baby for Croup with the most satisfactory results. Every mother should have it. J. H. HOBBS, Druggist and Postmaster, Moffat, Texas. We present facts, living facts, of to-day. Boschee's German Syrup gives strength to the body. Take no substitute.

TWO REASONS WHY

I Recommend Swamp-Root.

The Great Kidney and Liver Remedy.

Brier Hill, N. Y. August 14, 1893.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—It affords me unspeakable pleasure to recommend your Remedies, for two reasons. First, because I have taken several bottles of your Swamp-Root Kidney and Liver Remedy myself and found it to be the greatest medicine I ever used. Second, because I have sold a great deal of it since I have been in business for the past six years. I know it is a good medicine as it gives the best of satisfaction. Almost every day I hear some one of my customers saying: Dr. Kilmer's

G. S. YERDEN.

Swamp-Root Cured Me

and telling what it has done for them. Any one doubting this statement can write, I will gladly answer. Yours with great respect.

G. S. Yerden, (Merchant.)

At Druggists, 50 cent and $1.00 Size.

"Invalids' Guide to Health" free—Consultation free. Dr. Kilmer & Co., — Binghamton, N. Y.

Dr. Kilmer's U & O Anointment Cures Piles. Trial Box Free. — At Druggists 50 Cents.

After 25 Years

About twenty-five years ago I was afflicted with a disease which the doctors pronounced SCROFULA. I was treated by several physicians and specialists without being benefited; and I tried many blood remedies, without relief, recommended, and after taking six bottles I am now well SSS was my skin is perfectly clear, and I would not be in my former condition for two thousand dollars.

MRS. Y. T. BUCK, Delaney, Ark.

Send for Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Cured by S. S. S.

DO YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL? READ THIS ABOUT CALIFORNIA!

The WABASH RAILROAD has placed on sale low rate single and round trip tickets to all principal Pacific coast points, giving a wide choice of routes both going and returning, with an extreme return limit of Nine Months. Stop-overs are granted at pleasure on round trip tickets west of St. Louis and the Missouri River, and by taking the WABASH but one change of cars is necessary to reach Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Sacramento and Portland, Ore. Remember the WABASH is the peoples favorite route and is the only line running magnificent free Reclining Chair Cars and Palace Sleepers in all through fast trains to St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address any of the undermentioned Passenger Agents of the Wabash System.

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. M. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. CHANDLER, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

"Only One Night Out." The Quickest Time Ever Made —TO— FLORIDA —OR— NEW ORLEANS —VIA— C. H. & D. R. R. —AND— CINCINNATI, —FROM— Toledo, Detroit or Chicago.

For Rates, address D. G. EDWARDS, General Passenger Agent, Cincinnati, Ohio.

SEEDS WARRANTED. Best in the World. By mail, postage paid, 1 cent a package and up. Grand lot of EXTRAS given with every order. Prettiest and only FREE Catalogue in the world with pictures of all varieties. Send yours and neighbors' address.

R. H. SHUMWAY, ROCKFORD, - ILLINOIS.

$7.00 Will pay for a one inch advertisement one week in 100 Illinois Newspapers—guaranteed circulation 100,000 copies. Send for Catalogue.

STANDARD-UNION 93 S. Jefferson St., Chicago, Ill. (This advertisement measures one inch.)

ASTHMA CURED. POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC Gives Relief in Five Minutes. Trial Package sent FREE. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent post-paid on receipt of $1.00. Six Boxes, $4.50. Address Thos. Popham, Phila., Pa.

PATENTS. TRADE-MARKS. Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

It Will Be Too Late.

If you will let a cough run on until it has affected your lungs, it will be too late, as consumption will surely be the result and death will end all. Why are so many people careless about a cough? be careful, there is danger, and if not stopped in time it will certainly cause serious trouble and probably prove fatal. If you will only send for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup it will cure you, as it has never failed to cure the very worst cases, and is guaranteed to give satisfaction. You can try this for 25 cents, why delay. By all druggists.

Lagrippe Cured.

About a year ago I took a violent attack of lagrippe. I coughed day and night for about six weeks; my wife then suggested that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. At first I could see no difference, but still kept taking it, and soon found it was what I needed. If I got no relief from one dose I took another, and it was only a few days until I was free from the cough. I think people in general ought to know the value of this remedy, and I take pleasure in acknowledging the benefit I have received from it. MADISON MUSTARD, Otway, Ohio. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord's.

Do This Now.

Do you need a cough medicine? If so send for a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup; it will help you as it has helped others. Do this now or it may be too late. Many cases of consumption have originated out of a slight cough, and you cannot afford to take chances This medicine will cure any cough or cold, or any affection of the throat or lungs. Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup is the best for lagrippe, as it has never failed to cure. It is sold on a guarantee, and you will be satisfied if you will only give it a trial. Price 25, 50 and $1 by druggists.

Distemper—Its Cause and Treatment

Is the title of our little book which tells all about one of the most loathsome and dangerous diseases affecting horses, sheep and dogs, with unquestionable proof of the merits of Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure in the treatment of the same. Sent free by addressing the Well's Medicine Co., LaFayette, Ind. This remedy is sold by Matheny & Gerke.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in

DeKalb Co.:
Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

PROF. NIEL,

government chemist, writes: I have carefully analyzed your "Royal Ruby Port Wine," bought by me in the open market, and certify that I found the same absolutely pure and well aged. This wine is especially recommended for its health-restoring and building up properties; it strengthens the weak and restores lost vitality; particularly adapted for convalescents, the aged, nursing mothers and those reduced and weakened by over-work and worry. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby"; $1 per quart bottles, pints 60 cts. Sold by

F. E. Davenport.

Home Testimony.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 25, 1893.

DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

GENTLEMEN:—Send at once by express one gross of your "Dr. Mott's Nerverine Pills." They give satisfaction in every case, and is the best medicine for all nervous diseases. Yours truly,

MATHENY & GERKE.

Not only should mattresses be turned and aired at least three times a week, but pillows and bolsters should be beaten, shaken and exposed to the fresh air.

To Horse Owners.

For putting a horse in a fine healthy condition, use Morris' English Stable Powders. They tone up the system, aid in digestion, cure loss of appetite, relieve constipation, correct kidney disorders and destroy worms, giving new life to an old or over-worked horse. 25 cents per package; 5 for $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke. tf

A good substitute for buttermilk in cooking, is a thin batter made of flour and tepid water, and allowed to remain long enough to sour.

Cure Your Cough.

The persistent cough which usually follows an attack of the grip can be permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. W. A. McGuire, of McKay, Ohio, says: "La Grip left me with a severe cough. After using several different medicines without relief, I tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which effected a permanent cure. I have also found it to be without an equal for children, when troubled with colds or croup." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

Be friendly and sociable, but don't go too far. For people to live happy together, the real secret is that they should not live too much together.

Cures Dyspepsia.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone, I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good good any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandeet medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottle 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

"The physician," says Brown, "is the man who tells you that you need change, and then takes all you have."

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back, and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began the use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to the cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50 cents for large bottles at Robbins & McCord's drug store. 6

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1892, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1893.

NAMES OF OWNERS	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of sale $	Amount of sale cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Randall Perry	E side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00
do	und ¾ w side s w qr		33	12	40	00	129	34
do	und ⅜ pt w ½ n e qr		33	12	23	50
do	und ⅜ pt e ½ s e qr	28	33	12	38	46
Work M E	und ½ w side s w qr	27	33	12	20	00	11	17
do	und ½ pt pt e ½ s e qr	28	33	12	19	24	12	71
do	und ½ n w pt w ½ n e qr	29	33	12	11	75	28	50
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Andress Lydia J	in n w cor s w ¼ n w qr	9	33	13	1	00	27	48
Cole Maria L	s ½ n w ¼ n e qr	8	33	13	20	00	7	38
Walters Lewis	n ½ n e ¼ s w qr	3	33	13	20	00	26	07
Conner Thomas	D add to Auburn Junction lot 27.						7	67
Powell Lydia	D add to Auburn Jct und ⅜ lot 6.						6	93
Ice Mary	S add to Auburn lot 6						4	88
Ice William	S add to Auburn lot 5						17	25
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Crom Elizabeth	n side s ½ s e qr	1	33	14	42	20	49	94
do	in s e cor s e qr	1	33	14	11	00
Emanuel J et al	s e ¼ s w qr	24	33	14	40	00	24	23
Hursh Benjamin	in w ½ n w qr	33	33	14	1	00	9	58
McKinney James	in s w cor s w qr	7	33	14	1	00	6	73
Morr G W & Peter	in n w ¼ s w qr	7	33	14	6	83	6	75
Parks F. A. C	in e ½ s w qr	28	33	14		22	3	91
Shumberger B	s end e ½ e ½ s w qr	11	33	14	30	00	33	33
Shelley Samuel R	n pt n e qr	24	33	14	23	90	16	99
Wiers Mary E	in s e ¼ s e qr	16	33	14	1	00	6	28
Wearley Wm L	e pt n w qr	34	33	14	20	00	26	88
Zimmerman Nancy	in n w qr	33	33	14		34	3	84
Kimes Ellery	O P Spencerville lot 18						7	92
Nichols J R	N add Spencerville lot 18
do	N add Spencerville lot 19						17	34
do	N add Spencerville lot 20
Rhodes Wm	O P Spencerville 6 pt lot 20						5	36
Case Emillius	O P St Joe lot 9 block 3						10	53
Knisely Joseph	O P St Joe lot 9 block 4						2	92
Wineland Ephraim	L 1st add St Joe lot 10 block 7						12	37
do	L 1st add St Joe w ½ lot 3 block 7
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP
Humberger P heirs	off s side s e qr	19	33	15	100		121	86
Larned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	9	33
Lake Julia	in n pt e ½ s w qr	6	33	15		75	1	14
Meek Mary	in s w cor s w ¼ n w qr	6	33	15		33	4	28
Murphy Rosina	s w ¼ s w ¼ n e qr	31	33	15	10		24	35
do	in n w cor s e qr	31	33	15	21	67
Steele Martin A	e ¾ s w ¼ s e qr	17	33	15	30		32	79
Bailey Elizabeth	Vienna lot 65						1	80
do	Vienna lot 66						14	60
Catlett David	Vienna lot 24
do	Vienna lot 25						4	62
Lake Julia	Vienna lot 2						29	47
Rex Geo N	Vienna lot 81
do	Vienna lot 88						6	39
Stepleton Anthony	Vienna pt lot 49
Whiteburst John	Vienna lot 46
do	Vienna lot 34						15	99
do	Vienna lot 39
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Carr Mary	pt s w ¼ n e qr	6	34	15
do	e end s ½ n w qr	6	34	15	40		28	20
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Bills Francis	e end s e ¼ s e qr	15	34	14	6	30	3	19
Brown John	w ½ n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	77	31
Bubb Thomas	e pt s e qr	14	34	14	120
do	in mid pt s w ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	1		203	41
do	pt s e ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	17
Berry W S	und 4-5 e ½ n w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	16		22	98
Bowen E F & E C	s & w pt s w qr	34	34	14	60		35	49
Dove Mary J	n ½ n e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	20		9	09
Fales S B & R B	s e ¼ s w qr	26	34	14	40		75	75
Geisinger Joseph	e side w ½ n e qr	19	34	14	4		6	19
Glowe William	n ½ n w ¼ n w qr	35	34	14	20		20	05
Huntsman A E & R F	s e ¼ n w qr	28	34	14	40		16	71
Haskins Esther N	e ¾ s w ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	30
do	w ¼ s e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	10		645	91
Maxwell James	mid pt s end w ½ s e qr	27	34	14	10		6	07
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
DeKalb Co Fair	n w ¼ s w qr	28	34	13	40		233	31
McNabb Adam	O P Auburn Junction lot 30
do	O P Auburn Junction lot 31						5	41
do	O P Auburn Junction lot 32
Beard J H	S R & B add Auburn town lot 3						1	90
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Jackson Ira	pt w ½ s w qr	3	35	13	70	25	57	85
do	pt e ½ s w qr	3	35	13	70	25
Rose Frank N	in s w ¼ s w qr	3	35	13		20	2	98
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Boyer Cyrus C	s ¼ n e ¼ n w qr	20	35	14	10	44
do	s e ¼ n w qr	20	35	14	40		113	19
do	s pt n e qr	20	35	14	99	84
Enzor Stephen	n ½ n w ¼ n w qr	13	35	14	20		45	41
do	n e ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	40
Enzor Catharine	s ½ s e ¼ s e qr	11	35	14	20		40	35
Lockwood Morton	n ½ s ¼ n e qr	36	35	14	40		39	62
Nichols Milo	s w ¼ s e qr	6	35	14	40		27	36
Norford Lizzie L	mid pt n ½ n e qr	34	35	14	80		27	72
Rensch Phebe	in s e cor n w qr	11	35	14	5		2	62
Rensch Wm	n w ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	40		50	19
do	s end w ½ s e qr	11	35	14	25
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Rohm Ezra	in n mid pt s w qr	16	34	13	19	10	26	40
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	42	16	62
	KEYSER TOWSHIP.
Offen M A & L S Hudson	in n e pt n e qr	4	33	12		25	5	12
Reeves Hattie A	s w cor s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	1		20	67
Whitford S & Helen	in n pt n w qr	4	34	12		50	25	54
	AUBURN TOWN.
Boren Obediah	Mc I add lot 15						16	72
Baxter & McClellan	McC & B add lot 23						12	25
do	McC & B add lot 56						2	95
do	McC & B add lot 59						2	95
Buss Avilla & Samuel	W add lot 85						46	52
do	W add lot 86
Butler G W & C	E 2d add lot 82						13	37
Dickinson Ezra	R add lot 21						21	39
do	R add lot 22
Griswold Abigal	W add und 5-6 lot 141						29	81
do	W add und 5-6 lot 142
Jahns Elizabeth	K 2d add s e ¼ lot 5						23	92
Jenner D W	O P w ½ lot 199						13	31
do	O P w ½ lot 200
Osborn Nora	K 1st add lot 19						19	46
Rickel & Sprott	O P n ½ lot 1						56	07
do	O P n ½ lot 40
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Barnhart Sim	H 2d add lot 220						2	09
Bowman Jefferson	Cen add lot 1						17	02
Beard Wm H H	pt s ½ s w qr	3	34	13		11	8	48
do	pt e ½ s w qr	3	34	13		30
Bundy Charles & M L	H add lot 188						31	04
do	in n w cor s e qr	3	34	13	6	23
Barkdall Joseph	pt s e qr	4	34	13		30	7	91
Shaffer Nancy	in J F & C add lot 33						7	17
Scattergood G H & C	in n w ¼ n w qr	3	34	13	1	20	19	61
Acton P J & J H	O P Uniontown n ½ lot 23						8	69
Bryaland Harriet	O P Uniontown lot 16						3	36
Fisk E P & E	O P s ½ lot 23						6	18
	BUTLER TOWN.
Blaker John & M L	O P lot 289
do	O P lot 290						49	34
do	N add 19 ft w side lot 4
do	N add 29 ft e side lot 5
Bratton O D	O P 20 ft in mid pt lot 278						106	24
Bryan Eli	E add lot 187						18	20
do	E add lot 188
Bills F & S J	O P lot 247						15	77
Bills Francis	L add lot 35						11	23
Beidler Emma C	T add lot 3						38	32
Barnhart Henry	E add s ½ lot 185						2	40
Baxter John H	E add lot 164						11	52
Campbell J A	D add lot 29						1	62
do	D add lot 30						2	14
Collins Marcia	pt e ½ n w qr	11	34	14		50	14	89
Collins Lucius	D add lot 28						33	18
Dickerhoff Samuel	J add lot 21						25	15
Davidson Fannie	O P n pt lot 5						22	80
Egnew Geo heirs	E add lot 132						24	60
Fitzcharles Flora J	M add lot 11						13	90
Fink D A & C L	D add lot 24						14	04
Foadick E W	O P w ½ lot 192						4	23
do	O P w ½ lot 193
Griffith Lafayette	O P lot 241						13	57
Heffelfinger C W	L add lot 13						24	91
Hirschler Dora	O P s e pt lot 132						201	10
Homan David	E add lot 225						9	46
Linkenfelter J M	L 2d add lot 22						13	28
do	L add lot 20						9	96
McClellan Miller	D add lot 32						16	63
Moltz Sarah I	E add e ½ lot 136						33	72
do	E add lot 137
Moltz Charles H	E add lot 138						10	80
Morgan Frances S	O P lot 249						26	43
Mason Albert J	D add lot 38						41	44
Myers Lisetta	T add lot 8 block 1						23	20
Norford J M & S L	O P e ½ lot 18						34	78
do	O P e ½ lot 19
Oberlin John J	O P w ½ lot 221						22	26
do	O P w ½ lot 222
Oberlin Phillip	E add lot 74						22	71
Oberlin Joseph	E add lot 139						17	67
Palmer Ida A	E add e ½ lot 118						9	44
do	E add e ½ lot 119
Price Elizabeth	E add lot 199						6	83
Pinchin Abner F	E add lot 116						6	40
Prosser Wm S	E add lot 160						9	47
Revette Sarah A	E add lot 90						9	68
do	E add e ½ lot 76						6	04
Revette Thomas	E add lot 91						17	25
Rittenhouse M & B E	O P lot 92						26	62
Sternberg Adam J	M add lot 23						19	89
Stewart Sylvia	O P lot 115
do	E add n ½ lot 133						54	39
do	E add n ½ lot 134
Sanders Avilla	L add lot 47						9	06
Shiner F & M A	E add lot 162						13	33
do	E add lot 163
Stiefel Benj H	D add 21 ft s side lot 4						76	97
Swinehart Margaret	L add lot 9						7	00
Stewart F H	O P lot 205						18	79
do	O P lot 186						7	82
Scranton W H	D add 66 ft e end lot 23						2	98
do	D add lot 26
Sise Francis	T add lot 3 block 8						12	85
Tyson J W & L M	N add 22 ft n side lot 15
do	N add e pt lot 12						81	41
Tyron John W	E add lot 235						23	48
Thompson Chas F	O P lot 191						15	84
Thiel John	E add e ½ lot 97
do	E add e ½ lot 98						32	64
do	E add lot 75
Tyson Mattie H	O P w ½ lot 28						29	18
do	O P w ½ lot 29
Wycoff Mary A	O P lot 36						8	30
do	O P lot 37						10	69
Wagoner John O	J add lot 12						18	06
	GARRETT CITY.
Allman N R	C add lot 16 block 53
do	C add w ½ lot 15 block 53						20	66
Andrews S & E	K add lot 5 block 60
Burns John J	O P lot 15 block 28						38	00
do	O P lot 16 block 28						39	84
Beeber Simon	Oz 1st add lot 1 block 4½
Baltz Sarah	Oz 3d add lot 7 block 2						39	68
Burns Eliza	T S add lot 1 block 11						6	64
do	T S add lot 2 block 11						21	74
Baltimore Land & Imp Co	O P lot 6 block 2
do	C add lot 1 block 36						8	83
do	C add lot 2 block 36						79	19
do	C add lot 7 block 37
do	C add n ½ lot 13 block 53						3	95
do	C add lot 13 block 53						1	10
do	C add lot 2 block 58						2	03
do	C add lot 3 block 58						24	34
do	C add n ½ lot 4 block 58
do	K add lot 1 block 59						2	57
do	K add lot 2 block 59						5	73
do	K add lot 3 block 59						4	80
do	K add s ½ lot 3 block 60						9	41
do	K add lot 4 block 60						2	57
do	K add lot 6 block 60						4	80
do	K add s ½ lot 9 block 60						4	80
do	K add lot 10 block 60						2	28
do	K add lot 3 block 61						5	72
do	K add lot 4 block 61						35	44
do	K add lot 4 block 62
do	K add lot 10 block 63						2	03
do	K add lot 11 block 63						2	04
do	K add lot 18 block 63						2	04
do	K add lot 18 block 66						15	87
Champion F M & A A	O P lot 17 block 28						3	88
do	O P lot 18 block 28
do	T S add lot 4 block 2						60	99
Crozier Robert	Oz 3d add lot 1 block 2
do	Oz 3d add lot 2 block 2						20	68
Coffill Wm A	O P lot 17 block 24
Cross Wm T	O P lot 5 block 22						30	95
Casebeer Chas W	Oz 3d add lot 3 block 1						17	00
Cross John A	O P lot 11 block 13						24	58
Cloy Frederick	T S add lot 2 block 8						8	17
Erixson W D	K add 40 ft w side lot 18 block 80						20	50
do	K add 40 ft w side lot 19 block 80
do	K add 40 ft w side lot 20 block 80						21	18
Frederick W J	O add lot 10 block 43
Feagler W C	O P lot 22 block 10						4	42
Gragg Mary A	O P 73 ft e end lot 13 block 19						3	88
Geiger John H	Oz 2d add lot 8						28	23
do	Oz 2d add 14 ft e side lot 9
do	Oz 2d add w ½ lot 7						35	13
Hathaway Miles	Oz 1st add lot 6 block 3
do	Oz 1st add lot 7 block 3						16	08
Hampton John C	O add lot 13 block 36						19	56
Henney Josiah	Oz 1st add lot 5 block 4½						24	55
Holmes Priscilla	C add lot 2 block 47						40	87
Hamm Jacob	K add lot 14 block 61						13	55
do	K add lot 15 block 61						27	87
Hopper Charles	T S add lot 10 block 6
Jones A L	T S add lot 3 block 1						38	73
do	T S add lot 4 block 1						29	64
Morehouse Clarrissa	Oz 1st add lot 3 block 2
do	Oz 1st add 4 ft w side lot 4 block 2						17	10
McConahey Louisa	C add lot 7 block 58
Miller Henry	T S add lot 1 block 8						6	45
Phillips Mary L	O P 52 ft w end lot 13 block 19						21	39
do	O P lot 14 block 19
do	O P lot 15 block 19						78	27
Ray Robert M	C add lot 14 block 36
Rickel & Sprott	C add lot 2 block 44						5	72
Sapp John	Oz 1st add lot 2 block 3						4	79
Sargent Wm E	O P lot 19 block 16						17	44
do	O P lot 20 block 16						15	15
do	O P lot 22 block 16						26	52
Sargent Eliza	O P lot 23 block 16						4	77
do	O P lot 24 block 16						86	63
Smith Jerry	O P lot 20 block 12
Smith David D	C add lot 19 block 57						25	39
Shields Anna	O P lot 1 block 15						19	44
Stoner Margaret E	C add lot 8 block 46						24	06
Troy Andrew J	K add lot 18 bl'k 80 ex 40 ft w side						6	86
do	K add lot 19 bl'k 80 ex 40 ft w side
do	K add lot 20 bl k 80 ex 40 ft w side						12	85
Walter Nevada & Callie	K add lot 1 block 74
do	K add lot 2 block 74						38	59

I, H. N. Coffinberry, Auditor in and for said County of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1892, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1893, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D., 1893, (the same being the 12th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until until all have been offered for sale.

H. N. COFFINBERRY, AUDITOR.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 16, 1894.

FAYETTE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Is beautifully located and its buildings are very attractive. In order to give ample accommodation for the present demand, another large building has been added. No saloons. Equipments are excellent; pure associations. Teachers are specialists—men and women of power and culture, carefully selected for their special work. Normal, Commercial, Scientific, Shorthand, Typewriting, Elocutionary and Musical departments in addition to the regular college courses. Our aim is to endow each pupil with the four great essentials to true success: vigorous health, accurate knowledge, right purpose, and executive ability. $27. pays tuition, board and room-rent, for 10 weeks; $75. for 30 weeks.

For Catalogue, address, J. E. DODDS, Pres't, Fayette, O.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The Journal's Position.

The Ft. Wayne Journal last week took a great interest in the affairs of DeKalb county democracy,—a wonderful interest—and all the more wonderful, as it is the first time it ever did so, even when DeKalb had the candidate for congress. What has inspired this new born interest in our affairs? What possible difference can it make to the Journal how matters run in DeKalb county? Why does it go out of its way to interfere in our affairs and use insulting language towards DeKalb county democracy, and the democratic papers here? When DeKalb county democrats kick against boss rule from without and within, why does the Journal call it "whining"? The answer is plain. The Journal's owner has been made postmaster at Ft. Wayne and his hired man we presume, wrote the article referred to. And a hired man naturally sings the song of the man whose bread he eats. The democrats of DeKalb are fully aware of the position the Journal and its hired man occupy, and are therefore not "tired" of the COURIER's position, but are in accord with it. We here, who have seen a small knot of inside and outside bosses get together, and without consulting the people in the least, parcel out all the appointive offices in the county, to parties the people did not ask for, and who were not in general, even average representative democrats, believe we have a right to object. That is why the democrats of DeKalb are with the COURIER in the fight. It is because we have at heart the success of the party, that we have entered on this struggle. It is because the party can not go into the county campaign with a load on its back, that we propose to do what we can to unload before the campaign is on. The democrats of DeKalb are torn up over the matter of congressman, and hundreds of them will not support McNagny if he is nominated But with a new man we can heal up our differences, present a united front and go on to victory. If standing manfully by our interests and for our rights is "whining," so be it. It is at least as honorable as the cringing and fawning position the Journal and its hired man seem anxious to assume. One other point should be noticed: If the Journal's man does not think the COURIER is "intelligently and honestly edited," why does he in the same issue copy entire, an article from the COURIER without giving it credit, but leaving his readers to suppose it is his own.

"I hold my own," he said with glee,
"Despite of all mishap."
And prudish people blushed to see
His best girl on his lap.

Great Music Offer.

Send us the names and addresses of three or more performers on the piano or organ together with with six cents in postage and we will mail you one copy "Popular Music Monthly," containing ten pieces, full sheet music, consisting of popular songs, waltzes, marches, etc., arranged for the piano and organ. Address: POPULAR MUSIC MONTHLY, Indianapolis, Ind.

One sweetly pleasant thought
Comes to us now with cheer—
The christmas present giving
Is over for a year.

For La Grippe.

Has your constitution been wrecked by an attack of LaGrippe. The Great South American Nervine Tonic will quickly restore your shattered nerves, strengthen and cure your digestive organs, regulate your liver and purify your blood; and restore you to perfect soundness again. This great tonic should be used after all sickness. Its power to restore to health is simply wonderful. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

"Stand where you are, Reginald de Coursey! Advance one step nearer and I will tell you what I saw at the World's Fair!" "Foiled again!" hissed the villain, as he faded away from view.

Will Make Hens Lay.

Well's Hoosier Poultry Powder is the greatest egg producer known. A small sum expended for it will pay one hundred per cent on the cost in an increased amount of egg, as it furnishes all the material necessary for their construction, and keeps the hen in good healthy condition. Price 25 cents. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

"Let's play you're a piano, Tommy," said Jack. "You lie down and I'll bang on you with both hands till you sing a tune."

How's Your Horse?

Morris' English Stable Liniment will positively cure his lameness, sprains, bunches, sweeney, galls, puffs, poll evil, scratches, callouses, barbed-wire cuts and flesh wounds of every description. No other preparation equals it for promptness, safety and economy. Price 50 cts. and $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

The Best Shoes for the Least Money.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

$5, $4 and $3.50 Dress Shoe.
$3.50 Police Shoe, 3 Soles.
$2.50, $2 for Workingmen.
$2 and $1.75 for Boys.
LADIES AND MISSES,
$3, $2.50 $2, $1.75

CAUTION.—If any dealer offers you W. L. Douglas shoes at a reduced price, or says he has them without the name stamped on the bottom, put him down as a fraud.

W. L. DOUGLAS Shoes are stylish, easy fitting, and give better satisfaction at the prices advertised than any other make. Try one pair and be convinced. The stamping of W. L. Douglas' name and price on the bottom, which guarantees their value, saves thousands of dollars annually to those who wear them. Dealers who push the sale of W. L. Douglas Shoes gain customers, which helps to increase the sales on their full line of goods. They can afford to sell at a less profit, and we believe you can save money by buying all your footwear of the dealer advertised below. Catalogue free upon application. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Sold by RAUT & CO. Aubu Ind.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destro

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY JANUARY 25. 1894. NUMBER 4.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

No. 342. 170 Acres of fine land well adapted to grain or stock purposes, 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler.

Frame dwelling: main 22 x 24, wing 14 x 28, wing 14 x 31; 11 rooms, cellar under entire building.

Three good barns, all in good repair conveniently located; one 36 x 50, another 30 x 66, and the last one 22 x 28. Two good wells, 1 cistern, windmill and elevated tank. Two orchards of about 150 in the two. Fences in fine condition. 150 acres in fine state of cultivation, balance timber. No waste land. Sandy, loamy soil. Easy payment plan.

No. —. 44 Acres of land in Wilmington township.

Frame dwelling, 2 story, 16 x 28; wing, 12 x 28, and summer kitchen. Cellar and well.

Frame barn 40 x 65, granary, wagon house and corn crib combined, 20 x 26, and hog and hen house.

4 Acres orchard, all winter grafted fruit; fences in A1 condition; 5 acres timber; 60 rods tiling. No waste land. Soil, black loam.

Price, $2,500. Easy payments.

No. —. Fine residence property on South VanBuren street.

Elegant property. Splendid location. Fruit in large variety and of best quality.

Price, $1,500.

Vacant lots in Widney's addition on long time, easy terms.

No. 157. 40 Acres, 4 miles north of Butler, Ind.

Good log house and barn. 20 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Soil, black loam. Good fences. ¾ mile to school and church.

Price, $1,200. Long time, easy terms.

Dwellings, vacant lots and other desirable property in Garrett to exchange for land in this county and pay cash difference.

80 Acres land in good cultivation to exchange for town property in Auburn, or, will exchange for a well located meat market. Will trade for smaller farm.

Price, $3,300.

80 Acres good land in Butler township, located near school and church and with in 1 mile of railroad.

Good buildings and fences and plenty of fruit.

Price, $4,200.

Will exchange for a smaller tract near some good town

No. 1890. 120-acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler, 95 acres clear, fences good, 30 acres timber, well drained, part tiled; 2 good orchards and a fine pear orchard; has a good 8-room house, with cellar, cistern, well and barn. Will sell very low and on long time.

No. 1810. 80 acre farm, 1½ miles from Newville, 65 acres clear, 15 acres timber, good fences; good 9-room house; barn 36x50 feet; orchard of 70 trees; well and cistern; mostly black soil, no waste land; 40 acres in timothy and clover. Farm is in good state of cultivation; 1 mile to school and church. Price $3,200, $500 cash down, balance on long time. This is a bargain.

No. 2600. 80 acre farm, 2½ miles S.E. of Auburn, 65 acres clear, balance in timber, no waste land; good, 2-story house; good barn 48x80; corn crib, hog pen, wagon and tool shed; cistern, good well with new wind pump and tank; good orchard; good fences; splendid soil. Will sell cheap on long time; will take good house and lot in Auburn or Garrett at what it is worth.

No. 1717. 90 acres of land about 7 miles from Auburn; house 18x24 with L 13 x 17; barn 17x23 with shed 12x23; large granary, well and cistern, orchard; 35 acres under cultivation, 15 acres good timber, balance well drained low land for pasture. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time.

No. 1725. 44½ acre farm, all clear, no waste land; good 4 room house; bank barn 47x76; good orchard; 2 wells. Price $1,800, ½ cash, balance on reasonable time.

No. 3,000. 64-acre farm 6 miles east of Auburn, 60 acres clear, 4 acres timber, well drained, all black sandy loam; fair house, good barn, 38x48; one of the best orchards in the county, an abundance of peach, pear, cherries, grapes, currants, berries, etc.; about 18 acres in wheat, 20 acres in grass, no waste land. This farm can be sold very low on terms that will certainly suit the purchaser.

No. 315. 60-acre farm in Jackson tp.; has a 7-room, 2-story brick house, with cellar, well and cistern; barn 32x64; orchard of 80 trees; all clear and in good cultivation. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time, easy payments This is a bargain.

MONEY! MONEY! Do you want to borrow any money? We can loan you any amount you want, from $500 to $20,000, at a low rate of interest, on long time, with privilege of partail payments. If you need money, do not put it off very long, but call at once. The demand for long time loans is increasing and our money cannot hold out long at the present rate of interest.

Do you need any Fire Insurance or Life Insurance? If you call on us and learn our terms, we have a line of the very best companies that pay losses promptly. Call at our office, for we have no agents running through the country soliciting. We can save you money if you need any thing in this line.

Are you going to travel? If so, come and see us. We can sell you a Railroad or Steamship ticket to any point in the world. If you want any information about rates or tickets—cheerfully given, call on us. No harm done if you do not buy.

We represent the National Building Ass'n. of Indianapolis, the best company of its kind in Indiana. Do you want to build or pay off a mortgage on your home, and pay it off in small payments. Parties having money to invest will do well to call on us at once.

If you want to buy or sell a farm, town property or personal property, give us a call. Our commission will be reasonable.

We make a specialty of handling stocks of goods of all kinds. Can either sell or trade them. We take pleasure in showing our property, free of charge, to any who think of buying.

(We have a number of Western and Southern farms that we can trade for land or town property here. Will give or take the difference.)

Rickel & Sprott,

Auburn, Ind.

—UNDER FARMERS BANK.

IVORY

IVORY SOAP

99 44/100% PURE

NO IRRITATION.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

Will Make Hens Lay.

Well's Hoosier Poultry Powder is the greatest egg producer known. A small sum expended for it will pay one hundred per cent on the cost in an increased amount of egg, as it furnishes all the material necessary for their construction, and keeps the hen in good healthy condition Price 25 cents. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

Ada—If you want to get her, don't be so abjectly devoted. You simply cheapen yourself in her eyes.

Frank—Then she'll take me. Jennie never could resist a bargain.

How's Your Horse?

Morris' English Stable Liniment will positively cure his lameness, sprains, bunches, sweeney, galls, puffs, poll evil, scratches, callouses, barbed-wire cuts and flesh wounds of every description. No other preparation equals it for promptness, safety and economy. Price 50 cts, and $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

Bad Boy (gleefully)—I had the earache this morning!

Good Boy—What good is that?

Bad Boy—Me mother put cotton in me ears, and now I don't hear 'er when she calls.

Great Music Offer.

Send us the names and addresses of three or more performers on the piano or organ together with with six cents in postage and we will mail you one copy "Popular Music Monthly," containing ten pieces, full sheet music, consisting of popular songs, waltzes, marches, etc., arranged for the piano and organ. Address: POPULAR MUSIC MONTHLY, Indianapolis, Ind.

Noall—I don't believe that girl will ever learn to waltz."

Saymuch—Worse than that—She will never learn not to attempt it.

For La Grippe.

Has your constitution been wrecked by an attack of LaGrippe. The Great South American Nervine Tonic will quickly restore your shattered nerves, strengthen and cure your digestive organs, regulate your liver and purify your blood; and restore you to perfect soundness again. This great tonic should be used after all sickness. Its power to restore to health is simply wonderful. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

CALIFORNIA MIDWINTER FAIR

Harrington's Excursion Feb. 24, 1894.

Send for book giving full particulars as to how the party will travel, list of hotels where they will stop, price of tickets and map showing route over which this excursion will pass. Seven thousand miles will be traveled in elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars, with Dining Car attached, for the exclusive use of this party. Do not forget that if you are going to California and do not wish to return with this party, you can do so, and so have the benefit of this special service of elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, as well as visit all the many points of interest mapped out for this tour en route to San Francisco

Call on or address 2 7

G. L. HARRINGTON,
46 N. High Street,
Telephone 868. COLUMBUS, O.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to more than make good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, each bottle guaranteed; Electric Bitters, the great remedy for Liver, Stomach and Kidneys; Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, and Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them, and the dealer, whose name is attached here with, will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 1

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of Its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

RETROSPECTIVE.

And now we bring our pleasant self-imposed task to a close. The history of Auburn during its first four decades of existence has, for more than three years, been in course of publication in the columns of THE AUBURN COURIER. One by one, the pioneers have been seen to retire from the stage of action, while others assumed their places and responsibilities.

Successive years have depicted the perils that threatened the countyseat and its struggles, not for precedence primarily, but for existence. Even in 1875, the town had scarce entered upon its now established leadership and few of the business and manufacturing firms that give it character for solid and permanent worth had then an existence.

Glancing backward to the forest environed hamlet, its denizens oppressed by unhealthy climate, poverty of means and lack of facilities for outside communication, we have seen courage and faith triumph as Auburn emerged from obscurity and entered upon a career of progress unbroken till the present.

The changes since 1875 have been most gratifying and substantial. Shabby frame has given place to modern architecture in dwelling and dwelling house. Vacant lots have been occupied, and institutions like the Farmers Bank have been established to keep pace with commercial needs, and in times of distrust and fear have withstood the test of solvency where others elsewhere failed.

Manufactories have arisen, like the Zimmerman, the Eckhart, the Church Furniture, the Foundry and the Kiblinger. These have added to their buildings, increased their capital, working force and output and won a good name for honest dealing and creditable workmanship.

Fine churches, involving heavy outlay, monuments to the virile energies of societies and adornments to the town, have been successively built and afford pleasant and capacious auditoriums.

The school building of 1876 burned and arose again like the fabled phœnix, but of finer form and greater proportions, and 1893 saw the erection of a new structure, destined to accommodate the increase of pupils and to stand a solid index of educational spirit.

An opera house, famous and convenient for pleasure seekers as rink and theater, and for the people for meetings and conventions, was the outgrowth of public spirit in leading citizens, and its loss by fire was a popular regret and a municipal misfortune.

It has been a far cry from the humble water mill of the early day to the steam band saw mill of Gandy & Nickey, employing its score of teams and many men in hauling large logs by thousands during years of operation and manufacturing lumber in enormous quantities.

Petty provisions for fires have given place to a splendid steamer, ably manned and Auburn's fire department is the pride of her citizens. The "Auburn" has never failed at critical moments as have vaunted waterworks, but the galloping greys driven by Pfefferl or Baker have on more than one occasion brought swift aid and prevented great loss of property.

The inexpensive street lamps of 1875 and later, were kept trimmed and lighted by the marshal. On the discovery of natural gas, brought up from a depth of nearly 2,000 feet, the kerosene lamps were supplemented by flaring torches about the public square and the cupola of the court house.

The roar of escaping gas thrilled the people with exultation, pipes were laid, residences, offices and public buildings were heated by this strange subteranean fuel and expectation stood on tiptoe. Then, as the flow lessened, connections were broken up and an electric plant was founded, providing in buildings, public and private, and on our streets, a wierd, brilliant and convenient light.

Cement walks, numerous and extended, have characterized the better ideals of the authorities and property owners, and these costly, but handsome and durable pavements add much to the looks of the streets and the comfort of pedestrians.

Increased population and enlarged resources confirm claims to municipal thrift and popular welfare. The assessed valuation of W. H. Kiblinger alone is $42,450.00, and of the town, $1,096,000.00.

We leave the further record of Auburn's progress to some other writer. Our task has been agreeable and instructive. May the future of Auburn outvie the present as the present has outdone the past and, in our possession of the advantages the town offers for getting a living and enjoying life, let us never forget those to whose fortitude and self-denial we owe these incalculable advantages.

WILLIAM H. MCINTOSH.

[THE END.]

CHANGES OF VENUE.

SOME THINGS THE PEOPLE OUGHT TO KNOW, IN ORDER TO PLACE THE BLAME WHERE IT BELONGS.

Not long since, we made some criticisms in regard to the too frequent changes of venue, and among other things stated that we did not know whose fault it was. Just at this point, we concluded that it would be a good thing to read the law and find out. A careful study of the statutes and the decisions of the supreme court bearing on this point relieves at least the judge of the court of any blame, for it is plain that in the great majority of cases, he cannot refuse to grant it, if asked. He has a chance to refuse a change of venue only in the case of minor criminal offenses; but in the more serious criminal cases, and in civil cases in general, he has no choice. The law compels him to do it if he is asked. Section 412, Revised Statutes, speaking of civil cases, says:

The Court, in term, or the judge thereof in vacation, shall change the venue of any civil action upon the application of either party, made upon affidavit showing one or more of the following causes:

FIRST.—That the Judge has been engaged as counsel in the cause prior to his election or appointment as Judge, or is otherwise interested in the cause.

SECOND.—That the Judge is of kin to either party.

THIRD.—That the opposite party has an undue influence over the citizens of the county, or that an odium attaches to the applicant, or to his cause of action or defense, on account of local prejudice.

FOURTH.—When the county is a party to the suit.

FIFTH.—Showing to the satisfaction of the Court, that the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted by the change.

SIXTH.—That the Judge of the Court wherein such action is pending, is a material witness for the party applying for such change.

SEVENTH.—When either party shall make or file an affidavit of the bias, prejudice, or interest of the judge before whom the said cause is pending.

CASES CITED.

118th Indiana, p. 123. Rout vs Ninde et al. In 1886, Rout had applied in the Adams county court for change of venue from the county on the ground that plaintiff had an undue influence over the citizens of the county, but the motion was overruled by the Judge. It was appealed: when, on hearing, the supreme court (Olds, J.), in March, 1889, reversed the judgment of the lower court. This decision of the supreme court is, in substance, this:

Where, in a civil case, a motion for a change of venue from a county is made, supported by an affidavit in compliance with the statute, it is the IMPERATIVE duty of the Court to grant the change.

In 105th Indiana, Judge Allen Zollars, then on the supreme bench, made a similar ruling. A divorce case had been appealed from Kosciusko county, because the Kosciusco county court had refused a change of venue, though applicant's affidavit had stated there was prejudice in the county against him. The supreme court reversed the decision and sent the case back to Warsaw on this ground alone.

In case the county is one of the parties to the suit, the law is especially strict, as seen by the fourth article quoted. This applies to the recent trial at Angola.

CRIMINAL CASES.

Revised Statutes, Sec. 1769, says in regard to change of venue from a county,

The defendant may show to the Court, by affidavit, that he believes he cannot receive a fair trial, owing to the bias and prejudice of the Judge against him, or, to excitement or prejudice against him in the county or some part thereof, and demand to be tried by disinterested triers.

Section 1771 of the same, says:

When the affidavits are founded upon the excitement or prejudice in the county against the defendant, the Court, in all cases NOT punishable by death, MAY, in its discretion, and in all cases of felony PUNISHABLE by death, SHALL, grant a change of venue to the most convenient county.

From these it will be seen that a change of venue does not lie in the control of the Court, and in cases where it is demanded without good reason, the fault lies with the parties to the suit. In criminal cases, the defendant is the one who generally asks it, in the hope of getting a lighter punishment. In our article, referred to in the beginning of this, we said we regretted the frequent occurrence of these changes of venue, chiefly for the reason that it costs us more, and also, for the very good reason that justice can be had in this county as well as elsewhere. But we might as well stop finding fault with the officers, for the law and decisions we have quoted, make it very plain that it is not their fault.

It might not be amiss, in concluding this article, to say that the great expense attending our courts is largely the fault of the people themselves. There is a disposition to go to law about every little thing, to fight for trifles day after day, till a great expense is made, a considerable part of which comes on the taxpayers. Half of these suits are unnecessary.

And where a case is taken to another county, our county must pay to that county all the expenses, many of which we would not have if tried at home. They can charge us for use of court house, its lights, fuel, etc., for sheriff and bailiffs, for the clerk, and usually the time of an extra judge. If cases are tried at home, we do not have these extras to pay for. The expense of witnesses, no matter who pays them, is greatly increased. We repeat what we have already said, that in nine cases out of ten, one of the parties to the suit is to blame for a change of venue, and that the change is almost always unnecessary.

Close of the Pioneer Sketches.

This week we close the historical articles on "Auburn and Vicinity," having brought them up to 1876, the same date at which we quit the "Pioneer Weddings." The articles will prove a valuable part of DeKalb county history, and at some time in the near future we hope to see them utilized to help us to a history that will prove more correct and complete than those heretofore published. Early settlers especially will prize them, and many have kept the copies of the COURIER containing them. In parting company for a time with these reminiscences, we ought not to forget their author, W. H. McIntosh, who has bestowed on them a vast amount of labor and energy. It has taken a great deal of time to secure all of this matter. Some of it was found in copies of old county papers, some in other records, and not a little obtained from prominent pioneers themselves, like the late S. W. Ralston, as well as J. R. Cosper and many more. The articles are ably written, and aside from their historic value, are full of excellent thoughts and comments. A time will come, and it is not far distant, when the result of his labors will be appreciated.

In conclusion, we would urge every pioneer and those familiar with men and conditions in pioneer days to put his knowledge into writing so it may eventually be available. Each locality has an additional history that the COURIER would be glad to assist them to perpetuate.

Follow the Crowd.

Many years ago, when in New York City, we desired to attend a service at Beecher's church, in the city of Brooklyn. A friend directed us to the Fulton Street ferry boat. "Once on the boat, you are all right," he said, "for when you reach the Brooklyn side, you have only to follow the crowd." So, when you step off the train at Fort Wayne, if in search of the magnificent ware rooms of the Foster Furniture & Carpet Co., you have "only to follow the crowd" of shoppers and you will have no difficulty in finding the store, which is located on Court street. This firm has built up an immense trade. Low prices, good goods, and fair dealing have been the secret of their success.

Notice.

We have contracted with Brown, Culbertson & Boland and J. K. Stafford, jointly, to handle our buggies, surreys and road wagons in DeKalb county. We wish to thank our customers for their patronage in the past and to assure them, and all contemplating purchasing anything in the buggy line, that they will receive fair ank honorable treatment at the hands of Messrs. Brown, Culbertson & Boland. Our goods are better than ever before and our guarantee goes with every vehicle just the same as if bought of us.

Respectfully,

4-5 ECKHART CARRIAGE CO.

Obituary.

Elizabeth (Welch) Hamilton was born Oct. 7, 1844, in Medina county, Ohio, and died Jan. 18, 1894, at her home in Jackson township, DeKalb county, Ind., her age being 49 years, 3 months and 11 days. Sept. 24, 1868 she was united in marriage to John Hamilton. He, with their two children, survive to mourn her loss. The funeral, conducted by Rev. J. N. Wilson, of Auburn, was held at Grove Bethel on Saturday, Jan. 20, and she was laid to her final rest in Woodlawn.

The Richland Township Sunday School Institute.

The 66th township institute of the Richland sunday schools will be held at Showers Corners Saturday of this week, Jan. 27, beginning at 9 a. m. A good program has been prepared, and the meeting promises to be an excellent one, as the Richland meetings always are. The public are invited to attend and assist. The children's meeting that was to have been held Sunday evening, Jan. 28, has been postponed on account of the protracted meetings at Sedan and Maple Grove.

PHŒNIX.

Clark E. Henry, "the one-legged man" of Stockton, California, rode a PHŒNIX BICYCLE from Stockton, across the continent, to New York without mishap. Call or send for catalogue containing the gospel on this excellent wheel, and above all, SEE THE WHEEL. It's strictly "up to date."

AUBURN CYCLERY

Opens Feb. 1st.

Cures Dyspepsia.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone, I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good good any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy: a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottle 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

We begin The New Year with

SWEEPING REDUCTIONS

In Every Department.

Many Nice

Dress Goods and Cloaks

Going at

HALF OUR FORMER PRICES.

We are Selling

CLOTHING

Regardless of Cost.

Now is the time to save money on Carpets and Curtains.

Sixty-five cent carpets now go for fifty-two.

Call to see us. We will make you happy.

SCHAAB & BRO.,

AUBURN.

INEBRIETY IS A DISEASE NOT A CRIME.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

Auburn, Indiana.

Incorporated under the Laws of Indiana and Endorsed by the U. S. Government. With Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Remedies we Cure

DRUNKENNESS

AND

Morphine Habit.

HOME TREATMENT for the Tobacco Habit and Nerve Exhaustion. No BOLTS. No BARS. No PAIN whatever. Absolute Freedom. IMITATORS, by adroitly worded advertisements, seek to convey the impression that they are handling Dr. Keeley's Remedies and employ his methods of treatment. Such persons are only Imitators and impose an imitation on the Public for the Genuine. For full information as to the Keeley Cure, both at the Institute and by home treatment address

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

AUBURN, IND.

All Correspondence Strictly Confidential.

Awarded Highest Honor World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Are you at all Weak-chested or inclined to be Consumptive, with just a touch of Cough now and then? "Try this Wonderful Medicine." The Cough and Weakness will disappear as if by magic, and you will feel a strength and power never had before.

HAVE YOU A COLD? A Dose at Bedtime will Remove it.

HAVE YOU A COUGH? A Dose will Relieve it.

Bronchitis and Asthma it relieves instantly. The Spasms of Coughing so dreadful in Whooping Cough become less with each dose of medicine. If is an old adage, "To be forewarned is to be forearmed." So let it be in your case, who read this, and keep on hand ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Directions accompany each bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AT 25cts., 50cts., AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

IT IS NOW IN ASHES.

A SERIOUS FIRE AT PURDUE UNIVERSITY.

The New Engineering Laboratory, Just Dedicated, Destroyed—Latest News from the Brazilian Revolution—Attempt to Blow Up a Building in Paris—Crushed to Death.

GAINING GROUND.

The Insurgents Getting the Better of the Government.

Rio Janeiro special: Since the arrival of the Aquidaban, the insurgents are gaining ground steadily. January 16, the insurgents captured Mocanguee islands. The Government lost eleven killed, eighteen wounded, and 100 were taken prisoners. The insurgents lost five and seven wounded. Advices from Desterro say the insurgents have conquered Paranagua. The Government's new warships are still at Pernambuco. The Government continues to arrest many on suspicion of sympathy with the Revolution and keeps sending strong reinforcements to the Nichteroy. President Peixoto has given orders to the warships, purchased in Great Britain and the United States, to sail southward and begin the long expected naval contest which in all probability will decide the struggle.

Word was received that the Nichteroy, America, Aurora, and Paranhyba had reached Bahia on the way to Rio. The dynamite gun aboard the Nichteroy is now said to be working to satisfaction. Insurgent Admiral Gama visited Admiral Benham. This confirms the rumors that Gama made proposals to Admiral Denham to act as mediator between the insurgents and the Brazilian Government. The epidemic of yellow fever is decreasing.

Fire at Purdue University.

The new engineering laboratory or Heaviton Hall, Purdue University, at Lafayette, Ind., just completed, delivered to Gov. Matthews for the State and dedicated only last week, was totally destroyed by fire. The fire started by escaping natural gas in the boiler room. A second explosion of accumulated gas threw out the south wall of the machine shop room adjoining, and started a fire which spread (facilities for fighting it being poor) to the other shops and main building, which all went. Only the wood shop was saved. The building cost $100,000 and contained apparatus valued at $80,000, all of which was almost a total loss. The insurance is believed to be light. The disaster will seriously interfere with the school work, and be a severe though temporary blow to the university, as the new facilities were greatly needed.

Bagged the Robbers.

Corinth (Miss.) special: The detective force of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad has been making important discoveries. Some parties living near Pocahontas, Tenn., twenty miles west of Corinth, have been plotting to rob a Memphis and Charleston passenger train. They procured dynamite and tools to blow open the safe and settled on a day to make the attempt, but in the meantime officers in citizens clothes quietly made arrest after ar[illegible] until now all of the gang have been bagge[illegible] except two or three.

Another Bonanza Gold Mine.

Leadville (Col.) special: The recent gold strike in the Little Johnnie mine has become a remarkable bonanza. On one day last week the value of gold ore taken from the mine amounted to $128,000. This is a remarkable showing. The largest recorded output in a single day or rather in eight hours from Leadville was from the Robert E. Lee mine when $118,000 worth of silver ore was lifted.

Bomb Found at Paris.

Paris special: A bomb has been found inside the main entrance of the Magazine du Printemps, on the Boulevard Haussmann. A fireman, who discovered the bomb, managed to extinguished the fuse before it could cause an explosion. The bomb, upon being taken to the municipal laboratory, was found to contain chlorate of potash.

Brooklyn Tabernacle.

The Trustees of the B[illegible]oo[illegible]lyn Tabernacle are tryi[illegible] to devise a way of [illegible]ring the church of its debts. The 10-cents admission plan has been abandoned and it has been decided to issue an appeal to the public for aid. Six of the trustees feel confident that Dr. Talmage can be induced to remain at the Tabernacle if the debts are cleared.

A Bluffton Sensation.

At Bluffton, Ind., Mr. Salmon disposed of his farm for $8,000 cash and with his money in his pocket started home from town. He was assaulted by two muscular men who at the muzzle of a shot-gun forced him to give up the money.

Crushed to Death.

Mrs. Annie Lindgreen, who was severely crushed by the hungry mob that was battling for food at the County Agent's office, Chicago, died of her injuries. She had called to obtain bread for her starving children.

To Aid the Unemployed.

The County Commissioners at Akron, Ohio, decided to expend $20,000 from the poor fund in improving Main street south of the city. Work and not charity will be given to worthy applicants for aid.

Elopers Captured.

Charles Kocher, aged 20, and Mrs. John Locker, aged 55, of Hazleton, Penn., who eloped, taking $1,700 belonging to Mrs. Locker's husband, were captured at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Fatally Burned.

Mrs. John Wyatt of Bowling Green, Ind., was fatally burned at her home. Her clothing caught fire while she was preparing supper.

To Form a Republic.

The steamer Monowai has arrived at San Francisco. She reports all quiet when she left Honolulu seven days ago. There is no important change in public affairs. Strong remonstrances have been addressed to Minister Willis. It is privately learned that a new constitution is all ready to be promulgated at the proper time. Chinese laborers are to be imported until Japan is ready to continue the supply on satisfactory terms. It seems to be definitely ascertained that for several weeks past and prior to Mr. Thurston's visit the Government has been working out a form of constitution for an independent Hawaiian Republic which is now substantially settled upon. Its form is like the constitution of the States of the Union, with President and Vice President, and Upper and Lower Houses of the Legislature.

NO MERCY SHOWN.

A Missouri Mob's Awful Revenge on a Colored Brute.

One hundred maddened farmers of the little town of Verona, Mo., and the country round about burned a negro at the stake. The other day the black man, whose name has not yet been learned, seized the 12-year-old daughter of Farmer Jacquin, bore her to the woods and so maltreated her that she may die. As soon as she could liberate herself after the fiend's departure she crawled home and told her story.

A posse of neighbors was at once organized, and when the news had spread through the community 100 determined men armed themselves and started in pursuit of the fugitive. The search was continued uninterruptedly until the culprit was found hiding in a clump of bushes only a few miles from the Jacquin farm. He admitted that he was near the Jacquin home, but denied strenuously that he was guilty.

Although more than half the members of the posse were in favor of stringing up the wretch then and there, wiser counsel prevailed, and he was taken before the girl who positively identified him as her assailant. So great was the fury of the avengers that had not the cry: "Burn him alive!" been raised, a hundred bullets would have pierced his body.

The trembling negro was hauled by means of a rope around his neck to a field less than a quarter of a mile away. He was chained hand and foot to a tree, dry wood, twigs, and leaves were piled about him to his waist, and the torch was applied. Not a face blanched at the awful sight while the victim writhed and struggled in mortal agony, and a great shout went up when the flame and smoke had done their work. The Jacquin girl's father and brother took part in the lynching and shouted out curses and jeers even after the flames had burned the miscreant beyond all semblance to humanity.

DEEDS OF BANDITS.

Wealthy Farmers Made Prisoners by Them for Ransoms.

Madrid special: A band of men recently entered the village of Senteni, in the Cadiz district, and abducted a rich farmer, whom they took to the mountains with the intention of holding him a prisoner until a heavy ransom was paid. They were well armed and well mounted. They were hotly pursued to the hills by a detachment of mounted gendarms who, it is reported, have succeeded in rescuing the farmer. Another farmer, whose father and wife were kidnapped and taken to the hills until a ransom could be obtained, was so overcome by grief that he committed suicide. The authorities of Cadiz declare themselves unable to cope with Agrarian outrage unless work is provided for the unemployed. A band of masked men invaded the inn in the village of El Bossque and pillaged it of all the money, eatables, and drinkables which it contained. The bandits, however, did not do any injury to the occupants of the inn, and did not enter any of the other houses of the village. They intimidated the inhabitants, in some instances, in order to induce the latter to assist them to escape.

CHANGED THE PLACE.

The Fight Will Not Come Off at Jacksonville but Elsewhere.

Jacksonville special: The Corbett-Mitchell fight positively will not take place in this city. The battle will be in Nashua County, directly north of [illegible]val County, between the town of [illegible]na and Jacksonville. Fernandina is about [illegible] twenty miles from Jacksonville on the F[illegible]da Central and Peninsular Railroad. The site of the battle ground will be within six miles of Fernandina. Those who will attend will not be given the word until an hour before time for the train to start. The railroad company, which is a party to the contract, put up $50,000 as a guarantee that no train not designated by the club shall pass over the road before five hours after the last special leaves Jacksonville for the newly chosen battle ground, and thus prevent interference. In order to overcome the trouble among those who secured box seats in advance, the charge to see the fight will not be less than the price of box seats. The Duval Club will lose money.

An A. P. A. Lecturer Mobbed.

Major Sims, the A. P. A. lecturer, was mobbed at Kaukauna, Wis. A mob of 2,000 people collected outside of the hall and stoned the building. Sims and a party of friends barricaded the doors and resisted the assault of the mob. The Sheriff of Outagamie County was sent for by Mayor Reuter, who also telegraphed for militia, which Governor Peck denied unless asked for by the Sheriff. The Sheriff partly dispersed the mob, and, with the help of local officers, escorted Sims to his boarding place. The mob followed, throwing stones. Sims was knocked senseless by a stone, but the officers fought the mob off and got him safely to his lodging. The mob then dispersed. Sims was escorted to a train next morning by three men armed with Winchester rifles and left for Ashland.

Aeronaut Killed.

A terrible accident occurred at the town of Washington, in the eastern part of North Carolina, which resulted in the almost instant death of L. N. Odell, an aeronaut of the Grace Shannon Balloon Company. Odell made an ascension, but before the balloon had reached a height of 300 feet above the ground it burst. Odell cut the parachute loose on the instant, but the height was not sufficient to permit it to spread properly and man and balloon went to the ground like a flash. His body was dreadfully mangled. At least 200 persons witnessed the accident, and Odell fell right in the midst of the horrified spectators. Odell is said to have been from Pennsylvania, and was about 30 years old.

Fire at Ionia.

Kenyon's block and hardware store at Ionia, Mich., was destroyed by fire. Shortly after the fire had been out several explosions took place, due to gun powder stored in the cellar which shattered the building and made the destruction complete. The loss will reach $35,000. The building was owned by Mr. Kenyon. The clothing store of E. C. Green & Co., was partially destroyed. W. S. Bank & Co.'s harness shop was wrecked and the stock a total loss; L. Higer's store adjoining the Kenyon building was also destroyed with the contents. J. H. Mitchell's law library was saved, but in a damaged condition.

Heroic Mother.

Mrs. Louis A. Lancaster met a frightful death at Milwaukee, while trying to save the life of her 2-year-old child. While the mother was attending to some work in the kitchen the child upset the table on which was a lighted lamp. The child's clothing was at once saturated with oil and set on fire. Mrs. Lancaster caught the child in her arms and ran downstairs. The flames communicated to her clothing during the flight and when she reached the yard she was so terribly burned that she died within a few minutes. The child was so badly burned that it cannot recover.

Talmage Will Resign.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, at the close of his sermon at the Tabernacle, Brooklyn, N. Y., Sunday night, made the announcement that he intended to resign from the pastorate of the church, the resignation to go into effect on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his taking charge of the Tabernacle. No intimation of this had been given by Dr. Talmage, and the announcement was a surprise to the congregation. Dr. Talmage has recently shown opposition to the scheme of the Board of Trustees to have the congregation pay 10 cents admission to his church.

Was a Great Fake.

Receiver T. J. Hurley of the Guarantee Investment Company, filed his report and an inventory of the office furniture in the Circuit Court at Chicago. The report shows the Company's liabilities were $55,000,000—that is, there were 55,000 bonds outstanding. To pay off these bonds the Receiver found $449 in cash and 75 cents in mutilated coin. The office furniture is covered by chattle mortgages to the extent of $1,200. The Receiver asks for instructions and for leave to wind up the affairs of the concern as quickly as possible.

To Enjoin Carlisle.

Des Moines (Ia.) special: General Master Workman Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, has forwarded to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia a petition to enjoin Secretary Carlisle from issuing fifty million bonds. C. C. Cole, ex-Chief Justice of Iowa, drew the petition which was approved by Senator Allen. The position is taken that the act of January 14, 1875, does not authorize the issuance of the bonds for any other purpose than the redemption of greenbacks or at any rate to maintain the $100,000,000 gold reserve.

A Serious Disturbance.

Berlin special: It transpires that the disturbance between the police and unemployed, upon the dispersal of the latter, was more serious than at first supposed. Some of the police used their swords freely, and cries of "work or dynamite" were heard. It is reported that the trouble is not at an end and the unemployed are determined to make an attempt to hold another meeting in spite of the police.

In Place of Hornblower.

The President has sent to the Senate the nomination of Wheeler H. Peckham of New York, to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. Although the New York senators decline to talk it is understood the nomination is distasteful to them. The indications seem to be that the Hornblower struggle will be renewed against this nominee.

Searching for the Train Robbers.

St. Joseph (Mo.) special: It is stated on good authority that 500 men are searching for the train robbers who recently held up two passenger trains in the vicinity of this city. A great many detectives are working on the case, it is claimed, besides the city and county officers and others who are attracted by the large rewards offered.

He Got Off Easy.

At Peru, Ind., Wm. Daterer was given a two years' sentence for a most barbarous assault on James McDonald, a man aged 50. Daterer was a barkeeper at the village of Bunker Hill. McDonald came in one day, and, in brutal jest, Daterer poured coal oil on his clothing and set it on fire. The old man was almost burned to death.

Three Men Killed.

Steubenville (O) special: The fourth section of a freight train east-bound on the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad broke in two on the Fernwood grade. When the two sections came together there was a fearful crash, wrecking five cars. The bodies of three men supposed to be tramps were taken out of the wreck.

Twenty-Five Fishermen Drowned.

Bilboa special: Heavy gales have prevailed in the bay and numbers of fishing boats have been lost. At least twenty-five fishermen have been drowned.

The Fire Record.

The little village of Pleasanton, Neb., was almost entirely wiped out by fire. The only building left in the business part was the bank.

Rio Troubles to Be Arbitrated.

It is reported at Rio Janeiro that the Government and the Insurgent leaders have agreed to submit their differences to arbitration.

Broke His Back While Skating.

Charles Quish while skating at Newberg, Mich., fell on the ice and broke his back, dying soon after.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3 00	@ 6 00
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4 00	@ 5 75
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	2 25	@ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59	@ 60
CORN—No. 2	34	@ 35
OATS—No. 2	29	@ 30
RYE—No. 2	46	@ 47
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	24	@ 25
EGGS—Fresh	15	@ 16
POTATOES—Per bu	50	@ 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3 00	@ 5 25
HOGS—Choice Light	3 00	@ 5 50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	2 00	@ 3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	57	@ 57½
CORN—No. 2 White	36	@ 36½
OATS—No. 2 White	31½	@ 32½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 5 00
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	56	@ 57
CORN—No. 2	32	@ 33
OATS—No. 2	30	@ 31
PORK—Mess	13 50	@14 25
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 5 00
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 50
SHEEP	2 00	@ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	58½	@ 59½
CORN—No. 2	35	@ 36
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	30	@ 31
RYE—No. 2	49	@ 51
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 4 75
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 75
SHEEP	2 00	@ 3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	60	@ 61
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	35	@ 35
OATS—No. 2 White	32	@ 33
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59	@ 60
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	37	@ 38
OATS—No. 2 White	29	@ 29½
RYE—No. 2	47	@ 48
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	71½	@ 72½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	40	@ 41
OATS—No. 2 White	33	@ 34
LIVE HOGS—Good to Choice	5 00	@ 5 75
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	59	@ 60½
CORN—No. 3	33	@ 34
OATS—No. 2 White	29	@ 30
RYE—No. 1	47	@ 49
BARLEY—No. 2	48	@ 50
PORK—Mess	13 00	@13 50
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 5 25
HOGS	3 75	@ 5 75
SHEEP	2 00	@ 5 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	67	@ 68
CORN—No. 2	43	@ 44
OATS—White Western	35	@ 40
BUTTER—Choice	20	@ 26
PORK—Mess	14 25	@15 00

TARIFF BILL DEBATE.

PARTY LEADERS DISCUSS THE WILSON MEASURE.

Democrats, Republicans and Populists All Take a Hand in the War of Words Which Is to Shape the Nation's Tariff Policy.

Synopsis of the Speeches.

At the close of Mr. Wilson's speech on the tariff bill, Mr. Burrows of Michigan made an address on behalf of the Republican minority. He said the measure under consideration involved the complete reversal of the economic policy. The act of 1890 was designed not only with a view of securing revenue for the support of the Government but for the further purpose of giving encouragement to the creation of new enterprises and protection to American industries and American workmen, against unequal and injurious foreign competition. In its practical workings it accomplished both these results. The decline in the public revenues is not attributable to any defect in the act of 1890, but rather to the general derangement and prostration of business throughout the country. The ascendency of a political party pledged to the destruction of our protective policy has not only crippled and suspended the operation of our domestic manufacturers, but the importer of foreign fabrics naturally curtails his importations in the hope of securing their admission into our markets upon the most favorable conditions. I confidently assert that if the election of 1892 had resulted in the retention of the Republican party in power, accompanied as it would have been with the assurance of a continuance of the American policy of protection, the effect upon the public revenue as well as the general prosperity of the country, would have been entirely the reverse of what is now seen."

Mr. Black (Dem.) of Illinois referred to Mr. Burrows' picture of dire disaster in this country and said the suffering depicted by him existed after thirty years of laws written by his own party. Not a law has been placed on the statute books by the Democratic party since 1860. The Democratic party's responsibility for the laws came only with this Congress. "Before we took charge," said he, "the present condition of affairs had begun. If that condition is due to existing law you cannot say we did it. So far as the law is responsible for the present conditions it is the law of the high protective tariff."

Mr. Hopkins (Rep., Ill.) said that the bill that had been reported by the Ways and Means Committee was certainly an anomaly of Congressional legislation. It neither comes up to the standard of the bold and defiant declarations of their party platform nor meets the expectations of the more conservative element of their party. As a revenue measure it is a confessed failure.

Mr. Johnson (Dem., Ohio) denounced the attitude of his party in the prolonged delay of action upon the tariff question after coming into power. If Mr. Cleveland had shown the sagacity and courage the situation demanded, the ink would not have been dry on the commissions of his secretaries ere Congress would have been called into executive session to relieve the country of its burdens of taxation. After much delay, however, the committee had given a Democratic report and a Republican bill. He would vote for the bill if he could get nothing better, but he did not like it. Mr. Johnson said that the bill, if enacted into a law, would injure but one trust, the sugar trust.

Mr. Cockran (Dem., N. Y.) said the objection that the bill would not afford sufficient revenue is one born of absolute ignorance of the laws of revenue reductions. A low tariff will not only increase the revenues of the government, he said, but it will increase the opportunities of American labor. For every dollar that goes into the treasury, hundreds of dollars are collected by the processes of consumption and trade throughout the country; so that the amount contributed for the support of the government is but a feature, a mite of this system of taxation, the real extent of which no man can tell.

Mr. Reed (Rep., Me.) undertook to refute Mr. Cockran's statements. He said the Democrats would sacrifice their market at home for a more extended one abroad, while the Republicans believed in enlarging the market in a different direction. They did not mean to go to the ends of the earth and struggle with the cheaper labor of the old world. What they meant to do was to elevate the market of this country by giving higher wages to labor and thereby constituting a market as broad as American production.

Mr. Breckinridge (Dem., Ky.) said that in some particulars the Wilson bill did not meet his approval, in that it did not go far enough. He would like to have seen timplate put on the free list even if a heavier tax would have to be levied on whisky. He would like to see the bounty on sugar removed, but he wanted the sugar men of the South and the sorghum men of the northeast placated, in order that they might be brought into the Democratic fold, for it was only by union that the reform could be consummated. He favored the ad valorem feature of the pending bill. While it did not meet with his unqualified approval he was ready to vote with his party on the experiment of an income tax.

Mr. Dingley (Rep., Me.), said instead of being a measure, as termed, to provide revenue, it was in fact a bill to abolish revenue. He argued in favor of protective duties, and said protection simply says to the foreign manufacturer: "You must pay our Government as a duty the difference between our wages and your wages in the production or manufacture and distribution of any article which you have withheld from your labor and which we have paid ours." He said the Democratic majority was deaf to the protest of the people in the recent elections.

Mr. Dalzell (Rep., Pa.) said that in the few months that the dominant party has held the reins of government it has proved itself conspicuously incompetent to deal with a single important question presented by the responsibilities of civil administration. In this deplorable condition of things, clouds and darkness all around us, what do those who rule our destinies propose by way of relief? A tariff bill that, if enacted, I predict posterity will pronounce the most infamous legislative crime of our history. Instead of relief it brings aggravation.

Mr. Warner (Dem., N. Y.) spoke in defense of the bill. While he urged its prompt passage, he said it had grave defects. For one thing it did not go far enough. He thought in some places it bore unevenly, and he protested particularly against the retention of the sugar bounty, and he protested still more strongly against the tax of one-quarter of a cent a pound by which it was proposed to protect the sugar trust. And he protested against the reciprocity which was now proposed to be revived for the benefit of the Standard Oil Company. He urged the passage of the bill, not as a compromise but as an attack upon the outworks of protection.

Mr. Everett (Dem., Mass.) said he was going to vote for this bill because he had believed for years that such a measure as this was demanded by patriotic considerations. He thought, however, that the Wilson bill did not go far enough.

Mr. Payne (Rep., N. Y.) said the pending bill was a sectional measure in that it extended protection to southern white cutting the duties on northern agricultural products.

Mr. Simpson (Pop., Kan.) intended to vote for the bill, but there were many provisions in it that did not meet with his approval; inasmuch, however, as it was a robber tariff at least 20 per cent. lower than the McKinley bill, he should have to support it. The cause of the existing troubles he found in the intolerable burden put on the agricultural classes by the system of indirect taxation. He illustrated his remarks on the deplorable condition of the agricultural classes by displaying a dilapidated overcoat which he got from a farmer. He said he could duplicate it on the backs of a million farmers in the United States to-day. He said the People's party stands pledged to the principles of free trade.

Mr. Hopkins (Rep., Ill.) criticised statements made by Mr. Simpson in speaking of the farmers. Mr. Pickler (Rep., S. D.) opposed the bill. He said South Dakota had all the natural advantages for the raising of sheep for wool, and had facilities for raising many more sheep than it now possesses; but under the operations of the Wilson bill this industry would be ruined. And so with the raising of cattle, horses, and other farm stock.

Mr. Burrows (Rep., Mich.) submitted a letter from a wool-grower at Adrian, Mich., showing that the wool industry of Michigan would be killed by the passage of the Wilson bill.

Mr. Springer (Dem., Ill.) said it was unjust to attribute all the distress which had been prevailing to the threatened changes in the McKinley act. The sooner the pending bill was passed the better it would be for the country. "And just as soon as this bill is passed every loom in the country will be started, every furnace fire will be lighted and every instrument of production will be put in active operation. Give this country free wool, free ores, free coal and free raw material, workingman's industry, and we will take a front position in the markets of the world."

Mr. Dolliver (Rep., Iowa) said that the remedy for the present depression is the employment of our own people, not giving it to those of other countries. The opportunity to work created the wage fund on which the prosperity of our people depended.

Mr. Harter (Dem., Ohio) said that a protective tariff put down wages and lowered their purchasing power by putting up the price of goods.

Mr. Turner (Dem., Ga.) undertook the refutation of the charge that the Wilson bill was framed in the interests of Southern as against Northern farmers, and said he believed in free trade.

Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., Ohio) argued in favor of the Wilson bill. He said the inevitable and necessary consequence of the bill will be the ruin of the remaining industries of the country. It will reduce the value of sheep $30,000,000, close up innumerable factories and workshops, and greatly lessen and practically destroy the demand for the enormous output of coal now and heretofore being mined and marketed for manufacturing purposes.

Mr. Boen (Pop., Minn.) vigorously opposed the provisions of the bill.

Mr. Henderson (Rep., Ill.) spoke against the bill, and was followed by Mr. Weadock (Dem., Mich.) in favor of the bill.

Mr. Clark (Dem., Mo.) amused the House for a time. He was strongly in favor of the measure.

Mr. Shaw (Rep., Wis.) opposed the bill, and said it was neither fish, flesh, nor fowl.

Mr. Dalzell (Rep., Pa.) charged Mr. Johnson, of Ohio, with manufacturing certain kinds of street railway rails, behind the protection of 102 patents, and for that reason was willing to have railway rails go on the free list. He denounced Mr. Johnson's attack on Carnegie, and said that Carnegie, the true philanthropist, is giving $5,000 a day for the relief of the poor in Pittsburg, while the false philanthropist from Cleveland takes advantage of the winter's blast to dicker about the wages of his employes. Mr. Johnson replied to Dalzell in a semi-humorous tone. He said that Dalzell had made a personal attack on him and even confessing that all he says is true that offers no reason why rails should not go on the free list.

Mr. Bland (Dem., Mo.) declared that free rails would enable many roads to repair their roads and take many out of the hands of receivers. The Johnson amendment to put steel rails on the free list was lost.

Mr. Bell (Pop., Col.) spoke in favor of the bill, although it did not go far enough to suit him. Mr. Shaw (Rep., Wis.) opposed it, especially the proposed reduction of duties on barley. Mr. Morgan (Dem., Mo.) while he indorsed the provisions of the bill, generally condemned in strong terms the proposition to place lead ore on the free list.

In the consideration of the sugar schedule Mr. Dingley of Maine and Mr. Mercer of Nebraska supported the present bounty and Mr. Tarsney of Missouri defended the bounty provision of the Wilson bill. Mr. Washington (Dem., Tenn.) urged a 1-cent tax for revenue. Representative Gillet (Rep., Mass.) criticised the sugar schedule of the bill on the ground that the taking off the bounty took away the constitutional ground of national expediency on which the sugar schedule was chiefly sustained. Mr. Snodgrass (Dem., Tenn.) and Mallory (Dem., Fla.) opposed the bounty. Mr. Boatner was in favor of a revenue duty on sugar. Mr. Payne protested against put ing a tax back on sugar. Mr. Wilson spoke briefly against any change in the tariff bill as prepared by the Committee on Ways and Means. The amendments and substitutes presented to the sugar schedule were then read prior to taking the vote upon them. The first amendment was the one offered by Mr. McRae, suspending the bounty on sugar and putting sugar on the free list. The McRae amendment was agreed to on a vote by tellers by yeas, 135; nays, 69. Mr. Robertson offered an amendment providing for a tariff tax on sugar. To this amendment Mr. Warner offered an amendment putting refined sugar on the free list. Mr. Breckinridge offered a substitute, providing for a duty of 1 cent per pound on molasses, sirups, and all raw products of cane juice, beet juice, tank bottoms, sugar sweepings, etc. Mr. Warner's amendment was agreed to, nearly all Republicans voting in the affirmative. The Breckinridge amendment was lost.

POVERTY IN PHILADELPHIA.

Horrible Tale of the Most Pitiable Destitution.

The police of Philadelphia came across a most pitiable case of destitution the other day. In a wretched lodging house on Maple street, known as "Noah's Ark," they found a woman named Mary E. Allen, aged 55, in the last stages of consumption. Her body had been terribly bitten by rats, and when the policeman entered the room she was making feeble attempts to drive away an army of rodents with a club! She was without food or drink for several days and was in a very helpless condition. All about were signs of abject poverty. It seems strange that in these days of enlightenment such extreme cases could exist unknown in the heart of a big city.

FIGHTING OFF RATS.

Cow Butter vs. Oleo.

All ready for war against the sinful "oleo" man is the National Dairy Union. The union met in Chicago, adopted a constitution, elected officers, and laid out a plan of campaign. The union heartily indorsed Senator Hill's anti-"oleo" bill, asked Congress to raise the tax on imitations of butter to 7 cents a pound, demanded of the Internal Revenue Department that the existing laws be more stringently enforced, and asked the appropriation of at least $150,000 to be applied to the expense of prosecuting oleomargarine cases. The constitution adopted declares that the object of the union shall be to secure national and State legislation to prevent the manufacture and sale of food articles made in imitation of butter and cheese and to assist in the enforcement of all laws now in existence or to be made in the future against such products.

A resolution asking that the making of filled cheese be subjected to the same tax as oleomargarine was also passed. Mr. Duckworthy, of New York, read resolutions calling upon the Internal Revenue Commissioner to more fully execute the present "oleo" laws. During the progress of this controversy it was stated that the Internal Revenue Department is now allowed only $50,000 a year for the expense of running down all offenders against revenue laws; so another resolution was offered beseeching Congress to set aside at least $150,000 to be used to defray the expense of prosecuting "oleo" cases alone. The Board of Control will go to Washington and lay violent siege to the doors of Congress. The next meeting will be held in Washington, D. C.

AMENDMENTS AFOOT.

HOUSE STRUGGLING WITH THE WILSON BILL.

Sugar, Coal and Iron Are Bones of Contention—Income Tax Will Cause a Sharp Battle—Pensions Estimate Is Considerably Lowered.

Outline of Work.

Washington correspondence:

THE House still struggles with the Wilson bill and a multitude of proposed amendments. The sugar men are loud in their objection, led by Messrs. Boatner and Price. Their real reliance, however, is upon the solid block of Eastern members, who are opposed to an income tax, and who prefer a revenue duty on sugar as the safer alternative. If the seventy or eighty members who are against the income tax will vote solidly for the sugar duty, it will require only thirty or forty Southern and Western members to make a majority on the Democratic side. It would be a happy solution of the problem of providing revenue, in the opinion of the Eastern members of the committee, and would practically knock the income tax in the head. The Republicans can turn the scale heavily in either direction, and the Eastern Democrats fear that they will turn it against the sugar duty. Some of the Southern members, moreover, who might be willing to vote for the sugar duty under certain conditions, are seeing "the nigger in the woodpile" as clearly as their Eastern friends and may vote against the sugar duty to save the income tax.

Another class of members, including some from the East, believe that it is better to let the bill go through the House with sugar free of duty and to leave to the Senate the task of putting on the duty and striking out the income tax. They reason that the Senate is certain to take this action, and that if the withdrawal of free sugar proves unpopular with the masses the Senators can bear the burden much more easily than members of the House, who have to deal directly with the people and many of whom live in close districts.

The fight for a duty on coal and iron ore is being hotly waged and a big railroad lobby is urging in the strongest terms that the duty be restored. The persistent labor of the lobby with individual members in favor of the duty is having some effect upon doubtful members, but the committee in this case will have the advantage of the radical free-trade vote, besides the conservative Eastern vote, which has been steadily with them.

A recent dispatch says many advocates of the income tax have abandoned all expectation of its adoption by the House.

Other friends of the proposition, however, are more hopeful and express confidence that in the Democratic caucus it will be made a part of the tariff bill and succeed or fail with that measure. A new argument has been placed in their hands by the figures furnished by the Treasury Department to the Committee on Ways and Means regarding the cost of collecting revenues. These show that while the collection of customs cost 3.8 per cent., and that of internal revenue, including liquors and tobacco, 2.8 per cent., it cost but 1.6 per cent. to collect the income tax. A poll of the Senate Committee on Finance on the question of an income tax is said to have revealed the fact that it stands six to five in opposition thereto. This fact may have an important bearing on the treatment of the subject in case it should reach that body.

Routine Proceedings.

Friday was a day of amusing incidents and exciting debates in the House. Mr. Dalzell continued his remarks specifying certain discrepancies between the theory and practice of Mr. Johnson. Mr. Johnson briefly replied, denying the allegations in detail and deprecating the policy of dragging personalities into a tariff debate. He closed by making another plea to place steel rails on the free list. Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, made the principal speech in opposition. He pleaded earnestly that the work of the Committee on Ways and Means should not be altered without due consideration. The amendment placing steel rails on the free list was defeated by a vote of 79 to 100. Mr. Henderson offered as an amendment to the agricultural schedule of the Wilson bill the corresponding clause in the McKinley law. This gave rise to some exciting colloquies, but no action was taken. Unimportant speeches were made at the evening session. There was a larger number of members present than for some time past. An agreement was then entered into whereby three hours, immediately after the House goes into committee of the whole Monday, will be taken to debate on the sugar schedule, and the vote will then be taken on any amendments which may be offered.

A bill for two additional judges for the Chicago district and circuit courts was introduced in the Senate by request. Mr. Peffer talked for nearly three hours on his resolution declaring an issue of bonds by Carlisle illegal. Sugar was discussed in the House. Amendments striking out the bounty and putting refined on the free list were adopted. A memorial of the Hawaiian Patriotic League was transmitted to Congress, with other correspondence, by the President. Wheeler H. Peckham, of New York, was nominated for the vacant supreme court justiceship by the President. Text of the internal revenue bill as reported to the full ways and means committee was given to the public. Mr. Bell, of Colorado, introduced in the House a bill to provide for the withdrawal of the discretionary power of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds, to provide for the coinage of all silver in the treasury, for the issue of non-interest bearing treasury notes for current expenses, to protect the gold reserve and to give immediate relief to the treasury.

Notes of Current Events.

THE Knights of Labor and the American Federation of Labor are engaged in an effort to amalgate.

JAS. B. KIRTLEY, a real estate dealer, of Kansas City, Mo., was run over by a train, and died soon after.

KANSAS Attorney General decided against chartering an organization for the arming of laboring men.

TWO LITTLE girls were burned to death at Des Moines, Iowa. Mrs. Dobson, the mother, left them alone in the house.

MRS. LOUISA A. STUTTON, a pioneer resident of Kansas City, Kan., was burned to death in her home.

SEDITION in Sicily is apparently unchecked. The orders to disarm the islanders are generally ignored.

THE old firm of Whittier, Fuller & Co., San Francisco, has been dissolved, the Whittier interest succeeding.

TWO MINERS were crushed in a snow slide at Mullan, Idaho. The town itself narrowly escaped destruction.

J. D. SLATFORD, of Chicago, was awarded custody of his children at St. Johns, N. B., but his wife kidnaped them.

RADICALS GET IT ALL.

Overwhelming Majorities Declare for No Duty and No Bounty on Sugar.

Washington special: The fight to amend the sugar schedule of the Wilson bill was made in the House Monday. It opened immediately after the reading of the journal, according to the agreement by which three hours were set aside for this purpose. Before the first amendment was offered some discussion was had as to whether the amendment should lie to each of the three sections of the Wilson bill schedule separately—the bounty provision, the duty of five-twentieths of a cent on refined sugar above No. 16 Dutch standard, and the duty of 30 per cent. on sugar candy and confectionery and of 15 per cent. on grape sugar. Pending an agreement as to the mode of procedure, Mr. Hitt, of Illinois, withrew the amendment pending with reference to reciprocity with Canada on free coal. Then, after further consultation, the sugar men, represented by Mr. Blanchard, withdrew their first proposition and asked that the time be divided into three parts, an hour for those in favor of the bounty provision, one for those who favor the bounty provision of the McKinley law, and an hour for those who favor a duty on sugar. Mr. McRae objected because this arrangement gave no time to those who were for free sugar and no bounty. It was finally agreed, however, that the Louisiana members who were most interested should have an hour, and the remainder of the House should take chances of recognition of the Chair during the other two hours.

The first amendment was that offered by Mr. McRae (Dem., Ark.) to abolish entirely the sugar bounty. In support of his amendment Mr. McRae said that he proposed to abolish entirely the sugar bounty and leave sugar on the free list where it was placed by the McKinley law. A time when the Treasury was bankrupt and the Secretary of the Treasury was proposing to borrow money at 5 per cent. interest was no time to pay a special bounty to any interest. He had no personal feeling against the section of the country to be affected, but he did not conceive that a Democratic Congress would perpetuate this, the most vicious provision of the McKinley bill. The bounty would cost the people of the country, said Mr. McRae, as it stood, $50,000,000. The bounty last year cost $10,000,000. He contends that the bounty was unconstitutional and un-Democratic, and should be abolished. The McRae amendment was carried by an overwhelming majority, 135 to 69. This action abolishes the bounty on sugar.

The vote was then taken upon the amendments to section 181, providing for a duty on refined sugars.

AT WAR WITH HERSELF.

The Story of a Woman's Atonement, by Charlotte M. Braeme.

CHAPTER XXXI.

She was no insensible heroine, this unhappy, erring girl, who had taken love and honor in one hand, wealth and untruth in the other, and had deliberately decided in favor of the latter. She was far from insensible, and she did not find it quite so easy to destroy her own conscience as she had thought. Something quite strange and new had come over her. A sudden noise—the opening of a door—the sound of an unexpected footstep—made her tremble.

"My lady never used to be nervous," said Florette, "but ever since that ball she has been nothing but nerves."

Was it an unquiet conscience? She who had laughed at the world's opinion, who had been completely indifferent as to what people said of her, now never saw two persons whispering together without wondering if they knew that she had found the will and had hidden it again.

On the morning after the ball she dressed herself carefully. She bathed her face in clear, cold water to restore something of its bloom, and tried to look as much like herself as possible; but she did not succeed. Something had gone from her face that was never, while the sun shone, to be seen there again. Lady Fanshawe looked at her, and told her bluntly that late hours did not suit her. She went up to Miss Dacre, and Ethel took her hand with a warning glance.

"Why do you look at me so strangely?" asked Leonie.

"You are like a flower with the bloom rubbed off," replied Miss Dacre; and her answer brought a flush to the fair face.

"What do you mean?" asked Leonie. "How strangely you speak to me! What are you thinking of that you say such a thing to me?"

Miss Dacre was more astonished still at her vehemence.

"My dear Lady Charnleigh, I mean nothing, and I am thinking of nothing more than this—that you look very tired, and have very little color."

Leonie turned away with an angry expression at her own folly.

"Am I always to be frightened and nervous—to fancy that people have found me out—to mistake simple words for accusations of guilt? If so, the price of my sin will be a heavy one."

That it was a heavy one she found out before the day was ended; and yet the most sorrowful thought of all—the remembrance that she must give up Sir Bertram—she resolutely kept at bay. One of the first things she did was to answer Paul Flemyng's note.

"I have not time for many words," she wrote; "but if you think I could make you happy, I will be your wife. Grant me two favors—do not come over to Crown Leighton to-day—I am too tired to see anyone; and do not mention the fact of our engagement until I give you permission. I have very special reasons for making this request."

She signed the name—Leonie Charnleigh—in a clear, legible hand, and smiled bitterly to herself as she did so.

"If he knew the title was his, not mine, what would he say?"

She sent the note at once, and, though she did not acknowledge, even to herself, why the had done so, her real motive was that she should so far bind herself as to put all possibility of retracting out of her power. As she folded and sealed it, she said to herself:

"Now I am Paul Flemyng's betrothed wife, and it does not matter which of us has the money—it will soon belong to both."

But that day she found out something of the price of her sin. Her pleasure of life was destroyed; the hours that had once seemed golden and too short now dragged so heavily that each seemed to her a day. The luxury and splendor of Crown Leighton, that had once been to her as the very light of her eyes, was nothing. He whom she loved would never share it—what was it worth without him? She had loved the sunshine and the flowers even as the birds do; but now she turned from them with a positive loathing. Why should trees and leaves, waving grass, and singing birds all tell of him? He was to be nothing to her. They might both live long, and yet life would never bring them any nearer to each other than they were now. She had loved the old moss-covered sun-dial that stood near the well, but to-day she cared little for it; no hour that it could tell would bring her lover to her side again.

"My life seems cursed," thought the girl, as she turned drearily from all the splendor and magnificence she delighted in. "Is it possible that I have purchased Crown Leighton at too dear a price? Perhaps not—it is the first time in my life that I have done what people call wrong. I have been guilty of a hundred follies, but no wrong; that is what darkens the sunshine. In a few days I shall have forgotten it, and shall take the same keen delight as ever in my beautiful home."

"Sir Bertram has not been over to-day," said Miss Dacre, as the three ladies sat alone at dinner. "What can have happened to keep him away?"

"Perhaps he guesses we are all too tired for visitors," said Lady Fanshawe.

Leonie spoke no word: a pain she could hardly bear had smitten her. If this day seemed so terribly long, so weary, so dull, because he had not been, what would the days and years be like when there was no hope of his coming! The very thought of it frightened her. He would come once more, and she would have to tell him that she was going to marry his rival. He would leave in anger and they would never meet again.

"Leonie," said Miss Dacre, "what has come over you? Do you know that since last evening you are completely changed?"

"How can any one change in twelve hours, Ethel? Talk reasonably."

"Sir Bertram says ladies talk feelingly, but never reasonably," replied Miss Dacre, and the fair face at which she was looking so intently grew burning hot at the mention of that name.

"Will you come out? The evening is very pleasant, and some of the white roses Sir Bertram sent you are budding. Will you come and see them?"

"I am so tired of flowers, Ethel; the buds will grow into flowers very well without me."

"Come and sing; I have some pretty duets that we have not tried yet."

"Oh, Ethel," sighed the weary, young voice, "I am in no humor for music."

"The box of books has come from Mudie's; shall we have it unpacked?"

"If you like; only do not bring anything near me."

Then Ethel went up to her friend and laid her cool hand on the hot brow.

"Tired of sunshine, of flowers, of music, of books, and of everything else—Leonie, what has come over you? I thought you the brightest, gayest, happiest girl in the wide world—what has made you grow tired of everything, dear?"

"Do I seem to be so? Perhaps I am like the girl in the fairy tale—spoiled by too much happiness," she said. "Go and fetch a nice book—a novel where the heroine loves gold better than anything else in the world."

"I do not think it would be possible to find such a book," replied Miss Dacre; "most heroines are made good and attractive."

"Then a good woman never cares about money," said Leonie, quickly.

"A good woman is never mercenary, Leonie, as one must be who makes money her first thought."

Ethel went to find the novels, and Leonie opened one; but the page was never turned; she was not reading, but trying to solve a problem—was she mercenary, or was she not? And she found it impossible to decide.

"I cannot be mercenary," she said, to herself. "If Paul Flemyng would have taken half my fortune when he came home, I would most cheerfully have given it to him; therefore I cannot love money for money's sake. If any one came to me poor and distressed, I would relieve them with bountiful hands. I love to be generous; I love to show queenly hospitality, to make handsome presents, to pay ample wages; I like to spend money as queens spend it—royally, lavishly; so I am not mercenary. I do not love it for its own sake.

"Why do I love it?" she thought again. "Because it brings me the power of being generous. It brings me position, splendor, homage, and ministers to my every caprice. Yet do I care so much for it as to sacrifice my love to it?"

Never one page of the book was turned; she was asking herself, was it too late, even now? She might own the truth to Lady Fanshawe at once, and be happy with Sir Bertram without splendor. She had forgotten for a few minutes the note she had sent to Paul Flemyng; she remembered it now with a deep-drawn, bitter sigh. It was too late; she must go on in the path she had chosen for herself.

"How am I to meet the morrow?" she asked herself, wearily. "Bertram will come, and to send him from me will break my heart and his." The bare idea made her look so pale and ill that Lady Fanshawe rose in alarm.

"Lady Charnleigh," she said, "do not lose patience with me, but I insist on your going to your own room. You look so ill that my heart aches for you."

"Does it, auntie? Then I will go, and not unwillingly either, for this has been the longest day of my life."

"I wonder," said Lady Fanshawe to Miss Dacre, when they were alone, "if she has quarreled with Sir Bertram Gordon. I am quite sure there is something wrong; I have never seen Lady Charnleigh out of spirits since I have known her until now."

"I do not think there has been any quarrel," replied Miss Dacre, quietly; "Sir Bertram went away last evening quite as much in love as ever."

Meanwhile Leonie walked slowly to her own room, and asked herself whether she could possibly live through many such days as these or not, and whether, after all, she had not paid dearly for her title and wealth.

CHAPTER XXXII.

It was quite a novel sensation for Leonie to awake and feel that the coming day would be full of discomfort to her. She had been accustomed to rise with a glow of happiness at her heart—a sense of renewed gladness—a keen anticipation of coming happiness; but this morning her heart was oppressed with a heaviness, as of lead, for two interviews were before her. First, she must meet the man she had defrauded, and meet him as her lover. Secondly, she must tell Sir Bertram that all his hopes were at an end. Woman-like, the more certain she grew of having to part from him, the deeper, truer, and more earnest became her love.

When she stood before the mirror that morning she started back in sore fright. Was that the brilliant Lady Charnleigh—this pale-faced girl, whose eyes were heavy and dim as with long watching?

"I must alter this," she thought. "I am losing all my beauty—my face is pale, my eyes are dim. I must make haste to be happy again."

It had not yet occurred to her that by her own act she had willfully cut herself off from all happiness, and that, though she might regain her color and the light in her eyes, she would never more regain peace of heart or gayety of spirit.

"If I could only remember the good things that remained to me," she thought. "I am Lady Charnleigh, mistress of Crown Leighton, and one of the wealthiest women in England. Am I to be haunted by a ghost," she cried, with sudden passion—"a ghost who whispers to me every moment that what I have is not mine, but stolen from another? Let me forget that, and remember only the good that remains to me."

She went down to breakfast with a snatch of some sweet song on her lips; she laughed and talked as gayly as ever; she ridiculed her own over-fatigue, until Lady Fanshawe felt quite at ease about her. But Miss Dacre was more than ever convinced that there was something seriously wrong with Lady Charnleigh.

It was not yet noon when Paul Flemyng reached Crown Leighton, and despite her assumed bravery Leonie's face grew perfectly colorless when she heard his name announced.

"Is he here?" she said, hastily. "I will see him in the drawing-room."

"Pray forgive me if I have not waited to know where you would see me," said Captain Flemyng, who had followed the servant closely. "I was too impatient, Leonie—I could not wait."

They were quite alone in the pretty sunny apartment known as the morning-room, and Captain Flemyng, his handsome face lit up with smiles, went up to her and took her hand. He did not notice that she shrank from him, with a look in her eyes like that of a wounded animal driven to bay.

"How happy you have made me, Leonie," he said. "How proud I am! I ask myself what have I done that I should win a treasure so priceless as your love. How am I to repay you?"

His handsome head was thrown back, his face all aglow with the light of love, yet softened by the tenderness that made it beautiful as a woman's. He looked in that moment a lover of whom any woman might have been proud—brave, gallant, handsome, and noble; yet no such thought came to Lady Charnleigh. She shrank from the eager eyes and tender words.

"That you should love me!" he said. "It seems so wonderful, Leonie. It is as though a queen had stooped from her high estate to place a subject by her side. The sun in the summer skies seemed no further from me than you, Leonie."

Still she had no word for him, and he looked at the downcast, colorless face with something of wonder. He knew she was sensitive and had not expected rapture; but he had certainly looked for something very different from this.

"Leonie," he said, "why are you so silent? Looking at you, sweet, so silent, so sad, I could fancy you had been forced into accepting me; and you know all unworthy as I am, you have taken me of your own free will."

She raised her eyes to his face.

"I know that Paul. I have not been 'forced,' as you call it."

"I know that, darling."

She shrank back at the word—it was one that Bertram had delighted in using to her, and it seemed such an infringement on his rights that she shrank in pain. Then she suddenly remembered that he had no right over her, and that no one living possessed any, except the young soldier by her side.

"Say I am welcome, Leonie," he continued, with something like pain in his voice. "Say something kind to me, or I shall think the time that you gave me such unutterable happiness only came to me in a dream, after all."

Then she roused herself.

"Of course you are welcome, Paul. How strangely you word your ideas. And I—I will try to make you very happy."

It was quite enough to drive him beside himself with purest joy. She did love him, and she would be pleased to be his wife. He had thought her cold and reserved; but it was only maidenly modesty and sweet, girlish reserve after all—nothing more. He took her jewelled hand in his.

"My darling, my wife that is to be, I thank you for the gift of your love. I could not love you better. My heart, my mind, my strength, my life itself, are all yours. I believe in you as I believe in Heaven. You have said you care for me—you have promised to be my wife; and my faith is boundless as the deep sea."

The passion of his words touched her with remorse. How all his love was wasted upon her! How little she deserved it! She had none for him. It is not in human nature to love that which we have injured, and she had injured him; she had robbed him of all that belonged to him, and now she found that she could not even give him love in return. It was in vain that she tried. He stood there in the place of the man she loved. For his sake she must part with Bertram. How was it possible to care for him? And yet she had done him such a grievous wrong that her whole heart turned with infinite pity to him.

"Leonie," said Paul Flemyng, "are you quite sure you love? Pray forgive me; you look so sad. A dreadful idea has just occurred to me—shall I tell you what it is?"

"I do not think any idea of yours can be very dreadful," she replied. "Yes, tell me, Paul."

"Are you quite sure, dear, that you have not consented to marry me from some quixotic notion of generosity—some idea that you will make up to me for having lost in order that you might gain? Surely, it is not so Leonie?"

The words stabbed her with the sharpest pain.

"It is not so!" she cried. "You are cruel to me, Paul. Why will you not believe that I love you?"

"I will and do believe—only that you seem so sad, my darling. I would fain see you smiling, bright, happy."

"I shall be happy in a few days. You do not realize how——" Then her voice faltered, and the words died on her lips.

"I do not realize how strange it is to love and be loved—perhaps not, darling. I love you all the more for your shy, sweet reserve. Now, tell me—why do you wish to keep our engagement secret?"

"It is only for a time," she answered, wistfully, "and not unless you please, of course. But you know, Paul—I cannot help it—others have cared for me as well as you."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A SMUGGLER'S SCHEME.

How He Hoodwinked the Customs Officials at New York.

A customs official at the port of New York related the following story of a diamond smuggler: A letter reached the customs authorities, stating that a man, a well-known smuggler, would leave Liverpool by a certain steamer on a certain date, carrying with him diamonds to the value of $70,000 or $80,000. A telegram announced his departure, and in due time the steamer was boarded by the revenue officers. The man was found in his stateroom, suffering from a bad cough, a plaster on his chest; but, despite his indignant repudiation, not only were his effects searched, but his immediate person came beneath the hands and eyes of the vigilant detectives. Their search was repaid; for in the lining of his coat were the precious stones discovered.

When the diamonds were brought to the seizure-room at the Custom House, a lapidary, to the intense disgust and mortification of the officers, pronounced them paste. The experts had met a little more than their match. The man was traced to his hotel, and again subjected to a microscopic search. When his chest was bared, lo! the plaster had disappeared; but the white indentions showed where the diamonds had lain concealed, while the officers sought them elsewhere.

Lies Credited to History.

There was probably no such man as Romulus.

There never was such a person as Pope Joan, the so-called female Pontiff.

Wellington at Waterloo did not say: "Up, guards, and at 'em."

Alfred the Great did not visit the Danish camp disguised as a minstrel.

The existence of the Colossus of Rhodes is considered by some historians extremely doubtful.

There is no historic authority for the statement that little George Washington cut down the cherry tree.

Cromwell and Hampden did not attempt to sail to America just before the outbreak of the English revolution.

Philip III. of Spain was not roasted to death by a roaring fire because court etiquette forbade any one to come to his assistance. He died a natural death.

Pocahontas did not save the life of John Smith. It has been ascertained that this worthy man was the most able-bodied prevaricator of his century.

Seneca was not a half-Christian philosopher, but a grasping money lender and usurer who died worth over £3,000,000.

Cæsar did not say: "Et tu, Brute." Eye witnesses to the assassination deposed that "he died fighting, but silent, like a wolf."

Richard III. was not a hunchback, but a soldier of fine form, some pretensions to good looks, and great personal strength and courage.

Gen. Cambronne did not say: "The guard dies, but does not surrender." The words were the invention of a Paris journalist, and attributed to him.

Mary Stuart of Scotland was not a beauty. She had cross eyes, and to save the trouble of having her hair dressed cut it off close to her head and wore a wig.

Sappho, the poetess, was not a wanton beauty, nor did she throw herself from the Leucadian cliff to be cured of an unworthy love. The latest investigations prove her a respectable married woman with a large family.

Queen Elizabeth was not the angelic creature represented in the history and poems of her own times. Her hair was red, her temper red hot. She sometimes drank too much, and at any provocation would carry on like a trooper.

MARYLAND'S CAPITAL

THE OLD-FASHIONED CITY OF ANNAPOLIS.

Founded in 1649 by Refugee Puritans, It Was Offered to Congress as the National Seat—"The Finished City"—Resembles European Towns.

A Dull and Stupid Place.

One of the most old-fashioned towns of the United States is Annapolis, the capital of Maryland. Long before Baltimore had become noted, Annapolis was the seat of wealth, refinement, and extensive trade. Now it is chiefly important as the site of the Naval Academy. It was formerly a port of entry and has many beautiful bridges, though they are very antique. From the peculiar style of architecture it gives to the stranger the impression of a European town rather than of an American city. The population is small, and none of the most sanguine hope it will ever be much larger. The city has been regretfully, though appropriately, styled by the inhabitants, "The finished city." There remains nothing to linger over but its agreeable traditions.

Annapolis, says the Utica Globe, was settled in 1649 by Puritan refugees from Virginia, and was at first called Providence. The next year the name was changed to Anne Arundel town, then it was changed back to Providence, and was not called Annapolis until about the time of its incorporation as a city in 1708. It was named for Queen Anne who made it some valuable presents. After the revolution Maryland offered to cede Annapolis to the general government as the federal capital. During the negotiations for a permanent site, it was resolved in 1783 that Congress should meet alternately at Annapolis and Trenton, the first session to be held at Annapolis. It was at this session that Washington surrendered his commission as commander-in-chief, December 23, 1783.

ONE OF THE OLDEST HOUSES IN THE CITY.

Some Old Landmarks.

The Annapolis of to-day is a very dull and stupid place. Nearly everybody retires at 10 o'clock, and the most important news is allowed to "keep" till morning. Nothing could be more monotonous than the daily current of life. The colored folk lounge about in the manner of their

STEWART MANSION.
[Residence of Anthony Stewart, of the brig "Peggy Stewart."] race, and the white population have much the same drowsiness, the same absence of hurry, the almost complete leisure which is met with in the Latin countries of the South. Family pride is very strong, and counts for more than wealth. The names of Chase and Brice, of whom Chase House and Brice House stand as memorials, are honored in the annals of Maryland. James Brice was mayor of Annapolis, when, in 1783, the corporation met and gave the memorable welcome to Gen. Greene and suite. Samuel Chase was one of the four signers from the State of the

THE BRICE HOUSE.

Declaration of Independence. The Stewarts were another prominent family. One of the most notable incidents in American history was the burning of the brig "Peggy Stewart," in the Revolutionary War.

The town might, in fact, be almost forgotten, were it not for the naval academy, whose officers mingle freely in society. The Saturday night hops are among the most enjoyable features of the season. The cadet, it is needless to say, is the Annapolitan pet. At the close of the scholastic year comes the cadets' ball, which is the great event of the season, and attracts the young women of Washington and Baltimore, and even Philadelphia and New York.

St. Mary's Seminary and St. John's College are also located in Annapolis, and are quite noted institutions. St. John's College green was used during the revolutionary war as the encampment for the French army and for the same purpose by the American army in the war of 1812.

Puzzles for Paterfamilias.

It is during the long winter evenings that the average head of the family wonders if he ever did learn anything at school, and his children become more and more awe-inspiring, comments the Toledo Commercial. This is the case, at least, if he is a model father, and endeavors to assist the nightly studying which well-ordered youngsters struggle with after supper. In the light of his own business experiences, however, it does seem to him a little ridiculous that such astonishing complications should be turned over for solution by the tender intellect of a thirteen-year-old, and down deep in his heart he dreads grappling with such a problem as: "If seven men can build ten rods of fence in sixteen days, how long will it take thirteen men to build twenty-seven rods in forty-two days?"

Horace Greeley and His Bride.

"When he was first married and brought his bride home on a visit," said an old acquaintance, "a sugar party was given in their honor on a neighboring farm. All the guests had arrived, and we were looking out, watching for the belated bride and groom. At last we saw something appearing in the distance. As this same object came nearer we discovered it was the old white horse of the Greeleys, slowly picking his way through the mud. On his back sat the bride in a brilliant yellow frock, with a green velvet belt, and behind her, wrapped in his famous white overcoat, sat the editor of the New York Tribune. It was the funniest sight I ever saw and set us off in fits of laughing. I remember," continued my informant, laughing again at her recollection, "that I simply lay down and rolled upon the floor in a spasm of mirth."

ONE growing objection to incarcerating the bold thieves of this day is the fear that they will carry off some valuable parts of the jail.—Chicago Record.

JAGSON says the only way to elevate the stage is to lower the curtain.

WILLIAM E. GLADSTONE.

The celebration of Mr. Gladstone's 84th birthday, with that distinguished statesman enjoying not only good health, but practically unimpaired mental vigor, is a sufficiently noteworthy event; but when it is remembered that the veteran statesman is, at his advanced age, at the head of the government of the British empire, the most important ministerial and executive post in Europe, the event becomes of sufficient importance to astonish the world. Although it cannot be claimed by the most ardent admirers of the Grand Old Man that his powers are as great as they were in his prime, or his political strength as irresistible, still there can be no question but that he is still head and shoulders above all his contemporaries, and his hold upon the party following is more absolute than that possessed by any political leader of the present time. The victory won before the British electors a year ago, and the masterly manner in which the Irish Home Rule bill was forced through the House of Commons, are achievements of which the greatest popular leader might have been proud, and when it is remembered that Gladstone accomplished these feats after he had passed his 83d year, the achievements become simply wonderful. Despite his advanced age, Mr. Gladstone's present vigorous health holds out the hope that he will still be able to lead the English Liberals for many years longer.

NEW SENATOR FROM VIRGINIA.

Never Held Public Office Before, but Beat One of the Lees.

Few people in Virginia imagined when Thomas Martin entered the Senatorial race against General Fitzhugh Lee and Senator Eppa Hunton that the first named would be successful. For many years it has almost been taken for granted that when a member of the Lee family sought office he was sure to get it, but Mr. Martin began his canvass long before either of his opponents and won first prize, Senator Hunton securing the short term. The new Senator is 46 years of age, a native of Virginia, and a lifelong resident of that State. During the war he was a cadet at the Virginia Military Institute, and served with other cadets in the trenches around Richmond, under Lee. At 21 he began the practice of law, and ten years ago he went into politics actively and became a prominent man in the Democratic party. Last year he served as Chairman of the State Committee. He is a lawyer and for several years he has been retained as counsel by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad.

SENATOR MARTIN.

Valuable Waste.

"Refiners of nitrate of silver for the use of photographers," said one of this profession, "have agents traveling constantly about the country collecting the waste clippings of sensitized paper that accumulate in every photograph gallery. They buy all they can find, and pay for it in new nitrate, allowing the photographer a good round price for his waste. The waste is shipped to the refiners, where the nitrate in the paper is separated from it by chemical process and prepared for market again. This refined nitrate is as good as it was originally, and is sold for just as much. The refiners, of course, make a big profit out of the waste, and the photographer is able to get a good supply of material for the scraps that would otherwise be of no use to him. Not only the scraps of silver sensitized paper, but those of the paper treated with solutions of gold, are eagerly sought by the refiners, and the photographer is always very glad to exchange his accumulation of, to him, worthless waste for a neat stock of valuable nitrate."—Minneapolis Tribune.

BETWEEN sincerity and politeness there need be no war, no antagonism, no separation. They can grow together, each welcoming the other to its side. All sincerity can be made beautiful by politeness, and all politeness can be made honorable by sincerity.

WORK OF THE FIRE AT THE WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Odd, Curious, and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

Let Us All Laugh.

A BARBER has no right to lather his wife.—Boston Courier.

IT'S a wise cow that knows its own butter.—Florida Times-Union.

THE profane man always takes a cursory view of the other side.—Dallas News.

THE cannibal does not believe that one man's meat is another man's poison.—Puck.

THE death of an ossified man in Tennessee is reported. He died hard.—Chicago Tribune.

A CHICAGO paper swells with indignation that dried apples are not protected.—Plain Dealer.

IN a cafe the order to retreat is always followed by a spirited attack.—Yonkers Statesman.

A MAN can't help having his judgment warped by a hot temper.—Binghamton Republican.

A MINER may be ever so well off but he can't help getting in a hole occasionally.—Toledo Commercial.

SECRETARY LAMONT says that the fighting Indian is no more. His whoops are out of fashion.—Philadelphia Times.

THE Boston policeman who talked with a juryman got himself into a box, and the juryman got out of one.—Lowell Courier.

"THAT hen is kicking up a great cackle." "She has just laid an egg." "That all? I thought perhaps she had laid a Delmonico omelette soufflé."—Puck.

YOUNG LADY—"How much does it cost to have a tooth taken out?" Dentist—"One florin, miss; but by the dozen it comes cheaper."—Die Amsterdammer.

HE—"I shall have to go. I hope you will have a pleasant evening." She—"Oh, I'm greatly obliged to you! I am sure to have a pleasant time."—Boston Transcript.

THE YOUTH—Does a man ever get too old to take an interest in life? The Sage—Oh, yes. But he generally recovers by the time he is 25.—Indianapolis Journal.

CUSTOMER—"Have you a copy of 'Fifteen Decisive Battles?'" Bookseller—"No, sir; we are sold out. But we can give you 'Reflections of a Married Man'."—Tid-Bits.

IT is well enough to have your knowledge at your fingers' ends, but when you want to pass an examination it is better to put it on the end of your cuffs.—Elmira Gazette.

IT was three hard-boiled eggs that knocked out the G. O. M. At his age their yolk is not easy to bear, and in this respect his home rule may be changed.—Philadelphia Ledger.

FOREIGNER—"What do you mean by saying that things are 'as thick as hops?'" New-Yorker—"I mean they are packed as close as people in a private ball-room in New York."—Life.

"GRAN'MA," said little 4-year-old Austin, as he twined his arms lovingly about his grandmother's neck, "you'll never know how much I love you till you have a child of your own!"—Harper's Bazar.

MRS. PEACHBLOW—"Why does your husband carry such a tremendous amount of life insurance, when he's in such perfect health?" Mrs. Flicker—"O, just to tantalize me. Men are naturally cruel!"—Life.

She—Do you think Ward McAllister will be saved? He—I think not. She—Then just think how awful it will be for him to see the beggar Lazarus resting on the bosom of one of the patriarchs!—Life.

PRIMUS—Jobson is a philanthropist. Secundus—What does he do? Primus—He's so sorry for poor children who have no Christmas that he spends the year telling them that Santa Claus is a myth.—Puck.

WIFE—"John, you haven't given me enough money for what I want." Husband—"It's just what I gave you before." Wife—"But prices have gone up, you know." Husband—"But so has money, my dear."—Truth.

AUNTIE—"You should ask to be excused when you leave the table." Little Nephew—"Should I? I thought from the way you acted about that third piece of pie that you'd be glad to see me go."—Good News.

THE FLORAL CIPHER.—She—I am not up in the language of flowers. What did that bunch of Jacqueminots mean that you sent me? He—I don't get the translation from the florist until the end of the month.—Life.

JOHNNIE—"Mamma, I heard the preacher say to-day that matches were made in heaven. Is it so?" Mamma—"Of course. Why not?" Johnnie—"Well, I don't see any use for matches. There's no night there."—Detroit Free Press.

HUNGRY HIGGINS—It's pretty tough when a feller asks for bread and gets a stone. Weary Watkins—I remember onct when I didn't have no kick comin'. But then, you see, there was a little rye went along wit' the rock that time.—Indianapolis Journal.

AFTER instructing his men in the points of the compass, Lieut. X—— says to one of them: "You have in front of you the north; on your right the east; on your left the west. What have you behind you?" Private B—— (after a few moments' reflection)—My knapsack, Lieutenant.—Libre Parole.

Irrigation.

Irrigation by means of wells is carried on extensively in many parts of the world. In India, Egypt and Mexico thousands of wells are found with crude appliances for elevating the water for distribution over the the land laid off in plats which are watered in succession.

Now that $2 counterfeit bills are afloat, it is plain that the man who habitually wants to borrow $2 will have to make it either $1 or $5 to avoid the risk of getting left.

THE FAIR.

DON'T READ THIS, IF YOU DON'T WANT BARGAINS.

Everyone should see the large stock of

HOLIDAY GOODS

at the

2 JOHNS 2

Which will be sold this year at about cost, owing to the hard times.

Yours,

J. C. HENRY.

2 JOHNS 2

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....JANUARY 25, 1894.

SENATOR WALTHALL of Mississippi, has resigned his seat on account of ill health.

OHIO legislature is considering a bill for electrocution of murderers, like the New York law.

THE great oil refineries at Whiting, Ind, near Chicago, will probably be so'd for delinquent taxes.

TRAIN robbers who held up a train near Centralia, Ill., last summer, get twenty years for it. Good.

SHOCK of earthquake felt at Hastings, Neb., last week so they say. Nebraska has all the modern improvements.

EX PRESIDENT Harrison will go to California in February to deliver lectures at Leland Stanford University.

JANUARY 30, the patents on the Bell telephone expire, and telephones and telephone service will likely be cheaper.

JERRY FOLEY was chosen postmaster at Kendallville postoffice election Monday. We would have been pleased to see Dr. Parker get it. He was second.

THE man who hid the gold coins in a cabbage down at Muncie, must have been a populist and was trying to demonetize gold so as to give silver a chance.

MAN broke his neck while skating at Kalamazoo, Mich., last week. No danger of anyone in Auburn breaking his neck that way. We have mud, but no ice to go with it.

ENGLAND and over Europe, have hard times now, as well as ourselves. Many heavy banks have failed, and exports and imports have fallen off. It seems to be all over the world.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON appeared in court at Indianapolis last week, as attorney for the city railway company. The judge, John H. Baker, recently of Goshen, had been appointed judge of that court by Mr. Harrison. Strange things happen in this world.

A NEWSPAPER that cannot climb higher into the realms of intelligent discussion than to call names, such as "gold bug," "servant of Wall street," etc, may be fit for babes and sucklings, but the more sensible and enlightened people will read such truck only with feelings of disgust.

THOSE who are finding so much fault with public officers, are doing the county more real injury than the public servants they complain of. If they keep on with this abuse no man of any standing will be willing to take a public office, especially the place of county commissioner, in which there is so little money to make amends for so much abuse.

Auburn's Commercial Club

There was a meeting in Bishop & Lackey's store Saturday evening for the purpose of organizing a Commercial Club or Board of Trade for the advancement of Auburn's material interests. A committee was appointed to carry forward this work, and another meeting will be held in the band room to-morrow, Friday evening. The committee are: B. C. Robbins, W. H. McIntyre, F. T Zimmerman, G. A. Bishop, Chas. McClellan and W. B. Campbell.

The following form of organization was also adopted:

Recognizing the importance of a union on the part of the manufacturers, merchants, business men and citizens generally, to deal with the many questions daily arising pertaining to the good and welfare of our town, its growth and prosperity, and feeling assured that only by a united action on the part of our business men, its opportunity for advancement and recognition among other enterprising and commercial communities can be obtained—we the undersigned, have formed this Association, expecting thereby to better the condition of one and all by having a recognized head center to treat upon all questions and topics which may have a tendency to add to the welfare and advancement of the town of Auburn, and for this purpose we adopt the following Articles of Association:

First. The name of the Association shall be the Citizens' Enterprise Association of Auburn.

Second. The subscribers to these Articles shall be members of this Association, who shall elect from their number a Board of Directors, consisting of seven members, who shall serve for one year or until their successors are elected and qualified.

Third. The Board of Directors shall select as officers of the Association, a President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, who shall serve for the period of one year or until their successors are elected and qualified.

Fourth. The Board of Directors shall enact such By Laws as may be necessary and proper to the successful management of the business and prudential concerns of said corporation.

Fifth. The directors and officers of said Association shall serve and perform the duties of such directors and officers, without compensation.

Sixth. The membership fund of this Association shall be one dollar, payable on demand, and the dues shall be twenty-five cents, payable the first Saturday of each month.

Health and Happiness!

HONEY OF FIGS is the QUEEN of all cathartics; syrups or pills. One anticipates its taking with pleasure. No other remedy sells so well or gives such satisfaction. It acts gently on inactive bowels or liver, relieves the kidneys, cures constipation, colds, fevers, nervous headaches, etc., and restores the beauty of health. Ladies and children prefer it. Doctors and druggists recommend it. The Fig Honey Co. of San Francisco. Try a bottle. Only one cent a dose. Mathuny & Gerke wholesale and retail agents for DeKalb county.

JANUARY SLAUGHTERING SALE.

ONE FOURTH OFF ON EACH PURCHASE

Commencing Monday, Jan. 1st, and continuing for Thirty Days.

JUST THINK OF IT! 25 Cents on each and every dollar you spend at my store during this sale. Nothing reserved. Everything must go. Remember, the Stock is all New and Fresh, our Assortment Greater than any House in the County. This is a Bona Fide Sale, all in good faith. We only ask an inspection, which will prove itself. Our goods are all marked in PLAIN FIGURES. You can easily figure it out yourself. Just 25 cents off on each dollar, no matter how large or small your purchase is. You will be allowed one-fourth off. Think of the saving this will be. It's less than the first cost of the goods. But no matter where the loss comes from, so it doesn't come out of the customer. This sale includes the entire stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing, Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods of every description. Remember, One Fourth Off During January.

G. H. YESBERA,

THE LEADING CLOTHIER & GENTS' FURNISHER.

P. S.---Merchant Tailoring not included in the above, but will allow an extraordinary reduction on all Tailor-Made Goods. G. H. YESBERA, The Merchant Tailor.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Winfield Nelson, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WILLIAM SEELY, Administrator.

Jan. 15, 1894.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio. MATHENY & GERKE, Auburn, Ind.

OLD ELK BOURBON & PURE RYE

Shipped pure and unadulterated direct from the distillery. Pronounced a pure and wholesome tonic-stimulant by the medical fraternity everywhere. Gives life, strength and happiness to the weak, sick, aged and infirm.

If you cannot procure it of your druggist or liquor dealers, upon receipt of $1.50 we will express prepaid to an address a full quart sample bottle of Old Elk Rye or Bourbon.

STOLL, VANNATTA & CO., DISTILLERS, Lexington, Ky.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Matheny & Gerke, Auburn.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term, 1894, Lewis E. Parker is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court by Joseph Singler, for the collection of a promissory note by proceedings in attachment, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 20th day of March, 1894, being the 14th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 23 day of January, 1894. 4-6

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

Notice to Non Residents

State of Indiana, DeKalb County. } SS

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term, 1894, John Davis is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, on notes, by The Auburn Foundry and Machine Works and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 11th day of January, 1894.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

J. W. Baxter and C. M. Brown, Attorneys.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Rosa Saxton is plaintiff and The Auburn District Fair, H. Eugene Trout, D. J. Swarts, F. J. Yesbera, David A. Sebring, Jacob B Casebeer, Timothy J. Matheny, Hugh N. Culbertson, Willis G. Brown, George L. Lanning John L. Davis, Frank E. Davenport assignee of John L. Davis, Sherman Rollinger, Christopher C. Shaffer, Sylvester Rogers and John E. Walters are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three thousand seven hundred and ninety-five dollars and sixteen cents, with interest on said decree and cost, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, February 10, 1894,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p m. of said day, at the door of the court house of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following real estate, to wit,

Forty (40) acres of land off of the north end of the west half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section twenty-eight (28) township thirty-four (34) north of range thirteen (13) east, and also a strip of land fifty-three (53) feet wide off of the west side of that part of said west half of said southwest quarter (¼) lying south of said forty acres, all situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws

GEORGE C. RALSTON, Sheriff of DeKalb County. by R. Blom, Dep.

Auburn, Indiana, January 15, A. D. 1894.

C. E. Emanuel, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

PURDUE'S new engineering laboratory burned Tuesday. Was dedicated last Friday. Natural gas did it. Loss $180-000 including some other buildings.

THOUGHTLESS people complain of the slowness of Congress in passing important bills, like the the tariff bill. But the House, in which such a bill must originate, is to bring it to a vote next Monday, after a discussion of only about three weeks. No general tariff bill was ever put through the House in so short a time. The trouble is mainly with ourselves. We are too impatient. We should also remember that many of the evils that combine to make "hard times" are of our own making, and that any law Congress may pass, cannot cure all these evils. It will also take some time for even a good law to produce a good effect. Republican misrule has been dragging us into these conditions for thirty years, and the disease will need time for a cure.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the Auburn District Fair will be held at Gandy's Hall, Auburn Indiana on Saturday, February 10, 1894, at 10 a. m. A full attendance is desired, as business of importance is to be transacted.

SYLVESTER KUTZNER Pres.

Attest: J. J. VANAUKEN, Sec'y.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.

In the DeKalb circuit court December term, 1893, George Watkins is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, by Grace Watkins for divorce, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 15th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 23rd day of January, 1894.

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

J. F. Shuman, Att'y. 4-5

GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company for the election of 13 directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting, will be held in the general office of the company, in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 7, 1894, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m. The books for the transfer of stock will be closed February 24, 1894. 4-9

F. A. GORHAM, Secretary.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, and state of Indiana, that the undersigned will make application at the next regular session of Commissioners' court of said DeKalb county, commencing the first Monday in March, 1894 for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the premises where sold, as follows:

In a one-story frame building situated on the west end of lot No. sixty-seven (67) in the original plat of the town of Auburn, more particularly described as follows:

Commencing at the south-west corner of said lot, thence east twenty (20) feet, thence north sixty-six (66) feet, thence west twenty (20) feet, thence south to place of beginning.

ALBERT ZIRWES.

Auburn, Indiana, January 25, 1894.

Notice of Sale of Personal Property

Notice is hereby given, that I William Seely, Administrator of the estate of Winfield Nelson deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, February 17, 1894,

at the late residence of deceased, ½ mile west of Newville, sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described personal property, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to wit:

One 4-year old mare, one 4-year old horse, one cow, one heifer one brood sow and six shoats, one sleigh, one binder, one mower one fanning mill, one sulky hay rake, one grain drill, one riding plow, one sulky corn plow, one double harness, one log chain and other articles.

TERMS OF SALE: For all amounts not exceeding five dollars, cash in hand. For amounts of five dollars and upwards, a credit of nine months will be given. Note, bearing six per cent interest after maturity, with approved security, and waiving Valuation and Appraisement Laws, will be required. 4-6

WILLIAM SEELY, Administrator.

Baxter & Brown, Attys.

Receiver's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, receiver of the Eagle Iron Works, a corporation, will on the premises of said corporation at Auburn Junction, in DeKalb County, in the State of Indiana on

Friday, February 9, 1894,

At the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidders the entire plant of said corporation, consisting of the real estate described and bounded by a line as follows:

Commencing five (5) chains and forty-eight (48) links west of a point on the west side of the Detroit, Eel River & Illinois Railroad right of way on the south side of the township line between sections six (6) of township number thirty three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east in DeKalb county, Indiana, and section thirty-one (31) in township number thirty-four (34) north of said range county and state, and extending from thence south about three hundred and fifty (350) feet, or until it strikes the right of way of said railroad thence running northeast along said right of way two hundred and forty six (246) feet thence northwest about one hundred and ninety-eight (198) feet to said township line, and thence west along said township line one hundred and ten (110) feet to the place of beginning.

Also the tangible personal property of said corporation, consisting of machinery, tools, patterns, iron, stoves, manufactured goods, castings and material for carrying on the business of a foundry and machine shop.

Such sale of personal property will be made in bulk or in parcels as the receiver may determine on date of sale and upon the following terms:

One-third (⅓) cash on date of sale, one-third (⅓) in three months, and one third (⅓) in six months from the date of such sale, deferred payments to be evidenced by the notes of the purchaser, to bear interest at six per cent, without relief from valuation and appraisement laws and with attorneys' fees, and as to the real estate, to be secured by mortgage on the premises sold, as to the personal property, to be secured to the satisfaction of the receiver, provided that each purchaser may at his option pay the entire amount of his purchase in cash.

SAMUEL D. HANNA, RECEIVER.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Dr Swarts, of Auburn, made a professional visit here Tuesday.

Mrs. Keep is able to be out again after a severe attack of rheumatism.

Elmer Stamets has had a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism for several weeks past.

During the very moderate weather we have been having, the sugar sap has commenced running, so we are informed.

Mrs. Ben. Dawson, Mrs. Dickinson, Mrs. Frank Roby and Mrs. Geo. Young, all of Angola, spent Tuesday with Mrs. A. R. Stevens.

Edward Braun has been ill for several weeks, and under his physician's care, with nervous debility. He is on the gain now, however.

Mrs. Myers, wife of the dentist, united in full membership with the M. E. church society of this place, after the morning service Sunday last.

Come all ye who are hungry unto the Abbey block on Saturday evening, Jan. 27, 1894, and the Y. P. C. U. of the U. B. church will furnish you a fine supper, including oysters, for 15 cents.

Mrs Peter Fisher, Mrs. Wm. Fisher and Mrs. H. H. Knott attended the funeral of Mrs. Aldrich at Pleasant Lake, Monday. She died in Toledo of pneumonia after a short illness. Her husband was for a time, colonel of the 44th Indiana.

The Eastern stars at Butler had public installation and banquet Tuesday evening and many from this place attended, including Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Butler and daughter Nora, Mrs. W. H. Leas, Mrs H. K Leas, Mrs J. M. Waterman, Mrs. Artie Sinclair, Mrs. Marion Bemenderfer, Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. S P. Klotz and Mrs. Dr. Broughton.

The members of the L. M. C. held their regular session the evening of Jan. 23 at the home of Mrs. Florence Waterman. The program consisted of Responses from Longfellow; Lesson, Cambridge Scholars' Leader, Mrs. Keep; Parody, Mrs. Long; Reading, selection from Longfellow, Mrs. Plum; Parlo Talk, Eccentric Americans, conducted by Mrs. Winslow.

Mrs Josephine Willis invited the members of the L. M. C. to her home last Friday evening to spend "An Evening after the Fair was over," to enjoy the World's fair books so far as they are already received. Mrs. Keisely and daughter, of Butler, were present, also several ladies from Waterloo not connected with the club were invited and present. The illustrations are fine and were thoroughly enjoyed. A feast both dainty and appetizing was served later in the evening. The menu cards were beautiful, unique and no two alike. With music and conversation the hours sped by until even so delightful an evening must end and the participants separate, taking the pleasant memory with them.

Mrs Ella Reed, wife of Charles Reed, died Friday, Jan 19, after an illness of many months, although her wonderful ambition and strong force of will has kept her from yielding to her disease until almost the last, and has undoubtedly prolonged her life. The funeral took place at two o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Reed was a member. The sermon was preached and services conducted by Rev. Dr Fry. The church was beautifully decorated with banks of flowers. The audience room was not only filled, but numbers of people could not gain entrance. The pall bearers were six ladies and the same number of gentlemen. The flowers on the casket were lovely, white roses and Mareschal Niel roses, a large Calla lily with a long spray of finer flowers and foliage. A husband, one son and three young daughters are left to mourn the wife and mother. They have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

Your correspondent is informed by a farmer who lives near Ashley, that the Ashley Improvement Company have sold out their entire interest at that point to a Chicago company, and in doing so sold the latter company and also the farmers around. The Ashley Co advertised extensively that one or more parties desired to purchase a vast number of horses at Ashley at a certain date. When the time came the town was filled with farmers prepared to sell their animals, but not a horse buyer was on hand. Very singularly this was also the date for concluding the land sale to the Chicago Co, which was done. It has since dawned upon the farmers that they were lured there in order to have a big crowd that the Chicago purchasers would suppose it an every day thing. The question arises if their interest could not be sold on its merits without doing as they are said to have done? Will it be profitable for any one? Has not the boom collapsed, and has it not been a premeditated swindle from the beginning? The farmer spoken of says Ashley has been growing very slowly of late.

GARRETT.

Ralph Moody, of Auburn, was in town Friday.

Dr. T. C. Sargent was at Pleasant Lake Friday.

George Lanning, of Auburn, was in the city Monday.

Frank Wilhelm and Harry Leslie were at Albion last week.

Editor Miner, of the Republican, was at Hudson last week.

Edwin Sanders was at South Chicago several days last week.

G. H. VanWagner, of London, Ohio, was in the city last week.

John Marker, the hustling cigar maker fo Auburn, was in the city Thursday.

Harry Leslie and wife were visiting relatives at Hicksville, Ohio, last week.

Charley Phillips, of Chicago Junction, Ohio, is visiting relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gill is visited relatives at Battle Creek, Michigan, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris, of Danville, Ill., are visiting their son, Wm. Morris and family.

Protracted meetings are now being held at the Methodist and Baptist churches.

Sam. Tarney and wife, of Chicago, were visiting their many friends here this week.

A number of Garrett people attended the wrestling match at Auburn Saturday night.

Miss Juliet Willard, primary teacher in our public schools, is confined to her home with the grip.

A number of Garrett's young men have rented Clark's hall and will organize a gymnasium in the near future.

Mrs. Chas Phelps, living in the south end of town, died last week with the grip. Her remains were taken to Ohio for interment.

The employes of the B. & O have opened a public reading room in the Zeigler building on the corner of Quincy and Cowen streets.

An entertainment was given by the Citizens' literary club at the Baptist church Friday evening last. A very delightful program was rendered.

Mary Durlers, of Stryker, Ohio, died at the home of her son in-law, John Lemback, Monday. Her remains were taken to her home for burial Wednesday.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. M. L Griffin fell from a high chair a few evenings since and broke its collar bone Dr. Thompson was the attending physician.

The B. of L. F. will give their eighth annual ball at Wagner's opera house Tuesday evening, January 30. The firemen are sparing no pains to make this the best dance of the season. Be in attendance.

Fireman McElwey, who was injured by a collision in the west end of the yards here several months ago, was taken to the B. & O. hospital at Baltimore, Md., last week. The COURIER hopes for him a speedy recovery.

C. C Abram's now gave birth to a calf last week that is one of the greatest curiosities we have ever looked at. Its body and limbs are in perfect shape, but its head is as round as an apple. Its eyes are on either side of its head, its nose under one eye and its mouth under the other. Mr. Abrams has received several handsome offers for the freak, but will keep it until some time in the future.

One of the most disastrous accidents ever known in the history of Garrett happened last Tuesday evening after our communication had been sent to the COURIER. As the family of Conductor Gordon were eating supper, Charles, their two-year old son, pulled the cloth from the table, upsetting the lamp on himself. The little child was in a moment a mass of flames. Mrs. Gordon picked the baby up and ran out of doors with it and commenced rolling it on the ground and thus somewhat checked the fire. In the excitement she did not take notice to here If and when Frank Dawson, a near neighbor arrived on the scene, he found her clothes all afire. He succeeded in putting out the flames, but was burned somewhat in his efforts. The little one died the following morning and was buried from the Methodist church Thursday. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gordon were very badly burned, and the loss of the household goods which were damaged is estimated at about $300. They have the sympathy of the entire community in their hour of bereavement.

About this time every year people outside of this place circulate a rumor saying that the B. & O. shops are going to leave Garrett, and as usual have started the ball rolling. We never gave the report any credence and do not now, but there are lots of people who do. The ground for the rumor this time is that the water here is "notoriously" bad. What first brought this up was that a B. & O. official took a sample of water from the company's water, Tamarac lake and a few shallow wells. Naturally when analyzed, the water was pronounced unfit for drinking purposes. But last week Jacob Bogert took a sample of water from his own well and one from A F. Halter's and sent it to the best chemist in Baltimore, and the analysis shows that it was about 98 per cent. pure. No, Avilla, Newark, Syracuse and other neighboring towns, don't build your hopes too high on the Garrett shops moving to your villages because they are permanently located and are "here to stay," and those people who circulated the rumor that Garrett water was "notoriously bad" and unfit for drinking purposes, are "talking through their hats."

BUTLER.

Mrs. Frank Bills is reported seriously ill.

Born, last Friday to Romain C. and Mattie Campbell, a daughter.

T. C. Fralick is about to embark in the cigar manufacturing business.

The basket factory is pushing business with its whole might. They received an order for four carloads last week, and are a month or more behind their orders.

J. A. Campbell and wife were called suddenly by telegram last Friday to the home of the latter on account of the sudden and unexpected death of Mrs. Campbell's youngest sister who lived with her mother near Angola. The family have been suffering for several months with typhoid fever, one son being still confined to his bed, but in a fair way to recover. Her funeral took place last Saturday from her mother's residence, and her remains were interred in the Teagarden cemetery near Otsego North.

The Jenning will case from Troy township continues to draw heavily on that little subdivision of DeKalb county, and will perhaps do a considerable toward dividing this old and honorable family against itself. The father, whose will some of his children seek to set aside, was a resident of the township for about fifty years, and during that long period built up a character for truth, integrity, fair dealing and honesty such as any of his children might well emulate. It is not likely that during his lifetime he ever wasted one dollar in lawing, and it seems a little out of the ordinary now since his death that some of his children should resort to the law to waste his hard earned substance. But such is usually the result. Parents save and skimp themselves that they may leave something for their children, then the children feed it by shovelfuls to lawyers and court officers.

WITHOUT THE

Non-pull-out BOW (RING)

it is easy to steal or ring watches from the pocket. The thief gets the watch in one hand, the chain in the other and gives a short, quick jerk—the ring slips off the watch stem, and away goes the watch, leaving the victim only the chain.

This idea stopped that little game:

The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

Sold by all watch dealers, without cost, on Jas. Boss Filled and other cases containing this trade mark—

A watch case opener sent free on request.

Keystone Watch Case Co., PHILADELPHIA.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 19, 1893.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, ...dp	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.....	12 25	5 26	7 48
Auburn	12 29	5 30	8 37
Waterloo	12 43	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 56	5 53	9 45
Stenbenville.....	12 59	5 57
Pleasant Lake....	1 05	6 03	10 15
Angola.....	1 14	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 20	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—		Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....	dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 am
Angola		12 25 pm	2 08 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake...		1 06	2 20	9 01
Steubenville.....			2 27	9 07
Summit.....		1 25	2 32	9 11
Waterloo		2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn.....		3 11	3 11	9 33
Auburn Junc....		3 38	3 14	9 38
New Era		4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne		5 25	3 58	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points, call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

1,000,000 Wanted Circulars, Newspapers, pamphlets, Samples, Drugs, Etc., for distribution in eight leading counties of northern Indiana. Best of service guaranteed. Consignments received at all times.

10,000 Agents Wanted to place their names in our Agents' and Manufacturers' Directory, which goes whirling to reliable agents and manufacturers in 34 states in the Union, and Nova Scotia. Your name inserted for 25 Cents. Best scheme out! Try it now! Get your name before the public! Address with stamp.

Auburn Advertising & Distributing Agency, Box 437, Auburn, Indiana.

Mention this paper when you write.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c, and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that I, Roxana E. Knott, administratrix of the estate of Samuel M. Knott deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest bidder on

Saturday, February 17, 1894,

at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the same can be sold advantageously, at the door of the court house in Auburn, Indiana, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

The east half of the west half of the southeast quarter, and all that part of the east half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen (16) which lies north and west of the right of way of the Detroit, Eel River and Illinois Railroad Company, all in township number thirty-three (33) north of range twelve (12) east, in DeKalb county in the state of Indiana.

TERMS OF SALE: One third cash, one-third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months, with privilege to the purchaser of paying all cash. Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

ROXANA E. KNOTT, Administratrix.

Baxter & Brown, Attorneys.

A GREAT REDUCTION!

In order to reduce our Stock, we will give from now until February 1, '94, TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT OFF in Cash on every article purchased during the time mentioned above. Come early and be convinced.

Boston One Price Clothing Store.

GREAT SENSATION SALE.

Commencing Thursday morning, January 25, 1894, FOR TEN DAYS ONLY.

This will be the largest and most sensational sale of Dry Goods, Notions and Carpets ever held in Northern Indiana. The great number of Genuine bargains is simply astonishing.

5,000 Yds. Muslin, slightly wet, but not damaged in the least, 4c. per yd.

Think of it! 25 yds. good muslin for $1.00. We have so many New Goods at such Very Low Prices that it is impossible to tell you of ALL the Great Bargains in a newspaper advertisement. We simply mention the Muslin as a pointer. Come to our store and see for yourselves. Our terms are CASH and ONE PRICE TO ALL.

Bishop & Lackey,

Shaffer Block. AUBURN, IND.

SEE

D. A. HODGE

For the Holiday Trade,

We have on display the most complete line of

WATCHES, DIAMONDS & JEWELRY

In the City. Handsome Novelties in

SILVERWARE.

Inspect our line before purchasing!

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON.

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Have You Tried BRINK'S Thill Coupling? If not! Send to Holcomb & Co., Bloomville, O., and get a Sample pair, only 25 cents. Money returned if not satisfactory.

Dr. F. M. Hines, Physician and SURGEON. Office over J. C. HENRY'S Grocery, in the Ford Block,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ RESIDENCE, at the Samuel Swihart residence on South Jackson St. near the Church Furniture factory, and just across west from the German Methodist church. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

P. P. P. C.

Positive Painless Pile Cure.

The most complete, practicable and painless method of treating all curable diseases of the rectum ever placed before the public. Piles are permanently cured in a few weeks by the use of this treatment. Fissure, Catarrh, Inflammation Ulceration, Prolapsus, Constipation, Bleeding, Blind and ITCHING PILES are cured as if by magic. I claim the most complete, success ful, simple and original common sense method ever offered to the suffering public. Your correspondence solicited.

S. U. TARNEY
sole Proprietor and Manufacturer
Auburn Ind

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.--

--$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,

REPAIRS

All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and

BUILDERS FOR THE TRADE:

Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work

Warranted First-Class in All Respects.

☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Auburn Cyclery opens Feb. 1.

J. G. Johnson of Waterloo made a brief trip to Auburn Tuesday.

Don't fail to attend the great sensation sale at Bishop & Lackey's. See ad. on page 5.

The COURIER is under obligations to Lawyer L. J. Gengler, of Garrett, for recent favors.

J. A. Campbell, the Butler insurance man, was here this week as a witness in the Jennings case.

Mrs. M. F. Franks, of Richland, visited her mother, sister and daughter, here last Friday and Saturday.

MARRIED:—At the Lutheran parsonage Jan. 22, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, George J. Miller to Ida M. Baughman.

James Simon and Phil. Gibson came back from Fayette to remain over Sunday, returning to school Tuesday.

Mrs. L. B. Fretz returned Monday to her home in Syracuse, after a visit with the relatives here for two or three weeks.

We see that S. C. Snyder at Angola, has sold his furniture business, and will devote his time fully to the sale of buggies.

A. Bartels was appointed superintendent of the County Home for a second year, at the recent session of commissioners.

G. W. Downs, of Clay Center, keeps up his old Fairfield habit of prompt payments for the old reliable COURIER. Thanks.

Beagle Hound puppies for sale. I have a few fine ones. Call early at my home or write me at Waterloo, Ind. A. M. St. Clair.

Don't let children suffer with croup when you can get such large bottles of Brant's Balsam for 25 and 50 cents at F. E. Davenport's.

The real estate, machinery and other material of the Eagle Iron Works at the Junction will be disposed of at receiver's sale on Friday, Feb. 8

Frank Barns and wife, of Bryan, O., are visiting in the families of Dr. Nusbaum and T. A. Sprott, and taking treatment under the former.

Read our notice of the annual stockholders' meeting of the Auburn Fair association, by the president, Mr Kutzner, and secretary VanAuken.

Wm. Seeley at Newville has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Winfield Nelson, and will sell the personal property of the estate Feb. 17.

Mrs. Sherman Dickinson has been sick ever since they moved to their new home, but was able to come to town one day last week. Mr. Dickinson himself has been in poor health, also.

Henry M. Fretz was in town Saturday. He is at present president of the Richland township Sunday school organization, and is a young man who is willing to be useful in the world.

Harry Bell came down from Detroit last Friday to remain here a few days visiting his sister and mother. He thinks of going soon to British Columbia, where his father is engaged in gold mining.

W. H. May, of Ashley, was here last Saturday. He is principal of the Ashley schools, having for his assistants, Mrs. Dellar, formerly Miss Mounts who taught in Auburn, and Miss Alma Husselman.

FOR SALE:—Will sell at a reduced figure, for the want of room, three or four of my High Bred Holstein-Friesian Heifers, one, and two years old, or will trade for fresh cows. A. G. Lodewick, Auburn, Ind. 3 4

MARRIED:—Thursday evening, Jan. 18, 1894, by the Rev. George Chase, at the home of the bride's mother, 328, 62nd street, Englewood, Ill., Chester James Hodge, of Auburn, Ind. and Katherine Lehman McQuilkin.

Peter Wyrick, at Hartville, Mo., writes that he is well and sends best wishes to the old friends up here, as well as a good chunk of the needful to his friend the old COURIER. They have had no freezing weather there up to date.

Program of Auburn Musical for Jan. 29: Piano music, Mrs. Lanning; musical reading, Mrs. Lewis; brass quartet, Willis, Sheets, Shull and Brown; song, Nettie Willis; brass quartet; ladies' trio, Mrs Garwood, Miss Testers and Miss Willis.

As "action speaks louder than words," likewise the use of the League Chainless Ladies' Safety has voiced the public opinion in much louder tones than tongue or pen. This wheel may be seen at the Auburn Cyclery on or before the first of March.

Physicians state that many cases supposed to be female disease are in reality a derangement of the nervous system; quickly relieved and cured by Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, the great new discovery for nervous troubles. $1 of F. E. Davenport.

Chris. Fell had the second finger on his right hand cut off at Ober's mill Monday. He was tending the heading saw, and somehow got his finger caught, taking off the end. Dr. Casebeer dressed it, and it is getting along well, but it is another streak of hard luck for a poor man.

Oliver Glen, son of William and Lizzie Armstrong was born June 24, 1894, and departed this life Jan. 21, 1894, aged 6 months and 27 days. He leaves behind to mourn his death, a father, mother, two brothers and a sister. The funeral services were conducted from the house Monday at 2 p. m, Jan. 22. Interment took place in Evergreen cemetery, J. D. Brosy officiating.

We have heard on our streets, men criticise the business ability of county officers, who were not themselves able or willing to run their own little affairs. They have never managed to make a decent living for themselves and families. One man has hard work to get the tobacco he chews and the whisky he drinks, yet he can rail by the hour, as to how county business should be managed. And these same fellows, when they get a chance, are the ones who charge the county two prices while complaining that county expenses are higher than they should be.

It is against the law for a parent, or anyone, to abuse a school teacher in the presence of his pupils. It will be remembered that a son of Frank VanAuken, of Pleasant Lake, had a little difficulty lately, and here is what the Hamilton Advocate says of the matter: "The patrons of Hudson who had their teacher, S. VanAuken, prosecuted for inflicting corporal punishment on their boy have withdrawn the case, and a settlement has been effected The prosecution concluded that perhaps they had thrown themselves liable by the remarks they made in the presence of the pupils and that to avoid prosecution on their part, had better settle the case."

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Cleveland Bicycles will be in the lead in '94.

Dr. Swarts made a professional visit to Waterloo Tuesday.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Mrs. L. D. Nelson and her two boys were in town Tuesday.

Rice's studio takes the lead. Latest style cabinets $1.25 per dozen.

Mr. Kiblinger, we are pleased to state, seems to be improving steadily.

Dr. Mott's Nerverine Pills are guarteed and sold by Matheny & Gerke. 43tf

Get your sweetheart's picture taken. Cabinets, best finish, $1.25 per doz. at Rice's.

Auburn business men should read the article about the newly organized commercial club or board of trade.

The book that is richest in humor of any now published—Samantha Allen at the fair, M. B. Willis, agent.

Bread, cakes, pies, etc., etc., together with all kinds of candies, always new and fresh, at the Union Bakery. 2-4

Dr Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

The Union Bakery for fresh bread and all baked goods, candies, etc., as well as the best canned fruits etc. Call there. 4

It's all the same, a slight cold, congested lungs or severe cough. One Minute Cough Cure banishes them. 4tf

STOVE FOR SALE. A good heating stove almost new, best kind of a base burner, wood stove. Price reasonable. Call at this office.

Fresh bread, the nicest and best, always to be had at the Union Bakery. DeLong & Keeran will be pleased to have your patronage.

It not only relieves; it does more, it cures. We refer to One Minute Cough Cure. Suitable for all ages, all conditions, at all times. 4tf

LOST.—Setter pup, ten months old, black on head and one hip. Finder please return to Auburn Foundry and Machine Works and receive reward.

Charlie Borst and his little playmates had quite a hunt Tuesday evening, in which his little rifle brought down an owl in the trees near the M. E. church.

A skillful physician originated and used Brant's Balsam during many years practice. No opium. Bottle usual size for 25 and 50 cents. F. E. Davenport.

Mr. Brosy will deliver a temperance lecture at the Lutheran church next Sunday evening. There will be excellent singing by the male quartet led by Geo. Quince. All invited.

No better aid to digestion.
No better cure for dyspepsia.
Nothing more reliable for biliousness and constipation than DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. 4tf

Fisher West, a prominent farmer near Huntertown, father of Attorney P. D West, of this place, has been receiving threatening and blackmail letters. The sender, a Huntertown hoodlum, has been arrested.

Wooden rims will be seen on 1894 bicycles. This will not only improve the looks of the wheel, but will add speed and comfort to the rider, as wood (white ash) has 12½ times the resiliency or elasticity, of steel.

Sam. Sheehan fell in a fit near Hebel's store Monday. He was taken to the office of Drs. Nusbaum, and when restored, taken home. The Doctors say it was caused by the rupture of a blood vessel in the brain.

If this catches the eye of one who is run down, tired, discouraged, nerveless, he will be wise if he promptly comes to us for Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, the most reliable restorer of nerve and health. $1 bottles of F. E. Davenport.

Hamilton Advocate—The murder case of Sam Deeters will probably be changed to Steuben Co. The case came before Judge Powers at Auburn last Monday. Everything seems favorable to the change. More fun for Steuben at DeKalb's expense.

Miss Lulu VanSlyke, daughter of Rev. Wm. VanSlyke, was arrested at Goshen Monday, charged with stealing a ring We hope the young lady may be able to prove her innocence. Her father was well known here. He is now, we believe in Cleveland.

The Angola papers say that the two men in jail there secreted their table knives Tuesday morning, and when found they had been made into saws so as to be used cutting the bars for escape. It will interest our people to learn that Deeters was one of them. Deeters' insanity seems to have some method in it.

Visit J. G. Clapp, Auburn, whose beautiful work is giving the best of satisfaction, and he is making very fine finish and perfect likeness of the most fastideous people of this and adjoining counties. His business has so increased that it was necessary to employ Mr. G. A. Ostergren, of Chicago, who is also a very fine workman. They also have a nice new stock of mouldings; any size frames made to order. They can please you. 3 5

Mrs. Wartensleben died quite suddenly Saturday forenoon, though she had been ailing for some time. She had been unusually bright and well that morning, and Mr. W. was working in the room above when he heard a sound in the room below as if someone was knocking. He stopped to listen and heard it again. He went down stairs and found his wife lying helpless, though she could speak. She died in a few minutes, and before anything could be done for her. She was a most estimable woman. The funeral was put off till Tuesday, so Mrs. Ehlers could be sent for, as Mrs. Wartensleben had always asked that Mrs. Ehlers should take charge of her funeral.

Some irresponsible liar started the story that Fred. Funk had been getting a few sacks of that flour donated by James Draggoo. Mr. Funk is an industrious and intelligent citizen, who not only makes a living by his trade—he is a stone mason, and a good one, too—but he lays up money for a rainy day. Mr. Funk could hardly be made to believe that such a story was circulated, and was of course very indignant when he learned of it. If everyone who has a trade would be as industrious as Mr. Funk is, and use his money as sensibly and as carefully as he does, there would be very few in Auburn who would need that flour. People have, we are told, asked for this flour, who might have had work through the summer, but preferred to loaf. Others worked but spent their money foolishly.

Witch Hazel Salve.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cleanses, purifies and heals. It was made for that purpose. Use it for burns, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, sores of all descriptions, and if you have piles use it for them. 4tf

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Court.

We know that court's a runnin',
For the lawyers are a funnin',
And the sheriff goes a gunnin'
For the lawless and the tough;
And we find that Joe and Stephen
Are a keepin' things quite even,
And spectators are a leavin'.

All over the floor, in the halls and on the stairways great pools of tobacco juice, heaps of old cuds and cigar stumps, piles of peanut shells and all such abominable stuff.

Two courts have been running part of the time. The third pull at the Nodine will occupied the grand jury room two days last week, while Judge Powers and the jury tried the Jennings will case in the court room.

THE JENNINGS WILL CASE.

This was a case brought by John and Isaac Jennings, sons of Peter Jennings, deceased, of Troy township, together with Eber M. Coll and Daniel Hunter, whose wives were daughters of Jennings, against George, William and Abraham Jennings. The object was to break the will of Peter Jennings, which gave to George 40 acres of land, besides his share with the rest. Each of the heirs, under the will, got some money, and then there is the old home farm of 160 acres which is to be sold and the money then divided among the seven children named above, The proceeds of the farm would probably give each heir about $600 or $800. But they objected to George getting the extra 40 acres, though with that and what he gets from his share of the 160 acres, he will still be much poorer than the others, for all are in good circumstances. The will at first gave George 10 acres, then afterwards a codicil gave him 15; a later codicil made it 25, and the last one gave him 40 acres. This extra allowance caused the trouble, though it appears that it was given George because he staid near his father and in the main took care of him. The old man was about 80 when he died not long ago, and the point made was that he was not of strong mind enough to make his will. Hence, it was a point to show that the old man was feeble in both mind and body. Judge McClellan and W. L. Penfield were attorneys for George and his side, while J. E. Rose and J. H. Rose were on the other side. This meant a long, hard fight. Nearly all of Troy's people were here as witnesses. There was one of the witnesses, Hunter, a son-in-law who lives over in the edge of Ohio and is quite well fixed, who caused a good deal of amusement. He had said that old Mr. Jennings was feeble and told about his falling down at one time. Judge McClellan asked him to state how the old man fell and to go on and make it plain, etc. After being thus urged a time or two, the witness, very innocently got up and illustrated the thing, by flopping himself down on the floor, as nearly as he could in the way that he had seen the old man fall. It raised quite a stir in the court room The next day, Penfield was examining Hunter, and alluding to the good acting the witness had done the day before when he showed how Jennings fell, said:

"You are something of an actor, are you not?" Hunter replied that he was not an actor. But the lawyer followed up the question with several similar ones, and finally the witness admitted he was a singer, or said something to that effect.

Q. by Penfield:—You were a born singer, were you?

A.—No, I wasn't born singing. I was born crying. (Laughter)

Q.—How do you know you were born crying? Do you remember it?

A.—No, they told me I was. (Laughter.)

Later on, in speaking of old Mr. Jennings' feeble health, witness was led on to talk about the usual feebleness of old persons. He admitted he was himself 65. Here the attorney thought they would find out whether a man at this age was necessarily feeble in mind or body, and he was asked if he did not feel the weakness of age creeping over him, as he had claimed old Mr. Jennings had. He said he did not.

Q. Don't you ever have any ill health?
A.—No.
Q.—Any pains?
A.—No.
Q.—No backaches, etc?
A.—No.
Q.—Were you ever in court before?
A.—No.

Here the witness evidently began to tire of these, to him, unimportant and useless questions. Besides, he evidently thought many of them were asked by the attorneys for their own personal information. So he began to "object" on his own hook, and finally stopped and gave the attorneys, right then and there, a piece of his mind. It ran something like this:

"Say now. See here. You lawyers are the most ignorant fellows I ever met. I had been told that lawyers were smart, and knew a little about most everything. But you don't seem to know half as much as other folks. If you did, you would not ask all these questions about things you ought to understand already."

And the whole court had to stop for about two minutes while he lectured the attorneys.

At the time we go to press the case is not finished.

Wm. Morse, charged with larceny, gave bond of $500 for appearance next term on first day.

Frederick Hulsenbeck gave $100 bonds to appear from day to day, on charge of renting his rooms for gaming.

Oscar Gandy gave same bond for same offense to appear first day of next term.

Wesley Harris and Frank Derthick had a case for larceny against them. Harris first gave bonds, but soon after, his bondsman, Henry Harris, surrendered him and he was put in jail. Derthick plead guilty and got 30 days in jail and $1 fine.

Later.—Harris is again out on bail.

The Backus Water Motor Co. gets $69 judgment against Ben. Stiefel. The partition case of Luce vs Nodine came up again last week before D. R. Best as special judge. He held his court in the grand jury room, while Judge Powers was trying the Jennings case in the court room. Both were will cases. This one before Best was a pretty hot little fight; W. H. Less and E. D. Hartman being the lawyers for the plaintiff, Anna Luce, and C. M. Phillips for the other side. It occupied two days. J. H. Miller, who is Judge McClellan's typewriter and stenographer, was made short hand reporter for the case, and later on Phillips was appointed guardian ad litem (guardian for this law case) for one of the Nodines, who is under age. The judge has not finished the case yet.

The case of Regina Weaver vs A. Wheelock about the division of their residence lots, gets a new trial and goes to Steuben on a change of venue.

Tuesday evening Judge Zollars and L. M. Ninde were here from Ft. Wayne to argue the case of Jones vs Grand Rapids Ry. Co. before J. E. Rose, who is judge in that case. It will be remembered that this case was tried recently, as reported in the COURIER, with Mr. Rose as judge and a struck jury. Jones, an engineer, had been hurt by a defective water plug at Muskegon, Mich., and sued for damages. The jury decided he was entitled to $7,000, if any, and this with the $1,500 already paid him by the company, would make $8,500. After hearing arguments Tuesday evening, Judge Rose set aside the verdict of the jury as not being in accord with the evidence, and granted a new trial. This is in the nature of a victory for Judge McClellan and Judge Zollars, who are attorneys for the defendant road. L. M. Ninde, W. L. Penfield and T. R. Marshall were for the plaintiff. We mention these attorneys this time to get them on the sides where they belonged, as in our earlier reports of the case we "got the children mixed."

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

For pains in the chest there is nothing better than a flannel cloth saturated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

In addition to the books before mentioned, M. B. Willis has secured the agency for the county, of the book of season, "Samantha at the World's Fair." See him at once and give an order.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of Mystic Cure, and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

Now is the time when your catarrhal trouble begins to annoy and wreck the Respiratory and Nervous systems. Drs. Nusbaum & Nusbaum cure what they promise. Rooms especially fitted to treat diseases of nose and throat. Also diseases of women.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY:—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action pon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cts. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. tf

"During the epidemic of lagrippe, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy took the lead here and was much better liked than other cough medicine." H. M. BANES, druggist, Chatsworth, Ill. The grip is much the same as a very severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. This remedy is prompt and effectual and will prevent any tendency of the disease toward pneumonia. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Notices of meetings of societies, church socials, etc., not exceeding five lines, published un' or this head without charge. Five cents will be charged for each line in excess of five lines.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Miss McTighe.

The Loyal Temperance Legion will meet in the Church of God Sunday at 3:45 p. m.

The S. H. G. will meet this week with Mrs. Salver. Quotations at roll call. Other work as in program.

The ladies of the middle section of the M. E. church will give a social in the basement this Friday evening, 5 to 7. Mite, 15 cents. All cordially invited.

The C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Nickey Saturday, 2 p. m. Roll call, News of the Day; Books, by usual leaders; character sketch, Charlemagne, Mrs. McClellan.

The south division of the Presbyterian church will give a social supper in the church parlors Wednesday evening, Jan. 31, at usual hour. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Society of the Presbyterian church meets with Mrs. Forkner Monday eve., Jan 29, at 7 o'clock. All members requested to attend.

The Nickel Social of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. Ober next Friday at 2:30 p. m. Ladies are requested to take thimbles with them to do society sewing.

Repair Shop.

Two skillful workmen, George Loff, of Canton, Ohio, and Leonard Trapp, of Garrett, have started a repair shop in the small building back of the marble shop, that is, on the corner of Jackson and Sixth streets, and will prove quite a convenience to our people. They will repair almost anything you have, but make a specialty of bicycles, locks, mending and repairing tools of all kinds, as well as guns, revolvers, sewing machines, etc., etc. Our people can have keys fitted, locks repaired, and many other needed things. Give them a call.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the New Great South American Kidney Cure. This new remedy is a great Surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Druggists, Auburn, Ind.

A H PRY NEW YEAR

BRINGS RESOLUTIONS of REFORM.

Just as successfully as mother earth brings forth fruit and flowers

The habits, purposes, successes and failures of the year 1893, will not be adequate to the great demands of the great year of 1894.

NO RESOLUTION OF REFORM

Is of more importance than in the purchase of the necessaries of life. Especially is this true when you endeavor to find out how much your money

WILL BUY

in the way of

GROCERIES!

We wish all our friends a Happy New Year, and especially invite everybody to call at the Family Grocery when in need of: Bread, Cakes, groceries, Cigars, Tobacco, Confectionery, Soap Brooms, Flour, and General Merchandise. We will save you money.

IRA BRANDON.

GENTLEMEN!

Have you LARGE FEET?

If you have, go to

SHULL'S CASH SHOE STORE

You can buy Men's Shoes, size 9 to 11, for HALF WHAT THEY ARE WORTH.

THE CASH

BOOT AND SHOE STORE.

Opposite Bishop & Lackey's.

A FEW OF THE MANY Bargains we are offering:

200 Pairs Men's Pants, lined with Cotton Flannel worth $1.25, only 90 cents.
Lot Cottonade Pants, - - worth $1.00, only 75 cents.
Lot Wool Shirts, - worth $1.00 to $1.25, only 75 cents.
Lot Men's Wool Socks, - worth 20 cents, only 12 cents.

OLDS BROS.

North of Court House.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

THE waiter girl is willing to marry while she waits.

A BABY always helps to make home happy—particularly when the baby is asleep.

IF the people give to the anarchist just what he clamors for he will feel sorely hurt over it.

THIS is the time of the year when the farm hand, returning from the dance, falls asleep on the railroad track and the early milk train does the rest.

FORTY British troops were "massacred" by the Matabeles. Let us see, what is the correct word to use when 3,000 Matabeles are put to death with Maxim guns?

FALL RIVER, MASS., is a decaying village. It used to boast of a stirring murder every few weeks. Now it has to be content with the efforts of a venerable firebug.

A DETROIT baker was found dead with his head and shoulders buried in a mass of dough. There was an inquiry into the cause of death, but what the Detroit people most want to know is what became of the dough.

HOW INSIGNIFICANT a decayed tooth looks after it is out! When it was at home and busy at work it felt as big as a meeting-house, but after it has been kicked out of doors it looks so small that it seems like effrontery to tender it to the dentist in payment for his services.

WITH regard to the choice of friends, there is little to say, for a friend is never chosen. A secret sympathy, the attraction of a thousand nameless qualities, a charm in the expression of the countenance, even in the voice or manner, a similarity of circumstances—these are the things that begin attachment.

THESE anarchists are not a very valiant crowd after all. The desire to redeem mankind is not strong enough to overcome their love of life. Codina, who threw the bomb in the Liceo Theater, says that he had intended to throw two, but he saw a detective watching him after the first had done its execution, and he sneaked away with the missile hidden under his coat.

FRANK WYATT, a Chicago newspaper man, riding in a street car, drew his revolver and made two thieves give back the goods they had just taken from a fellow passenger. In doing so he was guilty of carrying concealed weapons, breach of the peace, assault with intent to kill, and, so far as the thieves are concerned, with grand larceny and highway robbery. Which illustrates the difference between law and justice.

CHANG, the Chinese giant, was buried recently at Bournemouth. The coffin was nearly eight feet six inches long. A Congregational minister conducted the service. He leaves two sons who are of normal height. His wife, who was English, died a little while ago. The great point about Chang was that he was a genuine giant, well built, and well proportioned. He had a face of the typical Chinese wisdom and benevolence, and bore himself with the greatest courtesy and dignity.

REPORTS from Brazil seem to indicate that Admiral Mello is eager to have the Nictheroy squadron come and attack him, while the commander of that terrifying aggregation of extemporized men-of-war is thirsting for blood and also eagerly awaiting attack. It is this policy of awaiting the attack of the enemy and firmly refusing to go and seek him which enables our sanguinary neighbors to the southward to conduct frequent wars without in any degree increasing the death rate in their country.

NEW YORK JOURNAL: Very genteel fellows, those train robbers out West! They apologize to engineers for the trouble of halting their locomotives; and while they harvest the gold watches and diamond pins of the incautious travelers they remark: "We are poor workingmen and must have shoes to wear." Evidently this formula is borrowed from the Spanish brigands, who invariably begin with the remark: "We are poor men, Senors," as if that were an all-sufficient excuse. The workmen of the Mississippi Valley should hunt down the villains who are injuring them by claiming to be "honest" toilers.

ONE of the strangest diseases known to mankind is the uncontrollable desire to alter signs, thereby turning the most staid and sober inscriptions into the most ridiculous twaddle. Although largely restricted to small boys the affliction sometimes clings even after man's estate has been reached. All the passenger coaches on the Philadelphia and Reading Road bear inscriptions which read: "Passengers must keep off the platform until the train stops." Many of these, by a little ingenious rubbing, have been made to read: "Passengers must keep off the platform until the rain stops." From the fact that a large number of the signs have been doctored in precisely the same manner the supposition naturally is that they have all been altered by the same person. Here is a subject for a specialist on brain disorders.

THE State of New York has a law requiring examiners to go through thousands of papers about this time at Albany, the authors being under 18. One of the themes on which an essay was asked was "Macbeth." A paper on this subject was short and to the point. Macbeth was pronounced a wicked man who had killed the whole Duffy family. It is needless to say that the writer was a young tiger who got a little ancient history mussed in a mysterious way around the lonely figure of a well-known political character in New York, an ornament to the bench, Justice Duffy. The failure of New York to do the right thing about monuments showed in a paper on Nathan Hale. The writer unhesitatingly declared that Nathan had just been celebrated by the unfurling of two monuments. It is historical knowledge and literary skill like this that is going to adorn future statesmen of New York.

AS THE Pole hates the Russian, as the German hates the Pole, as the Frenchman hates the German, as the Spaniard hates the Frenchman, as the Portuguese hates the Spaniard, so, with the increased vehemence of family aversions, does the Norwegian hate his brother, the Swede. Years ago Sweden united Norway to itself on a footing highly honorable to the smaller country. Ever since then the terms of the understanding have been subjects of dispute. Norway desires to retain the right of forming alliances and of declaring war on foreign powers for its own parliament. This would make the suzerainty of the Swedish king purely nominal. The Norwegians are ultra-democratic; the Swedes are aristocratic by nature and tradition. It is only a question of time when another collision will come, unless the great powers, themselves at swords' points with each other, step in and play the role of peacemaker between the two ill-mated partners.

THE anti-tax war in Sicily has assumed proportions so formidable that 36,000 troops of the third section of one army class not previously under arms for some years have been ordered there in addition to the large regular contingent stationed in the island. This means fierce suppression of the revolt. Sicily has a population exceeding 3,000,000, four-fifths of them unable to read or write, living for the most part on small tillage and reduced to desperation by octroi and other taxes. Revolutionary demagogues have found quick sympathy among the victims of triple alliance extravagance, and arms have been imported during the past summer at a rate that meant a rising if not checked in time. The King is evidently going to give the check now, but if he pin the island down with a bayonet he cannot collect any taxes. The land cannot be worked without labor, and the sullen Italian, menaced by soldiery, will not work. The situation is serious enough, and collisions between the troops and people are likely to inflame other parts of the kingdom instead of quieting a discontent profound and universal.

THE thousands of Chicagoans who found intellectual enjoyment in examining the priceless exhibit of Pope Leo in the Convent of La Rabida at the World's Fair will be pleased to learn that efforts are now being made to secure many, if not all, the features of that exhibit for the Columbian Museum. The willingness of the Pope to donate a part of the exhibit encouraged the museum directory to ask for all of it. The assistance of Cardinal Gibbons has been enlisted, and already he has begun correspondence with the Pope. There is no estimating the value, either financial or educational, of the Vatican exhibit. It was the most interesting of La Rabida's contents. It consists of rare historical documents pertaining to the discovery of America, pictures, ancient tomes, etc. For centuries they had lain in the archives of the Vatican, and only by courtesy of the Pope, whose intense interest in the great Exposition was manifested in so many ways, were they permitted to be removed for public inspection. Duplicates of several articles are not to be found in any of the world's museums, which makes them more desirable for the Columbian Museum. It is sincerely hoped that the efforts of the directory, aided by Cardinal Gibbons, will result in success.

Visiting Cards.

The Chinese, who seem to have known most of our new ideas, used visiting cards 1,000 years ago; but their cards were very large, and not really the prototypes of our visiting cards, as they were on soft paper and tied with ribbon. Venice seems to have been the first city in Europe to use cards; some dating from the latter part of the sixteenth century are preserved in a museum there. The German cities followed the Venitian custom in 100 years or so, then London followed suit, for the first visiting cards in Great Britain were playing cards, or parts of such cards, bearing the name of the bestower on the back. They were first used in England about 1700. We do not know when they were first used in this country, probably not long after their first introduction into British society.

Tattooing in Japan.

The Japanese tattooers now produce in colors an exact photograph of any cherished friend whose image the tattooed person may desire to have constantly with him.

ABOUT INCOME TAXES.

OBJECTIONS MADE BY THE CLASSES, NOT THE MASSES.

The Income Tax May Not Be Perfect, but in Comparison with the Tariff and General Property Tax Its Shortcomings are Insignificant.

Popular with the People.

Many mean things are being said nowadays about income taxes. They are inquisitorial, monarchical, un-American, and unpopular, say Republicans, protectionists, and millionaires generally. They may be resorted to in war times, but are infamous in times of peace.

Well, it is easy to admit that an income tax is not perfect; but in comparison with our other taxes (tariff and and general property taxes), its shortcomings are insignificant. While it is inquisitorial—especially the tax on individual incomes—it is less so than the tax on personal property as applied in many States, and is outclassed by the internal revenue and tariff taxes, which open books and trunks, search buildings and persons, and set spies over honest manufacturers and importers. It is true that an income tax is monarchical and un-American, in the sense that it is in use by many monarchies—but what tax is not? Is it not less objectional on this account than protective tariff taxes which have been far more generally adopted by monarchies?

Suppose it be admitted that it is a war tax. Are not more than one-third of our yearly expenditures for war obligations? What more fair than that our millionaires should be taxed to pay our pensioners? Many of our millionaires laid the foundations of their fortunes during the war and reconstruction period. The victory that saved the Union also saved these fortunes, many of which are the results of exorbitant profits from Government contracts and of other fraudulent means. Why should the honest toiler who supported the war and has since worked hard to support the war shylocks, as well as the war veterans, continue to tax himself to death to meet all of the war obligations, when the Shylocks and their brethren and offspring can be made to contribute a considerable part of this war fund? It is an infamy that those most benefited have not before been called upon to assist those most injured by our civil war. To the extent that an income tax can be made effective will it prevent the continuance of this infamy.

The other objection, that the income tax would be unpopular, is raised by the rich, and has not been heard coming from the wage-earner. This, like most other objections, comes mainly from wealthy citizens, or from newspapers domineered by corporations. No non-partisan body of ordinary farmers, mechanics, or laborers has said that this would be an unpopular tax, and, as different trade and labor organizations have condemned nearly every other kind of taxation, it may be inferred that this tax would be extremely popular with them. The plutocrats who have presumed to speak for the masses are usually the same ones who have been advocating duties on goods, not to protect themselves, but to protect the wages of the dear workingmen. These rich and powerful manufacturers, capitalists, and monopolists have never represented anybody except themselves, though they have, by bribery and corruption, been able to control elections and dictate legislation for an incredible length of time, considering that this is an enlightened and free republic. But the common people have at last spoken on the protection fallacy, and it is unlikely that they will reverse their opinion even during these trying times, when their pretended friends are closing mills, reducing wages, and in every possible way bringing pressure to bear upon the usually poor and too often ignorant factory employe, to force him to advocate protection. If the masses cannot longer be bull-dozed or bribed into subjection to protection, it is certain that they cannot be on so simple a question as this one of income taxation. An income tax would undoubtedly be popular in the North and the East, as well as in the South and the West—with the masses. There are so many wealthy men in Congress and so many backed by wealthy politicians that we may never have an opportunity to test the popularity of this tax. Once passed and passed in time, it will do more to save the Democratic party in 1894 and 1896 than any other feature of the tariff bill. Not only will it be popular on its own account but its use will permit of tariff reductions sufficiently large to produce a noticeably good effect and thus to attract to the Democratic party many voters who have heretofore doubted the efficacy of tariff reform.—Byron W. Holt.

Wilson's Opening Shots.

The following is from the magnificent speech of Chairman Wilson, of the Ways and Means Committee: The majority of the members of the Ways and Means Committee did not profess dealing with a system which had grown up through thirty years of progressive legislation, or at one proposed stroke of legislation to free it of its injustice and to present a measure responding correctly to the demand of the American people. They expected that friends in the country would fall away from them whenever they undertook to prepare any definite measure of legislation. They knew from all of their experience in the past that not all who march bravely in the parade are found in line when the musketry begins to rattle. I would not stop to inquire into the causes that have brought about the present prostration of industry in this country and demoralized to a large extent the active business and trade of the country.

There seems to be some recurring cycle in modern times about such depressions. But, from whatever cause it had originated, it was at least an embarrassment to us in the performance of our duty, if for no other reason than that it has been eagerly seized upon by the enemies of tariff reform to kindle hostility against that great and beneficent movement. But if there was ever a time when the burden of taxation should be lightened, it is at a time when men are struggling for the very necessaries of life, a time when trade is held in the paralysis of a commercial crisis. All through this country the enemies of tariff reform are seeking to prejudice its success by an appeal to those whose reasoning and whose power of reasoning is for the time being blunted by personal suffering and personal distress. Protection when expelled from our revenue laws never came back into them by the conscious and intelligent assent of the American people. When the American people were in the agony of their great civil war it crept stealthily in through the back door, and it now seeks to take advantage of the present commercial distress to hold on to its position in the revenue system of this country.

The Calamity Croaker's Object.

The average manufacturer and his unthinking tools are among the greatest calamity croakers this country is infested with. He has a purpose in his cry, viz: to reduce the wages of his employes and blame it on the politics of the ruling class. These favored gentry, who have acquired fortunes at the expense of the toiling masses, are only adding to your burdens. The stoppage of mills and factories is for the purpose of starving you into submission. Politics has made fortunes for them at your expense, and they are adepts in the Barnum theory that you want to be humbugged, as the American wants to be treated with humbug. Don't let them fool you by the cry of free trade and Democratic times, as they have made the times what they are and every one of them has a purpose in misleading you. We hear of their philanthropy and immense donations to the poor, but when they give a dollar they take two dollars off your wages. When they are cornered they claim that the law of supply and demand regulates wages. They make this law of supply and demand by shutting down their mills and factories for the purpose of starving you into submission. A majority of the people of this country don't want to ruin the industries of the country nor do they want an aristocracy of class. They want a government of the people, by and for the people.—National Glass Budget.

RELIEF AT HAND.—Puck.

Republican Specific Duties.

Any taxpayer who is mixed in his ideas of an ad valorem tariff can come very close to a settled opinion by reflecting upon how a specific tax would work in State and municipal affairs. Suppose the State of Missouri declared that ever farmer should pay a tax of $100, instead of the ad valorem tax now applied. The rich land owner whose farm was worth $50,000 would be very lightly taxed, while the poor home owner who had managed to get a farm worth $500 would be compelled to sell it. Suppose St. Louis should declare that every merchant should pay $500 a year. The big business houses whose trade amounts to millions would get off easily, while the small grocer would be driven out of business.

That is the way a specific tariff duty works. It is a continued fraud on the poor man. The cheaper necessaries pay a tremendous percentage, while the high-priced qualities of the same wares are taxed very little. A specific duty requires more watching than ann people can give. An ad valorem duty requires only the watching that any customs service ought to give without urging. A tariff which is made specific would impose upon the small income many times the percentage paid to support the Government by the big income. You can bet on the Republican party sticking to the device which will boost the rich man and keep down the poor man.—St. Louis Republic.

The Right Man in the Right Place.

It is of good argury for the Wilson bill that the tariff debate in the House of Representatives should have been opened by Chairman Wilson himself in a speech of such argumentative and logical power, and such candor, withal, that at the very beginning it puts the discussion on a high plane, from which the sneers of Reed and the harangues of Boutelle will not avail to drag it down if Mr. Wilson's Democratic associates keep their temper and address themselves earnestly to the business of advancing the bill to its passage. There is no good working answer to Mr. Wilson's assertion that "if there was ever a time when the burden of taxation should be lightened, it is at a time when men are struggling for the very necessaries of life, a time when trade is held in the paralysis of a commercial crisis." A single candid exposition of the principles of the bill like this speech of the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee has more power of conviction for men of open minds than tons of petitions extorted by protected manufacturers from workmen whose wages were cut down after the enactment of the McKinley tariff.

Inexcusable Delay.

This is peculiarly a time for diligence in duty and the pushing of needed legislation.—Chattanooga Times.

It will be greatly to the discredit of the Democratic party if the new tariff law is not speedily enacted.—Boston Herald.

If the Democrats in the House cannot rally their forces and get to work it must be concluded that they are determined to destroy their party.—Philadelphia Times.

It is the imperative duty of the Democrats to cut short the debate and get the Wilson bill into the President's hands before the end of February.—Chicago Herald.

The country demands prompt action on the Wilson bill. The members of Congress have sought and have been intrusted with the office of the country's legislative representatives. It is their duty to fill that office, or to give way to others who will.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SOME men will get the upper hand of you even if they have to do it by underhand methods.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

OCCURRENCES DURING THE PAST WEEK.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes of the State.

Hoosier Happenings

THE Law and Order League of Crawfordsville is suppressing the gambling dens there.

SEVERAL very ancient porcelain relics have been found by diggers in a mound near English.

CHARLES AMOS, a prominent farmer near Shoals, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head.

WIN DUNBAR, a prosperous farmer near Crawfordsville, was thrown from a buggy, and his neck was broken.

JAMES DICK, a Lake Erie and Western switchman in the Muncie yards, had his right arm mashed off at the wrist.

JOHN MARSH, Shelbyville, accidentally shot himself while hunting. The shot entered his face and hands. He may recover.

LIEUT. J. H. CONNELLY, an old veteran of Greensburg, was killed by the cars near Newpoint. His body was horribly mutilated.

A MAN named Lyons was run over and killed by an Evansville and Terre Haute passenger train last night near Paxton, Sullivan County.

JOHN CLARK, at the Westerman Rolling mills, in Marion, lost an eye by an explosion of natural gas, which destroyed a furnace, besides doing other damage.

A DOUBLE killing occurred at Pikeville, a small town in the eastern part of Pike County. A family feud has existed for some time between a man named Jim Spradin, and a man and his son named Mitchell. The men got into a quarrel and Spradin drew his revolver and shot both of the Mitchells dead. Spradin made his escape.

AT Fort Wayne, Joseph Rauner with a shotgun blew the top of his head off. He placed the muzzle in his mouth and pulled the trigger with a string attached to his toe. He was 30 years old, and leaves a widow and two small children. Rauner has been out of work for some time, and it weighed heavily on his mind. No other cause for the act is known.

AT Crawfordsville the family of Ernest Dorsey was poisoned by eating headcheese. Shortly after eating Mr. Dorsey, his wife, and four children were all taken ill, and also Billie Sanders and Mark Bess, who were there for supper. Doctors say that they all had signs of arsenic poisoning. Two children, who put mustard on the cheese they ate, were not very ill.

JOHN RIPLINGER, foreman for W. E. Grey, the bridge contractor, was instantly killed at Franklin, while unloading a derrick at Mr. Grey's stoneyard, near the junction. The timbers were very heavy and in lifting them from the wagon, Mr. Riplinger was overcome by the weight and the derrick fell on him. The dead man's home was at North Vernon, where he had a wife and six children.

SAMUEL VON LENOX, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lenox, died at Muncie of a very peculiar cause. The case completely baffled the medical fraternity and a post-mortem examination was made. It was discovered that a small black bug had bean swallowed by the boy and that it had eaten through his stomach and intestines and to the heart. A hole had been eaten into the heart causing death from loss of blood.

GEORGE PARENT, a farmer residing near Union City, burned up $360 the other day. He has the renting of the Dr. James farm and had just sold the grain raised the past season. He was in Al Lampert's grain office, counting the money and preparing to send it to Mrs. Dr. James at Marshall, Ill. The money was lying on a table and after doing some figuring on a piece of paper he gathered it up and threw it in the stove. Upon returning to the desk he discovered the money gone and went to the stove only in time to see it consumed in ashes.

FIVE BURGLARS made a raid on the Panhandle depot at Crown Point the other night. The night operator, Harry Pilling, was bound and tied fast in front of two revolvers and relieved of $15. They then drilled three holes in the safe and exploded powder in them, but the safe stood the charge. While their work was going on two freight trains were let go by the station, the burglars having taken down the signal, but fortunately no harm was done. The third train stopped on orders, and it is supposed this scared them away. Pilling was found by the train men and liberated.

PATENTS have been granted to Indiana inventors as follows: Sebastian Bettage, Mariah Hill, folding frame for ironing table; John W. Bliss and J. C. Erwin, Elkhart, machine for waxing or coating paper; Ernest W. Bradford, Indianapolis, fountain attachment for pens; Augustus P. Craig, Michigan City, vehicle axle; Thomas F. Harrington, Indianapolis, railway mileage ticket; James P. Kelso, Jackson, wind or current operated wheel; Charles M. Kiler, assignor of one-half to H. E. Urmston, Indianapolis, fence; John C. Morgel, A. T. Ball and H. M. Nagel, Brazil, broom or brush; Elijah Neff, Milford, pump for water systems; James Richey, Evanville, table leg fastening; Benjamin W. Smith, Rockport, railway car-brake; John T. Sollenberg, assignor of one-half to A. A. Charles, Kokomo, apparatus for plugging and topping tomatoes, etc., in cans; Theadore F. Vandegrift, Shelbyville, belt tightener and shifter; Jacob J. Weicher, assignor of one-half to G. Haller, Fort Wayne, mail box; Clarence L. Wheeler, Marion, rail joint; Luke Woodward, Muncie, sash fastener.

IN a freight collision on the Panhandle, near McCrawsville, between Amboy and Bunker Hill, a caboose and two cars were burned and an oil tank caught fire.

AT Columbus, the jury in the case of the State of Indiana against Christ. Snyder, who with eleven others, white capped Mrs. Andy Schrader, in the night time, returned a verdict of assault and battery and a fine of $400. The verdict was a surprise to all, and is regarded as a compromise. The other defendants, it is believed, will offer to plead guilty. The defendants now have a $10,000 damage suit to fight.

AN attempt was made to derail the fast train on the Baltimore and Ohio Road in the big marsh three miles east of Bremen. The engine struck a log placed upon the track, but was stopped before any damage was done. The log was found under the baggage car, having been picked up by a truck. The marsh has been surrounded by armed men for the purpose of capturing a tough gang that lives on the island, but as it is raining hard the marsh will soon fill up and render all approaches to the island impossible. When the train stopped the passengers got down under the seats, expecting a fusillade of shots, but none were fired.

BONDS TO BE ISSUED.

SECRETARY CARLISLE CALLS FOR PROPOSALS.

The Total Is $50,000,000 and the Securities Will Bear Interest at the Rate of Five Per Cent. Redeemable in Ten Years—In Denominations of $50 and Upward.

Must Be at a Premium.

The long-delayed but inevitable recognition by the Treasury Department of the necessity for an issue of bonds to meet the demands of the government and to maintain its credit at home and abroad was made when Secretary Carlisle issued a circular inviting proposals for $50,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds, redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after ten years, and to be issued in denominations of $50 and upwards. The 5 per cent. bonds were finally preferred to either the 4½ or the 4 per cent. bonds because of the possibility of redeeming them at maturity and the convenient control over them given the government in case it might be desired to continue them at a lower rate when the ten years had expired. The following is the text of the circular:

SECRETARY J. G. CARLISLE.

By virtue of the authority contained in the act entitled "An Act to Provide for the Resumption of Specie Payments," approved Jan. 14, 1875, the Secretary of the Treasury hereby offers for public subscription an issue of bonds of the United States to the amount of $50,000,000 in either registered or coupon form, in denominations of $50 and upward, redeemable in coin at the pleasure of the Government after ten years from the date of their issue and bearing interest payable quarterly in coin at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum. Proposals for the whole or any part of these bonds will be received at the Treasury Department, office of the Secretary, until 12 o'clock noon, on the first day of February, 1894.

Proposals should state the amount of bonds desired, whether registered or coupon, and the premium which the subscriber proposes to pay, the place where it is desired that the bonds shall be delivered, and the office, whether that of the Treasurer of the United States or an assistant Treasurer of the United States, where it will be most convenient for the subscriber to deposit the amount of his subscription. Failure to specify the above particulars may cause the proposal to be rejected.

As soon as practicable, after the first day of February, 1894, the allotment of bonds will be made to the highest bidders therefor, but no proposal will be considered at a lower price than 117.223, which is the equivalent of a 3 per cent. bond at par, and the right to reject any and all proposals is hereby expressly reserved. In case the bids entitled to allotment exceed the bonds to be issued, they will be allotted pro rata. Notices of the date of delivery of the bonds will be sent to the subscribers to whom allotments are made as soon as practicable, and within ten days from the date of such notice subscriptions must be paid in United States gold coin to the Treasurer or such assistant treasurer of the United States as the subscriber has designated, and if not so paid the proposal may be rejected.

The bonds will be dated Feb. 1, 1894, and when payment is made therefor, as above, accrued interest on both principal and premium from Feb. 1, 1894, to date of payment at the rate of interest realized to the subscriber on his investment will be added. All proposals should be addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, D. C., and should be distinctly marked "proposals for subscriptions to 5 per cent. bonds."

J. G. CARLISLE, Secretary.

Secretary Carlisle's announcement that no proposal will be considered at a lower rate than 117.223 will make the bonds pay 3 per cent. on the investment during the time they run. The premium is lower by a fraction of a cent than on the fifteen-year bonds at 4½ per cent. or the thirty-year bonds at 4 per cent., reduced to a 3 per cent. basis. The price of the 4½s for fifteen years, with semi-annual payments of interest, would be 118.01, and of the 4 per cents for thirty years, 119.69. The present call for $50,000,000 will increase the Treasury balance, with the premium, by about $59,000,000 and make the total $143,000,000.

SHOWS WORLD'S FAIR FACTS.

President Palmer Presents His Annual Report to President Cleveland.

The annual report of the World's Columbian Commission has been submitted to President Cleveland by President T. W. Palmer. Detailed statements of the scope and various features of the Exposition are left for the final report, to be prepared by a special committee of the commission, with President Palmer at its head, and which will be a work of great magnitude, practically a history of the fair, to be completed next November. An estimate of $42,500 to complete the work of the commission, not including the committee on awards, is made, and congress is asked to make its transfer from the funds of the committee on awards and Board of Lady Managers. The commission has a balance of $11,000 in the treasury, the committee on awards $96,273, and the committee on awards of the lady managers $40,539; present Board of Lady Managers, $51,196.

CONDITION OF WESTERN BANKS.

Comptroller Issues a Statement Based Upon Returns Made to Him.

Returns as to the condition of Western banks, as made to the Comptroller of the Currency, are as follows:

In the State of Colorado the reserve was 38.13 per cent.; loans and discounts, $21,420,000; individual deposits, $18,802,000, and lawful money reserve, $3,215,000.

In the State of Nebraska the reserve was 29.73 per cent.; loans and discounts, $15,779,000; individual deposits, $10,652,000; lawful money reserve, $1,226,000.

In the State of North Dakota the reserve was 22.56 per cent.; loans and discounts, $5,278,000; individual deposits, $4,137,000; and lawful money reserve, $310,326.

In the State of Nevada the reserve was 28.47 per cent.; loans and discounts, $553,318; individual deposits, $463,401, and lawful money reserve, $79,887.

In the Indian Territory the reserve was 41.23 per cent.; loans and discounts, $518,825; individual deposits, $339,936, and lawful money reserve, $96,954.

In the State of Idaho the reserve was 24.80 per cent.; loans and discounts, $1,545,000; individual deposits, $1,557,000, and lawful money reserve, $246,110.

Adams Company Shut Out.

The most important express company deal of recent years was consummated in Chicago on Wednesday, by ex-Senator Platt, President of the United States Express Company. By it that company will occupy the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway and all its branches, retiring from the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in favor of the American Express Company. This practically shuts out the Adams Company, which has hitherto had the St. Paul's business from the northwest. The Adams Company's offices in Milwaukee will be closed. The agreement goes into effect about March 1.

THAT MISSING DAY.

The Equator Is Humdrum Compared with the Imaginary Line in the Pacific.

A question which has often been asked but rarely answered satisfactorily is: How far would one have to go around the earth, moving east or west, and supposing no time lost in transition, before one would reach the point where to-day changes into yesterday or to-morrow? Evidently there must be such a point somewhere, for an hour is lost every 15 degrees one goes to the east, and an hour gained every 15 degrees one goes to the west.

To put the question in another way, suppose it is one minute past midnight in Paris the morning of Oct. 1, what day is at that moment at the antipodes of Paris? Is it Oct. 1 or Sept. 30?

Apparently one can prove that it is either of these days by making an instantaneous journey half way around the earth, either to the east or to the west.

Going east, at the moment the Paris clocks point to a minute past midnight it is approximately 1 o'clock in the morning of Oct. 1 at Vienna, 2 o'clock of the same day at Sebastopol, 3 o'clock at Astrachan, 4 o'clock at Bokhara, 7 o'clock at Saignon, 9 o'clock at Yokohama, 11 o'clock at Pine Island, and noon at Fortune Island—the 1st of October at every point.

On the other hand, going westward one finds that it is 10 o'clock in the evening of Sept. 30 at the Azores Islands, 8 o'clock in the evening at Buenos Ayres, 7 o'clock at New York, 6 o'clock at New Orleans, 5:15 at Mexico City, 1 o'clock in the afternoon near the Aleutian Islands, and noon at Fortune Islands—the date being Sept. 30 in each case.

Thus one has demonstrated that it is noon of Oct. 1 and noon of Sept. 30 at the same place and at the same time.

This would certainly be embarrassing to the good people of Fortune Island, and in order to avoid such complications and relieve well-meaning islanders in the Pacific from mixing up their Saturday and Sunday in hopeless fashion an arbitrary line separating to-day from yesterday or to-morrow has been agreed upon by the navigators of civilized nations.

This line has been drawn to avoid touching land. No one can be exactly sure of the moment of passing it, but the line runs just east of New Hebrides and the New Caledonian groups and passes near the Marion Islands and Caroline Islands.

Captains of vessels, judging by the positions of the islands mentioned, can fix the date within a few minutes.

Vessels sailing from west to east on passing this imaginary line simply repeat the day before on their log books, which consequently show two days bearing the same date.

On the other hand ships going in the opposite direction skip the to-morrow and lose a day entirely. In the first case the sailors get an extra day's pay; in the second place they lose a day's pay.

The conclusion of the whole matter is that when Paris clocks indicate a minute past midnight on Oct. 1 it is Oct. 1 going east as far as the imaginary line just indicated, while it is Sept. 30 going west up to the same line.—Boston Globe.

The Ruling Passion Strong in Death.

A man died in New Jersey recently, says the Weekly Witness, who was worth $100,000 and had no near relatives. About an hour before his death he asked for a workman, who occupied a small home on his place. The physician and nurse surmised that he was about to give the little home to the workman who has proved faithful for many years. But when the man appeared, his dying landlord said to him: "You only paid me $4 on the last rent, and in case I die I want to have things straight, you know, so I'd like you to pay the other two dollars." The money was paid, and a few minutes after clutching it the rich man passed away, apparently happy.

That is the whole story as it comes to us through the newspapers, but it certainly is not the end of the story. We will not know the result until the veil which shrouds the future from our vision shall have been lifted; but it is awful to think of this rich man going to meet the Judge of all the earth with these two dollars in his hand.

Yet there was nothing amiss with the manner of this man's death, if judged by the ideas current among rich church members in regard to the right and responsibilities associated with the posession of wealth; for this man only claimed his own and got it. The only thing that suggests a thought of danger in connection with these two dollars is the solemn warning given to us by the Judge that he will hold us accountable to a higher standard of righteousness than that which prevails among us. Speaking of a certain rich man who had used his riches as if they were altogether his own, he said:

"The rich man also died, and was buried; and in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torment."

Let those who have been intrusted with any measure of worldly prosperity remember that God has made them in an especial manner their brother's keeper, and that they must expect to die just as they live, and to carry with them to the judgment seat the characters that they have built up in their daily lives.

A Question of Location.

As a train drew into the Waldoboro depot a lady with an armful of bundles stepped into the car aisle. Just then the door at one end of the car opened and the brakeman said:

"Waldoboro! Waldoboro!"

The lady immediately started down the aisle in that direction. When she was fairly a-going the door at the other end of the car opened and the conductor said,

"Waldoboro! Waldoboro!"

The lady stopped, bewildered, and looking helplessly from one end of the car to the other, cried out:

"Which end! Which end!"

THE Columbian postage stamp will soon disappear and give you a chance to put in your biggest lick on something else.

The Complexion of a Chinese

Is not yellower than that of an unfortunate individual whose liver complaint has assumed the chronic form. The eyeballs of the sufferer assume a saffron hue, there is dull pain in the region of the organ affected, the tongue is coated, breath sour, sick headaches usually but not always occur, and there is sometimes dizziness on arising from a sitting posture. Constipation and dyspepsia are also attendants of this very common ailment, always in its aggravated form, liable to breed abscesses of the liver, which are very dangerous. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters wholly eradicates it, as well as the troubles complicated with it and which it originates. In chills and fever, a complaint which always yields to the Bitters, the liver is seriously involved. This fine alterative tonic removes costiveness and indigestion, rheumatic, nervous and kidney trouble and debility.

He Surprised Them.

Whether he lives in Detroit or not is no matter. In any event he is painfully close and would sooner give a drop of blood than a dollar. The day after New Year's he met an acquaintance.

"Ah," said the acquaintance, "have a good time yesterday?"

"Pretty fair. I broke $5 bill for the benefit of the boys in my store."

"Is that so? I guess that explains the remarks I heard the boys making."

"What did they say?"

"They said they thought you could get a job in a museum as a strong man."—Free Press.

FITS! All fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

EVERY man makes a confession in his New Year's resolutions.

THROW IT AWAY.

There's no longer any need of wearing clumsy, chafing Trusses, which give only partial relief at best, never cure, but often inflict great injury, inducing inflammation, strangulation and death.

HERNIA (Breach), or Rupture, no matter of how long standing, or of what size, is promptly and permanently cured without the knife and without pain. Another Triumph in Conservative Surgery is the cure of TUMORS, Ovarian, Fibroid and other varieties, without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, Fistula, and other diseases of the lower bowel, promptly cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, and washed out, thus avoiding cutting.

STRICTURE of urinary passage is also removed without cutting. Abundant References, and Pamphlets, on above diseases, sent sealed, in plain envelope, 10 cts. (stamps). WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Read the Label. Send for Book.

Increased Appetite

is one of the first good effects felt by users of Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil with Hypophosphites. Good appetite begets good health.

Scott's Emulsion

is a fat food that provides its own tonic. Instead of a tax upon appetite and digestion it is a wonderful help to both.

Scott's Emulsion arrests the progress of Consumption, Bronchitis, Scrofula, and other wasting diseases by raising a barrier of healthy flesh, strength and nerve.

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All druggists.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

THIS IS THEIR DEPARTMENT OF THE PAPER.

Quaint Sayings and Cute Doings of the Little Folks Everywhere, Gathered and Printed Here for All Other Little Ones to Read.

A Great Trombone.

Brother Bear beats that drum
With an ear-splitting tone,
But I think that my trunk
Makes a better trombone.

Jingle.

Tzad was a small person, as I've heard tell,
She fed on taffy and drank from a well;

When the day was hot, and the sun rose high,
The taffy was melted and the well ran dry.

Unrewarded Strategy.

Wednesday morning the boys rolled the big snowball before the door, and it took the teacher until noon to shovel it away.

But there was consternation in the schoolroom when the teacher showed that he could do a thing or two.—New York Journal.

High-Chair Philosophy.

"Oh, Tommy, that was abominable in you to eat your sister's share of the cake." "Why," said Tommy, "didn't you always tell me, ma, that I am to take her part?"—Exchange.

PAPA—What is your mamma doing? Little daughter—Knitting. Papa (surprised)—Eh? Knitting? What? Little daughter—I don't know, but you needn't be scared. It isn't her brows.—Good News.

IMPATIENT FATHER—Here, you young rascal, what are you doing? Wow. Let go of my hair. Are you trying to pull the top of my head off? Angel Child—Yep. Want to see the wheels go round.—Detroit Tribune.

EDITH—Ma, that new maid is awful stupid. Mamma—What has she done? "I wanted to practice a little, so I sent her to the music-room for the Lost Chord." "Well?" "She brought me the clothes-line."—Texas Siftings.

OLD GENTLEMAN—What would you like to be when you grow up? Boy—I'd like to be a bricklayer. "That's a commendable ambition. Why should you like to be a bricklayer?" "'Cause there so many days when bricklayers can't work."—Tit Bits.

"LITTLE girl, do you know whose house this is?" asked a solemn-looking man of a bright child seated on the church steps. "Yes, sir; it's God's, but He ain't in," she added, as the old gentleman was about to walk up the steps, "and His agent's gone to Europe."—Christian Advocate.

POLLY was drawing pictures on the slate for 3-year-old Ralph. "Look at this dog, Ralph," she said. "Isn't it nice. I drew it out of my own head." "Oh, no," answered Ralph, "solemnly. 'It came right out of the pencil. I saw it come." Then he added, with an air of deep thoughtfulness. "There's lots of dogs in the pencil, but I don't know how they got there!"—Harper's Young People.

"MAMMA," inquired Bobby, "do only good little boys go up to heaven?" "Yes, dear." "And bad little boys to the bad place?" "Yes." "I'm a good little boy, ain't I?" "Sometimes, Bobby, and sometimes you are quite a bad little boy." Bobby thought for a moment, and said: "Then I s'pose I'll have to spend a part of the time in one place and part of the time in the other."—Exchange.

THE grip is roving up and down seeking prey to devour. Beware of it!

Cheap Rents in "Old Mobile."

A Portion of the glory of Mobile, Ala., departed when, after years of labor, the railroads from the North were able to surmount the difficulties presented by marshland and bayou and continue their lines to New Orleans.

This affected certain branches of the business of the city materially, practically ruining the heavy trade in reshipping merchandise at Mobile for New Orleans, leaving giant warehouses tenantless and docks to rot and become grass grown.

The extent of the depreciation in value of some of the shipping property can be inferred from the following observations of a recently returned commercial traveller.

In walking through one of the old streets recently he saw on the ground floor of a huge five-story warehouse the striped pole and the sign of a barber shop and boot blacking establishment. Walking in to have his shoes polished, he inquired of the proprietor how much of the building he rented.

"All of it," replied the man.

"What, all of this immense building?" asked the drummer in surprise. "Why, how can you afford it? What do you pay for it?"

"Fifteen dollars a month," was the answer. "I use only what I want of it, but my lease covers the whole property."

Inquiry from merchants of the city confirmed the man's statement. The class of property had become absolutely useless by the altered conditions, enabling the barber to secure for $15 a month a building which formerly rented for $3,500 or $4,000 a year.

A NEW ENGLAND MIRACLE.

A RAILROAD ENGINEER RELATES HIS EXPERIENCE.

The Wonderful Story Told by Fred C. Vose and His Mother-in-law to a Reporter of the Boston Herald—Both Are Restored After Years of Agony.

[From the Boston Herald.]

The vast health-giving results already attributed by the newspapers throughout this country and Canada to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" have been recently supplemented by the cases of two confirmed invalids in one household in a New England town. The names of these people are Fred C. Vose, his wife and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Oliver C. Holt, of Peterboro, members of the same household.

To the Herald reporter who was sent to investigate his remarkable cure Mr. Vose said: "I am 37 years old, and have been railroading for the Fitchburg for fifteen years. Since boyhood I have been troubled with a weak stomach. For the past seven years I have suffered terribly and constantly. My stomach would not retain food; my head ached constantly and was so dizzy I could scarcely stand; my eyes were blurred; I had a bad heartburn, and my breath was offensive. I had physicians, but they failed to help me. My appetite gave out, and four years ago I developed palpitation of the heart, which seriously affected my breathing. Had terrible pains in my back and had to make water many times a day. I finally developed rheumatic signs and couldn't sleep nights. If I lay down my heart would go pit-a-pat at a great rate, and many nights I did not close my eyes at all. I was broken down in body and discouraged in spirit, when some time in February last, I got a couple of boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had finished the first box I noticed that the palpitation of my heart, which had bothered me so that I couldn't breathe at times, began to improve. I saw hat in going to my home on the hill from the depot, which was previously an awful task, my heart did not beat so violently and I had more breath when I reached the house. After the second and third boxes I grew better in every other respect. My stomach became stronger, the gas belching was not so bad, my appetite and digestion improved, and my sleep became nearly natural and undisturbed. I have continued taking the pills three times a day ever since last March, and to-day I am feeling better than at any time during the last eight years. I can confidently and conscientiously say that they have done me more good, and their good effects are more permanent, than any medicine I have ever taken. My rheumatic pains in legs and hands are all gone. The pains in the small of my back, which were so bad at times that I couldn't stand up straight, have nearly all vanished, and I find my kidneys are well regulated by them. This is an effect not claimed for the pills in the circular, but in my case they brought it about. I am feeling 100 per cent. better in every shape and manner."

The reporter next saw Mrs. Holt, who said: "I am 57 years old and for fourteen years past I have had an intermittent heart trouble. Three years ago I had nervous prostration, by which my heart trouble was increased so badly that I had to lie down most of the time. My stomach also gave out and I had continual and intense pain from the back of my neck to the end of my backbone. In fourteen weeks I spent $300 for doctor bills and medicines, but my health continued so miserable that I gave up doctoring in despair. I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills last winter, and the first box made me feel ever so much better. I have taken the pills since February, with the result of stopping entirely the pain in the spine and in the region of the liver. My stomach is again normal, and the palpitation of the heart has troubled me but three times since I commenced the pills."

An analysis of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills shows that they contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female, and all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50; they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., or Brockville, Ont.

A good specimen of the Boyle Roche breed of bull was recently encountered on a golf course not many miles from New York. B——, novice at the game was about to use his cleek, when he observed to his partner that the iron was a little loose.

"I'll have to put the tool in water and let the stick swell," said B——.

"Ah—what'll ye do that for?" asked his friend, a visitor from over the sea. "Whin it gits dry it'll only swell down again." Harper's Magazine.

IN all receipts for cooking requiring a leavening agent the ROYAL BAKING POWDER, because it is an absolutely pure cream of tartar powder and of 33 per cent. greater leavening strength than other powders, will give the best results. It will make the food lighter, sweeter, of finer flavor and more wholesome.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

Repartee in the Church.

A Richmond preacher ran out to supply a country church a few weeks ago. As he was about to commence his sermon the Methodist itinerant of the circuit and a dozen or two of his people walked in. At the close of his sermon the Richmond man referred to the presence of the Methodist brethren, and expressed his grateful sense of the honor they had done him in closing up their church and coming to the Baptist Church. As quick as thought the Methodist preacher replied: "We did not close up. The river was so high that we could not cross to get to our church. The water drove us to you." The Baptist preacher, as if a little disconcerted, replied: "Well, I may at least safely say that you are not the first Methodist that the water has driven to the Baptists." Then some one struck up "Blest be the tide that binds," and the Methodists and Baptists sang and gave each other the hand of Christian greeting.—Richmond Religious Herald.

Statesmen Who Never Carry Umbrellas.

There are two men in Congress who never carry an umbrella. These are Congressman Kilgore of Texas, and Senator Cockrell of Missouri. Last year there were three anti-umbrella statesmen, for Tillman of South Carolina was there to swell the ranks. No matter what the weather, whether it be snow or rain that is descending from the clouds, these men do not take enough account of the storm to carry an umbrella. It is not so wonderful that Kilgore does not possess one of these articles of personal apparel, for he wears a sombrero of the wild Texas variety that is so wide that any artificial covering is entirely unnecessary. But Cockrell wears a narrow hat and walks through the pouring rain totally oblivious of all the elements. Senator Vest some years ago presented Cockrell with an umbrella as a Christmas remembrance, but that umbrella has never yet been opened.—Boston Advertiser.

A Fox Hunt in London.

On a recent Saturday, while P. C. James Bellings was passing through Gordon Square, much to his astonishment he saw a fox lottering, evidently with felonious intent. On proceeding to take the suspect into custody Reynard rushed by him, on which he gave chase, being joined by two postmen and two gentlemen in evening dress. After a smart run the fox took refuge in an area and then made its way into a cellar. Bellings followed, and when about to seize it the animal bit him in the right hand. After some difficulty Reynard was taken to the Hunter-street police station, and the police, being unable to find out to whom it belonged, sent it to the Zoological Gardens.—London Tit-Bits.

Killed a Forty-Pound Coon.

While Bud Powell, Dred Ivory, Joseph Bosting and Mr. Denewitz of Chillicothe, were coon hunting the other night on the Denewitz farm, they encountered a monster coon and had a thrilling fight. Before bringing it to bay it whipped three dogs and killed one dog valued at $25. Previous to being dressed it weighed forty pounds, and after being dressed twenty-five pounds. It had claws on each leg about the feet. It was the largest coon ever caught in this part of the county.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

SEE "Colchester" Spading Boot ad. in other column.

DOCTOR—Your husband's case is a serious one, Mrs. Moriarty. I'm afraid there is some foreign substance in his œsophagus. Mrs. Moriarty—Furrin, is it? Bedad, an' Oi'm not surprised, sorr, for mony's the time Oi've warned him against atin' thim Dutch sausinges that he's so fond of.

Not a Local Disease

Because Catarrh affects your head it is not therefore a local disease. If it did not exist in your blood it could not manifest itself in your nose. It is a constitutional disease, and to cure it, therefore, requires a constitutional remedy and a thorough blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which expels all traces of the impurity in which the disease originates, and thus perfectly and permanently cures Catarrh. Remember,

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Sold by all druggists. $1 per bottle; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, jaundice, indigestion, sick headache. 25c.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

COCOA and CHOCOLATE

Highest Awards (Medals and Diplomas) World's Columbian Exposition.

On the following articles, namely:

BREAKFAST COCOA,
PREMIUM No. 1 CHOCOLATE,
GERMAN SWEET CHOCOLATE,
VANILLA CHOCOLATE,
COCOA BUTTER,

For purity of material, excellent flavor, and uniform even composition.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO., DORCHESTER, MASS.

PATENTS and PENSIONS Secured. No advance fee. Fitzgerald & Co., "13th and G," Washington, D. C.

Catarrh Can't Be Cured

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by druggists, price 75c.

YOUNG LADY (in the midst of a crowd)—Please don't crowd so, gentlemen. You are squeezing me to death. Old Maid (on the outside)—Beg pardon, madam, I'll change places with you.

Orchards.

Plant, encourage your neighbor to plant. It takes, to-day, a bushel of wheat to buy a peck of apples—orchards pay. Stark Bros.' share or co-operative orchards furnished without money—an investment for the well-to-do, as well as for men of limited means, and providing orchards which otherwise they might never get. A great orchard system on thorough, business-like plans—something never before attempted. We practice what we preach, show our faith in our orchards, in our trees,—two million trees, co-operative 6 per cent. plan, already planted; over two million, over 30,000 acres, share plan, and adding over half million a year. Farms with orchards doubling in value annually; a sure income. Our helps enable beginners to succeed. Write us.—See adv.

SOME virtuous women act so silly that they receive no credit for there virtue.

"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are excellent for the relief of Hoarseness or Sore Throat. They are exceedingly effective."—Christian World, London, England.

THE less a man knows the more he says about the necessity of lifting up the masses.

BEECHAM'S PILLS, for bilious disorders, are extensively sold and used in all civilized countries. 25 cents a box.

SOMEHOW, some dinner tables always remind us of bargain counters.

Freckles, tan and all beauty marring blemishes vanish from the face when Glenn's Sulphur Soap is used.

A MAN may gain more by mistakes than he loses.

$5,800 FROM TEN ACRES.

A. M. Lamb, a market gardener in Pennsylvania, cleared $5,800 on five acres of cabbage and five acres of onions. The reason of this, he says, was because Salzer's seeds are so extremely early and wondrously productive. Lightning Cabbage and King of the Earliest Onions he had in the market, three weeks ahead of any other home-grown sorts, and consequently received fancy prices. Salzer sends 35 packages earliest vegetable seed, sufficient for a family, for $1, postpaid.

If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with 6c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive their mammoth catalogue and a trial package of "Get There, Eli," the sixteen-day radish.

HE—How prettily the moonlight falls upon the sea and on the beach. She—Yes, but don't you think it is even more beautiful still among the bowlders south of the hotel. It had occurred to her that he, too, might be bolder over there.

MEDICAL writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh is proof positive that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact.

A GOOD many men are said to be going to the devil who are there already.

SOONER OR LATER a neglected Cold will develop a constant cough, shortness of breath, failing strength, and wasting of flesh, all symptomatic of some serious Lung affection, which may be avoided or palliated by using in time Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant.

NEVER ask a sick man or a shopping woman their opinion of love.

For Pneumonia, no other cough syrup equals Hatch's Universal. 25c.

THERE is a time when it becomes dangerous to go on hoping.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures Incipient Consumption. It is the best Cough Cure. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

SOMETHING is always happening which never occurred before.

$20 REWARD WILL BE PAID TO ANY MAN or WOMAN,

Youth or Maiden between the ages of 16 and 70, who can supply the full list of correct answers to the following FOUR SKELETON WORD-STUBS, and a proportionate award for a SINGLE WINNING ANSWER to ANY ONE of the four.

HERE ARE THE 4 BRAIN-BURNISHERS:

1 •R••••••NT — What many politicians, political orators and others would like to be.
2 •EA•TY — Desirable for all women, and especially for those with plain or unattractive faces.
3 •R••S — That for which women fond of showy attire often spend too much money.
4 •I•HT — Desirable in their "business" by pugilists Corbett, Mitchell, Sullivan, and others.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY

Simply write on a card, after careful study, you believe are the answers required to win the $20 reward; and now ponder well if your answers are only partially right you will win a just proportion of the full reward. Then write to your name and address underneath your answers and mail them to this address:

AM. PUB. CO. Clerk 36, Jersey City, N. J.

You are not required to send a penny of money with your answers, nor even return postage on the Awarding Committee's reply to you—we pay that.

The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably

DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S CELEBRATED EYE-WATER.

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century. There are few diseases to which mankind are subject more distressing than sore eyes, and none, perhaps, for which more remedies have been tried without success. For all external inflammation of the eyes it is an infallible remedy. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. For sale by all druggists. JOHN I. THOMPSON, SONS & CO., Troy, N. Y. Established 1797.

ASTHMA CURED.

POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC Gives Relief in Five Minutes. Trial Package sent FREE. Sold by Druggists. One Box, sent post-paid on receipt of $1.00. Six Boxes, $4.00. Add. Thos. Popham, Phila. Pa

1,000,000 ACRES OF LAND for sale by the SAINT PAUL & DULUTH RAILROAD COMPANY in Minnesota. Send for Maps and Circulars. They will be sent to you

FREE.

Address HOPEWELL CLARKE, Land Commissioner, St. Paul, Minn.

PRETTIEST BOOK EVER PRINTED. FREE SEED Cheap as dirt, by oz. and lb. One Cent a pkg. UP, if rare. Cheap, pure, best. 1,000,000 extras. Beautiful Illustrated Catalogue free. H. H. SHUMWAY, Rockford, Ill.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Consumptives and people who have weak lungs or Asthma, should use Piso's Cure for Consumption. It has cured thousands. It has not injured one. It is not bad to take. It is the best cough syrup. Sold everywhere. 25c.

FREE. If you have not received one of the August Flower and German Syrup Diary Almanacs for 1894, send your name and address on a postal at once, asking for Almanac No. 23, and you will receive by return mail, free of all expense, one of the most complete Illustrated books of the kind ever issued, in which you can keep a Daily Diary or Memoranda of any matters you desire. Write quick, or they will be all gone.

Address,
G. G. GREEN,
WOODBURY, N. J.

Young Mothers!

We Offer You a Remedy which Insures Safety to Life of Mother and Child.

"MOTHER'S FRIEND"

Robs Confinement of its Pain, Horror and Risk.

After using one bottle of "Mother's Friend" I suffered but little pain, and did not experience that weakness afterward usual in such cases.—MRS. ANNIE GAGE, Lamar, Mo., Jan. 15th, 1891.

Sent by express, charges prepaid, on receipt of price, $1.50 per bottle. Book to Mothers mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Ely's Cream Balm WILL CURE CATARRH

Price 50 Cents.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N.Y.

AGENTS MAKE $5 a Day Greatest Kitchen Utensil invented. Retails 35 cts. 2 to 6 sold in a house. Sample post paid, 4 cents. FORSHEE & MARIN Cincinnati, O.

WANTED MEN to TRAVEL. We pay $75 to $100 a month & expenses. STONE & WELLINGTON, MADISON, WIS.

ST. JACOBS OIL IS THE KING-CURE OVER ALL.

FOR SCIATICA

IT HAS NO EQUAL. NO SUPERIOR. ALONE THE BEST.

SALZER'S NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS ARE THE BEST!

$2.50 PER BRL

We are the largest growers of farm and vegetable seeds in the world. Wheat, Oats, Barley, Corn, Clover Timothy, Grasses, Potatoes, etc., in enormous quantities. 1,000,000 Roses and Plants. 35 pkgs. earliest Vegetable seeds, enough for a garden, post paid for $1.00. 18 pkgs. late Vegetable seeds, 50c. Say, our Great Northern Oats yielded 216 bush. from one bush, sown! Did you ever hear the like? Rye, of like Oats and catalogue free upon receipt of 5c in stamps. 10 Farm Seed samples, 10c. With catalogue, 15c. Our great catalogue, 130 pages, for 5c postage. Write to-day.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO. LA CROSSE, WIS.

"LINENE" REVERSIBLE TRADE MARK COLLARS AND CUFFS.

The "LINENE" are the Best and Most Economical Collars and Cuffs Worn.

They are the only goods made that a well-dressed gentleman can use in place of linen.

Try them. You will like them; they look well, wear well and fit well. Reversible; both sides alike; can be worn twice as long as any other collar. When one side is soiled use the other, then throw it away and take a fresh one.

Ask the Dealers for them. Sold for 25 cents for a Box of 10 Collars, or Five Pairs of Cuffs.

A Sample Collar and a Pair of Cuffs sent by mail for six cents. Address, Giving Size and Style Wanted,

REVERSIBLE COLLAR CO., 27 Kilby Street, Boston, Mass.

One bottle for fifteen cents, Twelve bottles for one dollar, } by mail.

R·I·P·A·N·S

Ripans Tabules are the most effective recipe ever prescribed by a physician for any disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Buy of any druggist anywhere, or send price to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, 10 Spruce St., New York.

SUMMER SNOW for 50 years, the one hardy peach; comes true from seed—seedling peaches are hardiest. Stands 6 to 10 deg. more cold than others; 36-yr.-old trees still bear—BEAR WHEN OTHERS FAIL.

If interested in Trees, Fruits, Roses, Ornamentals, write for Orchard Book, Guide, prices—will save you money, and MORE: mistakes.

A Pointer—Wheat 50c. bu., apples $2; 30c. apples outpay $2 wheat.

OLD OAK PROCESS Whole Root trees are carefully propagated regardless of cost by the one known method that gives fruitful, long-lived trees. They "live longer and bear better."—Sec. Morton. They GROW—one customer planted 16,300 Without Losing a Tree. You can't get better at any price, nor equally good for less money; ours are the LOWEST PRICED Nurseries in U. S. for good stock—sent world-wide during 69 YEARS.

Read the thousands of letters from customers who order year after year. Men do not as a rule send the second, the third, and even the 20th order, if not fairly dealt with.

YOUR ORDER—we want it, whether for one tree or one million, because we have the stock to fill it—1000 acres Nurseries. Tested, and hardy, 1st Choice sorts—30,000 acres Orchards in 21 States. We ship everywhere, ship all Winter—13 Cool Storage cellars. Free Packing. Free EXTRA COUNT (11 for 10), FREE FREIGHT. STARK BRO'S NURSERIES & ORCHARDS CO., B 8, Louisiana, Mo., or Rockport, Ill.

Especially for Farmers, Miners, R. R. Hands and others. Double Sole extending down to the heel. EXTRA WEARING QUALITY. Thousands of Rubber Boot wearers testify this is the best they ever had. Ask your dealer for them, and don't be persuaded into an inferior article.

DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES CURED by Peck's Invisible Ear Cushions. Whispers heard. Successful when all remedies fail. Sold FREE by F. Hisco, 853 B'way, N.Y. Write for book of proofs FREE

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Quick Relief.

Early Risers, Early Risers, Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, sick headache, dyspepsia and nervousness. 4tf

An old bachelor said: "It is all nonsense to pretend that love is blind. I never saw a man in love that did not see ten times as much in his sweetheart as I could."

It Will Be Too Late.

If you will let a cough run on until it has affected your lungs, it will be too late, as consumption will surely be the result and death will end all. Why are so many people careless about a cough? be careful, there is danger, and if not stopped in time it will certainly cause serious trouble and probably prove fatal. If you will only send for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup it will cure you, as it has never failed to cure the very worst cases, and is guaranteed to give satisfaction. You can try this for 25 cents, why delay. By all druggists.

A well bred person should never be late for anything whereby he may keep others waiting.

Cures Burns.

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. A perfect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure piles. 4tf

Lagrippe Cured.

About a year ago I took a violent attack of lagrippe. I coughed day and night for about six weeks; my wife then suggested that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. At first I could see no difference, but still kept taking it, and soon found it was what I needed. If I got no relief from one dose I took another, and it was only a few days until I was free from the cough. I think people in general ought to know the value of this remedy, and I take pleasure in acknowledging the benefit I have received from it. MADISON MUSTARD, Otway, Ohio. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord's.

One Minute Cough Cure.

Not one minute elapses between the taking of One Minute Cough Cure and relief. Why shouldn't people take One Minute Cough Cure? They should. They do.

In an autograph book: "Be consistent. Never accept advice. Not even this.

Do This Now.

Do you need a cough medicine? If so send for a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup; it will help you as it has helped others. Do this now or it may be too late. Many cases of consumption have originated out of a slight cough, and you cannot afford to take chances This medicine will cure any cough or cold, or any affection of the throat or lungs. Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup is the best for lagrippe, as it has never failed to cure. It is sold on a guarantee, and you will be satisfied if you will only give it a trial. Price 25, 50 and $1 by druggists.

Distemper—Its Cause and Treatment

Is the title of our little book which tells all about one of the most loathsome and dangerous diseases affecting horses, sheep and dogs, with unquestionable proof of the merits of Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure in the treatment of the same. Sent free by addressing the Well's Medicine Co., LaFayette, Ind. This remedy is sold by Matheny & Gerke.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in DeKalb Co.:

Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt.	Concord.

WHY?

Taste of "Royal Ruby Port Wine" and you will know why we call it "Royal." A glass held up to the light will show why we call it Ruby. $500 reward for any bottle of this wine found under five years old, or in any way adulterated. It is grand in sickness and convalescence, or where a strengthening cordial is required; recommended by druggists and physicians. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby," don't let dealers impose on you with something "just as good." Sold only in bottles; price, quarts $1, pints 60 cts. Bottled by Royal Wine Co. Sold by

F. E. Davenport.

Home Testimony.

AUBURN, IND., Oct. 25, 1893.

DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

GENTLEMEN:—Send at once by express one gross of your "Dr. Mott's Nerverine Pills." They give satisfaction in every case, and is the best medicine for all nervous diseases. Yours truly, 43tf

MATHENY & GERKE.

To Horse Owners.

For putting a horse in a fine healthy condition, use 'Morris' English Stable Powders. They tone up the system, aid in digestion, cure loss of appetite, relieve constipation, correct kidney disorders and destroy worms, giving new life to an old or over-worked horse. 25 cents per package; 5 for $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke. tf

Cure Your Cough.

The persistent cough which usually follows an attack of the grip can be permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. W. A. McGuire, of McKay, Ohio, says: "La Grip left me with a severe cough. After using several different medicines without relief, I tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which effected a permanent cure. I have also found it to be without an equal for children, when troubled with colds or croup." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

Make starch with soapy water, and you will find it a pleasure to do up your starched goods. It prevents the iron from sticking, and makes a glossy surface.

A Milion Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds.—If you never used this great cough medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of throat, chest and lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Large bottles 50c. and $1. 1

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1892, by the Couny Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1893.

NAMES OF OWNERS	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of sale $ cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Randall Perry	E side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00
do	und ⅔ w side s w qr		33	12	40	00	129 34
do	und ⅔ pt w ½ n e qr		33	12	23	50
do	und ⅔ pt e ½ s e qr	28	33	12	38	46
Work M E	und ⅓ w side s w qr	27	33	12	20	00	11 17
do	und ⅓ pt pt e ½ s e qr	28	33	12	19	24	12 71
do	und ⅓ n w pt w ½ n e qr	29	33	12	11	75	28 50
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Andress Lydia J	in n w cor s w ¼ n w qr	9	33	13	1	00	27 48
Cole Maria L	e ½ n w ¼ n e qr	8	33	13	20	00	7 38
Walters Lewis	n ½ n e ¼ s w qr	3	33	13	20	00	26 07
Conner Thomas	D add to Auburn Junction lot 27.						7 67
Powell Lydia	D add to Auburn Jct und ⅔ lot 6.						6 93
Ice Mary	S add to Auburn lot 6						4 88
Ice William	S add to Auburn lot 5						17 25
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Crom Elizabeth	n side s ½ s e qr	1	33	14	42	20	49 94
do	in s e cor s e qr	1	33	14	11	00
Emanuel J et al	s e ¼ s w qr	24	33	14	40	00	24 23
Hursh Benjamin	in w ½ n w qr	33	33	14	1	00	9 58
McKinney James	in s w cor s w qr	7	33	14	1	00	6 73
Morr G W & Peter	in n w ¼ s w qr	7	33	14	6	83	6 75
Parks F. A. C	in e ½ s w qr	28	33	14		22	3 91
Shumberger B	s end e ½ e ½ s w qr	11	33	14	30	00	33 33
Shelley Samuel R	n pt n e qr	24	33	14	23	90	16 99
Wiers Mary E	in s e ¼ s e qr	16	33	14	1	00	6 28
Wearley Wm L	e pt n w qr	34	33	14	20	00	26 88
Zimmerman Nancy	in n w qr	33	33	14		34	3 84
Kimes Ellery	O P Spencerville lot 18						7 92
Nichols J R	N add Spencerville lot 18
do	N add Spencerville lot 19						17 34
do	N add Spencerville lot 20
Rhodes Wm	O P Spencerville e pt lot 20						5 36
Case Emillius	O P St Joe lot 9 block 3						10 53
Knisely Joseph	O P St Joe lot 9 block 4						2 92
Wineland Ephraim	L 1st add St Joe lot 10 block 7						12 37
do	L 1st add St Joe w ½ lot 3 block 7
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP
Humberger P heirs	off s side s e qr	19	33	15	100		121 86
Larned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	9 33
Like Julia	in n pt e ½ s w qr	6	33	15		75	1 14
Meek Mary	in s w cor s w ¼ n w qr	6	33	15		33	4 28
Murphy Rosina	s w ¼ s w ¼ n e qr	31	33	15	10		24 35
do	in n w cor s e qr	31	33	15	21	67
Steele Martin A	e ¾ s w ¼ s e qr	17	33	15	30		32 79
Bailey Elizabeth	Vienna lot 65						1 80
do	Vienna lot 66
Catlett David	Vienna lot 24						14 60
do	Vienna lot 25
Like Julia	Vienna lot 2						4 62
Rex Geo N	Vienna lot 81						29 47
do	Vienna lot 88
Stepleton Anthony	Vienna pt lot 49						6 39
Whiteburst John	Vienna lot 46
do	Vienna lot 34						15 99
do	Vienna lot 39
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Carr Mary	pt s w ¼ n e qr	6	34	15
do	e end s ½ n w qr	6	34	15	40		28 20
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Bills Francis	e end s e ¼ s e qr	15	34	14	6	30	3 19
Brown John	w ½ n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	77 31
Bubb Thomas	e pt s e qr	14	34	14	120
do	in mid pt s w ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	1		203 41
do	pt s e ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	17
Berry W S	und 4-5 e ½ n w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	16		22 98
Bowen E F & E C	s & w pt s w qr	34	34	14	60		35 49
Dove Mary J	n ½ n e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	20		9 09
Fales S B & R B	s e ¼ s w qr	26	34	14	40		75 75
Geisinger Joseph	e side w ½ n e qr	19	34	14	4		6 19
Glowe William	n ½ n w ¼ n w qr	35	34	14	20		20 05
Huntsman A E & R F	s e ¼ n w qr	28	34	14	40		16 71
Haskins Esther N	e ¾ s w ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	30
do	w ¼ s e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	10		643 91
Maxwell James	mid pt s end w ½ s e qr	27	34	14	10		6 07
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
DeKalb Co Fair	n w ¼ s w qr	28	34	13	40		233 31
McNabb Adam	O P Auburn Junction lot 30
do	O P Auburn Junction lot 31						5 41
do	O P Auburn Junction lot 32
Beard J H	S R & B add Auburn town lot 3						1 90
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Jackson Ira	pt w ½ s w qr	3	35	13	70	25	57 85
do	pt e ½ s w qr	3	35	13	70	25
Rose Frank N	in s w ¼ s w qr	3	35	13		20	2 98
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Boyer Cyrus C	s ¼ n e ¼ n w qr	20	35	14	10	44
do	s e ¼ n w qr	20	35	14	40		113 19
do	s pt n e qr	20	35	14	99	34
Enzor Stephen	n ½ n w ¼ n w qr	13	35	14	20		45 41
do	n e ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	40
Enzor Catharine	s ½ s e ¼ s e qr	11	35	14	20		40 35
Lockwood Morton	n ½ s ½ n e qr	36	35	14	40		39 62
Nichols Milo	s w ¼ s e q	6	35	14	40		27 36
Norford Lizzie L	mid pt n ½ n e qr	34	35	14	30		27 72
Rensch Phebe	in s e cor n w qr	11	35	14	5		2 62
Rensch Wm	n w ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	40		50 19
do	s end w ½ s e qr	11	35	14	25
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Rohm Ezra	in n mid pt s w qr	16	34	13	19	10	26 40
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	42	16 62
	KEYSER TOWSHIP.
Offen M A & L S Hudson	in n e pt n e qr	4	33	12		25	5 12
Reeves Hattie A	s w cor s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	1		20 67
Whitford S & Helen	in n pt n w qr	4	34	12		50	25 54
	AUBURN TOWN.
Boren Obediah	Mc I add lot 15						16 72
Baxter & McClellan	McC & B add lot 23						12 25
do	McC & B add lot 56						2 95
do	McC & B add lot 59						2 95
Buss Avilla & Samuel	W add lot 85						46 52
do	W add lot 86
Butler G W & C	E 2d add lot 82						13 37
Dickinson Ezra	R add lot 21						21 39
do	R add lot 22
Griswold Abigal	W add und 5-6 lot 141						29 81
do	W add und 5-6 lot 142
Jabns Elizabeth	K 2d add s e ¼ lot 5						23 92
Jenner D W	O P w ½ lot 199						13 31
do	O P w ½ lot 200
Osborn Nora	K 1st add lot 19						19 46
Rickel & Sprott	O P n ½ lot 1						56 07
do	O P n ½ lot 40
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Barnhart Sim	H 2d add lot 220						2 09
Bowman Jefferson	Cen add lot 1						17 02
Beard Wm H H	pt e ½ s w qr	3	34	13		11	8 48
do	pt e ½ s w qr	3	34	13		30
Bundy Charles & M L	H add lot 188						31 04
do	in n w cor s e qr	3	34	13	6	23
Barkdall Joseph	pt s e qr	4	34	13		30	7 91
Shaffer Nancy	in J F & C add lot 33						7 17
Sea tergood G H & C	in n w ¼ n w qr	3	34	13	1	20	19 61
Acton P J & J H	O P Uniontown n ½ lot 23						8 69
Brysland Harriet	O P Uniontown lot 16						3 36
Fisk E P & E	O P s ½ lot 23						6 18
	BUTLER TOWN.
Blaker John & M L	O P lot 289
do	O P lot 290						49 34
do	N add 19 ft w side lot 4
do	N add 29 ft e side lot 5
Bratton O D	O P 20 ft in mid pt lot 273						106 24
Bryan Eli	E add lot 187						18 20
do	E add lot 188
Bills F & S J	O P lot 247						15 77
Bills Francis	L add lot 35						11 23
Beidler Emma O	T add lot 3						38 32
Barnhart Henry	E add s ½ lot 185						2 40
Baxter John H	E add lot 164						11 52
Campbell J A	D add lot 29						1 62
do	D add lot 30						2 14
Collins Marcia	pt e ½ n w qr	11	34	14		50	14 89
Collins Lucius	D add lot 28						33 18
Dickerhoff Samuel	J add lot 21						25 15
Davidson Fannie	O P n pt lot 5						22 80
Egnew Geo heirs	E add lot 132						24 60
Fitzcharles Flora J	M add lot 11						13 90
Fink D A & C L	D add lot 24						14 04
Foedick E W	O P w ½ lot 192						4 23
do	O P w ½ lot 193
Griffith Lafayette	O P lot 241						13 57
Heffelfinger C W	L add lot 13						24 91
Hirschler Dora	O P s e pt lot 132						201 10
Homan David	E add lot 225						9 46
Linkenfelter J M	L 2d add lot 22						13 28
do	L add lot 20						9 96
McClellan Miller	D add lot 32						16 63
Moltz Sarah I	E add e ½ lot 136						33 72
do	E add lot 137
Moltz Charles H	E add lot 138						10 80
Morgan Frances S	O P lot 249						26 43
Mason Albert J	D add lot 38						41 44
Myers Lisetta	T add lot 8 block 1						23 20
Norford J M & S L	O P e ⅔ lot 18						34 78
do	O P e ⅓ lot 19
Oberlin John J	O P w ½ lot 221						22 26
do	O P w ½ lot 222
Oberlin Phillip	E add lot 74						22 71
Oberlin Joseph	E add lot 139						17 67
Palmer Ida A	E add e ½ lot 118						9 44
do	E add e ½ lot 119
Price Elizabeth	E add lot 199						6 83
Pinchin Abner F	E add lot 116						8 40
Prosser Wm S	E add lot 160						9 47
Revette Sarah A	E add lot 90						9 68
do	E add e ½ lot 76						6 04
Revette Thomas	E add lot 91						17 25
Rittenhouse M & B E	O P lot 92						26 62
Sternberg Adam J	M add lot 23						19 89
Stewart Sylvia	O P lot 115
do	E add n ½ lot 133						54 39
do	E add n ½ lot 134
Sanders Avilla	L add lot 47						9 06
Shiner F & M A	E add lot 162						13 33
do	E add lot 163
Stiefel Benj H	D add 21 ft s side lot 4						76 97
Swinehart Margaret	L add lot 9						7 00
Stewart F H	O P lot 205						18 79
do	O P lot 186						7 82
Scranton W H	D add 66 ft e end lot 23						2 98
do	D add lot 26
Sise Francis	T add lot 3 block 8						12 85
Tyson J W & L M	N add 22 ft n side lot 15
do	N add e pt lot 12						81 41
Tyson John W	E add lot 235						23 48
Thompson Chas F	O P lot 191						15 84
Thiel John	E add e ½ lot 97
do	E add e ½ lot 98						32 64
do	E add lot 75
Tyson Mattie H	O P w ½ lot 28						29 18
do	O P w ½ lot 29
Wycoff Mary A	O P lot 36						8 30
do	O P lot 37						10 69
Wagoner John O	J add lot 12						18 06
	GARRETT CITY.
Allman N R	C add lot 16 block 53						20 66
do	C add w ½ lot 15 block 53
Andrews S & E	K add lot 5 block 60						38 00
Burns John J	O P lot 15 block 28						39 84
do	O P lot 16 block 28
Beeber Simon	Oz 1st add lot 1 block 4½						39 68
Baltz Sarah	Oz 3d add lot 7 block 2						6 64
Burns Eliza	T S add lot 1 block 11						21 74
do	T S add lot 2 block 11
Baltimore Land & Imp Co	O P lot 6 block 2						8 83
do	C add lot 1 block 36						79 19
do	C add lot 2 block 36
do	C add lot 7 block 37						3 95
do	C add n ½ lot 13 block 53						1 10
do	C add lot 13 block 53						2 03
do	C add lot 2 block 58						24 34
do	C add lot 3 block 58
do	C add n ½ lot 4 block 58						2 57
do	K add lot 1 block 59						5 73
do	K add lot 2 block 59						4 80
do	K add lot 3 block 59						9 41
do	K add s ½ lot 3 block 60						2 57
do	K add lot 4 block 60						4 80
do	K add lot 6 block 60						4 80
do	K add s ½ lot 9 block 60						2 28
do	K add lot 10 block 60						5 72
do	K add lot 3 block 61						35 44
do	K add lot 4 block 61
do	K add lot 4 block 62						2 03
do	K add lot 10 block 63						2 04
do	K add lot 11 block 63						2 04
do	K add lot 18 block 63						15 87
do	K add lot 18 block 66						3 88
Champion F M & A A	O P lot 17 block 28
do	O P lot 18 block 28						60 99
do	U S add lot 4 block 2
Crozier Robert	Oz 3d add lot 1 block 2						20 68
do	Oz 3d add lot 2 block 2
Coffill Wm A	O P lot 17 block 24						30 95
Cross Wm T	O P lot 5 block 22						17 00
Casebeer Chas W	Oz 3d add lot 3 block 1						24 58
Cross John A	O P lot 11 block 13						8 17
Cloy Frederick	T S add lot 2 block 8						20 50
Erixson W D	K add 40 ft w side lot 18 block 80
do	K add 40 ft w side lot 19 block 80						21 18
do	K add 40 ft w side lot 20 block 80
Frederick W J	C add lot 10 block 43						4 42
Feagler W C	O P lot 22 block 10						3 88
Gragg Mary A	O P 73 ft e end lot 13 block 19						28 23
Geiger John H	Oz 2d add lot 8
do	Oz 2d add 14 ft e side lot 9						35 13
do	Oz 2d add w ½ lot 7
Hathaway Miles	Oz 1st add lot 6 block 3						16 08
do	Oz 1st add lot 7 block 3						19 56
Hampton John C	C add lot 13 block 36						24 55
Henney Josiah	Oz 1st add lot 5 block 4½						40 87
Holmes Priscilla	C add lot 2 block 47						13 55
Hamm Jacob	K add lot 14 block 61						27 87
do	K add lot 15 block 61
Hopper Charles	T S add lot 10 block 6						38 73
Jones A L	T S add lot 3 block 1						29 64
do	T S add lot 4 block 1
Morehouse Clarrissa	Oz 1st add lot 3 block 2						17 10
do	Oz 1st add 4 ft w side lot 4 block 2
McConahey Louisa	C add lot 7 block 58						6 45
Miller Henry	T S add lot 1 block 8						21 39
Phillips Mary L	O P 52 ft w end lot 13 block 19
do	O P lot 14 block 19						78 27
do	O P lot 15 block 19
Ray Robert M	C add lot 14 block 36						5 72
Rickel & Sprott	C add lot 2 block 44						4 79
Sapp John	Oz 1st add lot 2 block 3						17 44
Sargent Wm E	O P lot 19 block 16						15 15
do	O P lot 20 block 16						26 52
do	O P lot 22 block 16						4 77
Sargent Eliza	O P lot 23 block 16						86 63
do	O P lot 24 block 16
Smith Jerry	O P lot 20 block 12						25 39
Smith David D	C add lot 19 block 57						19 44
Shields Anna	O P lot 1 block 15						24 06
Stoner Margaret E	C add lot 8 block 46						6 86
Troy Andrew J	K add lot 18 blk 80 ex 40 ft w side
do	K add lot 19 blk 80 ex 40 ft w side						12 85
do	K add lot 20 blk 80 ex 40 ft w side
Walter Nevada & Callie	K add lot 1 block 74						38 59
do	K add lot 2 block 74

I, H. N. Coffinberry, Auditor in and for said County of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1892, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1893, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D., 1894, (the same being the 12th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until until all have been offered for sale.

H. N. COFFINBERRY, AUDITOR.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 16, 1894.

FAYETTE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Is beautifully located and its buildings are very attractive. In order to give ample accommodation for the present demand, another large building has been added. No saloons. Equipments are excellent; pure associations. Teachers are specialists—men and women of power and culture, carefully selected for their special work. Normal, Commercial, Scientific, Shorthand, Typewriting, Elocutionary and Musical departments in addition to the regular college courses. Our aim is to endow each pupil with the four great essentials to true success: vigorous health, accurate knowledge, right purpose, and executive ability. $27. pays tuition, board and room-rent, for 10 weeks; $75. for 30 weeks.

For Catalogue, address, J. E. DODDS, Pres't, Fayette, O.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

There never was a dewdrop
That filled a flower's cup,
But quick there came a sunbeam
To drink the dewdrop up.
There never was a dollar
That jingled in the till,
But quick there came a fellow
And scooped it with a bill.

Better Results.

It's just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. It's easier to cure a severe cold or cough with it Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure; better medicine; better results; better try it. 4tf

When a washerwoman changes her place of residence one may ask her "where she hangs out now?" without using slang.

SIBLEY, a democratic member of the House from Pennsylvania, has a bill to issue bonds to pay pensions. This could be made a desirable law, by fixing it so the issue could be regulated according to the needs of the pension department, and the denominations made small so common people could hold some of them. And the department would always have money enough provided in advance, so there need be no fear of a lack. This would also enable the government to turn its attention to paying off our other debt with the money that would not now be needed for pensions. We do not know the details of this proposed law, but we believe it would work well if properly planned.

The Best History OF THE EXPOSITION
The Best Souvenir

Is Found in the

ART PORTFOLIOS OF WORLD'S FAIR VIEWS

From Photographs by the Official Artist of the

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT,

Distributed by The Inter Ocean.

16 BEAUTIFUL ART PORTFOLIOS. 256 SUPERB PROTOGRAPHIC REPRODUCTIONS.

How to Secure This Valuable Interesting Instructive Educational Series.

CLIP 5 Art Portfolio Coupons from The Inter Ocean and send them with 10 cents in stamps or coin, to cover cost of postage, wrapping, etc., to Art Portfolio Department, Inter Ocean Building, Chicago, and one portfolio containing 16 pictures 11x13 inches in size, with interesting and authentic descriptions, will be mailed to you. The entire series of 16 Portfolios, 256 Photographs, if purchased at retail, would cost at a low estimate $125. No such opportunity was ever before presented. No such opportunity can ever again be offered.

BACK NUMBERS of the Portfolio may be had for a set of 3 week-day and one Sunday coupon, which will accumulate, and 10 cents for each Portfolio.

$30,000 Was appropriated by the U. S. Government to cover the expense of securing these photographs for preservation in the archives at Washington.

REMEMBER The Inter Ocean has the Exclusive Right to make the distribution of these reproductions from the Official Government Photographs.

SPECIAL REQUEST Please favor your friends who may not be regular readers of The Inter Ocean by informing them of the particulars of this unequaled offer.

PROVIDE FOR BACK NUMBERS This series began Nov. 13 and one book a week has been issued since. Back Portfolios can be secured in exchange for 3 WEEK-DAY AND 1 SUNDAY COUPON. By saving the extra coupons each week all back Portfolios can thus be easily obtained.

CAUTION In sending for Portfolios do not include any other business or requests with your order. It is impossible to answer letters in this department. State plainly the Portfolio you desire, giving its number. Send coupons, etc., to

ART PORTFOLIO DEPT., INTER OCEAN BLDG., CHICAGO.

The Best Shoes for the Least Money.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

$5, $4 and $3.50 Dress Shoe.
$3.50 Police Shoe, 3 Soles.
$2.50, $2 for Workingmen.
$2 and $1.75 for Boys.

LADIES AND MISSES,
$3, $2.50 $2, $1.75

CAUTION.—If any dealer offers you W. L. Douglas shoes at a reduced price, or says he has them without the name stamped on the bottom, put him down as a fraud.

W. L. DOUGLAS Shoes are stylish, easy fitting, and give better satisfaction at the prices advertised than any other make. Try one pair and be convinced. The stamping of W. L. Douglas' name and price on the bottom, which guarantees their value, saves thousands of dollars annually to those who wear them. Dealers who push the sale of W. L. Douglas Shoes gain customers, which helps to increase the sales on their full line of goods. They can afford to sell at a less profit, and we believe you can save money by buying all your footwear of the dealer advertised below. Catalogue free upon application. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Sold by RAUT & CO., Auburn, Ind.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY FEBRUARY 1, 1894. NUMBER 5.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

No. 342. 170 Acres of fine land well adapted to grain or stock purposes, 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler.

Frame dwelling: main 22 x 24, wing 14 x 28, wing 14 x 31; 11 rooms, cellar under entire building.

Three good barns, all in good repair conveniently located; one 36 x 50, another 30 x 66, and the last one 22 x 28. Two good wells, 1 cistern, windmill and elevated tank. Two orchards of about 150 in the two. Fences in fine condition. 150 acres in fine state of cultivation, balance timber. No waste land. Sandy, loamy soil. Easy payment plan.

No. —. 44 Acres of land in Wilmington township.

Frame dwelling, 2 story, 16 x 28; wing, 12 x 28, and summer kitchen. Cellar and well.

Frame barn 40 x 65, granary, wagon house and corn crib combined, 20 x 26, and hog and hen house.

4 Acres orchard, all winter grafted fruit; fences in A1 condition; 5 acres timber; 60 rods tiling. No waste land. Soil, black loam.

Price, $2,500. Easy payments.

No. —. Fine residence property on South VanBuren street.

Elegant property. Splendid location. Fruit in large variety and of best quality.

Price, $1,500.

Vacant lots in Widney's addition on long time, easy terms.

No. 157. 40 Acres, 4 miles north of Butler, Ind.

Good log house and barn. 20 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Soil, black loam. Good fences. ¾ mile to school and church.

Price, $1,200. Long time, easy terms.

Dwellings, vacant lots and other desirable property in Garrett to exchange for land in this county and pay cash difference.

80 Acres land in good cultivation to exchange for town property in Auburn, or, will exchange for a well located meat market. Will trade for smaller farm.

Price, $3,200.

80 Acres good land in Butler township, located near school and church and within 1 mile of railroad.

Good buildings and fences and plenty of fruit.

Price, $4,200.

Will exchange for a smaller tract near some good town

No. 1890. 120 acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler, 95 acres clear, fences good, 30 acres timber, well drained, part tiled; 2 good orchards and a fine pear orchard; has a good 8-room house, with cellar, cistern, well and barn. Will sell very low and on long time.

No. 1810 80 acre farm, 1½ miles from Newville, 65 acres clear, 15 acres timber, good fences; good 9 room house; barn 36x50 feet; orchard of 70 trees; well and cistern; mostly black soil, no waste land; 40 acres in timothy and clover. Farm is in good state of cultivation; 1 mile to school and church. Price $3,200, $500 cash down, balance on long time. This is a bargain.

No. 2600. 80 acre farm, 2½ miles S.E. of Auburn, 65 acres clear, balance in timber, no waste land; good 2-story house; good barn 48x80; corn crib, hog pen, wagon and tool shed; cistern, good well with new wind pump and tank; good orchard; good fences; splendid soil. Will sell cheap on long time; will take good house and lot in Auburn or Garrett at what it is worth.

No. 1717. 90 acres of land about 7 miles from Auburn; house 18x24 with L 13 x 17; barn 17x23 with shed 12x23; large granary, well and cistern, orchard; 35 acres under cultivation, 15 acres good timber, balance well drained low land for pasture. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time.

No. 1725. 44½ acre farm, all clear, no waste land; good 4-room house; bank barn 47x76; good orchard; 2 wells. Price $1,800, ½ cash, balance on reasonable time.

No. 3,000. 64-acre farm 6 miles east of Auburn, 60 acres clear, 4 acres timber, well drained, all black sandy loam; fair house; good barn, 38x48; one of the best orchards in the county, an abundance of peach, pear, cherries, grapes, currants, berries, etc.; about 18 acres in wheat, 20 acres in grass, no waste land. This farm can be sold very low on terms that will certainly suit the purchaser.

No. 315. 60- acre farm in Jackson tp.; has a 7-room, 2-story brick house, with cellar, well and cistern; barn 32x64; orchard of 80 trees; all clear and in good cultivation. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time, easy payments This is a bargain.

MONEY! MONEY! Do you want to borrow any money? We can loan you any amount you want, from $500 to $20,000, at a low rate of interest, on long time, with privilege of partail payments. If you need money, do not put it off very long, but call at once. The demand for long time loans is increasing and our money cannot hold out long at the present rate of interest.

Do you need any Fire Insurance or Life Insurance? If you call on us and learn our terms, we have a line of the very best companies that pay losses promptly. Call at our office, for we have no agents running through the country soliciting. We can save you money if you need anything in this line.

Are you going to travel? If so, come and see us. We can sell you a Railroad or Steamship ticket to any point in the world. If you want any information about rates or tickets—cheerfully given, call on us. No harm done if you do not buy.

We represent the National Building Ass'n. of Indianapolis, the best company of its kind in Indiana. Do you want to build or pay off a mortgage on your home, and pay it off in small payments. Parties having money to invest will do well to call on us at once.

If you want to buy or sell a farm, town property or personal property, give us a call. Our commission will be reasonable.

We make a specialty of handling stocks of goods of all kinds. Can either sell or trade them. We take pleasure in showing our property, free of charge, to any who think of buying.

(We have a number of Western and Southern farms that we can trade for land or town property here. Will give or take the difference.)

Rickel & Sprott,

Auburn, Ind.

—UNDER FARMERS BANK.

IVORY

IVORY SOAP

99 44/100% PURE

NO IRRITATION.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

MY FRIEND.

A Relic of the War.

[The following touching poem was written in the prison dead house at Camp Chase, by Col. W. S. H. A fellow prisoner was engaged to a beautiful lady; she proved faithless, and her letter came, breaking the truth. Soon after he died and this was Col. H.'s reply.]

Your letter came, but came too late,
For Heaven had claimed its own;
Ah, sudden change! from prison bars
Unto the Great White Throne!
And yet I think he would have stayed
For one more day of pain,
Cou'd he have read those tardy words
Which you have sent in vain.

Why did you wait, fair lady,
Through so many a weary hour?
Had you other lovers with you
In that si ken, dainty bower?
Did others bow before your charms,
And twine bright garlands there?
And yet I ween in all that throng
His spirit had no peer.

I wish that you were by me now,
As I draw the sheet aside,
To see how pure the look he wore
Awhile before he died.
Yet the sorrow that you gave him
Still had left its weary trace,
And a meek and saintly sadness
Dwells upon his pallid face

"Her love," he said, "could change for me
The winter's cold to spring;"
Ah, trust of thoughtless maiden's love,
Thou art a bitter thing!
For when these valleys fair, in May,
Once more with bloom shall wave,
The northern violets shall blow
Above his humble grave.

Your dole of scanty words had been
But one more pang to bear!
Though, to the last he kissed with love
This tress of your soft hair.
I did not put it where he said,
For when the angels come,
I would not have them find the sign
Of falsehood in the tomb.

I've read the letter, and I know
The wiles that you have wrought
To win that noble heart of his,
And gained it—fearful thought—
What lavish wealth men sometimes give
For a trifle, light and small!
What manly forms are often held
In Folly's flimsy thrall!

You shall not pity him, for now
He's past your hope and fear:
Although I wish that you could stand
With me beside his bier.
Still, I forgive you; Heaven knows
For mercy you'll have need,
Since God His awful judgment sends
On each unworthy deed.

To-night, the cold winds whistle by,
As I my vigils keep Within the prison dead house, where
Few mourners come to weep.
A rude plank coffin holds him now,
Yet Death gives always grace;
And I would rather see him thus
Than clasped in your embrace.

To-night, your rooms are very gay,
With wit, and wine, and song;
And you are smiling, just as if
You never did a wrong.
Your hand so fair, that none would think
It penned these words of pain;
Your skin, so white—would God, your soul
Were half so free from stain!

I'd rather be this dear, dear friend,
Than you in all your glee;
For you are held in grievous bonds,
While he's forever free,
Whom serve we in this life, we serve
In that which is to come;
He chose his way; you, yours: let God
Pronounce the fitting doom.

Indiana is third in wheat, fourth in corn and hogs, seventh in cattle and railways, and eighth in coal.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, and state of Indiana, that the undersigned will make application at the next regular session of Commissioners' court of said DeKalb county, commencing the first Monday in March, 1894, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the premises where sold, as follows:

In a one-story frame building situated on the west end of lot No. sixty-seven (67) in the original plat of the town of Auburn, in DeKalb County and state of Indiana, more particularly described as follows:

Commencing at the south-west corner of said lot, thence east twenty (20) feet, thence north sixty-six (66) feet, thence west twenty (20) feet, thence south to place of beginning.

ALBERT ZIRWES.

Auburn, Indiana, February 1, 1894.

Awarded Highest Ho

DR. PR

Cream

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Po

Used in Millions of Homes-and, then, clear and even, her answer came:

"I know you will hate me, Bertram—I have promised to marry some one else."

"I am answered," he said, bitterly. "You, Leonie, whom, only one short hour since, I looked upon as the very flower of womanhood—you whom I thought more pure than a lily, loyal and true as the angels in heaven—you tell me deliberately that you love me, but have promised to marry another?"

"Have pity on me, Bertram! I have been sorely tried."

"There is no pity for you," he cried, indignantly. "You are false—false to me, whom you have pretended to love—false to him whom you have promised to marry. I appeal to heaven against you!" he continued. "You have done me the most cruel wrong that woman can do to man—you have lured me by false words, false looks. You have deceived me—you have betrayed me. I denounce you for being as false and cruel as you are fair. O merciful Heaven, keep me from losing my reason! I fear I am going mad!"

He flung himself on the turf with a terrible cry; a strong man, in his agony he sobbed aloud, for the anguish of his loss was full upon him. She sat quiet and motionless, until she could bear the sight of that prostrate figure no longer. Then there came to her a good impulse—to kneel down there by his side and tell him all the truth; poverty, privation—anything would be better than the knowledge or sight of that terrible pain. And yet, if she confessed to him she would lose all.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

IMPEDING TRAFFIC.

There Are Many Kinds of Tickets, and Sometimes They Are Mislaid.

A corpulent old lady, possibly from one of the New Jersey suburbs, caused the detention of fully a score of passengers at the Park place station of the Sixth Avenue Elevated Road one day last week.

As the saying is, the venerable old soul was "carrying weight for age." She was burdened down with a big bag and a small one, and one or two parcels besides. Thus freighted she toddled along and attempted to pass the box without depositing her ticket.

"Ticket, ma'am," shouted the chopper. "Can't pass here without a ticket."

"I ain't got time," she replied.

"Can't pass, can't pass," cried the man.

"But I will pass."

"Can't, ma'am; the rules are very strict."

"You'll make me miss my train."

"Plenty of time, ma'am. If you don't catch this train, another will be along in a minute."

Then the woman, still blocking the way, dropped her bags, and after a long search in her pocket found a key, with which she opened the big one.

Article after article was taken out and laid aside, but the ticket was not forthcoming. Then she opened the small bag and repeated the operation, but without success. Finally she looked up and said: "What ticket do you want, any way?"

"The elevated railroad ticket, of course," replied the man.

"Why, I had that in hand all the time, you impudent fellow. My son gave me one at the foot of the stairs."

"Then why didn't you drop it in the box?"

"Then why didn't you say elevated railroad ticket? You want to understand that there are a hundred different kinds of tickets. How did I know what you wanted? and don't you ever stop me again or I'll go to the head man of the railroad and complain."—New York Herald.

Old-Time Games.

It is curious to note how some of the games of the early ages have been handed down to the present time. The game, for instance, known as "Odd and Even," was a favorite with the young Egyptian, and many of the little counters that he used are still preserved in the British Museum. There is also the game of draughts, which was played on a chequered board in the earliest times. The poor children were content with draughtsmen and boxes of rough pieces of clay. But the richer ones usually had beautifully carved iron-headed draughtsmen and boxes.

The young Greeks, too, were well provided with toys and games for their amusement. The toys were chiefly dolls made of baked clay, the arms and legs being jointed with string, and therefore movable. They had a favorite game called "Chytrinda," which has been preserved through many ages, and is now played by boys of "Puss in the Corner." In France the game is called "Quartre Coins," or four corners. Both in the old game and the modern version five players are required, one occupying each of the four corners, while the fifth player stands in the middle.

The Lovers' Leap.

Sappho killed herself by jumping from the Lovers' Leap, a Leucadian cliff. This leap was often taken by lovesick persons, who believed that if they survived the fall they would be effectually cured of a hopeless passion. The leaps were always witnessed by crowds of spectators, and the would-be suicides were in no way interfered with by the state. Boats were in attendance below to pick up the leapers if they came to the surface of the sea after the plunge. Sappho had a passion for a young man who did not return her love and leaped from the cliff in order to be cured. She perished in the fall. So also did Artemisia and many other celebreties.

Pliny tells a curious story of an old Athenian miser who was in love with his cook and desiring a cure, went to have a look at the cliff. He peeped over, shook his head, went home and married the cook.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Disease Spread by Funeral Flowers.

Two years ago a young lady died in New York of diphtheria and her remains were sent to her home at Madalin, Dutchess County, for burial. On the casket when it reached the village there were several floral tributes. The flowers composing them were distributed among the children of the Sunday-school class. In this manner the disease was spread through the village and all the neighboring village of Tivoli. It has never been wiped out. For two years diphtheria has prevailed in that vicinity, causing many deaths, and of late deaths from the contagion have grown so numerous that the people are alarmed and an effort is being made to wipe out the disease.

An arrangement has just been entered into by the State of Arkansas with a Northern firm of capitalists by which all the State's convicts are to be transferred into a sort of Garden of Eden where the musquitoes bite not and the alligator does not pursue the festive pickaninny.

The spot chosen is a great farm situated on an island in Chicot Lake, which by reference to the map given will be seen to be of a most peculiar formation, winding about the land as it does in the shape of a horseshoe, meeting at two extremities the Mississippi River. The water surroundings, of course, make the place an ideal one for the confinement of convicts. These malefactors, instead of having to submit to the lockstep and close confinement of their Northern brothers in crime, will work in the open air and will be well housed and well fed to such a degree that it is not believed they will try to escape, especially as their work will not be of a very laborious character.

When negotiations were begun by the State of Arkansas for the lease of Sunnyside there was considerable opposition from certain sources, but a thorough investigation of the property led the State officials to conclude that it was the only tract of land in the State that would answer all the purposes required and at the same time prove self-sustaining and profitable. It has heretofore been considered about the best the State could do to receive a revenue of $36 to $4 per annum for each convict able bodied and competent to do such work as coal mining, railroad building, etc., but the revenue thus derived was hardly sufficient to take care of the weaker class of convicts who were not physically able to work at anything. It is estimated that by this arrangement with the Sunnyside plantation, not from mere figures and what should be done, but from actual results obtained in past years in farming this land, a very good profit per year may be realized when all is in working order. It is thought a profit may be obtained which would net the State from $175 to $200 per annum per convict.

THE COMPANY'S JUGGERIES.

A Very Fertile Spot.

This farm affords ample facilities for the raising of meat, sugar, corn, syrup—in fact everything for subsistence and luxury, and after the first year there will be no need of buying anything, and the owner of the property can the first year supply the

STEAMER AT LAKESIDE LANDING.

State at a very low rate with ample feed for their men from the products of 1893. Its area ready for cultivation of five thousand acres could afford work for seven hundred to eight hundred convicts for nine months in the year in the cultivation of cotton and corn. Its valuable timber lands, covering seven thousand acres of virgin forest, afford work for many years to come for the odd time of their men when not actively engaged in farming operations. The railroad of twelve miles running through the property which is owned by the Sunnyside Company affords every facility for the transportation of their men without delay to and from their work, and of the timber to the lake and river landings.

It is the purpose of the State and the owner of the plantation to increase the cultivatable area from year to year, as the labor of the convicts may be spared from farming operations, and it is understood that of the entire twelve thousand acres there is not an acre but which is susceptible of the highest state of cultivation for the growth of cotton and other products, and without fertilizer of any kind.

MAP OF SUNNYSIDE FARM.

MR. KEELY says his motor will be perfected in a few months. Keely is only another name for faith that always looks up.

IT is not so much what the world consumes, but what the world wastes that causes emptiness and want.

BLACKMAIL.

The Fisher West Matter In Detail.

Last week we mentioned this matter briefly, and below copy the article entire as found in the Ft. Wayne Journal:

Yesterday afternoon Capt. George Warcup, of the Huntertown regulators, placed under arrest George Wolford, who is accused before 'Squire Wilkinson of blackmail.

The cause of the complaint is that Fisher C. West, a well known farmer of Perry township, has received threatening letters, which show that an attempt was made by some villainous fellow to work up the most disreputable case of blackmail that has ever been attempted in the county. The threats were sent by letters

The first letter received by Mr. West was dated at LaOtto, and told him to deposit $500 in a tin box in a big burr oak tree, on a farm near Huntertown, by the 25th of December last, or they would expose him for something that would ruin him for life and place him behind the bars of the penitentiary.

"We want all paper money," the letter said. "Silver or checks will not be taken. We may not be after the stuff for a few weeks, and we may be after it on the same night that you place it there, and if it isn't there we will expose your devilry and crimes and those of your son to your wife. You can save a few thousand dollars by doing as we say."

Mr. West being one of the most respected citizens in his township, and fearless in knowing his innocence of any wrong doing, paid no attention to the letter, but in a few days a letter was sent to Mrs West, reading as follows:

"Your husband is a murderer and a fugitive from justice. He would be safe if he would do as we say, but this he has refused to do. Now he will go out of the world in a —— of a hurry, and we won't monkey with him any longer. Old Fish will go out of the world flying." A search was made to find the guilty person. Suspicion pointed to George Wolford, a young lad who was given a sentence in Ft. Wayne two years ago for larceny. One of the letters was mailed at Churubusco, and on that day Wolford was at the Churubusco postoffice The chirography of the letters was peculiar. The letters were printed with a pen and not signed. Wolford prints very well, and is known to have written letters in that way. Another suspicious circumstance is that Wolford was seen near the tree on the West farm, where the money was ordered left, and he also passed the railroad where Mrs. West was requested to leave $600. Wolford denies all knowledge of the letters, although the circumstantial evidence is very strong.

He was bound over by 'Squire Wilkinson, however, and went to jail in default of bail.

The Commissioners are Agents.

[Kendallville Standard.]

The last legislature passed a law permitting county commissioners to increase salaries of circuit and superior judges, in cases where they decided it proper to do so. The judges in Vigo county asked for the increase and the commissioners refused. An appeal was taken which was tried by a special judge, who overruled the commissioners. The latter appealed and the supreme court last week declared that the decision of the county commissioners was final and that no appeal from their decision could be taken and the case was dismissed. In his decision Judge Hackney said that the commissioners are the financial agents of the counties, their power being supervisory as to the expenditures of the counties, and the act did not take from them their authority in such matters. The Vigo judges will not get the increase.

Notice.

We have contracted with Brown, Culbertson & Boland and J. K. Stafford, jointly, to handle our buggies, surreys and road wagons in DeKalb county. We wish to thank our customers for their patronage in the past and to assure them, and all contemplating purchasing anything in the buggy line, that they will receive fair ank honorable treatment at the hands of Messrs. Brown, Culbertson & Boland. Our goods are better than ever before and our guarantee goes with every vehicle just the same as if bought of us.

Respectfully,

ECKHART CARRIAGE CO.

4 5

Cures Dyspepsia.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone, I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good good any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life, I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy: a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottle 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

For La Grippe.

Has your constitution been wrecked by an attack of LaGrippe. The Great South American Nervine Tonic will quickly restore your shattered nerves, strengthen and cure your digestive organs, regulate your liver and purify your blood; and restore you to perfect soundness again. This great tonic should be used after all sickness. Its power to restore to health is simply wonderful. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

We begin The New Year with

SWEEPING REDUCTIONS

In Every Department.

Many Nice

Dress Goods and Cloaks

Going at

HALF OUR FORMER PRICES.

We are Selling

CLOTHING

Regardless of Cost.

Now is the time to save money on Carpets and Curtains.

Sixty-five cent carpets now go for fifty-two.

Call to see us. We will make you happy.

SCHAAB & BRO.,

AUBURN.

INEBRIETY IS A DISEASE NOT A CRIME.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

Auburn, Indiana.

Incorporated under the Laws of Indiana and Endorsed by the U. S. Government. With Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Remedies we Cure

DRUNKENNESS

AND

Morphine Habit.

HOME TREATMENT for the Tobacco Habit and Nerve Exhaustion. No BOLTS. No BARS. No PAIN whatever. Absolute Freedom. IMITATORS, by adroitly worded advertisements, seek to convey the impression that they are handling Dr. Keeley's Remedies and employ his methods of treatment. Such persons are only Imitators and impose an imitation on the Public for the Genuine. For full information as to the Keeley Cure, both at the Institute and by home treatment address

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

AUBURN, IND.

All Correspondence Strictly Confidential.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Are you at all Weak-chested or inclined to be Consumptive, with just a touch of Cough now and then? "Try this Wonderful Medicine." The Cough and Weakness will disappear as if by magic, and you will feel a strength and power never had before.

HAVE YOU A COLD? A Dose at Bedtime will Remove it.

HAVE YOU A COUGH? A Dose will Relieve it.

Bronchitis and Asthma it relieves instantly. The Spasms of Coughing so dreadful in Whooping Cough become less with each dose of medicine. It is an old adage, "To be forewarned is to be forearmed." So let it be in your case, who read this, and keep on hand ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Directions accompany each bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AT 25cts., 50cts., AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Five Men Killed and Several Injured by a Boiler Explosion—Labor Riot Near Pittsburgh—Froze to Death—Death at the Dance.

HORRIBLE DISASTER.

A Saw Mill Boiler Explodes with Terrific Force.

Owensboro (Ky.) special: One of the most horrible disasters in the history of Southern Kentucky occurred near Crow Hickman, a station on the Owensboro and Nashville railway, nine miles south of here. A boiler in the portable mill of John Mercer exploded, killing five men and fatally injuring another. The explosion was caused by running cold water into the warm boiler. The engineer foresaw the explosion and urged the bystanders to run, but they regarded his warning as a joke. The bodies of two of the men were found torn to atoms in a tree seventy-five yards from the scene of the accident. All of the victims were horribly mangled. John Mercer's body was an unrecognizable mass. A more terrific report could not be imagined. The concussion was plainly felt in this city.

A Riot Near Pittsburgh.

A riot occurred at the Vesuvius Iron Works of Moorhead Bros. & Co., Sharpsburg, Pa., between strikers and non-union men. One was fatally shot, and a number were injured. The company reduced wages 15 per cent. and the employes refused it. The plant was shut down until a few days ago, when the finishing department resumed with non-union men. Fifty colored and white men started to drive the non-union men out. The mob tore down the fence and made a rush for the finishing department. About a dozen men were at work. The mob fired several revolver volleys, and one workman was fatally wounded. The workmen were surrounded, outnumbered four to one, and fled. Several were injured. After their flight the mob dispersed.

Dance with a Deadly Ending.

Gurden (Ark.) special: Information has been received from Alpine, a small village in the northwestern portion of the county, announcing the killing of three men and the wounding of two more during a melee at a country dance held at the house of James Forbes. Frenzied by drink the men came to blows and knives and revolvers were brought into action. Lew Jones, Charles Ross, and Sam Powell having been shot, while Ross was stabbed through the heart with a butcher knife, Walker Jones and Bill Jones were both seriously, if not fatally wounded, the latter having been slashed fourteen times. Several others received slight cuts and bruises.

Stole Her Money.

Mrs. John Reust of Huntington, Ind., has been robbed of $250 in gold. The woman had been afraid to trust the banks, and had hidden her money in the cellar. Thieves entered the cellar by breaking a window, and secured the money. Mrs. Reust is much troubled over her loss, as she is not in more than ordinary circumstances and had earned the money by hard work. There is positively no clue to the perpetrators of the deed, as no one but herself knew where the money was kept.

Mobbing in Prospect.

William Miller, Mayor of Harrogute, a suburb of Middlesborough, Ky., was shot and mortally wounded by Bob Newbe, ex-Marshal of the place. Newbe had been dismissed for malfeasance, and blamed Miller for it. He went to Miller's home, firing five shots three taking effect. Miller will die. Newbe fled to the mountains. Indignation is high. If Newbe is caught he will be mobbed.

No Pensions for Foreigners.

Representative Hall (Mo.) will introduce a bill in Congress providing that no pension shall be paid to any person who is not a citizen of the United States. He says that many foreigners who participated in the late war, and who, under the present pension laws, are drawing pensions, should become citizens or give up their pensions.

No Standing in Court.

At Washington, Judge Cox denied the application of the Knights of Labor for an injunction to restrain Secretary Carlisle from issuing bonds. The principal ground of his decision was that the applicants had no proper standing in court.

Blood Poisoning.

John L. Sullivan is at a hotel in Bridgeport, Conn., suffering from a badly swollen right hand. It is rumored that blood poisoning has attacked him and his conition is such as may preclude any further fistic efforts on his part.

But Will He?

The Roby Athletic Club has announced that the organization will give $40,000 to get the Corbett-Jackson fight, and would present the State of Indiana with $20,000 providing Gov. Matthews gives his permission.

Froze to Death.

Jack Lavin of Paris, Ky., was found dead near the farm of John Redmon, near Riddell's mills. He started from the latter place for Paris and froze to death.

Indiana Moonshiners.

An illicit distillery was located by Deputy Revenue Collector Pierce of Lake County, Ind., on John Lacer's farm, two miles east of Bremen. The outfit, with six barrels of whisky, was confiscated.

Aged Attorney Stricken.

Gen. G. B. Smythe, the oldest lawyer of Newark, Ohio, sustained a stroke of paralysis affecting his left side.

Emperor William Embraces Bismarck.

Berlin special: Prince Bismarck, with his son, Count Herbert, and several friends, left Friedrichsruhe at 9:30 o'clock a. m. and arrived in Berlin at 2 o'clock p. m. Monday. The great ex-Chancellor was welcomed at the station by Prince Henry of Prussia, the Emperor's brother; the Governor of Berlin, and a large suite of officers. They entered carriages and were driven to the Castle.

When the party arrived at the Castle Prince Bismarck and Prince Henry descended from the state coach and entered. The Emperor's reception of the old statesman was of the warmest [illegible] Majesty embraced the Prince with the utmost heartiness, and a kiss pressed on the old man's cheek sealed the reconciliation between the Emperor and the greatest of his subjects. Prince Bismarck's gravity of demeanor during his reception by His Majesty was much commented upon.

A SHIPWRECK.

The British Barque Port Yarrock, Lost on the Irish Coast.

London special: Nearly thirty lives have been lost by the wrecking of the British bark, Port Yarrock, Captain Forbes, from Santa Rosalia, July 4, for Antwerp, which some days ago put into Brandon Bay, County Kerry, Ireland, in a disabled condition and which during a gale dragged her anchor and went ashore. A very heavy sea was running in the bay and when the bark struck, the surf made a clean break over her. It was impossible, owing to the position of the stranded vessel, for any assistance to reach her and in a short time she began to break up. First her three masts went by the board and the wreckage floating along side caused the hull to keel over at a sharp angle, thus affording a better mark for the sea that was growing stronger and stronger. Soon butts and seams on the weather side began to open and in a short time the vessel began to break up. Some of those on board the Barque attempted to reach shore by means of planks or spars, but they were swept off and disappeared almost as soon as they left the vessel. Not a person on the Barque was saved.

FOR WITCHCRAFT

A Family Is Expelled from the Methodist Church.

For belief in the power of witches, contrary to the teachings of the Methodist Church, Norman Bleam and Howard Hughes and his wife were tried and expelled from Hart's church, four miles south of Salem, Ohio. The accused charged Jacob Culp, a brother-in-law, with possessing an evil eye and practicing witchcraft, thereby causing the death of old Mrs. Loop and his first wife, bringing sickness upon Mrs. Hughes and another woman and killing and bewitching cows. A hoodoo doctor from Alliance located Culp as the witch and said a loot from his evil eye meant death. The accused refused to appear for trial and the case proceeded without them. The jury pronounced all guilty and formal sentence of expulsion was passed upon them. Their attorney gave notice of appeal to the quarterly conference. Sadie Loop, a sister of the trio, was expelled from the church a year ago on the same charge. Culp bears a good reputation and is one of the pillars of the church.

LEGATION LOOTED.

Italian Robbers Ransack the American Officials' Quarters.

Rome special: Minister Potter's quarters, and those of the American Consul General were visited by burglars who forced an entrance into the American legation, No. 13, Via Nazionale, by breaking the locks. The thieves broke open the safe and the desks and then set fire to all the papers in the office. A number of archives were completely destroyed and others partially burned.

Minister Potter stated that no valuable documents were destroyed. The Minister informed Baron Blanc, Minister of Foreign Affairs, as soon as he himself learned of it, and the police were immediately set to work on the case, but as yet they have found nothing that would lead to the identification of the robbers. The motives of the thieves, and there is considerable doubt of their being ordinary burglars, in so thoroughly wrecking the offices and destroying the papers, especially the archives, is inexplicable.

Honduras Army Invading Nicaragua.

Washington special: A cable message received at the State Department reported that active hostilities were in progress between Nicaragua and Honduras and after a conference between Secretary Gresham and Secretary Herbert the latter sent a telegram to acting Rear Admiral Stanton, ordering him to proceed from Port Au Prince, Hayti, with the "Kearsarge" to protect lives and property of American citizens at or in the neighborhood of Bluefields, Nicaragua, and report conditions of affairs." Subsequent movements are left to Admiral Stanton's discretion. The message telling of the trouble was from the United States Consul at Cape Gracious A'Dip, Nicaragua, and said that Honduras was invading Nicaragua at that point. Bluefields is an important terminal point on the Nicaragua Canal, and the intention of Secretary Herbert in sending the Kearsarge there was to look after the canal property.

All Quiet in Brazil.

Buenos Ayres special: Dispatches received here from Rio de Janeiro say that insurgents are running short of provisions, and that this is one of the reasons which has led Admiral Da Gama to enter into negotiations with Admiral Benham in command of the United States fleet at Rio de Janeiro looking to a satisfactory settlement of the disputes between the Government and the insurgents. It is believed here that there will be no further fighting at Rio de Janeiro and that the American Admiral now has the key to the situation, and that he will be successful in arranging matters in a manner satisfactory to both sides.

A Terrible Story.

Tiffin (Ohio) special: Section men on the Baltimore and Ohio were coming west and stopped temporarily at an unused coal shed about three miles east of Republic. The shed contained two tramps. One of them, upon seeing the section men, said: "I am a woman, help me to escape, please." It developed that the girl was Mattie Meeks, aged 16, of Ridge Farm, Ill., who had been abducted nve weeks ago by her companion. When dressed in her proper attire she proved to be a very handsome girl. She tells a terrible story of abuse at the hands of her captor. She was returned to her home and the villainous abductor is in jail.

Shot His Sweetheart.

At Tiffin, Ohio, Fred J. Sharp shot and fatally wounded Miss Kittie Klees and then turned the revolver to his own head and blew out his brains. Sharp was 34 years old, and was employed as brakeman, fireman, and engineer by the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railway company for years. Miss Klees is a sister of Mrs. Frank Blum of Tiffin, and is a very estimable young lady. Her mother resides at Shelby, Ohio. For nearly eight years she has been receiving the attentions of Sharp and they were engaged to be married, but she objected to his waywardness and broke with him a week ago.

Killed for His Money.

R. C. Goodale, farmer, 72 years of age, residing alone in a little house near Afton, Iowa, has been found butchered in his house. By the failure of a bank at Longley, he lost $400 and has since kept considerable sums in his house. There were ten wounds on Goodale's head and neck, any one of which would cause death. The old man had apparently been knocked senseless at first and the subsequent blows and stabs were given to insure his death. Considerable money secreted in the house was overlooked by the robbers.

Emperor William's Birthday.

Berlin special: The 35th birthday of Emperor William was celebrated throughout Germany in a most elaborate and enthusiastic manner, and with a display of regard for the Emperor which has never before been manifested. The people of Germany in addition to celebrating the Emperor's birthday, have been celebrating the 25th anniversary of his entering into the Russian army, and, above all, have been celebrating the reconciliation which has taken place between the Emperor and Prince Bismarck.

Bad Freight Wreck.

Miamisburg (Ohio) special: A Big Four freight train, west bound, in charge of Conductor O. J. Ryan and Engineer Manuel Wolf, was wrecked at the Smith street crossing, entailing a property loss of over $10,000. Luckily, no lives were lost. Eighteen loaded box cars were derailed, and several were completely demolished. The exact cause of the wreck is not known, but is supposed to have been caused by a broken frog. It required several hours to clear up the wreck.

Swept by Fire.

A large portion of the business section of Bath, Me., was laid in ruins by fire. The waterworks system proved useless, there having been a big break in the main pipe, and without water the fire department was powerless to check the spread of the flames. As a result the Sagadahoc house, two national banks, a savings bank and a dozen stores were destroyed. The total loss is estimated at between $500,000 and $750,000, on which there is insurance of one-half.

Eight Drowned.

The schooner Florence of Holland, Mich., capsized above New Orleans, La., in the Mississippi, and eight persons on board were drowned. The party was on a pleasure trip to Florida, and left Holland in September. The reported dead are: George Henry Brooks, aged about 65 years; George Brooks, aged 19; Eddie Brooks, aged 17; Bertie Brooks, aged 11; John Howard and Mrs. John Howard, aged about 65 years, and James Howard, their son, aged about 35 years.

Twelve Thousand Lives Lost.

San Francisco special: Additional advices by the steamer Belgic, from China, announce the complete annihilation by earthquake of the town of Kuchan, Persia. Twelve thousand persons were killed in the awful disaster. Ten thousand corpses have been recovered to date. The once important and beautiful city of 20,000 people is now a scene of death, desolation, and terror. Fifty thousand cattle were also destroyed at the same time.

To Succeed Satolli.

A special to the Chicago Herald from St. Louis says: "A St. Louis priest, with a charge near the center of the city, has received a letter from a friend at Rome confirming the information that Archbishop Satolli is to be relieved of his duties as apostolic delegate and to be appointed Archbishop of Bologne, at the next consistory and adding that Archbishop Ireland is to succeed Archbishop Satolli as apostolic delegate.

Indiana Republicans.

The Indiana Republican State Central Committee organized at Indianapolis by selecting Capt. John K. Gowdy as Chairman; Charles Harley, Vice Chairman; Russell M. Seeds, Secretary, and James R. Henry, Treasurer. The State convention will be held at Indianapolis, April 26.

Miner Instantly Killed.

Thomas Phillips, aged 20, was instantly killed at Wellston, Ohio, while attempting to board a C., H. & D. freight. Phillips had returned from his work in the mines, eaten his supper, changed his clothing, and was starting to Coalton to call upon a lady acquaintance when the accident occurred.

The Elevator Trap.

Julia Friedman, 16 years old, was literally scalped by a passenger elevator at Toledo. She was watching the elevator ascend, and her head was jammed between the top of the car and the door. Her recovery is very doubtful.

Editor Collins Dead.

F. S. Collins, owner and publisher of the Daily Democrat of Seymour, Ind., died of consumption, aged 31. He was a 32d degree Mason, Past Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, and a Mystic Shriner.

Fate of Two Hunters.

Ben W. Hughey and Alonzo Carndall, both of Mount Carmel, Ill., capsized a skiff in the Ohio River, three miles below Shawneetown, and were drowned. The bodies have not been found.

One Good Result.

At Chicago one thousand saloons have gone out of business during the last three months owing to the financial depression.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3 50	@	5 75
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4 00	@	5 75
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	2 25	@	3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59	@	60
CORN—No. 2	35	@	36
OATS—No. 2	30	@	31
RYE—No. 2	43	@	45
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	24½	@	25½
EGGS—Fresh	17	@	18
POTATOES—Per bu	50	@	60
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3 00	@	5 25
HOGS—Choice Light	3 00	@	5 75
SHEEP—Common to Prime	2 00	@	3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	56	@	57
CORN—No. 2 White	34	@	35
OATS—No. 2 White	31	@	31½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	3 00	@	5 00
HOGS	3 00	@	5 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	56	@	56½
CORN—No. 2	33	@	34
OATS—No. 2	30	@	31
PORK—Mess	13 75	@	14 25
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3 00	@	5 00
HOGS	3 00	@	5 75
SHEEP	2 00	@	3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	58½	@	59½
CORN—No. 2	37	@	38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	31	@	32
RYE—No. 2	51	@	53
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3 00	@	4 75
HOGS	3 00	@	6 00
SHEEP	2 00	@	3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59	@	60
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	37	@	38
OATS—No. 2 White	32	@	33
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59	@	60
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	36	@	36½
OATS—No. 2 White	28½	@	29½
RYE—No. 2	49	@	51
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	71	@	72
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	40½	@	41½
OATS—No. 2 White	33½	@	34½
LIVE HOGS—Good to Choice	5 00	@	6 00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	60	@	60½
CORN—No. 3	34	@	35
OATS—No. 2 White	28½	@	29½
RYE—No. 1	45	@	46
BARLEY—No. 2	49	@	50
PORK—Mess	13 00	@	13 50
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3 00	@	5 50
HOGS	3 75	@	6 50
SHEEP	2 00	@	4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	66	@	67
CORN—No. 2	44	@	45
OATS—White Western	[illegible]	@	40
BUTTER—Choice	[illegible]	@	[illegible]
PORK—Mess	[illegible]

PLEA FOR INCOME TAX

MR. M'MILLIN, OF TENNESSEE, IN ITS FAVOR.

Thinks the Rich Should Pay More Taxes—Measure Is Opposed by the Republican Minority—Insurgents at Rio Taught a Valuable Lesson.

[illegible] the House Tuesday determined upon the abolition of the duty upon refined sugar. A way out of the confusion which existed upon the effect of the amendment adopted Monday night was found after a two hours' discussion of the parliamentary situation by submitting the question to the House whether the Warner amendment, placing refined sugar on the free list, should be considered as a substitute for the Robertson amendment. This was decided affirmatively, and then by an overwhelming vote in which the Republicans joined with the radical Democrats against the sugar men and several of the Ways and Means Committee, the substitute was adopted. With regard to the sugar schedule, therefore, the committee of the whole has abolished the bounty, and placed all sugar, both raw and refined, upon the free list. All four of the amendments designed to place a duty of from 40 to 75 cents a ton upon coal were beaten. The debate upon the coal schedule developed a good deal of feeling among the Southern members, especially those from Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, and Alabama, States interested either in coal or iron ore. The Senate's work was little.

The amendments to the iron schedule Wednesday were overwhelmingly defeated in the House, and iron ore remains upon the free list. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in the discussion of amendments looking to the free admission of machinery used in the manufacture of cotton goods. Just before the House adjourned the advocates and opponents of the income tax on the Democratic side were arrayed against each other, but nothing definite was done. The Hawaiian question came before the Senate again and after an hour's discussion went over. The result of the debate was to show that there is division both in the Democratic and Republican ranks as to the wisdom of adopting the resolution reported by the Foreign Relations Committee. The bill repealing the Federal election laws came up as unfinished business. Senator Lodge took the floor in opposition to the bill. When the Senator concluded his remarks the Senate went into executive session. At 3:15 the doors were reopened and Senator Coke, of Texas, called up the bill authorizing the Gulf, Beaumont & Kansas City Railroad Company to bridge the Neches and Sabine Rivers in Louisiana and Texas was passed, several minor amendments being first adopted. The bill extending the time for the construction of the bridge across the Calumet River, Illinois; the Senate bill authorizing the issue of a patent to the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions for certain lands on the Omaha Indian reservation for school purposes, and the House bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to reserve from sale certain land in the abandoned Fort Cummings military reservation were passed.

The nearest approach to anything of interest in the House Thursday was the repeated attempts of members of the New York delegation to filibuster against possible introduction of an income tax amendment to the tariff bill. The amendment was not offered and it seems there was no intention of offering it, so their efforts were wasted. There were a great many amendments to the tariff bill offered, but only one of importance, that taking crude opium off the free list and imposing a duty of $1 per pound. This, like all the other amendments approved by the Ways and Means Committee, was adopted. At 4:40 the House took a recess in order to permit the holding of a Democratic caucus to consider the income tax bill. The Senate did nothing of importance.

The only amendment to the tariff bill adopted by the House Friday was one increasing the duty on cut stones unset to 30 per cent. ad valorem, and taking rough or uncut stones from free list and placing them on the dutiable list at 15 per cent. ad valorem. An attempt to place tin plate on the free list was unsuccessful. The session of the Senate was devoted to a discussion of Senator Call's public land resolution and a general colloquy over the Federal election bills. A strong appeal was made by Senator Call in favor of the homesteaders of Florida, who, he alleged, were being deprived of their rights by land-grant railroads without authority of law. He succeeded in having his resolution referred to the Judiciary Committee for a careful inquiry into the legal rights of the question. The Senate adjourned until Monday.

Debate on the Internal Revenue bill, including the provision of the income tax, began in the House Monday. Mr. McMillin (Dem.) of Tennessee, Chairman of the sub-committee on Ways and Means on internal revenue, offered as an amendment to the provision imposing a tax of $1 per thousand upon cigarettes, the entire Internal Revenue bill. Mr. McMillin was recognized to open the debate in favor of the amendment, but as he was about to begin Mr. Tracey (Dem.), of New York, asked to reserve all points of order against the amendment. Messrs. McMillin and McCreary contended that it was too late to make a point of order, debate upon the amendment having been entered upon before the point was made. The Chair sustained this position and overruled the point of order. Under the call of committees for reports in the House, Mr. McCreary, Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, reported his resolution expressing the sense of the House on the Hawaiian situation. The minority were given leave to submit their views. The greater part of the time in the Senate was occupied by Mr. Teller in a speech favoring annexation of Hawaii. Mr. Call introduced a resolution inquiring into the influence of railroads and other corporations on the civil service and the press.

Notes About the Capital.

THE new pension bill reported to the House cuts down the amount for next year $15,000,000.

MATERIAL modifications were made in the Sovereign petition for injunction against the new bond issue.

MR. CARLISLE is in a quandary. St. Gaudens refuses to put a breech-cloat on his World's Fair medal figure.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is said to have settled upon F. A. Crandall, of Buffalo, N. Y., for public printer.

SECRETARY CARLISLE has sent a deficiency estimate to the House asking $50,000 more to deport the Chinese.

WARRANTS of deportation are being prepared for nearly 200 Cuban cigarmakers recently arrived at Key West, Fla.

REPRESENTATIVE MAGUIRE introduced a bill to increase the revenue by a direct tax on land in the United States.

SECRETARY CARLISLE was called to New York to straighten out a hitch between the Collector and the importers.

THE appropriation for the District of Columbia recommended is $4,927,194.97. Last year it was $5,413,233.01, and the estimate of the District Commissioners for this year was $5,381,473.91. One-half of the District appropriation is paid by the government, the remainder by the District.

Overflow of News.

PITTSBURG dedicated a $25,000 school building. It is considered a model.

CUSTOMS officers at El Paso, Texas, seized P. de la Sota and found $2,000 worth of opals.

GEORGE LANTIS, a Columbus (Ohio) crank, called upon Gov. McKinley with a demand for $15,000.

POPE LEO, speaking in St. Peter's of the Sicilian troubles, said the nation must return to the old religion.

THE Standard Oil Company is sued for the damages by fire at Columbus, Ohio, caused by waste from the company's tanks.

An arrangement has just been entered into by the State of Arkansas with a Northern firm of capitalists by which all the State's convicts are to be transferred into a sort of Garden of Eden where the musquitoes bite not and the alligator does not pursue the festive pickaninny.

The spot chosen is a great farm situated on an island in Chicot Lake, which by reference to the map given will be seen to be of a most peculiar formation, winding about the land as it does in the shape of a horseshoe, meeting at two extremities the Mississippi River. The water surroundings, of course, make the place an ideal one for the confinement of convicts. These malefactors, instead of having to submit to the lockstep and close confinement of their Northern brothers in crime, will work in the open air and will be well housed and well fed to such a degree that it is not believed they will try to escape, especially as their work will not be of a very laborious character.

When negotiations were begun by the State of Arkansas for the lease of Sunnyside there was considerable opposition from certain sources, but a thorough investigation of the property led the State officials to conclude that it was the only tract of land in the State that would answer all the purposes required and at the same time prove self-sustaining and profitable. It has heretofore been considered about the best the State could do to receive a revenue of $36 to $40 per annum for each convict able-bodied and competent to do such work as coal mining, railroad building, etc., but the revenue thus derived was hardly sufficient to take care of the weaker class of convicts who were not physically able to work at anything. It is estimated that by this arrangement with the Sunnyside plantation, not from mere figures and what should be done, but from actual results obtained in past years in farming this land, a very good profit per year may be realized when all is in working order. It is thought a profit may be obtained which would net the State from $175 to $200 per annum per convict.

THE COMPANY'S JUGGERIES.

A Very Fertile Spot.

This farm affords ample facilities for the raising of meat, sugar, corn, syrup—in fact everything for subsistence and luxury, and after the first year there will be no need of buying anything, and the owner of the property can the first year supply the

STEAMER AT LAKESIDE LANDING.

State at a very low rate with ample feed for their men from the products of 1893. Its area ready for cultivation of five thousand acres could afford work for seven hundred to eight hundred convicts for nine months in the year in the cultivation of cotton and corn. Its valuable timber lands, covering seven thousand acres of virgin forest, afford work for many years to come for the odd time of their men when not actively engaged in farming operations. The railroad of twelve miles running through the property which is owned by the Sunnyside Company affords every facility for the transportation of their men without delay to and from their work, and of the timber to the lake and river landings.

It is the purpose of the State and the owner of the plantation to increase the cultivatable area from year to year, as the labor of the convicts may be spared from farming operations, and it is understood that of the entire twelve thousand acres there is

MAP OF SUNNYSIDE FARM.

[illegible]ot an acre but which is susceptible [illegible]f the highest state of cultivation [illegible]or the growth of cotton and other [illegible]roducts, and without fertilizer of [illegible]ny kind.

MR. KEELY says his motor will [illegible]e perfected in a few months. Keely [illegible] only another name for faith that [illegible]ways looks up.

IT is not so much what the world [illegible]onsumes, but what the world wastes, [illegible]at causes emptiness and want.

COMMANDER BALL

have furnished 80,391 meals to [illegible] supplied 51,648 beds to homeless [illegible] persons. The number of beds su[illegible] 000, while the meals furnished [illegible] In New York City alone the mes[illegible] garments were furnished in 14, [illegible] attended to, and 10,237 children [illegible]

The leaders of this beneficent [illegible] mander Ballington Booth and [illegible] whom we print illustrations.

A STRUGGLE WITH AN ELK

A Western Trapper's Adventure with a Wild Animal.

W. G. Clark, a typical We[illegible] trapper living near Mt. Hood, [illegible] has had some desperate adven[illegible] in his time. Lately he came to [illegible] Francisco and there he descr[illegible] some of them. "Do you see this sc[illegible] he said in an interview, pointing [illegible] mark on his face, "That was mak[illegible] a big buck elk, on the edge of a [illegible] close to Mount Hood. I went out [illegible] morning feeling well and looking [illegible] game, and I saw this big elk st[illegible] ing broadside, and I wanted him [illegible] crept up pretty close and shot [illegible] He fell over, and I waited for [illegible] minutes for him to make some [illegible] to get up, but he didn't do it.

"Then I started to make my [illegible] round the gorge. It took me [illegible] time to do it, for it was rough [illegible] finally got around, and saw him l[illegible] flat. He was on the upper side, a[illegible] I came up to him. He appear[illegible] dead, and I grasped his ear in ord[illegible] to turn his head and cut his thro[illegible] In an instant he leaped up and stru[illegible] me either with his knee or one of [illegible] hoofs. It knocked me flat, and th[illegible] he leaped on to my chest. I thoug[illegible] he would crush the life out of m[illegible] but somehow I had held on to his ea[illegible] and he was getting weak from loss [illegible] blood, and I got from under him an[illegible] still held on. He could not rise agai[illegible] though he tried repeatedly, and [illegible] writhed about threateningly. He g[illegible] part of his antlers under my arm [illegible] and for a time I thought he woul[illegible] break it.

IN AN INSTANT HE LEAPED UP.

I did not dare to let go, howeve[illegible] for if he ever got a sweep at me wit[illegible] his horns he would have killed m[illegible] The knife I had in my hand I forgo[illegible] about when he knocked me dow[illegible] and it went behind me, and as [illegible] came down on my back its keen edg[illegible] cut through my clothes on my righ[illegible] side close to the skin. As it wa[illegible] very sharp, it was a narrow chanc[illegible] that I was not cut, probably fatally [illegible] by it. I could not reach the knif[illegible] again, but I could reach my revolver [illegible] and grasping it I shot the elk in th[illegible] eye. The shot killed him."

Set His Own Price.

All the time of the fabulous suc[illegible] cess of Lamartine's "History of th[illegible] Girondins," M. Buloz, editor of th[illegible] Revue des Deux Mondes, begged th[illegible] poet to contribute something in pros[illegible] for his periodical. Lamartine con[illegible] sented, making a condition, how[illegible] ever, of an advance payment of fou[illegible] thousand francs. On receiving the [illegible] money, he handed the publisher a [illegible] copy of verses, saying that he could [illegible] print them if he liked as an earnest [illegible] of his promised articles. Then came [illegible] the revolution of 1848. One day [illegible] Lamartine, then minister of foreign [illegible] affairs, received a call from Buloz, [illegible] now his bitter enemy. "I have [illegible] come," said the editor of the Revue [illegible] des Deux Mondes, "to ask you to pay [illegible] me the four thousand francs I lent [illegible] you." "Certainly, with pleasure," [illegible] answered Lamartine, taking four [illegible] crisp, thousand-franc notes out of a [illegible] drawer of his writing-table. Buloz, [illegible] quite unprepared for this prompt way [illegible] of transacting business, faltered, [illegible] "But, then, I owe you something for [illegible] those verses." "Oh, that is of no [illegible] consequence; do not mention that," [illegible] said Lamartine, carelessly. "Excuse [illegible] me, M. le Ministre, but the Revue [illegible] des Deux Mondes prefers not to b[illegible] under obligation," said the editor [illegible] very stiffly. "Ah! then the matte[illegible] is very easily adjusted; let us call [illegible] four thousand francs," and Lama[illegible] tine replaced the notes in his drawe[illegible] locking it up carefully.

Wringing It Out of Him.

The famous surgeon, Velpeau, wa[illegible] visited one day at his house durin[illegible] the consultation hour by a marqu[illegible] renowned for his closeness. Velpea[illegible] informed the marquis that an ope[illegible] ation was urgent, and that the f[illegible] would amount to four thousan[illegible]

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—Gist of the Business.

The National Solons.

The House Tuesday determined upon the abolition of the duty upon refined sugar. A way out of the confusion which existed upon the effect of the amendment adopted Monday night was found after a two hours' discussion of the parliamentary situation by submitting the question to the House whether the Warner amendment, placing refined sugar on the free list, should be considered as a substitute for the Robertson amendment. This was decided affirmatively, and then by an overwhelming vote in which the Republicans joined with the radical Democrats against the sugar men and several of the Ways and Means Committee, the substitute was adopted. With regard to the sugar schedule, therefore, the committee of the whole has abolished the bounty, and placed all sugar, both raw and refined, upon the free list. All four of the amendments designed to place a duty of from 40 to 75 cents a ton upon coal were beaten. The debate upon the coal schedule developed a good deal of feeling among the Southern members, especially those from Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, and Alabama, States interested either in coal or iron ore. The Senate's work was little.

The amendments to the iron schedule Wednesday were overwhelmingly defeated in the House, and iron ore remains upon the free list. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in the discussion of amendments looking to the free admission of machinery used in the manufacture of cotton goods. Just before the House adjourned the advocates and opponents of the income tax on the Democratic side were arrayed against each other, but nothing definite was done. The Hawaiian question came before the Senate again and after an hour's discussion went over. The result of the debate was to show that there is division both in the Democratic and Republican ranks as to the wisdom of adopting the resolution reported by the Foreign Relations Committee. The bill repealing the Federal election laws came up as unfinished business. Senator Lodge took the floor in opposition to the bill. When the Senator concluded his remarks the Senate went into executive session. At 3:15 the doors were reopened and Senator Coke, of Texas, called up the bill authorizing the Gulf, Beaumont & Kansas City Railroad Company to bridge the Neches and Sabine Rivers in Louisiana and Texas was passed, several minor amendments being first adopted. The bill extending the time for the construction of the bridge across the Calumet River, Illinois; the Senate bill authorizing the issue of a patent to the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions for certain lands on the Omaha Indian reservation for school purposes, and the House bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to reserve from sale certain land in the abandoned Fort Cummings military reservation were passed.

The nearest approach to anything of interest in the House Thursday was the repeated attempts of members of the New York delegation to filibuster against possible introduction of an income tax amendment to the tariff bill. The amendment was not offered and it seems there was no intention of offering it, so their efforts were wasted. There were a great many amendments to the tariff bill offered, but only one of importance, that taking crude opium off the free list and imposing a duty of $1 per pound. This, like all the other amendments approved by the Ways and Means Committee, was adopted. At 4:40 the House took a recess in order to permit the holding of a Democratic caucus to consider the income tax bill. The Senate did nothing of importance.

The only amendment to the tariff bill adopted by the House Friday was one increasing the duty on cut stones unset to 30 per cent. ad valorem, and taking rough or uncut stones from free list and placing them on the dutiable list at 15 per cent. ad valorem. An attempt to place tin plate on the free list was unsuccessful. The session of the Senate was devoted to a discussion of Senator Call's public land resolution and a general colloquy over the Federal election bills. A strong appeal was made by Senator Call in favor of the homesteaders of Florida, who, he alleged, were being deprived of their rights by land-grant railroads without authority of law. He succeeded in having his resolution referred to the Judiciary Committee for a careful inquiry into the legal rights of the question. The Senate adjourned until Monday.

Debate on the Internal Revenue bill, including the provision of the income tax, began in the House Monday. Mr. McMillin (Dem.) of Tennessee, Chairman of the sub-committee on Ways and Means on internal revenue, offered as an amendment to the provision imposing a tax of $1 per thousand upon cigarettes, the entire Internal Revenue bill. Mr. McMillin was recognized to open the debate in favor of the amendment, but as he was about to begin Mr. Tracey (Dem.), of New York, asked to reserve all points of order against the amendment. Messrs. McMillin and McCreary contended that it was too late to make a point of order, debate upon the amendment having been entered upon before the point was made. The Chair sustained this position and overruled the point of order. Under the call of committees for reports in the House, Mr. McCreary, Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, reported his resolution expressing the sense of the House on the Hawaiian situation. The minority were given leave to submit their views. The greater part of the time in the Senate was occupied by Mr. Teller in a speech favoring annexation of Hawaii. Mr. Call introduced a resolution inquiring into the influence of railroads and other corporations on the civil service and the press.

Notes About the Capital.

THE new pension bill reported to the House cuts down the amount for next year $15,000,000.

MATERIAL modifications were made in the Sovereign petition for injunction against the new bond issue.

MR. CARLISLE is in a quandary. St. Gaudens refuses to put a breech-cloat on his World's Fair medal figure.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is said to have settled upon F. A. Crandall, of Buffalo, N. Y., for public printer.

SECRETARY CARLISLE has sent a deficiency estimate to the House asking $50,000 more to deport the Chinese.

WARRANTS of deportation are being prepared for nearly 200 Cuban cigarmakers recently arrived at Key West, Fla.

REPRESENTATIVE MAGUIRE introduced a bill to increase the revenue by a direct tax on land in the United States.

SECRETARY CARLISLE was called to New York to straighten out a hitch between the Collector and the importers.

THE appropriation for the District of Columbia recommended is $4,927,194.97. Last year it was $5,413,233.01, and the estimate of the District Commissioners for this year was $5,381,473.91. One-half of the District appropriation is paid by the government, the remainder by the District.

Overflow of News.

PITTSBURG dedicated a $25,000 school building. It is considered a model.

CUSTOMS officers at El Paso, Texas, seized P. de la Sota and found $

AT WAR WITH HERSELF.

The Story of a Woman's Atonement, by Charlotte M. Braeme.

CHAPTER XXXII—Continued.

A pleased light broke over his face.

"I understand perfectly, darling. I appreciate your delicate consideration for others. It shall be just as you say—my happiness is purchased by another's pain. You accept me, and reject some one else—is it so?"

"Yes," she said, in a low voice. "Wait at least three or four months before anything is said about it."

"I will do anything on earth you wish, Leonie. See, I must have some visible sign, known only to myself, that you are mine. I have brought this ring—will you wear it for me? It was my mother's. When she was dying she took it from her finger, and gave it to me. Will you wear it for my sake, and for hers?"

She held out her hand to him, and he wondered that it should be so cold, that it should tremble; he placed the ring upon it, and then held it to his lips.

"Some day—I pray Heaven not far from now—I shall place another ring on this dear hand."

He wondered again that she turned from him with what seemed a shudder. Her eyes lingered on that ring; to her excited fancy it would not have seemed strange if it had suddenly changed into a living serpent, and had turned round hissing to sting her. It had belonged to the "mother" whose son she had defrauded, whom she had robbed of his birthright. She could never look at it without keen pain.

"Leonie," said Captain Flemyng, "although our engagement is to remain a profound secret as yet, you will let me come over to see you often—you will write to me—you will not be cruel, and keep me at a cold distance, as though I were a stranger."

"No, I will not do that," she answered.

"And after a few days, when the novelty of being engaged has worn off, you will be kinder to me than you are now? You will, perhaps, then lay your hands in mine, and say, 'I love you, Paul, and will be your wife?' You have only written the words, Leonie; you have not said them."

"I will say them now." She clasped her white hands together and laid them in his. "I love you, Paul, and I will be your wife."

But there was something of sadness in her voice, something he could not understand in the expression of her downcast face. He said to himself that it was but girlish coyness—she would feel more at ease with him in time.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

"Has Captain Flemyng gone without coming in to see us?" said Miss Dacre. "How strange!"

She looked so disappointed that for the first time it occurred to Leonie that Ethel loved the man she had just promise to marry.

"How was it?" repeated Lady Fanshawe. "Captain Flemyng always seems to enjoy an hour with us."

"I do not know; he will come over again to-morrow. He inquired very kindly after you."

Something in the words or the voice struck Ethel Dacre, and she looked inquiringly at her friend. Leonie's face flushed under that quiet, calm scrutiny.

"Why do you look at me so strangely?" she cried, impatiently. "I object to being looked at as though my thoughts lay bare, and every one could read them. I cannot help Captain Flemyng's abrupt departure; he professed himself quite unable to remain, so as a matter of course I allowed him to go."

She did not tell them that he had gone with tears in his eyes—tears of earnest, heartfelt happiness; and that he had told her he could not talk "commonplaces" to other people after his interview with her.

Lady Fanshawe raised her eyes in mild rebuke.

"My dear Lady Charnleigh, if it were possible to imagine one as charming as yourself could be pettish, I should say you were inclined to be so."

Leonie hastened to Ethel's side.

"Will you forgive me? I spoke without thinking. Have patience with me, Ethel—I am not very happy just now."

"Will you not trust me and tell me why?" said Miss Dacre.

"I do not know why. I am out of spirits—inclined to be cross, not only with every one else, but with myself also."

"Sir Bertram Gordon," announced the footman, who had just received a parting vale from Capt. Flemyng, and who, with a grim sense of humor, smiled at the situation.

For one moment Leonie was inclined to give way. She had not expected him so soon, looking as happy and bright as the morning itself, utterly unconscious of the doom that hung over him.

"I have been counting the hours," he said in a low voice to Leonie, "and I really thought to-day would never come."

He looked so bright with the untold gladness of his heart that Lady Fanshawe bethought herself of something that required attention in the housekeeper's room. Sir Bertram did not even hear the apology she made—he had no eyes or ears save for the lady of his love. Miss Dacre took up a book and wandered away into the cool, pleasant fernery.

"Sir Bertram looks as though he did not want me," she thought with a smile.

The fernery was very pleasant and the ferns looked cool and refreshing; the waters fell with a soft ripple, the air was laden with sweet subtle odors. Miss Dacre sat down with her book, but she turned no page in it. A sudden chill had come over her. Why should Lady Charnleigh look and speak so strangely? Could it be possible that she cared for Paul Flemyng?

"It cannot be possible," she said to herself. "If there be any truth in looks and actions, she loves Bertram Gordon."

To the plash of the falling waters she wove sweet, bright fancies of her own—of the day when this hero, this prince among men, would seek her with loving words, and woo her to be his—bright dainty fancies of a life that would be spent in ministering to him, in looking up to him as the flowers look up to the sun. Would it ever be so? She had loved him so long, so faithfully, that it seemed to her her love must meet with some return—that the very force of her own affection must win something from him. On the night of the ball he had held her hand in his, and had spoken so kindly to her that the girl's heart had overflowed with delight. The music of that falling water, the breath of that warm, sweet wind, helped to fill her mind with fancies melodious and sweet as themselves.

"Leonie," repeated Sir Bertram, "I thought to-day would never come. I have counted the minutes and the hours, yet I have had hope. You have not been trifling with me?"

She stood before him, her colorless face drooping from his sight, her hands trembling in his strong grasp.

"I want your answer," he said, bending his handsome Saxon head over the white hands and kissing them. "I asked you to be my wife, and you told me to come to-day for the reply."

"Let us go out," she said, with a strange stifled gasp; "I cannot speak—I cannot breathe here."

A sense of horrible pain had almost mastered her. How was she to tell him they must part when she loved him so dearly that she would have given her life for him? How could she inflict this anguish upon him when she knew that his life was wrapped up in hers?

Silently she passed through the long open window, over the green lawn, where great clusters of scarlet verbena shone in the sunshine, past the great sheaves of white lilies and the fragrant roses, past the tall chestnuts, until she came to the grove of blossoming limes. Their tall branches met overhead and formed a deep shade. The sunshine came through the dense green foliage with a mellowed light such as is seen in the dim cathedral aisles. The turf was thick and velvety; the banks were covered with wild thyme; the whole place was lovely as a fairies' glade. A fallen tree, over which scarlet creepers had grown, lay half across the path, and on it Leonie sat down, raising her beautiful face to the rippling foliage above her head, then suddenly hiding it in her hands. She had no right even to look at the smiling summer heavens—she who had stolen an inheritance, and was about to barter her love for it.

"I could not breathe in those warm rooms," she said. "How quiet and beautiful it is here."

"Leonie," said Sir Bertram, earnestly, "I am sure that you are no coquette; and you cannot help having many lovers—all fair women are so much admired. You are no flirt—you would not lead a man on by kind words and kind smiles until his heart lay under your feet, and then trample upon it."

"No, I would not do that," she answered, with white set lips.

"And yet, darling, do you know that I am growing frightened? I fancied your little probation was but to try me. I have never looked at it seriously. I believed that when I came to you to-day you would be all smiles, all sweetness, all gladness. Yet, Leonie, your face is turned from me—you have no word for me. What does it mean? Remember, darling, though I ask the question I do not doubt you."

His generous trust, his devoted love, smote her as no pain could have done. She had to take this noble heart in her hands and break it; no wonder that her strength failed her, and that, with a long, shuddering sigh, she turned away, burying her face in her hands.

The next moment he was kneeling by her side, his noble face full of deepest anxiety.

"Leonie, what is the matter? What has changed you so utterly? My darling, where have all your brightness, all your gay spirits gone? Let me look at that dear face."

He raised it in his hands, and cried out in surprise, when he saw it.

"Where is your color? Your lips are white as these wild strawberry blossoms. Years, sorrow, and pain have passed over you—what is it, Leonie? Have no fear—tell me all."

"I hate to inflict pain," she said hoarsely, "and I know that I must pain you."

"Why, my darling? I do not see the need."

Her courage and self-command broke down all at once.

"I can not marry you, Bertram—I can never be your wife, and it hurts me to tell you so."

His face grew very white, and a stern, angry light came into his eyes.

"Repeat those words, Leonie! My senses must surely have played me false—not you!"

"I can never be your wife, Bertram; do not be angry with me. If you turn from me in anger I shall die."

"You can never marry me, Leonie! Am I dreaming, or are you? Do you know that you had almost given your promise? Do you know, although you have not said the word yet, that you pledged yourself over and over again with the pledges which a true and loyal woman considers as sacred and as binding as an oath?"

"I know," she said, raising her white, despairing face to his; "but I cannot marry you—I cannot be your wife."

"Will you tell me why?" he asked, and a gleam of hope came to him—it might only be some girlish fancy, after all.

"I cannot tell you that," she repeated, with the same quiet despair.

"Do you know what you are doing to me, Leonie? You are killing me! You would be ten thousand times more merciful if you stabbed me and let me die at once. Do you know that I cannot live without you? Heaven help me, I cannot. My love and my life are so twined together that if one goes the other goes."

She made him no answer, but sat as though her white face was turned to stone.

"You are only trying me, Leonie—you cannot mean it. You want to see how dearly I love you. Oh, my love, my love, it is a cruel jest!"

"It is no jest," said the girl, "it is sad, sober, earnest truth."

"But, Leonie, you love me. I am not vain, but—darling, I am not blind—you love me. I have seen the light come over your face that has shone for no one but me. You have told me in a hundred different ways, without words, that you love me."

"Yes," she repeated, slowly—"Heaven pity me!—I love you."

"You do," he cried. And before she could speak he had clasped her in his arms and kissed her trembling lips. "You love me! O, Leonie, if that be true, what shall part us?"

Then she knew that in admitting the fact of her love she had made a terrible mistake—one that she knew not how to remedy.

"Tell me," he cried again, "if you love me, Leonie, what in the wide world can part us?"

She looked at him, her lips trembled, but from them came no word.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

"I must know the truth," said Sir Bertram, in a clear firm voice. "You owe it to me. What am I to think of you, when you own that you love, yet refuse to marry me?"

"You must think as you will," she replied, despairingly; "I can only repeat my words—that never, while the sun shines and the birds sing, can I be your wife."

"Did you know this when you lured me on to love you—when you stole my heart from me by the witchery of your beauty—when you let me speak to you of love, and did not chide me? Did you know this then?"

No reply—but the beautiful face grew more ghastly in its pallor. He grasped her wrist, and held it as in a vise.

"Answer me," he said—and his voice was not pleasant to hear—"did you know this then?"

"No," she replied, "I did not, Bertram."

"Oh, Leonie, be frank—my love deserves it. If there be any difficulty, tell it to me—I can perhaps remove it. Trust me—for I trust you. I have no secrets from you, my love. Who would be so loyal, so true to you, as I would be?"

"I have nothing to tell you," murmured the white rigid lips, "except that I can never marry you."

Hot anger flashed in his face. For a few moments he lost sight of his outraged love.

"Tell me one thing more, Lady Charnleigh. I have a right to ask for it—the right of a man who has been duped and deceived. You say that you cannot marry me. Pray may I ask are you going to marry any one else?"

There was a silence for some minutes; the wind whispered among the blossoming limes; the harebells seemed to ring out faint, sweet notes in the wind; then, clear and even, her answer came:

"I know you will hate me, Bertram—I have promised to marry some one else."

"I am answered," he said, bitterly. "You, Leonie, whom, only one short hour since, I looked upon as the very flower of womanhood—you whom I thought more pure than a lily, loyal and true as the angels in heaven—you tell me deliberately that you love me, but have promised to marry another?"

"Have pity on me, Bertram! I have been sorely tried."

"There is no pity for you," he cried, indignantly. "You are false—false to me, whom you have pretended to love—false to him whom you have promised to marry. I appeal to heaven against you!" he continued. "You have done me the most cruel wrong that woman can do to man—you have lured me by false words, false looks. You have deceived me—you have betrayed me. I denounce you for being as false and cruel as you are fair. O merciful Heaven, keep me from losing my reason! I fear I am going mad!"

He flung himself on the turf with a terrible cry; a strong man, in his agony he sobbed aloud, for the anguish of his loss was full upon him. She sat quiet and motionless, until she could bear the sight of that prostrate figure no longer. Then there came to her a good impulse—to kneel down there by his side and tell him all the truth; poverty, privation—anything would be better than the knowledge or sight of that terrible pain. And yet, if she confessed to him she would lose all.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

IMPEDING TRAFFIC.

There Are Many Kinds of Tickets, and Sometimes They Are Mislaid.

A corpulent old lady, possibly from one of the New Jersey suburbs, caused the detention of fully a score of passengers at the Park place station of the Sixth Avenue Elevated Road one day last week.

As the saying is, the venerable old soul was "carrying weight for age." She was burdened down with a big bag and a small one, and one or two parcels besides. Thus freighted she toddled along and attempted to pass the box without depositing her ticket.

"Ticket, ma'am," shouted the chopper. "Can't pass here without a ticket."

"I ain't got time," she replied.

"Can't pass, can't pass," cried the man.

"But I will pass."

"Can't, ma'am; the rules are very strict."

"You'll make me miss my train."

"Plenty of time, ma'am. If you don't catch this train, another will be along in a minute."

Then the woman, still blocking the way, dropped her bags, and after a long search in her pocket found a key, with which she opened the big one.

Article after article was taken out and laid aside, but the ticket was not forthcoming. Then she opened the small bag and repeated the operation, but without success. Finally she looked up and said: "What ticket do you want, any way?"

"The elevated railroad ticket, of course," replied the man.

"Why, I had that in hand all the time, you impudent fellow. My son gave me one at the foot of the stairs."

"Then why didn't you drop it in the box?"

"Then why didn't you say elevated railroad ticket? You want to understand that there are a hundred different kinds of tickets. How did I know what you wanted? and don't you ever stop me again or I'll go to the head man of the railroad and complain."—New York Herald.

Old-Time Games.

It is curious to note how some of the games of the early ages have been handed down to the present time. The game, for instance, known as "Odd and Even," was a favorite with the young Egyptian, and many of the little counters that he used are still preserved in the British Museum. There is also the game of draughts, which was played on a chequered board in the earliest times. The poor children were content with draughtsmen and boxes of rough pieces of clay. But the richer ones usually had beautifully carved iron-headed draughtsmen and boxes.

The young Greeks, too, were well provided with toys and games for their amusement. The toys were chiefly dolls made of baked clay, the arms and legs being jointed with string, and therefore movable. They had a favorite game called "Chytrinda," which has been preserved through many ages, and is now played by boys of "Puss in the Corner." In France the game is called "Quartre Coins," or four corners. Both in the old game and the modern version five players are required, one occupying each of the four corners, while the fifth player stands in the middle.

The Lovers' Leap.

Sappho killed herself by jumping from the Lovers' Leap, a Leucadian cliff. This leap was often taken by lovesick persons, who believed that if they survived the fall they would be effectually cured of a hopeless passion. The leaps were always witnessed by crowds of spectators, and the would-be suicides were in no way interfered with by the state. Boats were in attendance below to pick up the leapers if they came to the surface of the sea after the plunge. Sappho had a passion for a young man who did not return her love and leaped from the cliff in order to be cured. She perished in the fall. So also did Artemisia and many other celebreties.

Pliny tells a curious story of an old Athenian miser who was in love with his cook and desiring a cure, went to have a look at the cliff. He peeped over, shook his head, went home and married the cook.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Disease Spread by Funeral Flowers.

Two years ago a young lady died in New York of diphtheria and her remains were sent to her home at Madalin, Dutchess County, for burial. On the casket when it reached the village there were several floral tributes. The flowers composing them were distributed among the children of the Sunday-school class. In this manner the disease was spread through the village and all the neighboring village of Tivoli. It has never been wiped out. For two years diphtheria has prevailed in that vicinity, causing many deaths, and of late deaths from the contagion have grown so numerous that the people are alarmed and an effort is being made to wipe out the disease.

CONVICTS ON A FARM.

ARKANSAS SOLVES THE PRISON LABOR PROBLEM.

State Prisoners Are Made to Earn Their Own Living—Five Thousand Acres Ready for Cultivation, with Sawmills and Quarters All Ready.

Cotton Farm on an Island.

An arrangement has just been entered into by the State of Arkansas with a Northern firm of capitalists by which all the State's convicts are to be transferred into a sort of Garden of Eden where the musquitoes bite not and the alligator does not pursue the festive pickaninny.

The spot chosen is a great farm situated on an island in Chicot Lake, which by reference to the map given will be seen to be of a most peculiar formation, winding about the land as it does in the shape of a horseshoe, meeting at two extremities the Mississippi River. The water surroundings, of course, make the place an ideal one for the confinement of convicts. These malefactors, instead of having to submit to the lockstep and close confinement of their Northern brothers in crime, will work in the open air and will be well housed and well fed to such a degree that it is not believed they will try to escape, especially as their work will not be of a very laborious character.

When negotiations were begun by the State of Arkansas for the lease of Sunnyside there was considerable opposition from certain sources, but a thorough investigation of the property led the State officials to conclude that it was the only tract of land in the State that would answer all the purposes required and at the same time prove self-sustaining and profitable. It has heretofore been considered about the best the State could do to receive a revenue of $36 to $40 per annum for each convict able-bodied and competent to do such work as coal mining, railroad building, etc., but the revenue thus derived was hardly sufficient to take care of the weaker class of convicts who were not physically able to work at anything. It is estimated that by this arrangement with the Sunnyside plantation, not from mere figures and what should be done, but from actual results obtained in past years in farming this land, a very good profit per year may be realized when all is in working order. It is thought a profit may be obtained which would net the State from $175 to $200 per annum per convict.

THE COMPANY'S JUGGERIES.

A Very Fertile Spot.

This farm affords ample facilities for the raising of meat, sugar, corn, syrup—in fact everything for subsistence and luxury, and after the first year there will be no need of buying anything, and the owner of the property can the first year supply the

STEAMER AT LAKESIDE LANDING.

State at a very low rate with ample feed for their men from the products of 1893. Its area ready for cultivation of five thousand acres could afford work for seven hundred to eight hundred convicts for nine months in the year in the cultivation of cotton and corn. Its valuable timber lands, covering seven thousand acres of virgin forest, afford work for many years to come for the odd time of their men when not actively engaged in farming operations. The railroad of twelve miles running through the property which is owned by the Sunnyside Company affords every facility for the transportation of their men without delay to and from their work, and of the timber to the lake and river landings.

It is the purpose of the State and the owner of the plantation to increase the cultivatable area from year to year, as the labor of the convicts may be spared from farming operations, and it is understood that of the entire twelve thousand acres there is not an acre but which is susceptible of the highest state of cultivation for the growth of cotton and other products, and without fertilizer of any kind.

MAP OF SUNNYSIDE FARM.

MR. KEELY says his motor will be perfected in a few months. Keely is only another name for faith that always looks up.

IT is not so much what the world consumes, but what the world wastes, that causes emptiness and want.

MR. AND MRS. BOOTH.

The Heads of the Salvation Army in the United States.

The one-time despised Salvation Army is to-day a great power for good in the large cities of the land. It reaches a class that the fashionable churches know not; it brings light and sunshine into hundreds of homes where linger poverty and disease; it raises up weary hearts and spreads the unction of peace over souls weary in the mad whirl of dissipated life. During the twelve months ending in November three shelters of the Salvation Army have furnished 80,391 meals to the indigent at a purely nominal sum; they supplied 51,648 beds to homeless people, and obtained employment for 6,360 persons. The number of beds supplied by all the army shelters was 2,000,000, while the meals furnished to hungry destitute reach over 3,000,000. In New York City alone the meals provided for the indigent number 13,095; garments were furnished in 14,708 instances; over 2,000 sick cases were attended to, and 10,237 children were cared for in day nurseries.

COMMANDER BALLINGTON BOOTH AND HIS WIFE.

The leaders of this beneficent movement in the United States are Commander Ballington Booth and his wife, Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, of whom we print illustrations.

A STRUGGLE WITH AN ELK.

A Western Trapper's Adventure with the Wild Animal.

W. G. Clark, a typical Western trapper living near Mt. Hood, Ore., has had some desperate adventures in his time. Lately he came to San Francisco and there he described some of them. "Do you see this scar?" he said in an interview, pointing to a mark on his face, "That was make by a big buck elk, on the edge of a cliff close to Mount Hood. I went out one morning feeling well and looking for game, and I saw this big elk standing broadside, and I wanted him. I crept up pretty close and shot him. He fell over, and I waited for some minutes for him to make some move to get up, but he didn't do it.

"Then I started to make my way round the gorge. It took me some time to do it, for it was rough. I finally got around, and saw him lying flat. He was on the upper side, and I came up to him. He appeared dead, and I grasped his ear in order to turn his head and cut his throat. In an instant he leaped up and struck me either with his knee or one of his hoofs. It knocked me flat, and then he leaped on to my chest. I thought he would crush the life out of me, but somehow I had held on to his ear, and he was getting weak from loss of blood, and I got from under him and still held on. He could not rise again, though he tried repeatedly, and he writhed about threateningly. He got part of his antlers under my arm, and for a time I thought he would break it.

IN AN INSTANT HE LEAPED UP.

I did not dare to let go, however, for if he ever got a sweep at me with his horns he would have killed me. The knife I had in my hand I forgot about when he knocked me down and it went behind me, and as I came down on my back its keen edge cut through my clothes on my right side close to the skin. As it was very sharp, it was a narrow chance that I was not cut, probably fatally, by it. I could not reach the knife again, but I could reach my revolver, and grasping it I shot the elk in the eye. The shot killed him."

Set His Own Price.

All the time of the fabulous success of Lamartine's "History of the Girondins," M. Buloz, editor of the Revue des Deux Mondes, begged the poet to contribute something in prose for his periodical. Lamartine consented, making a condition, however, of an advance payment of four thousand francs. On receiving the money, he handed the publisher a copy of verses, saying that he could print them if he liked as an earnest of his promised articles. Then came the revolution of 1848. One day Lamartine, then minister of foreign affairs, received a call from Buloz, now his bitter enemy. "I have come," said the editor of the Revue des Deux Mondes, "to ask you to pay me the four thousand francs I lent you." "Certainly, with pleasure," answered Lamartine, taking four crisp, thousand-franc notes out of a drawer of his writing-table. Buloz, quite unprepared for this prompt way of transacting business, faltered, "But, then, I owe you something for those verses." "Oh, that is of no consequence; do not mention that," said Lamartine, carelessly. "Excuse me, M. le Ministre, but the Revue des Deux Mondes prefers not to be under obligation," said the editor, very stiffly. "Ah! then the matter is very easily adjusted; let us call it four thousand francs," and Lamartine replaced the notes in his drawer, locking it up carefully.

Wringing It Out of Him.

The famous surgeon, Velpeau, was visited one day at his house during the consultation hour by a marquis renowned for his closeness. Velpeau informed the marquis that an operation was urgent, and that the fee would amount to four thousand francs. At this the marquis made a wry face and left. A fortnight later Dr. Velpeau, while making his rounds in the Hospital de la Charite, had his attention attracted by a face that seemed familiar to him. In answer to his inquiry, it was stated that the patient was a footman of a nobleman in the Faubourg Saint Germain. The surgeon found that his case resembled in every particular the somewhat unusual one for which the marquis had consulted him a fortnight previously. He refrained, however, from making any comments. Three weeks after the operation, when the patient was about to be discharged, Dr. Velpeau called him aside and exclaimed: "Monsieur, I am extremely flattered and pleased to have been able to cure you. There is, however, a small formality with which you will have to comply before I can sign your exeat; that is, you will have to sign a check for ten thousand francs in behalf of the public charity bureau of your metropolitan district." The patient's face became livid. "You can do what you like about it," continued the doctor; "but if you refuse all Paris will know to-morrow that the marquis de D—— adopted the disguise of a footman in order to secure free treatment at the hospital, and to usurp the place which belongs by right to a pauper." Of course the marquis paid.

THE INDIAN'S FRIEND.

De Las Casas, the First Missionary Ordained in America.

One of the most striking figures in the early annals of America was Bartholomew De Las Casas, the defender of the Indians against the cruelty of his own countrymen. He accompanied Columbus on his second voyage and fired with religious zeal he resolved to enter the order of St. Dominick and devote himself to the Indians. In 1502 he was sent from Spain to Santo Domingo and was the first Catholic priest ordained in the new world. The cruelty inflicted on the Indians fired his indignation,

A DESERVED MEMORIAL.

and he journeyed back to Spain to lay the matter before the court. His writings were translated into many languages and made the word Spanish synonymous with cruelty. He labored many years in Santo Domingo, Cuba, Nicaragua, Gautemala, Mexico, and Peru. In 1551 he returned to Spain and died at Madrid in 1566. Our illustration is from the statue by Antonio Molto Y Such.

POWDERLY'S SUCCESSOR.

James R. Sovereign, Head of the Knights of Labor.

The new General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, James R. Sovereign, is a native of Wisconsin, where he was born 40 years ago. He has been by turns a cowboy, a farmhand, a marble cutter, an editor and a politician, and has always taken an active interest in the subject of organized labor. At the time of his election as Master Workman he was State Labor Statistician of Iowa, having been appointed to that office by Gov. Boies. He is reported to be opposed to strikes, believes in the ballot as a redresser of wrongs and favors arbitration in all disputes between labor and capital. He is an able speaker and possesses an attractive manner.

JAMES R. SOVEREIGN.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Many Odd, Curious, and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

A GOOD hostler knows how to curry favor with a horse.—Florida Times-Union.

AN honest man usually feels compelled to add 20 per cent. for men who are not.—Atchison Globe.

AN editor thinks that people of the right stamp are those who inclose return postage.—Texas Siftings.

THE dentist who devotes himself to pulling aching molars is necessarily a painstaking fellow.—Buffalo Courier.

IT is a singular fact that the "blunt" man is apt to make the most cutting remarks.—Glens Falls Republican.

THERE isn't a hack or carriage in town that has the rich, heavy rumble that accompanies the beer wagons.—Atchison Globe.

THERE is no parity between the pose of the preacher and the repose of the bald-headed men in the corner seats.—Plain Dealer.

HE—"Has the time seemed long since I left, dear?" She—"I know it must have, for I can't recall when you went."—Inter Ocean.

WHEN a washerwoman changes her place of residence one may ask her "where she hangs out now" without using slang.—Boston Courier.

"I NOTICE that you've got a new man to take up the collections in your church." "Yes; the times are ticklish now. He gives bonds in $5,000."—Judge.

BROWN—"That wife of yours just fills the bill." Jones—"She more than does it. The last one that came in ran clear over to the next page."—Detroit Free Press.

CAPTAIN OF POLICE—How far shall I go in carrying out this order to break up the anarchist meeting? Superintendent—Even to detailing a man to steal their keg of beer.—Puck.

"DON'T you think Lella's complexion is lovely?" said one dear girl to another. "Yes; that's one thing that I admire about her. She always buys the best in the market."—Washington Star.

"OH, George," she cried, "how I wish you were a knight in armor!" "Yes," he responded, dubiously, "except that those fellows did so much talking through their hats."—Washington News.

JINKS—Waite is a prince of good fellows. Filkins—Most people don't regard him as such. Jinks—That's true; but princes seldom get there by popular suffrage, you know.—Kate Field's Washington.

"OH, I say, Smithers, why are gas meters like the Arabs?" "Don't know, Jonesy. Because every man's hand is against them?" "No. Because they evidently silently steal away."—New York Recorder.

TEACHER (reading)—"The actor received an ovation at the end of the first act. What does ovation mean?" Bright Boy—"Ovation is derived from ovum—egg—oh! I know—he was pelted with eggs."—Exchange.

THE INVENTOR—Ah! ha! My fortune is made! Hooray! His wife—How? The Inventor—I've just perfected a duplex reversible device for automatically indicating to a woman whether her hat is on straight.—Chicago Record.

"WHAT is the reason you only give me one egg instead of three, as usual," asked Mr. Tipton Snooks, one of the Widow Flapjack's boarders. "It is a fresh egg. I can give you half a dozen of the other kind if you want to swap," replied the landlady.—Texas Siftings.

"DAT'S de mos' wun'fullest t'ing, dat is," remarked Uncle Eben, as he gazed at the electric light. "Dey done put de match to de udder end ob de connection, an' when you turns on de spigot de light jes' flows out."—Washington Star.

MRS. BACKBAY—What a solemn thing it is for two people to wed; to cleave to one another till death does them part. Mr. Jackson-Parke—Isn't it, though? I'm mighty glad that folks don't have to marry on any such cast-iron conditions nowadays.—Indianapolis Journal.

ANXIOUS MOTHER—"I wish, Susan, that when you give baby a bath you would be careful to ascertain whether the water is at the proper temperature." Susan—"Oh, don't you worry about that, ma'am; I don't need no 'mometers. If the little one turns red, the water is too hot; if it turns blue, it's too cold."—Tid-bits.

"I'M afraid you're not enjoying yourself," said the Boston hostess to her guest, Mrs. Suddencash, as the orchestra finished the second movement of the symphony they had gone to hear. "Oh, yes," said Mrs. Suddencash, amiably. "I shall enjoy it immensely as soon as they quit turnin' up and begin playin'."—Chicago Record.

HUSBAND (triumphantly) — "I've done it. I have played two games of cinch blindfolded." Wife—"Well, I'd like to run out for half an hour. Suppose you mix the bread, mind the baby, stir the pudding, baste the roast, watch the vegetables and answer the door-bell for awhile. You needn't be blindfolded."—New York Weekly.

Vesuvius Affected by the Moon.

Prof. Palmieri writes: "Vesuvius, the activity of which was rather increased last full moon and then decreased during the last few days, has again commenced to show signs that we may expect new eruptions and flows of lava. From the principal crater much smoke issues, and detonations are heard and redhot stones are thrown out. The eruptive cone in the Atrio del Cavallo emits smoke from its summit with a certain force, while from its base the lava flows more rapidly. A smaller cone in the same place is not quite so active. For many days the seismic instruments have maintained a constant movement which tends to increase."—Scientific American.

THE FAIR.

DON'T READ THIS,

Everyone should see the large stock of

HOLIDAY GOODS

at the

2 JOHNS 2

Which will be sold this year at about cost, owing to the hard times.

Yours,

J. C. HENRY.

IF YOU DON'T WANT BARGAINS.

2 JOHNS 2

WONDERFUL CURES

—BY—

DR. TOWNSEND.

FREE CONSULTATION.

Dr. I. S. Townsend,

Formerly of the New York Polyclinic, and Lecturer in Medical College, Cincinnati, Ohio, will make the following visits:

Butler, Aldrich House, Monday, Jan. 22, and Monday, Feb. 19.

Kendallville, Bowen House, Tuesday, Jan. 23, and Tuesday, Feb. 20.

Garrett, Ross House, Thursday, Jan. 25, and Thursday, Feb. 22.

Angola, Hendry House, Friday afternoon, Jan. 26, and Saturday, Jan. 27; Friday afternoon, Feb. 23, and Saturday, Feb. 24.

Dr. I. S. TOWNSEND devotes his entire attention to diseases of the Eye, Ear, Throat, Lungs, and to all chronic, Private and Nervous Diseases and Deformities, as Granulated Lids, Cross Eyes, Deafness, Discharge at the Ears, Bronchitis, Chronic Cough, Goitre, (big neck) Fever Sores and Ulcers Brights Disease Rheumatism, all Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Heart, Stomach and Nervous Diseases; Chorea, (St. Vitus Dance) Epilepsy (Fits), General Debility, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, and all diseases due to bad blood.

Epilepsy, or Fits, positively cured by a New Never failing Remedy. also Rectal Diseases. Dr. Townsend makes a specialty of all forms of Rectal Diseases. Piles—Internal and External Itching and Bleeding, Rectal Ulcers, Fissures, Fistula—which are often taken for Nervous and Lung Diseases, all cured if taken in time. Remember I cure all forms of Piles without pain, interruption or detention from business, and without the use of Knife, Caustic, Ligature or Injection. Come and be convinced. Dr. T. has made these diseases an exclusive specialty for years.

Small Tumors, Cancers, Warts, Moles, Etc., removed without acids, knife, pain or scar. New method. It is not boasting when we can truthfully say we can remove Superfluous Hair Freckles, Pimples, Redness in the Face, Birth Marks, and Small Pox Marks.

Catarrh. New Home Treatment, with apparatus invented by the Dr. Examine it. Unsurpassed. Cheap.

Guarantee to cure every case of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Piles, Tape Worm and Stricture, Rupture or Hernia.

☞ I will give special attention to difficult cases and to cases other physicians have failed to cure. ☜

Persons applying for treatment will please bring from two to four ounces of urine for analysis.

Those unable to see the Doctor, address Box 1408, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Reference by permission to following Banks outside of Cincinnati, where the doctor has visited for nine years: Lima National Bank, Lima, Ohio, President, B. C. Faurot; Cashier, F. L. Langan; City Bank, President, T. T. Mitchell; Cashier, E. B. Mitchell; Foster & Co., Bankers, Fostoria, Ohio, Cashier, J. E. Wilkison; Findlay, O., First National Bank, President, E. P. Jones; Cashier, Chas. E. Niles; Kenton Nat onal Bank, Asher Letson, President; H. L. Runkle, Cashier.

Those not able to see the Doctor at Hotel can treat by correspondence by addressing, I. S. TOWNSEND, M. D., Cincinnati, Ohio, Box 1408.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. ☞ Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.

DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio.

MATHENY & GERKE, Auburn, Ind.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Matheny & Gerke, Auburn.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Winfield Nelson, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WILLIAM SEELY, Administrator.

Jan. 15, 1894.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....FEBRUARY 1, 1894

THE third annual meeting of the state conference of charities will be held in Terre Haute, Feb. 20, 21 and 22.

W. H. CALKINS, at one time member of congress from Laporte, and who was a candidate for governor against Grey, is said to be at death's door at his home in Tacoma, Wash.

THE HOUSE has voted to stop the sugar bounty. That will save about ten or fifteen millions a year. Democratic principles are coming to the relief of the people. Let the good work go on.

WORD comes from Washington that "there is no lobby about congress this winter." That is as it should be. A lobby is not needed and we are glad to see it set down on by a democratic congress.

INCOME tax bill, if passed, will be 2 per cent on incomes over $4,000 a year. That is, the $4,000 will be exempt. If a man's income is $4,300, he will pay 2 per cent on the $300 only, and so on. It will not be a hardship, and will bring the government more money and relieve the people that much.

THE statistics of the United States mint show that the world has $3,732,935,000 in gold money, and $3,968,700,000 in silver, of which India and China have $1,600,000,000. France has the largest amount of both, $800,000,000 in gold and $700,000,000 in silver. The United States follows with $654,000,000 in gold and $575,000,000 in silver.

CARLISLE, secretary of the treasury, will issue fifty millions of new bonds to keep the 100 millions of gold surplus required by law. In less than an hour offers came to take the whole lot, but he will likely retain at least a part of them for the common people, as the bonds are purposely made small for their use. They sell at a premium of 17,223 cents, as the interest is 5 per cent.

IT is laughable to hear some interested as well as very much benighted newspaper men decide (in their own minds) the political status or bias of the COURIER. They have never seen in its columns, anything of a political bias except democratic doctrines pure and undefiled. These doctrines have been of the uncompromising kind, and not the kind dictated by the self interest, or by party bosses or cliques. That we have kept independent of party bosses and cliques is shown by the enemies we have made among these little knots of politicians. We had to go back on them in order to be true to the democratic party. We love the democratic party for its grand principles, and for its patriotic doctrines, but we cannot and will not be led from the true path by the dictation of two or three of the party's very selfish and unworthy members. The democratic party will stand and be glorious when such small fry are rotting in forgotten graves. But we are aware that it is to please them, that certain papers, republican and populist, are childishly fixing up a slate of the COURIER'S "opinions." Not the least silly of these is the assertion that "the COURIER can't swallow Cleveland." The COURIER has no desire to "swallow" him. Cleveland may sometimes err, as all mortals do, but we consider him as we have always, as one of the greatest, purest and ablest statesmen our country has produced.

Court.

The Deeters trial is to begin at Angola, a week from next Monday, February 12. The sheriff has been notifying witnesses. The Jennings will case resulted as every one here said it would. The will was not broken but stands good. We see no cause for this suit, which took nearly two weeks of valuable time. Wm. Fisher, for taking a box of cigars, etc., was given 45 days in jail. This should be a lesson to other lads who have been in the same business, but not caught at it. E. S. Crumbaker was admitted to the bar. Treatman gets a judgment against the Indiana Dimension Co, for rent, amounting to $372, and an allowance for expenses and costs. Banet vs Erick to recover taxes, went in favor of Erick. Fred. Denning vs G. C. Ralston, trial of the right of personal property was brought up and dismissed. Henry and Sarah Keller were divorced as were also Amos E. and Louisa C. Kunderd, and Wm and Ella R. Waters. A great deal of work has been done between these long cases, but much of it is not in shape to report. The Nodine case was taken up again one day by D. R. Best as judge, but is not yet finished. The same day there were three courts running. Best, Judge Powers with the regular court, and Judge Adair of the Whitley and Noble circuit, who was trying a special. Judge Adair came up to try another case yesterday. Court ends Saturday, and on Monday begins at Angola.

Repair Shop.

Two skillful workmen, George Loffi, of Canton, Ohio, and Leonard Trapp, of Garrett, have started a repair shop in the small building back of the marble shop, that is, on the corner of Jackson and Sixth streets, and will prove quite a convenience to our people. They will repair almost anything you have, but make a specialty of bicycles, locks, mending and repairing tools of all kinds, as well as guns, revolvers, sewing machines, etc., etc. Our people can have keys fitted, locks repaired, and many other needed things. Give them a call.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

JANUARY SLAUGHTERING SALE.

ONE FOURTH OFF ON EACH PURCHASE

Commencing Monday, Jan. 1st, and continuing for Thirty Days.

JUST THINK OF IT! 25 Cents on each and every dollar you spend at my store during this sale. Nothing reserved. Everything must go. Remember, the Stock is all New and Fresh, our Assortment Greater than any House in the County. This is a Bona Fide Sale, all in good faith. We only ask an inspection, which will prove itself. Our goods are all marked in PLAIN FIGURES. You can easily figure it out yourself. Just 25 cents off on each dollar, no matter how large or small your purchase is. You will be allowed one-fourth off Think of the saving this will be. It's less than the first cost of the goods. But no matter where the loss comes from, so it doesn't come out of the customer. This sale includes the entire stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing, Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods of every description. Remember, One Fourth Off During January.

G. H. YESBERA,

THE LEADING CLOTHIER & GENTS' FURNISHER.

P. S.---Merchant Tailoring not included in the above, but will allow an extraordinary reduction on all Tailor-Made Goods. G. H. YESBERA, The Merchant Tailor.

WATERLOO.

Mr Waters has moved his family to Angola.

Joe Gingerich died Sunday of lung fever The burial took place Tuesday afternoon.

Cyrus Kelley has been confirmed by the senate as receiver of public moneys for the land office at Cheyenne, Wyoming. Still the DeKalb boys come to the front.

The L. M. C. held their regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Juliette Dickinson. The program was responses from Holmes; the civil war, Mrs. Boozer leader; synopsis of "Elsie Venner," Mrs. Winslow; history and description of the Alhambra, Mrs. Kennedy.

BUTLER.

Mrs Emily Dills and daughter Kitty were here Sunday visiting their relatives, the family of Mr. Crane.

C. R. Scoville and a Mr. Thomas are holding services at the Christian church, with what success the writer has not been apprised.

Mrs. J. A. Campbell and daughter Florence visited over Sunday with her mother's family near Angola. They are slowly improving.

Nearly all the Butler men employed at Ashley have been "laid off" and are enjoying their own firesides at home here. That much boomed town seems to be gradually freezing out.

Brannan & Chilson have dissolved partnership in the hardware store, Mr. Chilson retiring from the firm. Mr. Brannan will go on with the business alone. Samuel Jones is still clerking for him.

The sudden and unexpected death of John Blaker, whose obituary appears elsewhere, last Friday evening, cast a gloom over the older residents of our place. He was taken sick on Wednesday forenoon with grip, which grew worse until his death ended his suffering.

The basket factory employs seven girls now and is quite a good thing for them, enabling them to earn their own living. Girls are willing to work when given a fair opportunity. And they make a careful use of their earnings. Of course, the factory employs a good many men who do the heavier lines of work.

SUMMIT.

R. Frederick, of Hudson, was in town Monday.

Frank Hilt and wise went to Waterloo last Friday.

Mrs. Isaac Barker is a little better at this writing.

Wm. Zimmerman and wife, of Auburn, visited friends in and near this place last week.

Emory McOscar, of Ft. Wayne, has been here the past two weeks visiting relatives.

Mrs. R T Duncan visited in the family of her father, P. Freed, at Pleasant Lake last Friday.

Mrs Viola Snowberger visited in the family of her brother-in-law, Robert Snowberger, near Angola a few days last week.

CONCORD.

Ethel Keller is convalescent.

Mrs. Burton Brown is quite sick.

Mrs. Hayward returned to her home in Lenawee, Mich., Thursday.

Nelson Ulm, an old pioneer, is reported as having been very sick.

A goodly number attended the S. S. convention in St. Joe Saturday.

G. W. Morr returned to his home in Crystal City, Mich., Thursday last.

Master Frank Brandon, of Auburn, is here visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Watt.

Bishop & Filley have bought several large trees of S. T. Lutz They are hauling them to their sawmill in St. Joe.

Relatives of Oliver Testison, of Elkhart, received a telegram Saturday announcing his death. His remains were interred in the family cemetery at New Haven.

Mrs Ed. Elson, of Canton, Ohio, and Mr J. A. Brent, of Ft Wayne, are here in attendance upon their mother, Mrs Wm Shutt, who is still in a critical condition from the injuries received in her late accident.

Report came here Sunday that little Willie, only son of Emma Tyndall Allen was drowned in the St. Joe river some time Saturday afternoon. The body has not been recovered Later—Monday afternoon news came that the boy was not drowned, but that he and Charlie Scott had broken through the ice and been rescued.

EAST DE KALB COUNTY.

(LAST WEEK.)

H. H. Smith is very sick.

Mrs. Duebner is recovering.

Mrs. Stewart Wartenbee is very ill.

Mrs. Lydia Scoville is slowly improving.

The family of J. D. Reinhart are down with the grip.

Holland Blaker is recovering from a severe attack of grip.

Wm. R. Chilson died Sunday afternoon. Funeral Tuesday at Newville.

SUMMIT.

LAST WEEK.

Aunt Betsey Yœthers is slowly improving.

Mrs. George Bushong, we hear, is getting better.

Mrs Georgie Barker is a little better at this writing.

Mr. P. Parnell and wife, from south of Hudson, were in our town last Saturday.

Mrs Wolf and Mrs. Brown, of Steubenville, visited friends in this place last Friday.

Mr. George Trussler, wife and daughter visited Mrs T's mother, Mrs. Lucy Perkins, last Sunday.

Quite an excitement prevailed in this place last Friday. The team belonging to Frank Sneider, from south of Hamilton, got frightened at the passenger train and broke loose and ran away. We do not know as to the amount of damage done.

Mr. Clemons Bapst, of Garrett, and Miss Theresa Shiffli, of this place, were married last Tuesday. The writer regrets not being able to attend, but had some of the cake, which was real nice. They expect to move to Garrett in the near future. May success and happiness go with them is the sincere wish of their many friends.

Obituary.

DIED: At his residence at Butler, Indiana, January 27, 1894, in the seventieth year of his age, John Blaker.

John Blaker was born in Lycoming county, Penn., Jan. 10, 1825. His father's name was Jesse Blaker, a native of Bucks county, same state. The family were of German descent and readily trace their ancestry to the landing of William Penn. His father died in 1872 in his ninety fifth year. Mr. Blaker was reared on a farm and, his parents being in limited circumstances, he received but a meager education and was compelled to care for himself from and after his fourteenth year. On the 20th day of July, 1848, he was united in marriage to Mercy Hall in his native state of Pennsylvania. To them were born eleven children, six daughters and five sons, ten of whom, five sons and five daughters, are still living.

Mr. Blaker emigrated to Indiana in 1855 and settled on what was known as the Colgrove farm, adjoining Butler on the north and now owned by the Showalter family. He first engaged in work on the north Indiana Railroad (now Lake Shore), which road was completed to Butler the following year. In 1856 he came to Butler and remained a constant resident until his death. Of the three hundred residents of Butler (Norristown) at that time, two or three only remain, A. J. Mason, J. A. More and Dr. Miller. He engaged in buying and shipping stock and in a limited livery business. In 1877 he engaged exclusively in the livery business and continued in that business until his death. His wife died very suddenly Dec 17, 1891, her death taking place on the Lake Shore evening train in its passage between Edgerton to Butler. On June 19, 1892, he was united in marriage to Mrs. Amine D. LaRue, with whom he lived happily until his death.

Mr. Blaker was a man of quick perception, accommodating and generous to a fault, with whom it was very difficult to say "No," the consequence of which was that many less worthy persons took advantage of his weaker nature. He united with the Odd Fellows in 1865, but from some cause dropped out of the order. We believe he never united with any of the churches, but was ever ready to respond to any appeal from sickness, want or affliction. He leaves a wife, ten children, one brother, a number of more distant relatives and friends to mourn his departure.

His funeral took place from the Christian church on Monday, Rev. Charles R. Scoville, of that church, officiating, assisted by the resident ministers of the other churches of the town. His familiar form and features will be missed from the usual walks of our place.

The Coming Campaign.

As the time approaches for the next campaign to open, a few words on that subject will be in order. Two years ago, on the 6th of February, the democratic committeemen from the various precincts of the county met in Auburn in obedience to the call of Chairman Ab. Kelly. Each precinct had, before this, had a meeting and elected its committeemen. At the Auburn meeting, Becks Erick, of Spencerville, was chosen to succeed Ab. Kelley as county chairman. So it will be seen that the organization this year will take place at a later date than before. But this is perhaps all the better, as there is no spring election in April, and in fact no election of any kind till fall, except the election of town officers in the several incorporated towns, in may. So it is plain there is still time enough, though we would suggest that the calls be not delayed too long. Some time during February or early in March would be desirable We believe there has been but little talk about the matter so far. But democrats should begin to talk about it. The first thing after getting a good committeeman in each precinct, will be the selection of a good county chairman. This last has been talked up a little, and we have heard from several parts of the county as to the probable selection. All we have heard from speak of John F Shuman of Waterloo. We have no desire whatever to dictate this important appointment. But it seems to us to be eminently a fit one. Mr Shuman is in a location easy to reach, and from which he could easily reach any part of the county. He is not committed to any especial candidate or faction, and therefore would deal impartially with all. He is not a candidate for any office whatever, preferring we presume rather to grow up in the good graces of his fellow democrats and trust to what the future might bring. He is young, able, active and sound. We speak of this so all may be studying up the matter. If anyone has a more desirable candidate, that will also suit the COURIER as well. As to the assistants, the chairman will need, that may be an after thought. The county meeting can decide that. Two years ago they gave Mr. Erick the selection of his own secretary, which course we believe was satisfactory. This campaign will be one of hard fighting, and will require good men in all places, not only on the various committees, but as to the candidates on every place. The republicans have given it out boldly that they expect to carry the county at least, except a possible democratic sheriff and surveyor. They have to a great extent selected several of their candidates already. H M. Bicknell, the Garrett postmaster, wants to be auditor and J. G. Johnston, of Waterloo, clerk. And there are other candidates who have their lightning rods up. The people's party are also stirring actively and expect to carry the county, just as they always do, for they exist largely on faith and great expectations. So it will be seen that all signs point to a hot campaign, and the democracy should begin to gird on its armor. Though late in the field we should prove our faith in the words, "The first shall be last and the last first."

Great Excitement at the Hospital!

One door north of the Model Bakery, S., Main street, Auburn, Indiana. Several bodies torn to pieces by the inmates! Sad, indeed, this would seem, but then, they are all made as good as new again! Brown & Co., are the doctors, who upholster and repair furniture, make over old matresses and renovate feathers New parlor furniture and mattresses made to order. Beds renovated for $1.50 each. Pillows, 50 cents per pair. We expect to remain about two weeks or as long as work will warrant it. If you have anything in our line to be done, it will profit you to see us.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Mary W. Mott deceased, late of said County. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN G. MOTT, Administrator.

January 16, 1894.

E. D. Hartman, Att'y

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Barn Burned.

Auburn's Fire bell called people out of warm beds Sunday night, or rather about two o'clock Monday morning. But no fire could be found in town, though a bright glare of light was plainly visible in the country east. That day it was learned that the barn of Jacob Somers, about two miles in the country, had been destroyed. Later, Mr. Somers was here himself, and gave the details, as far as known. When it was discovered to be on fire, Les. Geisinger, who lives on the place, hurried out, but found it too far started to be controlled, and he tried to get out his horses He succeeded in saving one, though both himself and the horse were scorched. The other horse perished in the flames, as did also fourteen sheep that were sheltered in the barn There was also a large amount of hay (Mr Somers thinks between 60 and 70 tons) which was, of course, destroyed

The hay had been cut by Wm Clouse and he had some insurance on his half, but Mr. Somers' half is a total loss, as well as the barn, there being no insurance on either. Mr. Geisinger also lost about fifty bushels of corn. The fire was supposed to be of incendiary origin, as there were signs of shavings, etc, having been used to start it.

L. S. & M. S R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 19, 1893.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.		Exp'ss		Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, ...dp	11 45	am	4 45	pm	6 40 arr
New Era	12 14	pm	5 14		7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25		5 26		7 48
Auburn..	12 29		5 30		8 37
Waterloo	12 43		5 41		9 24
Summit.	12 56		5 53		9 45
Steubenville....	12 59		5 57		.....
Pleasant Lake.	1 05		6 03		10 15
Angola....	1 14		6 14		10 50
Jackson.....	2 30		8 55		4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight		Exp'ses		Mail
Jackson.... dp	6 55	am	11 20	am	6 30 arr
Angola	12 25	pm	2 08	pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake.	1 05		2 20		9 01
Steubenville.....	.....		2 27		9 07
Summit..	1 25		2 32		9 11
Waterloo	2 30		3 00		9 24
Auburn..	3 11		3 11		9 34
Auburn Junc..	3 38		3 14		9 38
New Era ..	4 05		3 24		9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25		5 05		10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.

In the DeKalb circuit court December term, 1893. Grace Watkins is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, by George Watkins for divorce, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 22d juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 26th day of January, 1894.

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

J. F. Shuman, Att'y. 5-7

Notice to Contractors.

The Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, Indiana, will, until February 9th, 1894, at 10 o'clock a m., receive sealed proposals for the erection and couple ion of stone abutments for six bridges, in said county; also for the erection and completion of six steel bridges; abutments and bridges to be constructed in accordance with specifications now on file in the County Auditor's office Each bid must be accompanied by certified check of not less than four hundred dollars as surety to enter into contract within five days of letting.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA

JOHN HOFFELDER, Pres.

Auburn, Ind., Jany. 30th, 1894.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, and state of Indiana, that the undersigned will make application at the next regular session of Commissioners' court of said DeKalb county, commencing the first Monday in March, 1894, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time, with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the premises where sold, as follows:

The northeast one-fourth (¼), the same being 80 feet east and west and 60 feet north and south, of Lot No. 48 in the original plat of the town of Auburn, Union township, DeKalb county, Indiana.

February 1, 1894. EMMETT P. REFNER.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that I, Roxana E. Knott, administratrix of the estate of Samuel M Knott deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest bidder on Saturday, February 17, 1894,

at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the same can be sold advantageously, at the door of the court house in Auburn, Indiana, the following described real estate, belonging to the estate of said deceased, to-wit:

The east half of the west half of the southeast quarter, and all that part of the east half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen (16) which lies north and west of the right of way of the Detroit, Eel River and Illinois Railroad Company, all in township number thirty-three (33) north of range twelve (12) east, in DeKalb county in the state of Indiana.

TERMS OF SALE: One third cash, one-third in twelve months, and one third in eighteen months, with privilege to the purchaser of paying all cash Deferred payments to be evidenced by interest bearing notes waiving relief and secured by mortgage upon the premises sold.

ROXANA E. KNOTT, Administratrix.

Baxter & Brown, Attorneys.

GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company for the election of 15 directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting, will be held in the general office of the company, in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 7, 1894, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m. The books for the transfer of stock will be closed February 24, 1894. 4-9

F. A. GORHAM, Secretary.

Notice of Sale of Personal Property

Notice is hereby given, that I William Seely, Administrator of the estate of Winfield Nelson deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, February 17, 1894.

at the late residence of deceased, ½ mile west of Newville, sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described personal property belonging to the estate of said decedent, to wit:

One 6-year old mare, one 4-year old horse, one cow, one heifer, one brood sow and six shoats, one sleigh, one binder, one mower, one fanning mill, one sulky hay rake, one grain drill, one riding plow, one sulky corn plow, one double harness, one log chain and other articles.

TERMS of SALE: For all amounts not exceeding five dollars, cash in hand. For amounts of five dollars and upwards, a credit of nine months will be given. Note, bearing six per cent interest after maturity, with approved security, and waiving Valuation and Appraisement Laws, will be required. 4-6

WILLIAM SEELY, Administrator.

Baxter & Brown, Attys.

Receiver's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, receiver of the Eagle Iron Works, a corporation, will on the premises of said corporation at Auburn Junction, in DeKalb County, in the state of Indiana on

Friday, February 9, 1894,

At the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidders the entire plant of said corporation, consisting of the real estate described and bounded by a line as follows:

Commencing five (5) chains and forty-eight (48) links west of a point on the west side of the Detroit, Eel River & Illinois Railroad right of way on the south side of the township line between sections six (6) of township number thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east in DeKalb county, Indiana, and section thirty-one (31) in township number thirty-four (34) north of said range county and state, and extending from thence south about three hundred and fifty (350) feet, or until it strikes the right of way of said railroad thence running northeast along said right of way two hundred and forty six (246) feet thence northwest about one hundred and ninety-eight (198) feet to said township line, and thence west along said township line one hundred and ten (110) feet to the place of beginning.

Also the tangible personal property of said corporation, consisting of machinery, tools, patterns, iron, stoves, manufactured goods, castings and material for carrying on the business of a foundry and machine shop.

Such sale of personal property will be made in bulk or in parcels as the receiver may determine on date of sale and upon the following terms:

One-third (⅓) cash on date of sale, one-third (⅓) in three months, and one third (⅓) in six months from the date of such sale, deferred payments to be evidenced by the notes of the purchaser, to bear interest at six per cent, without relief from valuation and appraisement laws and with attorneys' fees, and as to the real estate, to be secured by mortgage on the premises sold, as to the personal property, to be secured to the satisfaction of the receiver, provided that each purchaser may at his option pay the entire amount of his purchase in cash.

SAMUEL D. HANNA, RECEIVER.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Rosa Saxton is plaintiff, and The Auburn District Fair, E. Eugene Trout, D. J. Swarts, F. J. Yesbera, David A. Sebring, Jacob B Casebeer, Timothy J. Matheny, Hugh N. Culbertson, Willis B. Brown, George L. Lanning John L. Davis, Frank E. Davenport assignee of John L. Davis, Sherman Bollister, Christopher C. Shaffer, Sylvester Rogers and John E Walters are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three thousand seven hundred and ninety-five dollars and sixteen cents, with interest on said decree and cost. I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, February 10, 1894,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p m. of said day, at the door of the court house of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following real estate, to wit:

Forty (40) acres of land off of the north end of the west half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section twenty-eight (28) township thirty-four (34) north of range thirteen (13) east, and also a strip of land fifty-three (53) feet wide off of the west side of that part of said west half of said southwest quarter (¼) lying south of said forty acres, all situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws

GEORGE C. RALSTON,

Sheriff of DeKalb County, by R. Blum, Dep.

Auburn, Indiana, January 15, A. D. 1894.

C. E. Emanuel, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term, 1894. Lewis E. Parker is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court by Joseph Singler, for the collection of a promissory note by proceedings in attachment, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 20th day of March, 1894, being the 14th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 23 day of January, 1894. 4-6

D. D MOODY, Clerk.

Notice to Non Residents

State of Indiana, }
DeKalb County. } SS

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term, 1894. John Davis is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, on notes, by The Auburn Foundry and Machine Works, and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 11th day of January, 1894.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

J. W. Baxter and C. M. Brown, Attorneys.

GREAT SENSATION SALE.

Commencing Thursday morning, January 25, 1894, FOR TEN DAYS ONLY.

This will be the largest and most sensational sale of Dry Goods, Notions and Carpets ever held in Northern Indiana. The great number of Genuine bargains is simply astonishing.

5,000 Yds. Muslin, slightly wet, but not damaged in the least, 4c. per yd.

Think of it! 25 yds. good muslin for $1.00. We have so many New Goods at such Very Low Prices that it is impossible to tell you of ALL the Great Bargains in a newspaper advertisement. We simply mention the Muslin as a pointer. Come to our store and see for yourselves. Our terms are CASH and ONE PRICE TO ALL.

Our stock of new Spring Carpets just arrived and now open for inspection. Call and see the new patterns.

Bishop & Lackey,

Shaffer Block. AUBURN, IND.

SEE

D. A. HODGE

For the Holiday Trade,

We have on display the most complete line of

WATCHES, DIAMONDS & JEWELRY

in the City. Handsome Novelties in

SILVERWARE.

Inspect our line before purchasing!

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store.

Dr. F. M. Hines, Physician and SURGEON.

Office over J. C. HENRY'S Grocery, in the Ford Block,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ RESIDENCE, at the Samuel Swihart residence on South Jackson St. near the Church Furniture factory, and just across west from the German Methodist church. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

P. P. P. C.

Positive Painless Pile Cure.

The most complete, practicable and painless method of treating all curable diseases of the rectum ever placed before the public. Piles are permanently cured in a few weeks by the use of this treatment. Fissure, Catarrh, Inflammation Ulceration, Prolapsus, Constipation, Bleeding, Blind and ITCHING PILES are cured as if by magic. I claim the most complete, successful, simple and original common sense method ever offered to the suffering public. Your correspondence solicited.

S. U. TARNEY
Sole Proprietor and Manufacturer
Auburn, Ind

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c, and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO. Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathena & Gerke.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.—

—$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,

REPAIRS

All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO:

Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work

Warranted First-Class in All Respects.

☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Dr. Henson lectures in the M. E. church next Tuesday evening, Feb. 6.

Don't fail to attend the great sensation sale at Bishop & Lackey's. See ad. on page 5.

D. A. Garwood of the First National Bank, took a business trip to Waterloo last Friday.

I. J. McFadden, of Waterloo, was here Monday. He is just out after a siege of sickness.

Ollie Clay and wife went up to Edgerton this week to spend a few days visiting relatives there.

Will Swarts was home from Ft. Wayne over Sunday. He has had a flattering offer to go into practice in the city.

Everybody has a "sure cure" for the grip, but the best thing we know of is Kessler Bros.' Receipt.

Frank Swartz, a former Waterloo boy, but for several years a resident of Garrett, has moved to Iowa, where he is at work at Eden, in Fayette county. Of course the COURIER will follow to the new home.

LOST: On Thursday, Jan. 25, a ladies' small purse, on Main street or along the block north of the court house. Contained some money. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving at J. C. Shugers' lunch room.

The thrusts of the COURIER seem to have a good effect in helping to make the Clipper more decent. Last week it had in only such cases of rape and seduction as came handy, and didn't go hunting all over the earth for them.

Old Mrs. Campbell, mother of Samuel and George Campbell, died Sunday morning. The funeral was from the Lutheran church Tuesday at 2 p. m., Rev. J. D. Brosy officiating. Her obituary will appear next week.

We are pleased to see that Mrs. Hannah Brown, of Waterloo, is reported as having received a pension. She will appreciate it, but we suppose that republican papers will not admit that she gets a pension under a democratic administration

The lads did some skating last week. This reminds us that Johnny Coffinberry and Braddie Ralston broke through the ice Saturday, taking a pretty cold bath for such a sharp day. But a good hot bath at Dr. Swarts' sanitarium set them all right again.

Garrett Republican—Hallie Moses visited friends in Auburn last week. * * * County Superintendent Merica was visiting the Garrett public schools Friday. * * * Miss Lila Baker, of Auburn, was the guest of Miss Grace Cribbs last Friday and Saturday.

Frank P. Thomas and Alice Farley were united in marriage by Rev. A S. Wooton at the home of Mr. Chas Brown on Cedar street, Jan. 23, 1894. Mr. Thomas is the gentleman who has just purchased the St. Joe News. Both parties formerly resided at Hamilton, Ind.

Mrs. Sarah Griffith, widow of the late Nelson Griffith, has moved to Mill brook, Mecosta county, Mich. We believe she has a son residing there. Time makes many changes among DeKalb's old pioneers, but Mrs. G. will get the news from the old home through the COURIER.

Col. R. Finley Smiley, who lectured at the Lutheran church Wednesday evening of last week on Fraternal Organizations, will deliver a gospel address in the M. E. church Sunday evening. On Monday evening he will continue his lecture on Fraternal Organizations in the Lutheran church.

Mr. C. F. Davis, editor of the Bloomfield, Iowa, Farmer, says: "I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all sufferers with colds and croup. I have used it in my family for the past two years and have found it the best I ever used for the purpose for which it is intended." 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

We see by the Ft. Wayne papers that Abe Johnson got a two years' sentence "for obtaining goods on false pretenses." It will be remembered that he was the fellow who got a rig of Kutzner & Myers and forgot to bring it back and used it, or some similar property, to trade and dicker on over in Allen county, as told at the time in the COURIER.

In these cold and blustery days when work is slack and money tight, there is nothing that will give a greater return for the money expended than the Young America, made by Kessler Bros.

Geo. Stealey, son of Jacob Stealey, of Angola, was here last week. He worked in the Kiblinger paint department a short time. It will be remembered that he did the painting for Anderson Brothers when they had a buggy factory here a few years ago. He has returned now to Columbus, Ohio, where he has had a position for some time as painter in the Columbus Buggy Factory.

The Florida exhibition car, that will be here next Tuesday, will in a great measure supply the place of their exhibition at the world's fair, and to those who did not get to see that at Chicago, it will be worth a great deal. We believe the charge for admittance is only ten cents, children for five cents. At all events, the price is very low for so valuable a display. We have no doubt our people generall will go to see it.

Lagrange Standard.—Good country roads would mean to the farmer ten per cent more for his produce no matter of what nature. Bad roads mean more horses, more money for horse feed and shoeing and repairs to wagons and harness, and more loss of time Farmers appreciate this fact as well as other people, but good roads are not to be had save by the co-operation of all the farmers in a district, and, in addition, state aid must be furnished, for roads are costly.

Hamilton Advocate—Ella Baxter has been sick for several days, but is better at present. * * * Uncle Than Sewell is improving the property he purchased of Ed. Hagerty. * * * James Lewis and wife, of Auburn, are visiting B. Bell and wife of this place. * * * Dr. Brown and wife took dinner last Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. A. J. Sewell. * * * Wm. Sewell is at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Than Sewell. * * * Learned & McCool shipped another car load of stock to Buffalo last Saturday.

Mrs. A. J. Ralston's last letter from her daughter, Mrs. H. K. Scott, left her and Mr. S. at Pasadena, Cal., from which point they go to San Francisco, and after looking in on the midwinter fair a few days, they will turn their faces homeward. They have passed a month touring in the Golden State very pleasantly. Later:—They reached Auburn on Monday. They were called to Riverside by by the death of Mr. Scott's mother at her home there, where the father still resides. After the visit there they made the other points noted above.

The Junior Ex. lecture Feb. 6.

Smoke the K & B. ten-cent cigar.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Mrs. Fremont Smith of the Junction, was in town last Saturday.

Harry Swarts came up from Warsaw, his present home, Monday.

Rice's studio takes the lead. Latest style cabinets $1.25 per dozen.

Mrs. Frank Dills has been quite sick but is improving now, we believe.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea, for Dyspepsia.

The Florida car of exhibits, it is reported, is to be in Waterloo next Monday, Feb. 5.

S. R. Bickel, Charles Kelley and Ab. Kelley, all of Waterloo, were here on business Monday.

Do you cough? Cure it with Brant's Balsam, the sure cure. 25 and 50 cents at F. E. Davenport's

The book that is richest in humor of any now published—Samantha Allen at the fair, M. B. Willis, agent.

Mrs. J M. Hook and little son Kenneth, of Stafford, were here last week calling on the former neighbors.

Bread, cakes, pies, etc., etc., together with all kinds of candies, always new and fresh, at the Union Bakery. 24

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

The Union Bakery for fresh bread and all baked goods, candies, etc., as well as the best canned fruits etc. Call there. 4

It's all the same, a slight cold, congested lungs or severe cough. One Minute Cough Cure banishes them. 4tf

Jake Magginnis went over to Butler Monday to attend the sale of Wes. Bechtel Tuesday. We believe he was the auctioneer.

STOVE FOR SALE. A good heating stove almost new, best kind of a base burner, wood stove. Price reasonable. Call at this office.

W. H. Fair, trustee of Butler township, and James O. Blake, trustee of Smithfield, were here on business last Saturday.

Beagle Hound puppies for sale. I have a few fine ones. Call early at my home or write me at Waterloo, Ind. A. M. St. Clair.

The mercury took a drop last Wednesday, going down to about four below zero the next morning with about two inches of snow.

Fresh bread, the nicest and best, always to be had at the Union Bakery. De Long & Keeran will be pleased to have your patronage.

It not only relieves; it does more, it cures. We refer to One Minute Cough Cure. Suitable for all ages, all conditions, at all times. 4tf

Mrs. Emily Dills and daughter, Kitty, with little Johnny Dills, were over at Butler over Sunday, visiting Mr. Crane's family, and other friends.

Reuben Lockwood made a business trip to Hamilton Friday, going up to Steubenville and taking the east bound train over the new Wabash.

Reserved seats for the Henson lecture will be on sale Friday morning, Feb 2, at Robbins & McCord's. Reserved seats, 50c.; general admission, 35c.

Dr. Swarts has been making professional visits to Waterloo to attend Mrs. G. W. DeWitt, who has been sick for some time. We believe she is improving now.

If you suffer from sleeplessness why not try Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, the great new discovery for Nervous diseases and sleeplessness. Warranted. F. E. Davenport.

Don't forget to patronize the class of '95. The Juniors have a grand lecture by Dr. Henson, in the M. E. church next Tuesday evening, Feb. 6. Reserved seats at Robbins & McCord's.

No better aid to digestion.
No better cure for dyspepsia.
Nothing more reliable for biliousness and constipation than DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. 4tf

Mike Lumm and wife returned Monday from a visit with friends at Adrian. Mr. Lumm had been close at work for eighteen years, and felt that this was a good time to take a little layoff while waiting for his new position on the road.

When sore oppressed by brooding care, and mind and body long for rest; then is the time for a quiet smoke, and Kessler's Bill Heads are the best.

J. A. Sawyers reached home over the B. & O. Tuesday noon, after a pleasant fortnight with friends in Ohio. He tells of an old couple out there that would have been of interest to the late Billy Beane. They were recently married, the lady being 80 and the groom 82. And yet, some of our young men call themselves old bachelors at 30.

Elder S. B. Ward died at his home here Tuesday at 11 a. m., after a sickness of about two weeks, though he has been feeble for some time. He was one of the earliest of our pioneers and a truly good man—one of the "fathers in Israel." A full obituary will appear next week. Funeral Friday at 2 p. m., services by Rev. Mr. Ward, of Columbus, O.

Samuel Sheehan, whose sudden attack of sickness at Hebel's corners last week was reported in the COURIER, died Sunday morning. It was a sort of paralytic stroke from which he never fully rallied. He was buried Monday afternoon from the Lutheran church by the A. O. U. W., G. A. R. and S. of V. organizations, of the first two of which he was a member.

For latest novelties, most artistic and beautifully finished pictures, any size, or pictures neatly and correctly framed, patronize J. G. Clapp, leader and dealer only in pictures and their fixtures.

Visit J. G. Clapp, Auburn, whose beautiful work is giving the best of satisfaction, and he is making very fine finish and perfect likeness of the most fastideous people of this and adjoining counties. His business has so increased that it was necessary to employ Mr. G. A. Ostergren, of Chicago, who is also a very fine workman. They also have a nice new stock of mouldings; any size frames made to order. They can please you. 35

An exchange says: Newspaper offices are often visited by tramps for the purpose of begging a few "exchanges," and the question is often asked, what they do with so many old papers. Give a tramp—they are most of them on to the scheme—a few newspapers, and he will put one under him, pack others inside his clothes, especially around the body and chest, and sleep warm in a place where if not so protected he would freeze. Few tramps arrested but who have a good supply of papers, and they use them for that purpose.

See the news on inside pages.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

No better lecture than that of Dr. Henson, which is Feb. 6.

Mr. Kiblinger is improving and we hope soon to see him out again.

The great sensational sale at Bishop & Lackey's continues and is a grand success.

Call and see our $1.25 cabinets, and be convinced that they are fine. Rice's Ground Floor Studio.

MARRIED:—At the Lutheran Parsonage, Jan. 27, 1894, by J. D. Brosy, George W. Osbun, to Zula Cosper.

E. Saylor and Wm. Bovlick from near Newville called on this office yesterday. Always glad to see the boys.

W. P Myers of Kendallville smiled in on Auburn yesterday. He says the postoffice muddle at Kendallville is as unsatisfactory as ever.

The many friends of F. K. Blake, will be interested to hear that he is now located at Chicago, and has become a member of a prosperous law firm, there.

Judge Adair of Columbia City called up to talk over old times last Saturday. He was here to try a case for Judge Powers. It was the case of Goode vs Rensch, to decide the priority of mortgages.

Col. I. B. McDonald, of Columbia City, was here Monday, on some court matter in which he is an attorney. He is not in the best of health, we are sorry to say.

Our friend Wm. Emerson, of Troy, gave us a little call before leaving last week. He was here as a witness in the Jennings case. He has been a faithful subscriber to the COURIER, lo these many years.

The ladies' nickel social of the Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. Gordon Long, on South Cedar street, Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

Francis Dugard and wife are the happy parents of a nice boy, born last Wednesday, the 24th. All doing well, especially papa Francis who is as happy a man as the town holds.

Archie McIntyre went to Columbus Tuesday, and was examined on the P. O work for Illinois, passing at the extraordinary grade of 100 per cent. That is the kind of men to have in the railway postal service.

Nellie Barns, of the COURIER family, started for Washington, yesterday, where she goes to visit her uncle J. R. Lamson and wife, and will probably call on relatives near Philadelphia, returning the last of March.

Program of Auburn Musical Club for Feb. 5, 1894: Piano solo, Miss Grube; musical paper, Edith Trentman; baritone solo, Mr. Sheets; vocal duet led by Miss Fredrick; whistling solo, Helen Ralston; Quartet led by Mr. Muhn.

D. Y. Husselman returned this week, from his commercial trip in Michigan. He reports much better sales, and bright prospects than heretofore. He has put in a good deal of time in settling up old claims for his house, the Moline Plow Company.

Willard Pepple, who went to Texas a few months ago, died at Waco Saturday, and was brought here for interment, reaching here in charge of his brother, John, yesterday. He had been sick some time with a low grade of fever. An obituary will be given next week.

We publish this week an exquisite little poem, a relic of the war days, with a brief note of explanation. It is the property of Dr. Coates, who cut it from an old almanac published in the year when these sad happenings were not uncommon. It will pay a careful perusal.

The Ashley Times admits that two parties of Chicago capitalists have visited that place recently, with a view to purchasing a controlling interest in the townsite. It thinks one of them will do this in a week or two, and that then there will be a large sum expended in improvements.

More new secret societies are now starting up all over the land. The last st is the "Ben Hur," in which Judge McBride is a leading light. The Logonier Banner of last week says: "A new secret society called the tribe of Ben Hur, was incorporated at Indianapolis last week. Judge R. Wes. McBride, formerly of this circuit, is one of the 'high monkey-monks' of the new society, which has its headquarters a Crawfordsville."

Elton Campbell, of Detroit, with his wife, were here this week, to attend the funeral of his grandmother, Mrs. Campbell, who was buried Tuesday. They had been visiting his father, G. W. Campbell, at Wabash. He called at the COURIER office, in company with two cousins, Jacob Campbell, son of Eli Campbell, of Wabash, and Arthur Campbell, son of Henry Campbell, of Kendallville, all being here on the same sad errand.

We omitted last week to state a rather singular thing that happened to A. F. Clark, who lives about two miles out of town. He came home one evening after dark badly mussed up and bruised, and told how he had been knocked off his cart by someone who struck him with a stone. He brought the stone along to show them. It was quite a heavy one, and a blow from such a thing would be very dangerous. His explanation of the occurence is not very clear, and some think he may have been thrown from his rig and struck his head on a stone Dr. Darby of Waterloo was called to examine his injuries, which proved not to be dangerous, and he is all right now.

Chris. Cloy died yesterday morning after a short illness, and under very sad circumstances. It is well known that he has for some time been in a weak state of mind as well as body, caused partly by his hardships in the army, but recently aggravated by worrying over the conduct of his shiftless son-in-law, who has been running him into debt at the stores, and otherwise showing his worthlessness. This assisted to worry Chris., and on Monday, he came up town, apparently as well as he had been for some time. He went to Mike Boland and asked him to be his guardian, so as to help him care for his property. After some talk with him, Boland said he would think it over. Later, Chris., went to Robbins & McCord's and bought a small box of rat poison—arsenic—saying he was bothered with rats. They explained to him fully the character of the stuff, as they always do when poison is sold, but thought no more of it. However, he went home and took it himself. He drank it in a cup of vinegar and water, but got only a small part of it, the rest remaining in the cup, for his wife seeing him drink it, knocked his hand away. But he got enough to make him sick. Dr Nusbaum was called, and gave strong emetics, and he was supposed to be out of danger. But in his already weakened state, he finally took worse, and died as stated. No one, as far as we know, blames the druggist, as rat poison is sold every day, and with less care, often, than was shown in this case. Mr. Cloy was when well, a good citizen, and a very industrious man, and his death under such circumstances is sad. He will be buried Friday.

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

For pains in the chest there is nothing better than a flannel cloth saturated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

In addition to the books before mentioned, M. B. Willis has secured the agency for the county, of the book of season, "Samantha at the World's Fair." See him at once and give an order.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of Mystic Cure, and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

Jud Bair, of the Kiblinger factory, had a piece steel driven into his hand, Monday. While "trueing up" a wheel, the revolving tire drove the splinter so far in that it broke off, and has not been extracted. It will make him a sore hand.

Now is the time when your catarrhal trouble begins to annoy and wreck the Respiratory and Nervous systems. Drs. Nusbaum & Nusbaum cure what they promise. Rooms especially fitted to treat diseases of nose and throat. Also diseases of women.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY:—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action pon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cts. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. tf

The Junior Ex.

The present Junior class of our high school will not be behind its predecessors in the matter of bringing a first-class entertainment to Auburn. It is to be hoped that the efforts of the class will be fully reciprocated, and a crowded house greet Dr. Henson next Tuesday evening. If properly encouraged on this occasion we believe the high school, through its different classes, may be led to assume the responsibility of bringing more of these attractive and highly beneficial entertainments to our city. Dr. Henson stands among the very first of the lecturers on the American platform to-day, and his lectures are rare combinations of genuine eloquence, of wit and humor, of common sense and practical wisdom. The Kansas City Journal says of him: "Fully thirty-five hundred people gathered to hear the famous Dr. Henson of Chicago. From the opening sentence to to the peroration he had the undivided attention and cordial sympathy of the audience. There is a freshness, a spontaneity, a sparkle, an originality, a genuine humor and pathos about the lecture that is unreportable and irresistible. To be appreciated he must be heard." The St. Paul Pioneer Press says of his lecture in that city, "It was a very large and intellectual audience that gathered to hear the lecture of Dr. Henson. Many of the prominent city pastors were there, university professors and other well known literary people. The lecture was a magnificent specimen of wit and wisdom, and genuine eloquence. Every utterance and almost every change of facial expression was the signal for applause."

Witch Hazel Salve.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cleanses, purifies and heals. It was made for that purpose. Use it for burns, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, sores of all descriptions, and if you have piles use it for them. 4tf

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Notices of meetings of societies, church services, etc., not exceeding five lines, published on or this head without charge. Five cents will be charged for each line in excess of five lines.

The S. H. G. will meet with Mrs. M. Baldwin.

The L. L. C., will meet this week with Mrs. McCord.

Valentine Luncheon Feb. 14. Further announcement, later.

The C. L. S. C., will meet Saturday, at 2 p. m., with Mrs. Old.

Special meeting of the Christian Endeavor, next Sunday evening, at 5:45.

Col. R. Finley Smiley will give a gospel address at the M. E. church next Sunday evening, and on Monday evening will speak at the Lutheran church.

Florida on Wheels.

A car which cost $20,000 and which besides being constructed of material grown within the borders of the state of Florida, is filled with the marvelous products indigenous to the land of flowers will be on exhibition at the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad depot in Auburn. Tuesday, Feb. 6, both day and evening. This car which is named "Florida on Wheels," has been on exhibition throughout the country and will stop here on the above mentioned date on its way from the fair at Chicago. A remarkable feature connected with this car is that a publication, The Florida Hustler, which the editor, with a display of levity, says is "edited by the publisher and published by the editor," is issued from it at stated periods. Below we append a few press comments on "Florida on Wheels:"

The car is built of Florida's most beautiful woods.—N. Y. World.

The people turned out in large numbers to welcome it.—Times-Union, Jacksonville, Fla.

Floridaians should be proud of it.—S. Framingham (Mass.) Gazette.

Health and Happiness!

HONEY OF FIGS is the QUEEN of all cathartics; syrups or pills. One anticipates its taking with pleasure. No other remedy sells so well or gives such satisfaction. It acts gently on inactive bowels or liver, relieves the kidneys, cures constipation, colds, fevers, nervous headaches, etc., and restores the beauty of health. Ladies and children prefer it. Doctors and druggists recommend it. The Fig Honey Co. of San Francisco. Try a bottle. Only one cent a dose. Matheny & Gerke wholesale and retail agents for DeKalb county.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

BRINGS RESOLUTIONS of REFORM.

Just as successfully as mother earth brings forth fruit and flowers

The habits, purposes, successes and failures of the year 1893, will not be adequate to the great demands of the great year of 1894.

NO RESOLUTION OF REFORM

Is of more importance than in the purchase of the necessaries of life. Especially is this true when you endeavor to find out how much your money

WILL BUY

in the way of

GROCERIES!

We wish all our friends a Happy New Year, and especially invite everybody to call at the Family Grocery when in need of: | Bread, Cakes, groceries, Cigars, Tobacco, Confectionery, Soap Brooms, Flour, and General Merchandise. We will save you money.

IRA BRANDON.

GENTLEMEN!

Have you LARGE FEET?

If you have, go to

SHULL'S CASH SHOE STORE

You can buy Men's Shoes, size 9 to 11, for HALF WHAT THEY ARE WORTH.

THE CASH

BOOT AND SHOE STORE.

Opposite Bishop & Lackey's.

A FEW OF THE MANY

Bargains we are offering:

200 Pairs Men's Pants, lined with Cotton Flannel worth $1.25, only 90 cents.
Lot Cottonade Pants, - - worth $1.00, only 75 cents.
Lot Wool Shirts, - worth $1.00 to $1.25, only 75 cents.
Lot Men's Wool Socks, - worth 20 cents, only 12 cents.

OLDS BROS.

North of Court House.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

VAILLANT, the anarchist bomb-thrower, will be justified the same day that Judas Iscariot is canonized.

IF we should mark the words of every man who requests us to do so it would not be long before the language of the world would all be in italics.

EUROPEAN armies are changing that fine old phrase, "the dogs of war," from a simile to a hard fact by using man's canine friend for military purposes.

A STATISTICIAN has figured out that the entire population of the world could be accommodated in Texas. But the world's population will not all go to Texas. Some of it will be saved.

MEAN enough to steal sheep is a proverb without force. Hereafter the lowest depths of unmitigated dishonesty and selfishness will be characterized as "mean enough to steal charity tickets."

SOUTH CAROLINA moonshiners defy even Governor Tillman, and vow they will continue to exercise their American citizen's right to make and sell whisky when and where they please. Now Governor Tillman knows how the federal authorities felt when the moonshiners defied them.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE confesses: "My life does seem to have been what men call happily successful; but, honor bright, what worries me is that I've invented a fishpole and can't do a thing with it. The finest thing of the kind you ever saw, made of aluminum, hollow, line comes down inside the pole, light, well balanced"—but it will not work, and he is miserable.

GENERAL JOHN B. GORDON, ex-Governor and United States Senator from Georgia, is meeting with great success as a platform orator. His lecture, "The Last Days of the Confederacy," is being received with great approval by large audiences in the East. The lecture is founded on the closing days of the late war and contains his personal estimation of the two great commanders, Grant and Lee.

ONE of the few good uses discoverable for soldiers in Spain has been indicated at Madrid. The bakers were about to go on strike. The civic authorities requested the royal government to erect temporary bakeries forthwith and detail soldiers to make bread. Thus, in an inglorious art of peace, they will probably render their country better service than they ever will in war.

EDWARD PAYSON WESTON, the man who first popularized pedestrianism in this country and afterward won renown in Europe, has done no walking in public for ten years. He has a record of 62,000 miles covered in endurance tests, and he did it all on a cold water and vegetable diet basis. His favorite food when walking is oatmeal and his favorite beverage milk. He is 50 years of age and is a hale, handsome, active man.

THE Salvation Army, says the San Francisco Argonaut, is gradually winning the respect of the community. Its methods are certainly peculiar. It is not entirely admirable, in our opinion, that religious worship should be accompanied by discordant singing, cracked tambourines, and dropsical bass-drums. But, while we do not admire some of the methods of the Salvation Army, we cannot help but admire the results. This body of women and men seems to be earnest and honest, and unselfishly engaged in the doing of good.

AT least fifteen blocks of valuable building property in Galveston, with the twenty buildings thereon, the whole being valued at fully one hundred thousand dollars, have tumbled into the sea within a few months past. It seems that the extension of the south jetty far into the Gulf of Mexico by United States engineers has deflected the coast currents until the waters have eaten their way into the town to the extent, in some places, of two hundred feet. The only remedy lies in the construction of a sea-wall a mile long to connect with the jetty.

THE attention of the postoffice department has been called by the Peruvian government to the frequency of illegibly addressed packages of printed matter mailed to Peru, preventing delivery of the mail. As a remedy the Peruvian postal officials recommend that the addresses on these packages be written not only on the wrapper, but on the article, thus making its delivery possible in case the wrapper is destroyed. In accordance with the suggestion, Superintendent of Foreign Mails Brooks has issued a general order to postmasters directing that public attention be called to the recommendation.

THEY have their troubles and differences down in Tonga just as they do in other places, but they overcome them. News comes from Tonga that the King has deposed Premier Tukuapo and appointed a successor, probably more to his royal liking. Then the rest of the Cabinet walked the official plank. One Secretary, however, showed his displeasure at being discharged by insulting the King and later by firing three shots point blank at his majesty. Overcome with the spirit of remorse, the militant official called at the royal household the following morning and apologized for having been so indiscreet and reassured his sire of his most distinguished consideration. Touched by the expressions of contrition, the King freely granted amnesty to the erring subject. It is a sad commentary on our boasted civilizated that we must go to Tonga for lessons in the sublimity and efficacy of true Christian forgiveness and repentance. But where is Tonga, anyway?

SEVERAL officers from the regular army have been detailed to give instruction in the military drill in the various schools of the country. The idea cannot be too highly commended. It will keep the idle officers of the War Department out of mischief, and it will give the youths in school the best kind of physical exercise and a graceful carriage besides. It is nonsense to say that the military drill fosters a warlike spirit in young men and should therefore not be encouraged. The drill a soldier in the regular army gets of itself fosters nothing but good health, strong, active muscles and a way of walking and carrying one's self that ought to be trained into every young person in America. What is more, the drill ought to be participated in by girls as well as boys in our public and other high schools. It is equally as good for both. Fanny Kemble said she owed her fine, stately carriage and good health to the fact that her mother had herself and sister taught the regular army exercise by a drill sergeant. Secretary Lamont's recommendation on this point is a good one.

A VERY advanced Civil Marriage Bill has been introduced in the Hungarian legislative body, and, having the Emperor's sanction, though he is a devout Catholic, will probably be passed. It deals with all phases of the marriage question, including engagements and divorces, and is intended to be applied to all subjects. It not only makes invalid any contract of marriage not made before the civil registrar, but it imposes a fine of $250 upon any priest of any creed who solemnizes a marriage before the contract has thus been made. The religious ceremony is thus reduced to the standing of a mere work of supererogation. Marriage with a deceased wife's sister, so long wrangled over in England, is permitted. Damages can be claimed for breach of promise. Divorce is relegated exclusively to the civil courts, and may be granted on any of ten distinct grounds, including cruelty, desertion, and incompatibility of temperament—the last named to be decided by the judge. Marriage of a guilty respondent with the co-respondent may be forbidden. And there is a provision, in cases of incompatibility, for a separation for six or twelve months, during which reconciliation is to be attempted through judicial mediation.

AN illustration of the abject devotion of some women to society is related in the New York Sun: A fashionable physician had been called regularly every day to treat a woman who was very popular socially for general debility and exhaustion. She insisted upon dancing until three or four o'clock every morning, and her days were a perpetual round of receptions, lunches and teas. She would not take time for sufficient sleep, and thought that the Doctor could manage to pull her through the season by tonics of various kinds. She insisted upon continuing her social rounds, so he hit upon a plan for reorganizing her day for her, and this she now carries out to the letter. Her day begins at three o'clock in the afternoon instead of ten in the morning. Her rooms are darkened, and nothing is allowed to disturb her rest until three o'clock. Then she takes a tepid bath and is put through a course of massage by a Swedish woman. She is rubbed vigorously and her blood forced into circulation. Then she takes a cup of chocolate, dresses for the afternoon, and at four o'clock steps into her carriage to make her necessary calls. An hour before dinner she lies down again in a darkened room, and, after dinner, she goes at her own pace until three or four o'clock the next morning. The only stipulation the Doctor made was that before going to bed she should drink a pint of milk and eat some graham biscuits. As it is dark at half past four now, she has only about an hour and a half of daylight, but she is going through the season.

Spontaneous Combustion of Arsenic.

It seems that, recently, powdered metallic arsenic, which, in the process of powdering had been moistened with water to prevent dusting, exhibited the capability, not hitherto recorded, of spontaneous combustion, according to an account in a German scientific paper. A quantity of powdered arsenic had been received in a double paper bag, late in the evening, and set aside over night in a basket containing other articles packed in straw and sawdust. On the following morning, upon opening the store, the peculiar garlic-like odor attracted attention to the basket containing the powdered arsenic. An examination disclosed the fact that the arsenic had agglutinated to a solid glowing mass, and that the paper containers had been charred, a portion of the straw being also scorched. A number of bottles in the basket had also burst, owing to the high heat, and upon the charred paper bags were sublimed some beautiful crystals of arsenious oxide. A fire, which probably would have been attributed to some other cause, was in this case averted.—Sun.

CORBETT WAS SWIFT.

MITCHELL IS KNOCKED OUT IN THREE ROUNDS.

The Britisher Gets Jim Mad by Calling Him Names, and Then Has to Submit to an Unmerciful Thrashing—Both Men Arrested.

It's Now Gov. Mitchell's Play.

James J. Corbett, the champion pugilist of the world, defeated Charles Mitchell, the boxing champion of England, in three rounds at Jacksonville, Fla., Thursday, in the presence of 2,500 persons. The fight took place under the auspices of the Duval Athletic Club, and was for a purse of $20,000 together with a side stake of $10,000. Immediately after the battle the contestants were arrested for engaging in a prize fight. And it will not be the fault of Governor Mitchell, of Florida, if the pugilists do not spend some time in confinement as the outcome of the encounter.

GOV. MITCHELL.

Readers have been informed of the vain attempts of Gov. Mitchell to prevent the contest; of the duplicity of the Duval Athletic Club, and of the presence in Jacksonville of the militia. The granting of an injunction to the Duval Athletic Club on Wednesday restraining Sheriff Broward from interfering with their property spiked Gov. Mitchell's last gun, and although a motion to dissolve the injunction was formally entered in Judge Call's court it came to naught, and the State authorities were powerless.

Before entering the ring, when the men came to the center to shake hands, Mitchell applied a coarse epithet to the Californian and the latter refused to shake his hand. As a result the champion lost complete control of himself in the second round and would have fought foully. It took the united efforts of his seconds and the referee to prevent him falling upon Mitchell when he was down on one knee and once or twice he did actually strike Mitchell lightly when in that position.

CORBETT IN HIS FIGHTING CLOTHES.

Jack Dempsey had to slap him in the face half a dozen times to awaken him to the situation and nobody following a strict interpretation of the rules could have complained had Referee Kelly awarded the battle to Mitchell. But Mitchell had nobody at his back who semed capable of comprehending the gravity of the situation, and the battle went on despite the fact that the seconds of Corbett were continually breaking into the ring to control him.

Mitchell seemed like a child in comparison with Corbett, but he gave the champion a good battle, and in the opinion of several good judges had a slight advantage in the first round. He was many pounds lighter than his opponent, and lacked the height and reach of the man from California, who has climbed to the topmost round of the pugilistic ladder and finds himself in the position of Alexander, with no new worlds to conquer. In the second and third rounds Corbett showed his superiority and beat the plucky Englishman into insensibility.

CHARLEY MITCHELL IN THE RING.

After the victory Joe Vendig approached Corbett and suggested that it would be a graceful thing for him to patch up his quarrel with Mitchell. Corbett hung back for a moment and then concluding that the victor could afford to be generous approached his late antagonist and said: "There's my hand, Mitchell, and I'll treasure up no animosity toward you."

Mitchell took the proffered hand and wrung it warmly. "I admit, Corbett," said he, "that I've said some pretty hard things about you, but I've often been misquoted. I give you every credit for winning, and will say that you are the only man that ever whipped me fairly and squarely. I want to apologize for what I said to you in the ring, and hereafter I shall bet on you against all comers."

OFFICERS OF THE DUVAL CLUB.

There was a scattering among those prominently connected with the fight when it became known that the warrants were issued, and each outgoing train carried fugitives

Of International Interest.

All things considered, the battle between James J. Corbett and Charles Mitchell is the most important event in the annals of the prize ring. It marks the turning point in fistic athletics. Corbett belongs to the new scientific boxers, representing perhaps the most advanced ideas in the line of pugilists. Mitchell, while not strictly identified with the old line, received his earliest impressions and much of his earlier training from the old bare-knuckle boxers, and was reared in that fistic atmosphere which was largely responsible for the longevity of the rules of the London prize ring and for the tardiness with which those of the Marquis of Queensberry crept into public favor on either side of the Atlantic. The fact that the champions of England and America consented to an encounter under the latter rules and under the restrictions imposed by the articles of agreement is proof in itself that the new school of pugilism has already crowded the old into the rear.

THE ARENA AT JACKSONVILLE WHERE THE FIGHT TOOK PLACE.

There had been no great event in the prize ring since the defeat of John L. Sullivan by Corbett in September, 1892, and the class and the records, as well as the standing and titles, of the two men gave the contest from the very day that it was first suggested an unusual degree of international importance in sporting circles. Both are young, as years are reckoned nowadays, but they had both been fighting as an occupation almost since they were boys. Mitchell is five years older than Corbett, but he fought his first pitched battle when he was only sixteen years of age, while Corbett was eighteen, and had, perhaps, a longer training than the Englishman prior to "coming out" as a fighter.

HANGED FOR MURDER.

George H. Painter Dies on the Scaffold in Chicago.

George H. Painter was hanged in Chicago Friday morning at 8 o'clock for the murder of Alice Martin. Painter's attorneys made a desperate effort to save his life, and the condemned man was twice reprieved by Gov. Altgeld on the strength of alleged new evidence of his innocence. The Governor, however, finally decided that this evidence was not of sufficient weight to warrant executive interference and the sentence and the law was carried out. A horrible accident attended the execution. When the drop fell the rope broke with a snap and the doomed man sank to the floor with the black cap saturated with blood. Horror-stricken, the attendants rushed forward to where Painter lay gasping. Hurriedly picking him up, they carried him to a chair. The physician made an examination, and found that he had fainted and that life was not extinct. Immediate preparations for a rehanging began and a new rope was put up. It was but the work of a moment to put the new rope in place, and when the trap fell the last time, death speedily ensued.

GEORGE H. PAINTER.

The crime for which Painter suffered the extreme penalty of the law was the murder of Alice Martin, at 86 Green street, on the night of May 7, 1891. The couple lived as man and wife. The murder, which was most brutal in its nature, is shrouded in mystery, which the latest developments in the case have only served to deepen. Only this much is known: At about midnight Painter was seen to enter the house. A short time later he ran down the stairs exclaiming, "My God, some one has killed my Alice!" He rushed in search of the police, who arrived a few minutes later, and going to the room, found Alice Martin dead with the imprint of a strong hand on her throat. Her head was crushed by blows which had evidently been dealt with a chair found lying broken on the floor. The walls and rooms were spattered with blood. Painter was arrested and from that time until his death he strenuously denied his guilt. The evidence upon which he was convicted was purely circumstantial.

STILL FOR REFORM.

WORKINGMEN FAVOR PROPOSED TARIFF REDUCTION.

Idle Mill-Workers Coerced by Manufacturers Into Signing Petitions Against the Wilson Bill—The People Want an Income Tax—Congressional Idiots.

Workingmen Still for Tariff Reform.

That the elections of 1890 and 1892, and not the anti-Wilson bill petitions and postal cards, "suggested" and paid for by unselfish and disinterested manufacturers, expressed the real sentiments of our working population, is evident to all who are intimate with the facts in each case. Here are a few instances:

Coerced by the manufacturers, many of the idle mill workers in Kensington (Philadelphia), the largest textile district in this country, signed a petition against the Wilson bill. That these petitions misrepresent the sentiments of the workers is seen from the fact that the manufacturers of Kensington cannot get more than 100 or 200 workers to attend their widely advertised meetings, while the Kensington Reform Club (tariff reform) can get more than 1,000 out to its meetings. Those who are on the ground and know the conditions in the textile district in and around Providence, R. I., report a similar reluctance on the part of the workers there to accept the ready-made conclusions of the manufacturers—except when their jobs are at stake.

Similar reports come from Troy and Amsterdam, N. Y., in spite of the fact that more than two-thirds of the population of these cities is alleged to have signed anti-Wilson bill petitions. The truth is that rebellion is rife in the ranks of the workers, and the combined power of all the capital of all the captains of industry is not sufficient to prevent serious outbreaks.

More evidence comes from Paterson, N. J. By deft manipulation of the silk and other workers there, the opinions of those who favored the Wilson bill were held in abeyance while reports were sent broadcast that the sentiment of the workers had turned and was dead against tariff reform. The tender-skinned representative from this Congressional district, like several others in New Jersey Democrats, so called—got scared and climbed over on the other side of the fence from the Wilson bill, and began to swear back at it, thinking his constituents were applauding. It really looked bad for tariff reform in the vicinity of Paterson. A few Democrats, more bold than the others, concluded that they would try to hold a meeting if they could get an outsider to agree to sacrifice himself to the mob that would probably attempt to lynch any Cobden Club emissary who should present himself. Thomas G. Shearman, of Brooklyn, was willing to take his chances. He describes the meeting as one of the most successful he ever addressed. Between 2,000 and 3,000 people—mostly mill operatives—packed the theater and many stood for three hours listening and applauding the good points of Mr. Shearman's radical speech, and of his replies to the many questions asked. Their pent up tariff reform sentiments found vent in loud cheers, and the meeting was literally a "howling success." Leading local "Democrats" who had remained "behind the scenes" during the meeting stepped out at its close to congratulate the speaker and express their surprise at the success of the meeting.

All of which goes to show that the tariff reform back-sliders are amongst the machine politicians who fear the opposition of their wealthy constituents, or who are incapable of holding opinions, or of estimating opinions of their hard-working constituents, and not amongst the workers themselves. —B. W. H.

Tom Johnson's Great Speech.

Congressman Tom L. Johnson, of Ohio, is perhaps, the most radical free trader in Congress, and yet no speech of the session has been listened to by more members and more liberally applauded by all. Republicans applauded him for his logic, courage and frank non-partisan criticisms; Democrats for his clear presentation of sound economic and Democratic doctrine. As a manufacturer of steel rails, Mr. Johnson produced indisputable evidence of a new steel rail trust or pool, which will have, in the Wilson bill, all of the protection it will care to use. We quote a part of Mr. Johnson's speech referring to steel rails:

Take steel rails, of which I happen to know something, as I am a manufacturer of steel rails. I appeal to the Democrats of the House to join me in putting steel rails on the free list. The present duty on steel rails is $13.44 per ton, which is estimated to be equivalent to 50.44 per cent. ad valorem. The committee have reduced this to 25 per cent. This seems like a great reduction. But it is only nominal, for 25 per cent. is all the steel rail trust want. It is as good to them as 1,000 per cent., for it is practically a prohibitory duty.

Steel can be made here as cheaply as anywhere else in the world, and would not now be imported, save in exceptional cases, even if there were no duty; while the tendency of invention and improvement is in favor of the United States as against Europe. The steel made into rails in this country is from native ore. What pig metal, billets, and blooms are imported are used entirely in other iron and steel manufactures. Now it costs less than $2 a ton to make steel rails from blooms, including straightening and punching. On to-day's market steel blooms are selling at less than $17; steel rails should therefore not bring over $19. They did fall to that price a few weeks ago, during a temporary break in the steel rail pool. But that pool was quickly reorganized, and the price of steel rails was put up and is now maintained at $24 a ton; so that by virtue of the duty which keeps out foreign rails, the pool is compelling the users of steel rails to pay them 25 per cent. more than a fair price.

Mr. Dalzell.—Does the gentleman speak now from the attitude of a steel-rail manufacturer?

Mr. Johnson of Ohio.—I do. My mill makes about one-thirtieth of all that are produced in the United States.

This new steel-rail pool is composed of seven manufacturers, headed by Carnegie, who absolutely control the product of more than one-half of the rolled steel produced in the United States, and who have combined together to pay other large manufacturers heavy annual sums to close their works, discharge their men, and make no steel.

Now, observe, the 25 per cent. duty of the committee's bill is just as good to the steel rail pool as the greater nominal duty of the existing law, and will enable the pool to keep the price up to the highest point that they deem safe. For, with a duty of 25 per cent. ad valorem, steel rails can not be imported from Europe and sold in competition with the pool at $24 a ton, the highest price it now chooses to ask. So that the nominal reduction made by the committee is actually no reduction at all. It will not add 1 cent to the income of the Government. It will not reduce 1 cent the price of steel to American users of steel rails, and it will not diminish by 1 cent the profits of the Carnegie pool. Hence Carnegie's satisfaction, expressed the other day, when about to sail. It is true that if the proposed reduction had come earlier it would have been of some benefit to the American consumer, for the present duty of $13.44 a ton enabled the steel-rail pool up to a recent time to keep the price of steel rails higher still. But a greater internal competition, caused by reductions in the cost of production, has of itself compelled them to come down to $24 a ton, and a duty of 25 per cent. will enable them to maintain that price as snugly as does the McKinley law.

Mr. Dalzell—Is the gentleman a party to the steel-rail trust?

Mr. Johnson of Ohio—I am not; but whether I am or not would make no difference. Outside of this hall, as a steel manufacturer, I might be perfectly willing to enter a trust, but I will not defend trusts here.

Congressional Idiots.

Reports of Duns and Bradstreets indicate a slight improvement in business and a gradual better tone indicating that the business scare is giving away to confidence. The actions of a lot of congressional idiots for some mere partisan advantage in delaying action upon the tariff bill is only adding to the business confusion and uncertainty. The people of this country are fast becoming educated on political economy, and demagogues may rant and rave in their efforts to fool them, but it is a waste of wind. The average laboring man knows that under the McKinley bill wages have been steadily decreasing, with strikes, lock outs and starvation following in its train. They have been compelled to take the manufacturers' cut in wages or accept alms. They are not bound to accept either where they have organizations to sustain them. One good well managed labor organization is of more benefit to the laboring classes than all the tariff bills they could pass for the next thirty years. In times like these organization is required and toiling classes cannot be cemented too closely. Organize by all means. Unite and protect yourselves.—National Glass Budget.

The Cry of the Starch Trust.

The Oswego Times publishes the following under the head "Oswego Starch Factory":

Thomas Kingsford said that the Wilson bill will be very detrimental to the starch business of this country, as it cuts the duty from 2 cents a pound to 1 cent a pound, and 1 cent will not be enough to protect the American industry against European cheap labor.

The official reports, which show the quantity and value of the products exported from this country, are not pasted on every sign post, and the number of citizens who know what these reports say are small. Consequently we presume that many worthy persons can be induced to believe that a reduction of the duty on starch from 2 cents to 1 a pound (or from 84.38 to 42.19 per cent.) will expose manufacturers in this country to the "ruinous" competition of "European cheap labor."

It is shown by the treasury reports that the exports and imports of starch in the last two years were as follows:

	Imports.		Exports.
Year.	Pounds.	Value.	Pounds.	Value.
1892	1,990,975	$51,806	20,081,027	$612,531
1893	3,765,596	89,249	21,938,456	907,003

It appears, then, that the manufacturers of starch in this country export more than 20,000,000 pounds a year. This starch they sell in all quarters of the globe, in open competition with the starch of other lands, and without the assistance of the duty of 84 per cent., which they need, they say, for defense against the foreign starch here at home. One-half of the present duty, or 42 per cent., "will not be enough," they assert, to protect the industry here "against European cheap labor." How are they able to overcome the same "European cheap labor" when they sell starch in Europe, at the very doors of the European manufacturers, with the protection of no duty whatever? The official reports show that the greater part of the 20,000,000 pounds exported was sold in Europe—in the Netherlands, England, Belgium, Germany and other countries. The American manufacturers who are protected here by a duty of 84 per cent. undersold the products of "European cheap labor" in the very places where that labor is employed, and they did this not only without the help of a tariff tax designed to increase the price of the foreign starch, but also under the handicap of ocean freight charges. Do not these reports indicate that they need here at home no tariff duty whatever?

And now let us see what the Treasury statements say about prices. There was a small quantity of starch imported last year—about $90,000 worth. Our table shows that the value of this starch was 2.37 cents a pound before the duty was paid, and the addition of the duty would make the cost 4.37 cents. On the other hand, it is shown that the value of the American starch when exported was 3.22 cents a pound. If the American manufacturers can lay down starch at our seaports for shipment to Europe at 3.22 cents, why was this foreign starch sold here, the cost of it at the domestic seaport being 4.37 cents?

We presume that those who have had dealings with the starch trust could answer this question. It is well known that immediately after that trust was made the price of American starch to American consumers was largely increased. The sale of foreign starch here at an average cost of 4.37 cents, while the domestic manufacturers were shipping millions of pounds to Europe at a declared value of only 3.22 cents, suggests the explanation that the Trust was selling to the foreigner at prices much lower than those which it exacted from the people here who had given it "protection."

The complaint of the starch manufacturers that a duty of 42 per cent. is not sufficient to protect them here at home "against European cheap labor" is absurd enough, when the export record is considered, to provoke a broad smile on the face of our almost boundless cornfields.—New York Times.

The Income Tax.

If Congress carries out the wishes of the country it will adopt an income tax. Some persons with big incomes are bitterly oppose to it, but the masses of the people believe it to be right and want it put on.

Great Britain has an income tax, and it works well. It was first established in 1793. This tax was repealed in 1816, but Sir Robert Peel, the greatest of political retormers, revived it in 1842 to meet a deficiency in the government's revenues, and under conditions very similar to those which are now upon us. For more than fifty years this tax has been levied. In 1874 Mr. Gladstone talked about repealing it, but though he was then Prime Minister he could not carry it through. The tax is now considered part of the fixed policy of Great Britain. In 1893 it yielded a revenue of more than $69,000,000 and hurt nobody.

Give us a Federal income tax!—Atlanta Journal.

Uncle Sam's Postoffice Pussies.

Some 300 and odd cats are maintained by the United States Government, the cost of their support being carried as a regular item on the accounts of the postoffice department. These cats are distributed among about fifty postoffices, and their duty is to keep rats and mice from eating and destroying postal matter and canvas mail sacks. Their work is of the utmost importance wherever large quantities of mail are collected, as, for example, at the New York postoffice, where from 2,000 to 3,000 bags of mail matter are commonly stored away in the basement.

For the Queen's Birthday.

In honor of the celebration of the 69th birthday of the Queen Regent of China 1,200,000 pieces of red silk, each forty feet long and three feet wide, were ordered to be made in the imperial mills of Nanking, Soo-Chow-Foo, and Hang-Chow-Foo. With these the streets of Pekin are to be decorated for a distance of forty miles.

THE Montgomery Advertiser (Dem.) says: "Business will open up as soon as the President signs a new tariff bill. Men who stand in the way of this great result will be remembered by those with whose interests they trifle."

ENGLAND expects every man to do his duty.—Nelson. This was the famous signal made from the flag-ship just before the battle of Trafalgar.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

SOBER OR STARTLING, FAITHFULLY RECORDED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes.

Condensed State News.

EX-JUDGE FRANK EMERSON, 80, died at Brownstown, after a long illness.

GEO. T. OGDEN, one of the oldest and best known citizens of Kokomo, is dead.

A FINE flow of the highest grade of lubricating oil was struck in a well at Royal Center.

MRS. ELIZABETH WAHL, wife of a prominent farmer near Evansville, dropped dead in the stable.

THERE are 456 pupils in the Home for the Feeble-mined at Fort Wayne, the largest number in the Home's history.

THE large slack stave factory at Rothersville, owned by Wilson Hyatt, was partly destroyed by fire. Loss, $2,000.

WILLIAM BRYANT, a coal miner, was run over by a switch engine at Evansville, and instantly killed. His body was horribly mutilated.

JAMES CRAFORD, living five miles north of French Creek, met with an accident that is thought to be fatal. While cutting logs a large limb fell, striking him on the head, fracturing his skull and also breaking his leg.

THE libel suit for $5,000 damages against the South Bend Tribune brought by O. D. Myers, a barber, was decided in favor of the defendant. The Tribune published a statement that Charles Garwood had been poisoned in Myers' shop by the use of a lotion.

HENRY A. MILLER, while employed in the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern shops at Elkhart, recently, had an arm so badly injured by the flying pieces of a broken planer that it was necessary to amputate the member. He has brought suit against the railway company for $10,000 damages.

AT Muncie, a Walnut street electric car struck Mrs. William Patterson, wife of the Western Union telegraph office. She was in feeble health, and is believed to be fatally injured. She was knocked several feet and was picked up unconscious. She was going home from church, and two other women with her had a narrow escape.

SENATOR JOHN YARGAN died at his home in Richmond, at the advanced age of 92 years. Mr. Yargan served in the last State Senate, and was probably the oldest legislator in the country. He was born in Tennessee, and came to Wayne County, Indiana, in 1813. He served many terms in the State Legislature in the early days of the State, and was the author in Indiana of the law which gave the women the right to own property and to make a will. Mr. Yargan's illness was brief.

JUDGE KOONS, of the Delaware Circuit Court, has decided that the Barrett law, enabling street improvements to be made with a series of ten years in which to pay the assessments if over $50, is constitutional. The question was tried on complaint of the Heekin Land Syndicate of Cincinnati, the syndicate alleging that the class legislation part of the law made it unconstitutional. By the decision Muncie will get a large sum of money due from this source.

IN the Jackson Circuit Court, William Greer was fined $50 and given a six months' sentence in the County Jail for discharging a double-barreled shotgun into a party of friends with whom he was hunting, and who desired to return home, while Greer insisted on remaining in the woods. As the party was driving away Greer fired, wounding William Wilson, Trim Wilson, Jake Loertz, and John Firman. The shooting was over a year ago, and the case has been put off from time to time.

FRANCIS MURPHY, the temperance evangelist, closed a two weeks' series of temperance meetings at Dunkirk, and the outcome is nearly one thousand more signers to the Murphy pledge. Fully two-thirds of the large number of glass workers there have taken the pledge, and the visit of the Murphys to Dunkirk will long be remembered. A Murphy society has been organized and over $100 subscribed to its support. Mr. Murphy was ably assisted by his son William, who is also a very forcible speaker.

AT times for several months obstructions have been placed upon the Indianapolis and Vincennes Railway tracks just west of Martinsville. On Dec. 29 a tie laid across the rails wrecked an engine. On Jan. 16 a large stone was found on the track about the same place. Obstructions have several times been seen on the tracks and removed by farmers residing near. The Pennsylvania Railway detective has been working on the case for several weeks, and the other day he had Henry Murphy placed in jail to answer to the charge. Several young farmers are implicated. Perry Morrison is said to have made a confession.

A LARGE part of Maumee Township, Allen County, bordering on the Ohio State line, is in a wilderness, but is of excellent farming land and easily and profitably cultivated when once cleared. Several sections of this land belong to the estate of the late Hon. Joseph K. Edgerton, and the other day a big deal was closed whereby a colony of progressive Amish farmers purchased 1,200 acres of this land for $15,600, being $13 an acre. The colony is composed of eighteen families from Allen and Adams Counties, Indiana; Allen, Fulton, and Putnam Counties, Ohio, and Tazewell County, Illinois. They will commence to fell timber and will clear a large part of their purchase money from that source. They expect to have half of their land cleared ready for use next spring.

WARDEN FRENCH of the State Prison North, wants the State Board of Charities to frame a bill and recommend its passage by the next Legislature, providing for classifying the convicts in the Indiana prisons into three grades, the system at present used in Ohio and other States. It has been stated in the papers that Mr. French proposed doing this, but he writes to Secretary Bicknell, of the State Board, that the construction of the prison makes it impossible just now to successfully carry out such a system, which, however, he regards as an admirable thing and one that should be adopted in this State.

PATENTS have been issued to Indiana inventors as follows: George A. Foster and C. E. Hoffman, New Albany, dental plugger; John C. Groseclose, Bargersville, fence; Elijah Hays, Warsaw, nut lock; vehicle brake and car coupling; Charles M. Kiler, assignor of one-half to S. E. Urmston, Indianapolis, fence post; Henry F. Kuhlmann, assignor to E. Kuhlmann and J. R. Barth, Indianapolis, split pulley; Daniel A. Marmon, assignor to the Nordyke & Marmon Company, Indianapolis, return air purifier; Jas. T. Mathews, Shelbyville, wrench; Arthur J. F. Mill, Aurora, radial drill; Cyrus P. Reist, Lebanon, support for fence post; Milton S. Smith, Rolling Prairie, rail fence.

1,410 BUS. POTATOES PER ACRE.

This astonishing yield was reported by Abr. Hahn, of Wisconsin, but Salzer's potatoes always get there. The editor of the Rural New-Yorker reports a yield of 736 bushels and 8 pounds per acre from one of Salzer's early potatoes. Above 1,410 bushels are from Salzer's new seedling Hundredfold. His new early potato, Lightning Express, has a record of 803 bushels per acre. He offers potatoes as low as $2.50 a barrel, and the best potato planter in the world for but $2.

If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with 5c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive free his mammoth potato catalogue and a package of sixteen-day "Get There, Eli," radish.

"AND what," asked the young woman who is sometimes facetious, "is the rank of the individual who brings up the rear with a bucket and a tin cup?" "Oh," replied the member of the militia, without hesitation, "he is a lemonade de camp."

$4 to California.

This is our sleeping car rate on the Phillips-Rock Island Tourist Excursions from Chicago to Los Angeles or San Francisco, via the scenic route and Ogden. You can go with Phillips, the best of all excursion managers, for he has each party accompanied by a special agent who goes the entire trip with patrons. These personally conducted excursions leave Chicago twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday.

We have also a daily tourist car service, via our Southern route, through the beautiful Indian Territory and Fort Worth to Los Angeles and San Francisco. The tourist car rate via this route, the same. Apply at Rock Island ticket office, 104 Clark street. John Sebastian, G. P. A., C., R. I. & P. Ry., Chicago.

MOTHER—Did you thank the gentleman who carried you across the crowded street? Wee Son—I tried to, but I didn't know what to say—the words wouldn't come somehow; but I guess it's all right, 'cause my dog wagged his tail enough for both of us.

Asthma Cured

By Schiffmann's Asthma Cure. No waiting for results. Its action is immediate, direct and certain. A single trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50 cents and $1, of druggists or by mail. Trial package free by mail. Send your address to Dr. R. Schiffmann, St. Paul, Minn.

DR. PERKINS SOONOVER was called on to attend Hostetter McGinnis, who complained of a pain in his chest. "That's dyspepsia you've got," said the doctor. "What does that come from?" "Dyspepsia? That comes from Greek."

SUDDEN CHANGES OF WEATHER cause Throat Disease. There is no more effectual remedy for Coughs, Colds, etc., than BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cts.

"ATE hours per day," is what the walking delegate braggs of having done.

See "Colchester" Spading Boot ad. in other column.

IS THE man who sits behind an attenuated livery stable hack a screw driver.

What is more fascinating than a complexion tinted like the rarest seashell and purified by the use of Glenn's Sulphur Soap?

STANDARD WORKS—The flag makers'.

Carbuncles Large as Hen's Eggs!

Mrs. NANNIE GOULDMAN, of Beulahville, King William Co., Va., writes as follows: "For about eight or ten years my father, Col. T. U. Fogg, of West Point, Va., was laid up with carbuncles, the worst that I ever saw. He tried everything he heard of, his doctor could do nothing for him. Had six or seven carbuncles at a time, as large as hen's eggs. He got so weak and suffered so much he could not walk a step. In 1872 he had his bed put in the middle of his room and got on it to die. No one expected him to get well. He saw Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advised for all blood disorders. Before he had taken half a bottle of 'Discovery' they began to go away. Two bottles entirely cured him. He is now 75 years old, and enjoys good health."

COL. T. U. FOGG.

PIERCE GUARANTEES A CURE

OR MONEY IS REFUNDED.

DR. KILMER'S

SWAMP-ROOT

CURED ME.

La Grippe! Grippe! Grippe! After Effects Cured.

Mr. Bilger writes:—"I had a bad attack of the Grippe; after a time caught cold and had a second attack. It settled in my Kidneys and Liver and Oh! such pain and misery in my back and legs! The physicians' medicine and other things that I used made no impression, and I continually grew worse until I was a Physical wreck and given up to die. Father bought me a bottle of Dr. Kilmer's SWAMP-ROOT, and before I had used all of the second bottle I felt better, and to-day I am just as well as ever. A year has passed and not a trace of the Grippe is left.

Swamp-Root Saved My Life.

D. H. BILGER, Hulmeville, Pa., Jan. 10th, 1893.

At Druggists 50 cents and $1.00 size.

"Invalids' Guide to Health" free—Consultation free. Dr. Kilmer & Co., - Binghamton, N. Y.

Dr. Kilmer's PARILLA LIVER PILLS Are the Best 42 Pills, 25 cents. — All Druggists.

NICKEL PLATE.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R.

SOLID THROUGH TRAINS

BUFFALO & CHICAGO.

LOWEST RATES.

THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address

A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. B. P. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CINCINNATI.

Ely's Cream Balm

Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Restores the Sense of Taste and Smell. Heals the Sores.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMS & SON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

GOLD or SILVER easily found with MAGNETIC ROCK. For particulars address M. D. FOWLER, Box 297, SOUTHINGTON, CONN.

BONDS ARE ALL RIGHT

SECRETARY CARLISLE SAYS THEY WILL BE LEGAL.

Foreigners in the Pennsylvania Mines Attack Their English-Speaking Fellows—Drive Them from Work and Destroy Much Valuable Property.

Makes Public Statement.

John G. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury, has made public the following statement:

It has been erroneously published in some newspapers that the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives had agreed to and reported a resolution denying the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue and sell bonds, as proposed in his recent circular, and these publications have evidently made an unfavorable impression upon the minds of some who contemplated making bids for these securities. The only resolution in relation to this subject that has been before the committee is as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the House of Representatives that the Secretary of the Treasury has no authority under existing law to issue and sell bonds of the United States except such as is conferred upon him by the act approved Jan. 14, 1875, entitled, 'an act to provide for the resumption of specie payments,' and that the money derived from the sale of bonds issued under that act cannot be lawfully applied to any purpose except those specified therein."

It will be seen that this resolution assumed that the authority to issue bonds was conferred upon the Secretary of the Treasury by the act of Jan. 14, 1875, and that such authority still exists; but it asserts that the proceeds of the bonds can not be lawfully used except for the purpose of resumption. The official telegraphic report of the proceedings in the committee when the Secretary appeared before it last Thursday shows that his authority to issue bonds was not questioned by any member, the only question being whether he could use the proceeds for any other purpose than the redemption of United States notes. Mr. Bailey, the author of the resolution, distinctly admitted the existence of the authority. Addressing the Secretary Mr. Bailey said: "The resolution does not impeach your right to issue bonds; it expressly recognizes it, but questions your right to apply the proceeds to any purpose except those specified in the act." The Judiciary Committee of the House examined and reported upon this same question during the Third Congress, and it then conceded that the authority existed under the act of 1875. The question as to the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to use the money in any particular manner or for any particular purpose is wholly distinct from the question as to his authority to issue and sell bonds. No matter what he may do with the money the validity of the bonds will not be affected and there is, therefore, no reason why any one should hesitate to invest in those securities on the ground that the proceeds might possibly be used for other than redemption purposes.

ANGRY MINERS RIOT.

One of Them Fatally Wounded and Several Are Badly Hurt.

A wave of anarchy in whose train followed bloodshed, arson, and the destruction of property passed over the Mansfield, Pa., coal region the other day. It began at dawn and at dusk it was estimated that $200,000 worth of property had been destroyed. Made mad by fancied grievances and liquor, a mob of several hundred foreigners—Hungarians, Slavs and Italians—swept over the county surrounding Mansfield and through the valleys of Toms and Painters run. They attacked mine owners, miners, and a few scattered deputy sheriffs, and destroyed railroad property.

Until noon the mob met hardly any resistance. At that time it reached the mines of the Beadling Bros., near Federal, on the Pittsburg, Chartiers and Youghiogheny Railroad. Here the rioters met determined resistance and were checked. With repeating Winchester rifles in their hands, Thomas F., William and Henry Beadling stood their ground and opened fire upon the mob as it advanced. They fired four volleys in quick succession, fatally wounding one and injuring a half-dozen others. The man fatally wounded was Frank Stahle, a Frenchman. He was shot through the body. The names of the other men injured could not be learned. After the fourth volley the rioters turned and fled precipitately down the hill. At this moment a train bearing Sheriff Richards and forty deputies pulled into Beadling and the officers, quickly alighting, started in pursuit of the rioters, firing as they ran. The chase was a long and hot one, but finally sixteen were overtaken and captured. They were marched to the Mansfield jail at the point of revolvers. On the way the party was met by a posse of citizens of Bridgeville, under command of Squire Cashe Meyers. They will be held for riot and arson.

As a result of the fighting it is stated that a demand will be made by the citizens of the Mansfield region that the coal operators discharge all foreigners now in their employ, and hereafter hire none but American workingmen. To avoid similar trouble in the future it is thought this course will be necessary.

BAD YEAR FOR FARMERS.

Report of the Agricultural Department Is Not Encouraging.

In the report of the Agricultural Department the total value of the corn crop for 1893 is placed at $591,625,627, and although the crop is only about 9,000,000 bushels less than that of 1892 its money value on the farm is $50,500,000 less. The value per acre is $8.21, the lowest figure for ten years, except for the years of 1886 and 1889. The falling off in the wheat crop for the year is even more marked. The total product, as estimated, amounts to 396,131,725 measured bushels, which falls below the average for the ten years 1880 to 1889 to the amount of 53,563,364 bushels, and is 84,648,956 bushels less than the average crop for the years 1890 to 1893, inclusive. There has also been a fall in the price of wheat, so that the farm value of the crop is estimated at no more than $213,171,381, which is believed to be the lowest ever recorded. The crop of oats in 1893 was 22,180,150 bushels less than in 1892, and the farm value was $21,677,519 less. The report also shows a corresponding decrease in the crop of potatoes, rye and barley, not alone in the production but in the price.

MONEY FOR PENSIONS.

A Total of $151,581,570 Asked For, and Will Be Allowed.

The appropriation bill for pensions has been reported to the House by the Committee on Appropriations. There were no surprises in the recommendations, although material reductions from the expenditures of last year were made in the bill. The total amount recommended for pension expenses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, is $151,581,570, which is practically in accordance with the last revised estimates of the Commissioner of Pensions. The total is $14,949,780 less than the appropriation for the fiscal year of 1894, which was $166,531,350, but is more than the sum applied for pensions in any year before 1893, when the amount was $160,581,787, including deficiencies. In detail the expenditures recommended by the commission are for payment of pensions, $150,000,000; fees of examining surgeons, $1,000,000; salaries of agents, $72,000; clerk hire at agencies, $450,000; miscellaneous, $69,570.

The commissioner's original estimate, based on the operations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, were $162,631,570, but revision reduced them about $10,000,000. The business of the first six months of the year showed a great falling off in the number of new pensions granted and of arrears. Navy pensions are to be paid so far as possible from the income of the navy pension fund. Some minor amendments are made a part of the bill. One provides that each member of an examining board shall receive $2 for each applicant when five or less are examined on one day, and $1 for each additional applicant. When more than twenty appear no fewer than twenty are to be examined in a day. No fees are to be paid to examiners not present and assisting in examinations. The amount of clerk hire for each agency is to be apportioned as nearly as practicable in proportion to the number of pensioners paid at the agency.

Commissioner Lochren's recommendations, which the bill follows, showed that the amount of first payments for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, was $33,766,549, and first payments for the six months of the present fiscal year $4,769,310.43. The number of pensioners on the rolls Dec. 31 last was but 130 more than on the first of July. The number of cases pending is 711,150.

KILLED ROBBING HIMSELF.

Georgia Tax Collector Assumes the Guise of a Negro Thief and Is Shot.

A sensational story has been received from Union County, Ga. Tax Collector Jones, who lives in the wilds of Cooper's Creek, returned on Saturday from a tour of the county collecting taxes. In the evening a peddler well known in that locality stopped at his house, asked for lodging, and was taken in. After supper Jones went out to look after his cattle. While he was gone a disreputable-looking negro knocked at the front door, and when it was opened stuck two pistols into the faces of the peddler and Mrs. Jones. He first demanded the peddler's money, and getting that made Mrs. Jones bring the tax money. As he got it he turned to go out, when the peddler quickly drew a pistol and firing struck the robber in the head, killing him instantly. It was then discovered that the would-be robber was none other than the tax collector himself, blacked up.

SAT ON THE WOULD-BE ROBBER.

John Dalton Conceals Himself Inside a Stuffed Buffalo.

A train-robber named John Dalton was captured by one of the Northwestern express messengers beyond Deadwood, S. D. Dalton had himself expressed on the inside of a stuffed buffalo, but his game was spoiled by his removing one of the animal's glass eyes, through the socket of which he stuck a six-shooter, covering the messenger. The latter, however, got out of range and leaped upon the back of the stuffed animal. The back caved in and he dropped upon the robber inside, and sat on him until the next station was reached, when he was turned over to the authorities. The safe contained $50,000. Evidently Dalton had confederates, who were to act at his signal. They have not been apprehended.

THOUSANDS VISIT THE FAIR.

The Paid Attendance at the San Francisco Show Reaches 60,000.

Official figures from the Midwinter Fair headquarters show that 72,248 people passed through the turnstiles Saturday, the opening day. Of this number over 60,000 paid the regular admission fee of 50 cents. So far there has been little or no agitation to close the fair Sunday and everything on the grounds is wide open on that day. In the management of concessionaires and the general conduct of the exhibition there was nothing to distinguish Sunday from any other day, and though chaos still reigns in Machinery Hall and all of the exhibits in other buildings are still in a state of disorder thousands of people on last Sunday afternoon visited the grounds.

BANDITS ROB A SILVER TRAIN.

Kill the Foreman and Get Possession of Much Valuable Ore.

The authorities at Durango, Mexico, were notified of a desperate murder and robbery committed about eighty miles west of there in the Sierra Madre mountains, the perpetrators being a band of brigands led by the notorious outlaw, Francisco Reiseda. A mule train loaded with silver ore from the Santa Maria mine was on its way to the reducing works when the bandits made an attack upon the guards, killing the foreman, Jose Nillareel, who attempted to offer resistance. The other guards fled, leaving the burros with their precious cargoes in possession of the bandits, who drove the animals to their rendezvous in the mountains. A force of troops will be sent in pursuit of the robbers.

LOCOMOTIVE AND SNOW PLOW.

Strike a Broken Rail, Throwing the Crew Over an Embankment.

A severe wind and snow storm prevailed at Como, Col., for thirty-six hours. Trains on the Union Pacific high line are blocked. The rotary snow plow, pushed by two engines, struck a broken rail near Como and the plow and one of the locomotives went over the embankment, rolling over three times and landing about 150 feet from the track. Engineer Stowe, Conductor Reed, and Firemen Kalahar, Evans, and Mordan received severe injuries.

CAMPBELL HAS A BEE.

May Run for Governor in '95, with an Eye on the White House.

Ex-Gov. Campbell's friends have stated that he will be an active candidate for Governor in '95, with a view to securing the Presidential nomination in 1896. It is claimed by these friends that the machinery of the administration is behind the movement, and the fact that Campbell dictated all the federal appointments in Ohio is quoted in support of this claim.

Telegraphic Clicks.

THIRTY-EIGHT 4-year olds won 383 races and earned $342,780 last season, Lamplighter leading.

ALL the Danbury, Conn., hat factories are to reopen. Six of the number will employ union men.

AMERICAN Minister Smythe is said to have made himself objectionable at Hayti by giving advice to the officials.

ADDITIONAL advices say that 12,000 lives were lost in the earthquake which destroyed the city of Kuchan, Persia.

THE financial ruin of ex-Governor Campbell is attributed by his Hamilton, Ohio, neighbors to his political ambition.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE BIERER took the oath of office as Judge of the District Court at Guthrie, O. T., and appointed John Havighorst his clerk.

IT had been planned to raid gambling houses at Muncie, Ind., and burn the paraphernalia, but the gamblers moved their property out of the city.

MRS. DAVID REYNOLDS, wife of a settler in the Cherokee Strip, near Ponca, died from drinking water from a spring supposed to have been poisoned by sooners.

THE body of Frank Kramer, ex-cashier of the Bank of Lawrence, and later of the Bank of Wekanda, Mo., was found at Lawrence, Kan. He had evidently been murdered.

Was It Wrong?

Speaking of millionaires reminds me of policemen, who are also of our conquerors. This little story, whose sadness is not wholly sad, comes from a Western city which had suffered severely during the present financial stringency.

A grocer in one of the poorer quarters of the town was accosted one day by a man who asked if he would let him have a sack of flour and trust him for payment until he found work again. The grocer refused. Going out to the front of his shop a few minutes later he found the man no longer in sight and one of the sacks of flour piled up outside was missing. Summoning the nearest policeman he described the man and his application.

"I think I know who he is," said the officer. "I'll have him for you in a jiffy."

On arriving at the house of the man, whom, from the description, he suspected of the theft, the policeman walked in without knocking. The tell-tale sack of flour was standing on a table in the center of the room and the family was gathered around it. They had not waited to untie, much less to cook it, but armed with spoons had fallen ravenously upon the sack and, making holes in the sides, were eating the dry flour. The man turned white to his lips at the sight of the officer.

The policeman looked and hesitated. Suddenly a bright idea occurred to him.

"Does John Smith live here?"

The man shook his head.

"Do you know where he does live?"

No one knew.

"That's all right. Perhaps I can find out next door. It's John Smith I want," and the officer of the law retreated. Returning to the grocery, he asked the price of the flour, and paid it and related the scene.

"And I will be d——d," he concluded, lowering his voice reverentially as might one who had trodden unawares upon sacred ground, "if I am going to arrest that man."—Kate Field's Washington.

A Relentless Creditor.

A creditor seldom goes so far as to seize a coffin about to be carried to the grave. But this happened in the open street in Berlin a few days ago, and created considerable excitement and great indignation. A cabinetmaker's wagon had just stopped in front of a house near the Alexander platz in the German capital with a coffin for the wife of a locomotive engineer who had died. As the coffin was about to be borne into the house an official of the Court appeared, placed his seal upon the oaken box, and ordered it transferred to the Berlin pawn office. The official had acted on behalf of a relentless creditor. The engineer pleaded in vain for the coffin. The record failed to say whether he succeeded in getting another.

A Milwaukee Man's Interesting Relic.

Dr. Thomas L. Jones, a physician who came to Milwaukee from Pekin, China, possesses, among many other curios, a copy of the Pekin Gazette, the oldest newspaper in the world. It has been published continuously since about the year 1000 A. D. The paper is of the size and shape of a railway folder, and the news published in it relates entirely to the courts, the edicts of the Emperor and government affairs in general. In fact, it is really the official gazette of the Chinese court, though it is published as a matter of private enterprise. Dr. Jones also has some very rare old Chinese coins, including one that dates from about the year 2700 B. C.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Covering the Bamboo Lounge.

The bamboo lounge, so cool in summer, with its graceful twistings and turnings, has a cheerless look in winter, unless tastefully covered and piled high with gray, soft cushions. The latest material is the durable corduroy—the seat and back tufted and corded like a mattress and made in three sections. Brown seems a favorite although (like its less expensive rival, the denim) it is now presented in a variety of colors. A peculiar deep red gives a cheerful bright effect to a room, whether in the daytime or by artificial light at evening.

Man's Inhumanity to Himself.

The most inhuman outrages, outrages which would disgrace the savage, man perpetrates upon his own system by swallowing drastic purgatives which convulse his stomach, agonize his intestines and weaken his system. Many people constantly do this under the impression that medicaments only which are violent in their action, and particularly cathartics, are of any avail. Irreparable injury to health is wrought under this mistaken idea. The laxative which most nearly approaches the beneficent action of nature is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is painless but thorough, and invigorates the intestinal canal instead of weakening and irritating it. The liver and the stomach share in the benign discipline instituted by this comprehensive medicine, whose healthful influence is felt throughout the system. Malarious, rheumatic, kidney and nervous complaints succumb to it.

Eagle Licked by a Coyote.

While coming across Combs flat recently, W. C. Plummer of Prineville, witnessed an exciting fight between an eagle and a coyote. The eagle had caught a rabbit and the coyote undertook to take it away from him. The eagle defended his prey manfully for some time, but the coyote was too much for him, and finally got away with the rabbit, but not until after the eagle had clawed several handfuls of hair out of his back and left him somewhat disfigured.—Portland Oregonian.

A SUMMERY proceeding—A rise in the mercury.

BEECHAM'S PILLS, the certain cure for biliousness and sick headache, are pleasantly coated and nice to take. Price 25c.

A BUTTON hole cutter—The man who refuses to be interviewed.

Are your lungs sore? Hatch's Universal Cough Syrup will cure them. 25c.

A LAND slide—Slipping up on a banana skin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Even when all other preparations fail to do any good whatever. It is prepared by modern methods, possesses the greatest curative powers, and has the most wonderful record of actual cures of any medicine in existence. Be sure to get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, hand made, perfect in proportion and appearance.

DURING hard times consumers cannot afford to experiment with inferior, cheap brands of baking powder. It is NOW that the great strength and purity of the ROYAL stand out as a friend in need to those who desire to practise Economy in the Kitchen. Each spoonful does its perfect work. Its increasing sale bears witness that it is a necessity to the prudent—it goes further.

N. B. Grocers say that every dollar invested in Royal Baking Powder is worth a dollar the world over, that it does not consume their capital in dead stock, because it is the great favorite, and sells through all times and seasons.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

She Spoke Without a Tongue.

One of the most remarkable cases on record was that of a woman, well authenticated at the beginning of the last century, who had no tongue, and yet spoke with perfect clearness. She was brought to Lisbon, in Spain, by Count d'Ericeya, from Monsary, in the Territory of Elvas, Portugal, and the following account is given of her by an eminent divine:

"She is 17 years old, but does not look more than seven. She can pronounce distinctly every letter in the alphabet. She has not the least bit of a tongue, but the teeth in both sides of her under jaw turn very much inward and almost meet. Her chief difficulty is in eating, for while others move their food with their tongue, she is forced to use her finger. She says that she tastes well. Her voice, though very distinct, is a little hollow and like that of old people who have lost their teeth."

Reporting Vessels at Sea by Cable.

Capt. Trott, of the cable steamer Minia, has done a clever piece of work in the transmission of information while at sea. When in latitude 47 degrees 30 minutes north, longitude 32 degrees 30 minutes west, he reported, through the end of an Atlantic cable which he had on board for repairs the following steamers bound westward, viz.: Manhattan and a Red Star steamer; also the Paris, of the American Line, and the Mohawk, of the Atlantic Transport Line, in the same position. Capt. Trott was the first to introduce this most acceptable method of making known the whereabouts of steamships, and has reported steamers in mid-ocean on several occasions, a service which was much appreciated by both the owners of the vessels reported and the friends of the passengers.

No Night Fakers in Washington.

"There is one thing that strikes me as peculiar in Washington," said Phil O'Neill, one of the army of race followers now in the city, at Willard's Hotel. "That is the absence of the night fakers who peddle hot stuff to eat. In the cities all over the West you will meet at all hours between dark and daylight men who have hot tamales or weinerwurst sausages for sale. The same custom prevails in the South and North also. The tin buckets of these peddlers, with the hot steam arising from them, are as familiar at night in every other city except Washington as the lampposts are. I suppose you don't have as many night owls here as elsewhere, and that may account for it."—Washington Post.

Spider's Bite.

Naturalists usually pooh-pooh the stories of poisoning from the spider's bite. It is well established that most spiders are harmless, and one naturalist says that almost every story of poisoning by a spider's bite has upon thorough investigation proved groundless. A naturalist of this city kept and handled freely for a year a tarantula, and received no injury, though the creature always resented the introduction into his box of any prodding instrument other than the naturalist's fingers, and when a glass rod was thus used always struck at it hard with his fangs.—New York Sun.

PLEDGING one's health was formerly done by the man sitting next the drinker standing up beside him with a drawn sword, in order that no one should stab him while his hands were holding the cup.

Foppish Soldiers.

That dandyism is an indication of effeminacy seems to be disproved by the fact that many German officers are addicted to small absurdities of dress. In the time of Frederick William II., when the German army was resting on the laurels of the great Frederick, dandies flourished in great numbers, among the officers, in spite of severe official condemnations of foppery. The monstrosities and extravagance differed but slightly from those of to-day—sharp-pointed toes, ridiculously high collars and short overcoats without seams. Latter-day exquisites have also adopted the plan of crowding on the finger as many rings as possible—he who can carry the largest number on the ring fingers and at the same time bend his finger being considered to have the bluest blood.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last fifteen years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

WAS the subject of your commencement essay, 'Beyond the Alps Lies Italy?' as you suggested?" inquired her papa. "Well, I did use that idea," admitted the sweet girl graduate, "but I modernized it into 'Over the Fence is Out.'"

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders or astringents, because they are all irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who had for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

WHEN a man is not worth a picayune, his picayuniary affairs are in a bad condition.

WEAK LUNGS ARE STRENGTHENED. Pleurisy Pains relieved, and Asthmatic symptoms subdued by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, a sovereign remedy for all Coughs and Colds.

IT takes more than three feet of brick to make a brick-yard.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures incipient consumption. It is the best Cough Cure. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

A WHOLESAILOR—An able-bodied seaman.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

COCOA and CHOCOLATE

Highest Awards (Medals and Diplomas) World's Columbian Exposition.

On the following articles, namely:

BREAKFAST COCOA, PREMIUM No. 1 CHOCOLATE, GERMAN SWEET CHOCOLATE, VANILLA CHOCOLATE, COCOA BUTTER,

For "purity of material," "excellent flavor," and "uniform even composition."

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO., DORCHESTER, MASS.

ST. JACOBS OIL Is the MASTER CURE for PAINS AND ACHES.

"Only One Night Out."

The Quickest Time Ever Made

—TO—

FLORIDA

—OR—

NEW ORLEANS

—VIA—

C. H. & D. R. R.

—AND—

CINCINNATI,

—FROM—

Toledo, Detroit or Chicago.

For Rates, address D. G. EDWARDS, General Passenger Agent, Cincinnati, Ohio.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

"COLCHESTER" SPADING BOOT.

For Farmers, Miners, R. R. hands and others.

The outer or tap sole extends the whole length of the sole down to the heel, protecting the shank in dressing, digging and other work. Best quality throughout.

ASK YOUR DEALER.

PATENTS and PENSIONS Secured. No advance fee. Fitzgerald & Co., "7th and G," Washington, D. C.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

In a Condition to Sympathize.

Tramp—Please help me, sir! I have just come from the far West, where I was tarred and feathered.

Bagley—Help you? Indeed I will! I can sympathize with you.

"Why, sir, were you ever tarred and feathered?"

"No, but I am breaking in some new winter flannels."—Boston Traveller.

A RAPID trance hit movement—getting hit on the head by unseen hands during a spiritual seance.

FITS! All fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

A PASSED ball—The codfish ball in a restaurant.

BAD BLOOD

Is a source of much suffering. The system should be thoroughly cleansed of all impurities, and the Blood put in a healthy condition. S. S. S. removes all taint of whatsoever origin and builds up the general health.

For three years I was so troubled with malarial poison that life lost all its charms; I tried mercurials and Potash remedies, but could get no relief; A few bottles of S. S. S. made a complete and permanent cure. J. A. RICE, Ottawa, Kan.

Our Book on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

MADE PURE

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Sure relief. Price 25 cts. ASTHMA. By mail. Stowell & Co., Charlestown, Mass.

ASTHMA CURED. POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC. Gives Relief in Five Minutes. Trial Package sent FREE. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent post-paid on receipt of $1.00. Six Boxes, $5.00. Address Thos. Popham, Phila., Pa.

$7.00 Will pay for a one inch advertisement one week in 100 Illinois Newspapers—guaranteed circulation 100,000 copies. Send for Catalogue. STANDARD-UNION 83 S. Jefferson St., Chicago, Ill. (This advertisement measures one inch.)

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE equals custom work, costing from $4 to $5, best value for the money in the world. Name and price stamped on the bottom. Every pair warranted. Take no substitute. See local papers for full description of our complete lines for ladies and gents. If dealer or agent cannot supply you, Illustrated Catalogue giving instructions how to order by mail. Postage free. You can get the best bargains of dealers who push our shoes.

SEEDS WARRANTED. Best in the World. By mail, postage paid, 1 cent a package and up. Grand lot of EXTRAS given with every order. Prettiest and only FREE Catalogue in the world with pictures of all varieties. Send yours and neighbors' address. R. H. SHUMWAY, ROCKFORD, - ILLINOIS.

DO YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL? READ THIS ABOUT CALIFORNIA?

The WABASH RAILROAD has placed on sale low rate single and round trip tickets to all principal Pacific coast points, giving a wide choice of routes both going and returning, with an extreme return limit of Nine Months. Stop-overs are granted at pleasure on round trip tickets west of St. Louis and the Missouri River, and by taking the WABASH but one change of cars is necessary to reach Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Sacramento and Portland, Ore. Remember the WABASH is the peoples favorite route and is the only line running magnificent free Reclining Chair Cars and Palace Sleepers in all through fast trains to St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address any of the undermentioned Passenger Agents of the Wabash System:

H. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
F. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
E. S. THOMPSON D. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
C. B. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. CHANDLER, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

ROTTEN JOURNALISM.

Our exchanges are copying, with a considerable degree of pleasure, apparently, an item, the substance of which started with one of the fool papers of DeKalb county, as to the county's finances, etc. Of course the article has increased in size and untruthfulness as it went on its rounds, till now, they have our debt at a round hundred thousand, and a petition out for a new court house that is to cost $175,000, and a county poor house to cost an untold amount more. Without further criticising the folly of this kind of journalism or the open mendacity of those who started the yarn, we would like to ask these veracious and careful journalists, "Who told you DeKalb talked of building a new court house?" Our office looks out on the public square, and it is news to us as is also the assertion that the building "has been pronounced unsafe by an expert." Who was the expert? Come, gentlemen, let us have the evidence. Who wants "a receiver appointed?" This last idea was put forth, we believe, by the Waterloo Press, whose editor cares for neither the good of the county finances nor its good name, so that he can gain a little cheap notoriety on the strength of what he believes to be his wit, and so also, that he can gain a little political advantage. And in this rotten line he has the very able, and apparently agreeable, assistance of the disreputable Garrett Clipper. One great cause of this soreness of these two journals appears to be the fact that Commissioner Hoffelder stopped his subscription to both of them. And then,

At once arose so wild a yell, etc.,

And that yell intensified as it spread abroad, till other papers have caught it up, and make it read that "the commissioner stopped all the county papers." There are seven others in the county that he has not stopped. We do not take much stock in the way some publishers jump into a man who stops his paper, especially if he pays up. Abuse of a subscriber under such circumstances may not be genuine blackmail, or even an intent to blackmail, but

It is near it, mighty near it.

Suppose DeKalb county is in debt and has a tax levy of 55 cents. Is that a matter that concerns outside counties? Has any DeKalb paper ever peddled criticisms either just or unjust against our neighbor counties? We believe not, though on several occasions they had big debts and high tax levies, and never had the improvements to show for it that DeKalb has. DeKalb papers are not criticising the action of a neighbor county which has just issued bonds for $50,000, which were taken by Chicago parties. And that county has been making no improvements either. But it is not our business. That county is able and willing to take care of itself. So is DeKalb. We do not say that DeKalb people or DeKalb officers have made no mistakes, but other counties have made as many and as costly ones as we have, and have less to show for what was expended. No county in this part of the state has struggled as hard for improvements as DeKalb, or has made as many. We paid in the last fiscal year, $18,000 for bridges, and they are good ones, iron, with stone abutments. Some of the counties whose papers are criticising us, have few bridges to build, and those few have been made cheap and temporary and will soon have to be replaced. We have had a vast number of small swamps and much low land in this county. At a vast expense, these have been nearly all reclaimed and are to-day in cultivation, till we can say there is not a county in the state with as large a percentage of tillable land as DeKalb has. We are raising corn where other counties are raising frogs, and we produce fine crops of potatoes where they are satisfied with huckleberries. These may not be pleasant statements to make, but they are true. A paper that is worthy the name, should defend the good name of the community in which it exists, and not befoul it.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the New Great South American Kidney Cure. This new remedy is a great Surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Druggists, Auburn, Ind.

Texas is first in cattle and cotton, second in sugar, sheep and mules, seventh in cows, eighth in hogs.

Will Make Hens Lay.

Well's Hoosier Poultry Powder is the greatest egg producer known. A small sum expended for it will pay one hundred per cent on the cost in an increased amount of egg, as it furnishes all the material necessary for their construction, and keeps the hen in good healthy condition. Price 25 cents. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

Maine has 50 000 square miles of pine forests. The lumber industry sends out 400,000,000 feet a year.

How's Your Horse?

Morris' English Stable Liniment will positively cure his lameness, sprains, bunches, sweeney, galls, puffs, poll evil, scratches, callouses, barbed-wire cuts and flesh wounds of every description. No other preparation equals it for promptness, safety and economy. Price 50 cts. and $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in

DeKalb Co.:
Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1892, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1893.

NAMES OF OWNERS	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of sale $	cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Randall Perry	E side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00	129	34
do	und ⅔ w side s w qr		33	12	40	00
do	und ⅔ pt w ½ n e qr		33	12	23	50
do	und ⅔ pt e ½ s e qr	28	33	12	38	46
do	und ½ w side s w qr	27	33	12	20	00	11	17
Work M E	und ½ pt pt e ½ s e qr	28	33	12	19	24	12	71
do	und ½ n w pt w ½ n e qr	29	33	12	11	75	28	50
do
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Andrews Lydia J	in n w cor s w ¼ n w qr	9	33	13	1	00	27	48
Cole Maria L	s ½ n w ¼ n e qr	8	33	13	20	00	7	38
Walters Lewis	n ½ n e ¼ s w qr	3	33	13	20	00	26	07
Conner Thomas	D add to Auburn Junction lot 27						7	67
Powell Lydia	D add to Auburn Jct und ⅚ lot 6						6	93
Ice Mary	S add to Auburn lot 6						4	88
Ice William	S add to Auburn lot 5						17	25
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Crom Elizabeth	n side s ½ s e qr	1	33	14	42	20	49	94
do	in s e cor s e qr	1	33	14	11	00
Emanuel J et al	s e ¼ s w qr	24	33	14	40	00	24	23
Hursh Benjamin	in w ½ n w qr	33	33	14	1	00	9	58
McKinney James	in s w cor s w qr	7	33	14	1	00	6	73
Morr G W & Peter	in n w ¼ s w qr	7	33	14	6	83	6	75
Parks F A C	in e ½ s w qr	28	33	14		22	3	91
Shumberger B	s end e ½ e ½ s w qr	11	33	14	30	00	33	33
Shelley Samuel R	n pt n e qr	24	33	14	23	90	16	99
Wiers Mary E	in s e ¼ s e qr	16	33	14	1	00	6	28
Wearley Wm L	e pt n w qr	34	33	14	20	00	26	88
Zimmerman Nancy	in n w qr	33	33	14		34	3	84
Kimes Ellery	O P Spencerville lot 18						7	92
Nichols J R	N add Spencerville lot 18
do	N add Spencerville lot 19						17	34
do	N add Spencerville lot 20
Rhodes Wm	O P Spencerville e pt lot 20						5	36
Case Emillius	O P St Joe lot 9 block 3						10	58
Knisely Joseph	O P St Joe lot 9 block 4						2	92
Wineland Ephraim	L 1st add St Joe lot 10 block 7						12	37
do	L 1st add St Joe w ½ lot 3 block 7
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP
Humberger P heirs	off s side s e qr	19	33	15	100		121	86
Earned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	9	33
Like Julia	in n pt e ½ s w qr	6	33	15		75	1	14
Meek Mary	in s w cor s w ¼ n w qr	6	33	15		33	4	28
Murphy Rosina	s w ¼ s w ¼ n e qr	31	33	15	10		24	35
do	in n w cor s e qr	31	33	15	21	67
Steele Martin A	e ½ s w ¼ s e qr	17	33	15	30		32	79
Bailey Elizabeth	Vienna lot 65						1	80
do	Vienna lot 66
Catlett David	Vienna lot 24						14	60
do	Vienna lot 25
Lake Julia	Vienna lot 2						4	62
Rex Geo N	Vienna lot 81						29	47
do	Vienna lot 88
Stapleton Anthony	Vienna pt lot 49						6	39
Whitehurst John	Vienna lot 46
do	Vienna lot 34						15	99
do	Vienna lot 39
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Carr Mary	pt s w ¼ n e qr	6	34	15
do	e end s ½ n w qr	6	34	15	40		28	20
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Bills Francis	e end s e ¼ s e qr	15	34	14	6	30	3	19
Brown John	w ½ n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	77	31
Bubb Thomas	e pt s e qr	14	34	14	120
do	in mid pt s w ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	1		203	41
do	pt s e ¼ s w qr	13	34	14	17
Berry W S	und 4-5 e ½ n w ¼ n e qr	25	34	14	16		22	98
Bowen E F & E C	s s w pt s w qr	34	34	14	60		35	49
Dove Mary J	n ½ n e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	20		9	09
Fales S B & R B	s e ¼ s w qr	26	34	14	40		75	75
Geisinger Joseph	e side w ½ n e qr	19	34	14	4		6	19
Glowe William	n ½ n w ¼ n w qr	35	34	14	20		20	05
Huntsman A E & R F	s e ¼ n w qr	28	34	14	40		16	71
Haskins Esther N	e ½ s w ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	30
do	w ½ s e ¼ s w qr	21	34	14	10		645	91
Maxwell James	mid pt s end w ½ s e qr	27	34	14	10		6	07
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
DeKalb Co Fair	n w ¼ s w qr	28	34	13	40		233	31
McNabb Adam	O P Auburn Junction lot 30
do	O P Auburn Junction lot 31						5	41
do	O P Auburn Junction lot 32
Beard J H	S R & B add Auburn town lot 3						1	90
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Jackson Ira	pt w ½ s w qr	3	35	13	70	25	57	85
do	pt e ½ s w qr	3	35	13	70	25
Rose Frank N	in s w ¼ s w qr	3	35	13		20	2	98
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Boyer Cyrus C	s ½ n e ¼ n w qr	20	35	14	10	44
do	w e ¼ n w qr	20	35	14	40		113	19
do	s pt n e qr	20	35	14	99	34
Enzor Stephen	n ½ n w ¼ n w qr	13	35	14	20		45	41
do	n e ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	40
Enzor Catharine	s ½ s e ¼ s e qr	11	35	14	20		40	35
Lockwood Morton	n ½ s ¼ n e qr	36	35	14	40		39	62
Nichols Milo	s w ¼ s e qr	6	35	14	40		27	36
Norford Lizzie L	mid pt n ½ n e qr	34	35	14	30		27	72
Rensch Phebe	in s e cor n w qr	11	35	14	5		2	62
Rensch Wm	n w ¼ n e qr	14	35	14	40		50	19
do	s end w ½ s e qr	11	35	14	25
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Rohm Ezra	in n mid pt s w qr	16	34	13	19	10	26	40
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	42	16	62
	KEYSER TOWSHIP.
Offen M A & L S Hudson	in n e pt n e qr	4	33	12		25	5	12
Reeves Hattie A	s w cor s w ¼ s w qr	33	34	12	1		20	67
Whitford S & Helen	in n pt n w qr	4	34	12		50	25	54
	AUBURN TOWN.
Boren Obedish	Mc I add lot 15						16	72
Baxter & McClellan	McC & B add lot 23						12	25
do	McC & B add lot 56						2	95
do	McC & B add lot 59						2	95
Buss Avilla & Samuel	W add lot 85						46	52
do	W add lot 86
Butler G W & C	E 2d add lot 82						13	37
Dickinson Ezra	R add lot 21						21	39
do	R add lot 22
Griswold Abigal	W add und 5-6 lot 141						29	81
do	W add und 5-6 lot 142
Jahns Elizabeth	K 2d add s e ¼ lot 5						23	92
Jenner D W	O P w ½ lot 199						13	31
do	O P w ½ lot 200
Osborn Nora	K 1st add lot 19						19	46
Rickel & Sprott	O P n ½ lot 1						56	07
do	O P n ½ lot 40
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Barnhart Sim	H 2d add lot 220						2	09
Bowman Jefferson	Cen add lot 1						17	02
Beard Wm H H	pt s ½ s w qr	3	34	13		11	8	48
do	pt s ½ s w qr	3	34	13		30
Bundy Charles & M L	H add lot 188						31	04
do	in n w cor s e qr	3	34	13	6	23
Barkdall Joseph	pt s e qr	4	34	13		30	7	91
Shaffer Nancy	in J F & C add lot 33						7	17
Scattergood G H & C	in n w ¼ n w qr	2	34	13	1	20	19	61
Acton P J & J H	O P Uniontown s ½ lot 23						8	69
Bryaland Harriet	O P Uniontown lot 16						3	36
Fisk E P & E	O P s ½ lot 23						6	18
	BUTLER TOWN.
Blaker John & M L	O P lot 289						49	34
do	O P lot 290
do	N add 19 ft w side lot 4
do	N add 20 ft e side lot 5
Bratton O D	O P 20 ft in mid pt lot 273						106	24
Bryan Eli	E add lot 187						18	20
do	E add lot 188
Bills F & S J	O P lot 247						15	77
Bills Francis	L add lot 35						11	23
Beidler Emma C	T add lot 3						38	32
Barnhart Henry	E add s ½ lot 185						2	40
Baxter John H	E add lot 164						11	52
Campbell J A	D add lot 29						1	62
do	D add lot 30						2	14
Collins Marcia	pt e ½ n w qr	11	34	14		50	14	89
Collins Lucina	D add lot 28						33	18
Dickerhoff Samuel	J add lot 21						25	15
Davidson Fannie	O P n pt lot 5						22	80
Egnew Geo heirs	E add lot 132						24	60
Fitzcharles Flora J	M add lot 11						13	90
Fink D A & C L	D add lot 24						14	04
Fosdick E W	O P w ½ lot 192						4	23
do	O P w ½ lot 193
Griffith Lafayette	O P lot 241						13	57
Heffelfinger C W	L add lot 13						24	91
Hirschler Dora	O P s e pt lot 132						201	10
Homan David	E add lot 225						9	46
Linkenfelter J M	L 2d add lot 22						13	28
do	L add lot 20						9	96
McClellan Miller	D add lot 32						16	63
Moltz Sarah I	E add s ½ lot 136						33	72
do	E add lot 137
Moltz Charles H	E add lot 138						10	80
Morgan Frances S	O P lot 249						26	43
Mason Albert J	D add lot 38						41	44
Myers Lisetta	T add lot 8 block 1						23	20
Norford J M & S L	O P e ½ lot 18						34	78
do	O P e ½ lot 19
Oberlin John J	O P w ½ lot 221						22	26
do	O P w ½ lot 222
Oberlin Phillip	E add lot 74						22	71
Oberlin Joseph	E add lot 139						17	67
Palmer Ida A	E add e ½ lot 118						9	44
do	E add e ½ lot 119
Price Elizabeth	E add lot 199						6	83
Pinchin Abner F	E add lot 116						6	40
Prosser Wm S	E add lot 160						9	47
Revette Sarah A	E add lot 90						9	68
do	E add e ½ lot 76						6	04
Revette Thomas	E add lot 91						17	25
Rittenhouse M & B E	O P lot 92						26	62
Sternberg Adam J	M add lot 23						19	89
Stewart Sylvia	O P lot 115
do	E add n ½ lot 133						54	39
do	E add n ½ lot 134
Sanders Avilla	L add lot 47						9	06
Shiner F & M A	E add lot 162						13	33
do	E add lot 163
Stiefel Benj H	D add 21 ft s side lot 4						76	97
Swinehart Margaret	L add lot 9						7	00
Stewart F H	O P lot 205						18	79
do	O P lot 186						7	82
Scranton W H	D add 66 ft e end lot 23						2	98
do	D add lot 26
Sise Francis	T add lot 3 block 8						12	85
Tyson J W & L M	N add 22 ft n side lot 15
do	N add e pt lot 12						81	41
Tyson John W	E add lot 235						23	48
Thompson Chas F	O P lot 191						15	84
Thiel John	E add e ¼ lot 97
do	E add e ¼ lot 98						32	64
do	E add lot 75
Tyson Mattie H	O P w ½ lot 28						29	18
do	O P w ½ lot 29
Wycoff Mary A	O P lot 36						8	30
do	O P lot 37						10	69
Wagoner John O	J add lot 12						18	06
	GARRETT CITY.
Allman N R	C add lot 16 block 53
do	C add w ½ lot 15 block 53						20	66
Andrews S & E	K add lot 5 block 60
Burns John J	O P lot 15 block 28						38	00
do	O P lot 16 block 28						39	84
Beeher Simon	Oz 1st add lot 1 block 4½
Baltz Sarah	Oz 3d add lot 7 block 2						39	68
Burns Eliza	T S add lot 1 block 11						6	64
do	T S add lot 2 block 11						21	74
Baltimore Land & Imp Co	O P lot 6 block 2
do	C add lot 1 block 36						8	83
do	C add lot 2 block 36						79	19
do	C add lot 7 block 37
do	C add n ½ lot 13 block 53						3	95
do	C add lot 13 block 53						1	10
do	C add lot 2 block 58						2	03
do	C add lot 3 block 58						24	34
do	C add n ½ lot 4 block 58
do	K add lot 1 block 59						2	57
do	K add lot 2 block 59						5	73
do	K add lot 3 block 59						4	80
do	K add s ½ lot 3 block 60						9	41
do	K add lot 4 block 60						2	57
do	K add lot 6 block 60						4	80
do	K add s ½ lot 9 block 60						4	80
do	K add lot 10 block 60						2	28
do	K add lot 3 block 61						5	72
do	K add lot 4 block 61						35	44
do	K add lot 4 block 62
do	K add lot 10 block 63						2	03
do	K add lot 11 block 63						2	04
do	K add lot 18 block 63						2	04
do	K add lot 18 block 66						15	87
Champion F M & A A	O P lot 17 block 28						3	88
do	O P lot 18 block 28
do	T S add lot 4 block 2						60	99
Crozier Robert	Oz 3d add lot 1 block 2
do	Oz 3d add lot 2 block 2						20	68
Coffill Wm A	O P lot 17 block 24
Cross Wm T	O P lot 5 block 22						30	95
Casebeer Chas W	Oz 3d add lot 3 block 1						17	00
Cross John A	O P lot 11 block 13						24	58
Cloy Frederick	T S add lot 2 block 8						8	17
Erixson W D	K add 40 ft w side lot 18 block 80						20	50
do	K add 40 ft w side lot 19 block 80
do	K add 40 ft w side lot 20 block 80						21	18
Frederick W J	C add lot 10 block 43
Feagler W C	O P lot 22 block 10						4	42
Gragg Mary A	O P 73 ft e end lot 18 block 19						3	88
Geiger John H	Oz 2d add lot 8						28	23
do	Oz 2d add 14 ft e side lot 9
do	Oz 2d add w ½ lot 7						35	13
Hathaway Miles	Oz 1st add lot 6 block 3
do	Oz 1st add lot 7 block 3						16	08
Hampton John C	C add lot 13 block 36						19	56
Henney Josiah	Oz 1st add lot 5 block 4½						24	55
Holmes Priscilla	C add lot 2 block 47						40	87
Hamm Jacob	K add lot 14 block 61						13	55
do	K add lot 15 block 61						27	87
Hopper Charles	T S add lot 10 block 6
Jones A L	T S add lot 3 block 1						38	73
do	T S add lot 4 block 1						29	64
Morehouse Clarrissa	Oz 1st add lot 3 block 2
do	Oz 1st add 4 ft w side lot 4 block 2						17	10
McConahey Louisa	C add lot 7 block 58
Miller Henry	T S add lot 1 block 8						6	45
Phillips Mary L	O P 52 ft w end lot 13 block 19						21	39
do	O P lot 14 block 19
do	O P lot 15 block 19						78	27
Ray Robert M	C add lot 14 block 36
Rickel & Sprott	C add lot 2 block 44						5	72
Sapp John	Oz 1st add lot 2 block 3						4	79
Sargent Wm E	O P lot 19 block 16						17	44
do	O P lot 20 block 16						15	15
do	O P lot 22 block 16						26	52
Sargent Eliza	O P lot 23 block 16						4	77
do	O P lot 24 block 16						86	63
Smith Jerry	O P lot 20 block 12
Smith David D	C add lot 19 block 57						25	39
Shields Anna	O P lot 1 block 15						19	44
Stoner Margaret E	C add lot 8 block 46						24	06
Troy Andrew J	K add lot 18 blk 80 ex 40 ft w side						6	86
do	K add lot 19 blk 80 ex 40 ft w side
do	K add lot 20 blk 80 ex 40 ft w side						12	85
Walter Nevada & Callie	K add lot 1 block 74
do	K add lot 2 block 74						38	59

I, H. N. Coffinberry, Auditor in and for said County of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1892, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1893, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn in said county, on the second Monday in February, A D, 1894, (the same being the 12th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m, on said day and continue until until all have been offered for sale.

H. N. COFFINBERRY, AUDITOR.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 16, 1894.

FAYETTE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Is beautifully located and its buildings are very attractive. In order to give ample accommodation for the present demand, another large building has been added. No saloons. Equipments are excellent; pure associations. Teachers are specialists—men and women of power and culture, carefully selected for their special work. Normal, Commercial, Scientific, Shorthand, Typewriting, Elocutionary and Musical departments in addition to the regular college courses. Our aim is to endow each pupil with the four great essentials to true success: vigorous health, accurate knowledge, right purpose, and executive ability. $27. pays tuition, board and room-rent, for 10 weeks; $75. for 30 weeks.

For Catalogue, address, J. E. DODDS, Pres't, Fayette, O.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

How Much Sugar She Contains.

To the young man who goes into rhapsodies over his sweetheart, an exchange gives a dampener when it figures out that it has been shown by analysis that a young person weighing 154 pounds is composed of 96 pounds of water, 3 pounds of white of egg, a little less than one pound of pure glue, 3½ pounds of fat, 8¼ pounds of phosphate of lime, one pound of carbonate of lime, 3 ounces of sugar and starch, 7 ounces of cloride of calcium, and a little ordinary table salt. Think of it, young man! That beautiful young lady whom you worship as pillar of unadulterated sweetness, doesn't contain three ounces of sugar. And not only that, but the average girl will not weigh as near 154 as 100 pounds, so she may be depended upon to have little over two ounces of sugar in her composition, except just after the last pound of French bon bons has been disposed of.—Exchange.

Better Results.

It's just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. It's easier to cure a severe cold or cough with it Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure; better medicine; better results; better try it. 4tf

Idaho produces 1,500,000 bushels of wheat, $1,000,000 worth of fruits and 2,000,000 pounds of wool.

A Wonderful Medicine.

A hale old man, Mr. Jas. Wilson, of Allens Springs, Ill., who is over 60 years of age, says: "I have in my time tried a great many medicines, some of excellent quality,; but never before did I find any that would so completely do all that is claimed for it as Chamberlain's Colic Cholera, and Diarrhœa Remedy. It is truly a wonderful medicine." For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Gilly—You may twim me mustache.

Barber—Yes sir, did you bring it with you?

Cure for Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure, and the most dreaded habitual sick headache yields to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cure by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 2

"Doan put yer min' too much on outward decorations," said Uncle Eben. "Hit am bettah ter haber cabbage undah yoh waistcoat dan er chrysanthemum in yer buttonhole.

Cures Burns.

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. A perfect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure piles. 4tf

He Recommends It.

Mr. Albert Favorite, of Arkansas City Kan., wishes to give our readers the benefit of his experience with colds. He says: "I contracted a cold early last spring that settled on my lungs, and had hardly recovered from it when I caught another that hung on all summer and left me with a hacking cough which I thought I never would get rid of. I had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy some fourteen years ago with much success, and concluded to try it again. When I had got through with one bottle my cough had left me, and I have not suffered with a cough or cold since. I have recommended it to others and all speak well of it." 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

Robbers' Roost.

The Fort Wayne Dispatch has this item that reminds one of an occurrence in Auburn a few years ago:

Some boys wandering along the banks of the St. Mary's river Monday afternoon discovered a cave on the bank which contained a table, stove, several bunks and is lined with empty beer bottles. The cave was watched a couple of nights, but no one entered. It was likely the haunt of boy burglars and other thieves lately arrested.

Quick Relief.

Early Risers, Early Risers, Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, sick headache, dyspepsia and nervousness. 4tf

One Minute Cough Cure.

Not one minute elapses between the taking of One Minute Cough Cure and relief. Why shouldn't people take One Minute Cough Cure? They should. They do.

Cured His Rheumatism.

Joseph V. Dory, of Warsaw, Ill. was troubled with rheumatism and tried a number of different remedies, but says none of them seemed to do him any good, but finally he got hold of one that speedily cured him. He was much pleased with it, and felt sure that others similarly afflicted would like to know what the remedy was that cured him. He states for the benefit of the public that it is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Distemper—Its Cause and Treatment

Is the title of our little book which tells all about one of the most loathsome and dangerous diseases affecting horses, sheep and dogs, with unquestionable proof of the merits of Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure in the treatment of the same. Sent free by addressing the Wells Medicine Co., LaFayette, Ind. This remedy is sold by Matheny & Gerke.

"Royal Ruby" Port Wine.

If you are reduced in vitality or strength by illness or any other cause, we recommend the use of this Old Port Wine, the very blood of the grape. A grand tonic for nursing mothers, and those reduced by wasting disease. It creates strength; improves the appetite; nature's own remedy; much preferable to drugs; guaranteed absolutely pure and over five years of age. Young wine ordinarily sold is not fit to use. Insist on having this standard brand, it costs no more. $1 in quart bottles, pints 60 cts. Royal Wine Co. For sale by

F. E. Davenport.

Massachusetts is first in fisheries, second in commerce, third in manufactures and printing.

To Horse Owners.

For putting a horse in a fine healthy condition, use Morris' English Stable Powders. They tone up the system, aid in digestion, cure loss of appetite, relieve constipation, correct kidney disorders and destroy worms, giving new life to an old or over-worked horse. 25 cents per package; 5 for $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke. tf

Mississippi is second in cotton, fifth in rice, sixth in horses and mules, and seventh in sugar.

Guaranteed Cure.

We authorize our advertised druggist to sell Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, upon this condition. If you are

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY FEBRUARY 8, 1894. NUMBER 6.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

No. 342. 170 Acres of fine land well adapted to grain or stock purposes, 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler.

Frame dwelling: main 22 x 24, wing 14 x 28, wing 14 x 31; 11 rooms, cellar under entire building.

Three good barns, all in good repair conveniently located; one 36 x 50, another 30 x 66, and the last one 22 x 28. Two good wells, 1 cistern, windmill and elevated tank. Two orchards of about 150 in the two. Fences in fine condition. 150 acres in fine state of cultivation, balance timber. No waste land. Sandy, loamy soil. Easy payment plan.

No. —. 44 Acres of land in Wilmington township.

Frame dwelling, 2 story, 16 x 28; wing, 12 x 28, and summer kitchen. Cellar and well.

Frame barn 40 x 65, granary, wagon house and corn crib combined, 20 x 26, and hog and hen house.

4 Acres orchard, all winter grafted fruit; fences in A1 condition; 5 acres timber; 60 rods tiling. No waste land. Soil, black loam.

Price, $2,500. Easy payments.

No. —. Fine residence property on South VanBuren street.

Elegant property. Splendid location. Fruit in large variety and of best quality.

Price, $1,500.

Vacant lots in Widney's addition on long time, easy terms.

No. 157. 40 Acres, 4 miles north of Butler, Ind.

Good log house and barn. 20 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Soil, black loam. Good fences. ¾ mile to school and church.

Price, $1,200. Long time, easy terms.

Dwellings, vacant lots and other desirable property in Garrett to exchange for land in this county and pay cash difference.

80 Acres land in good cultivation to exchange for town property in Auburn, or, will exchange for a well located meat market. Will trade for smaller farm.

Price, $3,300.

80 Acres good land in Butler township, located near school and church and within 1 mile of railroad.

Good buildings and fences and plenty of fruit.

Price, $4,200.

Will exchange for a smaller tract near some good town.

No. 1890. 120-acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler, 95 acres clear, fences good, 30 acres timber, well drained, part tiled; 2 good orchards and a fine pear orchard; has a good 8-room house, with cellar, cistern, well and barn. Will sell very low and on long time.

No. 1810 80 acre farm, 1½ miles from Newville, 65 acres clear, 15 acres timber, good fences; good 9 room house; barn 36x50 feet; orchard of 70 trees; well and cistern; mostly black soil, no waste land; 40 acres in timothy and clover. Farm is in good state of cultivation; 1 mile to school and church. Price $3,200, $500 cash down, balance on long time. This is a bargain.

No. 2600. 80 acre farm, 2½ miles S.E. of Auburn, 65 acres clear, balance in timber, no waste land; good 2-story house; good barn 48x80; corn crib, hog pen, wagon and tool shed; cistern, good well with new wind pump and tank; good orchard; good fences; splendid soil. Will sell cheap on long time; will take good house and lot in Auburn or Garrett at what it is worth.

No. 1717. 90 acres of land about 7 miles from Auburn; house 18x24 with L 13 x 17; barn 17x23 with shed 12x23; large granary, well and cistern, orchard; 35 acres under cultivation, 15 acres good timber, balance well drained low land for pasture. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time.

No. 1725. 44½ acre farm, all clear, no waste land; good 4 room house; bank barn 47x76; good orchard; 2 wells. Price $1,800, ½ cash, balance on reasonable time.

No. 3,000. 64-acre farm 6 miles east of Auburn, 60 acres clear, 4 acres timber, well drained, all black sandy loam; fair house; good barn, 38x48; one of the best orchards in the county, an abundance of peach, pear, cherries, grapes, currants, berries, etc.; about 18 acres in wheat, 20 acres in grass, no waste land. This farm can be sold very low on terms that will certainly suit the purchaser.

No. 315. 60 acre farm in Jackson tp.; has a 7-room, 2-story brick house, with cellar, well and cistern; barn 32x64; orchard of 80 trees; all clear and in good cultivation. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time, easy payments This is a bargain.

MONEY! MONEY! Do you want to borrow any money? We can loan you any amount you want, from $500 to $20,000, at a low rate of interest, on long time, with privilege of partail payments. If you need money, do not put it off very long, but call at once. The demand for long time loans is increasing and our money cannot hold out long at the present rate of interest.

Do you need any Fire Insurance or Life Insurance? If you call on us and learn our terms, we have a line of the very best companies that pay losses promptly. Call at our office, for we have no agents running through the country soliciting. We can save you money if you need anything in this line.

Are you going to travel? If so, come and see us. We can sell you a Railroad or Steamship ticket to any point in the world. If you want any information about rates or tickets—cheerfully given, call on us. No harm done if you do not buy.

We represent the National Building Ass'n. of Indianapolis, the best company of its kind in Indiana. Do you want to build or pay off a mortgage on your home, and pay it off in small payments Parties having money to invest will do well to call on us at once.

If you want to buy or sell a farm, town property or personal property give us a call. Our commission will be reasonable.

We make a specialty of handling stocks of goods of all kinds. Can either sell or trade them. We take pleasure in showing our property, free of charge, to any who think of buying.

(We have a number of Western and Southern farms that we can trade for land or town property here. Will give or take the difference.)

Rickel & Sprott,

Auburn, Ind.

—UNDER FARMERS BANK.

THE THIRD DEGREE.

HOW IT WAS WORKED ON SUSPECTS BY INSPECTOR BYRNES.

The Shrewd Catcher of Criminals Had a Way of Making the Guilty Ones Confess. How McGloin Was Brought to Time and Increased the Rope Collection.

Scenes—intense, dramatic, horrible beyond conception to the men who are compelled by a subtle force, a moral magnetism, to convict themselves with their own uncontrollable words—are not infrequent at police headquarters.

An interesting case was that of McGloin, a tough who killed a Frenchman. There was little positive evidence against him. Everything was suppositious, but Thomas Byrnes' suppositions in matters of that kind are likely to be not far from right. He was reasonably certain that McGloin was guilty, and that there had been three witnesses of the crime. The names and whereabouts of these probable witnesses he knew. McGloin had also pawned a pistol. Byrnes guessed that it was the pistol with which the crime had been committed. But he had not a particle of proof of any one of these things.

One day, however, he had McGloin and the three other men arrested, taking care that no one of the quartet should know that the others had been captured, giving no one of them an inkling of why he had been taken into custody. This also occurred during Byrnes' term as inspector. He occupied the room now used by Inspector McLaughlin, and around its walls in those days were the cases of implements and mementoes of crime now on exhibition in the museum across the hall. Into this room, where, as he entered, a tall glass case full of the ropes and black caps which had figured in the city's executions stared him in the face, McGloin was led. Neither the surroundings nor the fact that he was to be closeted with the famous police official worried him, however. He was full of the bravado of the "tough."

One of the windows of this room looks out upon the courtyard in the center of the building. Inspector Byrnes placed a chair so that its back was close aginst this window, and another facing it, with only room for knees between it and the casing. To the latter chair McGloin was led. As he sat there he had a full view of the courtyard. Byrnes sat in the other chair, with his back to it. Close on Byrnes' right was a desk.

Thus arranged, the plot began to unfold. For 10 minutes the inspector talked earnestly to the prisoner without good result. Then he touched a bell. The door of the room opened, and an obsequious Jew entered, and approaching the desk laid on it a pistol. McGloin's attention was attracted by the noise of the newcomer, and he turned to see—the pistol with which he had killed the Frenchman and the pawnbroker to whom he had pledged it. Without a word, but keeping his eyes on McGloin's, the Jew backed out of the room. It was a good deal of a shock to McGloin, but not enough to break down his bravado.

"What in —— does this mean?" he demanded boldly.

"Oh, nothing," replied the inspector nonchalantly. "It is merely a pistol I wanted to see." Then he picked it up. "Handsome weapon, isn't it, McGloin? Might kill a man, eh?"

Then, laying the pistol down again, the inspector went on calmly talking about the crime. McGloin, beginning to feel the mystery, the dramatic force of it all, was getting nervous. He looked for a moment at the inspector, but one long, steady, searching glance from those penetrating eyes made him quickly turn away and direct his gaze out of the window into the courtyard again. Thus relieved of the strain of seeing disagreeable things, he began to regain his self possession. "A man named Barber saw that crime committed," said the inspector quietly. McGloin started a trifle at hearing the name. Then Byrnes saw his face pale, and his mouth twitch, and knew that Barber was being led across the yard between two officers, and that McGloin was watching them. Even this did not break McGloin down, however. Five minutes later, though, when Flint, the second witness, was marched between two bluecoats across the court, he started almost from his chair. "Sit still, McGloin," said Byrnes impassively. "Another of those witnesses I spoke about was named Flint." From that time on McGloin weakened. Then, having spoken about Flint's connection with the crime, Byrnes said, a few minutes later, "And the third witness, McGloin, was Henry Farley." As the words left Byrnes' lips Farley began a slow progress across the yard. Byrnes had worked the third degree. McGloin yielded all at once. With a cry of terror, he literally sprang from his chair, and falling to his knees clasped Byrnes about his legs, crying like a child, confessing and begging the inspector not to have him hanged. His prayer was not granted, however. He was executed a year later in the Tombs yard, and the three witnesses were sent to state prison for 12 years each. Among those rope ends and black caps in that glass case now is one bearing on a bit of cardboard the name "McGloin."—New York Press.

Humbert's Civil List.

The civil list or salary of King Humbert of Italy is the largest of all those paid by European nations to their respective sovereigns. This is so much more remarkable because Italian finances are at the lowest ebb. Humbert's civil list is fixed annually at 14,500,000 francs—nearly $3,000,000. The European sovereigns who receive the highest pay below that of Humbert are Emperor William of Germany, with a civil list of 12,000,000 francs, and Queen Victoria, with about 9,000,000.—New York Tribune.

Willard Pepple.

The subject of this sketch was born on the home farm of his father, John Pepple, two miles north of Auburn, February 26, 1860, and died at Waco, Texas, January 28, 1894, at the age of 33 years, 11 months and 2 days. His life was passed on the home farm till about six or seven years ago when he went to Texas, stopping a short time at Taylor, where his brother John is an engineer on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad. He then went into old Mexico, to the city of Mexico, where his brother Samuel was an engineer on the Mexican National railroad and entered the service of the road as a fireman. About two years later he returned north and remained at home here about two years. In February, 1892, he again went south and after stopping a short time at Taylor, where his two brothers named above resided, he located at Waco and engaged in the handling of horses, at which he was an experienced and expert man. Last fall he spent some time at the city of Dallas, and was there during their great fair. From there he started with a lot of horses for San Antonio, where he expected to dispose of them, but on reaching Waco he was taken sick and had to stop. He thought a day or two of rest would bring him out all right and he could proceed on his trip. But he was seized by a low fever that never left him. For thirteen weeks he was cared for by his brothers, chiefly by Samuel who had a run on the road south from Taylor, while John's run was to the north. But the disease finally wore him out and he breathed his last on the day above named. In the meantime the parents here had been kept acquainted with his condition, and when he died it was decided to bring him home for interment. Samuel being too much worn out by long watching and helping the sick brother, the body was taken in charge by John and his sister, Mrs. Linter, of Lexington, Ky., and brought home, reaching Auburn over the Wabash on the noon train Thursday. The remains rested their last night at the old home, and next day the funeral was held at the Lutheran church in Auburn at 2 p. m. and he was laid to his final rest in Woodlawn. The Rev. J. W. Edgar of the U. B. church at Waterloo, conducted the services and a large concourse of the friends, neighbors and acquaintances followed his remains to the grave. The text was Hebrews 11-16.

There is always an extra tinge of sadness in the death of the young, especially if the end comes in a place far away from home. True he was among friends and there were two brothers who left no want uncared for or wish not granted, but the father and the mother had not the sad satisfaction of gazing on their boy in life. They and all the relatives have the largest measure of neighborly sympathy.

The funeral services were impressive and most excellent music was furnished by the choir. They were T. P. Scott, Mrs. Sadie Yesbera and Dr. C. E. Nusbaum, with Miss Flora Hoffman for organist. Mrs. Yesbera also sang the following exquisite solo;

"WE'LL NEVER SAY GOOD BY."

Our friends on earth we meet with pleasure,
While swift the moments fly,
Yet ever comes the thought of sadness,
That we must say good by.

CHORUS:

We'll never say good by in heaven,
We'll never say good by,
For in that land of joy and song,
We'll never say good by.

How joyful is the thought that lingers
When loved ones cross death's sea,
That when our labors here are ended.
With them we'll ever be.

No parting words shall e'er be spoken,
In that bright land of flowers.
But songs of joy and peace and gladness
Shall ever more be ours.

A TRIBUTE.

Dead! our boy dead! oh how can it be borne?
The long, long heartache in that bitter word.
One moment he was here—the next, was gone
Into that land whence never sound is heard.

Away from home—we hoped that he would come,
Life in his footstep, brightness in his eye,
To visit the old farm; to see us all,
To be with us perchance when we should die.

And then he comes—oh mocking of joy!
The face we loved is hidden from our sight;
The heart is pulseless and the hands are still;
His eyes are closed forever to the light.

How we shall miss him!—words are cold and vain,
Though every thought be mingled with regret.
Could we but make him hear us we would say,
"Dear son, dear brother we shall not forget."

Card of Thanks.

To the neighbors and kind friends of Auburn: Please allow us to extend to you our sincere and heartfelt thanks for the prompt assistance rendered in this our sad bereavement. It is our earnest wish that we may be able to show our gratitude by assisting those who have so kindly assisted us in the last sad rites to the brother and son. Also to the choir for sweet and consoling hymns rendered, as well as to the friends of the Lutheran church who gave their fine building to our use, and to all who assisted us on this sad occasion.

JOHN PEPPLE AND THE FAMILY.

For La Grippe.

Has your constitution been wrecked by an attack of LaGrippe. The Great South American Nervine Tonic will quickly restore your shattered nerves, strengthen and cure your digestive organs, regulate your liver and purify your blood; and restore you to perfect soundness again. This great tonic should be used after all sickness. Its power to restore to health is simply wonderful. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

THE LEAGUE (CHAINLESS)

Soon to be on Exhibition at the

Auburn Cyclery.

This is only a Shadow of this MARVEL OF BEAUTY.

NO CHAIN!

NO NOISE!

NO DIRT!

BEVEL GEARS,

Finely Adjusted on

BALL BEARINGS.

Promises to be the Wheel for the fair sex. Perfection in workmanship and finish. Easiest Running Machine in the Market. Call or send for Catalogue.

AUBURN CYCLERY. R. W. COBB. Mgr.

Obituary.

Susanah (Kessler) Campbell was born in the state of Pennsylvania, May 25, 1808, and departed this life Jan. 28, 1894, aged 85 years, 8 months and three days. When yet quite young she came with her parents from Pennsylvania to Champaign county, Ohio, where she resided until she was united in christian marriage to Joseph Campbell, Aug. 4, 1825. To them were born seven sons, five of whom now survive her. They enjoyed married life for twenty years, when at last the ruthless hand of death tore from her embrace the support of her life; she lived in widowhood for 48 years. In the year 1845, she, with her three youngest sons left the old homestead in Ohio and after a long and tiresome journey they landed in Wabash county, Ind; here was her permanent home for a period of four years, when she broke up house keeping and went to live with her sons; the last few years she made her home with her son Samuel, where she died in the 85th year of her age. Mother Campbell leaves to survive her, five sons, twenty-seven grand-children, nineteen great-grand-children, two brothers and one sister, besides a host of friends and acquaintances. Mother Campbell, in her youthful days became a christian, also a member of the Lutheran church, where she has since held her membership. As a mother she was kind hearted and true; she was faithful to the duties devolving on a mother who is left to provide for the children, and battle with the stern realities of life alone. As a christian her virtues were without a parallell; she never allowed anything to come between her and her duty to her God and her church; the paramount ambition of her life was to please her Savior and glorify his matchless name. She was in the service of the Redeemer for 70 years, and at the close of her life she said "He has never forsaken me, and is now my strong deliverer." Truly it may be said of such a one that "to die is gain, yea infinite gain, for the righteous hath hope in his death." She closed her righteous endeavors for God and the church in 85th year of her mortal career, and is now at rest in the land of joyous delight that is afar off. She came to grave in a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in his season. The funeral service were conducted from the Lutheran church at 3 p. m., Jan. 30, sermon from the text II Timothy, IV Chap. 6-8 verses. Interment took place in Evergreen cemetery, Rev. J. D. Brosy, officiating.

Watch your Kerosene Lamps and Stoves

Many of the labor faving sources of artificial heat are death dealing in their effect upon the air of a room. Both gas and kerosene stoves are enormous consumers of oxygen, and neither should be tolerated except under the conditions of a constant supply of fresh air. These strictures do not apply to gas logs placed in a grate, which furnish most grateful and healthful warmth, as the chimney secures perfect ventilation. There is an added danger in a kerosene stove when in unskilled hands, as in addition to consuming the oxygen it also, if there is the slightest thing out of order, gives forth deadly gas. The imperfect closing of a burner cap, leaving the least crack, will cause this, or the accumulation of dirt about the burner.

Another frequent source of evil is a lighted kerosene lamp turned down. The vile odor resulting—very unpleasant to some people, though there are noses that do not preceive it—is a very poisonous gas, most dangerous to human life, and pronounced by high authority capable of causing diphtheria and some contagious fevers. The would-be economist who turns the lamp down to save oil, is instructed that she saves scarce a farthing; while the gas that feeds the flame is generated but unconsumed, and, polluting the atmosphere, endangers the health and even lives of the occupants.—From "Sanitarian," in Demorest's Family Magazine for February.

Pride is better than envy—but a man may get along without either.

The County Home.

In the general statement we published last week about the County Home, several items were omitted that we had not then the time or space to show. We always like to see a public officer willing to show freely all he does in discharge of his duties. Mr. Bartels gladly furnishes the COURIER with these additional items:

The amount of cash the establishment paid into the county treasurer's hands last year, Mr. Bartels gave last week from memory, and thought it about $600. The exact amount of cash so paid in was $770.15.

Wheat raised was a little over 700 bushels, of which about 550 bushels remain on hand.

Oats raised, over 1000 bushels; now on hand about 800 bushels.

Corn raised, about 1,500 bushels; now on hand, about 800 bushels.

Hay raised, about 35 tons; now on hand about 20 tons.

Potatoes raised, about 450 bushels; on hand, about 300.

Hogs fattened, 38; stock hogs of all ages on hand now, 43.

Milch cows, 15 head. Other cattle on the farm are, 1 bull and 18 head of young cattle.

Sheep, 26 head, 25 being ewes, and all in good condition.

Horses: 7 head of work horses are on the farm.

There are over 100 chickens.

These items we have obtained, as we believe all our people will be interested in knowing just what has been done by the superintendent. The showing made is a good one, and it strikes us that Mr. Bartels is carrying the institution in good shape.

A Social Event.

Mrs. Jacob Carper entertained a pleasant surprise party. About twenty-seven of her relatives and friends surprised her at her home at Auburn Junction, Jan. 28, 1894, reminding her of her 34th birthday. The day was spent in social enjoyment. About 12:30 p. m. a bountiful dinner was served as the present had prepared themselves for the occasion with all the good things one could wish for. As a whole it was a grand success. Those present were: Mrs. E. B. Reed, mother of Mrs. Carper, James Ferguson and wife, W. M. Myers and wife, Clyde Woodcox and wife, G. W. Morr and wife, David Krider and wife Mrs. L. Powell, Mrs. L. J. Miller, of Auburn, Mrs. P. Ditmars, Charley Reed, Lotie Krider, Emma Reed and Carrie Baker, of Auburn, Mattie Powell, Ethie Cupp, Callie Carper, George Carper, of Illinois, Dale Maud Lois, and Blanche Woodcox. Many presents were received.

A GUEST.

B. & O. Low Rate Excursions to the South.

On February 8th, March 8th and April 9th, the B. & O. R. R. will sell excursion tickets to points in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, also to points in Virginia and West Virginia on the Harper's Ferry and Valley Branch at rate of one fare for the round trip.

Tickets will be limited for return passage twenty days from date of sale.

For further information call on or address any B. & O. ticket agent, or M. V. Richards, Land and Immigration Agent, Baltimore, Md., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill. ew-ap5

Notice of Directors Election.

Notice is hereby given that the biannual meeting of lot owner of Evergreen cemetery will be held in Gandy's Hall, Auburn, Ind., on Friday evening, March 2, at 7 o'clock, for the election of five directors of said association for the ensuing two years, and for the transaction of other business. All delinquents on assessments not wishing to be reported to this meeting should call on the secretary before that date. By order of board.

S. B. JOHNSTON, President,
R. MCDOUGALL, Secretary.

Awarded Highest Honor World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

WE HAVE now completed our ANNUAL INVENTORY

Considering the past year's general business depression,

We feel Highly Flattered with our year's business.

THE COMING YEAR

It shall be our aim to greatly increase our trade. Each week we shall offer Rare Bargains in one or the other of our many departments.

THIS WEEK

We set the ball rolling in our Domestic Department. Here are prices never before touched in the county.

ALL STANDARD GINGHAMS, 6 c.
TURKEY RED PRINTS, 4 1-2 c.
HARPER L. L. MUSLIN, 3 3-4 c.
LAWRENCE L. L. MUSLIN, 4

OUR One Dollar Each CLO

Sale is a Corker. Get one of these garments before our stock is exhausted.

Many New Goods in All Departments. Give us a call.

SCHAAB & BRO.

INEBRIETY IS A DISEASE NOT A CRIME.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

Auburn, Indiana.

Incorporated under the Laws of Indiana and Endorsed by the U. S. Government. With Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Remedies we Cure

DRUNKENNESS AND Morphine Habit.

HOME TREATMENT for the Tobacco Habit and Nerve Exhaustion. No BOLTS. No BARS. No PAIN whatever. Absolute Freedom. IMITATORS, by adroitly worded advertisements, seek to convey the impression that they are handling Dr. Keeley's Remedies and employ his methods of treatment. Such persons are only Imitators and impose an imitation on the Public for the Genuine. For full information as to the Keeley Cure, both at the Institute and by home treatment address

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

AUBURN, IND.

All Correspondence Strictly Confidential.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Are you at all Weak-chested or inclined to be Consumptive, with just a touch of Cough now and then? "Try this Wonderful Medicine." The Cough and Weakness will disappear as if by magic, and you will feel a strength and power never had before.

HAVE YOU A COLD? A Dose at Bedtime will Remove it.

HAVE YOU A COUGH? A Dose will Relieve it.

Bronchitis and Asthma it relieves instantly. The Spasms of Coughing so dreadful in Whooping Cough become less with each dose of medicine. It is an old adage, "To be forewarned is to be forearmed." So let it be in your case, who read this, and keep on hand ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Directions accompany each bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AT 25cts., 50cts., AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

BOILED DOWN FOR OUR NUMEROUS READERS.

Terrible Gas Explosion at Indianapolis—Another Arctic Expedition Two Girls Have a Desperate Battle with Burglars—Peixoto Imprisons All People Hostile to Himself.

TO THE TOMB.

Funeral of the Late George W. Childs at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia special: George W. Childs' remains were laid at rest in the Drexel mausoleum in Woodland cemetery beside those of his closest friend and business companion, Anthony J. Drexel, who died but a few months ago. Almost inseparable in life it was deemed fitting that they should rest together in death, although it was not known that any request to that effect had ever been made by Mr. Childs. It was at first intended to have the funeral services private, but, yielding to the request of many friends, Mrs. Childs finally consented that a public funeral and the services were held in St. James Protestant Episcopal Church, which is directly opposite the residence of the dead philanthropist at Walnut and Twenty-second streets, and of which Mr. Childs had been an honored member and a vestryman for many years.

Another Arctic Expedition.

The Baltimore Herald states that two extraordinarily designed boats are being built in Baltimore for an Arctic expedition. The work of construction is being carried on with the utmost secrecy. The projector of the enterprise is said to be the Chicago Herald. The plan is to organize a party to start in the early spring for the north. It is intended to ship the boats to Northern Russia, where the expedition will take to the water. It is said to be the purpose of the party to intercept the members of the Peary expedition. The boats will be the first ever constructed of aluminum. The order is under contract to turn the boats over to the contractors on March 1. The crew will be made up of seven experienced navigators and explorers of the staff of the Chicago Herald and a crew of picked men.

Fire at Buffalo.

The offices and store-room of the Union Dry Dock Company, on Ganson street, Buffalo, N. Y., were destroyed by fire. Two adjoining frame buildings occupied as saloons were also burned. Loss about $50,000, well insured. Another fire occurred about the same hour in the four-story building at the corner of Ohio and Mississippi streets, occupied by the office of the Crescent line of steamers, the Inland Line and the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City road, the latter using the building as a freighthouse. The building and contents were badly damaged.

Serves Them Right.

Governor Rich, of Michigan, through his Private Secretary, who served copies of his charges and citation upon Secretary of State Jochim, Treasurer Hamlitzer and Land Commissioner Berry, members of the State canvassing board, requiring them to show cause why they should not be removed from office for gross neglect of duty in permitting the returns on the salaries' amendment to be falsified. They are required to show cause February 16.

Battle with Burglars.

Two thieves entered the home of the Miss Christie Duherer, on Park avenue, St. Louis, and entering her room made an attack with hatchets upon her and her room-mate, Miss Maggie Sanford. A desperate fight followed, in which Miss Duherer succeeded in getting hold of her revolver and putting a bullet into her assailant. She then fired upon Miss Sanford's foe, but did not strike him. The burglars fled, one with a wound which will help to catch him. The women are badly, but not seriously hurt.

Natural Gas Explosion.

The building at the corner of Yisser street and Madison avenue, Indianapolis, was totally demolished by a natural gas explosion. It is supposed gas accumulated in the cellar and finding its way through the floor above ignited from a gas jet or open fire place. The building was occupied by Louis Kuehler, who with his wife and four children occupied the upper portion of the house. The firemen succeeded in taking out the entire Keuhler family, one dead, the remaining five fatally injured.

Holds them Prisoners.

Rio Janeiro special: Peixoto continues to jail all persons believed hostile to himself, including foreigners. The insurgents will remain on the defensive until reinforcements arrive. It is not true that there have been disputes between Admiral DeMello and Admiral DaGama. The two are in perfect accord. DeMello directs the land operations of the insurgents until Santos has been captured and then resumes the squadron.

Back to Old Virginia.

Alliance (Ohio) special: A colony of colored people who came to this vicinity from South Hampton, Va., two years ago, under the leadership of James Herbert, have left to return to their old Virginia home.

Shot His Father.

At Pittsburgh, Pa., Edward Morrison, aged 65 years, was fatally shot by his son Charles. They quarreled at lunch, and the young man shot his father twice in the head.

Illicit Still Seized.

An illicit whisky still has been seized on the farm of John Laser near Bremen, Ind. Laser is a prominent farmer and has always been regarded as a law-abiding citizen.

Fight in Camp.

Omaha special: There was a lively fight at Fort Omaha between the whites and Indian soldiers and as a result half a dozen of the red skins are now in the hospital. Bad blood has existed for some time between the white and red troopers and the other evening a number of white soldiers attacked several of the Indians and gave them a good whipping. The Indians went to their quarters and aroused their comrades. Nearly every red soldier in the barracks grabbed the first thing at hand and sailed out. They rushed into the rear door of Ketchmark's saloon, just outside the post, and waived their clubs, pokers, and broomsticks. Fortunately only a few persons were in the place and they beat a hasty exit! Only one white soldier, so far as is known, was hurt in the melee. The guards were called out and the Indians driven back to their quarters.

HEAD CUT OFF.

Execution of Auguste Vaillant.

Paris special: Auguste Vaillant, the anarchist, who, on December 9, last, threw a bomb into the Chamber of Deputies, was executed at about 7:30 o'clock Monday morning.

When Vaillant neared the guillotine he glanced upward at the gleaming knife suspended between the two uprights, the blade shining out clear and distinct owing to the rays of the many lanterns around the scaffold, and then he shouted:

"Vive l'anarchie."

A moment later, as he was ascending the steps leading to the platform of the guillotine, the desperate anarchist shouted:

"A mort les bourgeois" (death to the bourgeois.)

As he uttered this cry Vaillant reached the foot of the sliding plank which leads the body of the criminal, when strapped onto it, beneath the knife after one quick push, he said:

"Death to society"

Vaillant had hardly uttered these words when he was seized by M. Diebler, and assistants, and thrown upon the sliding plank, or basculo, to which he was strapped with remarkable rapidity and in less time than it takes to write it his body was thrust through the lunette, or hold in the end of the scaffold upon which a half circle or locking piece falls after the head is through. A spring was touched and the shining knife above the anarchist's head sped downward with a swift and noiseless movement.

There was a terrible spurt of blood and the head of Vaillant, separated from its trunk, fell into the basket of saw dust and all was over. With the greatest rapidity the head and body of the anarchist were gathered up, placed in separate baskets and were escorted away from the scene of the execution at a gallop.

DREADFUL TRAGEDY.

Chattanooga the Scene of a Sensational Shooting.

G. H. Henson, President of the Citizens' Bank and Trust Company, and also of the Rockwood and Tullahoma Bank, shot and killed J. H. Wert, a prominent insurance man aged 50 years, married and the father of six children, in an elevator of the Richardson block the largest office building in Chattanooga, Tennessee. Some six months ago Mr. Henson filed a divorce suit against his wife, charging her with adultery, and naming Mr. Wert as co-respondent. The sensation was aired at length in the newspapers, and both men publishing cards, calling each other liars, calumniators, etc. The case did not go to trial, Mr. Henson withdrawing the suit on account of his two children. Mr. Wert, however, was tried by a church council, and by a vote of 5 to 2 pronounced guilty and publicly expelled. The other day they met in the elevator face to face, and when between the first and ground floor Henson shot Wert through the lungs, inflicting injuries which resulted in death soon afterward. A second shot struck a young lawyer, Lavin Thomas, producing a flesh wound. The news spread quickly and in a short time crowds numbering thousands blocked the streets surrounding the building. The whole town is excited, and the only topic being discussed on the streets is the terrible tragedy involving two of Chattanooga's best known citizens.

ROBBERY AND MURDER.

Murderers of One of Kalamazoo's Most Prominent Men Found at Last.

Kalamazoo (Mich.) special: On Tuesday afternoon, March 21, 1893, at 4 o'clock, Louis Schilling, aged 60, one of Kalamazoo's best-known citizens, was found dead in his office on Portage street. His skull was crushed in and his throat horribly gashed and cut from ear to ear. The dead man's pocket-book was gone, and he was known to carry a great deal of money about his person. Robbery was the evident motive for the crime.

The other day Sheriff Vosburg arrested Wm. Alguire, Horace Mansfield and Mrs. Anna Wood Alguire. Alguire has turned State's evidence and charges Mansfield as principal in the murder, and the woman as accessory before the fact. Alguire says he heard Anna Wood and young Mansfield planning the murder in her room. On the day of the murder Mansfield, who is a colored man, came to Mrs. Wood's room with bloody knife under his coat. The woman washed the knife and then threw it into a basket of dirty clothes. Alguire was married to Anna Wood some time last May. Mansfield refuses to talk beyond denying all knowledge of the crime. Mrs. Wood likewise disclaims connection with the murder.

GERMANY FOLLOWS.

The Prussian Commander Threatens to Sink an Insurgent Warship.

The New York Herald's Mexican cable from Rio Janeiro says: A launch loaded with coal and flying the German flag was fired on by the Guanabara in the harbor. Capt. Pofmeyer, of the German man-of-war, Arcoma, at once went aboard the rebel warship and told the Commander that he was now receiving his last warning, and that if he fired again upon anything flying the German flag, the German warships would sink his vessel. The rebel commander replied that he could only be sunk once, and that he would fight the thing out. Captain Hoffmeyer then cabled to Berlin, stating that he would co-operate with the American Admiral in defending commerce from rebel molestation It is expected that the English naval commander here will soon receive instructions to the same effect.

A STORM SOUTH.

The Congregational Church at Birmingham Razed.

A wind and rain storm which passed over Birmingham, Ala., the other night, blew down the Congregational Church at Gate City, six miles from Birmingham. The Christian Endeavor Society, composed of thirty women and children, were holding a meeting at the time. The roof crashed in, burying them in the debris. Nearly every person in the building was more or less hurt. The serious casualties are Mrs. R. H. Britchell, leg broken and internally injured, will die; Mrs. James Niles, internally injured, will die; Charles Olsen, thigh broken, probably fatal. The others are not seriously hurt. The building was a small frame structure, or many would have been killed.

Strikers Arrested.

Mansfield (Pa.) special: Twenty deputies under Chief Lowry made a raid on the Anarchist settlement at Bower Hill and arrested ten Slavs and Italians. They are regarded as desperate men and are now in jail. These were the men who wanted to hold a meeting, raise the red flag and declare for blood. Their meeting-house was searched for dynamite and arms, but only two guns were found. Another raid under Deputy Haws and ten assistants was made and thirty foreigners, suspected of burning the Essen tippie, were captured. The men were all armed and several resisted arrest, but no one was injured. They are Russians, Poles, and Italians. Quiet prevails throughout the region, but the mines are still under guard.

No Boycott Goes.

In the case of Newton Jackson against Howard Stanfield, from South Bend, the Indiana Supreme Court decided against boycotts. The plaintiff is a lumber dealer on a smaller scale than the defendant, who is a member of the Indiana Retail Lumber Dealer's Association. The former claimed that his business was injured by the latter, in conjunction with the association, which instituted a virtual boycott on the business of the nature of his. The case was remanded to the lower court, with instructions to render judgment on a special finding of $583 damages, and perpetually enjoining the defendants from intimidating or interfering with the plaintiff's business.

Drowned.

Miss Cora Cravens and Mr. Lee Fray of Spottsville, a small place on Green River, eighteen miles above Evansville, attended church across the river from Spottsville. They started for home, crossing the river in a skiff, and landed alonside the wall of the Government lock.

They started to walk on the wall to the opposite bank, when, in the darkness, they made a misstep and fell into the pool. Fray is a good swimmer and managed to get out, but Miss Cravens drowned. Fray claims that he did not know the young lady had fallen from the wall until after he got out and found her missing. Her body was recovered.

Slain by Robbers.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bush, respectable people living about five miles from Luverne, Ala., were murdered in their home. The neighbors saw the windows of their house open and found Mr. and Mrs. Bush in bed weltering in blood, their bodies riddled with bullets. The crime was committed but a few hours before, as the wounds were fresh. Who the assassins are is not known. The cause is thought to be robbery, as the Bushes were known to have considerable money and none of it can be found. All means are being resorted to to capture the murderers, and if caught Judge Lynch will hold court.

Riot in Santiago.

Valparaiso special: A mob of thirty men, supposed to be Balmacedists, attacked the artillery barracks in Santiago, but were repelled by the guard after a brief hand-to-hand encounter. The attacking mob used daggers and revolvers. Five of the assailants were killed and one wounded. Squads of soldiers and police were immediately placed in the vicinity and guarded all streets to prevent the escape of the participants, many of whom are hiding in the neighborhood. There was great excitement during the attack. Many of the shops and business houses were closed for a few hours.

A Farmer Suicides.

George Sponsellor, a well-to-do and highly respected farmer, residing three miles west of Convoy, Ohio, committed suicide by hanging himself with a halter strap which he took off one of his horses. He went to his granary, committed the rash deed and was found by his wife when she went to call him for dinner. No cause is assigned for his act.

Baby's Terrible Death.

The 2-year-old babe of Mrs. Jack Crutchfield, living at Nealton, Ky., in the absence of the mother, crawled to the fireplace, where it fell into a bed of burning coals. When found by the mother a few minutes afterward the body was a charred and blackened mass.

Hung to a Rafter.

Samuel Hessong, a wealthy farmer living near Maxenkucks, Ind., was found hanging from a rafter in his barn. No cause can be assigned for the act, but it is supposed that he hung himself while in a state of insanity. He leaves a wife and four children.

Drink of Death.

Theodore Crowl of Laporte, Ind., was bantered to drink seven glasses of whisky in succession, and successfully performed the feat. Next morning he was found dead in the cellar-way of the saloon, where he had wandered in his delirium.

Our Paper Currency.

The paper currency outstanding January 31, was $1,167,040,231, less $1,000,000 estimated to have been destroyed by fire. This shows an increase of $6,884,166 during the month.

Discredited.

No confirmation of the reported trouble among the Apache Indians in Arizona, has been received at the Indian Office, and it is generally discredited.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3 50 @ 5 50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4 00 @ 5 50
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	2 25 @ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	60 @ 61
CORN—No. 2	35 @ 36
OATS—No. 2	29 @ 30
RYE—No. 2	44 @ 48
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	23½@ 26½
EGGS—Fresh	13 @ 14
POTATOES—Per bu	50 @ 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS—Choice Light	3 00 @ 5 75
SHEEP—Common to Prime	2 00 @ 3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	57 @ 57½
CORN—No. 2 White	35 @ 35½
OATS—No. 2 White	31 @ 32
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	57 @ 57½
CORN—No. 2	33 @ 34
OATS—No. 2	30 @ 30½
PORK—Mess	13 25 @14 00
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 75
SHEEP	2 00 @ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59 @ 60
CORN—No. 2	37 @ 38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	31 @ 32
RYE—No. 2	51 @ 53
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 4 75
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 50
SHEEP	2 00 @ 3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	60 @ 61
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	36 @ 37
OATS—No. 2 White	30 @ 32
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59 @ 60
CORN—No. 3 Mixed	35 @ 35½
OATS—No. 2 White	31 @ 32
RYE—No. 2	49 @ 51
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	71½@ 72½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	40 @ 41
OATS—No. 2 White	35 @ 36
LIVE HOGS—Good to Choice	5 00 @ 5 75
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	61 @ 61½
CORN—No. 3	35 @ 35½
OATS—No. 2 White	30½@ 31½
RYE—No. 1	46 @ 48
BARLEY—No. 2	50 @ 51
PORK—Mess	12 50 @13 00
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 50
HOGS	3 75 @ 6 25
SHEEP	2 00 @ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	67 @ 68
CORN—No. 2	43 @ 44
OATS—White Western	36 @ 40
BUTTER—Choice	22 @ 27
PORK—Mess	14 00 @15 25

WILSON ON HIS BILL.

ENDS THE TARIFF DEBATE FOR THE DEMOCRATS.

Brilliant Oratorical Effort and Forceful Arguments of the Father of the Tariff Measure—Borne from the House on the Shoulders of His Admirers.

Pleads for Reform.

Mr. Wilson, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and father of the tariff measure which bears his name, closed the great debate on the Democratic side. He spoke enthusiastically in defense of the bill and at the close of his speech was given an ovation that has seldom been equaled in the halls of Congress. The demonstration went so far that he was lifted upon the shoulders of Mr. Bryan of Nebraska and Mr. Tucker of Virginia and borne out in triumph to the cloakroom. Mr. Wilson followed Mr. Reed, who closed for the Republicans. He spoke as follows:

We might well rest the discussion where it was left by the gentleman from Georgia in his strong speech. It does not seem to me, Mr. Speaker, that anything more is needed at this time. After three weary weeks the gentlemen on the other side have lashed around the old-time arguments and prophecies. But history has not proved the force of their arguments, and their prophecies have never been realized. But it is incumbent upon me to reply to some of the compliments which have been paid me in some of the arguments which have been addressed to me in the course of this debate. I must not apologize to my friends on the other side for my references to them, for from none of them, even in the heat of debate, have I received a word of discourtesy. But for this I should delight to take up for a few moments that beautiful argument which my friend from Michigan (Mr. Burrows) brings into the House at every Congress like a cluster of wax flowers under a glass case I would like to reply also in the same spirit of friendship and good-nature to the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Dolliver) in reminding the House that at one point in his life he had narrowly escaped being a friend of mine in a great school of learning. It was a narrow escape, but judging from his degeneration it was a miss that was as good as a mile. I want to say he was not a pupil of mine. It is said of Dr. Johnson that he declared that you could make a good deal even of a Scotchman if you caught him young. And I might have been able to make something of a Democratic economist of my brilliant young friend from Iowa (Mr. Dolliver) if he had come under my teaching in his early life.

CARRYING WILSON FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The gentleman from Maine (Mr. Reed) appeared in a role to-day far different from that which he usually occupies when he makes his appearance in the House. He laid aside his usual way of debating great public questions and gave us a set oration. But, after all, his main argument was that which is heard in every schoolhouse in the country; that because we have had protection in the United States for the last thirty years we have drawn all of our prosperity from a law of Congress and not from the gifts of Almighty God. But the gentleman from Maine will not go farther than I will in singing the praises of our common country. I wish to remind the gentleman from Maine that we have grown great and have prospered and have increased in numbers, have increased in wealth, not because of protection, but because no law of Congress can stand in the way of history's progress. You may frame McKinley laws, and in the progress of humanity they will be trampled under foot. You cannot muzzle science, or banish art. You may place tariff burdens on every industry of the country, and still enterprise will persevere and prevail over them. Men will seek in all possible ways to better their condition and to advance their own personal welfare, and in that effort all men will advance. Out of those constant troubles every individual will endeavor to gather what comfort he can, and to rise in the scale of civilization. And this glorious progress no law of Congress can impede; and no McKinley act or other act can seriously prevent.

But I will tell you what your tariff laws are doing and what your tariff laws have done. You cannot permit the accumulation of wealth in this country, but you can take that wealth from the men who made it and bestow it upon some men who did not make it. You cannot deal out prosperity to all the people, but you can deal out wealth to part of them and poverty to all the rest. Daniel Webster said, in a speech in 1850, that five-sixths of the prosperity of the North belonged to the workingmen of the North. Can any of the representatives of the commonwealth of Massachusetts make such a glorious boast to-day? The gentleman from Maine (Mr. Reed), in his report, and again in his speech to-day, has praised the operation of the protective system because it gives quite an extensive distribution of the benefits which it brings.

Now, there is a lesson in the last census of the United States which calls upon every citizen to pause and ponder as to whether this is a time of growing prosperity or a time of decadence. It appears, by the last census of all the men occupying farms in the country today, that one-third are tenants, living on farms owned by others; and that of all the people occupying homes (other than farms) two-thirds live in rented houses. If that is the kind of general prosperity, if that is a proof of diffused welfare, then the protective system is entitled to the credit, because I believe it is, in a large measure, due to that system.

I intended to answer a few other points made by the gentleman from Maine, but time will not permit. Let me say, however, in passing, that with his usual skill and dexterity he added to his armor the weapons of sarcasm and ridicule against this tariff reform movement. Mr. Speaker, if reform could be blocked and hindered by ridicule, if great causes could be laughed down, we would be to-day the slaves of England instead of being a self-governing American people.

The plain Virginia huntsmen, who in my own county met 100 strong and marched in their hunting shirts from the Potomac to the relief of Boston under old Daniel Morgan, were clowns in appearance and cut but a sorry figure before the splendid troops which they met in that city. Men are not to be judged by the clumsiness of their movements, but are ennobled by that for which they fight. The continentals of Washington and the Virginia huntsmen of Daniel Morgan, while they may have been rudely dressed and may have been clumsy in their movements, bore upon their standard the freedom which we now enjoy. This is a very old world, Mr. Speaker; but long before human history began to be written the fatal secret was disclosed that there is no easier, no quicker, no more abundant way of getting wealth and getting power than by exercising the power of taxation over the masses of the people. That secret, when disclosed, was eagerly seized upon before the very dawning of human history, and is to-day the dominant force in all the world.

Goal to Be Sought After.

It was but 200 years ago that men were willing to fight for the idea that governments were made to serve the governed and not for the benefit of those who govern. Not yet in all the world, have men advanced to that point where the government is operated exclusively and entirely in the interests of all the governed. That is the goal of perfect freedom. That is the achievement of perfect law. And that is the goal to which the Democratic party is courageously and honestly moving in its fight to-day for tariff reform. Whenever that party and whenever the members of it are able to cut loose from local and selfish interests and to keep the general welfare alone in their eye, we shall reach that goal of perfect freedom and will bring to the people of this country that prosperity which no other people in the world has ever enjoyed.

I remember reading some time ago, in a speech of Sir Robert Peel's, when he was beginning his system of tariff reform in England, of a letter which he had received from a "canny Scotchman"—a fisherman—in which the man protested against lowering the duty on herring, for fear, he said, that the Norwegian fisherman would undersell him; but he assured Sir Robert, in closing the letter, that in every other respect except herring he was a thorough-going free-trader. Now, my fellow Democrats, I do not want any man to say that you are acting in the cause of herring, not in the cause of the people. I do not want herring to stand between you and the enthusiastic performance of your duty to your party and your duty to the American people.

If time permitted I would like to take up some of the arguments against the bill among my democratic friends. The first argument is that this bill will create a deficit, and therefore ought not to be passed. In the name of common sense how could you ever pass a tariff reform bill if you did not reduce the taxes under the existing laws that you seek to reform? Have gentlemen forgotten that there may be a system of tariff taxation under which the government receives little, and the protected industries receive much, and that there may be a lower system of tariff taxation under which the government receives a great deal and the protected industries receive but little?

The McKinley law is constructed on the first line, and the pending bill is constructed on the line of revenue. If you take up the history of the free trade movement in England you will find that nothing so surprised the tariff reformers as to see that the more they cut down taxes and the nearer they approached free trade the more the revenue grew in spite of them. At the beginning of that movement there were 1,200 articles taxed, and at the close of it only seven; and the revenue was as great on the seven as it had been on the 1,200. I have here the report of Robert J. Walker, as Secretary of the Treasury, showing that in the first year of the operation of the Walker low tariff in 1846 the revenue went up from $23,500,000 to $31,500,000.

But I cannot dwell on that matter. The next argument which my friends on this side are using among themselves against the bill, or to hesitate, at least, in voting for the bill, is that the income tax has been added to it. I need not say to my brethren on this side that I did not concur in the policy of attaching the income measure to the pending bill. I had some doubts as to the expediency of adding the income tax measure to the pending bill. But when the committee decided otherwise I threw in my fortune, loyally and earnestly, with that amendment, because I never have been hostile to the idea of an income tax.

John Sherman has been quoted as saying that an income tax is class taxation. It is nothing of the kind. It is simply as the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. Crisp) declared, an effort—an honest effort—to balance the weight of taxation in this country. During the fifty years of its existence in England it has been the strongest force there in wiping out class distinctions. It was a doctrine taught by Sumner, Walker and other New England economists that an income tax was the most simple form of taxation. New England taught that doctrine to the South and West, and she has no right to come up to-day and complain because her own teachings has been used against her. In all my conferences on the subject of this bill I have heard no man protest that we have been actuated by an unworthy motive, or that this great scheme of taxation was undertaken in any class or sectional spirit.

Doubts Republican Sincerity.

Gentlemen (addressing the Republican side of the House)—I doubt not your sincerity. I doubt not the love of your fellow-man which impels you to champion your side of the question any more than I doubt that which impels my associates on this side. I agree with the gentleman from Maine (Mr. Reed) that the question of general welfare and the question of wages of the workingmen are after all the vital questions in this controversy. We are trying an experiment whether, in God's name, we can establish a country where every man born into it will be born with the possibility that he can raise himself to a degree of ease and comfort and not be compelled to live a life of degrading toil for the mere necessities of existence. That is the feeling which animates all who through danger and defeat have steadily labored for tariff reform. We wish to make this a country where no man shall be taxed for the private benefit of another; but where all the blessings of free government, of education, of the influences of the church and of the school shall be the common, untaxed heritage of all the people, adding to the comfort of all, adding to the culture of all, and adding to the happiness of all.

And now one word more. We are about to vote on this question. If I know that when the roll is called every Democratic name would respond in the spirit of that larger patriotism which I have tried to suggest I would be proud and light-hearted to-day. I want to say to my brethren who are doubting as to what they shall do that this roll call will not only be entered on the journal of the House, but it will be entered on the history of this country, and it will be entered in the annals of freedom.

This is not a battle expressly on this tax or on that tax; it is a battle for human freedom. As Mr. Burke truly said, "The great battles of human freedom have been waged around the question of taxation." You may think to-day that some "herring" of your own will excuse you in opposing this great movement; you may think to-day that some reason of locality, some desire to oblige a great interest behind you, may excuse it, when the roll is called, your name shall be registered among the opponents of this measure; but no such excuse will cover you.

The men who had the opportunity to sign the Declaration of Independence and refused or neglected because there was something in it which they did not like—I thank God there were no such men—but if there were, what would be their standing in history to-day? If, on the battlefields of Lexington and Bunker Hill there had been men who became dissatisfied, wanted this thing and that thing and threw away their weapons, what do you suppose would have been their feelings in all the years of their lives when the liberty bells rang on every coming anniversary of American freedom? And in the name of honor and in the name of freedom, I summon every democratic member of the House.

A Unique Use for Murderers.

A member of the Ohio Legislature, at the instance of several prominent physicians, has introduced into that body a bill embracing a unique idea. It abolishes hanging as a means of capital punishment, and provides for the "taking off" of murderers by the use of anaesthetics administered under the supervision of a board of physicians and scientists. The condemned man having been wafted into a painless sleep, the scientists are permitted to take off the top of his skull and watch the action of his brain, or lay bare his heart and other vitals and study life for the benefit of science and humanity in general.

TWELVE miles from a lemon.—Sydney Smith, in a letter to a friend concerning the living in Yorkshire to which Smith was appointed.

WILLFUL ignorance is an incurable ailment.

THE NATION'S SOLONS.

SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Law-Makers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed, and Acted Upon.

Doings of Congress.

The bond question came up in the Senate again Tuesday, and, after a long debate, went over by unanimous consent until the following day. The significant feature of the discussion was the firm stand taken by Senator Sherman in favor of the authority of Senator Carlisle to issue the bonds. Arguments for and against the income tax occupied the time in the House.

Wednesday in the House the internal revenue bill was placed as a rider upon the tariff bill by a vote of 175 to 58. The entire day was spent in the consideration of amendments which were offered to the various internal revenue features. The principal fight came upon the proposal to increase the tax upon whisky from 90 cents to $1 and to extend the bonded period from three to eight years. These provisions, especially the one looking to an increase of the bonded period, were bitterly opposed by prominent members on both sides of the House, and, despite the opposition, the latter proposition—that is, the increase of the bonded period to eight years—was stricken out, while the increase of the tax from 90 cents to $1 was allowed to stand. Discussion of the bond resolution was continued in the Senate. Messrs. Allen and Hoar argued against the bond issue.

The debate on the Hawaiian matter began in the House Friday under a special order. The adoption of the order was preceded by a lively passage at arms between Mr. Boutelle and Mr. Catchings of Mississippi, a member of the Committee on Rules, which resulted in two attempts made by the former to have the words of the latter excepted to by the House in order to subject him to censure. Only two speeches were made. The resolution which formed the basis of the discussion is that of McCreary condemning the acts of Minister Stevens and approving the policy of the President, at the same time expressing the sense of the House that the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands is inexpedient. For this the Republicans offered the minority report approving Minister Stevens' action and condemning the acts of the present administration. The day in the Senate was not an eventful one. After an hour's debate early in the session the resolution of Senator Peffer was adopted calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury for the names of persons and corporations bidding for United States bonds and the amount of bids and the rate of interest. The original resolution of Senator Stewart denying the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds at this time was taken up and consumed the remainder of the day. The Senate adjourned without action on the resolution.

The Hawaiian debate was continued Saturday in the House, but nothing particular occurred. On account of pressure for time it was agreed to extend the debate until 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with the understanding that the Boutelle resolution should be included in the special order, a vote to be taken at the conclusion of the debate upon both resolutions. The Boutelle resolution recites in its preamble that the President has invaded the rights and privileges of the House, and reprobates his action as unwarranted and un-American. Some routine business preceded the Hawaiian debate, though Mr. Bland presented the report on the bill to coin the silver bullion seigniorage in the treasury, and gave notice that he would call it up at the first opportunity. A bill to repeal section 11 of the Revised Statutes, relating to the accounts of the United States Treasurer, reported by the joint commission to investigate expenditures in the executive departments, was passed without objection.

The federal elections repeal bill occupied the whole of Monday in the Senate. Senator Chandler concluded his speech, which had extended through two or three weeks, and was followed by Senator Palmer, who argued that the law having entirely failed of its purpose and being generally obnoxious should be repealed. An animated controversy of the franchise qualifications of the State constitutions of Mississippi and Massachusetts took place between Senators Frye and Hoar on one side and Senators Gray and Bate on the other. The Hawaiian debate occupied the attention of the House, a night session being held to permit speeches by those members who desired to talk, but who otherwise would not have had an opportunity to do so on account of the limited time allowed. Representative Warner (Dem., N. Y.) introduced a bill for an elastic currency. It contains many of the provisions of the bill which was reported by the sub-committee on banking and currency as a measure for repeal of the 10-per-cent tax on State banks. Congressman McGann tried to secure consideration of a resolution favoring impeachment of Judge Jenkins for issuing his famous injunction restraining the employes of the Northern Pacific Railroad from striking.

The Same Old Speech.

The great Rufus Choate was once taken down completely by a Western New York lawyer of little reputation at the bar. Choate had made one of the most brilliant speeches of his life in a case at Batavia, in Western New York. Tears stood in the eyes of the jurors, a solemn hush fell over the court room, and every one felt that the suit had been won by the eloquent appeal. The opposing lawyer, a very tall man, drew himself up to his full height very slowly, and in a voice choking with emotion said: "That was beautiful, gentlemen of the jury, beautiful. I'm affected to tears; excuse these weeps. Mr. Choate spoke that piece beautifully, gentlemen. More beautifully than I ever heard him speak it before. I think it was the beautifulest thing I ever listened to. The first time I ever heard that piece, gentlemen of the jury, was down at Schenectady in a hog stealing case; the next time I heard that piece was over in Rochester in a divorce suit; the next time I heard that piece was down at Watkins in a partition case, but as often as I have heard Mr. Choate speak that piece, I never heard him speak it so beautifully as he did to-day. I am affected to tears." Choate was so indignant that he left the court room, and lost the case.

The World's Smallest Bird.

The smallest bird in the world is the "fly eater" of Cuba. It is one-third the size of the hummingbird.

How She Could Please Him.

Aunt—I wish to do something to please you on your birthday, Charlie, but first I want to ask your teacher how you behave at school.

Charlie—If you really wish to please me, auntie, don't ask him.

An Old Odd Fellow.

John Hill, of Derby, England, who is nearly 91 years old, was initiated into Prince Edward Lodge of Odd Fellows Christmas Day, 1823, and is probably the oldest living member of the order.

STATE RANKS AND PRODUCTS.

MICHIGAN is first in copper, salt and lumber, second in iron, third in sheep, fifth in hops, sixth in wheat.

GEORGIA sends out every year about 1,000,000 bales of cotton, and cuts every year 200,000,000 feet of lumber.

MISSOURI is first in mules, third in hogs and corn, sixth in iron and horses, seventh in oats, ninth in sheep.

MAINE has 20,000 square miles of pine forests. The lumber industry sends out 400,000,000 feet a year.

NEW JERSEY is first in silk manufactures and zinc, fourth in iron, sixth in buckwheat, and seventh in rye.

G. W. CHILDS IS DEAD.

THE EMINENT PHILANTHROPIST PASSES FROM EARTH.

Stroke of Paralysis Leads to the End of the Career of the Great Philadelphia Publisher—Honors that Have Crowned His Works.

Beloved by the People.

George W. Childs, proprietor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, died at his residence from the effects of a stroke of paralysis, sustained by him two weeks previous. For some time previous to the day he was stricken Mr. Childs was overrun with work. The service at the Drexel Institute in memory of the late A. J. Drexel was to be held and Mr. Childs was particularly anxious that the occasion should be in every way worthy of his lifelong friend and companion. He busied himself arranging the details of the service and as the day approached he became nervous and worried. The service was to be held Saturday, and Thursday afternoon Mr. Childs was sitting in his office at the Ledger talking with William T. Steele, his private secretary, and I. F. Shepard, night editor of the paper. Suddenly Mr. Childs began to slip forward in his chair and would have fallen to the floor if the two gentlemen had not sprung forward and raised him up. Mr. Shepard and Mr. Steele and Mr. Childs himself believed that the attack was nothing more than vertigo. Mr. Childs lay down, and Dr. J. M. Da Costa, his family physician, was sent for. When Dr. Da Costa arrived he found that Mr. Childs had had a slight stroke of paralysis, due, as the physicians have since learned, to the breaking of a small blood vessel in the head and the formation on the brain of a small clot of blood.

GEORGE W. CHILDS.

Another physician was called in. The doctors at the time did not apprehend any fatal results, as the paralysis was slight and did not greatly affect his limbs, and they had a good basis to work upon in Mr. Childs' splendid constitution and orderly life. For more than a week Mr. Childs' condition did not grow any worse, but on the contrary showed slight signs of improvement. The clot of blood on the brain, however, was not absorbed, as often happens in similar cases, and after a week the paralysis began to progress slowly. Shortly before 10 o'clock on the night of his death Mr. Childs' respiration became embarrassed and his pulse began to flag. His physicians recognized the signs of approaching dissolution, and although everything that medical science and skill could do to prolong life was done Mr. Childs sank rapidly, and at 3:01 o'clock the generous heart that beat so kindly for his fellow-men was stilled in death. Except his wife, Mr. Childs had no immediate family.

Universally Liked.

Few men have filled so wide a niche in modern American history as George W. Childs. He was not great in the sense that statesmen have been great; he was a follower of successful soldiers rather than their leader in the formation of public opinion. He was not a publicist in the sense that Horace Greeley was a publicist. He did not rank or pretend to rank with men like Garrison, Phillips, Everett, Lovejoy and the old phalanx of abolitionists; and the politician's trade was wholly foreign to his nature. Mr. Childs rarely sought to lead public sentiment, and never in his career did he so dictate the policy of the Philadelphia Ledger as to make it an aggressive factor in public affairs. To profit by the accretion already gained; to build up in conservative ways and to hold on to every element of progress and never lose a point was the chief secret of Mr. Childs' power for good. That he did a world of good nobody will deny. He acquired the means to do it, and he used it in a style of generosity peculiarly his own.

In the death of Mr. Childs Philadelphia loses one of the citizens of which the city

AT WAR WITH HERSELF.

The Story of a Woman's Atonement, by Charlotte M. Braeme.

CHAPTER XXXIV.—Continued.

She rose at last and bent over him.

"Bertram," she said, "will you forgive me?"

She never forgot the face raised to hers.

"Yes," he replied, "I will forgive you as heaven forgives those who ask for forgiveness. I will forgive the most cruel treachery ever practiced on mortal man. I will not leave you in enmity, for I shall never look upon your face again, Lady Charnleigh—never again."

"You will not go away?" she pleaded, wistfully. "You will remain here, and, in the years to come, be my friend."

"How cruel—how selfish you beautiful women are!" he cried. "No, I shall not remain here, Lady Charnleigh; I shall go far away into the outer world, where your face will not haunt me."

She clung to him, pleading, trembling.

"Do not leave me, Bertram—do not go. How shall I live—dear heaven!—how shall I live without you?"

"You should have thought of that before," he replied. "Why should I remain near you? Rather let me go and forget that one so fair and false ever lured my heart from me. I shall bid you farewell forever, Lady Charnleigh."

She was weeping so bitterly that in sheer pity he unclasped the hands that held his arm so tightly, and placed her on the moss-covered fallen tree.

"I will say good-by forever. Let me look once more at the eyes I thought all truth, at the lips I thought all sweetness, at the face I thought all beauty, at the woman whom I believed to be as noble as she is beautiful, but whom I find false. Farewell, sweet face! You will haunt me until I die. Farewell, my lost love—my fair false love! Farewell forever!"

He turned away abruptly; one word more and the strength of his manhood would have given away. He walked on with hurried steps, never pausing to look behind him, his face white and rigid, his lips set, all his quiet ease and carelessness gone from him—a desperate man, whose heart was broken, and whose strength had left him—all unconscious that the woman for whom he would have given his life lay senseless among the harebells, white, cold, and motionless, as though she were dead.

There was but one course for him, and that was to go abroad—to plunge at once into the midst of activity, confusion and excitement. His brain reeled, his head burned, his heart beat with great irregular throbs; he dared not stop to look his sorrow in the face. She was false to him—she had lured him on, yet had never intended to marry him. That one palpable fact darkened the face of the summer heavens for him—threw a funeral pall over the fair, smiling earth—gave him a loathing for life too great for words.

She, so fair, with the sunny, radiant face and light heart—she whom he had thought half goddess, half woman, wholly charming—had proved herself as false as the lightest of her fair, false sex. Henceforth there could be no woman's love for him—no smiles, no soft words, no pretty, deceitful charms. He had done with it all. A woman's love had darkened his youth and blighted his life. He would have no more of it.

Stern, angry pride kept him from giving way to despair. He was indignant, with the wounded pride of a man who has trusted in vain. His resolve was taken even as he walked home from Crown Leighton. He would never see it more, never again look in the face of its mistress, but go far away, where his sorrow and his love would be hidden from the eyes of men.

He kept his resolve. When he reached Weildon, Captain Flemyng made many inquiries as to his sudden determination; he received the most abrupt answers. Sir Bertram would say nothing but that he had received a sudden summons to go abroad, and could not delay. At first Captain Flemyng was amazed, and then a glimmer of the truth dawned upon him.

"Leonie has rejected him," he said, "and it is for his sake—to save him pain—that she wishes our engagement to be kept a secret."

That conviction made him very kind and considerate to Sir Bertram. He assisted him in his preparations—he drove him to the station—he begged of him to write.

"I cannot promise," replied Sir Bertram. "A great sorrow has come to me, and it has unmanned me. If in after years I can live it down I will write to you.—If you never hear from me again you will know that my sorrow can never die."

Long after he had gone those words haunted Paul.

"It seems very strange," he thought, "that love should cause so much misery. One fair face breaks many hearts."

He waited long weeks and months for news of his friend, but none came; and Captain Flemyng knew then that he had not lived his sorrow down.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Life came back with a shock to the young girl who lay so hopeless and despairing among the wild flowers; her lips parted with a deep-drawn sigh, her eyes opened to the light, and then they closed in weariness of spirit too great for words.

He was gone—he had bidden her farewell forever; nothing could pain her after that, nothing could please her. She rose and looked round her; the harebells where she had fallen were crushed and broken. She raised one or two of them in her hands, and looked wistfully at the broken stems.

"I need not have crushed you," she said, "even if I was crushed myself. How much I must have suffered to fall senseless there. How dearly I must love Crown Leighton and all belonging to it, when I am willing to sin so deeply and suffer so terribly in order to keep it!"

Then she walked slowly home. It was all over; she had taken the irrevocable step; nothing could bring Bertram back to her again. Even should some sudden impulse of contrition seize her and urge her to confess, it would not bring him back; he had lost her. She had nothing to live for now save pleasure, brilliant gayety, the queenship of fashion. She had willfully given up all the higher and nobler duties of life; they were as nothing to her in comparison with her love of luxury and magnificence.

"I must not complain," said the girl, to herself; and yet though she loved her surroundings so dearly, they were as nothing in comparison with what she had lost. She had that which her soul loved best, but at present it brought her nothing save what was wearisome.

She fancied that in a few days she would be happier—when she had forgotten the recent terrible shock. The finding of the will, the losing of Sir Bertram—these two things had come so quickly one after the other that she had had no time to strengthen herself. She planned to herself, as she went home, how she would give another fete, more brilliant, more magnificent, than the last; she tried to engage her whole fancy in thinking what she should do to give the entertainment greater eclat; and yet beneath all the bright fancies rose the dark remembrance that she would not be there. What would a fete be worth that he did not share? Of what interest would all the display of her magnificence be if he were not by to see?

She wondered at the change that seemed to have fallen over everything; there seemed to be no more light in the sunshine—no more beauty in the flowers. She had loved the lilies and roses so well, that she had seldom passed them without a caressing touch; she passed them now with averted face—they only reminded her of that which now she must forever forget.

"Do let us find something amusing," she said, when, a few hours later, she and her two friends were alone in the drawing-room. "I am getting tired of this quiet existence, auntie; we must go to Paris, or Italy, or some other place where a little of what is called 'life' can be seen."

"What fever of unrest is upon you, Lady Charnleigh?" asked Miss Dacre. "It is not many hours since you were queen of the most brilliant scene I ever witnessed, and now you complain of wanting something to amuse you."

"I like continual excitement, Ethel; I should like every moment of my day so fully occupied as not to leave one second for quiet or leisure. There is nothing so tiresome as feeling time hang heavy on one's hands."

"That is not a very healthy frame of mind, Leonie," said Lady Fanshawe. "Continued excitement is like fever."

"It would suit me," she returned. What could rest and leisure bring her? Nothing but time for reflection; and that she did not want.

So a few days passed. She had to listen to all the often expressed wonder of her companions as to why Sir Bertram never came. She had to sit, with a smile on her face, at Lady Thornbury's dinner party, while Major Shelton told how their visitor, Sir Bertram, had left them suddenly, and had gone, it is believed, to Egypt. It seemed to her that the wondering comments would never end. She was obliged to listen and to join in them with a pain at her heart so sharp, so keen, that it was with difficulty she could refrain from crying aloud in her anguish.

"You did not tell me that Sir Bertram was going," said Miss Darce to Leonie on the first occasion that she found herself alone with her. "You might have trusted me so far. I can imagine why he has gone. Oh, Leonie, I thought you loved him!"

"Did you?" she returned carelessly. "I am not a fit being for loving, Ethel. My heart is cold and hard as a nether-mill-stone. Sir Bertram is gone—he will never come back—I do not wish to hear his name mentioned any more. Will you bear that in mind? The greatest kindness you can show me is never to mention his name in my presence."

"I will remember," said Miss Dacre. Her fair face grew very pale. She understood. Lady Charnleigh had refused Sir Bertram, and did not care to be reminded of the pain it had cost her.

"I was so sure that she loved him," thought Ethel. "I cannot be mistaken. She has shown her preference for him in a hundred different ways. Can it be possible that she likes Paul Flemyng better?"

She was soon to know the truth. They had agreed to keep the engagement a profound secret, but Paul betrayed it at every moment; it was not told in words but in actions—there was an air of proprietorship about him when he spoke to Leonie, or of her, that betrayed the truth.

The day came when Ethel Dacre was certain of it. She entered the library suddenly one morning and saw Paul Flemyng kissing Leonie's hand. For one-half moment she stood paralyzed—the certainty of her forebodings rushed upon her—she knew Lady Charnleigh so well. With all her gayety and her graceful, laughing manner, there was about her a dignified reserve that was never broken through. She would not have allowed Paul Flemyng to kiss her hand unless he had a right to do so.

Then, with a desperate effort she recovered herself and moved forward. Paul advanced to meet her. He was always pleased to see her; his kindly liking for her had increased, not diminished; and from the sunshine of his great happiness it was only natural that some light should fall upon her.

* * * * *

One morning Leonie, having a small drawing to finish, had her table placed in the deep bay-window of the library. She drew the rich hangings so as to shut out the room from her sight, lest it should distract her; she opened the long window, so that the perfumed air might enter, then seated herself at the little table and soon became engrossed in her work. Before long Ethel Dacre entered, and went up to one of the book-shelves—she was looking apparently for some book that she was doubtful where to find; before Leonie had time to speak Paul Flemyng entered.

"Is Lady Charnleigh here?" he asked, and Ethel, never thinking of the bay-window, answered, "No."

Leonie laughed to herself; it was purely from a spirit of girlish mischief that she did not speak. "If Paul wants me," she said to herself, "let him search a little longer."

"I cannot find her," he observed disconsolately, and Miss Dacre laughed a little constrained laugh at his piteous face.

"I think," she said, gently, "that you have found her in the true sense of the word."

Paul's face flushed.

"You were always like a sister to me, Ethel—the dearest and kindest of sisters; I can tell you only this—that I am without exception the happiest man in the world."

"Although you have lost Crown Leighton? she interrupted.

"I had forgotten that there was ever any chance of my having it," he said. "It is in better hands, Ethel. I never even think of it now."

While he was speaking he had taken from a vase that stood on a little stand near him a beautiful spray of jasmine; he looked at it, and then in the earnestness of his words began to pull the leaves one from the other; finally he dropped it, and it lay unnoticed on the floor.

"Where do you think I shall find Lady Charnleigh," he asked.

"In the grounds, most probably," replied Ethel; "she has a personal acquaintance with every flower that grows."

He went laughing out of the room.

"Let him look for me," said Leonie to herself; "nothing does a man so much good as waiting for anything he wants."

She was just going to tell Ethel that she had overheard the few words spoken, when the sound of passionate weeping fell upon her ears. Looking out, she saw Ethel Dacre kneeling on the ground where Paul had stood, her face buried in her hands; convulsive sobs shook her whole frame—she had taken the flower he had dropped as though it had been some cherished relic.

"He loves her," she sobbed—"he loves her, and he will never care for me! I would give my life for him, but he will never care for me."

When Leonie heard these words she laid down her pencils, and stole quietly out through the open window. Not for the world would she have listened to words never intended for mortal ears—she would not have intruded on sorrow that was sacred, and grief that in itself was holy. She went out where the sun shone brightly on the flowers, feeling more unhappy than she had been yet.

This, then, was the secret of Ethel's life—this was why she looked sad and wistful—why the expression of her beautiful spirituelle face recalled that of Elaine in the picture. She loved Paul Flemyng with all the strength of her heart, and he knew nothing of it.

"Sin spreads like a ripple on a clear pool," she said to herself; "where will the consequences of mine end? I marred the life of the only man I can ever love; and now I stand between this girl and her happiness. Ah, me! I pay a bitter price for being called Lady Charnleigh."

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Three months passed, and the engagement between the heiress of Crown Leighton and Captain Paul Flemyng was made known. People had but one opinion. As far as Lady Charnleigh herself was concerned, it was, of course, a very poor match, for she might have mated with the highest and wealthiest in the land; but, looking at it from a fair point of view, it was exactly right. It must have been a keen disappointment to Captain Flemyng—so nearly heir, and yet not heir after all; now Crown Leighton would be his by marriage, that was next best to inheriting it. Many people said, too, that he would be sure to have the title as well—letters-patent would be taken out, and he would be Lord Charnleigh after all. Public opinion said it was a very proper ending to what had been a most romantic case.

Captain Flemyng was the only one who could hardly believe his happiness to be real—it seemed to him so great it could scarcely be true. It was not for her wealth that he loved Lady Charnleigh. If she had been penniless he would have married her, and worked for her as man never worked before; he would have been better pleased if she had been poor, that he might have shown the strength and purity of his love. The only drawback to him was that wealth must come to him from the hands of his wife. He would fain have had it otherwise.

He had pleaded with her for an early marriage, but she had looked up at him with wearied eyes, and prayed him to let that question rest—not to mention marriage yet; she was happy and did not want to change her life so quickly. His handsome face clouded ever so slightly; he seized her hand and held it tightly.

"Leonie," he cried, "do you know there are times when I almost doubt whether you love me? I look forward to my marriage with you as the crowning happiness of my life—you think of it merely as an uncomfortable change; that does not look like love, Leonie."

Any reproach from Paul touched her keenly. Had she not already done him harm enough? Had she not wronged him more deeply than woman ever wronged man before? She was not given to caressing, but, when she saw that wounded look on his face, she bent her head and kissed his hand.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

THE KAISER'S SALARY.

It Is a Big Sum, but His Expenses Are Also Very Large.

Few Americans know the sums which royal persons receive from the countries over which they rule for their own maintenance. Such salaries are much larger than we pay our President, but on the other hand, the expense of keeping up a royal position is proportionately greater. The Emperor William of Germany receives yearly 18,929,966 marks, which is equal to about $4,732,241, payable quarterly in advance. On the first of every quarter the Kaiser's private treasurer draws his master's allowance from the treasury sealed in various packets and its correctness sworn to. Three times the money is counted and then put in a strong box, and under a guard it is taken to the royal palace. With much ceremony it is there unloaded and placed in the vaults, after which the treasurer signs a document giving it over to his Majesty's hands.

But of the sum thus received the Kaiser allows his wife $250,000 annually on which she must support her household, pay her attendants, etc., as well as settle all her own personal expenditures.

The Kaiser must pay the wages of all his dependents from his salary. This list is tremendous. He feeds and clothes 1,500 lackeys all the year round, and there are also about 350 female servants to be looked after. Besides these he has a private pension list which costs him $50,000 annually, for every servant, of high or low degree, is entitled to a pension after twenty years of service. The Kaiser also pays his mother a pension of 2,000,000 marks, and for the support of the Royal Theater and Opera House he pays out 1,650,000 marks every year.

From this list it can easily be seen that his Majesty must sometimes feel as poor as common mortals when his bills are paid, and his need of ready money is sometimes great.

New York's Overflowing Tenements.

Nowhere in the world is there a denser population to the square mile than in the tenement house district of New York. In six wards there is an average population of 252,834 to the square mile, and in the Tenth Ward the ratio is 357,888 to the square mile. This congested district embraces scarcely one-twenty-fifth of the whole city's area, but it furnishes "homes" for nearly one-quarter of the city's population, and incidentally provides 10,000 yearly of the 40,000 deaths and 80 per cent. of the criminals. Instances of the crowding of from seven to twelve persons in two small rooms are not unusual discoveries, and all the conventionalities of civilization and the very instincts of common decency are necessarily wiped out. Morality and cleanliness, under such circumstances, are of course impossible. The most thickly populated district of Old London is credited with only 175,816 to the square mile, and none of the continental cities approach the terrifying congestion of New York's "Teeming Tenth."

Goat Raising a Growing Industry.

Goat raising is an important and growing industry in Oregon and some other northwestern States. One rancher in Benton county, Ore., has a fine herd of 450 goats, which includes a number of thoroughbred Angora bucks. Twenty-two cents a pound is the lowest this man has received for a fleece in a dozen years, while frequently he has received 30 to 35 cents a pound. The average yield from a goat is about four pounds, but eight to ten pounds is frequently obtained from high grade goats. The goats are not only valuable for their fleece, but in clearing off land, as they subsist largely on brush and weeds.

IT is magnificent, but it is not war.—Pierre Bosquet, a French General. Spoken of the charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava.

MY VALENTINE.

'VE a lover in my fancy
So gallant, grand and gay,
That if he came a-courting
I could not say him nay.

He has a merry dimple
In the middle of his chin;
It is the cunning ambush
Where Cupid lurks within.

His cheeks are like the roses,
His eyes are like the stars;
He's the grace of an Apollo
And the bravery of Mars.

In fancy he's my lover,
And I'm his sweetheart true;
And, oh, in form and feature
He much resembles—you!

—Henrietta Gardner.

POTTS' VALENTINE.

I know that I am a married man. I acknowledge it freely. I am sorry for it, and would gladly change it, but change of that kind is scarce, scarcer even than scrip.

It is one of the problems of life the way a woman will hang to a man after she gets him, and how dreadful loath she will appear to be to have him while he is trying to court her.

Now, there was Mrs. Potts. Before I married her I used to have to coax her three or four hours to permit me to press my ruby lips to hers, and after I got a mustache, and was dying to know how it would seem to kiss a woman with one on, I had to promise her a new set of jewelry to let me find out. And after that she acted as if she had as much curiosity to find out as I had. I coaxed her to marry and she said she didn't want to marry. She had decided to live an old maid.

Now, when I would be glad to persuade her to live a life of single-blessedness she won't be persuaded. She says she has got used to hearing somebody snore, and she shouldn't know how to get along without the old familiar sound.

If it be true that she hears snoring, she must hear herself, for I am positive I never snore. No, never. If I did I should have heard it before now, of course.

Mrs. Potts is in the habit of reprimanding me for being too boyish for a married man. I like a little bachelor party now and then. I like, once in a while, to go where I know no woman will ever come. It sort of rests a fellow that has been nagged for years. No disrespect meant to the ladies. Not by any means. They are all angels, but then one might weary of the society of angels if one liked to smoke and take a little brandy occasionally. Because angels are not supposed to smoke or drink. No disrespect to angels, either.

February the fourteenth was a great day for Purdy. It was the anniversary of the birth of Purdy's twins. He is prouder of these twins than a cat would be of two tails. Well, it is every man's duty, as a citizen and a Christian, to be proud of twins. They count high, as doublets do in backgammon.

Mrs. Purdy and Mrs. Potts, on Valentine's Day, took the twins out to their grandmother's, and Purdy and I had an oyster supper at the Red Man's Lodge, with some champagne and a sprinkling of brandy.

It was all on account of the twins, you know, and if any blame is to be attached to anybody, blame the twins.

We all sung songs and told some stories, and smoked a box of cigars, and then we began to go home. I say began, for it was a work of time. The sidewalks were so confounded slippery, and our boots were just like the sidewalks. They do make such uncommon slippery boots nowadays.

And Purdy and I were tired, too. It is tiresome work to make speeches and shake hands with your friends who congratulate you on having twins. It is true I had no twins myself, but I sympathized with Purdy, and entered into the hand-shaking with spirit.

Purdy sat down several times to rest on the way home, and he hugged a policeman who told us to move on, and told him he had got twins. The policeman said, "Hang the twins," and went his way.

Purdy couldn't find his front door keyhole, and I seemed to have forgotten all about where his front door was, and we concluded to go into my house and wait till that front door came round.

It was about eleven o'clock, and almost time to expect our wives home with the twins. We made our toilet for them. I curled my hair, and put some of Araminta Maud's Bloom of the Lily on my cheeks and nose, which the cold winter zephyrs had made purpled-red. Cold weather ruins a man's complexion. Purdy washed his face in cologne, and poured some in his handkerchief, but it turned out that there was hair dye in the cologne bottle, and Purdy's face was just the color of mahogany. The deuce take the women! Who else but a woman would ever have thought of putting hair dye in a cologne bottle to deceive innocent men and trusting servant-girls?

Just as Purdy had finished wiping off as much as he could of the dye, on Mrs. Potts' muslin gown, which hung on a chair to air, my eye fell on a large package addressed to myself.

P. POTTS, Esq. A VALENTINE.

"Well," says I, "a valentine for you, Potts, my boy! If I am married, the ladies do not neglect me! What can it be?"

"A d—dressing gown!" said Purdy, leaning over to examine the bundle; but he leaned too far, and his head more than balanced his heels, and he came down handsomely, with his feet in Mrs. Potts' workbasket and his head in the wash-bowl.

We fished him out, he and I, and then we opened the bundle. It was a good-sized red flannel petticoat, with a label pinned to it, which read thus:

"P. POTTS—VALENTINE—Under Petticoat Government."

"Put it on," says Purdy, "and I'll dance a round with you as if 'twas a female woman 'longside me."

I made the attempt, with Purdy to help me, but it wouldn't seem to go on in the natural way; and Purdy proposed that he should hold the band of it open, while I got down on the floor and crawled into it.

We were just doing this when we heard voices below, and the cross "yah, yah!" of a tired baby, and knew that the ladies had returned. Mrs. Purdy was coming in to rest a little and talk over the events of the day.

"Lord!" says I: "if Araminta sees me thus it will be all up with Potts."

And I hastened to scramble out of the thing, and had just dropped it on the floor when the ladies and the babies came in. Purdy—wise Purdy!—had jumped in behind the bed at the first sound of their approach, and I was left to face the storm unarmed and single-handed.

Mrs. Potts had a baby in her arms—so had Mrs. Purdy. Mrs. Potts' eyes fell on that petticoat the first thing.

Never shall I forget the expression of her face.

"POTTS," says she, in capital letters an inch long, and in a voice to which the voice of the roaring lion would be like the bleat of a lamb.

"My dear!" says I, with my most affectionate intonation.

"Where is she?" demanded Mrs. Potts.

"She?" says I. "Well, really, my dear, that is a question which is open to discussion—ain't it, Purdy?"

When I spoke to Purdy, Mrs. Purdy flung a turn on the bed, and with one leap she cleared the mattress, and landed on the other side, with her hands in Purdy's hair.

"You villain! you rascal!" cried she. "You, the husband of a confiding wife, and the father of twins, shut up in a chamber with a strange petticoat!"

"It's Potts' works—I know it is!" screeched Araminta; "he is false as Satan! Where is the woman? I'll tear her into inch pieces! I'll claw her heart out! I'll bust her pull-back! I'll—I'll—I'll——"

And here she ceased threatening, and flew at me with a will. She drew maps on my face with her finger-nails; she kicked my shins with those French kid shoes of hers bought with my money; she tore my vest in two up and down the back; and to complete all, she rubbed my nose on the stove-pipe, and tenderly expressed the opinion that hanging was too good for me.

I told her I was glad to hear it, for I had observed in the course of a long and varied life that people were not likely to get much of what was too good for them.

Purdy had been lying under the bed for some time, and his wife was putting in the licks where they would do the most good.

I explained matters to Mrs. Potts while she paused to take off her back hair; for, if you are a family man, you know that a woman's back hair always comes down in a scrimmage, and when she stops and takes it off you had better be on your guard, for depend upon it she means business.

Purdy swore to what I had said, and we showed the two ladies the wrappings and the address which had come on the bundle, and they subsided. Only Mrs. Potts declared she knew the petticoat came from old maid Ann Stiggins, who used to be an old flame of mine, and who has hated Araminta ever since our marriage.

We were a happy family that night, and Mrs. Potts gave the petticoat to Mrs. Purdy to make a pair of 'em for the twins; and Purdy says:

"Tell 'em to send their valentines right along. It'll pay a man to have twins," he says, "when he has such substantial encouragement."—Exchange.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

From the Earliest Times It Has Been Observed as Cupid's Holiday.

It is singular that the first saint to be canonized should have for his memorial a custom as amusing and sentimental as that which has made St. Valentine's day one of general observance in all civilized countries. St. Valentine was a gentle and charitable Christian bishop who for the great crime of converting the pagans was first beaten cruelly with clubs and then beheaded. His martyrdom occurred in 270, in the reign of Marcus Aurelius Claudius, upon the 14th of February. As a saint he is supposed to have special power in cases of epilepsy. There was erected to his memory a church in Rome by Pope Julius called the Church of St. Praxades, and the gate to the city was named the Porta Valentini, after the good bishop.

Now comes the modern historian to inform us that the day and custom antedated St. Valentine and was a pagan holiday of the Saturnalia and Lupercala, the first the annual holiday of the slaves, the last a festival held in the month of February in honor of two heathen deities, Pan and Juno. The custom of the day was a lottery in which the names of young women were drawn from a box by the young men. The drawing resulted in an attachment or companionship which lasted until the next observance of the day. These customs continued until Francis de Sales, in 1600 or thereabouts, substituted the names of saints in the lottery box, which refined and pious custom still exists in old and devout families in Italy. It is the only religious feature that ever attended the festival which has for its origin the pagan love of merry-making.

It is presumable that the name of St. Valentine was given to the 14th of February for the memorable reason that the good bishop suffered martyrdom on that day. But the poets and dramatists ignore the saint and espouse the ornithologist. They support the idea that on this day the birds choose their mates.

Tradition says that the present fashion of giving and receiving gifts and choosing a valentine, originated with the knights of foreign courts, who met at this time for tournaments of fighting and feasting. The fair damsel of that period chose her knight, who, for twelve months, was her troubadour and sworn to do her bidding. One of the customs of the eve of St. Valentine was to take five bay leaves and pin them to a pillow. The young damsel who did this was sure to dream of her valentine, to whom she would be married before the year was out. To catch a lover asleep on St. Valentine's day means to kiss him and win a pair of gloves. As a young man is very willing to pay this modest price for a kiss from his true love, there is much innocent shamming for the privilege. In the same way the youths of the past were abroad early in the morning of St. Valentine's day that they might be the first to meet the fair ones of the opposite sex, who strolled out on the same gentle errand. Those who did not go out watched at windows.

The age which succeeded the pagan observances of the day, and which was marked by the chivalrous attentions of knights to ladies, was the golden age of valentines. Costly and elegant gifts were bestowed, and the most chivalrous and tender sentiments were expressed in the courtly language of the day. The first valentine ever written was penned by Charles, Duke of Orleans, who was a captive in England at the time. It leaves the impress of his character, and the age of chivalry in which he lived, and the quaint French rhymes compare well with our fine modern love verse.

In some parts of England the old traditional customs are the same as with us to-day. Youngsters go about ringing door bells and sounding knockers; at the same time the letters or packages are thrust under the door, and the bearer is off like the wind. The whole town is kept in a hubbub until a late hour. This is on St. Valentine's eve. The next day the postman appears laden with the post valentine.

In this country great pains is taken to have some new offerings in the shape of expensive satin and lace missives, but the old German lace-paper valentine, which reveals in its telescopic depths a miniature village, or castle, or pastoral scene, has the preference. These are cheap, and convey the sentiments of the sender as well as the more expensive ones. And they are dear from associations. The emblems are cupids and doves, and the poetry—what can be more expressive?

That phase of the day which was formerly illustrated by the merry-making of individuals is now carried out by means of the masquerade and the comic valentine. These flaming pictures, set to verses that ridicule every sort of character and only stop short of being scurrilous, are sold in enormous quantities. Some of the characters are dangerously apt. It frequently happens that in the secrecy and hurry of sending these anonymous communications the missives are exchanged, and ludicrous mistakes occur.

Long before St. Valentine's day and after it, the pretty correspondence of Cupid is sent off by mail to all parts of the world. The pleasant holiday with its loves and doves, hearts and darts, masks and mummeries, fell out of popular favor for a few years. But it is a fete of the people, and the people revived it again. In exclusive circles, valentine balls, valentine lunches and other pastimes distinguish the anniversary of the good old saint and keep his memory green.

A Valentine Bee.

"I'm going to write a valentine to papa," said Clara, who was twelve years old.

"I'm going to write a valentine to papa," said Johnnie, who was nearly eleven, and taller than Clara, and determined not to be outdone by her, especially where papa was concerned.

"So'm I," put in eight-year-old Bess.

"Me, too," said six-year-old Bertie, who could print nicely.

"I'm a-doin' to write 'im a' whole lot o' balentimes," said Boy Blue, who was hardly four, and didn't even know his letters.

"Why, of course, let's all write valentines to papa," said mamma, brightly. "Grandma will, I know, for he's her own boy. We'll paste 'em all together, with hers at the beginning and Boy Blue's at the end. Won't that make a grand combination valentine? And I know 'twill please papa."

"We'll have a sort of valentine bee," said grandma, "like the paring bees I've told you about. Now, let's all sit around the big table and go to work. Boy Blue shall have my gold pencil to write his."

"And we'll write on this legal-fold note-paper," said mamma. "Write just on one side and we'll paste them to end, and here's a great long envelope to send them in. Now, let's be busy and get them done before the postman comes."

Papa was away on business. It seemed to the little folks that he had been gone a long time, but, anyhow, they could send him a great big valentine, and the pens and pencils and paint brushes were very busy indeed for the next hour.

If I could show you all the verses and pictures that went into that valentine I know you'd laugh.

Each sheet of mamma's paper, when unfolded, was a foot long; so that when grandma and mamma and Clara and Johnnie and Bessie and Bert and Boy Blue had all written and printed and drawn and painted their valentines, and mamma had joined them together end to end, the grand combination valentine was seven feet long.

"More'n a foot longer than papa," said Bertie, as they gathered around to admire their work.

"Now we must put it into the envelope," said mamma, "for it's nearly time for the postman."

"I guess he's coming now," said Clara; "I hear some one."

The next minute there was a rush to the door, and the valentine was left spread on the table.

Nobody cared whether the postman came or not, for there was papa himself, and I can't begin to tell you how pleased he was with his grand combination valentine.

The Considerate Girl.

"A kiss upon this valentine
I press," he wrote to her,
"I've placed it underneath this line;
I hope you won't demur."

"I do not want the kiss you sent,"
She answered, "not at all!
But just because it was well meant
I'll keep it till you call."

—Tom Mason, in Life.

A Modern Valentine.

I've written it, love, with a stiff steel pen;
For the geese, I understand,
Are so learned now that their quills, I trow,
Must supply their own demand.

I've secured it, love, by the aid of glue,
Instead of a strand of hair,
Which I cannot obtain, for I see, with pain,
I have really none to spare.

I send it to you by the postman, love;
For Cupid, I grieve to hear,
Is afraid of the cold, and has grown so old
That he doesn't go out this year.

But the message is ever the same, my love,
While the stars their course fulfill,
Though to me and to you it may seem quite new,
'Tis the old, old story still.

—Caroline W. Latimer.

Novel Manifolding.

An Italian inventor proposes a novel method for duplicating copies of writing. The mechanism for this purpose is provided with two pens, supported by a framework in such a manner that their points are always in the same horizontal plane; a pen at the right is intended for the operator or writer, and the least stroke made by this pen is at the same time duplicated by a pen at the left. The framework is so joined and hinged that the pen can be moved in any direction, and a counter-balance takes the weight of the frame from the hand, so that the act of writing is made almost as easy as with the usual pen and holder.

Two ink-wells are provided at the base of the stand, and the dipping of the pen in one well causes the pen to dip into the opposite well; and when the two sheets of paper to be written on are placed parallel to each other and secured, the remainder of the work is as simple as ordinary writing. The instrument is designed in especial for furnishing duplicates of contracts and of those legal and other documents which it is often desirable to have duplicated not only in words but also in the paper and handwriting.

Victoria's Stunted Figure.

The shortest sovereign of the old world, that is, for her age, is Queen Victoria, who is under five feet in height, and almost as broad as she is long. Nor does she make any attempt to remedy this condition by any artificial means, for the boots which she wears are almost entirely devoid of heels and are roomy in the extreme, while many a year must have passed since she has had occasion to require the services of her corsetiere. Even when standing by the side of the very shortest men she appears small and stunted, and under the circumstances it is wonderful how she should be able to move about with so much grace and majesty.

OUR country's welfare is our first concern, and who promotes that best, best proves his duty.—Harvard.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Odd, Curious, and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

Let Us All Laugh.

ONE'S shortcomings go a long way against him.—Galveston News.

ALWAYS look after things before they get by you.—Galveston News.

THE good hackman is known by his carriage.—Florida Times-Union.

BREWERS should belong to the order of Knights of Malta.—Picayune.

ARDENT SPIRITS—Those that kill the medium at a seance.—Texas Siftings.

"NEVER too old to learn" does not apply to "After the Ball."—Elmira Gazette.

THE neighbor's bulldog may teach a man to lead a chased life.—Florida Times-Union.

A DEAF MUTE can scarcely be said to have pronounced ideas.—Philadelphia Record.

SNOOSBY—What did old Davy Trimble die of? Bogsby—Of his in-tials.—Exchange.

THE man who gets in office may be called the master of the situation.—Florida Times-Union.

THEATRICAL companies that do the least walking are those with the most legs.—Elmira Gazette.

FOR constant cheerfulness the German takes the cake; he is always a chipper.—Lowell Courier.

"JOHNNY, is your father a free man?" "Yes, mom; when he knows he's wrong."—Plain Dealer.

"NOW, I WANT to give you a point," said the doctor as he prepared to use his lancet.—Boston Traveller.

SHE—Do you like Wagner's music? He—Oh, yes, since I have become partially deaf.—Detroit Free Press.

GUIDE—Have you seen the Sistine Chapel? Tourist—Sixteen? Why, I've seen about fifty of them!—Hallo.

THE cook-book recipe is too often like the disappointing novel. It does not come out right.—Boston Transcript.

EVERY woman thinks there should be a law to protect her husband from paying a bet that he loses.—Atchison Globe.

JULSON says that under the law against gambling a bookmaker's contracts are not binding.—Buffalo Courier.

WIFE—What kind of cards do you think make the best calling cards? Husband (absent-minded)—Aces.—Rochester Democrat.

IT is comparatively easy to go to a foreign port, but wine experts say that precious little foreign port comes to us.—Lowell Courier.

CALLER—Has Dr. Killquick many troublesome cases on hand? Office Boy—No; his patients never last more than three or four days.

"BILHEIN'S is a strong face, or I'm no judge of physiognomy." "It ought to be. He and his whole family are living on it."—Buffalo Courier.

A KENSINGTON man calls his dog "Traction," because as soon as he lets him out of the house he goes tearing up the street.—Philadelphia Record.

MOST people get their grip checked if they are going away. Some people who fail to get their grip checked in time go away never to return.—Troy Press.

JINKS—I don't think it looks well for a minister to wear diamonds. Filkins—Why not? Aren't there sermons in stones?—Kate Field's Washington.

"I WONDER what this image represents?" "The god of humor, probably. Don't you see that it is full of little funny cracks?"—Indianapolis Journal.

JINKS—"Don't you believe that spirits are all moonshine?" Filkins—"Oh, no; some of them pay internal revenue taxes."—Kate Field's Washington.

"I SEE they have founded a new secret order and called it 'The Supreme Tribe of Ben Hur.'" "Is that so? Well, such an order has never been heard of."

"I WONDER how it was discovered that fish was a brain food?" She—Probably by the wonderful stories that men tell who go fishing.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

HOW DID it happen that Miss Blanche refused you? It was understood that you were her favorite?" "The regular way—the favorite didn't win."—Tid-Bits.

PROF. LANGLEY'S efforts to devise a practical aerial machine are now being seconded by Prof. Graham Bell, who is taking a flyer that way.—Philadelphia Ledger.

STRAWBER—"What have you in that envelope that you are handling so carefully?" Singerly—"A live fly. I've got to catch an early train in the morning."—Judge.

WHENEVER a man fails his wife tells the public that he was too "conscientious" to succeed. What she tells him in private is sometimes different.—Atchison Globe.

DINWIDDIE—"Bookkeepers and sleight-of-hand performers have much in common." Van Braam—"How so?" Dinwiddie—"They both flourish in the ledger domain."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

MINKS—What earthly use have you got for six horses? Winks—Guess you don't know much about horses, do you? Minks—N-n-o. Winks—I keep six so that I will always have two that won't have anything the matter with them.—New York Recorder.

SMART NEPHEW—"Yo' can't read nothin', Uncle Eph'm; dat sign it say 'Meals in de pot!' I guess I kin read." Uncle Ephraim—"Go 'way, now—I done read dat fo' yo' did. Ob co'se it say 'Meals in de pot,' but what I wants to know is, wha' am de pot?"—Judge.

BURGLAR (soliloquizing)—"Yer never hear a good word for a housebreaker. They never take into consideration that we're obliged to be out in all kinds o' weather, an' that most o' our work has to be done while lazy folks is sound asleep in their beds."—Tid-Bits.

The Best Shoes for the Least Money.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

$5, $4 and $3.50 Dress Shoe.
$3.50 Police Shoe, 3 Soles.
$2.50, $2 for Workingmen.
$2 and $1.75 for Boys.
LADIES AND MISSES, $3, $2.50 $2, $1.75

CAUTION.—If any dealer offers you W. L. Douglas shoes at a reduced price, or says he has them without the name stamped on the bottom, put him down as a fraud.

W. L. DOUGLAS Shoes are stylish, easy fitting, and give better satisfaction at the prices advertised than any other make. Try one pair and be convinced. The stamping of W. L. Douglas' name and price on the bottom, which guarantees their value, saves thousands of dollars annually to those who wear them. Dealers who push the sale of W. L. Douglas Shoes gain customers, which helps to increase the sales on their full line of goods. They can afford to sell at a less profit, when we believe you can save money by buying all your footwear of the dealer advertised below. Catalogue free upon application. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Sold by RAUT & CO., Auburn, Ind.

WONDERFUL CURES
—BY—
DR. TOWNSEND.

FREE CONSULTATION.

Dr. I. S. Townsend, Cincinnati, Ohio, Graduate of the New York Polyclinic, and Lecturer in Medical College, Cincinnati, Ohio, will visit the following visits:

Butler, Aldrich House, Monday, Jan. 22 and Monday, Feb. 19.
Kendallville, Brown House, Tuesday, Jan. 23, and Tuesday, Feb. 20.
Garrett, Ross House, Thursday, Jan. 25 and Thursday, Feb. 22
Shagola, Hendry House, Friday after Jan. 26, and Saturday, Jan. 27; Saturday afternoon, Feb. 23, and Saturday, Feb. 24.

DR. I. S. TOWNSEND devotes his entire attention to diseases of the Eye, Ear, Throat, Lungs, and to all chronic, Private and Nervous diseases and Deformities, such as Granulated Lids, Weak Eyes, Deafness, Discharge at the Ears, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Chronic Cough, Goitre, (big neck) Ulcerated Sores and Ulcers, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, all Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Heart, Stomach and Nervous Diseases; Chorea, (St. Vitus Dance) Epilepsy (Fits), General Debility, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, and all diseases due to bad blood.

Epilepsy, or Fits, positively cured by a New Never failing Remedy. Dr. Townsend also makes a specialty of all forms of Rectal Diseases. Piles—Internal and External, Itching and Bleeding, Rectal Ulcers, Fissures, Fistula—which are often taken for Nervous and Lung Diseases, all cured if taken in time. Remember I cure all forms of Piles without pain, interruption or detention from business, and without the use of Knife, Caustic, Ligature or Injection. Come and be convinced. Dr. T. has made these diseases an exclusive specialty for years.

Small Tumors, Cancers, Warts, Moles, Etc., removed without acids, knife, pain or scar. New method. It is not boasting when we can truthfully say we can remove Superfluous Hair, Freckles, Pimples, Redness in the Face, Birth Marks, and Small Pox Marks.

Catarrh. New Home Treatment, with apparatus invented by the Dr. Examine it. Unsurpassed. Cheap.

Guarantee to cure every case of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Piles, Tape Worm and Stricture, Rupture or Hernia.

☞ I will give special attention to difficult cases and to cases other physicians have failed to cure. ☜

Persons applying for treatment will please bring from two to four ounces of urine for analysis.

Those unable to see the Doctor, address Box 1408, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Reference by permission to following Banks outside of Cincinnati, where the doctor has visited for nine years: Lima National Bank, Lima, Ohio, President, B. C. Faurot; Cashier, F. L. Langan; City Bank, Presidedt, T. T. Mitchell; Cashier, E. B. Mitchell; Foster & Co., Bankers, Fostoria, Ohio, Cashier, J. E. Wilkison; Findlay, O., First National Bank, President, E. P. Jones; Cashier, Chas. E. Niles; Kenton Nat onal bank, Asher Letson, President; H. L. Runkle, Cashier.

Those not able to see the Doctor at Hotel can treat by correspondence by addressing, I. S. TOWNSEND, M. D., Cincinnati, Ohio, Box 1408.

MICHIGAN REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

Village Property.

Lots 5, 6 and 7, in block 16, in Eaton Rapids, Eaton co.
Dwelling house and lot 9, in Kendall, Van Buren co.
Dwelling house and lot 10, in Kendall, Van Buren co.
Brick store and lot in Lansing, No. 753 Turner st.
N ½ of lots 1 and 2, in block 8, in Elm Hall, Gratiot co.
Store and lot in Verona Mills, Huron co.
Store and lot in Columbiaville, Lapeer co.
Three acres at Arn Station, Bay co. (good mill site).
Two lots in village of Howard City, Montcalm co.
Five lots in village of Lyons, Ionia co.
House and lot, and 2½ acres, in Maple Rapids, Clinton co.
An undivided ½ interest in 2 frame stores and lots, and a brick store and lot in Chesaning, Saginaw co.
Three lots in Corunna, Shiawassee co.
One store and lot, and house and lot, in Port Sanilac, Sanilac co.
Two brick stores in Saranac, Ionia co., known as the J. P. Anderson block.
House and lot, 4x8 rods, in Delwin, Isabella co.
Vacant lot, No. 16, block 11, in Rogers City, Presque Isle co.
House and lot in Evart, Osceola co.
House and 2 lots in Sears, Osceola co.
Store, barn and lots, in Pompeii, Gratiot co., known as the B. A. Hicks store property.
House and 6 lots in Pewamo, Ionia co.
Store and lots, in Farwell, Clare co., known as the W. A. Carpenter & Son store property.
House and 2 lots, Nos. 13 and 14, block 42, in Farwell, Clare co.
House and lot, No. 14, block 41, Farwell, Clare co.
Barn and lots 9 and 10 and westerly one-half of lots 7 and 8, in block 19, Farwell, Clare co.
Store and lot, in Sumner, Gratiot co.
Store and lot, in Otter Lake, Lapeer co.
Brick store and lot, in Vassar, Tuscola co.
Store and lot, lot 12, block 7, Trout Lake, Chippewa co.

Farms.

Eighty acres, near Olivet, Eaton co., known as the Dowler farm.
Twenty 31-100 acres in the city of Niles, Berrien co.
Eighty acres near Leutz, Saginaw co., known as the Cobb Farm.
Eighty acres near Midland, Midland co., known as the Foster farm.
One hundred and eighty-two 31-100 acres near Quincy, Branch co., known as the Berry farm.
One hundred and fifty-seven acres near Mariette, Sanilac co., known as the Murray farm.
Seventy-five acres in Montcalm co., four miles from Riverdale, known as the Fisk farm.
Eighty-nine acres near Thornton, St. Clair co., known as the Hilliker farm.
One hundred and twenty acres near Advance, Charlevoix co., known as the Hayes farm.
Three hundred acres, four and one-half miles from Ovid, Clinton co., known as the Scott farm.
One hundred and fifty-nine 3-10 acres, three miles east of Verona mills, Huron co., known as the Redman farm.
Ninety-four and 97-100 acres, near the South Arm of Pine Lake, Charlevoix co., on Sec. 2, Town 32, N. R. 7 West, known as the Steele farm.
Eighty acres in Presque Isle co., described as N. ½ of S. W. ¼, Sec. 22, Town 35, N. R. 4 East, known as the Broster farm.
Twenty-five acres in Township of Sumner, Gratiot co., on Sec. 32, near village of Sumner.
Eighty acres in Township of Ferris, Montcalm co., described as S. ½ of N. E. ¼ of Sec. 23, Town 11, N. R. 4 West.

Unimproved Lands

In Alpena, Benzie, Cheboygan, Gladwin, Gratiot, Grand Traverse, Huron, Kalkaska, Leelanaw, Monroe, Missaukee, Mackinaw, Midland, Muskegon, Montmorency, Newaygo, Osceola, Oscoda, Ottawa, Roscommon, Saginaw, Sanilac, Tuscola and Wexford Counties, Mich., and Village Property and Farms. For descriptions, apply to

ALLEN SHELLEY & CO., SAGINAW, MICH.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is heaeby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Mary W. Mott deceased, late of said County. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN G. MOTT, Administrator.

January 16, 1894.
E. D. Hartman, Att'y

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Christopher Cloy, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANK S. CAMPBELL, Administrator.

Charles E. Emanuel, Attorney for the estate. Feb. 3, 1894.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the Auburn District Fair will be held at Gandy's Hall, Auburn Indiana on Saturday, February 10, 1894, at 10 a. m. A full attendance is desired, as business of importance is to be transacted.

SYLVESTER KUTZNER Pres.
Attest: J. J. VANAUKEN, Sect'y.

GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company for the election of 13 directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting, will be held in the general office of the company, in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 7, 1894, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m. The books for the transfer of stock will be closed February 24, 1894.

F. A. GORHAM, Secretary. 4-9

Notice to Contractors.

The Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, Indiana, will, until February 20th, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m., receive sealed proposals for the erection and completion of stone abutments for six bridges in said county; also for the erection and completion of six steel bridges; abutments and bridges to be constructed in accordance with specifications now on file in the County Auditor's office. Each bid must be accompanied by certified check of not less than four hundred dollars as surety to enter into contract within five days of letting.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA.
JOHN HOFFELDER, Pres.

Auburn, Ind., Jany. 30th, 1894.

Notice of Sale of Personal Property

Notice is hereby given, that I William Seely, Administrator of the estate of Winfield Nelson deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, February 17, 1894

at the late residence of deceased, ½ mile west of Newville, sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described personal property, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to wit:

One 5-year old mare, one 4-year old horse, one cow, one heifer, one brood sow and six shoats, one sleigh, one binder, one mower, one fanning mill, one sulky hay rake, one grain drill, one riding plow, one sulky corn plow, one double harness, one log chain and other articles.

TERMS OF SALE: For all amounts not exceeding five dollars, cash in hand. For amounts of five dollars and upwards, a credit of nine months will be given. Note, bearing six per cent interest after maturity, with approved security, and waiving Valuation and Appraisement Laws, will be required. 4-6

WILLIAM SEELY, Administrator.

Baxter & Brown, Attys.

Receiver's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, receiver of the Eagle Iron Works, a corporation, will on the premises of said corporation at Auburn Junction, in DeKalb County, in the state of Indiana on

Friday, February 9, 1894,

At the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidders the entire plant of said corporation, consisting of the real estate described and bounded by a line as follows:

Commencing five (5) chains and forty-eight (48) links west of a point on the west side of the Detroit, Eel River & Illinois Railroad right of way on the south side of the township line between sections six (6) of township number thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east in DeKalb county, Indiana, and section thirty-one (31) in township number thirty-four (34) north of said range county and state, and extending from thence south about three hundred and fifty (350) feet, or until it strikes the right of way of said railroad, thence running northeast along said right of way two hundred and forty six (246) feet thence northwest about one hundred and ninety-eight (198) feet to said township line, and thence west along said township line one hundred and ten (110) feet to the place of beginning.

Also the tangible personal property of said corporation, consisting of machinery, tools, patterns, iron, stoves, manufactured goods, castin s and material for carrying on the business of a foundry and machine shop.

Such sale of personal property will be made in bulk or in parcels as the receiver may determine on date of sale and upon the following terms:

One-third (⅓) cash on date of sale, one-third (⅓) in three months, and one third (⅓) in six months from the date of such sale, deferred payments to be evidenced by the notes of the purchaser, to bear interest at six per cent, without relief from valuation and appraisement laws and with attorneys' fees, and as to the real estate, to be secured by mortgage on the premises sold, as to the personal property, to be secured to the satisfaction of the receiver, provided that each purchaser may at his option pay the entire amount of his purchase in cash.

SAMUEL D. HANNA, RECEIVER.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Rosa Saxton is plaintiff and The Auburn District Fair, H. Eugene Trout, D. J. Swarts, F. J. Yesbera, David A. Sebring, Jacob B. Casebeer, Timothy J. Matheny, Hugh N. Culbertson, Willis B. Brown, George L. Lanning, John L. Davis, Frank E. Davenport assignee of John L. Davis, Sherman Hollister, Christopher C. Shaffer, Sylvester Rogers and John E. Walters are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three thousand seven hundred and ninety-five dollars and sixteen cents, with interest on said decree and cost, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, February 10, 1894,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p m. of said day, at the door of the court house of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following real estate, to wit.

Forty (40) acres of land off of the north end of the west half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section twenty-eight (28) township thirty-four (34) north of range thirteen (13) east, and also a strip of land fifty-three (53) feet wide off of the west side of that part of said west half of said southwest quarter (¼) lying south of said forty acres, all situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws

GEORGE C. RALSTON.
Sheriff of DeKalb County, by R. Blum, Dep.

Auburn, Indiana, January 15, A. D 1894.

C. E. Emanuel, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....FEBRUARY 8, 1894

OUR exchanges, who are so glad to copy the silly exaggerations of the Clipper about DeKalb county finances, and so much admire that great newspaper man's advice, ought to know that he himself has never been able to lay up a dollar in twenty years, except perhaps an old bony horse and equally stylish cart. He don't even have money enough to carry him through his periodical drunks (one of which he has just now been indulging in for three weeks) except by begging half dollars and quarters from business men he happens to reel up against. This is the sort of "financier" they are copying from, whose advice they seem to admire, and whose lies they are spreading broadcast to their readers. The COURIER has never said a word against any mistakes of a business character the officers of other counties may have made, though several have come to our knowledge. Yet we find a number of papers, not one of which has any reason to be unfriendly to DeKalb county, peddling these lies of a drunken dead beat, with all evidences of pleasure.

The Truth About It.

We clip the following which we found in the Angola Herald, and commend its careful perusal to those republicans who so ably talk about democratic failures and hard times:

Under Cleveland's former administration the government received more revenue than it knew what to do with, and which resulted in a vast surplus of over one hundred million dollars, that had accumulated in the treasury of the United States and was turned over to the last republican administration. Cleveland and the democratic party recommended that the tariff be reduced, thereby relieving the people of unnecessary burdens of taxation. A republican president was elected, and the republican party, under the hypocritical cry of protection to American labor, increased tariff rates. Then, to get rid of the troublesome surplus, they set about devising schemes to expend more money by sundry and increased appropriations. Scarcely a bill providing for appropriations from the National treasury passed the democratic house that was not amended by an increase of appropriation in the republican senate. How well they succeeded in four short years in transforming the huge surplus into an actual deficit, is a matter of history. The receipts under the present tariff and revenue laws are not enough to pay expenses. These receipts are what come from the McKinley tariff. It fails to provide enough money to pay government appropriations. It fails to keep factories going. It fails everywhere. Republicans must not forget that the business depression has occured under the operations of the blessed McKinley law. Banks have been wrecked while the McKinley law was protecting the country, and the republican financial system was still in vogue. There has been no change in the revenue laws, but we have been getting the effect of republican legislation and protective tariff. Had Harrison been re-elected the same laws would have been in force, and there is little doubt that the same trouble would have existed. And the same robber tariff would have continued, which would have prolonged the present depression.

Some Remarks,

(COMMUNICATED)

GARRETT, IND., Feb 5, 1884.

EDITOR AUBURN COURIER:

If you have entertained the agreeable thought expressed in your last week's COURIER, that the Garrett Clipper is getting more decent recently, just take a glance at his journalism in last week's issue, and acknowledge your mistake.

We are at present witnessing the amusing spectacle of a fierce fight between the Garrett papers, the bone of contention being the pay-patronage dispensed by the republican government of our little city.

The late accession to republicanism here, Mr. Miner, is making a strenuous effort through the columns of his Garrett Republican, to convince his patrons that his silly harrangue and abuse of all democrats and their opinions and doings, is an indispensible factor to the predicted success of McKinleyism at the approaching election.

Conscious of his own importance, he has been throwing out gentle hints that unless the pay-patronage, of which his party friends have entire control in this city, is turned over to him forthwith, his valuable assistance can not be expected or depended on by his party.

But the Garrett Clipper (for revenue only) evidently has an unsettled claim, and seems to think that previous services rendered should take preference to those in expectancy. In his attempt to give this opinion emphatic expression, in last week's issue he succeeded in giving convincing evidence that the green-eyed monster of jealousy had entire control of him, when he penned the half column of slang and abuse against his opponent, in language that would do credit to a Jesse James gang or a crowd of border ruffians. Is it not a mystery that the Clipper's prosperous "business man" for county commissioner, in whose behalf he is constantly hurling vituperations against the farmers, constituting the present board of county commissioners (our German friend Hoffelder in particular) does not call him off before every true democrat in the county will be disgusted at such warfare; and the candidate who is in need of such, and will sanction it, ought to be and is sure to be defeated if his name is announced to the nominating convention, and he need not expect that even his plethoric purse will insure for him the perpetual fidelity of the Clipper genius, who has evidently for some time past past been trying to solve the difficult problem of serving two masters at the same time.

This expounder of pure politics in his Clipper of Feb 1, by dishing up the following, "It is pretty near a fact that the old inhabitants of this county will be divorced from politics next fall. Young men will drive the band wagon," was intended to serve notice on all honest old stand-by democrats that only modern democracy goes, and unless they can show a record as bolters and party wreckers, and will flock to the Clipper's favorite candidates in humble submission, they are not permitted to participate in politcs next fall. You must be a Clipper democrat else you will be disfranchised. Great Cæsar, what a Napoleon! With his dare-devil tactics of mudslinging againt anyone, who, possibly actuated by the necessity of curtailing expenses, dare to pay up and discontinue his subscription, he seems to have been able to keep his patrons in line; but give that calf all the rope he wants and he will hang himself, or show him the mirror that will enable him to see himself as others see him.

Meanwhile Bro. Miner may draw on his stock of Job's best quality, try to get into the combination band-wagon, and wait until after the republican city election this spring, when a few more democrats of the Clipper kind have been rewarded by appointment to office or paying jobs, he may contest the Clipper's right to the pay-patronage of Garrett City Government.

GARRETT CITIZEN.

The Indiana University.

An exchange says: One of the many great educational institutions of the Hoosier State, recently received a compliment worthy of note. Harper's Weekly says that a Columbian College professor, being asked "Which is the best college in America?" replied, "If you mean as to curriculum, Indiana University." The breadth of scholarship of the faculty is in some measure indicated by the fact that its members were trained in thirty-six different universities. Among these are Harvard, Yale, Cornell, John Hopkins, Clark, Amherst, Chicago and Stanford Universisies in America, and Goettingen, Munich, Paris, Berne, Berlin, Heidelburg, Leipzig, Strassburg and other universities in Europe.

Stole Clover Seed.

(Steuben Republican.)

Last Monday morning when James Anderson, near Crooked Lake, went to his barn he missed four sacks of clover seed which he had left on his barn floor. Mr. Anderson discovered tracks in the snow leading to the road east of his house, where a sled had evidently been stopped. He followed the tracks north as far as Hall's Corners, where he lost them. He proceeded to Coldwater, where he learned that two men with a team and sled had been there that morning and sold four sacks of clover seed similar to those he had missed. He got a good description of the parties and returned to Angola, where he procured a warrant and sent Constable Carson after the supposed thief. After an all night effort the constable arrested Lawrence Kelsey who works for Wm Craig near Lake Gage. Yesterday Justice Corbin held Mr. Kelsey to appear at the next term of court, Mr. Craig furnished bond and the case will be further investigated by the grand jury. Mr. Anderson received $48 21 of the $48.22 which the boys received for the seed.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term, 1894.

Lewis E. Parker is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court by Joseph Singler, for the collection of a promissory note by proceedings in attachment, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 20th day of March, 1894, being the 14th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 23 day of January, 1894. 4-8

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

Probate Cause No. 2010.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County. } ss: In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March Term, 1894.

John C. Dick, Ellen Dick, Samantha J. Coy and George Coy, you and each of you are hereby notified that Jacob Walborn, as administrator of the estate of hristopher Dick, deceased, has filed in the circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, a petition making you defendants thereto, and praying therein for an order and decree of said court for partition and authorizing the sale of certain real estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, and in said petition described, to make assets for the payment of the debts and liabilities of said estate; and that said petition, so filed and which is now pending, is set for hearing in said Circuit Court at the court house in Auburn, Indiana, on the 12th day of March, 1894.

Witness, the clerk and seal of said court, this 6th day of February, 1894.

DANIEL D. MOODY,
Clerk DeKalb Circuit Court.
By Blanche Shilling, deputy.

E. D. Hartman, Attorney.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. ☞ Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.

DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., - Cleveland, Ohio.
MATHENY & GERKE, Auburn, Ind.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

Sold by Matheny & Gerke, Auburn.

THE LAWYER OF TODAY.

He Is Gradually Becoming More and More of a Specialist.

"There is as much learning here in the legal profession as ever, but it is not on exhibition," said a Philadelphia lawyer. "In the first place, the courts will not countenance its undue display. In old times an advocate was allowed great latitude. Formerly, in a case of damages caused by a neglected sidewalk, the attorney would be allowed to expound not only the laws relating to damages for neglect, but he might stray off into the realms of medical jurisprudence at great length, and even perorate with an allusion to the Magna Charta, the constitution and the American eagle. At present a lawyer must confine himself to the real merits of his case. The machinery of our courts has grown too costly to permit such waste of time. It follows that there is less oratorical skill displayed than in former days, especially at the period when some of our leading lawyers made a specialty of criminal defense. Now few lawyers of eminence, either in Philadelphia or the east generally, undertake the defense in a criminal case.

"Today the practice of law, like other professions, is becoming more and more specialized. A law office is simply a business office, as you may discover by visiting some of the handsome new office buildings down town. I know of one office where there are several partners, that would remind you of a banking office, and where a bookkeeper and cashier is employed to pay off clerks, typewriters and other employees. You will, however, still find veteran members of the bar pursuing old time methods in a cozy, quiet office, sitting at a baize covered table amid a wilderness of well thumbed books. They carry a dark green bag filled with briefs when they go to court, precisely as all lawyers did 50 years ago, and as London barristers still do.

"As to young lawyers, however talented they may be, if without social or political prestige, their struggle to advance in the profession is sure to be a hard one. Practice now is often inherited or transmitted in some other way. I could point out to you in Philadelphia law firms that have been confined to the members of one family or its collateral branches since the Revolution.

"I may say that there is an evident impetus to change many useless old legal methods. The remark of Lord Coleridge, when in this country, that there were many volumes of English legal decisions which it would do no harm to destroy, would answer as the mainspring of this impetus. Legislation is certainly advancing in this—that merely experimental general laws are passed with greater difficulty than formerly."

Another lawyer, older than the other, said: "Progress in the legal profession? Progress is hardly a term to apply to law, for it is founded on precedents, sometimes the older the better. For this reason jurisprudence is the least progressive of the sciences. Still there have been, no doubt, improvements in methods of practice, though I am not much of a code lawyer. I have had to study hard all my life. The younger lawyers appear to do little of that. They seem to believe, with Aaron Burr, that 'law is whatever is boldly advanced and plausibly maintained.'"—Philadelphia Record.

Trained Nurses.

The fashionable impetus which it was expected the patronage of the Princess of Wales would give to the occupation of trained nursing in England has hardly been realized. It will undoubtedly receive a stimulant in the plan, of which word now comes from there, to have nursing lectures at fashionable houses to instruct the aristocratic pupils in the rudiments at least of caring for the sick. These "afternoons" are to be illustrated with genuine hospital implements, including a patient, and, with tea and biscuits handed round, will take on as well an agreeable social tone.

A story heard recently accentuates the need of all this. It was related of an English peeress, who, wishing to master the duties of a trained nurse, procured admission to a hospital for such instruction. She proved an utterly hopeless pupil, and at length it was deemed advisable to ask her to resign. Her martial tread through the wards and general "heaviness" in all that she did actually made her presence a detriment, which would seem to indicate that even aristocratic nurses are born, not made.—New York Times.

When a Chinese Bank Fails.

Bank notes were issued in China as early as the ninth century, when the art of printing was unknown in Europe. These notes have generally been redeemed, because in China, when a bank fails, all the clerks and managers have their heads chopped off and thrown in a heap along with the books of the firm. And so it has happened in those good old barbarous times that for the past 500 years not a single Chinese bank has suspended payment.

Now that China is coming under the sway of western civilization, we have no doubt it will have the same financial troubles as its more civilized banking brethren.—Chambers' Journal.

A Chinese Invitation.

The Chinese send three invitations to the guests that they desire to see at their great repasts. The first is dispatched two days before the feast. The second on the day itself, in order to remind those they expect of their engagement, and the third just before the hour has struck, so as to show how impatient they are to see their friends arrive.—Hong-Kong Letter.

To Make It Permanent.

The faint and elusive mark of a lead pencil can be preserved by holding the written page over the spout of a fast boiling teakettle. When it has been well steamed it is "set," as the washerwoman says.—New York Evening World.

Curious Specimens.

This curious specimen of orthography was displayed on a house in a street in Marylebone: "The Mangelling Traid removed hear from the Strete round the Cornir. Thrahpense a Duzzen. N. B.—New Milk and Creme Sould Hear. Warentidd Fresh and not Stail evry Mornin."

A dealer in ice thus attracted public attention to his cold commodity:

Ice! Ice! Ice!
If you want it pure and a
And at a reasonable pr
Follow no new dev
Just send to me in a w
At my of

Like a French Duel.

Funny war
In Brazil!
Pop—bang—
Never kill;
Cocked hat,
Gold braid;
One scar't
T'other 'fraid;
Fire away,
Once a week.
Then play.
Hide and seek;
Shoot high,
Don't hit;
Oh, my,
Let's quit;
Settle up,
Pay the bill;
Funny war
In Brazil!

FEE AND SALARY LAW has been pronounced constitutional by the state supreme court so far as sheriffs are concerned. Auditors may bring a suit though.

THE rebel ships in the harbor of Rio Janeiro have been firing carelessly. They sent a musket ball at a U. S. war ship and got two shots back. There may be more trouble.

Court.

Work closed here last Saturday and is now in progress at Angola. In the case of Mrs Weaver against Wheelock to get back the strip of her residence lot so long occupied by defendant, the change of venue was not perfected and on Saturday it was called up by her attorney, Judge McClellan, and submitted to court and decision was given in her favor, and she will get the full width of her lot. The Deeters trial begins Monday at Angola. Sheriff Ralston and Deputy Blum were at the Junction Tuesday evening looking for a man who was wanted, when Agent Burns called them in saying a young man had been robbed. It turned out to be a young man from southeast of there. He claimed some tramps had caught him as he went east that evening about dark at the railroad bridge over Cedar creek and took $300. The officers took him to the place, but could find no tracks or other evidence, and think he was lying. Martin Fisher and Charles Dewey, of Allen county, are in jail for stealing wood of Milford Clark and Samuel Bricker. They had their preliminary hearing yesterday before 'Squire Walborn here and were bound over to court. About 100 witnesses have been summoned in the Deeters case, and Judge McClellan, who is for the prosecution, went over to Butler this week to look over the ground and prepare the work.

Every Lady in Auburn

Is requested to call on her druggist and try a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the great guaranteed remedy for coughs, colds and all lung and throat troubles. It is as sweet and pleasant to take as chewing gum or candy and the price is only 25 cents. It is selling entirely upon its own merits, and is guaranteen or money refunded by all druggists.

1,000,000 Wanted Circulars, Newspapers, pamphlets, Samples, Drugs, Etc., for distribution in eight leading counties of northern Indiana. Best of service guaranteed. Consignments received at all times.

10,000 Agents Wanted to place their names in our Agents' and Manufacturers' Directory, which goes whirling to reliable agents and manufacturers in 34 states in the Union, and Nova Scotia. Your name inserted for 25 Cents. Best scheme out! Try it now! Get your name before the public! Address with stamp,
Auburn Advertising & Distributing Agency, Box 437, Auburn, Indiana.
Mention this paper when you write.

A short history of China—a seven-dollar tea cup and a three dollar servant girl.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein John W. Fieldhouse is plaintiff and Gilbert McIntosh, Alta McIntosh and John W. Seiler are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three hundred eighty-three dollars and five cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, March 3d, 1894,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house, of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Lots numbered four (4), five (5) and six (6) in Lockhart's first addition to the town of Waterloo, all situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and cost, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation and appraisement laws.

G. C. RALSTON, Sheriff of DeKalb County.
By R. Blum Deputy.
Auburn, Indiana, Feb. 7th, A. D. 1894.
Delos Weaver Attorney for Plaintiff.

License Notice.

The people of Spencerville and of Concord township, DeKalb county, Indiana, will take notice that I intend to make application to the commissioners of said county for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a quantity less than a quart at a time, with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following described premises in said town of Spencerville, to-wit:

Commencing one (1) rod north of the northeast corner of lot number eight (8) in the old plat of the town of Spencerville, thence west forty-five [45] feet, thence north forty-four [44 feet, thence east forty-five [45] feet, thence south forty four [44] feet to the place of beginning

Said application will be made at the March term, 1894, of commissioners' court.

Feb. 7, 1894. GREY BRAYBROOK

POURING COUGH SYRUPS INTO THE STOMACH

Upsets the whole system and does not cure a Cough or Cold. May's Throat Diamonds are dissolved in the mouth, also burnt and the smoke inhaled. In that way you reach and medicate the mucous membrane affected.

MAY'S THROAT DIAMONDS IS THE SUREST REMEDY

Ever discovered for Catarrh in the head and will strengthen your throat. Try them for Clearing the Voice.

SOLD AT 25c. A BOX.

Throat Diamond Mfg. Co., NAUGATUCK, CONN.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST

Boston Express	8:21 am—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:30 pm ex Su
New York Limited	7:33 pm—Daily

GOING WEST

Logansport Accommodation	7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:38 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)	7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticke Agent.
CHAS. M HAYS Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 19, 1893

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne....dp	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25	5 26	7 18
Auburn	12 29	5 30	8 37
Waterloo	12 43	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 56	5 53	9 45
Steubenville	12 59	5 57	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 03	10 15
Angola	1 14	6 14	10 50
Jackson	3 30	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 ap
Angola	12 25 pm	2 08 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 05	2 20	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 27	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 32	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 34
Auburn	3 11	3 11	9 34
Auburn Junc.	3 38	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	11 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn

Notice of Appointment of Executor.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, executor of the last will of Thomas Cochran, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FRANKLIN M. TEETERS Executor.
E. D. Hartman, Atty. Feb. 3, 1894.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of Concord township, DeKalb county Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of the State of Indiana, over the age of twenty-one years, will apply to the Board of Commissioners of said county at their March session 1894, for a license to retail vinous, malt and spirituous liquors in less quantity than a quart at a time, and with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises,

On account of the popularity of our

GREAT SENSATION SALE,

The same will be continued until

TUESDAY, FEB. 20, 1894.

This is the largest and most sensational sale of Dry Goods, Notions and Carpets ever held in Northern Indiana. The great number of Genuine bargains is simply astonishing.

5,000 Yds. Muslin, slightly wet, but not damaged in the least, 4c. per yd.

Think of it! 25 yds. good muslin for $1.00. We have so many New Goods at such Very Low Prices that it is impossible to tell you of ALL the Great Bargains in a newspaper advertisement. We simply mention the Muslin as a pointer. Come to our store and see for yourselves. Our terms are CASH and ONE PRICE TO ALL.

Our stock of new Spring Carpets just arrived and now open for inspection. Call and see the new patterns.

Bishop & Lackey,

Shaffer Block. AUBURN, IND.

SEE

D. A. HODGE

For the Holiday Trade,

We have on display the most complete line of

WATCHES, DIAMONDS & JEWELRY

In the City. Handsome Novelties in

SILVERWARE.

Inspect our line before purchasing!

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S drug store.

Dr. F. M. Hines, Physician and SURGEON.

Office over J. C. HENRY'S Grocery, in the Ford Block,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ RESIDENCE, at the Samuel Swihart residence on South Jackson St, near the Church Furniture factory, and just across west from the German Methodist church. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

P. P. P. C.

Positive Painless Pile Cure.

The most complete, practicable and painless method of treating all curable diseases of the rectum ever placed before the public. Piles are permanently cured in a few weeks by the use of this treatment. Fissure, Catarrh, Inflammation Ulceration, Prolapsus, Constipation, Bleeding, Blind and ITCHING PILES are cured as if by magic. I claim the most complete, successful, simple and original common sense method ever offered to the suffering public. Your correspondence solicited.

S. U. TARNEY
sole Proprietor and Manufacturer
Auburn, Ind

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and Itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathena & Gerke.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock,--

--$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,

REPAIRS

All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and

REPAIRS FOR THE TRADE:

Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work

Warranted First-Class in All Respects.

☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Valentines at City News Stand.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Go to the City News Stand for your valentines.

Valentine social at the Presbyterian church Feb. 14.

Mrs. Perry Long went to Summit Tuesday to visit friends there.

The coming event. The entertainment given by the Auburn musical club.

Take a good square look at Olds Brothers' new ad. It means business.

W. C. Fluke, of Clayton, Michigan, is here visiting his father and other relatives.

Cook Ford went to Hicksville Tuesday to visit Mrs. Ford's people, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis.

Miss Laura Ober started Tuesday for Ohio where she goes to visit friends a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Anice Leas and her son John are up at Ann Arbor, where they visit relatives for a week.

H. C. Shull, our popular milkman, is having a hard wrestle with the too common enemy, the grip.

Mrs. Wilson Shull, of Waterloo, visited the family of J. N. Wilson of this place Monday and Tuesday.

Don't fail to hear the chorus of forty voices at the entertainment given by the Auburn musical club.

The Auburn Musical club will give a miscellaneous musical entertainment Friday evening, Feb. 23.

Rev. F. C. Colvin, of Chicago, will preach again in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning and evening.

Mr. Kiblinger has been able to attend to a part of his office work, but does not get up town. We hope to see him out soon.

Mrs. Samuel Jones, of Butler, and Mrs Stephen Martin, of South Whitley, visited their relatives, the COURIER family this week.

Don't fail to attend the great sensation sale at Bishop & Lackey's. See ad. on page 5. This sale will be continued a few days longer.

Everybody has a "sure cure" for the grip, but the best thing we know of is Kessler Bros.' Receipt.

Michael Shoudel of Jackson Center, had a daughter die in Chicago Saturday, and was brought home Tuesday. The services were held that day at the Catholic church here.

MARRIED:—At the bride's residence in Richland township, February 4, 1894, Leslie Thomas to Elizabeth E. Loutzenheiser, both of this county. Elder James Barton officiating.

Willis Wilson, of Garrett, was up to renew old-time acquaintance last Saturday. He is a son of Trustee Wilson, of Stafford, but has been a resident of Garrett for over two years.

Samuel N. Culler of Concord was here Monday on business and made a visit with the family of Marshal Baker. Mrs. B. is his niece. He also made a call on the old reliable COURIER.

Don't forget the "Valentine Social" given at the Presbyterian church by the young people of the Christian Endeavor. It will be something new, and then a good supper for 15 cents. All come.

FOR SALE:—Will sell at a reduced figure, for the want of room, three or four of my High Bred Holstein-Friesian heifers, one and two years old, or will trade for fresh cows. A. G. Lodewick, Auburn, Ind.

Miss Lizzie Johnson went to Ft. Wayne Monday morning to visit friends and relatives. Her cousin, Dr. T J. Dills is soon going south on a trip for the benefit of his health, which has been poor for a time.

The Y. P. S. C. E. have a Valentine social at the Presbyterian church on Valentine's day. There will be novel features to this including a "cupid." All should be there to enjoy it. An excellent supper for 15 cents is also among the main features.

Program of Auburn Musical for Feb. 12: Piano duet, selected by Marie Young; debate, Mr. Hastings and Mr. DeLapp; vocal duet, Mrs W. and C. E. Nusbaum; piano solo, Nora Saxton; violin solo, Dr. Buchtel; ladies' quartet, led by Mrs Shull.

Dr E. P. Elson, of Canton, Ohio, was here yesterday. He came to attend the funeral of his wife's mother, Mrs. Wm. Shutt, of Spencerville, who died Tuesday morning and is buried to-day. It will be remembered that she fell and was seriously hurt several weeks ago. Mr. Brent, another son-in-law of Mrs. Shutt, was here also.

We received a note this week, through the mail, stating that the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dilgard was born the 25th instead of the 24th, as we had it. We got the first date pretty straight, but will let the family fix it to suit themselves. The little stranger makes a happy family anyway, including grandma Stoner.

Frank Campbell has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Chris. Cloy. As there is quite an amount of property to be cared for and settled up, the honor is quite a flattering one for a young man of twenty two. But Frank is as steady as a clock, and abundantly capable of performing all the duties of the trust.

Mr. C. F. Davis, editor of the Bloomfield, Iowa, Farmer, says: "I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all sufferers with colds and croup. I have used it in my family for the past two years and have found it the best I ever used for the purpose for which it is intended." 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

In these cold and blustery days when work is slack and money tight, there is nothing that will give a greater return for the money expended than the Young America, made by Kessler Bros.

Judge Woodhull of Angola, has shied his castor into the political arena, and is head and ears into tariff discussion. He is evidently trying to get set right with republicans, so he can run for judge as it was only a few years ago that he was trying to get the nomination on the democratic ticket. However it is but charitable to say, he knows more about law than he does about the tariff.

In spite of a delay in receiving goods, owing to the large demand for sample wheels, considerable business has already been done by the Auburn Cyclery, and the prospects were never so good for a large sale of wheels during the coming season. People are awakening to the practicability of good roads and this easy and rapid means of transit which is both luxurious and healthful to young and old.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Rice's studio takes the lead. Latest style cabinets $1 25 per dozen.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Short Stop Headache Powders. No Cure, No Pay. Sold only by Robbins & McCord. 6tf

Brant's Balsam is effective, none better. Is lasting, large 25 and 50 cent bottles of F. E. Davenport.

The book that is richest in humor of any now published—Samantha Allen at the fair, M. B. Willis, agent.

John L. Wildasin and Perry Hall of Butler township were welcome callers at our headquarters last Thursday.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

It's all the same, a slight cold, congested lungs or severe cough. One Minute Cough Cure banishes them. 4tf

Frank Teeters has been appointed administrator of the estate of of the late Thomas Cochran. The choice is a good one.

STOVE FOR SALE. A good heating stove almost new, best kind of a base burner, wood stove. Price reasonable. Call at this office.

Beagle Hound puppies for sale. I have a few fine ones. Call early at my home or write me at Waterloo, Ind. A. M. St. Clair.

It not only relieves; it does more, it cures. We refer to One Minute Cough Cure. Suitable for all ages, all conditions, at all times. 4tf

MARRIED:—At the residence of, and by Rev. J. N. Wilson of Auburn, Ind. Jan. 7, 1894, Lewis A Forest to Miss Cora E. Brand, both of Smithfield township.

J. D. Brosy, the pastor of the Lutheran church, will commence a series of meetings next Sabbath evening, Feb. 11. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

D. I. Cramer, of Wabash, was here last week on a brief business visit. He is still the same wideawake business man as ever. He is now traveling in the interest of the Battle Creek Windmills.

No better aid to digestion.
No better cure for dyspepsia.
Nothing more reliable for biliousness and constipation than DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. 4tf

When sore oppressed by brooding care, and mind and body long for rest; then is the time for a quiet smoke, and Kessler's Bill Heads are the best.

F. A. Squires, south of town, has sold his farm and will move up to the old Henry Becher farm just north of Corunna. This was the home of the late John Buchanan. Mr. Squires is an active, intelligent young farmer, and will be a desirable citizen and good neighbor for the people up there.

Many homes would be happier if mother was cured of her terrible headaches and nervous troubles. Write Mrs. G. K. Watts, Brandywine, Va., with stamp, to learn how she suffered agonies for six years and was cured by Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer in six weeks, or ask F. E. Davenport.

John Pepple, who came home from Texas, with the remains of his brother, Willard, goes back soon to take his engine on the road again. He was not long ago, on a deer hunt in the wilder regions of southwestern Texas and killed some fine deer. He says there is an abundance of this noble game there yet.

For latest novelties, most artistic and beautifully finished pictures, any size, or pictures neatly and correctly framed, patronize J. G. Clapp, leader and dealer only in pictures and their fixtures.

Mr. and Mrs C. A. Towsley, of Elkhart, have been visiting friends here the past week. They were married Feb. 1, 1894, Rev. F. E. Knoff officiating. The bride will be remembered as Miss Myrtle Hornberger, who recently took a course in the short hand and business college. She has since been employed with the Hornberger Electric Mf'g. Co. at Elkhart.

Olds Brothers, who have built up such a nice trade at their room east of the postoffice, have made quite an important addition to their business. They have bought the stock of queensware and goods in that line of Hebel Brothers and will hereafter deal extensively in this fine and popular line of goods. The Olds Brothers have made themselves popular here since they first started, and we look to see them build up a flourishing trade in this additional line.

James Morell, at Van Buren, Ark., in sending in his subscription, writes a good word like this: "We are devoted readers of your publication. It keeps us posted with the old time friends. We are getting along nicely here in Arkansas, have excellent health and making a good living. Ours is the only foundry here, so you see we get the most of Van Buren and surrounding country's trade. We are living in our own home now." The city, he says, is a nice town. We are glad to hear that the world uses them so well.

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough. Remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by all druggists.

Vick's Floral Guide, 1894.

It contains descriptions that describe, not mislead; illustrations that instruct, not exaggerate. This year it comes to us in a suit of gold. Printed in eight different colors besides black. Colored plates of Chrysanthemums, Poppies and Vegetables. On the front cover is a very exquisite bunch of Vick's New White Branching Aster, and on the back is the New Double Anemone; 112 pages filled with many new novelties of value as well as all the old leading varieties of flowers and vegetables.

We advise our friends who intend to do anything in the garden this year to consult Vick before starting operations. Send 10 cents to James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y., for Vick's Guide, it costs nothing, as you can deduct the 10 cents from first order. It certainly will pay you.

Pitcher's Castoria. Children Cry for

See the news on inside pages.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

The great sensational sale at Bishop & Lackey's continues and is a grand success.

Call and see our $1.25 cabinets, and be convinced that they are fine. Rice's Ground Floor Studio.

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

For pains in the chest there is nothing better than a flannel cloth saturated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

In addition to the books before mentioned, M. B. Willis has secured the agency for the county, of the book of season, "Samantha at the World's Fair." See him at once and give an order.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of Mystic Cure, and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

Now is the time when your catarrhal trouble begins to annoy and wreck the Respiratory and Nervous systems. Drs. Nusbaum & Nusbaum cure what they promise. Rooms especially fitted to treat diseases of nose and throat. Also diseases of women.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY:—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action pon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cts. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. tf

Great Sale of Tile.

The immense stock of drain tile of the Calkin Tile factory one mile south of Corunna, will be sold at public auction, Tuesday, Feb. 20, 1894, beginning at 10 a. m. This sale is in charge of Mr. F. Franks, as receiver, and there will be a rare chance to get good tile of all sizes from 3 to 12 inch. Sums of $5 and under, cash. Over $5 a credit of six months with approved notes bearing 6 per cent interest from date. A discount of 10 per cent will be allowed for cash. Don't forget the time and place.

When money gets tight it generally goes to the lock-up.

Schaab Brothers.

This wideawake firm comes forth in to-day's COURIER with some very valuable and interesting statements which should be carefully noted. The one to which we would especially call attention relates to their special sales. They say, "each week we shall offer rare bargains in one of our departments." And they start the ball rolling by commencing this week in their department of "domestics," a line of goods that will surely be popular these hard times. Just look at their prices. Then see what they say about their "cloak sale." It is astonishing. Call at the store and find out all about it.

The best backing any man ever had is his own backbone.

Prohibition Mass Convention.

The prohibitionists of DeKalb county and other persons who desire to unite in organized opposition to the legalized liquor traffic are called to meet in mass convention at the court house at Auburn, Wednesday, the 21st day of February, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m., to nominate candidates for the various county offices to be elected at the ensuing election; to select state delegates to the state convention at Indianapolis, March 15, 1894; also to select delegates to the senatorial and judicial convention to be hereafter called, and to transact such other business as may come before the convention. At the close of the business the convention will be addressed by the Rev. James P. Pinkham, of Iowa. CHARLES ECKHART, Chairman Co. Com.

What this country needs is a law that will demonetize brass.

Remember.

That the Wisconsin Central has the unqualified endorsement of all, it being the most popular line between Chicago and Milwaukee and St. Paul, Minneapolis and the Northwest, it is recognized as the Pullman Line between Chicago and Milwaukee and Ashland, Duluth and Lake Superior points.

That the Wisconsin Central touches the most prominent points in Wisconsin, having more business centers than any railway to and from the Northwest.

That its dining car service is unsurpassed by any other line, and that its representatives will cheerfully furnish any information that may be desired.

For full details regarding rates, routes, folders, maps, etc., address your nearest ticket agent or Jas. C. Pond, Gen. Pass. Agent, Milwaukee, Wis.

A Surprise Party.

The pleasant home of I. B. Brandon was even more pleasant than usual on Monday evening, for it was captured by a party of young people who came to remind Myron Brandon that he was 21. They all had a good time and there were plenty of refreshments including oysters, etc. The band had had a meeting and when they left "to go to the lecture at the Lutheran church," was where they fooled Myron, for they suddenly appeared at his home. Among the young people there were, Ray VanAuken, Marion Ernest, Myron, Riley, and Artie Brandon, George and Frank Campbell, George and Emma Muhn, Frank Reed, George Ettinger, Eddie Girardot, L. Grosh, Will Thomas, John and Amy Moody, C. Fell, Wm. Wile, Edith and Lillie Mortorff, Zoe, Gusta and Emma Hanes, Ora, Minnie and Jessie Douglas, Bertha Blaney, Ettie and Mertie Metcalf, Meda Frederick, Emma Coyle, Emma Korff, Lillie Bell, Wilson and Oscar Grogg. Also Ora, Ira and Asa Brandon and their wives and Robert Hill and wife.

Obituary.

Christopher Cloy was born in Germany, August 20, 1828, and died at his home in Auburn Indiana, January 31, 1894, aged 65 years, 5 months and 11 days. When a young man he came to DeKalb county. Here he was married to Caroline Bartles, and to this union four children were born, two still living. September 21, 1864, he enlisted in Co. B. 29th, Ind. Vols., and served till September 9, 1865, when he was discharged. A sunstroke while in the service resulted in permanent injury and at one time he was in the insane asylum for treatment. August 20, 1872, he was united in marriage to Matilda Palmer, who survives him. To this union four children were born, two surviving. The funeral was on Friday, Feb. 2, at 10 a. m. at the Lutheran church, the services being conducted by Rev. J. N. Wilson and in charge of DeLong Post G. A. R. of which he was a member. He was a man respected for many good qualities, especially for his strict honesty. But years of suffering had done serious injury to both mind and body. He was laid to rest in Evergreen cemetery.

January Subscriptions.

Quite a number of our friends took advantage of the slack work of January to remember the printer, for which the aforesaid printer is under obligations to to them. They are:

Elmer Walter, Chas. Eckhart, Daniel Welch, Mrs. Thomas Lipsett, J. E. Dermott, John Ludwig, J. P. Kandel, Samuel Williams, C. M. Merica, M. Boland, C. Snell, E. Ashley, S. M. Williams, David Andrews, David Hough D. Gonser, H. M. Widney, Mrs Kate Plumb, F C Waterman, Samuel Stafford, Geo Kehrer, John Kitchen, John Krumlauf, John Witt, Joshua Miller, L Bowers, James Metcalf, Allen Shultz, G H. Post Murray Brothers, Levi Hewitt, W. B Brown, H. R. Culbertson, E. R. Shoemaker, J. B Draggoo, A. M Baughman, Isaiah Derrow, Samuel Osbun, A. Foster, H. Lindorfer, John Washler, Wm. Seeley, Ira T. Eaton, R. G. Dunn & Co., E. W. Bryan, F. Kelley, Emanuel Stafford, G. W. Downs, Riley Monroe, Dr. F. Broughton, Geo. W. Eulks, Wm. Emerson, F. C. Bartles, Fred Bunge, Wm. Getts, J. M. Waterman, Frank Swartz, H. K. Leas, James O. Blake, John Leas, W. H. Fair, Isaac Grube, Elton Campbell, I. H. Groh, J. M. Friend. G. W. Askew.

Cures Dyspepsia.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone, I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottle 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

Repair Shop.

Two skillful workmen, George Loffi, of Canton, Ohio, and Leonard Trapp of Garrett, have started a repair shop in the small building back of the marble shop, that is, on the corner of Jackson and Sixth streets, and will prove quite a convenience to our people. They will repair almost anything you have, but make a specialty of bicycles, locks, mending and repairing tools of all kinds, as well as guns, revolvers, sewing machines, etc., etc. Our people can have keys fitted, locks repaired, and many other needed things. Give them a call.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Notices of meetings of societies, church socials, etc., not exceeding five lines, published under this head without charge. Five cents will be charged for each line in excess of five lines.

The D. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Davenport.

The S. H. G. meet with Mrs. Clifton Saturday at 2 p. m.

Preaching next Sunday morning and evening at the Presbyterian church by Mr. Colvin.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. J. A. Barns on Friday afternoon. Bring thimbles.

The W. C. T. U. meet with Mrs. J. D. Myres, Tuesday evening, Feb. 13. Important business is to be disposed of and a good attendance is desired. All visitors welcomed.

There will be a "Mother Goose" entertainment given in the G. A. R. hall Friday evening, Feb. 16, under the auspices of the Y. L. M. C. of the M. E. church. Everybody come.

An entertainment will be given in the G. A. R. hall Monday evening, Feb. 12. A fine program has been prepared and order will be maintained. Admission, 10 cents. All come and have a good time.

Hard on Turkeys.

A recent dispatch has this item of interest in regard to the queer industry by which they make corset stays, whips, etc., out of feathers or rather out of quills:

The Warren Feather Bone Company, Three Oaks, has received a novel shipment of 48,000,000 quills from Lexington, Ky. These quills are the larger points from the end of the wings. There being but ten quills on a turkey, it took 4,800,000 birds to make up this lot, which weighed 16,000 pounds.

Health and Happiness!

HONEY OF FIGS is the QUEEN of all cathartics; syrups or pills. One anticipates its taking with pleasure. No other remedy sells so well or gives such satisfaction. It acts gently on inactive bowels of liver, relieves the kidneys, cures constipation, colds, fevers, nervous headaches, etc., and restores the beauty of health. Ladies and children prefer it. Doctors and druggists recommend it. The Fig Honey Co. of San Francisco. Try a bottle. Only one cent a dose. Mathena & Gerke wholesale and retail agents for DeKalb county.

Witch Hazel Salve.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cleanses, purifies and heals. It was made for that purpose. Use it for burns, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, sores of all descriptions, and if you have piles use it for them. 4tf

Brandon has received a lot of Northern Grown Seeds.

TRY THEM.

He also has Canned Corn,
Tomatoes,
Peas,
BEANS,
Peaches,
Sweet Potatoes,
Bread and
Cake

Every Morning.

GENTLEMEN!

Have you LARGE FEET?

If you have, go to

SHULL'S CASH SHOE STORE

You can buy Men's Shoes, size 9 to 11, for HALF WHAT THEY ARE WORTH.

THE CASH

BOOT AND SHOE STORE.

Opposite Bishop & Lackey's.

Here is Your Chance,

WE WANT MONEY.

Cottonade Pants, only 67 cents.
Best Calf Skin Gloves, only 67 cents.
Hog Skin Mittens, only 35 cents.
Table Cloth, all Linen, 2 yds. long, only 63 cents.
Towels, all Linen, 33 inches long, only 10 cents.
21 quart Dishpan, only 29 cents.

These Bargains are for sale only at——

OLDS BROS.

North of Court House.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNES, - - PUBLISHER.

KENTUCKIANS are not wholly free from slang, but they never use the slangy expression, "I will take water," when they mean to back out.

IT may be all right for Mrs. Frank Leslie to keep the public in the dark as to her present matrimonial schemes, but it is very extraordinary.

EFFORT is being made to repeal the New York law against attempted suicide. The only effect of such a law is to stimulate the victim to do a thorough job.

The editor of an exchange says he knows some people so exceedingly modest that in speaking of a person's leg they persist in calling it a limb; but the young lady who, in speaking of a certain breed of chickens, called them Brown Limbhorns is, he thinks, entitled to the cake and whole bakery.

THE bright, stirring advertising solicitors who represent the various publications of any city are worth more to the community at large than any other class of citizens. They are brim full of new ideas, bubbling over with hope, and always looking out for the best interests of their city. Their motto is like that of the Irishman who said: "Never say die till you're dead, boys, and then you can't say it at all." They are the sunshine of trade and one of the mainsprings of business.

IT is proposed to build a ship canal from Lake Michigan to Lake Erie, or practically from Chicago to Toledo. The expense is estimated at $50,000,000, and such a canal would place Chicago over 500 miles nearer the seaboard by a water route than she is now. With a ship canal to Toledo, and another to the Mississippi River, Chicago would soon become the commercial center of the United States. In this connection "money talks." The question of practicability is merely the question of raising the necessary funds for the work.

SECRETARY CARLISLE'S invitation of bids for the new bonds provides that offerings for gold only shall be made. Commenting on this fact, the London News says that the stipulation "comes perilously near putting a premium on gold," but adds: "In America they are always going to the verge of trouble with ingenious financial experiments, but they usually pull up in time." There is considerable truth and more than considerable good nature in this remark of John Bull relating to the somewhat eccentric but never absolutely disastrous methods of American governmental financiers.

THE sad ending of the Howard case has not seriously depressed the fraudulent industry of fabulous English estate claims. A Florida newspaper says that "there are several old-time residents of Jacksonville who are direct descendants and heirs to an immense estate in England, amounting to somewhere into the hundreds of millions." This is the "Townley estate" fraud, exposed in the cable dispatches from London. In an endeavor to check enterprise in this form of rascality the London Times publishes a report of all chancery cases of unclaimed money, and it appears that no really considerable sum awaits any claimant in any case of the kind.

GOV. TILLMAN, of South Carolina, has written a circular letter to the Mayors of all the cities in that State notifying them that unless they enforce the dispensary law he will not allow them their share of the revenue of the State bar-rooms. It behooves a Mayor down there to attend strictly to business. If he overlooks a "wink" given by a constituent to the drug clerk the finances of his town suffer. On the other hand, if he sees that the law is enforced, he is not only doing his duty but the city treasury is materially aided. Whatever may be said against South Carolina's liquor law, it must be admitted that it develops business instinct in Mayors and compels them to earn their salaries.

ALPINE disasters long have been and still are so common that they merite but passing notice. They will continue to happen so long as daring souls in the human breast. Few tourists consider their trip abroad complete without scaling the heights of the Alps. These dangerous trips are not prompted by scientific inquiry, but by the spirit of daring, the desire to accomplish what others have done. A mountaineering party of three persons have just come to grief in an attempt to ascend Gnifetti, one of the highest peaks of the Alps. They were overtaken by a storm, in which one succumbed and the others were badly frozen. The ascent to the peak was not made and the party are glad to return to their headquarters at a summer resort, with their appetite for excitement unappeased but under control. There is no excuse for braving the perils of the arctic voyage, but none for indulging in the Alpine habit.

An inventor in Cincinnati has discovered a method for welding aluminum. At a test made recently the success of the method was demonstrated. Not only was the aluminum welded together, but, subjected to a severe strain, the welded joint proved stronger than the pure metal. For lack of a more suitable word the welding preparation is called solder, though, properly speaking, it is not an alloy or solder, but a substance that, when combined with tin solder and heated to a degree sufficient to melt ordinary solder, unites with the latter, producing a perfect fusion of the two metals. The use of aluminum has been restrained by the absence of some such method as discovered by the Cincinnatian. The process of welding it after a fashion has been known, but it was unsatisfactory owing to the weakness at the joint, which minimized the strength of the metal. The invention is a valuable one, for it will hasten the day when aluminum can be used in commercial quantities.

THE character, the length, the quality, the doctrinal features of homilies have caused trouble in church societies, but it is believed that the number of sermons preached by a pastor to his congregation has cut but little figure in religious discussions. A member of a church in Quincy, Ill., has been before the church board to answer to the charge of publicly stating that the pastor of the congregation had "only fifteen sermons" that he preached. It is presumable that the statement was intended as a reflection on the pastor. Trips to the "barrel" were too frequent. The discourses may have been the acme of scriptural research, profound in erudition and sound in doctrine and in logic, but there were not enough of them. By reason of their paucity their scope was cramped, their return engagement too frequent. These may have been the causes leading to the charge of "only fifteen sermons." If this be true the minister erred in not increasing his stock to fifty-two, one for each week in the year. The parishioner who can carry even the salient points of a homily in his head for a year is certainly endowed with sufficient charity to overlook a repetition.

THE bill which has been recently drafted to prevent cruelty to animals on board ship is one which every humane person will be glad to see passed. Some such measure should have been enacted long ago and a stop put to the ill-treatment of cattle on the ocean. The extent of this cruelty can hardly be imagined, and no doubt shippers themselves never realized the gravity of the situation until their suspicions were aroused by the annual losses and detectives were put aboard to look into things. It is surprising that officers of vessels would so far forget themselves as to allow men in their employ to bruise, maim and even kill dumb brutes intrusted to their care. It is high time to call a halt to such practices, and if the bill should become a law it should be enforced to the very letter. Nor is this cruelty entirely confined to marine shipments. Packers have often complained of the bruised condition of cattle shipped by rail. A brutal man with an uncontrollable temper and a prod pole can do an inestimable amount of damage to an inoffending, defenseless dumb brute. It is a wonder that the humane society doesn't look into these matters a little closer and give some of these heartless cow punchers a taste of the law.

THE Supreme Court of the United States furnishes interesting instances of active longevity. Justice Blatchford, who died recently, was seventy-three years old, and was very active up to the time of his death. Chief Justice Roger B. Taney remained on the bench until he was eighty-eight. He began an autobiography at the age of seventy-seven, but did not finish it. Chief Justice Marshall, who served from 1800 to 1835, was eighty years old when ill health compelled him to leave Washington. He was a delegate to the convention for revising the State convention of Virginia when he was seventy-four years old, and it is said that though he did not speak often in the convention, when he did speak he showed that his mind was clear and his reasoning as solid as in his younger days. Chief Justice Waite, who died five years ago, remained on the Supreme Bench to the last, though he was seventy-two years old when he died. Justice Strong, who is still living in Washington, retired from the Supreme Bench at the age of seventy-two. Noah H. Swayne, who died in 1884, retired from the Supreme Bench at the age of seventy-seven. Only one of the present members of the Supreme Court is more than seventy years old. This one is Justice Field, who is now seventy-seven. All of these eminent men did their best judicial work after they had passed their seventieth year.

In Brazil.

Traveling in the interior of Brazil, a gentleman put up for a night at a farm-house furnished in the primitive style of the country; but on the table, in company with a long tallow candle, were placed a handsome pair of plated snuffers and its stand, which the owner had received as a present from Rio Janeiro. "What conveniences you invent in Europe!" said the Brazilian to his guest. "Before I received this present, I used, on taking off the candle-snuff, to throw it about the floor, perchance on the bench where I was sitting, or over my clothes; but now mark the difference." So saying he pinched off the long snuff between his thumb and finger, put it carefully in the snuffers, and held them up with a look of triumph at his highly amused spectator.

Horse Hide in Favor.

Twenty years ago there were but two or three manufacturers of horse hide leather in this country. The consumption of this leather is large and rapidly increasing.

HE BEATS THEM ALL TO PIECES.

EMINENT "STORY-TELLERS" OF FICTION.—"We thought we were unapproachable in our line; but we're nowhere alongside of him!—Puck.

THEY FAVOR THE BILL

WORKINGMEN DO NOT CONDEMN THE WILSON BILL.

When Not Coerced by Manufacturers They Pass Resolutions Declaring for Tariff Reform—Warner's Sugar Trust Killed—Left a Bar Down.

Reform Club Meetings.

The Reform Club deserves great credit for the work it is now doing in localities represented or misrepresented by Democrats who are trying to defeat the Wilson bill. Several big mass meetings have been held to test the sentiment of workingmen who are reported to have changed their minds since they voted for tariff reform in 1892. In each case resolutions have been passed in favor of the Wilson bill or a more radical tariff reform measure.

The first meeting was held in Paterson, N. J., on Jan. 11. This is in the center of the silk industry and the tide against the Wilson bill was supposed to be running so high that the majority of the leading Democrats were afraid to make any attempt to stem it. Over 2,000, the most of whom were mill-hands, remained in a theater for three hours listening to Mr. Thomas G. Shearman, and lustily cheering many of his best points and sharp answers to questions. At the end of the meeting and after very strong tariff reform resolutions had been passed, several of the local Democrats, who had remained "behind the scenes," plucked up courage and, stepping to the front of the stage, congratulated the speaker and expressed great satisfaction at the success of the meeting.

At Amsterdam, N. Y., the big carpet and other manufacturers had terrorized the citizens by closing mills and reducing wages. The manufacturers had petitions circulated through the factories condemning the Wilson bill. As might be expected under the circumstances, the petitions were quite generally signed by employes. A mass meeting was held, and in the presence of the wealthy manufacturers the mill-workers allowed resolutions against the Wilson bill to be passed. But one Democrat had the audacity to ask a few questions from the audience. He was regarded as an intruder and treated accordingly. Apparently tariff reform was in the dumps in Amsterdam. The Reform Club desired to know if the workingmen had deserted tariff reform. It arranged for a mass meeting in the largest hall in the city, and paid for this hall 66 per cent. more than was required of the great manufacturer who footed the rent bill for the previous meeting. No local financial assistance whatever was received. The hall was packed. It was clear, when Mr. Shearman began to speak, that some in the audience were attempting to disturb the meeting; but soon he had interested all, and convinced most of his hearers that they should remain steadfast to tariff reform. After nearly three hours of discussion resolutions in favor of the Wilson bill were passed almost unanimously.

The next great meeting was held at Troy, N. Y., the center of the collar, cuff and shirt industry in this country. Over 50,000 signatures were alleged to have been obtained, in this city of 70,000, to a petition in favor of McKinley duties on collars, cuffs and shirts. This petition was presented to Congress by Troy's Democratic representative, Mr. Haines, who made a long speech against the Wilson bill. Senator Murphy of New York, is a citizen of Troy. He also has declared against the proposed reductions of duties on collars, cuffs and shirts. Every paper in Troy is working with Murphy, Haines and the manufacturers. When Mr. W. R. Estell went to Troy to arrange for a meeting he found a strong undercurrent in favor of the Wilson bill, but almost no one who was willing to risk his business interests or his job by helping to get up a meeting. Even when an immense audience had gathered in Harmony Hall, on January 22d, no citizen of Troy could be found who was willing to preside at the meeting and the speaker—again Mr. Shearman—had to nominate himself as Chairman. He, however, soon had control of his audience, and as usual soon had it laughing and cheering. He called attention to the fact that the manufacturers of shirts, collars and cuffs had reduced wages under McKinley duties as well as under those of 1883. He showed that the duties of the Wilson bill left about as much protection as the manufacturers had from 1883 to 1890, and that there was no necessity whatever for reducing wages on account of tariff reductions. If the workers wanted to make higher wages possible, he said, they should petition for lower duties on linen and cotton. This would not only give manufacturers cheaper raw materials but it would enable them to reduce prices of collars, cuffs and shirts; reduced prices would increase consumption and make more work at higher wages. Mr. Shearman then turned his searchlight upon the claims and statements of the manufacturers as presented to the Ways and Means Committee. The manufacturers had made affidavits that the average wages of working girls in Troy were fully $8 a week. At the same time they had produced a statement which showed that the average wages were only $5.23. From another statement it was shown that the manufacturers were making 50 per cent. profit on their capital. By a majority of three to one the audience favored resolutions indorsing the Wilson bill.

It is gratifying to know that the mill operatives, even in the most highly protected industries, are in favor of tariff reform, and it is fortunate for the country that there is an organization ready and willing to give the workingmen an opportunity to express themselves when the eye of the boss is not upon them.

Warner's Sugar Trust Killer.

The passage of Congressman Warner's amendment placing both raw and refined sugar on the free list will save millions of dollars to to the people and thousands of votes to the Democratic party. At the same time it sounds the death knell of the most accursed trust that ever preyed upon the homes of our hard-working citizens. No band of pirates ever had less moral right to the possession of its booty than has the sugar trust to the $40,000,000 which it, in 1892 and 1893, extracted from the pockets, or sugar bowls, of the people by means of the one-half cent per pound duty which McKinley and Aldrich were paid for leaving on refined sugar.

These millions were a gratuity to the trust; unjustifiable, even upon the grounds of protection. This duty on sugar produced no revenue and no needed protection; it was simply a license to the trust to rob the people. Our big refiners refine sugar cheaper than it is refined anywhere else in the world. Their treatment of labor (mostly of Italians and Huns), has been shameful, and their behavior as members of a trust has been shocking, even to the hardened sensibilities of Wall street. Their $75,000,000 of capital stock is mostly (some authorities say all) water, and yet it takes clever bookkeeping to keep dividends down to about twenty per cent. a year on this capital. Scarcely a true statement bearing upon the tariff or bounty question has been published since the present Congress began its work. And yet the Ways and Means Committee decided to compromise with the sugar robbers by splitting their duty in the middle.

It is a sign of courage on the part of the Democrats who voted with Warner. Like the vote on the Tom L. Johnson amendment, to put steel rails on the free list, it shows that the average Democrat is more radical than the Ways and Means Committee. It dealt a blow to the sugar trust from which it will never recover. As a trust killer, it is worth a hundred Sherman anti-trust laws. That the trust realized that it had received its death sting, is evident from the fact that within ten minutes from the opening of the stock exchange, after the passage of the amendment, blocks of stock were sold at 76, although the last price of the previous day was 81⅞. It is not improbable that the protected manufacturers may yet be sorry that they did not advise their Republican Congressmen to agree to accept the Wilson bill the first day it was presented to the House. They are losing ground with every day's discussion. The fallacies and wrongs of "protection" are being more thoroughly exposed than ever before, and the "jig is us" for all pauper industries. It will be but a few years until our self-supporting industries shall be freed from the support of beggar industries. Prosperity will then smile as it has never yet smiled upon us. Trusts, take warning. The American people are "onto" your tricks.

Left a Bar Down.

In the course of a labored defense of McKinleyism the San Francisco Morning Call strives to enlighten an unconverted contemporary by the following remarks:

> The millions of people living in the northern tier of States would be able to buy their semi-tropical fruit abroad at lower cost than California and Florida can supply them. But under the present tariff they pay duties on these varieties of fruits in order to establish the fruit industries in States where the industry may be successfully prosecuted.

We must say to the Morning Call that this is the rankest kind of heresy. The central doctrine of McKinleyism is that the duties are paid by the wretched foreigners. There was a time, and it was not very long ago, when the supporters of a protective tariff freely admitted that the duties were paid by domestic consumers, as the Morning Call says the duties on semi-tropical fruit are now paid by the people of the Northern States, and when they frankly defended the collection of the tax. But they were looking forward then to a gradual reduction of tariff rates and had not adopted the plan of paying for large campaign contributions by making the duties higher. That truthful old doctrine is now repudiated and denounced, and the Morning Call will be in danger of excommunication unless it shall speedily accept the new one, which is set forth in the reports and speeches of McKinley, the Reed minority report, and the teachings of all the latter-day Republican statesmen.—New York Times.

Shearman's Persuasive Logic.

An interesting glance upon the campaign which the protected manufacturers are waging against the Wilson bill is shown in the news printed upon another page of the meeting of workingmen, which the Reform Club had called in Amsterdam in our own State. The workingmen, who attended in great numbers, had been so incited by the manufacturers that at first they would not hear the speaker, Mr. Thos. G. Shearman, and disturbed him in every imaginable way. But Mr. Shearman was very soon able to convince his hearers that they had hearkened to false prophets; his proofs were so convincing that the workmen had to acknowledge their justice, and at the close of the meeting joined in passing resolutions in favor of the Wilson bill, although they had come with other intentions.

If you can only get the workmen to hear both sides their opposition to the high tariff is not to be questioned. Mr. Shearman and the Reform Club deserve great recognition for their efforts to bring to naught the lying campaign of the high protectionists.—New-York Staats Zeitung.

Faith, Hope, Confidence.

We are not numbered amongst those who think the country is going to ruin and that its rulers are intent in destroying the business interests of the nation. Our President is a patriotic American who has but a single purpose, and that is to do right by honestly obeying and enforcing the laws. The party which elected him contains a majority of the American people. We have confidence that a majority is not going to destroy the country. All our legislation has been directed against the best interests of the producing classes. They find their services not in demand. Wages decreasing by combinations of arrogant, purse-proud manufacturers who are only intent to make them so poor that they cannot resent their tyranny and oppression. With a wise, economical administration of our public affairs, repeal of obnoxious class legislation which makes the poor poorer, and a conscientious enactment of just laws that will place the laborer in a position to get his clothing and necessaries of life cheaper, we look for prosperous times. — National Glass Budget.

Partisan Memories.

The second edition of calamity croakers met at Harrisburg in mass convention, and one of the Demosthenic orators lustily orated upon the lighting of the fires of the only industry known since the days of James Buchanan, viz., soup houses. The memory of the orator is a trifle short, as our recollection is that this industry thrived in 1873 and many idle workmen were fed. Panics were not confined to any political party, as the last panic we had in 1873 was even worse than the present one, and the country did not recover from its effects until 1879. If all these so-called politicians were not intent in profiting politically by the misfortunes of depression in business they had better devote their energies toward restoring confidence instead of adding to the distrust now prevalent.—National Glass Budget.

The World Do Move.

Debates on the Wilson bill are bringing to the front some great orators, but many of the Democratic members hold back their opinions because they cannot enter the discussion with the earnestness they would if the bill struck deeper at the curse of protection. It it were an act to abolish all tariffs the House of Representatives would be the scene of eloquent arguments for its passage. As it is, it is but a short step in the right direction and radical reformers are not giving it the support they would a bill framed to suit the masses.—Freeland Tribune.

Chameleon McKinley.

Gov. McKinley is telling the Southern people that the Wilson bill is "especially injurious to that part of the country." At the North the McKinleyites charge that the bill was dictated by the "Southern brigadiers" in revenge upon their conquerors. The foolish people who are taken with this sort of talk can "pay their money and take their choice."—New York World.

Frick Is No Fool.

Carnegie, in giving less wages to his steel mill hands, is not getting less for his armor plate. Just as Frick said: "We pay wages according to the labor market." The tariff has nothing to do with how much is given or demanded.

WHEN an accident to an American railway train can injure fifty men without scratching a single American it is high time to stop talking about a high tariff protecting American labor.

HOOSIER HAPPENINGS

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCISELY CONDENSED.

What Our Neighbors are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers About Indianians.

Minor State Items.

DIPHTHERIA in malignant form rages at Elwood.

THE business portion of Poseyville was wiped out by fire. The loss will reach $50,000. Ten buildings were burned.

WHILE Mrs. Clinton Malott was standing before a fireplace at her home, near Petersburg, her dress caught fire and she was fatally burned.

MARK COON, who was slightly injured in his hand in a saw-mill at Wilkinson, will probably lose his life, as blood poisoning has set in.

MILLARD LEWIS, weighing 200 pounds, a workman on the Hartford City Court-house, fell from the top of the first story to the basement, a distance of thirty feet, striking on a pile of brickbats. He is badly hurt internally.

LOUIE STEVENS, a 16-year-old lad, living eight miles south of Connersville, went hunting and while resting with his right arm on the muzzle of his shotgun it was discharged, opening an artery. Before a physician could be summoned he bled to death.

THE farmers near Elwood have suffered so much from thieves during the last few months that they have organized two thief-catching societies, and two bloodhounds have been secured. The trespasses will be tracked down, as the farmers despair of bagging them in any other manner.

OSCAR THRALL, son of a prominent resident, while returning from church at West Liberty, accompanied by two young women, was instantly killed by being thrown from the buggy. They were racing with other young people. The girls with him were also badly hurt, one perhaps fatally.

AT Stipp's Hill, a village seven miles west of Laurel, M. F. George and Steve Dilks quarreled over a shoulder of meat sold to Dilks, which he had failed to pay for. In the affray Dilks drew a dirk knife and stabbed George three times in the left side. His victim died from the wounds in an hour. Dilks was immediately arrested.

THE residents of East Wayne and Francis Streets, Fort Wayne, are excited over the discovery of leprosy in a boarding house in that neighborhood. The patient is a Polish Jew named Goldstein, who for several weeks has been engaged in a house-to-house canvass for the sale of notions. He was taken in charge by the health authorities and placed in isolated quarters on the Poor Farm, two miles south of the city.

A YEAR ago a little 5-year-old girl, Cora Heath, was cast upon the world without friends or known relatives by the death of her father. The orphan was adopted by John P. Conrad, who resides in Anderson. The other day word was received by Mr. Conrad that the child had fallen heir to $15,000 by the death of a great-grandmother, in New York. The title to the money is unquestioned, and the amount will be turned over at once.

PATRICK and Edward Toole, two well-known toughs of Brazil, got mad at their mother and older brother, Barney, because the latter refused to support them. They procured big knives and swore to kill their mother and brother. The old lady took refuge in a neighbor's house, but the boys broke down the door and were in the act of assaulting her when Joseph Bodell ran to her assistance. The boys turned on Bodell, cutting several ugly wounds which will prove fatal. Both boys escaped, but Patrick was captured near Carbon.

MRS. PATRICK CAIN, residing in a suburb of Anderson, is, by her physician, thought to be fatally burned. While standing by a gas stove her dress caught fire and in a twinkling her body was enveloped in flames. The woman was bewildered and helpless. A half-dozen little children ran screaming for help. When assistance arrived the woman was found on the floor insensible. Her arms, back, face, and head were frightfully burned. The flesh on her hands was literally cooked, falling with the finger nails from her fingers. She is the mother of fourteen children, all living.

A SENSATION was created at Brazil, recently, by the finding of a will executed by the late Elder Reuben A. Webster, in 1864, bequeathing all his wealth, amounting to nearly $100,000, to his wife's heirs. At the time of his death a note badly written was found on his person, which designated the manner in which he desired his property divided, giving his own heirs and his wife's relatives equal amounts of his fortune. But since the will has been found, duly executed and signed by Attorney George A. Knight, this will leave the heirs of the deceased without a penny. Mr. Webster's relatives are greatly incensed and a big lawsuit is threatened.

WHAT was reported as a suicide and attempted murder took place at Belle Tholley's resort, on West Presbyterian avenue, Madison. Samuel Medlicott and Frank Stephens, called "Sawbuck," had a fight. The woman says Stephens shot Medlicott in a back room and then rushed in the parlor and put a bullet through his brain, dying instantly. Medlicott is not badly injured. Nelson Martin, a constable, was a witness, he being in the house, he said, on business. There is much mystery about the shooting, and people believe it was a case of murder. Constable Martin and the other five people in the house were arrested and are being held pending an investigation.

AT Plymouth, Leroy Trobridge, a well-known farmer, while walking home was run into by a team. The pole of the sleigh struck him on the back of his head, making a large hole. He was taken back to Plymouth, and remained unconscious until his death.

ALBERT PINNEY, 12 years old, son of Frank Pinney, a prominent horseman, living four miles east of North Manchester, accidentally killed himself with a shotgun. The boy had gone to the woods to shoot an owl, and as he did not return search was made for him. His remains were found with the top of his head blown off.

THE following concerns are running in full or part at Elwood: Diamond Plate-glass Works, McBeth chimney factory, McClay factory, American Tin-plate Works, Elwood Iron Works, Rodefer & Hoffman Window-glass Company, and Nivison & Wieskoff Bottle Works.

CHARLES WAYMEYER, a well-to-do German farmer, residing some miles east of Columbus, is lying in a critical condition from the effects of an accident. While returning from Columbus to his home his team, which was attached to a road wagon, became frightened, throwing him to the ground. The wagon passed over his leg, fracturing it.

Tobacco Caused Consumption—Notobac Cures the Tobacco Habit and Consumptive Gets Well.

TWO RIVERS, Wis., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Great excitement and interest has been manifested in the recovery of an old-time resident of this town, Mr. Jos. Bunker, who has for several years been considered by all his friends a hopeless consumptive. Investigation shows that for over thirty-two years he used three and a half pounds of tobacco a week. A short time ago he was induced to try a tobacco-habit cure called "No-To-Bac." Talking about his miraculous recovery to-day he said: "Yes, I used No-To-Bac, and two boxes completely cured me. I thought, and so did all my friends, that I had consumption. Now they say, as you say, 'how healthy and strong you look, Joe,' and whenever they ask me what cured my consumption, I tell them No-To-Bac. The last week I used tobacco, I lost four pounds. The morning I began the use of No-To-Bac I weighed 127½ pounds; to-day I weigh 169, a gain of 41½ pounds. I eat heartily and sleep well. Before I used No-To-Bac I was so nervous that when I went to drink I had to hold the glass in both hands. To-day my nerves are perfectly steady. Where did I get No-To-Bac? At the drug store. It is made by the Sterling Remedy Company, general Western office 45 Randolph St., Chicago, but I see by the printed matter that it is sold by all druggists—I know all the druggists in this town keep it. I have recommended it to over one hundred people and do not know of a single failure to cure."

Riding a Bronco.

"It's all bosh, this talk about cowboys learning to enjoy the sport of riding a bucking horse," said a reformed cow-boy. "Riding a bucking horse is like having boils—you never get thoroughly used to it. When you hear a fellow say that he would like to ride a bucking horse he is either a liar or a greenhorn. The first day I ever went out with a herd of cattle I was dumped nine times because of the presence of a cactus burr in my saddle blanket.

"I have never seen but one man that had grit enough to sit on a real bucking horse until it had bucked all it wanted to, and he was bleeding at the nose, mouth, and ears when they took him off the horse at the end of a half hours' struggle. As a general thing a cow-boy will pull a horse's head up, wind the reins around the saddle horn, take a firm grip on the saddle with his hands and then rowel the bucker until the animal becomes convinced that it is better to behave than to buck."—Phœnix (Cal.) Gazette.

Hydrophobia Among Chickens.

According to undisputed report a couple of hens at Hillsdale, N. J., were recently bitten by a mad dog. No doubt they "got it in the neck," so that it is strange that their heads did not come off; but you could not "preserve the unities" in that way, and so they lived to lay more eggs, although this is not the laying season, and soon after their recovery hydrophobia was developed and they expired in agony, as usual. The report does not say plumply that they "snarled and barked like a dog," but it insinuates the same by describing them as "frothing at the mouth and uttering unhen'ike sounds." But for this it might be thought that the chickens had the pip; but the question now is, are those hydrophobic eggs they laid?—Brooklyn Citizen.

Birth Stones.

In the matter of superstitious fads among society queens of the day, none have ever gained such importance as the birth stone. The magic power of precious stones is a belief dating back to the ancients. But never until now were such amulets and talismans known as guard against evil my lady of fin de siecle fancies, says a writer in the Boston Globe.

It is quite possible for one at all learned in fashion's ritual to tell what month of the year one of the fair creatures has her birthday, and what is the evil she would guard against by simply noting her jewels. If her hands blush with rubies the two secrets are told. She was born in July, and without this jewel she would suffer care and doubts in love.

Casualties of the Civil War.

In 1866 the United States Provost Marshal General reported that 61,362 men on the Union side had been killed in battle, 34,727 men died of their wounds, 183,287 had died of disease; total deaths, 279,376; total desertions, 199,105. A partial statement on the Confederate side declared that 133,821 men had died in battle of wounds and disease and 104,428 had deserted. During the war the Union troops captured 476,169 Confederate prisoners, and the Confederates captured 212,607 Union men. Of the latter 29,725 died in Confederate prisons, while 26,774 Confederates died in confinement.

Canada Thistles.

An Illinois farmer says he got rid of Canada thistles by taking a clod crusher made of two-inch plank, loaded it with as much stone as the horses could draw and broke the thistles down flat, then plowed them under deeply. The plan succeeded perfectly. It seems that their entire vigor, vitality and substances was in their tops, as they were ready for scattering the seeds. They were, it is said, entirely destroyed, and a market gardener raised vegetables on the land the next season. Not a sign of a Canada thistle has been seen on the ground since.

Indian Names of Rivers.

The rivers emptying themselves into Chesapeake Bay from Maryland and Virginia commonly have Indian names, with a peculiarly sharp, metallic ring to their syllables, as Choptank, Pocomoke, Rappahannock, Plankatank, Nanticoke. The rivers flowing westward in Virginia and West Virginia, however, have softly musical names, as Kanawha, Ohio, Monongahela, Youghiogheny. The most musically named of all rivers, however, the Shenandoah, belongs to the Atlantic coast system as a tributary of the Potomac.

Odd Theory as to Petroleum.

The rather interesting theory is held by a Russian geologist that petroleum is produced by water which penetrates the earth's crust and comes in contact with glowing carbides of metals, especially of iron. The water is decomposed into its constituent gases, the oxygen uniting with the iron, while the hydrogen takes up the carbon and ascends to a higher region, where part of it is condensed into mineral oil and part remains as natural gas to escape wherever and whenever it can find an outlet.—Mechanical News.

Fashion in Speech.

Are we never to hear the last of that hackneyed word, "awfully?" With the "society girl," just now everything is "awfully ghastly" or "awfully charming, don't you know?" If your new bonnet isn't awfully charming it must be awfully ghastly. Pretty is no longer pretty, but "pooty." "Gorgeous" or "deadly" are the correct adjectives to use when speaking of the weather.

When War Is Declared

Against a man's happiness by his stomach, the enemy may be pacified and brought speedily and easily to terms. That potent regulator of digestion, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, disciplines the rebellious organ thoroughly. Indigestion arises from weakness of the stomach, and the food in it, for want of the power to digest, decomposes and acidifies, giving rise to heartburn, flatulence and pain, besides a multitude of symptoms both changeful and perplexing. But peace soon reigns when the great stomachic is resorted to and used with persistence. Dyspepsia gives rise to morbid discomposure of mind, and even sleeplessness and hypochondria in chronic cases. To the complete dismissal of these the Bitters is fully adequate. Liver complaint, constipation, debility, rheumatism and malaria are completely subdued by this genial medicine.

Does Foreign Missionary Work Pay?

Pessimists say that it does not. Optimists say that it does. Whether the one is right or the other must be judged from the facts. One fact is that in India the number of heathen is increasing continually. There are 2,036,500 native Christians out of a population of 287,000,000. The Mohammedans number 57,000,000, the Hindoos 200,000,000. It is said there were 30,000,000 more Christless souls in 1891 than in the previous decade. Here is the other fact, stated in the Missionary Review of the World for November. "The native ordained pastors of India have increased 90 per cent. within nine years."

SEE "Colchester" Spading Boot ad. in other column.

ELECTRIC wires seem to be of such quick-tempered mettle that it is dangerous to cross them.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures Incipient Consumption. It is the best Cough Cure. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

BACKUS is the patron divinity of race-horses.

ST. VITUS'S DANCE,

Spasms, Convulsions, Dizziness, Fainting Spells, Nervous Prostration and those nervous conditions brought on by functional disorders are permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a strengthening nervine and restorative tonic, prescribed by an eminent Physician for all those distressing "weaknesses" and irregularities common to women.

MISS MERKEL.

MRS. ADAM BERK, Albany, Berks Co., Pa., writes: "DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—My sister, Miss Cordelia Merkel, had St. Vitus's Dance. Her head and right arm moved or twitched constantly; she could not walk without being held under her arms. She tried four doctors, but without good. After fifteen months, having been given up as a hopeless invalid, I bought her Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; in two months she was well and strong."

PIERCE CURE. Guarantees a

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

COCOA and CHOCOLATE

Highest Awards (Medals and Diplomas) World's Columbian Exposition.

On the following articles, namely:

BREAKFAST COCOA, PREMIUM No. 1 CHOCOLATE, GERMAN SWEET CHOCOLATE, VANILLA CHOCOLATE, COCOA BUTTER,

For "purity of material," "excellent flavor," and "uniform even composition."

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO., DORCHESTER, MASS.

PATENTS and PENSIONS Secured. No advance fee. Fitzgerald & Co., "7th and G," Washington, D. C.

FIRED ON THE REBELS.

THE UNITED STATES ASSERTS ITSELF AT RIO.

Cruiser Detroit Turns Her Cannon Loose and Brings the Insurgents to Their Knees—Admiral Benham's Course Approved—England May Follow Suit.

Lesson in the Shot.

Uncle Sam's guns have spoken in the bay of Rio Janeiro. By a timely shot fired on an insurgent vessel Rear Admiral Benham, of the United States navy, brought Admiral da Gama and the Brazilian rebels to realize that they cannot with impunity fire on American merchant vessels. The insurgent leader came near resigning and seeking an asylum on board the American fleet, but the younger officers would not yield. The principle has been firmly established that American vessels are not to be fired on.

ADMIRAL BENHAM.

Admiral Benham, finding that Admiral da Gama persisted in reckless firing that endangered the safety of American merchant vessels, entered a protest. Da Gama paid no heed to this. Furthermore, he notified Admiral Benham that if the three American merchantmen, the Amy, Good News and Julia Rollins, went to the Sandre Piers, as they had proposed, he would fire on them. Admiral Benham at once replied that the vessels would go to the piers if they wanted to and that he would send the Detroit to protect them. If the Detroit could not furnish sufficient protection every vessel of the American squadron would be employed in the work of protection, and Benham sought to warn the insurgent Admiral by clearing his decks for action. Da Gama refused to take this hint. A musket was fired from the Guanabara, Da Gama's flagship, at the Good News.

THE WARSHIP DETROIT.

The Detroit at once fired a six-pound shot across the bows of the Guanabara, whereupon the latter vessel replied with what is supposed to have been a blank cartridge. The Detroit then turned one of her guns upon the Guanabara and sent a small shot into her stern post, and was on the point of delivering a broadside at the insurgent ship when the Guanabara signaled that she would stop firing.

Da Gama Would Surrender.

In the meantime an American citizen, G. M. Rollins, who acted as the agent of Admiral da Gama in the arbitration negotiations, had visited all three of the American merchantmen and offered to have them towed at the expense of the insurgents if they would not go to the piers. This the captains of the merchantmen agreed to. This arrangement was reported to Admiral da Gama on board his flagship, the Liberdade. He then said: "It is too late. The glass is broken. I must yield to this foreign fleet of superior force. I will resign and give my sword to the American Admiral." Later in the day Admiral da Gama called a council of his officers, expecting that all of them would seek an asylum on board the American fleet, but the younger officers would not yield. It was stated at the council that Admiral Benham had offered Admiral da Gama and his officers asylum on board of the American war ships.

The situation was extremely delicate when the Detroit was beside the Good their guns loaded and aimed on all the News. The Guanabara and Trajano had American vessels, while two heavy insurgent tugs were ready to ram the Detroit. The Guanabara and Trajano together have eight splendid rifles, but when the Detroit fired a six-pound shell into the Guanabara and Captain Brownson gave warning that if a gun was fired, even by accident, he would sink them and advised that they take the men from the guns, they weakened. Admiral Benham had the Newark ready to aid the Detroit, while the New York, Charleston and San Francisco were alert to receive the Aquidaban and Tamandare, which were under steam.

THE GUANABARA.

England Will Follow Example.

It is thought England will follow the example set by the United States. The London Standard says:

"The blockade of Rio de Janeiro has been broken up so far as American trading vessels are concerned, and we do not suppose that the American example will be lost upon merchants and naval officers representing other nations in the port. If the blockade is thus forcibly raised the insurgent hope of reducing President Peixoto to submission by starving out the capital is ended. This is the insurgents' mainstay.

THE TITLE TO MILLIONS.

Immense Interests Affected by Delay to Confirm Peckham.

Probably the most important interest affected by the delay of the Senate in giving the full bench to the Supreme Court is the settlement of the titles to mineral lands along the Northern Pacific Railroad. By its charter this road was given the alternate sections of land forty miles each side of its track, excepting the mineral lands, but the question has arisen in numerous lawsuits whether the title was for those sections which were known to contain mineral deposits when the grants took effect or also for all lands in which mineral deposits have since been discovered.

Circuit Court decisions have placed the first construction upon the grants, and there has been the test case of Richard P. Borden against the Northern Pacific before the Supreme Court for more than a year. This case has been once argued, but is now sidetracked to await the confirmation of a ninth justice. Upon its decision depends the title to all recently discovered mineral wealth along the Northern Pacific, for an eighty mile belt across the whole width of the State of Montana and part of Idaho.

WILSON BILL PASSED.

GOES THROUGH THE HOUSE BY A VOTE OF 204 TO 140.

Reed Makes a Plea for Protection, While Crisp and Wilson Defend the Proposed Measure—Wilson's Admirers Carry Him About on Their Shoulders.

Unparalleled Scenes.

At the conclusion of one of the grandest, most imposing, and most impressive scenes ever witnessed in the American Capitol, the Wilson tariff bill passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 204 to 140. The events leading up to it were almost unparalleled in the annals of this country. Such a vast concourse of people as assembled to hear the last arguments upon the great economic issue about to be submitted for final arbitrament to the representatives of the American people had never before been seen within the precincts of the nation's legislative capital.

Three hours of debate preceded the vote on the bill. The participants were ex-Speaker Reed, Speaker Crisp and Chairman Wilson, of the Ways and Means Committee. The galleries were filled to overflowing with eager and expectant listeners. The corridors were packed and long lines of applicants for admission stood at each gallery door. All preparations had been made for a picturesque ending to the long debate and no one was disappointed by the entertainment. When the result of the ballot had been announced Mr. Wilson was carried about the chamber on the shoulders of his admirers.

Strictly speaking, it was not the Wilson bill that was passed, but what remained of the measure after running the gantlet of the committee of the whole in a three weeks' debate. During this discussion some of the main features of the measure prepared by the Ways and Means Committee were eliminated and important provisions added, but the bill will continue to be known as the Wilson bill. Before the final vote was taken the House ratified all the changes that had been ordered by the committee of the whole, so that the measure as it now stands provides for raw materials, including, coal, iron ore, lumber, hides, salt and wool, free sugar, an income tax, no sugar bounty, and no reciprocity features. The vote in detail was as follows:

YEAS.

ABBOTT,	DUNN,	McKeighan,
ALDERSON,	DUNPHY,	MCLAURIN,
ALEXANDER,	DURBOROW,	MCMILLIN,
ALLEN,	EDMUNDS,	MCNAGNY,
ARNOLD,	ELLIS (Ky.),	MCRAE,
BAILEY,	ENGLISH,	MEREDITH,
Baker (Kan.),	ENLOE,	MONEY,
BALDWIN,	EPES,	MONTGOMERY,
BANKHEAD,	ERDMAN,	MORGAN,
BARNES,	EVERETT,	MOSES,
BARWIG,	FIELDER,	MUTCHLER,
Bell (Colo.),	FITHIAN,	NEILL,
BELL (Texas),	FORMAN,	OATES,
BELTZHOOVER,	FYAN,	O'NEIL (Mass),
BERRY,	G'ISS'NHAIN'R,	OUTHWAITE,
BLACK (Ga.),	GOLDZIER,	PASCHAL,
BLACK (Ill.),	GOODNIGHT,	PATTERSON,
BLANCHARD,	GORMAN,	PAYNTER,
BLAND,	GRADY,	PEARSON,
BOATNER,	GRAHAM,	Pence,
Boen,	GRESHAM,	PE'DLE'TN(Tex)
BOWER (N. C.),	HALL (Minn.),	P'DLT'N (W.Va)
BRANCH,	HALL (Mo.),	PIGOTT,
BRAWLEY,	HAMMOND,	RAYNER,
BRECKINRIDGE (Ark.),	HARE,	REILLY,
	Harris,	RICHARDS (O.),
BRECKINRIDGE (Ky.),	HARTER	R'CH'DS'N(Mic.)
	HATCH,	RIC'DSON(Ten.)
BRETZ,	HAYES,	RITCHIE,
BRICKNER,	HEARD,	ROBBINS,
BROOKSHIRE,	HIND'RS'N(N.C.)	ROBINSON,
BROWN,	HINES,	RUSSELL (Ga.),
BRYAN,	HOLMAN,	RYAN,
BUNN,	HOOKER(Miss.),	SAYERS,
BURNES,	HOUK (Ohio),	SHELL,
BYNUM,	HUDSON,	Simpson,
CABANISS,	HUNTER,	SNODGRASS,
CAMINETTI,	HUTCHESON,	SOMERS,
CANNON (Cal.)	IKIRT	SPRINGER,
CAPEHART,	JOHNSON (O.),	STALLINGS,
CABUTH,	JONES,	STOCKDALE,
CATCHINGS,	Kem,	STONE (Ky.),
CAUSEY,	KILGORE,	STRAIT,
CLANCY,	KRIBBS,	SWANSON,
CLARK (Mo.),	KYLE,	TALBERT (S.C.),
CLARK (Ala.),	LANE,	TALBOT (Mo.),
COBB (Ala.),	LAPHAM,	TARNEYEY,
COBB (Mo.),	LATTIMER,	TATE,
COCKRAN,	LAWSON,	TAYLOR (Ind.),
COCKRELL,	LAYTON,	TERRY,
COFFEEN,	LESTER,	TRACEY,
COMPTON,	LISLE,	TUCKER,
CONN,	LIVINGSTON,	TURNER,
COOMBS,	LOCKWOOD,	TURPIN,
COOPER (Fla.),	LYNCH,	TYLER,
COOPER (Ind.),	MADDOX,	WARNER,
COOPER (Tex.),	MAGNER,	WASHINGTON,
CORNISH,	MAGUIRE,	WEADOCK,
COX,	MALLORY,	WELLS,
CRAIN,	MARSHALL,	WHEELER (Ala)
CRAWFORD,	MARTIN (Ind.),	WHITING,
CULBERSON,	MCALEER,	WILLIAMS (Ill.)
Davis (Kan.),	MCCREARY(Ky)	WILL'MS (Miss)
DEARMOND,	MCCULLOCH,	WILSON(W.Va),
DE FOREST,	MCDANNOLD,	WISE,
DENSON,	MCDEARMON,	WOLVERTON,
DINSMORE,	MCDETTRICK,	WOODARD,
DOCKERY,	MCGANN,	CRISP—204.
DONOVAN,	MCKAIG,

NAYS.

Adams, (Ky.),	Grout,	Phillips,
Aitken,	Hager,	Pickler,
Aldrich,	Halner (Neb.),	Post,
Apsley,	HAINES,	Powers,
Avery,	Harmer,	PRICE,
Babcock,	Hartman,	Randall,
Baker (N. H.),	Haugen,	Ray,
Bartholdt,	Heiner (Pa.)	Reed,
BARTLETT,	Henderson(Ill.)	Reyburn,
Belden,	Henderson (Ia.)	ROBERTSON(La
Bingham,	HENDRIX,	Robinson (Pa.),
Blair,	Hepburn,	Russell (Conn.),
Boutelle,	Herrmann,	SCH'MBERHORN
Bowers, (Cal.)	Hicks,	Scranton,
Brederick,	Hilborn,	Settle,
Brosius,	Hitt,	Shaw,
Burrows,	Hooker (N. Y.),	Sherman,
CADMUS,	Hopkins (Ill.),	SIBLEY,
Caldwell,	Hulick,	SICKLES,
Campbell,	Hull,	Smith,
Cannon (Ill.),	Johnson (Ind.),	SPERRY,
Chickering,	Johnson (N.D.),	Stephenson,
Childs,	Joy,	Stone, C. W.
Cogswell,	Keifer,	Stone, W. A.
Cooper (Wis.),	Lacey,	Storer,
Cousins,	Lefevre,	Strong,
COVERT,	Linton,	Tawney,
CUMMINGS,	Loud,	Taylor (Tenn.),
Curtis, (Kan.)	Loudenslager,	Thomas,
Curtis, (N. Y.)	Lucas,	Updegraff,
Dalzell,	Mahon,	Van Voorhis (N. Y.),
Daniels,	Marsh,
DAVEY (La.),	Marvin (N. Y.),	Van Voorhis (Ohio),
Dingley,	McCall,
Dolliver,	McCleary (Minn)	Wadsworth,
Doolittle,	McDowell,	Walker,
Draper,	Meiklejohn,	Wanger,
Ellis (Ore.),	Mercer,	Waugh,
Fletcher,	MEXER,	Wever,
Funk,	Moon,	Wheeler (Ill.),
Funston,	Morse,	White,
Gardner,	Murray,	Wilson (Ohio),
Gear,	Newlands,	Wilson (Wash.),
GEARY,	Northway,	Woomer,
Gillet (N.Y.),	PAGE,	Wright (Mass.),
Gillett (Mass.),	Payne,	Wright (Pa.),
Grosvenor,	Perkins,	—140.

Democrats are indicated by SMALL CAPS, Republicans by roman, and Populists by italics.

National Capital Notes.

THE deficit in the revenue for the month of January approximates $10,000,000.

CONGRESSMAN GORMAN fell on the sleety sidewalk, injuring his shoulder very badly.

THE Republicans in the Senate have decided to make no opposition to the admission of Utah as a State.

THE District of Columbia appropriation bill was reported to the House. The amount recommended is $4,927,194.97. Last year it was $6,413,233.91.

THE Secretary of the Treasury appointed a committee of scientific and mechanical experts to report on the best method of safe and vault construction, with a view of renewing or improving the vault facilities of the United States Treasury. They recommended vaults instead of safes. They tested a number of safes, making experiments with burglars' appliances, and in only one instance failed in effecting an opening sufficient to permit the robbery of the safe of its contents. They reported the vaults and safes of the great banking and safe deposit companies of New York and elsewhere much better protected than those of the Treasury Department.

His Opinion of Himself.

La Fontaine, the famous French poet and writer of fables, was a notable example of the eccentricity of genius. When he lost his entire fortune, a lady, who was one of his best friends and an ardent admirer of his works, hastened in alarm and distress to find him. She met him in the street, penniless and cheerful.

"You must come to our home," she said.

"I was going there," he replied; and then began a visit which prolonged itself into years, during which La Fontaine never seemed to be troubled by a thought that he was dependent. Nor did the lady or her family have any other feeling than one of delight and pride that he made his home with them.

Some one adopted one of his sons when the child was a baby. Knowing that the boy was in good hands, he seemed to forget all about him. Years afterward at a dinner party he met a young man whose wit and charm of manner pleased him greatly.

"Why, that is your son!" he was told.

"Indeed! I am pleased to hear it," was his remarkable reply.

"La Fontaine," said one of the most brilliant critics and wits of the time, "is such a fool that he does not know he has more genius than Æsop or Phædrus."

In truth, he was a severe critic of his own work. He attended the first presentation of his "Astree," and sat near some ladies who did not know him. At some of the important passages he exclaimed, "That is wretched! That is absurd!"

When they protested that it was good, and that it was by the great La Fontaine, he rejoined:

"That makes no difference. The piece is bad. I know that La Fontaine you are speaking of. He's a stupid fellow. He's myself."

Then he went out, entered a cafe, and went to sleep in a corner. Some of his friends found him there, and inquired why he wasn't listening to "Astree."

"Ah," said the author, rousing himself and stifling a yawn, "I just came away. The first part displeased me greatly. No one agreed with what I said about it, but I didn't care to hear more. I admire the patience of the Parisians."—Youth's Companion.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

The Best-Dressed Queen.

The Dowager Duchess of Portugal is one of the best-dressed women in Europe; perhaps her exquisite figure and extraordinary charm of manner have a great deal to do with her handsome appearance. She takes after her father, the late King Victor Emmanuel, in her love of sport, and except the Comtesse de Paris, finds more amusement in outdoor exercise than any other royal lady now living.

The Only One.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway is the only line running solid Vestibuled, Electric Lighted and Steam Heated trains between Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Minneapolis.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway is the only line running solid Vestibuled, Electric Lighted and Steam Heated trains between Chicago, Omaha, and Sioux City.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company now operates over sixty-one hundred miles of thoroughly equipped road in Illinois, Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, South and North Dakota.

On all its through lines of travel the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway runs the most perfectly equipped trains of Sleeping, Parlor and Dining Cars and Coaches. The through trains on all its lines are systematically heated by steam. No effort is spared to furnish the best accommodations for the least money, and, in addition, patrons of the road are sure of courteous treatment from its employes.

Sweden's Woman Doctor of Laws.

Froken Elsa Eschelsen, candidate of philosophy and law, has obtained permission from the King of Sweden to plead at the University of Upsala for the degree of Doctor of Laws, although she has not complied with the regulations, inasmuch as she has not officiated as a Judge. Froken Eschelsen will be the first woman doctor of laws in Sweden.

THE BREATH of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which is usually the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results by its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best and only cure.

DE SMARTE—Why do you persist in buying your clothes at installment houses? De Sharpe—They always try to give me stuff that will last at least until all the payments are made.

FOR weak and inflamed eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. It is a carefully prepared physician's prescription.

THE most accurate weather report is the thunder clap.

Why so hoarse? Use Hatch's Universal Cough Syrup. All druggists, 25c.

ARDENT SPIRITS—Those that kiss the medium at a seance.

BEECHAM'S PILLS have a pleasant coating, disguising the taste of the pill without impairing its efficacy. 25 cents a box.

PRUDENCE is the better part of shrewdness.

Good Qualities

Possessed by Hood's Sarsaparilla are almost beyond mention. Best of all, it purifies the blood, thus strengthening the nerves, it regulates the digestive organs, invigorates the kidneys and liver, tones and builds up the entire system, cures Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Rheumatism. Its career of unequaled success proves beyond a question that

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills, Sick Headache, Jaundice, Indigestion. Try a box. 25c.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Baby Alligators.

Steve Melton recently showed to his friends a score of baby alligators, which came out of the egg two days before. Henry Christopher, who has an alligator farm on Hannibal Creek, brought them to the city the other morning to be sold. Christopher has several large 'gators, which net him more in the course of a year than a dozen hens. The advantage the 'gator has over the hen is in the matter of feed. The hen has to be fed every day, and the 'gator takes his meal about once every three months.

When first hatched, the 'gators are about three to four inches long. In a day or two, however, they double their size, and don't need any food to do it on, either. They just seem to grow fat on wind. If some naturalist could find out the secret of their living he would have a regular bonanza.—Florida Times-Union.

How a Plant Has Traveled.

Less than a 125 years ago the little plant known to the botanists as Lepachy's Columnaris was only known to inhabit a small section of country in the very southern portion of Louisiana. Some time later it was reported as occurring sparingly along the Canadian River; and, later still, on the Arkansas. Since that time it has slowly spread North, West, and East, even to the very source of the Missouri, over into the British possessions, and is now said to be creeping along the Saskatchawan towards Hudson Bay. How a plant which originated in a warm climate could accustom itself to such changes is another of nature's mysteries.—St. Louis Republic.

Those Western Romances.

Jimson (who had read Bret Harte and is now registering for the first time at a far-away western hotel)—Say, stranger, if you hev a corner where I can bunk up fur the night, which the same I'm meanin' to do, fix 'er up while I takes a swig of tanglefoot.

Clerk of the far western hotel—I beg your pardon, my dear sir, but I do not quite comprehend your meaning. Just wait till I ring for our interpreter.—Chicago Record.

Sleeping Sandwich.

The sleeping sandwich is a powerful compound of bread, sliced thin, and buttered with a mixture of chopped raw onion, caviare, mustard, salt, and pepper. It should be offered only to strong digestion and not too sensitive olfactories. It is a palatable late luncheon to those who like onions and have not the aversion to caviare ascribed by Shakspeare to every day citizens. The onion and caviare sandwich, taken with beer or ale, is said to promote sound sleep.—New York Sun.

AS A SIMPLE YET EFFECTIVE REMEDY for Throat Affections, BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES stand first in public favor. They are absolutely unrivalled for the alleviation of all Throat irritation caused by Cold or use of the voice.

POLITENESS is like an air cushion. If there be nothing in it, it eases our jolts wonderfully.

Lovely warmth of color, with traces of pink and white, is the exquisite complexion which follows the use of Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

NEWSPAPERS are the second hands of history.

THE newspapers poke a good deal of fun at the Summer girl, but even editors know that the Summer girl and a narrow-seated buggy and a moon-light night make a very attractive combination.

Tariff and Taxation.

Tariff duties and internal revenue taxation on incomes and corporations are exciting public interest, but of quite as much interest are those things which tax the system and require at once an external remedy. On this subject, with special recommendation, Mr. Pierce D. Brown, Bridgewater, Mass., says: "In accidents from all kinds of athletic sports, to reduce sprains and bruises, I have used St. Jacobs Oil and always found it most reliable." Also, Mr. G. R. Sands, Margum, Okla., writes: "I have used St. Jacobs Oil for sprains and rheumatism and would not be without it for anything." Mr. R. Ledbetter, Denton, Texas, says: "I have used St. Jacobs Oil and it is the only thing I ever saw that would cure toothache in ten minutes' time," and it is usually prompt and sure for frost-bites. All of these communications are of recent date, showing unabated interest.

"YOUR son has been graduated?" "Yes." "Now the question is; will he be able to make his knowledge useful, to impart it to others?" "I guess so. He has begun to impart it to me."

$42.50 FOR A FARM WAGON.

The best wagon in the world can be had for $42.50; a barrel cart for $3.50.

If You Will Cut This Out and Send It With 5c to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive their mammoth catalogue, where you can read about this wagon.

WHEN a public office holder comes to feel that he is a big gun, it is time for him to be fired.

$8 to California.

This is our sleeping car rate on the Phillips-Rock Island Tourist Excursions from Chicago to Los Angeles or San Francisco, via the scenic route and Ogden. You can go with Phillips, the best of all excursion managers, for he has each party accompanied by a special agent who goes the entire trip with patrons. These personally conducted excursions leave Chicago twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday.

We have also a daily tourist car service, via our Southern route, through the beautiful Indian Territory and Fort Worth to Los Angeles and San Francisco. The tourist car rate via this route, the same. Apply at Rock Island ticket office, 101 Clark street. John Sebastian, G. P. A., C., R. I. & P. Ry., Chicago.

CRADLES are never made of cheap leather. That is because customers demand more rocker.

DON'T ALLOW YOURSELF to trifle with a Cold, and so encourage the development of some latent Pulmonary and Bronchial disease, which often ends fatally. You had better cure your Cough or Cold by promptly resorting to Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, an old-time remedy for all Coughs, Lung, and Throat affections.

IT is considered strange that aristocratic people will consent to live in a commonwealth.

FITS! All fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

ISN'T a temperance lecture a water-spout?

Mothers' Friend

Is a scientifically prepared liniment—every ingredient of recognized value, and in constant use by the medical profession. These ingredients are combined in a manner hitherto unknown, and WILL DO all that is claimed for it, AND MORE. It shortens Labor, Lessens Pain, Diminishes Danger to Life of Mother and Child.

Sent by Express on Receipt of Price, $1.50 per Bottle.

Book to "MOTHERS" mailed FREE, containing voluntary testimonials

Sold by All Druggists. BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

"SIMENE" REVERSIBLE TRADE MARK COLLARS AND CUFFS.

DANTE RUBENS ANGELO RAPHAEL MURILLO TASSO

The "LINENE" are the Best and Most Economical Collars and Cuffs Worn.

They are the only goods made that a well-dressed gentleman can use in place of linen. Try them. You will like them; they look well, wear well and fit well. Reversible; both sides alike; can be worn twice as long as any other collar. When one side is soiled use the other, then throw it away and take a fresh one.

Ask the Dealers for them. Sold for 25 cents for a Box of 10 Collars, or Five Pairs of Cuffs.

A Sample Collar and a Pair of Cuffs sent by mail for six cents. Address, Giving Size and Style Wanted,

REVERSIBLE COLLAR CO., 27 Kilby Street, Boston, Mass.

GET THERE ELY'S CREAM BALM

SALZER'S NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS

The person planting Salzer's Seeds never knows of hard times, because they double all yields! Try it for 1894 and be happy. Vegetable seeds for the million. 35 pkgs. Earliest Vegetable seeds, $1.00 post paid. Largest growers of Farm Seeds in the world. FREE, sample pkg. "Get There Eli" Radish fit for use in 18 days and catalogue for 7c postage. Catalogue alone, 5c. for postage.

POTATOES $2.50 PER BU.

JOHN A SALZER SEED CO. LA CROSSE WIS.

NICKEL PLATE.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R.

SOLID THROUGH TRAINS BUFFALO to CHICAGO.

LOWEST RATES.

THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.

For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address

A. W. ECKERSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. B. F. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CINCINNATI.

1,000,000 ACRES OF LAND for sale by the SAINT PAUL & DULUTH RAILROAD COMPANY in Minnesota. Send for Maps and Circulars. They will be sent to you

FREE.

Address HOPEWELL CLARKE, Land Commissioner, St. Paul, Minn.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Consumptives and people who have weak lungs or Asthma, should use Piso's Cure for Consumption. It has cured thousands. It has not injured one. It is not bad to take. It is the best cough syrup. Sold everywhere. 25c.

"COLCHESTER" SPADING BOOT. Best in Market.

BEST IN FIT. BEST IN WEARING QUALITY.

The outer or tap sole extends the whole length down to the heel, protecting the boot in digging and in other hard work.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM, and don't be put off with inferior goods.

Colchester Rubber Co.

Thin Children Grow Fat

on Scott's Emulsion, because fat foods make fat children. They are thin, and remain thin just in proportion to their inability to assimilate food rich in fat.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil is especially adaptable to those of weak digestion—it is partly digested already. Astonishing how quickly a thin person gains solid flesh by its use!

Almost as palatable as milk.

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All druggists.

Ely's Cream Balm WILL CURE CATARRH

Price 50 Cents.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N.Y.

DO YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL? READ THIS ABOUT CALIFORNIA!

The WABASH RAILROAD has placed on sale low rate single and round trip tickets to all principal Pacific coast points, giving a wide choice of routes both going and returning, with an extreme return limit of Nine Months. Stop-overs are granted at pleasure on round trip tickets west of St. Louis and the Missouri River, and by taking the WABASH but one change of cars is necessary to reach Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Sacramento and Portland, Ore. Remember the WABASH is the peoples favorite route and is the only line running magnificent free Reclining Chair Cars and Palace Sleepers in all through fast trains to St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address any of the undermentioned Passenger Agents of the Wabash System.

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. CHANDLER, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

"Only One Night Out." The Quickest Time Ever Made —TO— FLORIDA —OR— NEW ORLEANS —VIA— C. H. & D. R. R. —AND— CINCINNATI, —FROM— Toledo, Detroit or Chicago.

For Rates, address D. G. EDWARDS, General Passenger Agent, Cincinnati, Ohio.

BEST $3 SHOE. W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE equals custom work, costing from $4 to $6, best value for the money in the world. Name and price stamped on the bottom. Every pair warranted. Take no substitute. See local papers for full description of our complete lines for ladies and gentlemen or send for Illustrated Catalogue, giving full directions how to order by mail. Postage free. You can get the best bargains of dealers who push our shoes.

GENUINE WELT, Seamless, BOTTOM WATERPROOF. W. L. DOUGLAS, BROCKTON, MASS. ALL THE LATEST STYLES.

WALL PAPER We will send you our best gilt wall paper and borders for 4 rooms 10x12 for $1.25, 12x14 for $1.50, 14x16 for 1.75, 16x18 for 2.00. Ceilings to match from 25c to the extra. Send 10c for Sample plan and full Directions for Papering. SCOVILLE WALL PAPER MFG. CO. 250 to 254 S. Clinton St., Chicago.

DROPSY TREATED FREE. Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases pronounced hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. Ten Days Tre

Quick Relief.

Early Risers, Early Risers, Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, sick headache, dyspepsia and nervousness. 4tf

One Minute Cough Cure.

Not one minute elapses between the taking of One Minute Cough Cure and relief. Why shouldn't people take One Minute Cough Cure? They should. They do.

To Horse Owners.

For putting a horse in a fine healthy condition, use Morris' English Stable Powders. They tone up the system, aid in digestion, cure loss of appetite, relieve constipation, correct kidney disorders and destroy worms, giving new life to an old or over-worked horse. 25 cents per package; 5 for $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke. tf

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1. 3

ADULTERATED WINE

is injurious, but nothing gives strength and tones up the stomach like a pure old port wine. "Royal Ruby Port," so called for its royal taste and ruby color, is on account of its purity, age and strength, particularly adapted for invalids, convalescents and the aged. Sold only in bottles (never in bulk) while cheap wine is sold by the gallon and gives a larger profit to the seller but less to the user. This wine is absolutely pure, and has the age without which no wine is fit to use. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby"; quart bottles $1, pints 60 cts. Sold by

F. E. Davenport.

Cured His Rheumatism.

Joseph V. Dory, of Warsaw, Ill. was troubled with rheumatism and tried a number of different remedies, but says none of them seemed to do him any good, but finally he got hold of one that speedily cured him. He was much pleased with it, and felt sure that others similarly afflicted would like to know what the remedy was that cured him. He states for the benefit of the public that it is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Distemper—Its Cause and Treatment

Is the title of our little book which tells all about one of the most loathsome and dangerous diseases affecting horses, sheep and dogs, with unquestionable proof of the merits of Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure in the treatment of the same. Sent free by addressing the Well's Medicine Co., LaFayette, Ind. This remedy is sold by Matheny & Gerke.

Better Results.

It's just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. It's easier to cure a severe cold or cough with it Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure; better medicine; better results; better try it. 4tf

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

Cures Burns.

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. A perfect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure piles. 4tf

He Recommends It.

Mr. Albert Favorite, of Arkansas City Kan., wishes to give our readers the benefit of his experience with colds. He says: "I contracted a cold early last spring that settled on my lungs, and had hardly recovered from it when I caught another that hung on all summer and left me with a hacking cough which I thought I never would get rid of. I had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy some fourteen years ago with much success, and concluded to try it again. When I had got through with one bottle my cough had left me, and I have not suffered with a cough or cold since. I have recommended it to others and all speak well of it." 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the New Great South American Kidney Cure. This new remedy is a great Surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Druggists, Auburn, Ind.

Will Make Hens Lay.

Well's Hoosier Poultry Powder is the greatest egg producer known. A small sum expended for it will pay one hundred per cent on the cost in an increased amount of egg, as it furnishes all the material necessary for their construction, and keeps the hen in good healthy condition. Price 25 cents. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

How's Your Horse?

Morris' English Stable Liniment will positively cure his lameness, sprains, bunches, sweeney, galls, puffs, poll evil, scratches, callouses, barbed wire cuts and flesh wounds of every description. No other preparation equals it for promptness, safety and economy. Price 50 cts. and $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

McElree's Wine of Cardul

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in DeKalb Co.:

Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

IVORY

IVORY

SOAP

99 44/100% PURE

NO IRRITATION.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shephard, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by Robbins & McCord 8

A Wonderful Medicine.

A hale old man, Mr. Jas. Wilson, of Allens Springs, Ill., who is over 60 years of age, says: "I have in my time tried a great many medicines, some of excellent quality,; but never before did I find any that would so completely do all that is claimed for it as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhœa Remedy. It is truly a wonderful medicine." For sale by Robbins & McCord.

The County Fair

affords an excellent opportunity for the pick-pocket to get your watch. If you would be proof against his skill, be sure that the bow (or ring) is a

Non-pull-out

This wonderful bow is now fitted to the

Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases, which are made of two plates of gold soldered to a plate of composition metal. Look equally as well as solid gold cases, and cost about half as much.

Guaranteed to wear 20 years.

Always look for this trade mark.
None genuine without it.
Sold only through watch dealers.

A watch case opener which makes a handsome charm sent free on request.

Keystone Watch Case Co., PHILADELPHIA.

SAILED THE SEAS 38 YEARS.

One of His Experiences.

For thirty-eight years Capt. Loud followed the sea, most of that time as master of a vessel, and upon retiring from the water was appointed by the Secretary of the United States Treasury to superintend the seal fisheries in Alaska, which position he held five years. He relates one experience as follows:

"For several years I had been troubled with general nervousness and pain in the region of my heart. My greatest affliction was sleeplessness; it was almost impossible at any time to obtain rest and sleep. Having seen Dr. Miles' remedies advertised I began using Nervine. After taking a small quantity the benefit received was so great that I was positively alarmed, thinking the remedy contained opiates which would finally be injurious to me; but on being assured by the druggist that it was perfectly harmless, I continued it together with the Heart Cure. Today I can conscientiously say that Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure did more for me than anything I had ever taken. I had been treated by eminent physicians in New York and San Francisco without benefit. I owe my present good health to the judicious use of these most valuable remedies, and heartily recommend them to all afflicted as I was."—Capt. A. P. Loud, Hampden, Me.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Cure are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, express prepaid. They are free from all opiates and dangerous drugs.

OLD ELK

BOURBON & PURE RYE

Shipped pure and unadulterated direct from the distillery. Pronounced a pure and wholesome tonic-stimulant by the medical fraternity everywhere. Gives life, strength and happiness to the weak, sick, aged and infirm.

If you cannot procure it of your druggist or liquor dealers, upon receipt of $1.50 we will express prepaid to any address a full quart sample bottle of Old Elk Rye or Bourbon.

STOLL, VANNATTA & CO., DISTILLERS, Lexington, Ky.

WATERLOO.

Mrs. Artie Sinclair is ill at the present writing.

The meetings at the Reformed church are still going on.

O. P. Smith took a business trip over to the county seat Tuesday.

Rev. W. O. Butler and his wife are both enjoying a season of the grip.

Miss Rose Blair, who has been quite sick with the grippe, is now improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes. Husselman, of South Chicago, are visiting relatives here this week.

Henry Boyer has moved here from Butler and goes into the farm implement business.

Gen. Blair has been laid up about ten days with a sore hand, but is now able to be out again.

Protracted meetings begin next Monday at the U. B. church and are expected to continue for some weeks.

Mrs. Juliette Dickinson is not yet free from a severe cough, the result of her siege of grippe some weeks ago.

Blanche Kelley went to Auburn Tuesday to attend the lecture of Dr. Henson. She was entertained by the family of G. A Bishop.

Sunday last Mr. and Mrs. Plum recieved a visit from Mrs. Plum's niece, Mrs. G. W. Askew and daughter, of Auburn, who dined with them.

Isaac Speer is still in too poor health to be in the store, though he is improving. His son Charlie is helping in the store during his winter's stay at home.

Mrs. Edward Braun was attacked very suddenly about ten days ago with grippe. She was for some time very sick as well as in much pain. She is at present somewhat improving.

Attorneys Shuman and Leas were at Angola Monday on court business there The former is also interested in the Deeters' case, as he is assistant prosecutor in this county.

Mrs. Judge McClellan, of Auburn, passed through here Tuesday on her way to Kendallville where she went to call on the family of A. B. Park. Mr. and Mrs Park are old-time Auburn friends and Mr. Park has been in a critical state of health for some time.

The L. M. C. held their regular session February 6 at the home of Mrs. Chloe Kennedy, The exercises consisted of Responses, subject, Birds, Study from Longfellow, Leader, Mrs. Long; Character Sketch of Longfellow, ——; Recitation, Mrs. Waterman.

Nelson Morr, of Auburn, has been here a few days visiting his brother-in-law, Dr. J. E. Showalter, who is located here in the practice of medicine. Though he has been here but a short time he has started up a good practice for a young man and made many friends.

The drama, "A Dangerous Game," given two evenings of last week by home talent, was well patronized. Saturday evening the streets were filled with people wending their way to the opera house, and from the number it looked doubtful if all would find seats or even entrance.

Monday, Feb. 5, "Florida on Wheels" was on exhibition on South Wayne street from nine o'clock in the morning until the same time in the evening. They must have taken from here quite a large sum of money, as a crowd of people were around the car all day entering and leaving. People were in from the country in all directions, together with town residents and all the children, of course. Charges only a nickel or dime, but proving that "many a little makes a mickle."

CONCORD.

Mrs. Shutt is very low.

Tuesday last Lida Wyatt entertained fairies.

Miss Ida Fisk, of Waterloo, visited friends over Sunday.

Last Tuesday evening Isaac Cobler was kicked by a horse.

Mrs. Howey is in Ashley visiting her daughter, Hattie Benner.

D. W Baker has the contract for hauling 1,400 tile for Herman Brown.

Orville Latson, of Auburn, visited his half-brother, Ira Bone, over Sunday.

Mrs. Beeber and niece, of Garrett, are visiting in the family of John Geisinger.

J. W. Dills bought all the large hogs last fall and is now tackling the little pigs.

Mesdames Sheffer, Meeks and Hart, of St. Joe, visited Mrs. Hattie Koch Wednesday.

Mrs. Campbell and niece, of Waterloo, spent several days visiting the sister of the former, Mrs. Will Heffty.

Mrs. C. A. Jenkins, of Mt. Pleasant, and Mrs Jennie Kinsey, of St. Joe, were guests of Ellen Baker Tuesday

C. A. Rhodes and family, of Spencerville, were the guests of J. B. Gibford Sunday, the ladies being sisters.

F. Buchanan and wife, Anna Baker and Alice Dragoo attended the discussion at St. Joe Saturday on the pocket book and the wife's share.

D. W. Baker found one of his fresh milch cows dead in her stall last Sunday morning. One of Uriah Johnson's big hogs gave up the ghost the other night.

SUMMIT.

Mr. Nathan Elliott is able to be around again.

Mrs. Isaac Barker is no better at this writing.

Mrs. Sadie Duncan is sick again and under the doctor's care.

Frank Hilt and wife visited friends in Hudson one day last week.

Miss Florence Bair, of Ashley' was the guest of Cora Elliott last Sunday.

Chas. Zimmerman and wife were the guests of Henry Lawson and wife last Sunday.

Mrs. Dr. O. F. Rudolph, of Corunna, was the guest of Mrs. Henry Lawson a few days last week.

Mrs. Margaret McDougal visited her sister, Mrs. John Zimmerman, west of Hudson, a few days last week.

Our agent, Milo Foster and wife, were called up to Michigan last Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Foster's grandmother, Mrs. Lovejoy.

NORRIS CHAPEL.

There was no preaching at this place last Sunday.

Miss Etta Metcalf visited under the parental roof last week.

Miss Iva Wilcox, of Bryan, Ohio, is the guest of of Jennie Metcalf,

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

James Metcalf, who has been quite sick for some weeks is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson visited friends at Spencerville a few days last week.

Rev. N. P. Barton is holding a protracted meeting at Grove Bethel. A great interest is manifested.

The Sunday school at this place is well attended and in a flourishing condition. It is under the management of John Humbarger, supt.

"DUTCH JOHN" SPEAKS.

SUMMIT, IND., FEB 8, 1894.

MR BARNS,

DEAR SIR:—Please give space in your paper for the following statement:

The Waterloo Press in the issues of January 4, 11, 18 and 25 made a terrible cry about the incompetent commissioners and especially myself. The cause of it was the county lawsuit and the discontinuance of the Press, and that drew out his grudge to such an extent that he puked all over himself. Now, we have given Mr. Willis all the time to empty his gall against us, and now will take the liberty to answer.

First, I think that I have the perfect right to buy for myself and family what I see fit for us, and Second, I do not want my children to read such lies and false statements as the Press is publishing all the time. But if every business man would make such a calamitous howl when people stop dealing with them, or over the loss of 75 cents or $1 (I think that is about the profit Mr. Willis gets out of a copy in a year), what a great noise that would make in the country.

The editor says that he was told we barely escaped getting into several fights on the street, and he was told that the same commissioner (Hoffelder) told the contractors to go on and put in all the extra pipes necessary and bring in the bill, and that he is informed Commissioners Hoffelder and Lockwood have each been recorded twenty days witness fees.

We challenge Mr. Willis as a liar and falsifier on all the above statements, until he takes back all those charges, or gives us the names of those parties that told him such stuff. The commissioners did not charge more than their actual expenses, while they would have the right to charge their fees as commissioners. It is true that their names are given in for witness fees, but not twenty days as the Press stated, and if the foundry loses the case in supreme court, then we will have at least our time paid.

The Auburn Foundry & Machine Works sued the county for $600 and got a verdict for $100. Now I will ask a question. If a merchant or anybody else would present to you a bill for $600, of which you owed only $100, would you pay $600? I do not believe that such a man can be found in the county. But the county did not owe anything to those parties; besides that, the commissioners offered $100 to those parties, but they wanted $500.

The Press wants the shrewdest business men in the county for the office of commissioner. That throws a bad light on the farmers in general But let us see about that. We can read in the newspapers every day of business houses that have gone into the hands of receivers. Well, right here in DeKalb county several firms went into the hands of receivers, and who would have said one year ago that those men were not shrewd business men? But we did not learn of any farmers that went into the hands of receivers. "Solid men of the county are inquiring if such a thing can be done," and so forth Well, come on, gentlemen, with your receiver. There are some facts which ought to be known; and one, that there is an element in the county demanding that the county debt be bonded. That's true; but the most of the men are republicans, and one of them is the editor of the Dispatch, the man who thinks it is awful that we do not take advice from him. But at the time he made the offer to the Board, he acted as agent for some firms who wanted the bonds, and of course it would make a good profit for him.

The grand jury has just reported that a new infirmary must be built at a cost of $15,000. About three years ago the grand jury reported the same thing. They had an editor at that time for their foreman, and he was just as full of wind as our windbags to-day that like to be called editors. And from that time up till this, the grand jury think that it is their duty to make such report.

The revised statutes of 1881, sec. 1667, says the grand jury, during term of court, shall be entitled to free access at all reasonable times to the county prison and poor house for the purpose of examining their condition and management.

We visited the infirmaries of Steuben, Noble and Allen counties four years ago and found the management, convenience and safe keeping of the DeKalb infirmary far above them. They have a brick building, a great castle, but not much in it, and we would advise the Angola Magnet to sweep the mud from before his own door and then come down to DeKalb and clean that, if he finds anything to clean. Noble county has a brick building also, but not more roomy nor more convenient than ours. And for further statements I refer to last week's COURIER.

And the old castle pronounced to be dangerous by experts. On this we challenge Mr. Willis as a liar again until he gives us the names of those experts. For that we think it takes two receivers.

To bond the present debt is to make an opening for another debt of like amount. Here Mr. Willis comes far too late with his advice. If it wasn't for that stubborn-headed commissioner Hoffelder the debt would probably have been bonded.

And, in speaking of the expenses, who makes the court expense? The people who bring the cases into court. Who makes the expenses for elections, insane, criminals, inquests, assessing, interest on county orders, benevolent institutions? For all those above named, there was paid out last year $19,221.12. Now, I would like to hear from Mr. Willis what control the commissioners have of those expenses. He is an attorney at law and ought to know such things. Then comes the poor expense. The revised statute of 1881, secs. 6066 and 6067 says the township trustees are overseers of the poor, and from 6071 to 6114 are described their duties in regard to the poor. All the commissioners can do is to require an itemized account of it. Then come the ditches. Who makes that expense? Why, the man that petitions for ditches. R. S. 1881, sec. 4286, says when a petition is filed with the auditor, the Board in their regular session shall appoint viewers, and so forth, and in sec. 4294, on the hearing of the viewers' report, it says, "After finding that said ditch will be of public utility, they shall establish the same." You see, Mr. Willis, the commissioners don't make that expense.

Books, stationery and binding. The commissioners make the contract for stationery, but they use but little of it, and if more stationery is used than should be, why not instruct those officers who use it. Fees and salaries. Those are allowed by law, and if any officer charges too much, why not impeach him on his bond?

Then comes roads. The Board can only establish roads by a certain process of law. The Board of Commissioners have no control of the expenses in that whatever. See revised statutes.

Public buildings. Sec. 5748 R. S. makes it the commissioners' duty to erect county buildings and to keep all the county buildings in repair. This statute makes it their duty to do these things, but here they have the discretion to spend more or less.

Then comes the bridges, and we have a good many of them in DeKalb county, and we will assert right here that have more feet of bridges in our county than there are in Steuben, Lagrange and Noble counties put together. Here the commissioners have the discretion to build cheap sub and superstructures or build durable ones. There are on Cedar Creek 10 bridges from 30 to 50 feet long in Fairfield and Smithfield townships; 11 from 75 to 112 feet in Grant and Union; 6 from 100 to 120 feet in Jackson and Butler townships, 6 on the St. Joe river from 150 to 200 feet long; 7 on Fish Creek from 75 to 100 feet long; 9 on Big Run Creek from 36 to 50 feet; 10 on Buck and 26-mile Creek from 30 to 50 feet long; 5 on Bear Creek from 30 to 50 feet long. There are at least 30 on different side branches of the Cedar from 30 to 85 feet long, and probably some more. Besides those named, there are over 100 from 15 to 30 feet long. To keep them up and in repair takes considerable money. Then say those incompetent commissioners ought to be removed at once and honest men put in their places. Here we answer, "Ein jeder Esel hat das recht alles langohr zu heissen dass im in den weg kommt."

Mr. Willis hates the foreigners, and especially the Dutch. But he forgets that his parents were foreigners, and we assert that the descendants of the Dutch are just as good as the descendants of John Bull.

But, gentlemen, why do you stand behind the curtains and bark like cowardly dogs that are afraid to come forward? Come on, gentlemen, with your receiver, and throw out those incompetent commissioners and put in yourself? or, why not take Hank, Wallace and Frank?

The first would build a new court house for his favorite county officials and an asylum. (Probably he wants to go there himself some day.)

The second will draw specifications for bridges, build macadamized roads, furnish cheap stationery, and the third? Oh, he wants an easy job. He will reduce the taxes, pay off the county debt, and call the payroll. Then good times will come, we'll all prosper and be happy.

JOHN HOFFELDER.

CALIFORNIA MIDWINTER FAIR

Harrington's Excursion Feb. 24, 1894.

Send for book giving full particulars as to how the party will travel, list of hotels where they will stop, price of tickets and map showing route over which this excursion will pass. Seven thousand miles will be traveled in elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars, with Dining Car attached, for the exclusive use of this party. Do not forget that if you are going to California and do not wish to return with this party, you can do so, and so have the benefit of this special service of elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, as well as visit all the many points of interest mapped out for this tour en route to San Francisco.

Call on or address 27

G. L. HARRINGTON,
48 N. High Street,
Telephone 868. COLUMBUS, O.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

FAYETTE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Is beautifully located and its buildings are very attractive. In order to give ample accommodation for the present demand, another large building has been added. No saloons. Equipments are excellent; pure associations. Teachers are specialists—men and women of power and culture, carefully selected for their special work. Normal, Commercial, Scientific, Shorthand, Typewriting, Elocutionary and Musical departments in addition to the regular college courses. Our aim is to endow each pupil with the four great essentials to true success: vigorous health, accurate knowledge, right purpose, and executive ability. $27, pays tuition, board and room-rent, for 10 weeks; $75, for 30 weeks.

For Catalogue, address, J. E. DODDS, Pres't, Fayette, O.

The Best History
The Best Souvenir OF THE EXPOSITION
Is Found in the——

ART PORTFOLIOS OF WORLD'S FAIR VIEWS

From Photographs by the Official Artist of the

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT,

Distributed by The Inter Ocean.

16 BEAUTIFUL ART PORTFOLIOS. 256 SUPERB PHOTOGRAPHIC REPRODUCTIONS.

How to Secure This Valuable Interesting Instructive Educational Series.

CLIP 5 Art Portfolio Coupons from The Inter Ocean and send them with 10 cents in stamps or coin, to cover cost of postage, wrapping, etc., to Art Portfolio Department, Inter Ocean Building, Chicago, and one portfolio, containing 16 pictures 11x13 inches in size, with interesting and authentic descriptions, will be mailed to you. The entire series of 16 Portfolios, 256 Photographs, if purchased at retail, would cost at a low estimate $125. No such opportunity was ever before presented. No such opportunity can ever again be offered.

BACK NUMBERS of the Portfolio may be had for a set of 3 week-day and one Sunday coupon, which will accumulate, and 10 cents for each Portfolio.

$30,000 Was appropriated by the U. S. Government to cover the expense of securing these photographs for preservation in the archives at Washington.

REMEMBER The Inter Ocean has the Exclusive Right to make the distribution of these reproductions from the Official Government Photographs.

SPECIAL REQUEST Please favor your friends who may not be regular readers of The Inter Ocean by informing them of the particulars of this unequaled offer.

PROVIDE FOR BACK NUMBERS This series began Nov. 13 and one book a week has been issued since. Back Portfolios can be secured in exchange for 3 WEEKDAY AND 1 SUNDAY COUPON. By saving the extra coupons each week all back Portfolios can thus be easily obtained.

CAUTION In sending for Portfolios do not include any other business or requests with your order. It is impossible to answer letters in this department. State plainly the Portfolio you desire, giving its number. Send coupons, etc., to

ART PORTFOLIO DEPT., INTER OCEAN BLDG., CHICAGO.

Varicocele, Emissions, Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis, Unnatural Discharges, Self Abuse, Kidney and Bladder Diseases Positively Cured by

The New Method Treatment—A Wonderful Discovery

You can Deposit the Money in Your Bank or with Your Postmaster to be paid as after you are CURED under a written Guarantee!

Self Abuse, Excesses and Blood Diseases have wrecked the lives of thousands of young men and middle aged men. The farm, the workshop, the Sunday school, the office, the pro ession—all have its victims. Job g was, If you have been indiscreet, beware of the future. Middle aged men, you are growing prematurely weak and old, both sexually and physically. Consult us before too late. NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. Confidential.

VARICOCELE, EMISSIONS AND SYPHILIS CURED.

W. S. COLLINS. W. S. Collins, of Saginaw, Speaks. W. S. COLLINS.

"I am 23. At 15 I learned a bad habit which I continued till 19. I then became "one of the boys" and led a gay life. Exposure produced Syphilis. I became nervous and despondent; no ambition; memory poor; eyes red, sunken and blur; pimples on face; hair loose, bone pains; weak back; varicocele; dreams and losses at night; weak parts; deposit in urine, etc. I spent hundreds of dollars without help, and was contemplating suicide when a friend recommended Drs. Kennedy & Kergan's New Method Treatment. Thank God I tried it. In two months I was cured. This was six years ago, and never had a relapse. Was married two years ago and all happy. Boys, try Drs. Kennedy & Kergan before giving up hope."

BEFORE TREATM'T. AFTER TREATM'T

S. A. TONTON. Seminal Weakness, Impotency and Varicocele Cured. S. A. TONTON.

"When I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan, I had little hope. I was surprised. Their new Method Treatment improved me the first week. Emissions ceased, nerves became strong, pains disappeared, hair grew in again, eyes became bright, cheerful in company and strong sexually. Having tried many Quacks, I can heartily recommend Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as reliable Specialists. They treated me honorably and skillfully."

BEFORE TREATM'T. AFTER TREATM'T.

T. P. EMERSON. A Nervous Wreck—A Happy Life. T. P. EMERSON.

T. P. Emerson Has a Narrow Escape.

"I live on the farm. At school I learned an early habit, which weakened me physically, sexually and mentally. Family Doctors said I was going into "decline" (consumption). Finally "The Golden Monitor," edited by Drs. Kennedy & Kergan fell into my hands. I learned the Truth and Came. Self abuse had sapped my vitality. I took the New Method Treatment and was cured. My friends think I was cured of Consumption. I have sent them many patients, all of whom were cured. Their New Method Treatment supplies vigor, vitality and manhood."

BEFORE TREATM'T. AFTER TREATMENT.

READER! Are you a victim? Have you lost hope? Are you contemplating marriage? Has your Blood been diseased? Have you any weakness? Our New Method Treatment will cure you. What it has done for others it will do for you.

CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY

16 Years in Detroit. 160,000 Cured. No Risk.

Consultation Free. No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of charge. Charges reasonable. Books Free—"The Golden Monitor" (illustrated), on Diseases of men. Inclose postage 2 cents. Sealed.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. PRIVATE. No medicine sent C. O. D. No names on boxes or envelopes. Everything confidential. Question list and Cost of Treatment, FREE.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN, No. 148 SHELBY ST. DETROIT, MICH.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass. ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY FEBRUARY 15. 1894. NUMBER 7.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

No. 342. 170 Acres of fine land well adapted to grain or stock purposes, 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler.

Frame dwelling: main 22 x 24, wing 14 x 28, wing 14 x 31; 11 rooms, cellar under entire building.

Three good barns, all in good repair conveniently located; one 36 x 50, another 30 x 66, and the last one 22 x 28. Two good wells, 1 cistern, windmill and elevated tank. Two orchards of about 150 in the two. Fences in fine condition. 150 acres in fine state of cultivation, balance timber. No waste land. Sandy, loamy soil. Easy payment plan.

No. —. 44 Acres of land in Wilmington township.

Frame dwelling, 2 story, 16 x 28; wing, 12 x 28, and summer kitchen. Cellar and well.

Frame barn 40 x 65, granary, wagon house and corn crib combined, 20 x 26, and hog and hen house.

4 Acres orchard, all winter grafted fruit; fences in A1 condition: 5 acres timber; 60 rods tiling. No waste land. Soil, black loam.

Price, $2,500. Easy payments.

No. —. Fine residence property on South VanBuren street.

Elegant property. Splendid location. Fruit in large variety and of best quality.

Price, $1,500.

Vacant lots in Widney's addition on long time, easy terms.

No. 157. 40 Acres, 4 miles north of Butler, Ind.

Good log house and barn. 20 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Soil, black loam. Good fences. ¾ mile to school and church.

Price, $1,200. Long time, easy terms.

Dwellings, vacant lots and other desirable property in Garrett to exchange for land in this county and pay cash difference.

80 Acres land in good cultivation to exchange for town property in Auburn, or, will exchange for a well located meat market. Will trade for smaller farm.

Price, $3,300.

80 Acres good land in Butler township, located near school and church and within 1 mile of railroad.

Good buildings and fences and plenty of fruit.

Price, $4,200.

Will exchange for a smaller tract near some good town.

No 1890. 120-acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler, 95 acres clear, fences good, 30 acres timber, well drained, part tiled; 2 good orchards and a fine pear orchard; has a good 8-room house, with cellar, cistern, well and barn. Will sell very low and on long time.

No. 1810. 80 acre farm, 1½ miles from Newville, 65 acres clear, 15 acres timber, good fences; good 9 room house; barn 36x50 feet; orchard of 70 trees; well and cistern; mostly black soil, no waste land; 40 acres in timothy and clover. Farm is in good state of cultivation; 1 mile to school and church. Price $3,200, $500 cash down, balance on long time. This is a bargain.

No. 2600. 80 acre farm, 2½ miles S.E. of Auburn, 65 acres clear, balance in timber, no waste land; good 2-story house; good barn 48x80; corn crib, hog pen, wagon and tool shed; cistern, good well with new wind pump and tank; good orchard; good fences; splendid soil. Will sell cheap on long time; will take good house and lot in Auburn or Garrett at what it is worth.

No. 1717. 90 acres of land about 7 miles from Auburn; house 18x24 with L 13 x 17; barn 17x23 with shed 12x23; large granary, well and cistern, orchard; 35 acres under cultivation, 15 acres good timber, balance well drained low land for pasture. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time.

No. 1725. 44½ acre farm, all clear, no waste land; good 4 room house; bank barn 47x76; good orchard; 2 wells. Price $1,800, ½ cash, balance on reasonable time.

No. 3,000. 64 acre farm 6 miles east of Auburn, 60 acres clear, 4 acres timber, well drained, all black sandy loam; fair house; good barn, 38x48; one of the best orchards in the county, an abundance of peach, pear, cherries, grapes, currants, berries, etc.; about 18 acres in wheat. 20 acres in grass, no waste land. This farm can be sold very low on terms that will certainly suit the purchaser.

No 315. 60 acre farm in Jackson tp; has a 7-room, 2-story brick house, with cellar, well and cistern; barn 32x64; orchard of 80 trees; all clear and in good cultivation. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time, easy payments. This is a bargain.

MONEY! MONEY! Do you want to borrow any money? We can loan you any amount you want, from $500 to $20,000, at a low rate of interest, on long time, with privilege of partial payments. If you need money, do not put it off very long, but call at once. The demand for long time loans is increasing and our money cannot hold out long at the present rate of interest.

Do you need any Fire Insurance or Life Insurance? If you call on us and learn our terms, we have a line of the very best companies that pay losses promptly. Call at our office, for we have no agents running through the country soliciting. We can save you money if you need any thing in this line.

Are you going to travel? If so, come and see us. We can sell you a Railroad or Steamship ticket to any point in the world. If you want any information about rates or tickets—cheerfully given, call on us. No harm done if you do not buy.

We represent the National Building Ass'n. of Indianapolis, the best company of its kind in Indiana. Do you want to build or pay off a mortgage on your home, and pay it off in small payments. Parties having money to invest will do well to call on us at once.

If you want to buy or sell a farm, town property or personal property, give us a call. Our commission will be reasonable.

We make a specialty of handling stocks of goods of all kinds. Can either sell or trade them. We take pleasure in showing our property, free of charge, to any who think of buying.

(We have a number of Western and Southern farms that we can trade for land or town property here. Will give or take the difference.)

Rickel & Sprott,

Auburn, Ind.

—UNDER FARMERS BANK.

POWER OF PRAYER.

PAUL'S DEMONSTRATION OF IT.

Bible is God's Word by Virtue of its Inspiration—Christ's Love the Source of Abiding Joy—Noah and his Ark Used as Illustration.

[From the South Bend Tribune of Feb. 5.]

Below is a synopsis of Rev. Dr. Johnson's sermon at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning:

So shall My word be that goeth forth out of My mouth; it shall not return unto Me void."—Isaiah 55:11.

Last summer while at Jackson park I looked with interest upon some ancient coins. They had traveled a long distance. They saw the light before Pericles made Athens, the city of marble palaces. But this morning I bring you a leaf from a forest more ancient than the oldest coin at the brilliant exposition. Isaiah lived and wrote some 700 years before the christian era. But to what does this ancient leaf invite us? Well, to the study of the statement that the Bible is the word of God. It is His word by virtue of its inspiration. His thought finds expression upon its pages. A revelation is to be expected. For the reason that one has already been given in the creation of the universe and of the immortal soul. But having the twilight, we are preparing to welcome the glorious day. Hence God has spoken by prophets and apostles. His existence is written on the sky above us. His works declare that He is as clearly as poem and picture and temple reveal the existence of poet and painter and architect. But to find a clear revelation of His mind and will, we turn to the inspired pages of the two testaments.

But while there is a divine element there is also a human element in the composition of the Bible. The human hand is visible on the biblical sky. The language of inspiration takes the color of the age in which it was written and spoken. Just as the river takes on the color of the soil through which it flows on its sea. But the Lord Jesus in His two natures, may represent the two elements running through the Scriptures. He was both God and man united in one person. We say the Bible is divine, because it was given by the inspiration of God. The writers were the organs of God in the sense that what they said, God said, But while it is divine, it is also among the most human of books. Both elements are involved in the declaration of St. Peter: "The prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spoke as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

But when we speak of the human element in the Bible, we mean by it just what we mean when we speak of any other literature. There is just as much of the human element in the epistle to the Romans as there is in "Pilgrim's Progress." In the letters of St. Paul to the churches you may find all of his peculiar characteristics as a writer. Study any of his letters and you will be able to measure his rank as a literary man. Hence, inspiration does not involve a suspension of self consciousness or of the intellectual faculties. The sacred writers wrote just as freely as though they were not the subjects of inspiration. When St. Paul spoke on Mars Hill he was inspired, but he spoke just as freely as did Daniel Webster in the American senate. He was under inspiration when he wrote the glowing epistle to the Galatians, but he wrote it with as much self-consciousness, with his intellectual faculties keyed to as high a pitch as though not inspired. Inspiration does not mean that Peter and Paul wrote in the same style. God inspires men as He finds them. If a poet is inspired he writes as a poet; if a logical man is inspired he writes as a logician. Hence the two testaments are not specimens of what the Spirit can do in literature, and yet the sacred writers were the organs of God in the sense that what they said, God said.

But what may we understand by inspiration? It is the influence of the Holy Spirit on the minds of chosen men by virtue of which they are rendered infallible in the communication of the will and mind of God. Hence it is a supernatural influence, and for that reason is to be distinguished from what may be called the inspiration of genius. Every age has its master minds, and they work in different worlds and move along different paths. Such an one was Homer among the Greeks and Virgil among the Romans and Dante among Italians and Tennyson among the English. But these men were inspired in a different sense than were Moses and Paul. They were inspired by virtue of their own transcendent gifts. But St. Paul wrote by virtue of the Spirit's inspiration; but the text inspires hope in preacher and teacher. For the reason that God's word shall not return unto Him void. It shall accomplish something; if we but sow the seed it will unfold into flower. As rain and snow enrich the earth, so God's word will elevate the moral and intellectual world. It is the stream that has enriched art and literature, home and state, school and college. Alfred Tennyson, the greatest poet of our century revealed its influence on his moral and intellectual life when he wrote, "Ringing in the Christ that is to be." But its light has been reflected along all paths. Let us hear a few testimonies:

Thomas Carlyle thus writes, "In the poorest cottage are books—is one book wherein for several thousand of years the spirit of man has found light and nourishment, and an interpreting response to whatever is deepest in him." Coleridge says: "The Bible has gone hand in hand with civilization, science, law; in short with moral and intellectual cultivation; always supporting it and often leading the way." DeTocqueville writes, "Bible christianity is the companion of liberty in all its conflicts, the cradle of its infancy, and the divine source of its claims." W. H. Seward declares, "The whole hope of human progress is suspended upon the ever growing influence of the Bible." Thomas Jefferson writes: "I have always said and always will say that the studious perusal of the sacred volume will make better citizens, better fathers and better husbands." Andrew Jackson says: "The book is the rock upon which our republic rests." John Adams writes, "The Bible is the best book in the world." Lord Bacon, the father of modern science, declares, "There was never found in any age of the world, either religion or law, that did so highly exalt the public good as the Bible." Newton says: "We account the scriptures of God to be the sublime philosophy." Prof. Gego writes in his book on creation, "To the sincere mind it must be evident that the grand outlines sketched by Moses are the same as those which modern science enables us to trace." Prof. Dana, our greatest geologist, says: "The first thought that strikes the scientific reader is the evidence of divinity, not merely in the first verse, but in the whole order of creation. By proving the record true science pronounces it divine."

Hence the first chapter of Genesis wears upon its face the stamp of inspiration. The primitive world was at first a chaos, void and formless and dark. But Moses could not have reached such a conclusion without inspiration. For the reason that there was no science in his time. It is only during the modern time that science tells us that matter was at first gaseous and formless. Then modern science tells us that creation moved from the inferior to the superior, from the imperfect to the perfect. But that, too, is the teaching of Genesis. But we must not forget that Genesis tells us that light shone on the first day. But it was not the light of our solar sun. It was cosmic light. That is to say, it was the result and play of the activity of atoms. Hence what twenty years ago was an argument against Genesis, is now, in the light of modern science, an argument in its favor. The very activity of atoms made them luminous, and so there was cosmic light before there was solar light.

But again, modern science declares that man is the crown and climax of creation. He was the goal toward which all moved. But that also is the clear teaching of Genesis. Hence science and Genesis strike hands in their sublime teaching. But the unity and prophesy of the of the Bible also point to its inspiration. The Messiah of history is the Messiah of prophesy. The Bible discloses its real value in pointing us to the Christ of the New Testament. It renders us wise unto salvation through faith in Him. For He is the solution of our problems, the key to all mystery, the light of our darkness, the salvation for our souls.

Seventeen new members were taken into the church at the morning service upon profession of faith, making 30 additions in all since the first of the year. Dr. Johnson announced that there would be two special services this week on Thursday and Friday evenings.

For La Grippe.

Has your constitution been wrecked by an attack of LaGrippe. The Great South American Nervine Tonic will quickly restore your shattered nerves, strengthen and cure your digestive organs, regulate your liver and purify your blood; and restore you to perfect soundness again. This great tonic should be used after all sickness. Its power to restore to health is simply wonderful. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

B. & O. Low Rate Excursions to the South.

On February 8th, March 8th and April 9th, the B. & O. R. R. will sell excursion tickets to points in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, also to points in Virginia and West Virginia on the Harper's Ferry and Valley Branch at rate of one fare for the round trip.

Tickets will be limited for return passage twenty days from date of sale.

For further information call on or address any B. & O. ticket agent, or M. V. Richards, Land and Immigration Agent, Baltimore, Md., or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Chicago, Ill. ew-ap5

Remember.

That the Wisconsin Central has the unqualified endorsement of all, it being the most popular line between Chicago and Milwaukee and St. Paul, Minneapolis and the Northwest, it is recognized as the Pullman Line between Chicago and Milwaukee and Ashland, Duluth and Lake Superior points.

That the Wisconsin Central touches the most prominent points in Wisconsin, having more business centers than any railway to and from the Northwest.

That its dining car service is unsurpassed by any other line, and that its representatives will cheerfully furnish any information that may be desired.

For full details regarding rates, routes, folders, maps, etc., address your nearest ticket agent or Jas. C. Pond, Gen. Pass. Agent, Milwaukee, Wis.

Pitcher's Castoria.

Children Cry for

THIS IS A SHADOW

—OF THE—

LEAGUE CHAINLESS LADY'S SAFETY

Soon to be seen at the Auburn Cyclery.

NO CHAIN!

NO NOISE!

NO DIRT!

BEVEL GEARS,

Finely Adjusted on

BALL BEARINGS.

THE SCORCHER, 27 POUNDS. AND ROADSTER, 30 POUNDS, ARE HERE.

—Catalogues mailed on application to—

R. W. COBB. Manager, Auburn, Ind.

Stephen B. Ward

Died at his residence in Auburn, Ind., Jan. 30, 1894, aged 77 years, 6 months and 8 days.

The deceased was born in Randolph, Portage county, Ohio, July 22, 1816. His parents both died before he was four years of age. His early education was that of the common schools, to which he added a thorough course of systematized reading and private study. He was converted and became a member of the church at the age of sixteen. In 1839 he married Laura Atherton Brooks, a daughter of Dr. George Brooks, of Bath, Ohio. Five years later he was ordained a minister of the Gospel. In 1852 he removed to Auburn, where he became a constituent member of the first Baptist church, and its first pastor.

As a citizen, while health and strength lasted, he was not only active in public affairs, but also enjoyed that popularity which only comes of right doing. He was a good public speaker, and addressed many a concourse of people upon various subjects of a public nature, acceptably, and always in harmony with his rule of life, the christian religion. He represented this county in the state legislature in 1857-8, and held other positions of public trust at various times.

He assisted in the organization of the DeKalb County Pioneer Association, and at its annual meetings always had a word of good cheer for his old-time friends. Last year at their meeting when called upon to speak, he arose and not being able to talk, responded by raising his hands Heavenward in silent prayer, as though he would call thither his old companions and friends, the pioneers of DeKalb county.

His memory, especially with regard to the Holy Scripture, was wonderful. He was a diligent worker in the Sunday school, and after his sight failed, he continued to teach a class of young men, giving lessons from memory. His last public words at church were these: "The marriage of the Lamb has come and the bride has made herself ready—ready—ready; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage." He had heard the roll call of the blessed and quickly answered "ready." That afternoon he was taken sick, and in a few days the end of earth came to him peacefully, happily.

Few men in any community have made greater impress for good upon others than did the venerable man who is the subject of this sketch. For more than fifty-two years he was a resident of this county. Thousands of homes, and multiplied thousands of individuals, have been blessed by his example and teaching. His disposition was of the kindest sort; patient to a degree that is rarely equaled; ready to forgive all injuries. He was quick to discover the capabilities of others. Many young men have heard his personal words of encouragement, and been influenced thereby to a course in life that has made them honorable and useful.

He grew old gracefully. One of the severest tests of human character is for one to be retired from active service, fully recognizing the fact that others who have not borne the burden and responsibility of laying foundations, will occupy the positions that he has rightfully achieved. Here the spirit of the man was most beautifully manifested. He was glad to see others filling the places he could no longer occupy and rejoiced with them in their prosperity. When he could no longer lead he became the most devoted of followers.

In his home he was most affectionate, zealously counseling his children, rejoicing in whatever of good came to them and exemplifying the love of God, who like a father pitieth his children, when they have been in sorrow. The same genial sympathy of his nature reached far beyond his own home into the homes and hearts of others. Very many now living will remember the kind words of counsel which he gave them at the marriage altar, or his words of comfort when a loved one was laid to rest. A prominen citizen of the county, in writing of his death, said: "I remember him from my early boyhood. He evidently filled his mission well."

The funeral services were held at the Baptist church Friday afternoon, Feb. 2, by Rev. Mr. Ward, of Columbus, Ohio. The choir was composed of B. M. Hastings, Dr. C. E. Nusbaum, Mrs. F. J. Yesbera and Mrs. James McDowell, Miss Flora Hoffman being the organist. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity and as many more failed to get within the doors, for Mr. Ward's friends included all, and all were mourners.

Patriotic Song Competition.

The Dominant, one of the best musical monthlies published in this country, being desirous of stimulating the efforts to secure to the United States a patriotic song possessing the characteristics requisite to endear it to the hearts of the people, has decided to inaugurate a competition among poets and composers for that purpose. The prizes offered are as follows: For the best poem, $100; for the next best poem, $50; for the best musical setting, $100; for the next best musical setting, $50.

These prizes are the least that would accrue to the successful poet or musician, as their names, through the medium of the Dominant, would immediately become household words and win an affectionate place in the hearts of their fellow citizens. The successful creator of a nation's song is a man to be envied. He exercises a power and influence superior to that of rulers and legislators. This is what led Andrew Fletcher to remark, "I care not who makes the nation's laws, if I might write its ballads." For these reasons, the money prize should not be considered the chief incentive. A higher motive must inspire the competitor's muse, viz.: honor and fame.

The competition will take place as follows: Poems, open from January 1 to April 1, 1894. The musical competition will open immediately subsequent to the publication of the poems, and be continued from that date to the first day of the fourth month following.

For further particulars address, the Dominant, 228 N. Ninth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

No Spring Elections.

We recently said there would be no spring elections, and below we copy a portion of the new law in relation to it:

Section 1. That the time of holding the election of township trustees, justices of the peace, assessors, constables, road supervisors and such other officers of township as may be provided by law shall be changed from the April election, and all such township officers shall be elected at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1894, and every four years thereafter, and which election shall be conducted by the provisions of the law governing said general election.

Sec. 2. The names of the different candidates for said township offices shall be printed on separate ballots of a yellow color, and deposited in separate ballot boxes from that of the state and county ballots; said ballot boxes shall be painted yellow and said ballots shall be prepared in conformity with the law governing said general election.

This law was approved March 2, 1893. The law providing for the appointment of road supervisors by the township trustees was approved March 4, 1893, and of course would supersede it so far as these officials are concerned. It also had an emergency clause, and therefore took effect before the law of March 2, which had none, and therefore the earlier law could not be construed to extend the existing terms of road supervisors.

THOSE who complain of the slowness of congress should remember that it is caused in the main by republicans refusing to vote and in other ways obstructing the work.

Many Patrons have asked us for what length of time our

GREAT BARGAIN SALE

IN

MUSLINS, PRINTS AND GINGHAMS

WILL LAST.

We shall Continue this Sale until our Entire Stock of these Goods is Exhausted.

HARPER L. L. MUSLIN,	3¾ c.
LAWRENCE L. L. MUSLIN,	4¾ c.
TURKEY RED CALICO,	3¾ c.
ALL STANDARD GINGHAMS,	6 c.

We have but four (4) One Dollar Cloaks left. We will therefore put on sale this week a big lot of Jackets and Capes at – $2.50 –

Worth three or four times the money.

NEW GOODS in Every Department. We Can and Will Save you Money.

Yours Respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.

INEBRIETY IS A DISEASE NOT A CRIME.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

Auburn, Indiana.

Incorporated under the Laws of Indiana and Endorsed by the U. S. Government. With Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Remedies we Cure

DRUNKENNESS

AND

Morphine Habit.

HOME TREATMENT for the Tobacco Habit and Nerve Exhaustion. No BOLTS. No BARS. No PAIN whatever. Absolute Freedom. IMITATORS, by adroitly worded advertisements, seek to convey the impression that they are handling Dr. Keeley's Remedies and employ his methods of treatment. Such persons are only Imitators and impose an imitation on the Public for the Genuine. For full information as to the Keeley Cure, both at the Institute and by home treatment address

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

AUBURN, IND.

All Correspondence Strictly Confidential.

Awarded Highest Honor World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Are you at all Weak-chested or inclined to be Consumptive, with just a touch of Cough now and then? "Try this Wonderful Medicine." The Cough and Weakness will disappear as if by magic, and you will feel a strength and power never had before.

HAVE YOU A COLD? A Dose at Bedtime will Remove it.

HAVE YOU A COUGH? A Dose will Relieve it.

Bronchitis and Asthma it relieves instantly. The Spasms of Coughing so dreadful in Whooping Cough become less with each dose of medicine. It is an old adage, "To be forewarned is to be forearmed." So let it be in your case, who read this, and keep on hand ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Directions accompany each bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AT 25cts., 50cts., AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. DARNELL, - - PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Frightful Happenings in Every Known Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Commerce and Crops.

Buried Alive.

An extensive cave-in occurred at the Gaylord slope of the Kingston Coal Company, Plymouth, Pa. Seventeen men are entombed. Rescuers are hard at work. There is but little hope of getting them out alive. The following are the names of entombed miners: Thomas Leshon, Michael Welsh, Peter McLaughlin, John Arner, Dan Morgan, Joseph Ords, Thomas Picton, Thomas Jones, Richard Davis, John Morris, James Kingdon, Thomas Morrison, Thomas Cole. Nearly all are married, with large families.

War in Brazil.

A special to the New York Herald says: Word has reached Rio from Santo that the rebels have landed at Iguape, a town in the State of San Paulo, on the south bank of the Iguape River, and are marching upon the city of Sao Paulo, capital of the State of that name.

From Rio Grande de Sul, a report has just been received that the Government troops have met defeat at Ombu. Three hundred of them were killed and their munitions of war and provisions captured.

Family Poisoned by Trichinæ.

Mrs. Charles F. Krueger of Michigan City, Ind., died of trichinosis and her husband and six children, constituting the surviving members of the family are lying at the point of death from the same malady. All the survivors are very low and there is not much hope for the recovery of any of them. The father and two of the children are barely alive. A microscopical examination of the pork was made, and it was found that it was permeated with trichinæ.

Again the Coat.

Rome special: The Pope will permit the Bishop of Versailles, on the occasion of the May fetes to exhibit the coat of Christ, which relic is kept at Argentuil, on condition that the invitations sent out do not contain the statement that the coat is the seamless garment worn by our Savior. This provision is made in view of the fact that the seamless coat is understood to be preserved in the Cathedral at Trever.

Disappointed Lover.

Charleston (W. Va.) special: Henry Driden, a young man 24 years of age, teller of the Citizens' National Bank here, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart. There is no shortage in the bank accounts. He was corresponding with a young lady in Kentucky, but no one knows who, and is supposed to have received a letter from her. He burnt all letters and photographs and left no explanation.

Two Hotels Burn.

A special to the Post-Dispatch from San Antonio, Texas, says: Fire at 3 o'clock a. m. destroyed the St. Leonard and Central hotels, together with all their furnishings. The hotels adjoin each other and were filled with guests, all of whom escaped, but mainly in their night attire and without baggage. The loss is placed at $100,000. The new court-house was damaged $15,000 worth. The total insurance is $50,000.

Da Gama May Die.

Rio de Janeiro special: Admiral Saldanna Da Gama, the rebel commander, who was wounded in the neck and arm by Mannlicher bullets during the battle of Armacao, on Friday last, is in a critical condition. It was at first supposed that the Admiral's wounds were insignificant; but it is now said that he is so seriously injured that he may die. Every effort is being made to save the Admiral's life.

A Twenty-Year Sentence.

Caleb Parish, a negro teamster, was arrested while in the act of assaulting a 12-year-old white girl at Lafayette, Ind. It has since been learned that his victims number nearly a score of little girls. Parish was arraigned on the charge of assault on Mabel Cotteral, 12 years old. He pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to twenty years in the Northern Prison.

Banker Yetzer Held on Bail.

J. C. Yetzer, President of the defunct Cass County Bank, was taken to Atlantic, Iowa, under arrest from Council Bluffs. He was bound over to await action of the grand jury in $5,000 bail. Yetzer seems to have turned over for the benefit of creditors $8,000 of real estate and other property.

They Will Fight.

The glove contest announced between John Hanley and Alex. Young, which is to come off in Conroy, Ohio, is now an assured thing. The friends of both parties are very anxious that the mill should come off and, consequently, all the necessary arrangements have been made.

Gives Up the Struggle.

The Noblesville (Ind.) Daily Democrat of that city, after a varied experience of six years, has suspended. Lack of financial support was the cause.

All Safe on Land.

The Secretary of the Navy has received a dispatch from the Panama Railroad Company stating that the City of Paris had arrived at Colon, with Admiral Stanton and the officers and crew of the Kearsarge all well.

Schaeffer Broke the Record.

Schaeffer won the billiard game at Boston with lives, 600 to 402, and broke the record for a 14-inch balk line, anchor barred, making 271.

Maniac Murders His Wife and Son.

William H. Artman, a farmer six miles northwest of Tell City, Ind., this morning killed his wife and oldest son. John Eads and William Nagle found Artman lying on the floor with his murdered wife and boy. As soon as they entered Artman jumped up and rushed at them but they overpowered him. The family were eating breakfast when the crime was committed. Artman in the presence of his five children stamped his wife to death. Her left eye he cut out with a pocket knife. The oldest boy tried to defend his mother and he suffered the same fate at the hands of the enraged father. Coroner Eckhard and Deputy Nimagern found the boy lying across his mother with his arms about her neck. The body was terribly mangled and the nose and face mashed. The mother's body was entirely naked. The other children fled to the neighbors almost naked and covered with blood.

When taken in the room where the body of his wife lay Nimagern asked Artman whether he committed the deed. His answer was, "Yes, Henry, I did; I killed them both."

Artman is about 40 years old and is a raving maniac. He was conveyed to the county jail at Cannelton, Ind. The coroner has not rendered his verdict but all indications point to religious excitement as having caused his madness and terrible tragedy.

A CYCLONE SOUTH.

It Sweeps Over Mississippi and Louisiana.

A cyclone swept over Louisiana and Mississippi and laid waste everything in its path. Plantations were devastated, farm houses were wrecked and the debris scattered over the country for miles around. The telegraph were prostrated and it is impossible to obtain particulars from the stricken district at this time, but it is known that one life has been lost. On the plantation of Col. W. L. Nugent, four miles northeast of Greenville, Mississippi, Miss William Brady and wife, colored, were in their cabin, which was blown down, killing the woman instantly. Her husband was blown several hundred feet and received serious, if not fatal injuries. The gin house and tenement houses on the Nugent place were all blown down and large trees were twisted from their stumps and carried away.

The cyclone passed through Washington and Boliver counties, thickly populated with prosperous farmers, and it is feared the death list will be swelled to a large one when the details are known.

It struck Mrs. S. A. DeLambres' plantation, about two miles northwest of Port Hudson, La. A negro child was killed and two barns, three cabins and the gin house were blown down and completely wrecked. Another negro child was seriously hurt and five negroes were more or less injured.

The cyclone next struck the Chambers place and destroyed five cabins. A negro girl was seriously wounded and four or five slightly injured. The track of the cyclone was about 300 feet wide and it levelled everything in its path.

MARLER HUNG.

A Kentucky Murderer Expiates His Crime on the Gallows.

Bob Marler was hanged at Pineville, Ky. The condemned man talked for ten minutes on the scaffold, but he did not confess. The crime for which he was executed was the killing of a woman whom he did not know. Viewed from one standpoint, the murder might have been said to have been an accident, but the wanton disregard for human life and the almost total depravity displayed by Marler in this crime, stands almost without an equal, even in the wild and often lawless portions of the State. On the morning of August 28, 1893, as a train on the Middlesboro Belt Railroad was nearing a small station known as Halfway House, three men stepped out of the woods near the track and commenced firing shot after shot into coaches with Winchester rifles. The engineer opened the throttle and the train was soon out of range, but not before Mrs. Mary Bowling of Middlesboro, had been instantly killed, and John Brownson dangerously wounded. The woman had a child in her arms when she was shot, the bullet passing over the little one's shoulder and striking the mother in the left breast.

FATAL WRECK.

Three Men Killed Near Bellevue.

In a blinding snow storm freight train No. 40, west bound, and east bound light freight, No. 25, on the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad, collided two miles west of Bellevue, Ohio. Both engines and several freight cars were smashed and piled up in confusion. A special was immediately sent from Norwalk with a number of physicians on board. Work was at once begun to rescue the trainmen who were still in the wreck. When the men were gotten out it was found that Engineer Connell, of light freight No. 25, Brakeman Johnson of freight engine No. 28, and Engineer Sam Stowall, of engine 28, were killed. The cause of the wreck is a mystery. No. 25 was running behind passenger train No. 9, and was ordered to carry signals. At Bellevue the freight No. 40, passed the passenger train all right, and believing the way clear started out. As the snow storm was blinding, it was very evident that the engineers failed to see the signals, and thus a terrible accident occurred.

Kessler Train Robbers Again.

Indianapolis special: A man whose name the police refuse to divulge called upon Superintendent Powell recently and asked for a private audience. When alone with the officers the stranger said that he had recently been released from the Michigan City prison and while there he had formed the acquaintance of two young men who had been sent to the prison from Fort Wayne for a small robbery. From them he learned of the circumstances of the Lake Shore robbery near Kendallville. He said that four men were engaged in the robbery and that two of them are now in Fort Wayne in business. The man told a circumstantial story and the superintendent was so much impressed by it that he made careful notes of the conversation and will give the matter close attention.

Wants Notoriety.

During Sunday morning services at the M. E. Church at Columbus, Ind., Rev. Marlott, the pastor, said many of his members had received a circulars embracing eighty questions challenging the faith-teachings and history of the M. E. Church. He stated that on two other occasions similar circulars had been scattered amongst the congregation. One of the questions contained in the circular says: "I will give $100 if it is shown that the name of the Methodist Episcopal Church is derived from the Bible. The circular has created quite a sensation.

An American War Ship Wrecked.

The most famous ship of the naval service—the old Corvette Kearsarge—has gone to the bottom. The story of her ending was told to Secretary Herbert in a brief cable message which he received recently from Lieutenant Frederick Brainard, an officer of the vessel, dated at Colon. Lieutenant Brainard reached Colon and at once sent the message to the Secretary, in substance as follows: "The Kearsarge sailed from Port Au Prince, Hayti, Jan. 30, for Bluefields, Nicaragua. Was wrecked on Roucador Reef, February 2. Officers and crew safe."

The Rope Broke.

Columbia (Miss.) special: The execution of Will Purvis was a failure. The rope broke at the first drop, without in any way injuring Purvis. The spectators interceded in such a manner as to induce the Sheriff to refuse to proceed with the hanging. An effort will now be made to secure executive clemency. Purvis has always asserted his innocence of the assassination of William Buckley of Marion County, Miss., who was killed by Whitecaps, of whom Purvis was supposed to be one.

Brazilian Boats Badly Damaged.

Rio de Janeiro special: It is announced in this city that some disaster has befallen the fleet of torpedo boats which left Pernambuco for the South. Details as to the disaster do not seem to be obtainable and all information on the subject is refused at the Government offices. In spite of the reticence of the Government officials it is asserted that at least one of the torpedo boats has been badly damaged and the whole fleet has put back to Pernambuco for reasons which are not explained in the dispatch received here.

Gave Him Damages.

At Findlay, Ohio, a verdict for personal damages was given by a jury to William G. Borne, whose 17-year-old daughter Nellie, eloped to King Fisher, Oklahoma, with Burton H. Foster, Manager of the Findlay Electric Light Works, son of Hon. Parks Foster. The girl returned home within ten days and Foster's wife was soon granted a divorce and $8,000 alimony. The girl's father commenced action for damages and the jury returned a verdict for $15,000.

Train Held Up.

At the high bridge over Oak Bayou, near Houston, Texas, train wreckers ran part of a passenger train on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road down an embankment. Men in ambush fired on a brakeman sent back to flag a freight. Passengers feared to go to his rescue. He crawled back to the train and is now dying from wounds received. Several persons on the train were injured. A posse is in pursuit of th wreckers.

George W. Childs' Will.

Philadelphia special: The will of George W. Childs has been admitted to probate. The document is very short and was executed on August 1 last, one month after the death of Anthony J. Drexel. Mr. Childs bequeaths his entire estate to the widow absolutely. The executors are George W. Childs Drexel and James W. Paul, Jr., and they placed the valuation of the estate at "over $100,000 real and over $100,000 personal."

A Deadly Duel.

A duel took place in the town of Uros, Mexico, between Jose Manuel Torego, a prominent young business man, and Miguel Torres, a lawyer. The affair of honor resulted in Torego being shot through the heart at the first fire. Torres was not wounded. The duel was the outgrowth of rivalry for the hand of a young lady of the place. The killing has created a great sensation and Torres has been placed under arrest.

Deadly Trichinæ.

At Michigan City, Ind., Mrs. Clarke Kruger is dead as the result of eating trichinæ in pork and the remainder of the family, seven in all, are beyond hope of recovery. The family were taken ill several days ago, and physicians who were called decided that they were suffering from trichinæ. The doctors announced that all the others will die.

Forced to Retreat.

Rio de Janeiro special: A strong force of insurgents from the rebel fleet landed at Nictheroy and gave battle to the Government. Many were killed and wounded on both sides. Peixoto's soldiers, under command of Gen. Argollo, made a stubborn resistance. The insurgents did not gain a material advantage and after a severe engagement, were forced to retreat.

Conscience Stricken.

St. Louis special: Louis J. Silva, Secretary of the Rainwater-Bradford Hat Company, of this city, who embezzled $178,000 and on the 25th of last October fled from the city has, it is reliably learned, returned to the city and made known to his attorney and the attorney of the hat company his desire to surrender to the law.

Sovereign Says "the End Is Not Yet."

J. R. Sovereign, general master workman of the Knights of Labor, speaking in reference to the injunction against Secretary Carlisle to prevent issuing bonds, says: "The end is not yet. We intend to make another move in the matter but have not yet fully decided what we will do. We intend to push the matter."

Threw a Bomb.

Paris special: Edeon Breton, twenty-three years old, threw a bomb in the cafe of the Hotel Terminus, at the St. Lazare Railway Station. The bomb exploded in the middle of the room and wounded twenty persons.

All Safe on Land.

The Secretary of the Navy has received a dispatch from the Panama Railroad Company stating that the City of Paris had arrived at Colon, with Admiral Stanton and the officers and crew of the Kearsarge all well.

The Gold Reserve Intact.

The gold reserve of $100,000,000 is once more practically intact, it requiring only $6,256 to make it absolutely so.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3 50 @ 5 50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4 00 @ 5 25
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	2 25 @ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	58 @ 59
CORN—No. 2	34 @ 35
OATS—No. 2	29 @ 30
RYE—No. 2	46 @ 48
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	26 @ 27
EGGS—Fresh	13 @ 15
POTATOES—Per bu	50 @ 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS—Choice Light	3 00 @ 5 75
SHEEP—Common to Prime	2 00 @ 3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	57 @ 57½
CORN—No. 2 White	35 @ 35½
OATS—No. 2 White	31 @ 32
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	56 @ 57
CORN—No. 2	33 @ 34
OATS—No. 2	30 @ 31
PORK—Mess	13 00 @14 00
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 75
SHEEP	2 00 @ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	59 @ 60
CORN—No. 2	37 @ 38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	31 @ 32
RYE—No. 2	51 @ 52
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 4 75
HOGS	3 00 @ 5 50
SHEEP	2 00 @ 3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	60 @ 61
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	36 @ 37
OATS—No. 2 White	30 @ 32
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	58 @ 59
CORN—No. 3 Yellow	35 @ 36½
OATS—No. 2 White	31 @ 32
RYE—No. 2	49 @ 51
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	71 @ 72
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	40½@ 41½
OATS—No. 2 White	35 @ 36
LIVE HOGS—Good to Choice	5 00 @ 5 75
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	61 @ 61½
CORN—No. 3	35 @ 35½
OATS—No. 2 White	30½@ 31½
RYE—No. 1	46 @ 48
BARLEY—No. 2	50 @ 51
PORK—Mess	12 50 @13 00
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3 00 @ 5 00
HOGS	5 75 @ 6 25
SHEEP—No. 2 White	2 00 @ 3 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	65 @ 66
CORN—No. 2	42 @ 43
OATS—White Western	38 @ 41
BUTTER—Choice	22 @ 26
PORK—Mess	13 75 @14 50

MILLIONS IN BONDS.

HOW YOUR UNCLE SAM BORROWS MONEY.

All About the Recent Fifty-Million-Dollar Loan—The New Issue of Two Kinds, Coupon and Registered—Great Fortunes Invested.

Odd Things in Securities.

Washington correspondence:

The new 5 per cent. bonds will soon be scattered all over the United States. They are but a drop in the bucket with what Uncle Sam has borrowed since he began business a little more than one hundred years ago. The total amount of bonds sold by the Government from the beginning of the Union down to the year 1880 was ten billion six hundred and ninety million dollars, a sum which makes the mind dizzy, and which would buy up a dozen of the small monarchies of Europe. This vast sum includes the bond issues of the United States up to that time. Many of them were made to fund previous loans, but interest was paid on every one of these dollars, and the gold which has been spent in this way by Uncle Sam would gild the great departments of Washington and leave enough to make a solid gold statute as large as that of the Goddess of Liberty which stands on the Capitol dome. Fifty years ago if a Secretary of the Treasury had made the statement that in half a century the United States would be borrowing money at 3 per cent. he would have been looked upon as a fool and a madman, but there is no security in the world better to-day than that of Uncle Sam, and it is believed here that a 2 per cent. bond could be floated. Every one wants these bonds. They feel that their money is safe and that this $50,000,000 in bonds is surer than safe deposits of stocking under the rafters.

SECRETARY CARLISLE.

Have you ever seen a Government bond? It is only a piece of paper, but it is often worth its weight in diamonds. The bonds of the present issue are in denominations of $50, $100, $1,000, and $10,000. The bonds are of the same size and the difference is shown by the figures on their faces. These bonds run for ten years and they bring in 5 per cent. interest.

A Valuable Commodity.

The new bonds are of two kinds. One class is of registered bonds and the other coupon bonds. The coupon bonds are payable to bearer and to them are fastened a number of detachable coupons about the size of an old 10-cent shinplaster. The interest is payable quarterly, and every three months you clip off these coupons and cash them at the Treasury of the United States or at the banks. Any bank in the country knows just what they are worth and will pay you the interest on them. You can use the coupons and the bonds in business deals and their value is so well fixed that they could almost pass as money. The chief danger is that no identification will be asked at the bank by the man who presents it.

As to the registered bonds, these are of a somewhat different nature. They have no coupons and are payable to the person whose name is written on the bond. In the office of the register of the treasury at Washington there is a record kept of the men who hold these bonds, and about a wagon load of ledgers and journals are devoted to this purpose alone. As soon as a bond is sold an account is opened with the person who buys it between him and the government, and in this is stated the amount he paid for the bond and the rate of interest. Every three months the clerks go through the books and make out a set of accounts. They notify the Treasurer of the United States to pay all the interest due to the persons who hold these bonds, and this money is forwarded to them in the shape of a treasury draft. As soon as the bond is redeemed the account is closed. These registered bonds are the safest investments known to the United States, and rich men put large sums of money into them. Vanderbilt once owned $45,000,000 of these registered bonds.

The largest denominations of bonds now outstanding are those of $50,000. The fortunate possessor of one of these draws $2,500 interest every year and his original investment has increased in value about $7,000. This denomination of bond is held by trust companies and millionaires. There are a great many bonds outstanding of the denomination of $10,000. The holders of these draw $100 interest every three months upon each bond. The largest issue of bonds ever made by this Government at one time was in 1877, when a total of $741,000,000 was issued. Of course the public debt was not increased to that extent, as a portion of the bonds redeemed others outstanding at the time. They had fallen due and Uncle Sam was not prepared to meet the obligation with ready cash, so he did what you would try to do if your note in bank should fall due and you had no money to take it up—you would give another note in its place. This was a very popular loan, drawing 4 per cent. interest, and was negotiated without trouble.

BUYING BONDS.

An Enormous Sum.

There are lots of interesting things about these valuable bits of paper Uncle Sam issues. If any reader of this paper could have the biggest bond given out by the Treasury Department he would be rich beyond the dreams of avarice. This bond is now in the Register's office of the Treasury at Washington. It has been redeemed and canceled by the Government. It is the only one of its kind ever issued and it was engrossed by hand. It represents the enormous sum of $15,500,000 and it was given out when the Geneva award compelled Great Britain to pay this country $15,500,000 on what was known as the Alabama claims. The money was paid to Hamilton Fish, then Secretary of State. Congress had made no provision for the disbursement of this sum, and pending legislation upon the subject Secretary Fish invested the money in Government 5 per cents, receiving one bond of the face value of his investment. The oldest bond now extant is also in the possession of the Treasury. It is a faded document about the size of a $5 bill, dated Feb. 6, 1777, by which the Government acknowledges the receipt of $300 from John Bonfield, which it agrees to repay on Feb. 6, 1780, with 4 per cent. interest. A cancellation mark on the face shows that Uncle Sam redeemed his promise to Mr. Bonfield.

Uncle Sam has, however, had his money troubles in times past. His credit was once quite low, and just before and during the war the money lenders were not so greedy for the government cribs. The first bonds that were sent out were sold with some difficulty and the financial skies looked dark. Many of the banks had little faith in the future of the government and the treasury had to call upon bankers and capitalists to help them in placing their bonds. It was the faith which Jay Cooke had in the government that made his great fortune. Jay Cooke & Co. at the beginning of the war did a great deal for the United States treasury. The firm possessed the confidence of Salmon P. Chase, who was then Secretary of the Treasury, and they made a great deal of money by taking the bonds from the government in big blocks and dealing them out in smaller lots to purchasers.

SALMON P. CHASE.

First Issue of Bonds.

The history of the United States bonds is interesting. The first loans ever negotiated by this government were with foreign countries, France, Spain, Belgium and Holland furnishing the money in several small sums. The first issue of anything like a bond for home investment occurred in 1785, when the government negotiated what were then called loan office certificates. It was in 1790, however, that the first issue of bonds to any considerable extent was made. It was found then that the indebtedness incurred by the war of the revolution was a matter of grave importance. The indebtedness was in many forms and on numerous accounts. Alexander Hamilton came to the front with a plan, which, after a long and heated debate in Congress, was adopted. It was decided to fund the revolutionary debt by means of a bond issue. The bonds ran in three series, the bulk of them drawing 6 per cent. interest, the total issue amounting to about $64,000,000. The scheme proved to be a success, and Hamilton lived to triumph over those who had opposed it. In 1812 the Government was again compelled to borrow money. This time a loan of $11,000,000 was negotiated, stock being issued to the amount borrowed, and the revenues of the Government pledged for its payment. Other loans followed at intervals between this time and the beginning of the civil war.

IN THE BOND DIVISION.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

It was in 1861 that the Government made the largest loan in its history up to that time. In consideration of the difficulties surrounding the situation and the critical conditions of the times, that negotiation may be classed as one of the signal feats in the financial history of the United States. Uncle Sam borrowed $150,000,000 on this deal. From time to time since the war the Government has made loans to recuperate its cash balance or to fund previous loans. The interest-bearing debt of the Government on Jan. 1, 1894, exclusive of the Pacific Railroad debt, was $585,639,315.

National Capital Notes.

THE increase in the public debt during the month of January was $7,830,064.

SOLICITOR WALKER, of the World's Fair, protests against a transfer of award money to the National Commission.

A TIN BOX to Mr. Wilson created a dynamite sensation among House messengers. It contained candied fine sugar.

ATTENDANCE at the White House receptions demonstrates the inadequacy of the building to accommodate the crowds.

THE Court of Appeals of the District has reversed the decision of Judge Bradley in the palmetto trade-mark liquor case.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT of a military department in the South is contemplated, with probable headquarters at Atlanta, Ga.

SHOULD Asiatic cholera reach the United States this year, the government has $700,000 left from last year's appropriation for fighting it.

REPORTS from American Consuls at Sheffield, Barranquilla, La Paz and Cairo show that American flour is regarded at those places with little favor.

THERE is a possibility that the Senate will pass the George anti-options bill, which seeks to prevent dealing in options and futures by making it a crime.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR REYNOLDS holds that where several applications are filed for a pension claimant at different times by different attorneys, based on separate disabilities, the several applications pending shall be considered at the adjudication as one claim and allowed as such.

THE WORST IN YEARS.

HOWLING BLIZZARD SWEEPS THE COUNTRY.

Storm One of the Worst in History—Railroads Blockaded and Many Trains Abandoned in the Snowdrifts—Many Persons Perish in Oklahoma.

Reports from Many Points.

Boreas emulated the belated camel of history Monday morning. He got a hump on himself. And the hump? It broke all records for many a year. The whole country has been swept by a blizzard. Across the entire continent the whooping, howling monster made an impartial and indiscriminate tour, but the storm was most severe after the Pacific air column was re-enforced by another column in Illinois. Starting away out beyond the Missouri River it laid embargo on the railway travel in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and the Northwest generally. It sent the visitors in the big Hot Springs hotels huddling about the steam radiators, and made the teeth of the Texas cowboys chatter. Its course eastward was marked by snowed-up trains and tangled telegraph wires far into the Middle States. Its center passed along the Ohio Valley, and its terrible force was felt in all the areas within a few hundred miles of that line. The earliest reports came from the large cities. These were struggling in snowdrifts, while the smaller towns were almost completely snowbound.

Luckily, save for the inevitable inconvenience to the public and the suffering which every storm entails upon the poor, it does not seem that any very painful harm has been inflicted. The wind did the only mischief. Both the snowfall in the northern half of the belt and the rainfall further south will be beneficial rather than injurious, unless the following cold winds from the north destroy vegetation in the more southern section. It will be some time before the full story of delayed trains, snowed-in villages and general discomfiture is known, but the Associated Press dispatches tell enough to enable the reader's imagination to do the rest.

Wild Day in Illinois.

CHICAGO.—Snow—whirled through the air by a gale of wind which blew eighty-four miles an hour—buried Chicago; buried it so deeply that business of every kind was paralyzed. The storm broke upon the city before daylight, and until the coming of night raged with a fury not equaled since the memorable blizzard which swept down upon Chicago just nine years ago. Street car transit during the morning and early part of the afternoon was almost a matter of luck, and the railroads practically threw up their hands and waited for the storm to quit. Trains which should have left in the afternoon commenced pulling out at midnight. The Illinois Central made a brave fight to keep its suburban service going, but one by one the tracks at 2d street were frozen up by the water and ice swept inland by the gale and at night it had only three sets of rails left, and they were studded with snowbanks. Business houses were deserted the day long, the big down-town stores sending their clerks home long before the usual closing hour. The monetary loss to storekeepers is placed at $250,000. Life was imperiled on land and water. Many accidents occurred to pedestrians who were not able to contend against the wind and uncertain footing caused by the snow and ice-covered walks. Out at the 68th street crib the lives of seventy men were hanging in the balance while the tempest was howling.

QUINCY.—The public schools were closed on account of the snow.

BELVIDERE.—Not in ten years has this section of the country experienced such a terrible blizzard.

JOLIET.—The roads through the county are blockaded by the worst storm ever seen hereabouts.

CARTHAGE.—A Wabash passenger train, from Clayton to Keokuk, was stuck in the snow at this point.

AURORA.—Business has been practically suspended, the street cars stopped, trains late, and the schools closed.

DECATUR.—The worst blizzard known here in five years. The snow is eight to ten inches on a level and drifted hip deep in places.

CHAMPAIGN.—This section of central Illinois has been in the toils of a blizzard, the equal of which has not been experienced for a decade.

CHESTER.—Small buildings were damaged, lumber piles overturned and a fleet of thirteen steamboats in this harbor were in a precarious condition.

BLOOMINGTON.—The wind was blowing almost a tornado and the cold was severe, the mercury being down to zero. Great snowdrifts lie everywhere.

PEORIA.—The storm was one of the worst in the history of the city. The snow was fine and dry and was accompanied by a heavy wind, causing it to drift badly.

SPRINGFIELD.—The snowstorm prevailed nearly all day. The ground is covered to a depth of eight or ten inches. Street car traffic was suspended and the schools closed.

Michigan Storm Swept.

GRAND RAPIDS.—It was the wildest storm of the season.

COLDWATER.—The worst storm that ever prevailed in this vicinity

KALAMAZOO.—The worst storm in thirty years. Drifts on the main streets are ten feet deep.

JACKSON.—The worst blizzard experienced here in twenty years. All passenger trains pulled with one and even two extra engines.

LANSING.—At noon the schools of the city were closed on account of the severity of the storm. Nothing like it has been known since the famous storm of March, 1886. Business almost at a standstill.

IRONWOOD.—Logging operations have been temporarily suspended, as the snow in the woods is so deep that it is impossible to make any progress.

SAGINAW.—One of the most severe blizzards ever experienced in the Saginaw Valley. It grew bitterly cold and huge drifts, in some places four feet high, blockaded sidewalks.

DETROIT.—Michigan is storm swept. Not since April, 1886, has so much snow fallen nor has the wind howled with such unrelenting vigor. Before noon traffic on many of the streets in Detroit was practically stopped. Plows drawn by four teams went over the routes, but by the time one end of the line was reached the drifts had piled up on the other. The only way the electric lines were kept going was to send two motor cars along together. Business in the city has been stagnated. Reports from all over the State show the storm to have been unusually severe, although the damage is slight.

Unequaled in Fury in Wisconsin.

BELOIT.—A fearful blizzard has prevailed all day.

GREEN BAY.—The several stages running into the city are delayed and the prospects are they will not be able to get through the drifts until to-morrow.

MILWAUKEE.—It was the most disagreeable day of the winter, and very few people ventured out. Every snow plow, scraper and available man was put to work. Along the lake front the storm raged furiously, throwing the ice and spray a rod or more inland. The storm caught none of the steamers doing business on the lake outside.

RACINE.—The most severe storm known in this vicinity for fifteen years. The wind from the northeast reached a velocity of sixty-five miles an hour and was accompanied by a wet and blinding snowstorm. Street car traffic completely paralyzed. John Janschauck fell at the street corner, and when found was covered with snow and died in an hour.

Rain, Sleet and Snow in Indiana.

PORTLAND.—A terrible blizzard has been raging here, the worst for years. Fourteen inches of snow has fallen and all outdoor work is stopped.

CROWN POINT.—Country roads are blockaded in all directions, and it will doubtless be two or three days before farmers can find their way in to town.

ELWOOD.—The worst blizzard known in this country since 1863. A drop of 20 degrees in temperature caused much suffering among the stock. The east wind blew a hurricane and the air was a perfect mass of flying snow.

INDIANAPOLIS.—The heaviest storm of sleet and snow which has visited Indiana in a number of years began early in the morning and continued without intermission during the day. Outside of the inconvenience which resulted from impeded traffic on the railroad lines and the difficulties under which business was transacted in this city the damage of the storm was not material. In many sections the snow drifted so as to make the roads impassable, and throughout the northern part of the State the drifts interfered with travel. South and southeast the storm consisted of rain until early next morning, when it began to snow, but the fall is not large.

Southern Iowa Feels It the Most.

BRIGHTON.—Snow has fallen to the depth of about a foot, and has drifted badly. Railway traffic is much impeded.

DUBUQUE.—The storm at and northwest of Dubuque was comparatively light, and trains from Chicago and St. Louis only were delayed.

WASHINGTON.—A fearful blizzard has been raging here for twenty hours. All trains on the Rock Island have been abandoned and general business is at a standstill.

GRINNELL.—A blizzard has been raging here for twenty-four hours, with the snow drifting badly. Trains on the north and south roads are ten hours behind time.

BURLINGTON.—Snowdrifts are piled high everywhere. Street car traffic is at a standstill and no effort will be made to clear the tracks until the storm is over. All trains are late.

CEDAR RAPIDS.—Snow lies on the ground to the depth of six or seven inches, and as a high wind prevailed the railroads are badly blockaded, especially those from the western part of the State.

DES MOINES.—The storm abated during the day and was practically over in the evening. The minimum temperature reported was zero at Ottumwa, and at other points the thermometer stood a little higher. The storm was most severe in the southern part of the State, where a foot of snow fell. The snowfall in Des Moines was seven inches and at Fonda, in the north of the State, one inch.

KEOKUK.—Railroad traffic is seriously interrupted and business in the city is at a standstill. On several lines of railroad all freights are discontinued and passenger trains gotten through with great difficulty. The Wabash is fast in a drift at Carthage, Ill.

Sleet Fall for the Buckeye State.

MASSILLON.—The storm tied up the electric street railways in a short time. It was followed by rain.

FINDLAY.—A violent snow-storm began at six o'clock this morning and has continued all day without cessation.

COLUMBUS.—A severe sleet storm prevailed here. The wires are covered with ice. Business is delayed accordingly.

CINCINNATI.—A sleet storm reached this locality after midnight, with a high northeast wind, but by noon the ice was nearly melted and rain was falling.

CLEVELAND.—The blizzard reached this city at 7 o'clock in the morning. A fierce gale, accompanied by a heavy fall of fine, cutting snow, is in progress. The street car service is demoralized, only an occasional car managing to get through the heavy snow drifts.

TOLEDO.—The blizzard struck this city at 5:30 this morning, and at 7:30 every street car in the city was abandoned. The wind blew the water up the river from Maumee bay, and the docks and Water street are inundated. Business is at a standstill. A blinding snowstorm filled the streets with drifts, and all trains are behind time.

Death in the Storm.

GUTHRIE, Ok.—It has been terribly cold during the storm, and stories of awful suffering are coming in from various points. Twenty persons have been found frozen to death. A report comes from the northern part of the Territory that six persons of one family were murdered by the father to prevent their suffering while dying with cold. The seven bodies were found in one house with their throats cut. In the house was found a note signed by the father, who left word that he had killed his wife and children to save them from freezing.

Nebraska Snowed Under.

OMAHA.—As a result of the blizzard, most trains have been abandoned in the interior, and those running have been pulled by two and three engines. Stock in Nebraska is really in danger, and stockmen are apprehensive of great loss. Drifts in some places are piled ten to twenty feet high, and in the valleys cattle are perishing for want of water and food. Loss in this direction will be enormous, it is feared.

Kansas Under a White Mantle.

ATCHISON.—All trains are tied up.

EL DORADO.—Railroads are all blockaded.

EMPORIA.—Wagon roads are impassable, and trains have been abandoned.

FORT SCOTT.—The heaviest snow in Southeast Kansas for many years lies upon the ground. Trains are late and many are laid out.

LEAVENWORTH.—The snow is sixteen inches deep on the level and in many places has drifted to a depth of from five to ten feet.

TOPEKA.—Reports from all parts of Kansas are that it was the heaviest snowstorm on record, and was especially severe in the western part of the State. A strong north wind carried the snow into drifts. The thermometer dropped to 4 degrees.

Blizzard Reaches the East.

NEW YORK.—The blizzard scheduled by weather prophets arrived on time. The streets are covered with a mantle of snow several inches deep. All traffic is impeded. The railroad trains are behind time and mails from all parts of the country are delayed. The street railways are operated with difficulty and traffic on the river has been greatly impeded.

BEAUTIFUL children never grow in loveless homes.

AT WAR WITH HERSELF.

The Story of a Woman's Atonement, by Charlotte M. Braeme.

CHAPTER XXXVI—Continued.

"Do not doubt me, Paul," she whispered. "My life is so novel to me. Let me enjoy it undisturbed for some time longer."

He was satisfied; he was beside himself with joy that she had voluntarily given him this little caress—she who was so distant and reserved. Her manner had often puzzled him. He had no right to doubt her, yet there was something so strange about her conduct. She seemed always as though she were trying to make amends to him for something—as though all her affection and kindness came from a desire to make atonement. He could not understand her. She had never wronged him; it was not her fault that she was the nearest of kin. There was no reason why she should accept him if she did not love him. She had had offers from some of the most distinguished men in England, and had refused them for his sake. She must love him after all, but he wished that she would show her affection in a fashion that he could better understand. He saw her often—he rode over from Weildon every day—but, in some strange kind of way, he never seemed to draw nearer to her or to understand her inner life better than he had at first.

Ethel Dacre was still at Crown Leighton, although it was sorely against her will that she remained there; but General Dacre had gone abroad, and he had said that he should much prefer his daughter's residing with her friend during his absence than keeping house all alone at Westfield. Ethel could offer no reasonable objection, therefore she remained.

* * * * * * *

One bright morning in September Leonie stood at the library window alone. The lilies were dead, the roses faded, and in their place great sunflowers turned their bright faces upward, and tall dahlias reared their heads with handsome flowers. The leaves were falling from the trees; they lay, crimson, brown and gold, on the ground; the wind swept them along, and then moaned over them.

The fair face looking wistfully from the window at the falling leaves had changed most remarkably. It was not less beautiful; but the brightness and radiance were gone—there was a worn look that did not belong to youth—the eyes were very bright, but there was somewhat of fever in their brightness—there was a flush on the beautiful face, but it told more of unrest than of health—there was a tremulous movement about the white jeweled hands, a sudden quivering of the lips, both tokens of a mind ill at ease.

No one saw Lady Charnleigh without remarking the change. Miss Templeton had been from Kew to spend the summer vacation, as she told the parents of her pupils, with the Countess of Charnleigh, of Crown Leighton, and when she had seen Leonie, she had cried out in wonder—

"This gay life does not suit you, Lady Charnleigh; you are so changed. You look as though you had had long years of incessant gayety—you want rest."

"Rest!" the girl had re-echoed mournfully. "There is no rest in this world."

And after Miss Templeton had been there for a few days, and had noticed, to her dismay, the fever of unrest in which the girl lived, her surprise had become greater still.

"You cannot sleep in the dark," she had said, one day, after overhearing a conversation between Leonie and her maid; "you do not like the twilight; you cannot endure to be left alone, you crave for continual excitement as children do for food. My dear Lady Charnleigh, you give me the impression that you are at war with yourself."

How the words had taunted her. How they taunted her still! They described her state of mind as no other words could have done. It was not a tempest, not a struggle, but a continual warfare—and the warfare was self against self. There was hardly a single moment, night or day, during which her better, nobler, higher self was not crying out in rebellion against the deed she had done. There was hardly a single moment in which heart or soul was free from that war. She was swayed by impulse as were the leaves by the wind. She would rise one morning determined to write to Paul Flemyng, and tell him all—determined to undo her great wrong—to give up the wealth she was so unjustly keeping from him—to be honest, loyal and true. The resolution would last until she went downstairs and saw the magnificence that surrounded her.

"I cannot give it up," the unhappy girl would say; "it is the best part of my life. I could not endure poverty after this."

At other times, the memory of the lover she had lost would be so strong within her that she would be ready to give up everything she had in the world only to see him again. At such times she loathed even the name of Paul Flemyng; she avoided seeing him when he came; she went out into the green solitude of the woods and called by name him whom she had sent from her with a lie. No wonder that the radiant face grew worn-looking, and that the bright eyes lost their clear light; no wonder that sweet snatches of song and sunny laughter were no longer heard.

Lady Charnleigh stood watching the falling leaves. The wind no longer wafted to her rich, warm gusts of perfume; it was wailing over the dead flowers.

"My life was virtually over," she was thinking to herself; "this world has no more to give me. I have lost my lover; nor spring nor summer will ever bring him back to me. Some time, sooner or later, I shall marry Paul Flemyng. I shall live and die Countess of Charnleigh. I shall live and die one of the fairest and richest women in England. But my life will not have been a happy one, though I have my heart's wish granted to me. Oh, if I had never found that will, or if, on finding it, I had but acted loyally, Bertram would have been mine, and I should have been happy!"

She had made herself believe that in a short time she should forget all that was unpleasant and enjoy her wealth as she had been wont to do. She had believed herself capable of growing hardened in her sin; but the conscience she had done her best to trample under foot seemed to grow more vigorous in its opposition day by day.

"I am at war with myself," she said, "and peace will come to me never more. Was the prize worth the sin? Too late! It is too late now. I cannot change what I have done. I must take my life as it comes, and make the best of it."

So through the autumn and winter she did her best to drown all regrets. Even Lady Fanshawe, who enjoyed gayety as much as any one, was almost astounded. There was no cessation to her young relative's dissipation; balls, fetes, charade parties, dinner parties, archery meetings, croquet parties, picnics, every variety of amusement that it was possible to imagine, followed each other in rapid succession. No day passed without some kind of entertainment. Leonie seemed to dread only one thing, and that was time and leisure and thought.

Lady Fanshawe and Miss Dacre had grown tired of asking each other what had come over her. Ethel thought she had been deceived in her first estimate of her character. She seemed to live only to kill time, and not to turn it to profit. Even those who shared her hospitality began to talk of her and say that it was sad to see one so young giving up her heart and soul to the pursuit of pleasure.

Paul Flemyng was the only one who saw no faults in her; he made all allowances. It was but natural, he said to himself, that, on suddenly finding herself possessed of almost unbounded wealth, she should want to enjoy it in her own way.

Spring came round again, and it was decided that Lady Charnleigh, Ethel and Lady Fanshawe should go early to London. The Duchess of Warminster had invited Leonie to spend some time with her in her beautiful villa near the Thames, and she had joyfully accepted the invitation.

"The ghost that haunts me at Crown Leighton will stay there," she said to herself, "and I'll be happy again."

CHAPTER XXXVII.

People in London made the same remarks about Lady Charnleigh as her neighbors in the country had made. Gayety and pleasure were delightful; but it was possible to have too much of both, and the young countess went quite to the extreme. Did she ever rest? Did she ever sleep? Her days and nights seemed to be one long round of gayety; she danced, sang, acted most gloriously in private theatricals and charades—she did everything except reflect.

The season was half over when the Duchess of Warminster insisted upon Lady Charnleigh's paying her promised visit.

"I saw you at the opera last night," said her grace, "and although you talked and laughed so gayly, I thought you looked very tired, and not at all well. They tell me you lead the gayest of lives in London—a week at the villa will do you good. Life is not so hurried there."

"It is not quiet, I hope," returned Leonie, quickly; "there is nothing I dislike so much."

"My dear Lady Charnleigh, forgive me—remember I am old enough to be your mother—but I would not counsel you to speak often in that fashion; you mean no harm, but such words do not sound well. No, we are not quiet—that is, there is a large party always staying with us, and each one amuses him or herself according to taste or fancy. I have never yet seen any one looking dull."

Lady Charnleigh went, leaving Lady Fanshawe and Miss Dacre, who had declined a like invitation, in the London mansion alone. Leonie found life at the Duchess' villa gay enough and pleasant enough; no one ever interfered with visitors there—each one did just as he or she liked; and one Sunday morning, when Leonie awoke, the world around looked so fair and bright that she decided upon a ramble through the woods. As a rule, she hated and dreaded solitude, but to-day heart and soul desired it. She said to herself that she would go out away from the world of men and women to where the green boughs waved in the wind, and the birds sang of peace and of love.

She wandered through the woods—how far she did not know; she walked fast, memory and fancy both busy with that terrible past which she could never undo. She wandered over the rich clover meadows, past the hedges all covered with hawthorn, past pretty limpid brooks that sang of Heaven's great love for men in making earth so fair. She came to a narrow green lane, where wild flowers grew in rich profusion; there was a rude stile at the end, and when Leonie reached that she stood for some moments lost in admiration.

There was a broad path that ran through the clover meadows, and the path was bordered by tall, stately elm trees, it led to the most picturesque village that she had ever seen; and there, at the foot of the hill, stood an old gray church, the tapering spire and the arched windows of which were covered with ivy. There was a quaint, old-fashioned gate standing open, as though inviting all to enter; within were green graves where the dead slept in that beautiful summer calm.

As she stood watching the tranquil loveliness, the bells began to chime. Never while life lasted did she forget the solemn beauty of that hour. The birds were singing around her, the bees hovered over the rich clover, the bright-winged butterflies sought the wild roses, the sweet western wind came laden with the rich odor of hawthorn, and above all was heard the sweet chiming of the Sabbath bells. It was all so fair so calm, so sweet, so like a glimpse of the far-off heaven, that the girl stood still and felt the solemn, beautiful calm stealing over her.

How long was it since she had knelt at her mother's knee and learnt her simple prayers? Exalted in rank, how long was it since she had risen in the morning and said one word of prayer—since she had offered one word of thanks to Heaven ere she had retired to rest? How long was it since she had ceased to read the grand old Bible stories? She had done nothing right, nothing good, since she had bartered her soul for riches and her love for luxury!

They were going into church now, gray-haired men and little children; the sweet, simple faith of her childhood seemed to come back to her as she watched them—the time recurred when she had believed with a child's faith that if she was good she would go to heaven.

Was there any heaven for her, her hands laden with theft, her soul stained with dishonor, with fraud, with untruth?

She had hardly looked at the religious side of the question before; but now that it was brought before her she stood, as it were, face to face with her own soul, with its dark stain of crime, and she turned, shuddering, from it. In the whirl of dissipation she had kept such thoughts at bay; in this sweet, solemn time, when the Sabbath bells were chiming, she could not evade them. The conscience she had so long deadened cried loudly at last.

Leonie drew her veil tightly over her face and entered the church; it was not likely, she though to herself, that any one here would recognize her; she was only a visitor, and might never see the place again. After morning prayers the congregation sang a sweet old hymn, and then a white-haired minister stood up to preach. He was not eloquent, he was no grand orator, but his lips had been touched by divine fire. He spoke from the depths of his heart, and his words touched the hearts of others. He spoke on a common theme; he told his simple hearers that no one who persisted in sin could ever go to heaven. Such plain, earnest words, so true, so strong, no one who heard could ever forget.

Long before he had finished, the fair, stately head was bent, and tears flowed like rain from the wearied eyes. No hope, no heaven! Was an earthly crown to be weighed in the balance with an eternal one? What mattered it that a diadem should shine on her brow here if her face was never to be seen among the angels in heaven?

Could it be possible that the punishment of her sin would be so terrible, so great? She did not fear punishment in this world. Here she could keep her ill-gotten goods, here she could enjoy the wealth for which she had given so much; but the justice of that other world was inexorable. She wept, and the tears of pain caused by an awakened conscience were as the cooling dew to the thirsty flowers.

Suddenly she raised her head and saw that most of the people had left the church, and that the white-haired minister stood in the vestry alone. Impulsive as she had ever been, Leonie rose and went to him. As one in a dream she saw a little square room with the branches of a laburnum-tree waving against the window. She turned to the minister—neither then nor afterward did she learn his name.

"You are a truthful, earnest man," she said, "and I want to ask you about a soul that is in trouble—will you answer me?"

"To the best of my power," he replied.

"Thus it was—where it happened matters not," she began. "Some time since there were two claimants for a large property—one a man, the other a girl. The girl, by the chief judges in the land, was pronounced next of kin, and as such succeeded to the inheritance. When she had enjoyed it long ehough to appreciate its value, she found a will, by which the late owner left all to the man. What was she bound to do?"

"Give up the inheritance to him, most certainly," replied the minister.

"But she could not—she could not go back to poverty and privation—she could not give up the wealth and luxury. She kept the will and determined to marry the man whom she had defrauded—did not that meet the difficulties of the case?" she continued, eagerly. "Was not that restitution sufficient? She would give him all in that way. Speak to me—tell me, was not that enough?"

"No," he said, "that was not enough—either to satisfy the law of man or the law of heaven."

She clasped her hands with passionate eagerness and drew nearer.

"But do you not see that by marrying him she gives him the property just as though she had put the will into his hands?"

"No," he objected; "it would be but left-handed justice after all—not pure and perfect. The sin of theft and fraud—of injustice and dishonor—would still be upon that girl's soul."

"Would there be hope of heaven for such a soul?" she asked.

"I cannot—I dare not say; I should not like to die with the same stain upon my conscience."

"You are a good man," she said, turning away, "pray for a soul in pain."

Before he could answer her she had gone; but all day and all night those words rang in his ears—"pray for a soul in pain."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

HE IS A GOOD FELLOW.

A Traveler Has a Good Word for the Original Turk.

Of the Turks it may be doubted whether they should be called a nation or an agglomeration of individuals of many races who find one common bond in Islam, says a traveler writing in a current magazine. In the first mosque you enter at haphazard, you may see the pure Turk, often as fair and flaxen as any Norwegian, prostrating himself and repeating his prayers beside the blackest of black Africans. And as you enter the sacred place both, at the self-same moment, will instinctively glance at your feet to see whether you have taken off your shoes or have slipped on a dusty pair of the babuj which will generally be offered you at the door. Among Mohammedans, as among Roman Catholics, the universality of common practices has something imposing in it, and you instinctively respect the Mohammedan for requiring you to reverence the spot on which he prays. And here at the very outset let me say that after many visits and some residence in the East I am strongly inclined to believe in the original Turk—when he is to be found. Greeks, Armenians, Persians and Africans have given him a bad name by calling themselves Turks and sometimes by misgoverning his country, but he himself is a fine fellow, and belongs to the superior, dominant races of the world. He is naturally a fair man, with blue eyes and of fresh complexion, well grown, uncommonly strong, and very enduring. He is sober; he is clean; and he is honest even to his own disadvantage, being by no means a match for the wily Greeks and Armenians who are perpetually fattening on his heart. There is a common proverb in the East to the effect that it takes ten Jews to cheat an Armenian, and ten Armenians to cheat one Persian. The pure Turk has no chance against such people.

Uncle Sam's Prisoners.

There are now about 1,500 individuals, sentenced for violations of the laws of the United States, scattered about in forty odd penitentiaries in various parts of the country. The government sadly needs more prisons. It owns at present only five penal establishments—two penitentiaries in Washington State and Utah, and jails at Washington City, Portsmouth, Ark., and Sitka, Alaska. Besides these it rents a few jails in Indian Territory and Oklahoma Territory. The institutions mentioned being insufficient, Uncle Sam is obliged to make use of those belonging to the States. A bill was passed by the last Congress establishing three federal prisons big enough to accommodate 1,500 guests, but the necessary clause appropiating money to build them with was omitted from the law by accident.

Married One Hundred Years.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of a marriage is a silver wedding, the fiftieth is a golden wedding, the seventy-fifth is a diamond wedding, but what is the one hundredth? An impossible thing, says the learned editor, when the question is referred to him. Yet such a wedding is actually reported as celebrated not long ago in the town of Zsombolyl, Hungary, where the venerable couple have long been allowed a pension in recognition of their great age and their fidelity to each other. The marriage of this aged pair is duly and officially recorded as having taken place in May, 1793, at which time, according to the record, they were of marriageable age. As in Hungary at that time a bridegroom must have reached the age of 20 and a bride that of 15, the pair must now be at least 120 and 115 years old.

THE highest pressure used to drive a water wheel is claimed by a valley near Grenoble, France, where a turbine ten feet in diameter has been operated since 1857 with a head of 1,638 feet. A flow of about seventy-five gallons of water per second gives a force of 1,500-horse power.

DO NOT force others to bear the burden of your song.

ADMIRAL BENHAM'S FLEET AT RIO.

WINTER DIET.

A Few Hints by Which Good Health May Be Attained.

Few people seem to give any thought to the appropriateness of food to the season of the year, says the New York Ledger. With the coming cold weather many people remain a great deal indoors, occupying rooms which are often kept at a high temperature and with, of course, very much less fresh air than they are accustomed to during warm weather. This has a tendency to create a feverish condition of the system that should be counteracted by a free indulgence in fruits of all available sorts.

For such purposes there is nothing better than good apples eaten raw. If children were permitted to eat all the fresh apples they craved throughout the winter there would be fewer diseases and deaths; while for adults, those who are of fairly quiet habits and who remain indoors a great deal, there is nothing in the whole range of food products as useful.

It is claimed that severe cases of gout and other rheumatic difficulties may be entirely cured by the free use of apples. In the absence of apples, raw potatoes, eaten with a little salt, are a most excellent corrective of bad humors. An eminent lawyer of this country claims to owe his excellent health largely to the habit of eating raw potatoes with salt. Whenever he feels feverish or out of condition this is his medicine, and for years he has taken no other.

Oranges, lemons, grape fruit, pineapples in their season, and all acid fruits, are valuable for people of sedentary habits. Almost all persons might improve their health if they would but give a little attention to some of the most simple of nature's laws, and when this boon is so cheaply purchased the wonder is that it is so much neglected.

The Santa Fe Failure.

Such an event as the failure of the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Railway Company, occurring in former times would have precipitated a panic in the midst of prosperity, or would have increased vastly the terrors of an existing panic. The failure of Jay Cooke and the half-finished Northern Pacific Railway in 1873 created the panic of that year. The interests involved in that catastrophe were not one-tenth as extensive or important as those of the Santa Fe. Yet this occurrence did not affect the money or stock market to the extent of one-half of one per cent. on the total volume of business. The loss on securities fell so lightly and were so widely distributed that the result amounted to but little more than a ripple along the shores of the business world.

The disaster to the Santa Fe is the result of nothing but misdirected enterprise and errors in management. In 1881 the stock of the Santa Fe sold at 154½. From 1886 to 1888 the stock was but a point or two below par. The plan of extension then began. The line to Chicago was built and the immense terminal property on State street was acquired.

The Chicago extension never paid, but caused loss of business to the main line. The business of the main line, which had been divided at the Missouri River among several roads, kept them all in a friendly spirit and the Santa Fe received their combined transcontinental traffic. When it built a rival line to Chicago it lost all the Chicago and eastern traffic of other lines. Practically the same result followed the acquisition of all its extensions and subsidiary lines. Each step of enterprise excited the hostility of rival lines whose territory was invaded. The main line lost traffic and the branches did not do a self-supporting business. Every attempt to conquer other worlds impaired the value of its own world as a source of profit.

In the bankruptcy of such great roads as the Northern Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Erie, the Santa Fe and other systems profound, lessons are to be learned in the science of railroad management, and especially in the morals of railroad financiering. With good business principles and honesty as a basis of management every one of these railroads should be solvent and paying good dividends on its stock.

"'Gatored Mules."

The Washington News says that a "'gatored mule" is, according to Florida dialect, a mule that has been driven partially insane by an alligator. There are hundreds of such demented mules in Florida, and it is a fact that they are never the same after a genuine fright of this sort.

I helped to 'gator one myself, writes a traveler. I had been staying at Ocala, and finally agreed with several friends to go hunting in the south. Some distance from town we located upon a small stream abounding in game. After pitching camp, I went for a walk, and before long I found a 'gator hole. From the strong, musty odor issuing from it, I knew the owner must be at home.

I decided to capture him, and called my companions. Several times we rammed a long pole into the burrow. Finally we heard a snap like the report of a gun, and the pole remained fast. The 'gator had seized it. We tried vainly to pull him out. Then some one suggested that we try our camp mule. The mule was led down to the hole, a chain fastened to him and the pole, and the frightened animal was started.

There was a creaking of chain, a roar, and an alligator fully seven feet in length came out with a rush, as the mule started on a wild run for the road.

The saurian's teeth were sunken so deeply in the pole that he could not release himself, and away went mule, pole and all. The alligator spun round, hissing like a steam-engine; but he held on, while the mule, thinking himself pursued, snorted and ran. We followed. Into the main street of Ocala flew the mule and his queer load. Completely exhausted, he was stopped by a party of men near the postoffice.

The 'gator was dead. We skinned and stuffed him. The mule recovered, but the sight of a swamp now throws him into a perfect frenzy of terror.

Leaks in Drain Pipes.

Another piece of chemical knowledge worth noting is the action of sulphide of hydrogen in the presence of a lead salt. If a piece of blotting paper be soaked with a solution of sugar of lead and be held near or over a bottle of sulphide of hydrogen the blotting paper will at once turn dark-brown or black. That is, a chemical change takes place and the sulphur or the sulphide of hydrogen unites with the lead of the sugar of lead, and a sulphide of lead is the result, which is black or dark-brown. The practical application of this is the detection of leaks in drain pipes. Almost all foul odors from cesspools and drains contain the sulphide of hydrogen. If a leak of these odors is suspected or noticed, a piece of blotting paper soaked with a solution of sugar of lead and held at the joints of the pipes or where the odor is suspected will at once turn brown or black if there is an escape of gas. Often at summer resorts some of the back rooms suggest an odor not too pleasant, and a bad drain or leaky cesspool is suggested by a faint smell. A piece of blotting paper treated as directed above and left to hang in the room will detect a slight amount of this poisonous gas and prove conclusively that the room is unfit for occupation.

Just the Opposite.

An Irishman who was employed in the iron works in a Western town was advised by his physician to seek some employment where the labor was less severe, on account of an enlargement of the heart. He proceeded, therefore, to set up a small grocery, which was well patronized by his friends.

He was not in the habit of diminishing his prospects of financial success by giving "down weight," and one afternoon, when a customer asked for a pound of sugar, he added pinch by pinch until the scale barely turned.

"Pat," inquired the customer, looking up innocently at his careful weigher, "phwat was it the dochter said was allin' ye?"

"Inlaargemint av the haart," answered Pat with pride.

"Well, thin," said the customer, "it's tolme ye were changin' yer dochter, Pat; the wan that's tindin' ye now don't understhand yer disease, me b'y. Yer haart is gettin' smaller moighty fast, an' it's in great danger ye are!"

For the Minister.

The Woman's Journal has heard of a little girl who has learned to adapt herself to circumstances.

She wrote a composition entitled, "The Cow." It had two great merits: brevity and truth. It ran thus:

"The cow is a very useful animal."

That afternoon the minister called at the house, and the little girl's mother asked her to read her composition to him. She read it with emendations and improvements:

"The cow is the most useful animal except religion."

THE California Fruit Grower reports the arrival of specimens of a new leaf-destroying beetle from Hawaii. It feeds indiscriminately on the leaves of the peach, orange, and grape, and, in fact, on all kinds of fruit trees. It is as yet unknown in California. It is to be hoped that the specimen was promptly destroyed as soon as identified. The worst insect depredators have been disseminated by sending specimens as a scientific curiosity, and then letting some of them escape. The beetle came originally from Japan and is known in Hawaii as the Japanese bug or leaf-eater.

EXTRACT from a new novel: "Stand where you are, Reginald de Courcy! Advance one step nearer and I will tell you what I saw at the World's Fair!" "Foiled again!" hissed the villain, as he faded from view.—Philadelphia Record.

THE average waist of woman, a woman's journal asserts, has increased from 19 inches to 24 inches within five years. It looks elusive, but there are men who will endeavor to get 'round it.—Philadelphia Ledger.

STRUCK THE WRONG FARMER.

An Experiment with a Watch That Happened at a Bad Time.

We were talking about human nature in general, and the human nature of farmers in particular, when the man who was traveling for a button factory sagely observed:

"Yes, the average farmer is a queer man. They talk about his confiding disposition, but he hasn't got it. On the contrary, he suspects everybody of intent to defraud him in some way."

"Well, I dunno about that," said one of the crowd.

"I th'nk I can prove it to you in ten minutes," replied the button man. "Now, then, look at this watch and estimate the value."

He handed out watch and chain, and they were passed from hand to hand. The watch was a fine one, and the chain was solid gold, and the lowest estimate was $300, says the Detroit Free Press.

"I paid $400 in good money for the outfit," said the man. "One of you come along into the smoking car and we'll find a farmer. I'll offer him watch and chain for $50, and he'll just think I am trying to beat him. If I lose I pay for six dinners. If I win somebody pays for mine."

He started out in company with the man who had expressed his doubts, and about the first man they came to in the smoking car was a middle-aged farmer who had been to Cleveland and had two new axhelves in the seat beside him.

The button man held out the watch and said:

"My friend, I am hard up and want to sell this stuff. Look at it."

"Don't want it," replied the farmer.

"But I must have money. Watch and chain cost me $400. How much will you give me?"

"Don't want to buy."

"But take them in your hand and examine them. Even a child could estimate their value. I ought to get at least half cost, but as I want $50 awfully bad right away, this minute, I'll make that the price. You may take me for a traveling sharper, but I assure you"——

"You needn't assure me 'tall," interupted the farmer. "I think I know an honest man when I see one."

"Thanks. Then you are not suspicious of me?"

"Not a mite."

"And you'll take the watch and chain at $50?"

"I will," replied the farmer as he slipped them into his pocket and felt for his calfskin. "Just got paid for my wool to-day, and here's your cash. I see you've got a diamond pin on your tie. I can't tell a diamond from a rhinestone, but I'm willing to chance $25 on it. Has the other feller got anything for sale cheap?"

It had to be explained to the farmer that it all come about on a wager, but he was pig-headed about it, and the button man had to hand him a $10 bill before he would call the bargain off.

"You contended that the farmer hadn't a confidin' disposition, did you?" queried the toiler, as he pocketed the greenback. "Wa'll, I guess you know more about buttons than you do about farmers. You just come down my way and offer me a windmill fur $25, planer fur $50 or a mower and reaper fur $75, and I'll confide in you so durned quick that you can't keep your heels on the airth!"

GRATEFUL TO GEN. SPINNER.

Washington Women to Erect a Statue to the Benefactor of Their Sex.

The women of Washington are to erect a statue to the late General Francis E. Spinner, the friend and benefactor of their sex. The statue is of heroic size, eight feet high, and is being executed by the sculptor, Henry J. Ellicott. Critics who have seen the work compliment it and give it high rank. Gen. Spinner was a pioneer in the advocacy of woman's fitness for business employment. In 1862 he appointed seven women to positions in the Treasury Department, some of whom are in office today. There are now over five thousand women employed in the departments in Washington, says the Star, and other thousands filling honorable and lucrative positions throughout the United States. Thirty years ago the work world of women was limited to the wash tub and the sewing machine. It is not thus now. Gen. Spinner was once asked what he considered his greatest achievement. He replied: "The fact that I was instrumental in introducing women to employment in the offices of the government gives me more real satisfaction than all the other deeds of my life."

THE PROPOSED SPINNER STATUE.

IT is high time that the crank problem was being dealt with in a practical and determined manner. The fact that one of these unfortunates may be irresponsible only makes him the more dangerous and increases the necessity for placing him under restraint. The death of such men as Garfield and Carter Harrison, the attempts that have been made upon the lives of other great men of the country and such threatenings as the kidnaping of little Ruth Cleveland, make more apparent the imperative necessity of providing some adequate means for the restraint of this class of citizens.

THE NATION'S SOLONS.

SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Law-Makers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed, and Acted Upon.

Doings of Congress.

After several weeks of discussion the Senate Wednesday finally came to a vote on the bill repealing all the Federal laws regulating the control of Congressional elections, and it passed by a vote of 39 yeas to 28 nays. Numerous amendments were presented by the Republicans, but they were voted down. By a vote of 175 to 57 the House adopted the resolution condemning Minister Stevens and sustaining the Hawaiian policy of Mr. Cleveland. Upon the first vote the resolution was carried, 174 to 3, and an interesting parliamentary question was raised as to whether 177 instead of 179 was not a quorum, four seats being vacant on account of deaths. The Speaker held that a majority of the members chosen and living constituted a quorum. The Boutelle resolution was defeated by a strict party vote. Mr. Bland of Missouri then made an attempt to get up his bill for the coinage of the seigniorage in the treasury. The Eastern Democrats, led by Messrs. Tracey and Cockran, inaugurated a filibuster, in which they were joined by the majority of the Republicans, and for four hours Mr. Bland and the remainder of the Democrats were held at bay.

In the Senate Thursday Senator Perkins of California presented memorials of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce praying for the annexation of Hawaii, the laying of a cable from the United States to Hawaii, and for the completion of the Nicaraugua canal under government control. A memorial of the wool growers against the Wilson bill was presented by Senator Sherman. Senator Wolcott presented, without reading, several amendments to the Wilson tariff bill. After the morning hour the resolution of Senator Stewart denying the right of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue the United States bonds and questioning their validity came up as the regular order. The memorial resolution in memory of Representative Mutchler, of Pennsylvania, who died at the beginning of the present Congress, was then presented. Adresses were delivered by Senators Quay of Pennsylvania, Mitchell of Wisconsin, Hansbrough of North Dakota, and several others, and the Senate adjourned until Monday. In the House the deadlock on Mr. Bland's silver seigniorage bill was broken after four hours of continuous filibustering, when, by a vote of 178 to 4, the House went into the committee of the whole for consideration of the bill. On the final vote sixteen Republicans and all the populists voted aye, while twenty-two Democrats who were present refused to vote. A bill from the joint committee on expenditures in the departments to make uniform the methods of accounting in the departments was taken up and passed.

Friday the entire day in the House was consumed in debate on the Bland silver seigniorage bill, the speakers being Messrs. Bland, C. W. Stone of Pennsylvania, McKeighan, Harter, and Kilgore. After some unimportant routine business, on motion of Mr. Bland, the House went into committee of the whole for the consideration of the bill. Mr. Bland explained in a few words that he had never agreed to the striking out of the second section of this bill, which provides for the coinage of all the bullion in the treasury. Aside from the question of raising revenue he regarded the second section as more important than the first. Mr. McKeighan made a free silver argument. A gold basis and a high tariff, he said, was discriminating against the west in the interest of the East. "If I had the power," he said, "I would strike down the tariff that protects the East and force it into competition with the West, as the East forces us into competition." Mr. Harter, of Ohio, then took the floor in opposition to the bill. Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, who made the concluding argument of the afternoon, contended that if the Government was in need of money it was better to coin the silver seigniorage than borrow money and pay interest upon the loan.

The House adjourned Saturday almost immediately after the reading of the journal out of respect for the memory of Representative Houk, of Ohio. Mr. Outhwaite, of Ohio, announced the death of Mr. Houk to the House and requested the appointment of a committee to accompany the remains to Ohio. Appropriate resolutions were adopted and the House adjourned till Monday.

The Hawaiian controversy occupied the principal time of the Senate on Monday, Senator Gray of Delaware opening his argument in defense of the policy of President Cleveland. Early in the session an interesting incident occurred in the presentation by Senator Colloom of a petition signed by 30,000 wool growers of the West protesting against the wool schedule in the new tariff bill. The speech of Senator Gray in the Hawaiian matter was devoted principally to an attempt to prove the complicity of Minister Stevens with the revolutionists. A message was received from the House announcing the death of Congressman Houk, of Ohio. Senator Brice offered a resolution of regret and condolence, and the Senate adjourned. In the House, after the transaction of some minor business, by special order the remainder of the day was consumed in paying appropriate tribute to the memory of the late Senator Stanford, of California. At the conclusion of the eulogies, as a further mark of respect, the House at 4:15 o'clock adjourned.

Terrible Cruelty.

A case of fiendish cruelty has been discovered at Bellefonte, Pa., and Milton Harman and his wife are now in the county jail. They are charged with inhumanly beating the latter's 10-year-old child. The boy was found lying in a bedroom with bread just out of reach. He had been starved and beaten times without number, and his emaciated little form was covered with bruises, sores, cuts and burns. Part of his upper lip had been torn away by the father.

His arms and chest were covered with cuts, which had been inflicted with a butcher knife. Across the abdomen was a horrible burn which the father had made with a red-hot poker. One ear had been lopped off with a corn-cutter, dipped in tar and then stuck back on the head. The boy had been deprived of food so long that he had gnawed his finger ends to the second joints. He is a hopeless cripple. One of his legs was broken several years ago and, as his mother denied him medical attendance, the fracture was never reduced. The child was completely covered with filth, and the police who found him were amazed and horrified at the sight.

This and That

YARN is made of leather scraps.

COLORADO has 3,000,000 acres irrigated.

MEXICO'S biggest gold nugget weighed 14½ pounds.

THE new bridge over the Missouri River at Omaha has been opened.

A NEW gold field, twenty miles square, has been discovered near Hartzel, Colo.

THE purer the water the more active it is in corroding and pitting iron or steel plates.

WHEN oxygen is in a liquid state it is strongly attracted by a powerful electro magnet.

ENGLAND makes 100,000,000 needles a year, while the United States turn out over 80,000,000.

IT is proposed by a Maine man to make hoops for orange boxes out of paper. Why not for barrels, too?

ABOUT 10,000,000 bushels of bituminous coal will be floated down the Ohio from Western Pennsylvania on the present flood.

AN electrical engineer wants to throw advertisements by electric light against the falling sheet of water at Niagara Falls.

The Best Shoes for the Least Money.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

$5, $4 and $3.50 Dress Shoe.
$3.50 Police Shoe, 3 Soles.
$2.50, $2 for Workingmen.
$2 and $1.75 for Boys.
LADIES AND MISSES,
$3, $2.50 $2, $1.75

CAUTION.—If any dealer offers you W. L. Douglas shoes at a reduced price, or says he has them without the name stamped on the bottom, put him down as a fraud.

W. L. DOUGLAS Shoes are stylish, easy fitting, and give better satisfaction at the prices advertised than any other make. Try one pair and be convinced. The stamping of W. L. Douglas' name and price on the bottom, which guarantees their value, saves thousands of dollars annually to those who wear them. Dealers who push the sale of W. L. Douglas Shoes gain customers, which helps to increase the sales on their full line of goods. They can afford to sell at a less profit and we believe you can save money by buying all your footwear of the dealer advertised below. Catalogue free upon application. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Sold by RAUT & CO., Auburn, Ind.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is heeby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Mary W. Mott deceased, late of said County. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN G. MOTT, Administrator.

January 16, 1894.
E. D. Hartman, Att'y

GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company for the election of 13 directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting, will be held in the general office of the company, in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 7, 1894, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m. The books for the transfer of stock will be closed February 24, 1894. 4-9

F. A. GORHAM, Secretary.

Notice to Contractors.

The Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, Indiana, will, until February 20th, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m., receive sealed proposals for the erection and completion of stone abutments for six bridges in said county; also for the erection and completion of six steel bridges; abutments and bridges to be constructed in accordance with specifications now on file in the County Auditor's office. Each bid must be accompanied by certified check of not less than four hundred dollars, as surety to enter into contract within five days of letting.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA.
JOHN HOFFELDER, Pres.

Auburn, Ind., Jany. 30th, 1894.

Probate Cause No. 2010.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County } ss: In the DeKalb Circuit Court, March Term, 1894.

John C. Dick, Ellen Dick, Samantha J. Coy and George Coy, you and each of you are hereby notified that Jacob Walborn, as administrator of the estate of Christopher Dick, deceased, has filed in the circuit court of DeKalb county, Indiana, a petition making you defendants therein, and praying for an order and decree of said court for partition and authorizing the sale of certain real estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, and in said petition described, to make assets for the payment of the debts and liabilities of said estate; and that said petition, so filed and which is now pending, is set for hearing in said Circuit Court at the court house in Auburn, Indiana, on the 12th day of March, 1894.

Witness, the clerk and seal of said court, this 6th day of February, 1894.

DANIEL D. MOODY,
Clerk DeKalb Circuit Court.
By Blanche Shilling, deputy.

E. D. Hartman, Attorney.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Amos Walsworth shipped another car of sheep last week.

Fannie Casebeer is home from school at Academie for a short vacation.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Eva Ensley to a young gentleman in Indianapolis.

A mink raided M. Cline's chicken coop last Thursday evening and killed about twenty-five chickens.

SLEIGHS! Zimmerman Mfg. Co. have some sleighs which they are offering for sale at special prices. 7tf

As we go to press Wednesday evening a snow storm is following up the blizzard with chances for a heavy fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rush were over at Butler the latter part of the week, visiting relatives who reside there.

Miss Edna Davis started to Indianapolis Monday, and will remain a guest of the family of Nicholas Ensley till after the marriage of his daughter, Eva.

F. J. Yesbera engages a big space with us again this week, to show our readers and his patrons that he is in the market with a big lot of goods in his line.

It is now probable that the creditors of J. L. Davis will receive about 60 per cent. This, if it turns out that way, will be very much better than was at first expected.

The "special points" made this week by Schnab Brothers should be noted with care. There is money in it. Notice the different lines they make a "drive" on each week.

The Keller case that was tried here a year or so ago, has been reversed by the supreme court. The boy got a verdict here of $2,600 for injuries while working for Dr. Keller.

The Auburn fair ground was sold at sheriff's sale last Saturday, to satisfy a claim by Mrs. Rosa Saxton. There are other claims that will be tried by the time the year is out.

Miss Alda Larimore, of New Era, has been here a short time visiting the family of J. R. Moody. She is the youngest daughter of Dr. Larimore, well known to the older citizens of Auburn.

We want to make right an unintentional omission. A few weeks ago we spoke of the fine stone work done on the two bridges the county put up in Fairfield township last summer. We commended the plan of getting our own home stone masons to do the work, and spoke of this particular job having been done by Mr. Sodtman. We should have added the names of our two Auburn stone masons, Fred Funk and Geo. Stiebling. Both of these gentlemen worked in laying the stone of these bridges, and it is a good job. We would be pleased to see some arrangement made by which these men could have all the stone to lay for the new bridges that must be put up this year. Give the home men a chance.

Our Art Portfolio.

We have a limited number of those lovely books, "Glimpses of the World's Fair." Each contains 180 fine photo pictures of that many views in the grounds, the buildings, the midway, etc., etc. Cut out and bring in two coupons, No. 1 and No 2, in the COURIER, with 25 cents, and get this book. The books cost us 25 cents besides express, and we let them go to COURIER readers for cost.

THE AUBURN COURIER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....FEBRUARY 15, 1894.

INDIANA has 900 gas wells, and the average pressure per square inch is 315 pounds. A year ago it was 325 pounds.

CLEVELAND'S silver policy may force other nations to come to an agreement as to the universal use of silver as legal tender money.

OUR supreme court has decided that ballots must be marked in voting only as the law directs so that there may be no guess work about it.

CARLISLE had to issue bonds to supply the lack of money caused by the McKinley law, and by enormous appropriations made by republicans.

ABOUT the time gold and silver are reported abundant in Jay county, Prof. Gorby, state geologist, is reported as saying there is not particle of silver in the state. It is difficult to say whether Gorby was right or whether he was drunk.

THE fee and salary law has been pronounced constitutional by the supreme court. This covers the ground as to sheriff's and clerks, but they do not decide as to auditors, treasurers and recorders. The auditors now talk of contesting.

THE purpose of the McKinley Bill was to reduce revenue and turn it into the pockets of private parties. The Wilson bill is a step toward turning the taxes from going into the hands of private parties and giving it to the government.

THE KEARSARGE, old man-of-war that captured the Alabama, was wrecked last week on a reef some distance off the coast of Central America. She was on her way to Honduras to protect American interests there, as they are having revolutions. One life lost.

ATTEMPT to execute a murderer in Mississippi last week by hanging failed because the rope broke. Then the sheriff gave him a much needed rest. The man may have his sentence changed by the governor to imprisonment for life, as many believe him innocent.

THE HOUSE last week passed a resolution to the effect that the president is right in the Hawaiian matter, but asserting that while we have no right to interfere with a friendly nation, and that it would not pay to annex these islands, yet we would not be willing to let any other nation capture them.

MINERS in the Pittsburg coal district were driven off last week by Poles and Hungarians. These foreigners get nearly all this work now. Hence how foolish it is to keep a duty on coal "to protect American workmen," when American workmen are driven from work by cheap foreigners imported free of duty.

SINCE some gold has been found in Indiana, it may be of interest to know that zinc is found in Carroll county, and there is lead in several parts in the south end of the state. Pieces of lead and of copper have been found in the north end, but they were all drifted in from the north or west during the glacial period.

FACTORIES go right on as before in spite of the deadly Wilson bill. Most of the sheep are likely to winter through and produce a crop of wool and the usual number of lambs next spring, in spite of wool going on the free list. We don't know of any industry that will be permanently injured by the bill except the lying of republican editors. That is liable to get a backset.

THE SENATE last Wednesday passed the House bill which repeals all the federal election laws. This does away with the trouble about having U. S. supervisors or marshals at state and county elections. This idea of having marshals etc. at local elections is all nonsense and a useless expense, as we have often shown. But it has been popular with republicans, and later with the populists, because in this way they could make Uncle Sam pay good wages for their local political workers. It occasioned a good deal of trouble, and now and then bloodshed, as these U. S. deputies put on a good deal of airs, and in many cases were selected from the worst element in the place. Besides, each state feels like ours, that its election laws are already well guarded, and are better than any United States election law.

WATERLOO.

Monday we had all day the most severe snow and wild storm of this or many winters.

Ed. Long, of San Diego, Cal., has been back here last week. He reported all well out there.

Mrs. J. E. M. Hodge drove over to Waterloo Wednesday afternoon of last week to call upon Mrs. Winslow.

The L. M. C. held their meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Morell. A fine program was presented.

Services will commence in the U. B. church the first of the week, conducted by Rev. Fink, and will be protracted if successful.

Mrs. John Thomas was taken very suddenly ill last week and when we heard last was critically so. She has been out of health for several years past.

The members of the Epworth League gave a chicken pie social Saturday evening in the Abbey block. The evening was unpleasant to go out in, yet there was a good attendance under the circumstances, and those who went were furnished an excellent supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Beck took the body of the latter's mother to Smithfield for burial Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 30. The deceased had been with her daughter for some time and had not been in good health. Mr. Beck, himself, has been in poor health for some weeks.

Services will be held this entire week in the Presbyterian church. The pastor, Dr. H. B. Fry, invites a general attendance. Rev J. L. Leeper assists in the work. Monday the prospect looked gloomy, as the weather was too severe to expose our health, unless positively compelled to do so, but Tuesday the sky was blue, the sun bright and warm, and the snow commencing to melt.

Last Thursday evening was stormy, but did not deter a goodly number from assembling at the hall of "Leonidas Lodge" for the banquet and exercises connected therewith. The ladies were mistresses of ceremonies and looked very stately in their gorgeous robes, which were very becoming. Mrs. Plum gave the address of welcome, Miss Nettie Chamberlain had a paper, and possibly there were others. Lawyer Shuman gave a toast "What is Man Without Woman?" which was responded to by Mrs. Emma Keen, "What is Woman Without Man?" A box supper was prepared and thoroughly enjoyed. Indeed, the evening throughout seems to have been an unusually happy one.

BUTLER.

Florence Campbell was very sick last Sabbath with something akin to grip.

Lincoln Everetts has returned from the hospital apparently himself again.

Christopher Keller, of Concord has retired from farming and removed to Butler.

The basket factory is still crowded with orders, and is running as many men as there is room to work.

The U. B. friends are about to recommence a very successful revival that they have just closed, owing to an apparent demand for its continuance.

Frank Creager, living two miles northeast of town, came near losing his new residence by fire a few mornings since, caused by a spark from the stove. Insured in the Hartford.

The M. E. Sunday school is growing in members and interest. Bro. Linkenfelter seems to be the right man in the right place. The church is also well attended and all in all seems to be in a very flourishing condition.

The Deeters murder trial at Angola will be the all abiorbing matter of interest to many of our people for some time to come. The defense has summoned about forty of the citizens of this vicinity to appear as witnesses to prove mainly that he was non compos mentis. We await the result with considerable interest.

The revival at the Christian church under the leadership of Charles A. Scovill, of this place, and Thomas, of Angola, continues with unabated interest. Some sixty are reported as having been converted to their faith. May the good work go on until there will not be a Sunday street loafer nor a gambling saloon on the fair streets of our beautiful little city.

Bro. Smith of the Record is away visiting his parents in the south part of of the state, and rumor has it that he will bring back with him one of southern Indiana's fair daughters. As an evidence of something of the kind, he had no sooner departed than the girls in his office commenced a systematic house cleaning. The office now presents the appearance of a ladies' bazar in one of our prosperous cities.

GARRETT.

Did you get a valentine?

Washington's birthday next.

Sam. Stark was at Kimmel last week.

Mrs. Myers was at Butler last week.

Mrs. Alma Helm is visiting at Bremen.

Col. E. B. Alsbaugh, was in Chicago last week.

Mrs. J. W. Stoner is having a wrestle with the grip.

Fred Wilhelm, of Indianapolis is visit- relatives here.

Attend the charity ball at the opera house Feb 22.

Howard Carpenter, of Chicago, was in the city Thursday.

Joe Maloney and Howard Depew were at Albion last week.

Forest Robbins spent Sunday with his parents at Cromwell.

The Republican is publishing a list of the old settlers of Garrett.

Mrs. Beeber was visiting relatives in Concord township last week.

Earl Lawrence, of South Chicago, was in the city several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. P C. Sneed are the happy parents of a ten pound baby boy.

D. B. Phillips made some improvements on his residence property last week.

Mrs. Gordon, of Auburn, was in the city last week, the guest of Mrs. Sid. Clark.

Chris. Beehler is walking around with the aid of a cane. He is troubled with salt rheum.

Sam. Gordon, of Tipton, Iowa, is visiting his uncle, Frank Gordon and family, of this city.

Attorneys Gengler and Crumbaker went to Corunna Monday to be present at a law suit.

Master Charley Gard, son of Engineer Henry Gard, fell and broke his arm while skating Saturday.

J. M. Mahoney, of Abrams & Dawson's cigar factory, spent Sunday and Monday with friends in Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. Chas. Lindoerfer return d home Saturday after a week's visit with her parents at Norwalk, Ohio.

Mrs. C. B. James has returned from North Manchester where she has been assisting in a revival meeting.

Switchman N Walters had his finger mashed while coupling cars one day last week. Amputation was necessary

Miss Maud Sembower entertained a number of her friends at her pleasant home on Cowen street Saturday evening.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. James Curran died last week and was buried in the Catholic cemetery at Auburn Friday.

Rev A. L. Lamport, who has been confined to his bed for the past two weeks with an attack of the grip, is improving.

By looking over the Kendallville News one would not think that Dr Parker was a very warm admirer of the Hon W. F. McNagny.

Rev. Bridge, of Waterloo, occupied the pulpit at the Methodist church here Sunday evening. He is a very entertaining speaker.

The Daughters of Rebekah of this city went to Albion Wednesday night to organize a lodge. About thirty-five were in attendance and they report having a very pleasant time.

Conductor James Duncan, of Chicago Junction, Ohio, who has been ill with the grip at the residence of his son-in-law, M. Connors, of this place, is greatly improved and was able to leave for his home last week.

The wrestling match this, Thursday, evening at Clark's hall under the direction of the Garrett Athletic Association will be the event of the season. It is between W. D. Linville, of this city, and James Morgan, of Cincinnati, for $50.

The Red Men's Band are making arrangements to play "Mugg's Landing," a southern comedy, at the opera house in the near future. W. J. Martin, we understand, is instructing the company and it goes without saying that if Mr. Martin is at the head of any theatrical performance, it will be first class. Dates will be given later.

The citizens of Garrett will give a charity ball on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22. The proceeds will go to the poor of the city. Lend encouragement to such a worthy cause by your presence. Prof. Moore's orchestra has kindly consented to furnish the music free of charge, and our printing offices will do what work they can gratis.

We walked into a certain business house in this place one evening last week and while we were conversing with one of the clerks, a ragged, dirty man entered. After depositing a large amount of tobacco spit on the clean floor he walked over to the desk and espied two newspapers lying there—the Clipper and Republican. He picked up the former and glanced over it a minute and with a look of contempt on his face he flung it down, exclaiming "That 'ere paper dont amount to shucks," and picking up the latter, scanned the contents and laid it down saying, "An' this is a blamed sight worse. I never took a county paper in my life and don't intend to. We can learn all the news of this 'ere county without paying out our hard earned money for such stuff." Now, let us recall a little instance. This same man came up town one stormy day last week cursing what luck had befallen him. He told what a big day's work he had laid out for that day with his team, but on account of the bad weather he could not do it. The next day was pleasant, and so was the next, but he managed to lay around town all day doing nothing. We will wager that if a three-card-monte man, a "gold brick" man or any other swindler would come along this individual would be the first one to bite. Such people are always the ones who "get the harpoon run into them."

WANTED SALESMEN to sell a choice line of NURSERY STOCK and SEED POTATOES. LIBERAL SALARY or COMMISSION PAID WEEKLY. PERMANENT and PAYING POSITIONS to GOOD MEN. SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS to BEGINNERS. EXCLUSIVE TERRITORY GIVEN IF DESIRED. Write at once for terms to THE HAWKS NURSERY CO, Rochester, N. Y.

THE MONOGRAPH FOR ONE DOLLAR

And Your Opinion on This Subject.

What is the best Monetary system for the United States? This is the greatest problem confronting the American people. It is the intention of the publishers that "The Monograph" shall contain the best thought of the nation on this question. The recognized leaders in all political parties have been called upon to contribute plans for their ideal Monetary System. But not content with this, we are determined to embody in the same volume the opinions of thousands of the "Great Common People," and to that end we will allow two dollars on the price of the book for your solution of this problem expressed in not more than 500 words. The Monograph, the best modern work on Monetary Systems, will be sent to any address on receipt of $2.00. It is a book that will interest and instruct and is destined to become a giant factor in shaping the future monetary system of the nation.

THE MONOGRAPH PUBLISHING COMPANY,
7-11 Room 44, German Am'n B'k Building, St Paul, Minn.
Reference by permission, Nat'l German Am'n Bank.

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss.

In the DeKalb circuit court December term, 1893. Grace Watkins is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, by George Watkins for divorce, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 22d juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 5, 1894.

Witness, the Clerk of said court, this 26th day of January, 1894.

D. D. MOODY, Clerk.

J. F. Shuman, Att'y. 5-7

1,000,000 Wanted Circulars, Newspapers, pamphlets, Samples, Drugs, Etc., for distribution in eight leading counties of northern Indiana. Best of service guaranteed. Consignments received at all times.

10,000 Agents Wanted to place their names in our Agents' and Manufacturers' Directory, which goes whirling to reliable agents and manufacturers in 34 states in the Union, and Nova Scotia. Your name inserted for 25 Cents. Best scheme out! Try it now! Get your name before the public! Address with stamp,
Auburn Advertising & Distribut'g Agency, Box 437, Auburn, Indiana.
Mention this paper when you write.

Every Lady in Auburn

Is requested to call on her druggist and try a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the great guaranteed remedy for coughs, colds and all lung and throat troubles. It is as sweet and pleasant to take as chewing gum or candy and the price is only 25 cents. It is selling entirely upon its own merits, and is guaranteen or money refunded by all druggists.

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough. Remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by all druggists.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of Wm. Knight et al, Union, Jackson and Concord townships, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb county, state of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view, which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Friday, the 9th day of March term, 1894, of Commissioners' court.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to-wit:

Beginning 1300 feet south and 100 feet west of the southeast corner of the west half of the southeast quarter of section eight (8) township thirty three (33) north and of range fourteen (14) east in DeKalb county, state of Indiana, and from thence as follows:

North 38° east	140 feet
east	60 feet
south 55° east	100 feet
south 35° east	200 feet
south 53° east	780 feet
south 31½° east	200 feet
south 48° east	100 feet
south 79½° east	500 feet
south 46½° east	300 feet
north 84° east	500 feet
north 42° east	100 feet
north 51½° east	600 feet
north 47° east	100 feet
south 7° east	300 feet
south 17° east	200 feet
south 51½° west	200 feet
south 24° west	700 feet
south 11° west	200 feet
south 11° east	200 feet
south 49° east	400 feet
south 51½° east	100 feet
south 63½° east	300 feet
south 81° east	100 feet
north 79° east	200 feet
north 41° east	100 feet
north	300 feet
north 82° east	200 feet
south 55° east	200 feet
south 7° east	400 feet
south 43° east	300 feet
south 63° east	400 feet
east	400 feet
north 15° east	500 feet
north 47° east	1200 feet
south 27° east	1100 feet
south 35° east	500 feet
south 7° east	700 feet
east	400 feet
north 25° east	200 feet
north 81° east	300 feet
north 39° east	100 feet
north 6° east	1000 feet
north 3° east	400 feet
east	300 feet
north 54° east	300 feet
north 78° east	600 feet
south 18° east	200 feet
north 85° east	400 feet
east	700 feet
south 20° east	700 feet
south 80° west	300 feet
south	550 feet
south 37° west	150 feet
south 35° west	400 feet
south 80° west	1150 feet
south 55° west	1050 feet
south 20° west	765 feet
TOTAL	22,365 feet

Ending in the St Joe River 200 feet south and 900 feet west of the southeast corner of the southwest quarter of section fifteen (15) of the township and range before mentioned

And also the following Lateral:

Commencing at junction of Saylor and Koch drains, said point being 40 rods north and 50 rods east of the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of section nine (9) of said Concord township, said county and state, and from thence as follows:

South 64° west	215 feet
north 89° west	610 feet
south 83° west	200 feet
south 40° west	675 feet
south	1695 feet
TOTAL	3395 feet

Ending in the main ditch twenty-five (25) feet below station eight (8)

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Cyrus Maurer, Malefus A. High, Mary E. High, Amos L. Sebert, John Carper and Philip Cobbler, John C Crasher, Henry E. Sebert, Mathew George heirs, viz: Mary George, Emeline George, Florence Sebert and Adah Maurer; Marshall Owens heirs, viz: Julia McDowell, Della McIntosh and Dessie Carter; John C. Owens, John Lutz heirs viz: Elizabeth Lutz and Stephen Lutz; Mary E Brown Jacob E Morr, Enoch Morr, Albert Robbins Viola E McClellan, Adam Prosser, John A. McClellan, Charles Williams, George W. Osborne, Burton Brown, John Carper, Daniel Magginis, Permelia McClellan or Eunice Zeigler, Catharine Grube, David Kutzner, Henry T Harner, Elizabeth McClellan, James H Farver, Olive Nelson, James Provines, Lewis Walters, Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad ompany, Jacob Somers Daniel Welsh, Mitchell Banes, John Miser, Lovina Magginis, Jacob Magginis and Minnie Magginis, Caleb Neal, Isaac Farver heirs, viz: John Farver, James Farver, Lemuel Farver, Rebbeca Means, Christena Wastler and perhaps others unknown; Julian Strebe, Alexander Provines sr, Alexander Provines jr, John P. Moore, Henry Hines, Richard Elson trustee of William Elson, Joseph J. Walter and Mirandy Walter, Jacob B. Coy and Mariah L. Coy, Elmer E. Walter, Rebecca Jetmore, Rufus E. Strong and Evaline J Strong, William Prosser, George W. Hamilton Lucien Provines, Milas Brown, Aaron Carper, Henry Hines, and others names unknown, John A. Hamilton, David J. Rowe, John H. Farver and Malinda Farver, Alexander Culbertson, Alexander and Deeta Culbertson, Eliza A. George, John George, Martha J. George, James C. George and John George, Milas Brown, John W Lawhead and Sarah M Lawhead, Samuel George, Daniel Shilling, Abraham Culbertson Daniel Moor, Rebecca Lontzenheiser, Allen M Baughman, William Wise and Minerva Wise, Effa A. Carter, Jemima C. Moore, Daniel Wyatt, William Johnson, Uriah Johnson, Michael Wagoner, Catharine Wagner, William Johnson and Rebecca Johnson, George W. Layman, Philip Layman, Nathan Johnson, Samuel J Tarney, Nancy C. Cobbler, Nancy Wastler, John Wastler heirs, viz: Martha Wastler, Carrie Wastler, Oliver Wastler, Eli Wastler, William Wastler, Alva Wastler, Cora Wastler, Birdie Wastler, Salome Wastler Della Wastler, George Wastler, Ethel Wastler, Ora Wastler Ida Boren and William Boren; Curtis Wastler, William Johnson, Oliver B. Wastler, Henry Prosser, Morris Boren, Henry W. Long, Francis M Hines, John Strong, Solomon Shearer and Israel Shearer heirs names unknown, Solomon Shearer, Samuel Stafford, Rosa Crabill, Cyrus A. Crabill, Mary Provines, Mary J. Stafford, Aaron W. Osborn, August Bartels, the heirs of Frederick Peters names unknown, Elias Wastler and Emma Wastler, George W Swander and Esther Swander Samuel Osborn, the heir of John Osborn names unknown, William Carr, John D Essig, John G. Miller, Charles Bartels, Augustus Bartels, John F. Reed, Ellen Reed, John Steffin, Elizabeth Essig John D Essig et al. names unknown, Norman J Shaffer et al. names unknown, Catharine Shondell, Charles Gerber, Margaret Penland, Christian S. Wastler, Ernest C. Peters, Isaac Farver, Stephen M. Davis heirs, viz: Charles Davis, Samuel Davis, Conn Davis, Pearl Davis and Zetta Davis; Alexander Davis, James and Lovina Dove, Michael Friend, Mathias Shondell, Henry Wilks, Benjamin Moffatt, Nathan Squires, Labah A. Brown, Josiah L Farver, John H Farver, Thomas Phillips, George Houk heirs names unknown, Thomas Stafford, John W. Tarney et al names unknown, Ann Tarney, Samuel Stafford, Willis Bishop, Elizabeth Bishop, Samuel M. High Lorenzo D. Nelson, William L. Nelson, Silas H Nugen, John Amstutz, Annie Loehner, Benjamin F Hilkey, Frederick Bartels, James F Hollopeter, R. Smith Bailey, Ernest Peters, Caroline Lindoerfer, Peter Babbit Jeremiah F. Davis, Alexander Davis, Silas Franks and Alice Franks, John G. Hoodelmyer, Joseph Lingard, James E. Cooper, Charles F. Wingard, Mary Brown, John Brown et al. names unknown Sarah Lanham et al. names unknown, Daniel Miller and Mahala Miller, William Clark heirs, viz: Mrs. Wm. Clark, Susan Funk Mrs George Fulk, Ida Foster, Almira Krise, William G. Magginis Joseph E. Miller and Julia J. Miller; John C. Weeks heirs, viz: Lydia Weeks, James C. Weeks and Martha Weeks; Myrtilla Knepper, Andrew E. Jackson William Saylor, Joseph Koch, William Kruse, Thomas Kruse, John M. Koch, Jackson Township, Concord Township, Levi Showalter, Margaret Ulm James W. May, James W. May and wife, Christian Smith, Isaac N. Wyatt, James Johnson, Ira W. Watt, Hugh and Margaret Watt Ira W. and Curtis Watt, Matilda J Bay, Isaac N Hoenberger heirs names unknown, Sidney Brown, John C. St. Clair, Daniel W. and Jacob Baker, John Lutz, Stephen Lutz, Elizabeth Johnson, Isaac Hague, Robert Culbertson, Ruth Hague, Julia L. Johnson, James Dragoo, James Hennessey, Riley M. Johnson, Winfield Scott, George W. Dragoo, Sarah C. Morr, Joseph A. Ferrill heirs names unknown, Carrie O. Morr, Josephine Morr, Lucinda Rohm, Samuel Morr, George W. and Peter Morr, "Herman L. Brown, Calvin H. Brown guar" Sarah Smurr, Elizabeth J Huston, Willis E. Brown, Tertullus H. Elson, James Johnson, George Barney, James Baker heirs, viz: Barbara A. Baker, Daniel W. Baker, Jacob Baker, Joseph Baker, Henry Baker, John Baker, Mrs Nelson Testison and others unknown, Ira Rickett, James W May and H. E. May, William Knight, Susannah Fetters or Jay J. Vanausdal, Reuben J. Koch, John Fetters, James Knight heirs names unknown and Francis J. Hoffman, Nancy A. Hoffman, Jacob B White, Thomas Ricketts, Henry J. Shafer trustee of Wm. D. Johnson estate, Henry Jenkins, John D Smith, Mary J. Saylor, Thomas E. White, Erastus White, Salena J. Smith, M. V. E. Johnson, Christian Curtis, William and S. A. Betty, Franklin Herrick, Jeremiah Ulm, John Engle, John and Jacob D. Leighty, William L. Hollabaugh, George Hamm, Oliver H. Widney, Nelson Testison Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, George W. and Martha A. woodcox Samuel L. and John widney, Sabra Miller, Florence Buchanan, Samuel G. Brown, Owen W Summell, Winfield Scott, James B. Gilbford, Israel Wyatt, Richard and Alma Ervin, James Ricketts, Delilah Dragoo, Henry Baker, Abraham Darling, Philip Layman, James B. Dragoo John Bull, Philetus A. Shirts, James Ervin, George W. Layman, Frederick Morr, Christopher Curle and Henry W. Bowman, Matilda Milton, Catharine Link, Lewis Howey, William L. Nelson, Theodore Kline, John R. Gill and Solomon Shilling

HERMAN N. COFFINBERRY,
Auditor DeKalb County.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE COURIER.

F. J. YESBERA,

The AUBURN JEWELER,

—IS OFFERING GREAT BARGAINS IN—

WATCHES and CLOCKS,

JEWELRY AND SILVERWARE

DON'T FAIL TO GET HIS PRICES

BEFORE PURCHASING ELSEWHERE.

At Abright's Old Stand.

TIME TABLE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

GOING EAST.

Boston Express	5:23 am—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:30 pm ex Su
New York Limited	7:35 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation	7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:38 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)	7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticke Agent.
CHAS M HAYS Gen'l Manager.
F CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein John W. Fieldhouse is plaintiff and Gilbert McIntosh, Alta McIntosh and John W. Seiler are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of three hundred eighty-three dollars and five cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, March 3d, 1894,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the court house, of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Lots numbered four [4] five [5] and six [6] in Lockhart's first addition to the town of Waterloo, all situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and cost, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation and appraisement laws.

G. G. RALSTON, Sheriff of DeKalb County.
By R. Blum Deputy.
Auburn, Indiana, Feb. 7th, A. D. 1894.
Delos Weaver Attorney for Plaintiff.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of Henry Emme, of Union township, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb County, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Friday, the 9th day of March, 1894, the same being the 5th day of their March term, 1894, of Commissioners' court.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to wit:

Beginning forty-nine (49) rods south of the northeast corner of the west half of the northwest quarter of section twenty-six (26) of Union township, in DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence as follows:

North	2100 feet
west	1580 feet
Total	3700 feet

Ending in the Nancy J Blodgett ditch 300 feet west of the southwest corner of the northwest fourth of the southwest quarter of section twenty-three (23) of said Union township before mentioned.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Henry D. C Emme and Wilhelmine Emme, Morton Wilson and Fannie wilson, Levi J. Walsworth, heirs of John Springer Catharine Springer, Joseph Springer Melvin Springer wm Sherwood, Lyman Lockwood, — Sanders, Philo J. Lockwood or Augustus Thomas Mathias Zirwes or wm. Armstrong, Edward Baughman, Daniel Altenberg and E. T. Metcalf, Owen Hensinger, The Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific Railway Co Union township

H. S. COFFINBERRY,
Auditor DeKalb County.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE.—In Effect Nov. 19, 1893.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne....dp	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 23	5 26	7 48
Auburn	12 29	5 30	8 37
Waterloo	12 43	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 56	5 53	9 45
Steubenville	12 59	5 57	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 05	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 14	6 14	10 50
Jackson	1 20	6 25	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson....dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 am
Angola	12 25 pm	2 08 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 05	2 20	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 27	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 32	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 34
Auburn	3 13	3 11	9 34
Auburn Junc.	3 38	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address R. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad,

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Jan. 14, 1894.

WEST-BOUND.

Stations—
Bellaire....lv	a m *7.28	p m *11.47	a m 9.51	p m *3.46	.....
Zanesville	9.58	a m 2.11	p m *12.29	p m 6.20	a m 6.25
Newark....ar	10.45	2.50	1.12	7.06	7.15
Columbus....ar	p m 12.06	3.50	2.15	8.15	8.25
Mansfield....lv	12.39	.....	a m	9.00

BISHOP & LACKEY.

EVERY Lady Reader of the COURIER should read this announcement and profit thereby. Profit in a twofold sense—

Our Great Sensation Sale of Ladies' Muslin Underwear.

Positively for 13 days only, commencing

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1894.

A Discount of 10 per cent off of regular prices for this sale.

We bought an immense stock of these goods from a manufacturer who was badly in need of money' and we have marked them to sell at very low prices.

With 10 per cent off, you get them at less than the cost of manufacture.

OUR GREAT SENSATION SALE OF DRY GOODS

Was an Immense Success. From all over DeKalb County discriminating buyers have come and have been highly pleased with our Genuine Bargains. The people appreciate 25 yards Good Muslin for $1.

WE LEAD; OTHERS FOLLOW. Terms Cash, One Price to All.

BISHOP & LACKEY,

North Farmers Bank, Auburn, Indiana.

SEE

D. A. HODGE

For the Holiday Trade,

We have on display the most complete line of

WATCHES, DIAMONDS & JEWELRY

In the City. Handsome Novelties in

SILVERWARE.

Inspect our line before purchasing!

Dr. James Adams,

VETERINARY SURGEON

Will treat all Diseases of Domestic Animals. He has had THIRTY YEARS successful PRACTICE. Call on him at his residence No. 34, North Main street, or at ROBBINS & McCORD'S Drug Store

Dr. F. M. Hines, Physician and SURGEON.

Office over J. C. HENRY'S Grocery, in the Ford Block,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ RESIDENCE, at the Samuel Swihart residence on South Jackson St. near the Church Furniture factory, and just across west from the German Methodist church. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

P. P. P. C.

Positive Painless Pile Cure.

The most complete, practicable and painless method of treating all curable diseases of the rectum ever placed before the public. Piles are permanently cured in a few weeks by the use of this treatment. Fissure, Catarrh, Inflammation Ulceration, Prolapsus, Constipation, Bleeding, Blind and ITCHING PILES are cured itself, by magic. I claim the most complete, successful, simple and original common sense method ever offered to the suffering public. Your correspondence solicited.

S. U. TARNEY

sole Proprietor and Manufacturer Auburn, Ind

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathews & Gerke.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.—

—$40,000.00.

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Cashier.

Auburn Iron Works,

REPAIRS

All kinds of Machinery, Boilers, Engines Saw Mills, and

BUILDS FOR THE TRADE:

Pony Saw Mills, Edgers, Rip Saws, Swing Saws, Mounted Picket Mills, Brass Castings Brass Fittings, Pipe and Pipe Fittings, Furnished. All Work

Warranted First-Class in All Respects.

☞ Shop One-half mile south of Wabash Depot, AUBURN, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

A Magnet--The Auburn Cyclery.

The coming event. The entertainment given by the Auburn musical club.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Take a good square look at Olds Brothers' new ad. It means business.

Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, the nerve cure, sells for $1 at F. E Davenport's.

The Auburn Musical club will give a miscellaneous musical entertainment Friday evening, Feb. 23.

Of 73 pupils in one of our school rooms but 19 were present on Monday. The blizzard kept them nearer home.

If you don't want to break a 50, buy a 25 cent bottle of Brant's Balsam of ns and stop that cough. Sure cure F. E. Davenport.

The exquisite lines in Willard Pepple's obituary last week, were written by our talented friend, Mrs. Julia E. M, Hodge. It is a gem.

Don't fail to attend the great sensation sale at Bishop & Lackey's. See ad. on page 5. This sale will be continued a few days longer.

Cleveland Bicycles are Leaders wherever known. 8 and 11 are the popular models for 1894, and same may be seen at the Auburn Cyclery.

Elmer Spake, who has moved back to Auburn, has bought an interest in Frank Rush's tin shop, and he and Mr. Rush will push the business this season.

Harry Hallam came down from Bryan Sunday on the morning train from Butler, and spent the day here, returning in the evening. He says the "Press" is busy and doing well.

Everybody has a "sure cure" for the grip, but the best thing we know of is Kessler Bros.' Receipt.

Program of Auburn Musical for Feb 19: piano selections, Mrs. Lanning; original paper, Flora Hoffman; song, Mrs. Garwood; piano solo, Miss Snyder; "Bogie man," Mr. Widney; quartet led by Mr. Brown.

FOR SALE:—Will sell at a reduced figure, for the want of room, three or four of my High Bred Holstein-Friesian heifers, one and two years old, or will trade for fresh cows. A. G. Lodewick, Auburn, Ind.

Miss Julia Emanuel, of Ft. Wayne has been for a few days a guest in the family of her uncle, Charles Emanuel. She is a daughter of his oldest brother, Appelles Emanuel, who resided in Antwerp, Ohio, but died in 1876.

The groundhog could see his shadow easily Feb. 2, and according to tradition we should have no more sunshine, or at least no nice weather for six weeks. But we have since then had several very fine spring like days. The groundhog as a weather prophet is a failure.

Jesse Blake, who lives near Laporte, celebrated his 81st year, Feb 2. Some of the people of DeKalb know him, as he is an uncle of Trustee James Blake, of Smithfield, and of F. K. Blake, of Chicago. Uncle Jesse is one of the solid farmers of Laporte county and highly regarded.

Cal. Husselman has paid over that judgment of $775 and the costs, and now Hank Little is a bloated capitalist. He never had so much money before in all his life. Business men need not avoid him now for a few days, for as long as this lasts we presume he will not ask them for quarters and halves.

Mr. C. F. Davis, editor of the Bloomfield, Iowa, Farmer, says: "I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all sufferers with colds and croup. I have used it in my family for the past two years and have found it the best I ever used for the purpose for which it is intended." 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

In these cold and blustery days when work is slack and money tight, there is nothing that will give a greater return for the money expended than the Young America, made by Kessler Bros.

The editor of the Butler Record is mistaken in some of the salaries of our county officers. The clerk, auditor and recorder are still getting fees under the old law After the first of next November when a new auditor goes into office, he will get his salary under the new law. The clerk and recorder do not come under the new salary law till two years later, or rather their successors will.

Rev. Mr. Colvin preached two acceptable sermons at the Presbyterian church Sunday. That in the evening was for young men, and was most appropriate. At its close Mrs Sadie Yeshera sang "Where is my boy to-night?" The song is in itself an exquisite little gem, and it was so sweetly given by the singer that many were visibly affected. We would be pleased to have had about a hundred Auburn parents there to hear it.

Charlie McDonald, ye local and general utility man on the Ligonier Banner, was here Monday. He came up to settle some old tax matters connected with the old Wyllis Griswold property in which his wife has an interest. Charlie has developed into a live newspaper man and has been with his brother, J. E. McDonald, on the Banner for several years. At times, such as the meeting of the legislature, when his brother has to attend to his duties as state senator, Charlie "takes the run" of the entire paper, and it "goes," and the Banner is always good.

Alex. Kinmont and wife, who have been at Albion, Mich., since last March, were here a few days last week, looking over things at the old home town. They returned on Tuesday to Angola to spend a day with his sister, there, and yesterday returned to their home. They still have a warm feeling for the many old friends in Auburn, though Albion is a nice town and very busy manufacturing center. Their son, B. F. Kinmont, has been there since July, '92, being established in the drug business, and doing well The Auburn friends will wish them all success.

Garrett Republican—Don E. Lawrence and Holly S. Lawrence were paid $250 each, by Dr. Hughes last Friday, for the death of their father, George R. Lawrence, a former B. & O. employe and the past four years a pensioner of the company. * * * L. B. Fretz, of the AUBURN COURIER, was over last Monday and made this office a pleasant call. * * * Mr. and Mrs. Cloy were called to Auburn last week to attend the funeral of Mr. Cloy's father. * * * Criminals cost a county a vast sum of money; more than most people have any idea. It has cost Elkhart county $19,613 06 to prosecute the murderers of Arthur Brown. Of this sum the state paid $10,000 Crime is rapidly on the increase and thoughtful people are inquiring what is to be the final result? Study the question.

See the news on inside pages.

Smoke the K. & B. ten-cent cigar.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Short Stop Headache Powders. No Cure, No Pay. Sold only by Robbins & McCord. 6tf

☞ WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

The great sensational sale at Bishop & Lackey's continues and is a grand success.

☞ BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

Don't fail to hear the chorus of forty voices at the entertainment given by the Auburn musical club.

The district meeting of the Union Central Life Insurance Co is being held here now, the 14th, 15th and 16th.

Dr. Johnston, dentist, has the new method of filling teeth without pain, as well as painless extraction of teeth.

It's all the same, a slight cold, congested lungs or severe cough. One Minute Cough Cure banishes them. 4tf

The Eagle Iron Works at the Junction were sold last Friday by Receiver Hanna, and bid off by W. H. Leas, of Waterloo.

Frank Teeters has been appointed administrator of the estate of of the late Thomas Cochran. The choice is a good one.

STOVE FOR SALE. A good heating stove almost new, best kind of a base burner, wood stove. Price reasonable. Call at this office.

The meeting of the Auburn Business Men, or Commercial Club, is to night at 7:30 at the court room. Let all business men come out.

It not only relieves; it does more, it cures. We refer to One Minute Cough Cure. Suitable for all ages, all conditions, at all times. 4tf

To cure all nervous troubles and diseases Dr Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is pronounced the greatest medical discovery of the age. Free trial bottles at F. E. Davenport's

Thursday evening of last week gave us the heaviest rainfall for six months. It began toward evening, slow at first, and then harder, keeping up a steady downpour all night.

No better aid to digestion.
No better cure for dyspepsia.
Nothing more reliable for biliousness and constipation than DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. 4tf

The St. Joe News is once more in the hands of M. E. Olds. The two young men who ran it three or four weeks, could not make it win.

Frank Depew, who has been out in the Indian Territory with his father for four or five years, is back here again. He expects to remain here.

For pains in the chest there is nothing better than a flannel cloth saturated with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

T. F. Anthony, ex-postmaster of Promise City, Iowa, says: "I bought one bottle of Mystic Cure, and two doses of it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took." Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Ind.

When sore oppressed by brooding care, and mind and body long for rest; then is the time for a quiet smoke, and Kessler's Bill Heads are the best.

Now is the time when your catarrhal trouble begins to annoy and wreck the Respiratory and Nervous systems. Drs Nusbaum & Nusbaum cure what they promise. Rooms especially fitted to treat diseases of nose and throat. Also diseases of women.

Many homes would be happier if mother was cured of her terrible headaches and nervous troubles, Write Mrs. G. K. Watts, Brandywine, Va, with stamp, to learn how she suffered agonies for six years and was cured by Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer in six weeks, or ask F. E. Davenport.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY:—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits 75 cts. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn. tf

For latest novelties, most artistic and beautifully finished pictures, any size, or pictures neatly and correctly framed, patronize J. G. Clapp, leader and dealer only in pictures and their fixtures.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

The Deeters case was started up in the Angola court Monday. Sixty men have been drawn to make up a jury. There is one good side to this change of venue business, and that is this: A jury can likely be made up much easier in Angola than in Auburn. At least we hope so. The case will be fought over inch by inch when it does get started. The prosecution is in the hands of Judge McClellan and Prosecutor Butler, assisted, we are told, by J. F. Shuman of Waterloo. The defense is by W. L. Penfield, of Auburn, R. P. Barr, of Kendallville, and Croxton & Powers, of Angola.

Ligonier Banner—Last Thursday night at about midnight John L Cavin was awakened by the bellowing of his cow. He noticed an unusual light and at once divined that his barn was on fire. Without waiting to dress he rushed through the snow and at once liberated the cow and untying the horse saved the animals. He then got the buggy out. In the meantime the whole upper part of the structure was in flames The fire which was of incendiary origin had been started in the hay mow and dropping down had set the bedding under the cow on fire. The cow was badly burned on the belly and legs, but the horse was uninjured. The barn with the grain and hay was a total loss. Mr. Cavin was fortunate in having a good insurance. At one time it was thought Dr. Shobe's barn across the alley would burn, but the fire department responded soon enough to protect the adjoining buildings.

The State Conference of Charities.

The railroads have made a rate of 1⅓ fare for the round trip to persons desiring to attend the Conference which is to be held at Terre Haute Feb. 20-22. Reduced rate tickets will be good going on the 19th and 20th and returning not later than the 23d. Those going to the Conference should ask ticket agents for the reduced rates.

The Press at its old Tricks.

Bro. Willis of the Press devotes about a column to the COURIER in its last issue. This is an excellent and highly respectable subject, and shows the editor's good taste. But when he says "the COURIER supports and defends county extravagance, high taxes, and enormous debt," we object, for this is false, and the Press editor knew it when he wrote it. It is not the first time Bro. Willis has strayed from the truth to attempt to make a point. We challenge him to show proof. Take down your bible if you have one, and turn to that much ignored verse that says "Thou shalt not bear false witness."

* * *

Then again the Press objects to the bridge expense. We have often said this expense was very great. And we have also said that it often happened that the parties who helped to force this expense on the county, were the first to complain. Waterloo has three very expensive bridge locations right by its borders, and in the past fifteen years two or three bridges, some of them very expensive, have been erected in each place because Bro. Willis and the men he says are with him in this complaint, insisted the work should be done. One of these bridges is to be rebuilt this year. There is no spot of the size, in the county that has cost more money for bridges. Why does not the Press complain? The COURIER does not complain. Why? Because the bridges gave out, and had to be replaced. They were needed. The COURIER had no ax to grind. It had no political end to secure. It had no commissioner who had stopped his paper, and if we had, we hope we have the manliness not to let such a small matter warp our judgment.

* * *

The Press asks us to explain how a county official has knives to give away at the county expense. We can't. We never heard of such a thing. If the Press has, it should have the courage to tell who it is. The nearest we ever heard of such a thing was several years ago, when Geo. M Crane, one of the "honest men" the Press helped to elect in 1886, was recorder. It is stated that he said to another county officer, "if you will give Burford an order you will get a gold pen." That is the last we have heard of such doings. Will the Press name the man it refers to?

* * *

There are several very small-spirited personal flings in the Press' article, leveled at the editor of this paper, the most which are false, and all of which would not have been used by any but a man of exceedingly small soul and babyish notions. We mention but one and care nothing for even that. He says "the COURIER is not interested in taxes, as it owns no real estate," etc., etc. If the Press had not been very anxious to tell a falsehood, it would have examined the books of the treasurer, auditor, etc. where he could have found that, not only is the COURIER an owner of real estate, but that its taxes have never been delinquent. This is too small a matter to discuss. The editor of the Press may enjoy publishing falsehoods, but he never had the manliness to take it back when exposed.

Prohibition Mass Convention.

The prohibitionists of DeKalb county and other persons who desire to unite in organized opposition to the legalized liquor traffic are called to meet in mass convention at the court house at Auburn, Wednesday, the 28 day of February, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m., to nominate candidates for the various county offices to be elected at the ensuing election; to select state delegates to the state convention at Indianapolis, March 15, 1894; also to select delegates to the senatorial and judicial convention to be hereafter called, and to transact such other business as may come before the convention. At the close of the business the convention will be addressed by the Rev. James P. Pinkham, of Iowa. CHARLES ECKHART, Chairman Co. Com.

Schaab Brothers.

This wideawake firm comes forth in to-day's COURIER with some very valuable and interesting statements which should be carefully noted. The one to which we would especially call attention relates to their special sales. They say, "each week we shall offer rare bargains in one of our departments." And they start the ball rolling by commencing this week in their department of "domestics," a line of goods that will surely be popular these hard times. Just look at their prices. Then see what they say about their "cloak sale." It is astonishing. Call at the store and find out all about it.

Notice of Directors Election.

Notice is hereby given that the biannual meeting of lot owner of Evergreen cemetery will be held in Gandy's Hall, Auburn, Ind., on Friday evening, March 2, at 7 o'clock, for the election of five directors of said association for the ensuing two years, and for the transaction of other business. All delinquents on assessments not wishing to be reported to this meeting should call on the secretary before that date. By order of board.

S. B. JOHNSTON, President,
R. MCDONALD, Secretary.

Great Sale of Tile.

The immense stock of drain tile of the Calkin Tile factory one mile south of Corunna, will be sold at public auction, Tuesday, Feb. 27, 1894, beginning at 10 a m. This sale is in charge of M. F. Franks, as receiver, and there will be a rare chance to get good tile of all sizes from 3 to 12-inch. Sums of $5 and under, cash. Over $5 a credit of six months with approved notes bearing 6 per cent interest from date. A discount of 10 per cent will be allowed for cash. Don't forget the time and place.

Cures Dyspepsia.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone, I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good good any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy: a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottle 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cleanses, purifies and heals. It was made for that purpose. Use it for burns, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, sores of all descriptions, and if you have piles use it for them. 4tf

Repair Shop.

Two skillful workmen, George Loll, of Canton, Ohio, and Leonard Trapp, of Garrett, have started a repair shop in the small building back of the marble shop, that is, on the corner of Jackson and Sixth streets, and will prove quite a convenience to our people. They will repair almost anything you have, but make a specialty of bicycles, locks, mending and repairing tools of all kinds, as well as guns, revolvers, sewing machines, etc., etc. Our people can have keys fitted, locks repaired, and many other needed things. Give them a call.

Health and Happiness!

HONEY OF FIGS is the QUEEN of all cathartics; syrups or pills. One anticipates its taking with pleasure. No other remedy sells so well or gives such satisfaction. It acts gently on inactive bowels or liver, relieves the kidneys, cures constipation, colds, fevers, nervous headaches, etc., and restores the beauty of health. Ladies and children prefer it. Doctors and druggists recommend it. The Fig Honey Co. of San Francisco. Try a bottle. Only one cent a dose. Matheny & Gerke wholesale and retail agents for DeKalb county.

PUBLIC SALE.

Notice is hereby given that I will offer for sale at public auction at my residence in Fairfield township, DeKalb county, Indiana, being two and one-half miles north-west of Corunna, Ind, on one bay horse, being the property of Charles Roberts, and to be sold to pay costs and charges for keeping. Terms cash.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1894,

JOHN BRIGHT.

WANTED—LADY AGENTS for this city and county, to canvas for a specialty. Sold in every family. $2.50 a day guaranteed. Write for particulars. L. F. Nicodemus, 167 Dearborn St., Chicago. 7-8

THE PRESS quotes from the Ligonier Leader that "J. D. Leighty would be such a good commissioner for DeKalb county." What does the Ligonier paper know about DeKalb county, its needs or its men? But it evidently knows as much as the Press, for the latter, if it is going to run all the business of the county on such an able basis, ought to know that there is no commissioner to be chosen in Mr. Leighty's District this year. The Press should not criticize Hoffelder for ignorance while telling people there is to be a commissioner elected in "Spencerville township"

COUPON NO. 1,

Courier Art Portfolio.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Notices of meetings of societies, church socials, etc., not exceeding five lines, published under this head without charge. Five cents will be charged for each line in excess of five lines.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Ehrlich.

Rev. Mr. Colvin will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday, both morning and evening.

DeKalb Co. Christian Endeavor meeting at St. Joe, March 8. Full notice next week.

The Y. L. M. C. of the M. E. church will give a "Mother Goose" Social at G. A. R. Hall to-morrow, Friday evening. Admittance 15 cents. All come.

Mrs. Frank Rush will entertain the nickel social of the M. E church next Friday afternoon. The ladies are invited to attend and take their thimbles.

The S. H. G. meets Saturday with Mrs. Caruth. Questions at roll call; American Commonwealth, Mrs. Clifton; history, Mrs. Sheets; character sketch, Loyola, Mrs. Henry; reading, Mrs. Hebel; music, Mrs. McIntyre.

DELAYS ARE DANGEROUS!

COME AT ONCE.

February 28 is the Last Day for your tickets on the "Beautiful Glass Mounts." The last few days we will be crowded with our patrons, seeking opportunities for sittings at the last hour.

We will get you Better Pictures if you

COME NOW!

Remember, our work is not poor, untried, SHODDY work, but is the

MOST BEAUTIFUL

That Artistic Skill can produce, has been tested by our Leading and Best Citizens, giving First-Class Satisfaction in every respect, and the proof can be found on visiting the Best Homes in DeKalb County.

Don't forget the date. Come early and save delay.

J. G. CLAPP,

Leader and Dealer in Fine Photos, Frames Made to Order and their Fixtures.

Auburn, Indiana.

7-8

Brandon has received a lot of Northern Grown Seeds.

TRY THEM.

He also has Canned Corn,
Tomatoes,
Peas,
BEANS,
Peaches,
Sweet Potatoes,
Bread and
Cake
Fresh from the Bakery

Every Morning.

GENTLEMEN!

Have you LARGE FEET?

If you have, go to

SHULL'S CASH SHOE STORE

You can buy Men's Shoes, size 9 to 11, for HALF WHAT THEY ARE WORTH.

THE CASH

BOOT AND SHOE STORE.

Opposite Bishop & Lackey's.

Here is Your Chance,

WE WANT MONEY.

Cottonade Pants, only 67 cents.
Best Calf Skin Gloves, only 67 cents,
Hog Skin Mittens, only 35 cents.
Table Cloth, all Linen, 2 yds long, only 63 cents.
Towels, all Linen, 33 inches long, only 10 cents.
21 quart Dishpan, only 29 cents.

These Bargains are for sale only at——

OLDS BROS.

North of Court House.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

THE Congressional pay-roll never discloses the absence of a quorum.

CALLING a woman's dress a dream is a polite way of saying that the cost of it gives her husband a nightmare.

CHICAGO has a "Jack the Snipper," who steals the hair of blonde girls only. That is to say, he snips the light fantastic tow.

ONE reason why railroads refuse to adopt the block system is that they find it as cheap to kill a few passengers as to adopt the safety system.

GLAD to learn that many millionairesses of New York spend vast sums among the poor, without ever saying anything about it. Wish we could learn that more millionaires do the same thing.

TEMPORA MUTANTUR. In Salem, of Massachusetts, penalties were dealt out for disbelieving in witchcraft. In Salem, Ohio, people have just been expelled from the church for believing in witchcraft. Old Mathew Hale has probably changed his own mind on the subject by this time.

THERE is a story to those calico prints of cats and dogs and rabbits which, sewed together and stuffed with cotton, serve as admirable toys for small children. The idea of such a toy occurred to a woman, and she tried vainly to convince several calico printers that the thing would be profitable. She found, at length, a manufacturer who was willing to undertake the experiment of printing her toys, and he has since paid her many thousands of dollars in royalties upon the patent.

NEARLY every country in Europe is represented in the horde of 11,262 immigrants who, according to the statistics issued by the Commissioner of Immigration, were landed at Ellis Island during the month of December, Italy heading a list which is closed by Turkey. About one-half of the entire lot are stated to have been persons of no profession or occupation, while nearly three thousand are returned as unable either to read or write—scarcely desirable candidates for American citizenship at a moment when the labor market is so overcrowded and the number so large of native-born unemployed dependent upon public and private charity.

SEVERE storms at sea are not unusual in winter, but the one encountered by the Normannia was the severest in years. By far the worst feature of it was the alleged tidal wave that accompanied it. It is probable, however, that what was thought to be a tidal disturbance was nothing but the natural action of the sea stirred to its depths by a severe and prolonged storm. Tidal waves do not travel so closely together as those described by the captain and passengers of the Normannia. They are too bulky and vast to be set in motion in quick succession. The vessel is about 600 feet over all, and she struck the second wave before she had ridden the first, too short a distance between to admit of the waves being of tidal origin.

THE death of Constance Fenimore Woolson at the early age of 46 deprives American literature of a hope of native development which Miss Woolson had raised by her charming novel, "Anne." Miss Woolson was not, as stated, a grand-daughter of Fenimore Cooper. Her mother was Cooper's niece. Since 1879 the novelist lived in England, seeking a home there among kindred after the death of her mother. But she remained intensely American and appreciated, like Mrs. Catherwood, the vast native field of romance that still lies almost untouched by American novelists. "Anne" is a singularly dainty and delicate depiction of Northwestern life, with exquisite etching of scenery and a rich dramatic movement far above the average of American novels. It will preserve the name of its author in American literature.

IT required a decision of a United States court to convince a land company out in Colorado that it had no right to fence in land belonging to the government. The company purchased every alternate section aggregating over 20,000 acres. It then erected a fence around the entire land, including the 20,000 acres owned by the government. This was defended in court on the ground that the company proposed utilizing the government land, a defense having no validity, the court held. Some people consider anything belonging to Uncle Sam legitimate plunder. If the land in question belonged to a private individual or concern nobody would have thought of fencing it in—at least not without having gained the owner's permission. But Uncle Sam has been imposed on and robbed and swindled so often that it isn't considered necessary to even notify him.

JOHN R. KOETTING, the Milwaukee bank cashier who was convicted of receiving money when he knew his bank to be insolvent, might under the law have been condemned to suffer ten years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $10,000. The punishment inflicted upon him is five years' imprisonment. This comparatively light sentence was due, no doubt, to the fact that for a quarter of a century Koetting had refrained from criminal acts—that is to say, he had transacted a banking business and had not defrauded his customers. But it is hard to see how that fact mitigates the enormity of his crime when at last he no longer refrained. The crime itself is one of the most dangerous in the calendar. It destroys confidence in banks in general and so attacks the whole business system of the country. A sentence to five years' imprisonment hardly appears adequate punishment for one who commits it.

THE Ram's Horn recently had a cartoon representing a poor man standing in a hesitating attitude in front of an open saloon whose smiling proprietor beckons him to enter, the invitation being ably seconded by the attractive sign: "Free Lunch. Walk In." All about him are the warnings: "Keep off the grass," "No loafing on these premises," "Keep out," "No trespassing," "Building lots reserved for speculators," etc. Barbed wire fences exclude him from vacant lots, a huge hand labeled "Syndicate" has gathered all the money in sight, another huge hand marked "Trust" has possession of all the tools used by mechanics, and in the background is seen a railway labeled "Monopoly," with an enormous hand reaching out on either side and covering the "fallow lands" and "uncultivated wastes." A burly policeman, with a club, has his hand on the laborer's shoulder as if warning him to move on. The cartoon is entitled "The Poor Man's Alternative," and although it may exaggerate the situation it conveys a most useful and timely lesson, and is worthy of study.

IT is said that the elbow style of hand-shaking had its origin in the circumstance that the Prince of Wales, being afflicted with a boil somewhere in his anatomy, was unable to indulge himself in a genuine, honest hand-clasp, and so resorted to the gentle vibration of the elbow and dainty touch of the finger-tips which has now become so common. It may be that the Prince of Wales had no thought of the iconoclastic influence which his abnormal hand-shake would exert upon the dudes of Christendom. But, all the same (says Frank Leslie's), he is responsible for the introduction of a fashion which has nothing whatever to commend it to Americans. The American hand-shake is characteristic. It is a sign of good breeding, indicative of good-will, kindliness, and pleasurable emotion. Whether as an act of greeting or of farewell, it expresses friendship, and in either case it is distinguished by cordial heartiness. The heart beats in the outstretched palm. There is nothing of this but merely vulgar affectation in the grotesque crook of the elbow and the feeble oscillation of the hand which came in with the royal boil.

ENGLAND'S experience with large war ships armed with monster guns has not been entirely satisfactory, and she will now build vessels on a smaller scale and reduce the size of guns. France made this discovery before she began to build her present magnificent navy. So, too, did other continental powers, with the probable exception of Italy, which followed more after England. Ships of the size and design of the Invincible and the Inflexible of the English navy cannot be handled to advantage except under the most favorable conditions. Only in the besieging of a town are they of practical service. At the siege of Alexandria the Inflexible did effective work, but it was discovered that unless lying in still water her 100-ton guns were of little service. The ship was too bulky to handle well, and a slight roll silenced the guns. One of the most effective navies is Russia's. She is provided with a class of ships that, except on the closest scrutiny, cannot be determined from modern steam freight ships. Their bulwarks can be dropped, and what was supposed to be a mercantile steamer proves to be a man-of-war, with decks bristling with rifled guns of the most improved make. Such ships can make deadly warfare on the merchant navy of an enemy, one of the most vulnerable spots in a nation's being. China has a fleet of small armored vessels, each carrying but one gun. This is situated in the bow and below the deck line. These vessels fight "head on," and by reason of their smallness are easily maneuvered, making them a most difficult target for the enemy. England has given orders for several ships-of-war in which her former mistakes will not be duplicated.

Timber Strength Tests.

It would be difficult to convince the average man, especially the Missouri pioneer, that fir is a stronger wood than oak, but such has been proven by actual tests that were made by a fair and impartial committee appointed for that purpose. The timbers used were each two by four inches and four feet long, both ends solidly braced and the weight applied in the middle of the span. Yellow fir stood a strain of 3,062 pounds, common Oregon oak, 2,922 pounds. Fine-grained yellow fir from near the butt stood a strain of 3,635 pounds, and best Michigan oak snapped with a strain of only 2,428 pounds.

Gold Filling.

Dental surgeons have patented processes for imitating gold fillings in false teeth. This is done by burning gold foil upon them in the manner commonly termed "fire gilding." Nobody would be likely to suspect that grinders showing plain signs of repair were artificial. Several applications have been made for patents for processes for setting diamonds in the teeth, the front teeth, of course, holes being drilled to receive the gems.

OVER WITH THEM.—Philadelphia Times.

FLIMSY OBJECTIONS.

Weakness of the Opposition to the Income Tax Is Apparent.

Whenever the opponents of an income tax begin to formulate objections to it, instead of repeating foolish parrot cries, the weakness of their case is quickly apparent. Mr. Croker says it would "have a tendency to drive rich men from the city." But where would they go to escape it? Does the boss not grasp the fact that it is to be a national tax? The Democrats of the Cotton Exchange say that it is "inquisitorial in its character," and that it "can be justified by no less a necessity than war requirements." Is it more inquisitorial than the tariff law, under which trunks, handbags and persons are searched, or than the internal-revenue law, which takes possession of a distiller's property and holds it under lock and key until the taxes are paid? As for the "war requirements," does not the pension bill of $160,000,000 a year, more than $100,000,000 of which is the growth of the last fourteen years of peace, justify a war tax? Must all the war and peace requirements be met by taxes on the necessaries of the people?

Others object that the Democratic party "was not charged with the duty of passing an income-tax law," and never declared in favor of it. But it was charged with the duty of reducing taxes on the consumption of the people and of meeting the expenses of the Government. It cannot do this without imposing new taxes. A new emergency has arisen. A deficiency has occurred under the McKinley law. Shall it be met by new taxes or higher taxes on the necessaries of life, or on the luxuries, the vices, and indulgences of the people? The Democrats in Congress choose the latter alternative. And if that is not Democratic, nothing is Democratic.—New York World.

No Alarm in Minnesota.

We commend to the attention of our Republican friends who persist in ignoring the facts with respect to the condition of the iron-ore industry and the effect of one of the wisest and most beneficial provisions of the Wilson bill the following remarks in the Minneapolis Tribune (Republican) concerning the assertion of Capt. McDougal that "the Mesaba Range will ship 2,500,000 tons of iron ore to Eastern ports this coming season, Wilson bill or no Wilson bill:"

This statement from so excellent an authority as Capt. McDougal shows how ridiculous is the calamity howl of those who pretend that free iron ore will close the Minnesota mines. But we need not depend upon the authority of Capt. McDougal alone. Since the Wilson bill was first announced, mines have been opened for the winter on both the Mesaba and Vermillion Ranges, and work given to hundreds of workmen. Work is now proceeding on the Mesaba at far greater blast than one year ago. Whatever the weeping and wailing Jeremiahs may be saying and doing, the mine proprietors are not bothering their heads about the tariff. They are getting ready for the greatest mining season which Minnesota has ever known, as if the Wilson bill did not exist.

And why should they tremble and shiver? They have the richest ore that is mined. It is located most conveniently for cheap and expeditious working. It exists in quantity never surpassed. They have the most modern machinery and possess a quality of ore which permits a use of machinery that in foreign mines is not possible. As a result of these causes, they mine a first-class quality of ore at the lowest cost of production known in the history of the industry at home and abroad. The tariff may come or the tariff may go, but our ore will go on to Pittsburg.

It may be that Minnesota ores will be brought further East than Pittsburg, even when foreign ores shall be on the free list.—New York Times.

The Sugar Duty.

It is a mistake to suppose that the action of the House of Representatives, in committee of the whole, making sugar entirely free tends still further to reduce the revenues. If the bill as passed shall make all sugar free and repeal the bounty on American sugars, the Treasury will be greatly benefited in comparison with the existing law. These bounties, due next month, will amount, according to Mr. Carlisle's estimates, to $15,000,000. This measures very nearly the saving to the Treasury which would result from the adoption of the Warner amendment. The existing duty is on refined sugars, and the revenue derived from it in 1893 was only $163,956. This duty is in the interest of the sugar trust. The McKinley act gave to that monopoly free raw material and taxed competing refined sugars and grocery sugars from abroad. The effect of this policy has been so enormously to increase the profits of the trust that even high protectionists are turning upon it and denouncing its greed. In order to be perfectly fair to this tariff-made monopoly, we quote what the Philadelphia Press says of it in commenting on the action of the committee of the whole:

This sweeping slaughter of industries is due simply and solely to the attempt of the owners and managers of the American Sugar Refining Company to declare dividends on $80,000,000 of watered capital when their plant was not worth over $20,000,000 to $25,000,000. On this shameful overvaluation the American Sugar Refining Company declared in 1892 9 per cent. on the common and 7 per cent on the preferred stock. In March, 1893, an extra dividend of 10 per cent., besides a quarterly dividend of 3 per cent., was declared It is not surprising that pending a decision by Congress on the sugar duty the annual meeting of this great monopoly adjourned a few days ago without making a report.

The Warner amendment was a straight and hard blow at this trust, and if adopted will save the Treasury at least $15,000,000 a year.

A Discredited Humbug.

In proposing the repeal of the reciprocity clause of the McKinley act the Ways and Means Committee and their Democratic associates have taken the first step toward the abolition of a preposterous humbug. The reciprocity clause is practically repealed by the placing of tea, sugar, hides and coffee on the free list, but it is the duty of the Democratic Congress to set the seal of their disapproval on the wretched pretense of fair trade and of increased commerce embodied in the dishonest and un-American reciprocity policy of the Harrison administration. No word should remain on the statute book to remind the country of the day when Congress turned over to the President any part of its power to legislate. That is just what the reciprocity clause does. It transfers a power to the Executive which the Constitution conferred upon Congress, and therefore it is contrary to the fundamental law of the land. Moreover, it gave to foreign governments the right to declare when and on what articles the people of this country should be taxed. The right to levy taxes appertains to our own free citizenship. It is the right for which our forefathers fought, and it has never been surrendered except in the reciprocity clause of the McKinley act.

Finally, the reciprocity clause was never intended to increase commerce or to promote trade relations between this country and foreign countries. It was a humbugging device of Mr. Blaine to save his party from the rising tide of popular indignation against high protective tariffs. The discredited humbug should go.

Gospel Truth by a Funny Man.

"Champ" Clark of Missouri is one of the funny men of the House of Representatives, and on Friday he made an impromptu speech on the tariff question which, judging from the merriment which it created, especially on the Republican side of the House, was considered one of the funniest efforts of his life. There was something besides "fun" in "Champ's" speech, however, and we desire to call the attention of our Republican friends to the fact. What we refer to will be found in the following paragraph:

Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad," and that is the predicament of the protectionists of this House. You refused the moderate reduction proposed in the Morrison bill. You refused the mild provisions of the Mills bill. You are kicking against the moderate reductions in this bill. You propose to beat this bill by the combination of Republicans and assistant Republicans. You may do it. If you defeat this bill you will build up a free trade party in this country, and men with brains in their head, courage in their heart and love of humanity in their soul will rend the temple of protection till not one stone shall be left on another in that robbers' roost.

Champ Clark may be very funny, and it strikes us that he is, but in the paragraph just quoted he has taken up a phase of the tariff situation that the Republican partisans who are doing their utmost to resist the demands of the people and to keep the country chained to its idols of monopoly would do well to bear in mind. Revolutions do not go backward.—N. Y. Mercury.

Protection Fetters.

In a speech at Leeds a few years ago Mr. Gladstone said:

So long as America adheres to the protective system our commercial supremacy is secure. No nation can wrest it from you while America, fetters her strong hands, and, thus fettered, is compelled to compete with you who are free in neutral markets.

This is no doubt true. England did not achieve her industrial and commercial supremacy in Europe till she adopted the policy of free trade. When she took that important forward step it was in the face of the same sort of calamity predictions as are now being uttered by protectionists in this country. But none of the evil prophecies were fulfilled. Great Britain waxed strong under the stimulus of trade freedom, and, while paying higher wages than any of the high protection countries of the continent, her commercial and industrial supremacy has been unquestioned. She does not fear the "cheap labor" of continental Europe. She has demonstrated the truth that the highest priced labor is often and commonly the cheapest for employers. America's most dangerous European competitors in manufacturing are not the low-wage countries, but those that pay the highest wages.—Quincy Herald.

ALL attempts of the monopolists to impose a tax upon iron ore were beaten in the House of Representatives this week. Our alleged representative, Sereno Payne, fought for monopoly as usual, but in vain. Free iron, free coal and free sugar for the people! We are making progress. Whoop!—Cayuga Chief.

UNDER a McKinley tariff a man whose income is $500 a year may pay $100 in taxes and bounties. Under an income tax a $5,000 income would pay $20, or 2 per cent. on all above $4,000. There is a deficit to fill up and the $500 incomes have about all they can stand of discrimination. Let us equalize.

A RIVAL OF NIAGARA.

MIGHTY WATERS HARNESSED FOR HUMAN USES.

Wonderful Resources of a New Region—Vast Industries Springing Up—How the Missouri's Swift Current Is Utilized—Young and Promising City.

Marvels of Montana.

Great Falls, Mont., correspondence:

It was not until the return of Lewis and Clarke from their remarkable journey, covering two and a half years, to the Pacific coast, in the first years of the century, that any definite knowledge was obtained of the Falls of the Missouri. The intrepid explorers spent many months rowing and poling their heavy batteaux against the swift current of the muddy river, which became clearer as they left the bluff deposits of the prairies and plains and neared the falls, above which the water is as clean and pure as its sources of supply in mountain springs and snow. We wish our space would permit reprinting the long but graphic descriptions given of this wonderful series of falls, in America's greatest river, around which the exploring party spent nearly a month. From the highest point of land, 350 feet above Black Eagle Fall, on which now stands a smokestack 200 feet high, as prominent an object as the Washington monument, the top as high above the furnaces as that noble shaft, Lewis and Clarke looked for the first time over the site of the present city, but then temporarily occupied by a herd of buffalos, and later, in an encounter with a wounded one, Lewis was chased into the water oppcsite the town, where the river is 2,800 feet wide, and compelled to swim to the other shore.

A new edition of "The History of the Explorations of Lewis and Clarke" has just been issued under the direction of Prof. Elliott Coues, of the Smithsonian Institution. It is a recital of a most important event in our history, and brought down to date by numerous foot notes. It is dedicated as follows:

To the People of the Great West: Jefferson gave you the country. Lewis and Clarke showed you the way. The rest is your own course of empire. Honor the statesman who foresaw your West. Honor the brave men who first saw your West. May the memory of their glorious achievement be your precious heritage! Accept from my Least the undying record of the beginning of all your greatness.

E. C.

According to Eastern ideas of calculation, this is a very young city, but undeniably it is one of the most promising in the West, and is bearing out the predictions of the explorers, that an important industrial city would spring up here. The first settler, Hon. Paris Gibson, an honored and still active citizen of the sturdy young giant with over 12,000 population, and as enthusiastic over the future as ever, with much now to back up his opinions and prophecies, broke ground for the first house about ten years ago. Its growth was slow until the first railway, the Great Northern, reached there four years later. Now railroads reach out in various directions.

The reader will naturally inquire what there is in the Northwest to make great States and cities. Is not this country in the American desert the school books used to tell about? Yes, but the desert has since been chased hither and thither, until it is now located in spots among the lava beds and high ranges of the far Southwest, and what there is of it contains borax, salt, and resources of value to man, and there is no such thing as the "Great American Desert."

What made the older States of this Union wealthy? Pine forests, iron ore and copper mines supplied the raw material upon which Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota was built. Coal, iron and oil made Pennsylvania great. Corn and hogs brought riches to Iowa and Illinois. An extract of corn and rye distinguishes Kentucky. Wheat has given prominence to Minnesota and the Dakotas, and so on through the list.

Montana is a new State, and but little known, except as a grazing region and producer of precious metals. Stock shipments last year exceeded $6,000,000 worth. Herds of cattle and flocks of sheep are brought into this State from the country south as far as Texas, to fatten on the ranges for Eastern markets. All the conditions here, grass, water and climate, are conducive to the highest development of physical life. The State produces horses of large lung power and endurance, much sought after by the War Department for cavalry purposes. Budd Doble feeds his horses on Montana hay and oats. It was too far west, so stockmen said, to raise wheat, but a roller flouring mill with 500 barrels daily capacity, located here, is making high-grade flour from native wheat, and this immediate locality supports two agricultural papers.

Those who have not been West have little idea of the possibilities and elbow room of a State like Montana, a region larger than all of New England, and then with country enough left over to include several of the Middle States.

Standing by the tall smoke stack of the copper smelter, we looked down on the mighty river, with its rapids and cataracts, and saw waters fall with quick descent, furnishing power to turn wheels to crush ores, to generate electricity, to grind flour, to make hot fires hotter, and agreed with the builder of the marvelous wheel at the World's Fair, that where there was such enormous water power an industrial city must arise. The monthly pay-roll now exceeds $160,000 for labor, and is to be largely increased. The electrical energy possible at this point is beyond reasonable comprehension. It is already used in multiform ways: To refine metals, to run machinery and street cars, to cook food, and for heating purposes.

Five ranges of mountains are in sight, clothed with forests and veined with precious metals and iron, and valleys between seamed with beds of coal. Fertile lands slope back to grassy plains, where plowmen and stock raisers are already busy. All these potent and varied resources are within boundaries that make them tributary to a common center, and that location is one of destiny, for men see these natural forces, and are beginning to utilize them. With all these things, there is indefinable hopefulness and keen alertness in the air; every breath one draws is a pleasure, making it indeed a land worth living in.

In this energetic climate so conducive to longevity, a few of the early fur traders still linger. We remember meeting a year ago old Hugh Monroe, who spent ninety years in the Northwest, dying a few months ago at the age of 108 years, and old man Rondout, who lives forty miles east of here, is in his hundredth year, coming to what is Montana in 1835, then as unknown a region as Africa. The country and conditions give men an opportunity to display their abilities. Robert Williams, modest and quiet, is better known in scientific circles in the East and the old world as an ornithologist and botanist than he is as a citizen of this city. His collection of birds is large and rare, and of grasses alone he has more than eighty kinds, with flowers, ferns, etc., in large numbers. Prof. O. C. Morteon has catalogued over 300 different kinds of metals, minerals, ores, rocks, etc., found in this region. In company with Prof. Morteon, we today visited the chief copper smelter, and saw the brown metal by car loads and learned that by the electrical process used in refining over 200,000 ounces of silver are extracted monthly from the copper output. Nine hundred men are employed, and with the proposed wire and sheet copper mills completed, the force will be largely increased.

Along the double banks of the river for eight miles, the water everywhere can be harnessed to wheels and turned to human use. With millions of pounds of wool marketed here every year, it is only reasonable to assume that this will become the site of woolen mills, as it has of silver and copper smelters. With iron ore and coal, it is natural to think that furnaces, foundries and rolling mills will spring up in close association with the raw material. The descending grade from the gold, silver, copper and iron mines to this point, must perforce of circumstances concentrate the smelting interests of a vast region along this available series of falls.

Our space will not permit us at this time to say more about this interesting and resourceful region, and we must close with a brief reference to the recent discoveries made by Prof. Scott and a party of Princeton College students. They found in the Smith River Valley, south of here, whole skeletons of the camel, rhinoceros, and other tropical animals, comprising in all forty-two species and twenty-two genera. Several specimens of the three-toed horse were found. The remains are petrified, lying in indurated clays and protruding from the banks or sides of the valleys or coulees. The Arrow Creek Bad Lands, at the foot of the Highwood Mountains, east of Great Falls, is another interesting section, full of wonderful formations and abounding in fossil shells and remains of sea lizards and ancient reptile life. It is a fantastic region, with deep coulees and rocks twisted and bent into odd and fanciful shapes. A lofty cliff exists in this same locality, well filled with petrified fishes. The Little Rockies and Bear Paw Mountains are also rich in fossil remains. This city is the natural outfitting point for scientific, geological, sketching, exploring, hunting and fishing parties. We are under obligations to the energetic secretary of the Board of Trade for printed matter and personal attention, and prompt consideration will be given to all inquiries.

J. G. JONES.

BELIEVE IN THE "EVIL EYE."

A Trial for Witchcraft in a Modern Town of Salem.

The town of Salem, Ohio, was the scene recently of an extraordinary trial, which carries one's thoughts back to the Massachusetts town of the same name that hanged witches in the seventeenth century. Salem has a pretty little Methodist Church, at which farmers worship. For the past two years several families attending the church have been possessed with the idea that they are bewitched. Last summer Howard Hughes, a well-known farmer, dug a well on his place, but after digging to what he considered a sufficient depth failed to strike water. He was nonplused for the moment, but, having a half belief in witches, came to the conclusion that his well was bewitched. He went to Alliance to consult with a Doctor Hoff, a septuagenarian, who claims to be a witch doctor. Hoff went back with Hughes, and descending into the well built a fire, and throwing several powders into the blaze went through a powwow performance.

TRUSTEE CULP (of the Evil Eye).

On coming to the surface Dr. Hoff told Hughes that William Culp, a trustee of their church and the wealthiest farmer in the neighborhood, was causing all the trouble with his evil eye and that the well would remain dry until after Culp's death. Hughes told the Breen and Loop families, who also had a weakness for witches, that Culp was the wizard who was bringing all the bad luck on them. From time to time the deluded people kept clear of Culp, but denounced him as an evil man to all who would listen to them. A month ago some cattle belonging to Norman Breen took sick and died and then a relative of Hughes fell and broke his leg. Culp was blamed for all this and the families have been very active in denouncing him as a wizard and dangerous person and advised their friends to keep away from him.

Their belief became so annoying to the pastor of the little church that he concluded to have the superstitious ones expelled and, preferring charges of witchcraft and defamation against them, he organized a church trial, which took place, the presiding elder of the district acting as judge. The trial occupied the whole day and, as a result, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Breen and Howard Hughes were expelled from the fold.

FATHER OF THE INCOME TAX.

What Congressman Hall Says in Regard to His Bill.

Of all the men in Congress none probably have a clearer view of the income tax proposition than Representative Hall, of Missouri. He has made the subject the study of years and is the father of the income tax bill in this Congress. In a recent letter Mr. Hall said: I have before me an estimate of a number of persons and business firms residing in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago who drew incomes to the amount of 250,000 a year. This estimate placed the number at 12,000. See the immense income that would be derived from this source. A writer in the Forum divides the people of our Government into three classes the rich being 182,090 families, their wealth being $43,367,000,000 averaging per family $238,135; the middle class he estimates at 1,200,000, owning wealth to the amount of $7,500,000, or an average of $6,200 per family, and the last he names as the working class, composed of 11,620,000 families, owning wealth to the amount of $11,215,000,000, averaging $968 per family, and under the present system of indirect taxation the 11,620,000 families averaging $968 to the family, and who represent the great laboring mass of this Government, pay 90 per cent. of the governmental tax, while the 182,090 families that average $238,135 a family do not pay more than 3 per cent. of the governmental revenue."

U. S. HALL.

WILLIAM PEGGS, horse thief, escaped from the State prison at Columbus, Ohio.

ON PUGET SOUND.

Something About Olympia, Capital of the State of Washington.

At the extreme head of Puget Sound, at the mouth of the Des Chutes River, is the city of Olympia, capital of the State of Washington. Although the first settlement of the place dates back to 1846 the city of to-day is a modern product, its chief impetus being given five years ago at the time of the Pacific coast boom. Olympia enjoys the advantage among Puget Sound cities of rising from the water on a gradual slope instead of scrambling up a precipitous bluff. This gentle slope ends in a plateau, on which overlooking the city and bay stands the State Capitol. The present structure is a white wooden building, but within a few years a magnificent State Capitol is to be erected. For this an appropriation of $1,000,000 has been made. Recently a new court house was erected at a cost of $250,000. The contrast between this structure and its wooden predecessor is a good illustration of the progress being made.

OLD COURT HOUSE, OLYMPIA.

The city of Olympia has a population of nearly 10,000. It has well graded streets, good hotels and a well-equipped electric plant which supplies light to the city and operates its street cars. One of the industries of the city is unique. It is the making of wooden water pipes for street mains and service, and from the Olympian factory are turned out fifty miles of such pipes annually. Medium-sized logs free from knots are selected, sawed into eight-foot lengths, placed in huge turning-lathes, and reduced to a uniform diameter of about fourteen inches. From each of these is cut a core twelve inches in diameter. From this core is cut another of ten inches, and the successive cuttings are continued until the last core is but two inches in diameter. This is split in two and sawed in half for paling pickets. The several sections of wooden pipes thus made have a tenon or shoulder cut at each end, and are wrapped diagonally with ribbons of steel, are coated with a boiling mixture of asphaltum and coal tar, and rolled in sawdust. When laid in the ground the sections are joined by broad iron collars; but their wooden ends are kept a quarter of an inch apart, in which fact lies the secret of their durability. These wooden water pipes, which are guaranteed to withstand a hydrostatic pressure of 250 pounds to the square inch, are in use all over the West, as far East as the Rocky Mountains.

NEW COURT HOUSE, OLYMPIA.

WASHINGTON STATE CAPITOL.

The Curious Women.

He was showing them the various pictures hanging on the wall. They were gems, for he really had excellent taste in art. There were choice bits of landscape, lovely ideals of humanity, studies of still life and hints from the impressionist school. The ladies viewed each with admiration, but none with especial interest until they came to a huge frame, with its face turned toward the wall. Immediately they were all interest.

"What is that?" asked one of the ladies.

The young man assumed an air of mystery and shook his head, as though he would like to tell but could not.

"I'm sorry, but you see——"

"But really we'd rather see that than any of the others—wouldn't we, girls?"

The girls said they would.

"Well, if you must see it, I suppose you must," said the exhibitor.

The young ladies conjured up all kinds of beautiful visions as they looked up with expectancy on the mysterious back of the frame.

"It is called, 'Curious Women,'" he said.

Of course that only increased their zeal. Finally he turned the frame and disclosed—a mirror! Were the young ladies disappointed?

The Lightest.

It is popularly supposed that aluminum is the lightest of metals; but this is not the case. Magnesium is one-third lighter, and is harder, tougher, and denser. Until recently it was cheaper than aluminum. It is less affected by alkalies than the latter metal, and takes a high polish.

Light.

The light of schoolrooms should always be arranged to fall over the left hand side of the scholar, and the window accommodation should be one-fifth of the floor-space; the limitation of this requirement is said to be the cause of short sight among the Germans.

AN old dyspeptic looks crusty when he finds out that the pie he had the night before does not agree with him.

WHEN peace comes, how will Brazil know the difference?

A Relic of Revolutionary Times.

A notable relic of revolutionary times discovered at Lancaster, Pa., a few days ago is the field and camp order book in which General Sullivan made record of his march in the summer of 1779 from New York to Wyoming, and up the Susquehanna Valley. He was in pursuit of the tories and Indians under Brant and Captain Butler, to avenge the massacres at Forty Fort and Wyoming. This expedition resulted in the breaking up of the Six Nations. The book was found among some papers that had belonged to Capt. Meyer, who was Gen. Sullivan's orderly in that campaign.—New York Sun.

The Kanaka Queen.

Will the Queen of the Sandwich Islands again sit on her throne? This is one of the foremost questions in the public mind. It may depend entirely upon herself for answer, as a writer says she is almost a helpless cripple from lumbago. The intelligence ought to be conveyed to her in a diplomatic way, that there is no remedy on earth a surer cure for it than St. Jacobs Oil, as it is also a specific for sciatica, so prevalent in the tropics. She can easily verify this statement by the use of the remedy.

Indian Funerals.

It is the custom among the Omaha Indians to cease wailing at a certain point in the funeral ceremonies, for the reason, they say, that the departed one must not be distressed as he leaves his home behind him. It is also customary after a death to lacerate the limbs, as the shedding of blood expresses how vital is the loss. The funeral song and ceremony, savage as they appear at first sight, are really full of tender unselfishness, and indicate a strong belief in the constitution of life and its affections.

100 BUS. WHEAT FROM TWO ACRES.

This remarkable yield was reported by Frank Close, Minnesota, on two acres of Marvel Spring Wheat. Speaking of this wheat, this new sort takes the cake. It is the greatest cropping spring wheat in the world. Farmers who tried it the past season believe seventy-five to one hundred bushels can be grown from one acre, and are going to get this yield for 1894. At such yield wheat pays at 30c a bushel. Salzer is the largest grower of vegetable and farm seed in the world.

If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with 7c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get free their mammoth catalogue and a package of above spring wheat. C

The Gums.

For those who have sentitive gums inclined to bleed on slight provocation, a mouth-wash of salt and cold water used once a day will harden the gums and prevent soreness. As salt is a styptic, any slight bleeding may usually be checked by treating the part with salt and water. Persons with delicate feet should give them a brisk rubbing daily with cold salt and water.

Abraham Lincoln's Stories.

An illustrated book, unmarred by advertising, containing stories an anecdotes told by Abraham Lincoln, many heretofore unpublished, will be sent free to every person sending his or her address to the Lincoln Tea Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Timber.

Heavy oil or tar, commonly called creosote, and also the chloride of zinc are used for preserving timber. The latter process is called "burnettising," and it is claimed that by its use the life of a hemlock railway sleeper, which ordinarily is three years, can be extended to sixteen years.

Asthma Sufferers

Who have in vain tried every other means of relief should try "Schiffmann's Asthma Cure." No waiting for results. Its action is immediate, direct and certain, as a single trial proves. Send to Dr. R. Schiffmann, St. Paul, Minn., for a free trial package, but ask your druggist first.

"A PROPOSAL," mused Van Jenkins, "amounts to a man's saying 'Wilt thou?' interrogatively and a girl's putting it imperatively."

COUGHS AND HOARSENESS.—The irritation which induces coughing immediately relieved by use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Sold only in boxes.

"HOW MUCH is he worth?" "Nothing." "Why, I thought he had a fortune of a million." "So he has; but he isn't worth a cent himself."

SEE "Colchester" Spading Boot ad. in other column.

JUDGE—"I understand that you prefer charges against this man?" Grocer—"No, sir; I prefer cash, and that's what I had him brought here for."

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures incipient Consumption. It is the best Cough Cure. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

THERE are not many things these days that escape getting into mince pie or plum pudding.

A LIST of reasons why you should insist upon having Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and nothing else in their place:—

Because they're the smallest, and the pleasantest to take.

Because they're the easiest in their ways. No disturbance, no reaction afterward. Their effects last.

They absolutely and permanently cure Biliousness, Indigestion, Constipation, Sick Headache, and Sour Stomach. The most common cause of Piles is constipation. By removing the cause a cure is effected.

Montgomery, Orange Co., N. Y.

DR. PIERCE: Dear Sir—I suffered untold misery with bleeding piles. I could get no relief night or day, until I commenced using your "Pleasant Pellets," and now for two years or more, I have not been troubled with the piles; if my bowels get in a constipated condition, I take a dose of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and the trouble is all dispelled by next day.

Mary Barnhart

NICKEL PLATE.
The New York, Chicago & St. Louis R.R.
SOLID THROUGH TRAINS
BUFFALO & CHICAGO.
LOWEST RATES.
THROUGH PALACE BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston.
For rates or other information, call on nearest Ticket Agent, or address
A. W. JOHNSTON, Gen'l Superintendent. B. F. HORNER, Gen'l Passenger Agent. CINCINNATI.

HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

ITEMS GATHERED FROM OVER THE STATE.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties, and General Indiana News Notes.

Minor State Items.

ITHAMER RUSSELL, prominent banker of Kokomo, is dead.

SEYMOUR is suffering from a widespread burglary scourge.

THE residence of Dr. Sparks, near Connorsville, burned. Loss, $3,000.

PATRICK MCGLODE, aged 80, an old soldier of the Seminole war, died near Jeffersonville.

SEVERAL prominent men of Arcadia have organized a stock company to build a canning factory.

MISS. EDITH BAYSE of Rockport, and Miss E. M. Vickery of Evansville, will soon go to Rome to teach school.

THE Elwood Bent-wood works have been purchased by Clem Gaar of Richmond, and C. K. D. Ross of Elwood.

A SCHOOLHOUSE near Wabash was raided by vandals. They burned the scholars books and demolished the desks.

ELWOOD will have free mail delivery in the business portion three times per day, and in the residence portion twice per day.

AT Michigan City children who are afflicted with whooping cough are taken to the gas works. It is said that by inhaling the fumes the cough is relieved.

A YOUNG scholar told his school teacher at Valparaiso, when the latter asked him if he didn't want to be smart and be president, that he wanted to be a big pugilist.

JOB TIMMAN of Roann, filed a $10,000 damage suit against the Wabash Railroad, claiming that a spark from an engine on the road was the cause of his sawmill burning down.

BURGLARS entered E. A. Brubereck's store at Rockville, and took $200 worth of clothing. They escaped from town on a handcar which was found at Coxville with seven old suits of clothes on it.

JAMES GROSSMAN of Cincinnati, says he will bring suit for $20,000 against the City of Muncie for cruel and inhuman treatment to which he says he was subjected while being held as a small-pox suspect.

THE American Tin Plate Company's directors of Elwood, have decided to double the capacity of the factory, which now employs 350 men. They have found this necessary to enable them to fill all their orders.

JAMES NORTH, prominent resident of Howard County, was killed by a Panhandle freight six miles south of Kokomo, while walking along the track. He was very deaf and did not hear the warning whistle. He was a wealthy farmer, aged 70.

MARTINSVILLE is soon to have a new bank called the Citizens' National Bank, with a capital of $100,000. Some moneyed men of Hamilton, Ohio, are prime movers in the scheme, but local stockholders will have supervision of affairs in order to give confidence.

LIGHTNING-ROD swindlers have been operating in the vicinity of New Ross and Darlington. Some time ago a man claiming to be from the East called on the farmers and offered to put a lightning rod on their houses for $15 each. This low price was made in order to introduce this particular make of rod. Payment was not required until the rod was up, but they signed an agreement to pay. The rods were put in place, and then the farmers found that they had signed an agreement to pay 52½ cents a foot for the rod. Among the farmers thus swindled were John C. Bowman, for $300; Henry Ragsel, for $125, and John Dean, for $115. The contracts for the lightning-rod company are signed: "J. W. Reynolds, W. R. Baston, agents."

THE Democratic Editorial Association of the State met at Indianapolis and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, C. W. Wellman, Sullivan Times; First Vice President, S. P. Boyd, Washington Democrat; Second Vice President, A. A. Sparks, Mount Vernon Democrat; Recording Secretary, F. D. Hainbaugh, Muncie Herald; Corresponding Secretary, J. W. Keeney, Crawfordsville Star; Treasurer, W. Bent Wilson, Lafayette Journal; Executive Committee, Louis Holtman, Brazil Democrat, A. S. Chapman, Madison Democrat; J. B. Stoll, South Bend Times; J. Rothrock, White County Democrat; Ben A. Eaton, Indianapolis Sentinel. Delegates to the National Convention, J. E. McDonald, Ligonier Banner; F. A. Arnold, Greencastle Star-Press; D. A. Jennings, Salem Democrat; J. J. Gorrell, Pulaski Democrat; L. S. Ellingham, Winchester Democrat.

PATENTS have been granted to Indiana inventors as follows: Charles F. Bane, Lafayette, device for automatically opening valves in airbrake couplings; Rufus C. Beardsley, Lafayette, conduit electric railway; Nathaniel H. Bledsoe, assignor of one-half to G. A. Rabus, Fort Wayne, identifying check; Sidney M. Ferguson, assignor of one-half to himself and J. M. Well, Elwood, mail bag fastener; Charles C. Gilmore, Indianapolis, gas-making apparatus; John M. Kailor and M. T. Reeves, assignors to Reeves & Co., Columbus, clover huller feeder; Elwood W. McGuire, Richmond, adjustable journal bearing; Thomas E. Phillips, assignor of one-half to B. A. McGee, G. W. Bolenbacher, P. K. Buskirk, and J. Karsell, Bloomington, and J. H. Dunn, Louisville, Ky., separating fibers of reed cane; Griffith W. Williams, Greensburg, fence wire ratchet; Edward T. Wires, assignor of one-half to A. Chaney, Terre Haute, cap and draw pin for foundry use; James J. Wood, alternating dynamo.

THE Montgomery County Orphans' Home Association has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, S. H. Ristine; Vice President, Mrs. J. M. Lane; Secretary, O. M. Gregg; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. L. A. Foote; Treasurer, Mrs. S. S. McCain.

THE citizens of Lafayette are making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the State G. A. R. encampment, to be held in that city on April 4 and 5. The reports of the order show that there are 530 posts in the State, with a slight increase in the membership.

A 2-YEAR-OLD son of David and Mrs. Shenk, six miles north of Kokomo, met a sad death. While the family was out in the yard the child opened the stove door and threw paper in the fire. Its clothing ignited and soon it was enveloped in flames. Death resulted after four hours of agony.

THE other night some one broke into the home of a Mrs Smith, a widow with two small children, living in the northern suburbs of Kokomo, and criminally assaulted her. She is prostrated by the long struggle with the ruffian, who fled at the approach of assistance. Officers are in pursuit, and if captured the brute will be roughly handled.

THE SCOTCH.

The Part They Took in the Downfall of Charles I.

No man in this country is better posted in Scotch history than Capt. James B. White of Fort Wayne, Ind., ex-Congressman from the Twelfth District of that State. He is a Scotchman by birth, and is ever ready to defend his country with his pen.

Recently the compiler of historical events of the Daily News of his city, misquoted an event in Scottish history that occurred in 1647, and the Captain takes him to task in the following communication, taken from that paper:

Your most brilliant compiler of historical events has the following:

"1647—Charles the Ist sold to the Puritan authorities by the Scotch."

Will you please inform your readers why such a statement as the above should go forth? Does it not mean and intend to convey to the unthinking or uninvestigating mind that the Scotch were guilty of a very unbecoming act, and that as such they should be held up to the contempt and disdain of others? It is very difficult to come to any other conclusion by any one not familiar with the history of the period you refer to.

There is a class of writers who, on all occasions, have adopted this course of defaming the Scotch, by "Inuendoes" and dastardly statements just as the above, for pure malignant reasons. Yet it is not difficult to define where these writers came from. They are purely "English," who, on all occasions, have pursued this course in order to exalt their own base and degraded character at the expense of the Scotch.

The Scotch were the first to rise against the King. They set aside his authority in Scotland; they then marched into England at the express urgency of the English to help them. They captured and held all the north of England for the Parliament, and did much more to accomplish the downfall of Charles than the English, for when the victory was won, when the war was over, when the cunning and deceitful English no longer required the aid of the Scotch, they ungraciously attempted to make them leave England, and defraud them of the arrears that was due them. Then when the Scotch compelled them to settle up by paying so much down and giving bond for the payment of the balance in two years, the abominable English writers tortured this as a charge of selling their king. A man or a writer who would make use of such a scandalous allusion, would not stop to smirch the character of the purest of women if he could profit by his purpose. He says "sold to the Puritans." Who were the Puritans? The Scotch were the Puritans themselves. The king surrendered to the Scotch on English soil. His home was in London. He desired to go there to be nearer his own people so that the better he could bring about a reconciliation. The Scotch Parliament in the meantime had passed an act that he could not come to Scotland unless he first subscribed to the covenant. This the King would not do, hence there was nothing left but to send him where he desired to go. This the Scotch did, which was the proper thing to do.

The Detective's Mistake.

The whole detective force, as well as every man on the police staff, is holding his sides with laughter over a little incident which occurred recently. It seems that a cloak had been reported as stolen from the high school. One of the able detectives read over the report as the chief or someone had jotted it down, but some way he got it "clock" instead of cloak."

"I know where that clock is," he remarked.

The other detectives looked at each other, every man of them catching onto the mistake quick as scat.

"Better go over and get it," one of the officers remarked.

And, accordingly, the detective disappeared, rushed over to a second-hand store on St. Clair street, pointed toward a great big old-fashioned clock on the wall, with a church front to it, and said:

"Here, I want that clock; its stolen."

"I bought dot clock for——"

But the detective would allow no explanation, and rushed back to his office, bravely lugging along the clock. He set it up in a prominent place in the office and remarked:

"There it is."

It cost the boys an effort, but they suppressed their feelings. All sat a few minutes, when finally Nichter opened the book and commenced to read off the reports again. When he came to the cloak theft the big detective gasped:

"What?"

But it was so. He looked the book over half a dozen times, and there it was cloak instead of clock. With sincere contrition and apology on the part of the bearer, the clock was lugged back to Stark's.—Toledo Commercial.

Live Fish.

Norwegians are excellent cooks, especially of fish, which, by the way, are never bought dead but are kept alive in anchored cages in the water of the fjord. The vendor of fish dips his net into the water for each customer, who chooses what he likes, and carries home his purchase, still alive, in a large covered tin dish.

Paper Stockings the Latest.

A Berlin trade journal announces a new German invention—viz., paper stockings. It is told that the stockings are made of a specially prepared impregnated paper stock, which has an extraordinary effect on perspiring feet. The moisture is absorbed by the paper as rapidly as it is formed, and the feet remain dry and warm, while the constant temperature maintained in the shoes is said to be a great preventive of colds.—St. Louis Republic.

WHILE a woman seldom understands herself, let her alone for seeing clear through any other woman.

WOMEN are more religious than men, so they can have an excuse to buy Christmas foolishness.

WOODEN—What a funny head that fellow has. Wagg—Yes, he's a humorist.

The Soldiers Were Amused.

After the repulse of the rebel attack on the Shah Nujeef at Lucknow, one Pandy counterfeited death with great skill, then all of a sudden sprang to his feet and ran like a deer. He was still within easy range, and several rifles were leveled at him; but Sergeant Findley, who was on the rampart—and himself one of the best shots in the service—called out: "Don't fire, men! Give the poor devil a chance!" Instead of a volley of bullets, he got a cheer to speed him on his way. As soon as he heard it, he realized his position, halted, turned round, and putting up both his hands, with the palms together, in front of his face, salaamed profoundly, and then walked slowly away, while the Highland soldiers on the ramparts waved their feathered bonnets and clapped their hands.

Imitated the Bishop.

Many Episcopal bishops are in the habit of describing themselves "by divine permission bishop of" their diocese, in official documents. A certain bishop not long ago had occasion to send such a document to a most devout, but not highly educated, layman. Thereupon it became the duty of the layman to draw up and sign an official document relating to some church business, and noticing the phrase referred to in the bishop's paper, he thought it was incumbent upon him, also, to recognize the divine guidance. So, in entire good faith, he described himself as "John Smith, by divine permission grocer and dealer in all kinds of flour and feed." The paper never got into the archives of the church, however.

Witty Criminals.

Frank Lockwood, an English counsel of whom many stories are told, was once defending a man at York who was accused of stealing cattle—"beasts," they called them there.

"Now, my man," said Lockwood, "you say that you saw thus and so; how far can you see a beast to know it?"

"Just as far off as I am from you," promptly returned the witness.

In another case a thief showed both wit and some logic. He had been convicted of stealing a horse.

"Yours is a very serious offense," said the Judge, sternly; "fifty years ago it was a hanging matter."

"Well," replied the prisoner, "and fifty years hence it mayn't be a crime at all."

What Produces Death.

Some one says that few men die of age—almost all persons die of disappointment, personal, mental, or bodily toil, or accident. The passions kill men sometimes even suddenly. The common expression "choked with passion" has little exaggeration in it; for, even though not suddenly fatal, strong passions shorten life. Strong-bodied men often die young; weak men live longer, for the strong use their strength and the weak have none to use. The latter take care of themselves, the former do not. As it is with the body, so it is with the mind and temper. The strong are apt to break, or, like a candle, run; the weak burn out.

Uncle Sam's Island Possessions.

Capt. John Ross, in speaking of something recently published in regard to the undesirability of the United States owning islands so far away as the Hawaiian islands, says that it is not generally known that the United States own seventy-five islands in the North and South Pacific. They are nearly all within 12 degress of the equator, north and south, and are principally guano islands of small size, which have been taken possession of by Americans. The American coasting laws apply to them, and foreign vessels are restricted from carrying guano from them to the United States.—Portland Oregonian.

Nearing the Grave.

In old age infirmities and weakness hasten to close the gap between us and the grave. Happily scientific research and pharmacal skill have allied themselves in furnishing us a reliable means of ameliorating the ailments incident to declining years, and of renewing waning physical energy. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a widely comprehensive remedy in disease, and an inestimable blessing to the elderly, the feeble, and the convalescent. Rheumatic ailments, trouble with the kidneys and lumbago are among the more common ailments of the aged. These are effectually counteracted by the Bitters, which is likewise a prevention and curative of malarial complaints, dyspepsia, constipation, and biliousness. It is highly promotive of appetite, sleep, and the acquisition of vigor.

Ancient Engineering.

One of the sights of China is the antique bridge of Suen-tchen-fow, 2,500 feet long and 20 feet wide. It has on each side fifty-two piers, upon which huge stones are laid, some of them 20 feet long. Many thousand tons of stone were used in the erection of this wonderful bridge, which is regarded by engineers as indicating constructive talent as wonderful as that which raised the Egyptian pyramids.

Soapstone.

In China soapstone is largely used in preserving structures built of sandstone and other stones liable to crumble from the effect of the atmosphere; and the covering with powdered soapstone in the form of paint on some of the obelisks in that country composed of stone liable to atmospheric deterioration has been the means of preserving them intact for hundreds of years.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

{SEAL} A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

BROWN—And so Susan is to marry young Tenuous? Does he inherit anything? Black—Nothing, I believe, beyound a squint from his mother and a slight suggestion of the gout from his father.

The Past
Guarantees
The Future

The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured thousands of others is certainly sufficient reason for belief that it will cure you. It is the greatest blood purifier, the best nerve tonic, and quickest strength builder. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are a mild cathartic.

Royal Buckwheats.

For generations it has been the custom to mix the batter for buckwheat cakes with yeast or emptyings, retaining a portion of the batter left over from one morning to raise the cakes for the following day.

If kept too warm, or not used promptly, this batter becomes excessively sour and objectionable. Buckwheat cakes raised by this means are more often sour or heavy than light and sweet. If eaten daily they distress the stomach and cause skin eruptions and itching.

Instead of the old-fashioned way we have been making buckwheat cakes this winter with Royal Baking Powder, mixing the batter fresh daily, and find the result wonderfully satisfactory. They are uniformly light and sweet, more palatable and wholesome, and can be eaten continuously without the slightest digestive inconvenience. Besides they are mixed and baked in a moment, requiring no time to rise. Following is the receipt used:

Two cups of pure buckwheat flour (not "prepared" or mixed); one cup of wheat flour, two tablespoons of Royal Baking Powder, and one-half teaspoonful of salt, all sifted well together. Mix with milk into a thin batter and bake at once on a hot griddle. Once properly tested from this receipt, no other buckwheat will find its way to your table.—Domestic Cookery.

Easiest Way Out.

The shortest and most intelligible chancery suit on record was probably one—recorded by Mr. Croake James—between Lord Enniskillen and a lady litigant. It was about a piece of waste land that promised little harvest except to the lawyers, and his lordship called upon his opponent and proposed, instead of fighting it out, to toss for it. "Come," he said, producing a sovereign, "heads or tails, ma'am?"

This very sensible lady at once fell into his humor, and cried "Tails!"—which it was.

What rather spoils the story was that she had afterwards misgivings about the respectability of this way of settling matters, and, selling the land in question, bestowed it on a charity.

The Quaker and the Cow.

The silent meditations of some worthy Quakers, in a tiny country meeting-house assembled, were much disturbed one recent Sabbath morn by the loud buzzing of an angry wasp.

At last an elder solemnly rose, and stalking to the window he succeeded in killing the noisy intruder.

Silence once more reigned supreme. A few minutes later, however, the loud bellowing of a cow in closer proximity to the door again disturbed the congregation.

The elder rose, frowning at this second interruption, and a child who had watched with interest the killing of the wasp, demanded, in a whisper loud enough to be heard by all—

"Is he going to kill the cow?"

Walnuts.

Bordeaux is one of the largest exporting ports in the world, perhaps the largest, for walnuts; and small quantities are now sent from Chili to Europe. The culture of the so-called English walnut—which, by-the-way, is not an English tree at all, but a native of the Orient and of Central and Eastern Asia, whence it was early introduced into Europe—is now dispersed over Italy, from the Alps to the valleys of Sicily. It is thought however that the number of cultivated walnut trees in Italy is diminishing as the demand for timber is increasing, being in great request by the cabinet-makers.

Betrothal Custom in Spain.

A curious custom obtains in some portions af spain with regard to betrothals. A young man who looks with favor upon a handsome young senorita and wishes to gain her hand calls on the parents for three successive days at the same hour of the day. At the last call he leaves his walking stick, and, if he is to win the desired bride, the cane is handed to him when he calls again. But, if he is not regarded with favor, the cane is thrown into the street, and in this way the young man is made to understand that further calls will be useless.

Hole-Boring.

An ingenious German has invented a hole-boring contrivance which may be driven either by foot, hand, or steam power. The holes drilled by this dainty instrument are but one-thousandth of an inch in diameter and are the smallest that man has yet been able to pierce. The machine has a capacity of 22,000 revolutions per minute and is intended solely for drilling holes through diamonds, sapphires, rubies and other precious stones.

A pearl-like purity of color closely resembling the enchantment of early twilight; thus was her complexion made radiant by Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

THE topers nose proves him to be an artist in "still-life."

Buffalo's Intellectual Equine.

The driver of a delivery wagon found out recently that he had been driving an animal that knew almost as much as most men. The calks on the horse's shoes had been worn so smoothly that when he struck the icy asphalt he floundered around like a pig. He was urged on, however, but finally fell. The driver placed a blanket on the pavement to give the horse a firm footing in arising. When the animal got on all fours he felt so safe that the driver could not budge him from the spot. He had to unhitch him and get another blanket, and keeping one before him, the driver managed to get the animal to the blacksmith.—Buffalo Enquirer.

Rebukes from the Bench.

The remark made on a prolix Scotch counsel, when some one observed that he was "surely wasting a great deal of time," is among the wittiest of bar anecdotes: "Time! He has long exhausted time, and has encroached upon eternity!" It is seldom, to do the judges justice, that they encourage this failing in counsel; but in Cockburn's "Memoirs" we are told how a dull and commonplace advocate was almost frightened out of his wits by an observation of Lord Meadowbank (who thought his style undignified): "Declaim, sir; why don't you declaim? Speak to me as if I were a populrr assembly."

Numbering Postage Stamps.

Post Office Inspector Stuart will indorse to the Department at Washington that postage stamps be numbered. The frequency with which post office robberies have occurred lately, has revived the idea of the numbering of stamps as Treasury notes and Government bills are numbered. "There is absolutely no way of identifying stamps when they are stolen," says Inspector Stuart. "Thieves can dispose of stamps with little danger. It would cost the Government less than it loses annually through robberies to number the stamps so as to make identification easy."—Chicago Herald.

THE MODERN INVALID

Has tastes medicinally, in keeping with other luxuries. A remedy must be pleasantly acceptable in form, purely wholesome in composition, truly beneficial in effect and entirely free from every objectionable quality. If really ill he consults a physician; if constipated he uses the gentle family laxative Syrup of Figs.

Genesis of Chimneys in England.

Prior to the year 1200 A. D. there was scarcely a score of chimneys in all England. A queer law which regulated the matter allowed but one in each "religious house visited of the Sabbath day by over 500 people, and one in each great hall of lord or duke." In the houses of all others the smoke escaped through holes cut in the roofs for that purpose.—St. Louis Republic.

$4 to California.

This is our sleeping car rate on the Phillips-Rock Island Tourist Excursions from Chicago to Los Angeles or San Francisco, via the scenic route and Ogden. You can go with Phillips, the best of all excursion managers, for he has each party accompanied by a special agent who goes the entire trip with patrons. These personally conducted excursions leave Chicago twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday.

We have also a daily tourist car service, via our Southern route, through the beautiful Indian Territory and Fort Worth to Los Angeles and San Francisco. The tourist car rate via this route, the same. Apply at Rock Island ticket office, 104 Clark street. John Sebastian, G. P. A., C. R. I. & P. Ry., Chicago.

MRS. GRUBBS (at the theater)—I think it's perfectly disgraceful the fervent way those two lovers kiss on the stage. Mr. Grubbs—They don't really kiss, they only pretend to. They're married.

LUNG COMPLAINTS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, &c., are speedily relieved, and if taken in time, permanently cured by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant. You will find in it also a certain remedy for Coughs and Colds.

HICARDE—Still following the races, eh? Have any luck picking the winners? Oldsport—I am not trying to pick the winners. I've got a sure thing on plucking the losers. I'm bookmaking.

BEECHAM'S PILLS, are a wonderful medicine. Cures any bilious of nervous disorder, fever, sick headache, etc. 25 cents a box.

PEOPLE who are always wishing for some other kind of weather are getting it this year.

Hatch's Universal Cough Syrup will cure that cough surprisingly quick. 25c.

IT seems odd that a flying debtor should cross the ocean to avoid the bill-owes.

FITS! All fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

A GIRL waists her energy when she hugs another girl.

Those Pimples

Are tell-tale symptoms that your blood is not right—full of impurities, causing a sluggish and unsightly complexion. A few bottles of S. S. S. will remove all foreign and impure matter, cleanse the blood thoroughly and give a clear and rosy complexion. It is most effectual, and entirely harmless.

Chas. Heaton, 73 Laurel St., Phila., says:—"I have had for years a humor in my blood which made me dread to shave, as small boils or pimples would be cut thus causing shaving to be a great annoyance. After taking three bottles of my face is all clear and smooth as it should be—appetite splendid, sleep well and feel like running a foot race, all from the use of S. S. S.

S.S.S.

Send for Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free. SWIFT SPECIFIC CO, Atlanta, Ga.

Especially for Farmers, Miners, R. R. Hands and others. Double Sole extending down to the heel. EXTRA WEARING QUALITY. Thousands of Rubber Boot wearers testify this is the best they ever had. Ask your dealer for them, and don't be persuaded into an inferior article.

SWAMP-ROOT CURED ME.

INTENSE PAIN IN THE KIDNEYS AND BACK.

Urinary Disorder Instantly Relieved.

Moravia, N. Y. Sept. 7, 1893.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—Last winter I was taken with severe pains through me in the region of my kidneys; the pains were so severe I could hardly endure it; my face and eyes were as red as blood; the sweat stood in great drops all over me; I was as cold as ice and was in terrible pain while voiding urine. I purchased one bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, also one bottle of his U & O Anointment. They Gave me immediate relief.

I heated the Anointment in with a flat-iron. In four days time the pains had all disappeared. I think Swamp-Root one of the greatest medicines ever offered to suffering humanity. Any one wishing to write me may do so and I will gladly answer.

Yours truly, Frank B. Reynolds.

At Druggists, 50 cent and $1.00 Size.

"Invalids' Guide to Health" free—Consultation free.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., - Binghamton, N. Y.

WALTER BAKER & CO.

COCOA and CHOCOLATE

Highest Awards (Medals and Diplomas) World's Columbian Exposition.

On the following articles, namely:

BREAKFAST COCOA,
PREMIUM No. 1 CHOCOLATE,
GERMAN SWEET CHOCOLATE,
VANILLA CHOCOLATE,
COCOA BUTTER,

For "purity of material," "excellent flavor," and "uniform even composition."

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO., DORCHESTER, MASS.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAY-FEVER HEAD-ACHE 50 CENTS ELY BROS.

TRY THE CURE. HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists, or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.

DO YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL?

READ THIS ABOUT CALIFORNIA!

The WABASH RAILROAD has placed on sale low rate single and round trip tickets to all principal Pacific coast points, giving a wide choice of routes both going and returning, with an extreme return limit of Nine Months. Stop-overs are granted at pleasure on round trip tickets west of St. Louis and the Missouri River, and by taking the WABASH but one change of cars is necessary to reach Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Sacramento and Portland, Ore. Remember the WABASH is the peoples favorite route and is the only line running magnificent free Reclining Chair Cars and Palace Sleepers in all through fast trains to St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address any of the undermentioned Passenger Agents of the Wabash System.

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
F. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. CHANDLER, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

SEEDS WARRANTED. Best in the World.

By mail, postage paid, 1 cent a package and up. Grand lot of EXTRAS given with every order. Prettiest and only FREE Catalogue in the world with pictures of all varieties. Send yours and neighbors' address.

R. H. SHUMWAY, ROCKFORD, - ILLINOIS.

BEST $3 SHOE. W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE equals custom work, costing from $4 to $6, best value for the money in the world. Name and price stamped on the bottom. Every pair warranted. Take no substitute. See local papers for full description of our complete lines for ladies and gentlemen or send for Illustrated Catalogue giving instructions how to order by mail. Postage free. You can get the best bargains of dealers who push our shoes.

WALL PAPER

We will sell you our best gilt wall paper and border for a room

10x12 for $1.25 | 12x14 for $1.50
14x16 for 1.75 | 16x18 for 2.00

Ceilings to match from 5c to 40c extra. Send 6c for Sample and full Directions for Hanging.

SCOVILLE WALL PAPER MFG. CO., 250 to 254 S. Clinton St., Chicago.

ASTHMA CURED.

POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC

Gives Relief in Five Minutes. Trial Package sent FREE. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent post-paid on receipt of $1.00. Six Boxes, $4.00. Add.

Thos. Popham, Phila, Pa.

DON'T MARRY

until you are cured of that weakness. State your case in CONFIDENCE and get a personal letter in reply to it from a doctor that treats nothing else, and who will prove to be your friend. Address, Box 98, Dubuque, Ia.

PERSONAL If the gentleman who told his companion on the train that he would buy 10,000 bushels of wheat if he knew how to get about it, will write C. F. VAN WINKLE & CO., 236 La Salle Street, Chicago, and inclose stamp, he will receive a copy of the book, "Speculation and How to Trade," free of charge.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES Cure relief ASTHMA. Prices 25 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

PATENTS and PENSIONS Secured. No advance fee. Fitzgerald & Co., 7th and G., Washington, D. C.

W. N. U. - - - - - No. 7—94

When Writing to Advertisers, say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

Early Risers, Early Risers, Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, sick headache, dyspepsia and nervousness. 4tf

Just a little sunshine
Or just a little rain.
And then the goundhog question
Is settled once again.

Not one minute elapses between the taking of One Minute Cough Cure and relief. Why shouldn't people take One Minute Cough Cure? They should. They do.

The mosquito has started to stick the bills announcing his farewell appearance for the season.

To Horse Owners.

For putting a horse in a fine healthy condition, use Morris' English Stable Powders. They tone up the system, aid in digestion, cure loss of appetite, relieve constipation, correct kidney disorders and destroy worms, giving new life to an old or over-worked horse. 25 cents per package; 5 for $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke. tf

A good many concerns that have gone under lately have been sunk by their floating debts.

All Free.

Those who have used Dr. King's New Discovery know its value, and those who have not, have now the opportunity to try it, free. Call on the advertised druggist and get a trial bottle free. Send your name and address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pill free, as well as a copy of Guide to Health and Household Instructor, free. All of which is guaranteed to do you good and cost you nothing. Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 4

PROF. NIEL,

government chemist, writes: I have carefully analyzed your "Royal Ruby Port Wine," bought by me in the open market, and certify that I found the same absolutely pure and well aged. This wine is especially recommended for its health-restoring and building up properties; it strengthens the weak and restores lost vitality; particularly adapted for convalescents, the aged, nursing mothers and those reduced and weakened by over-work and worry. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby"; $1 per quart bottles, pints 60 cts. Sold by

F. E. Davenport.

Cured His Rheumatism.

Joseph V. Dory, of Warsaw, Ill. was troubled with rheumatism and tried a number of different remedies, but says none of them seemed to do him any good, but finally he got hold of one that speedily cured him. He was much pleased with it, and felt sure that others similarly afflicted would like to know what the remedy was that cured him. He states for the benefit of the public that it is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Distemper—Its Cause and Treatment

Is the title of our little book which tells all about one of the most loathsome and dangerous diseases affecting horses, sheep and dogs, with unquestionable proof of the merits of Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure in the treatment of the same. Sent free by addressing the Well's Medicine Co., LaFayette, Ind. This remedy is sold by Matheny & Gerke.

It's just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as anything else. It's easier to cure a severe cold or cough with it Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure; better medicine; better results; better try it. 4tf

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. A perfect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure piles. 4tf

He Recommends It.

Mr. Albert Favorite, of Arkansas City Kan., wishes to give our readers the benefit of his experience with colds. He says: "I contracted a cold early last spring that settled on my lungs, and had hardly recovered from it when I caught another that hung on all summer and left me with a hacking cough which I thought I never would get rid of. I had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy some fourteen years ago with much success, and concluded to try it again. When I had got through with one bottle my cough had left me, and I have not suffered with a cough or cold since. I have recommended it to others and all speak well of it." 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the New Great South American Kidney Cure. This new remedy is a great Surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Druggists, Auburn, Ind.

Will Make Hens Lay.

Well's Hoosier Poultry Powder is the greatest egg producer known. A small sum expended for it will pay one hundred per cent on the cost in an increased amount of eggs, as it furnishes all the material necessary for their construction, and keeps the hen in good healthy condition Price 25 cents. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

How's Your Horse?

Morris' English Stable Liniment will positively cure his lameness, sprains, bunches, sweeney, galls, puffs, poll evil, scratches, callouses, barbed-wire cuts and flesh wounds of every description. No other preparation equals it for promptness, safety and economy. Price 50 cts. and $1. Sold by Matheny & Gerke.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in

DeKalb Co.:
Robbins & McCord,	Auburn,
F. E. Davenport,	"
J. D. Campbell,	Waterloo,
Willis & Co.,	"
Geo. Kehrer,	Butler,
S. G. Stone,	"
O. P. Raber,	Corunna,
W. M. Mercer,	"
J. M. Lefern,	Garrett,
Patterson Bros.,	St. Joe,
J. W. Wyatt,	Concord.

IVORY

IVORY

SOAP

99 44/100% PURE

NO IRRITATION.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

See the World's Fair for Fifteen Cents

Upon receipt of your address and fifteen cents in postage stamps, we will mail you prepaid, our Souvenir Portfolio of the World's Columbian Exposition. The regular price is fifty cents, but as we want you to have one we make the price nominal. You will find it a work of art and a thing to be prized. It contains full page views of the great buildings, with descriptions of same, and is executed in the highest style of art. If not satisfied with it after you get it, we will refund the stamps and let you keep the book. Address H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, Ill.

A correspondent asks, "how can I get a copious flow of language?" Try stepping on a tack.

A Wonderful Medicine.

A hale old man, Mr. Jas. Wilson, of Allens Springs, Ill., who is over 60 years of age, says: "I have in my time tried a great many medicines, some of excellent quality,; but never before did I find any that would so completely do all that is claimed for it as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhœa Remedy. It is truly a wonderful medicine." For sale by Robbins & McCord.

Non-pull-out

is an arbitrary word used to designate the only bow (ring) which cannot be pulled off the watch.

Here's the idea

The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

It positively prevents the loss of the watch by theft, and avoids injury to it from dropping.

IT CAN ONLY BE HAD with Jas. Boss Filled or other watch cases bearing this trade mark—

All watch dealers sell them without extra cost. A watch case opener will be sent free to any one by the manufacturers.

Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

OLD ELK BOURBON & PURE RYE

Shipped pure and unadulterated direct from the distillery. Pronounced a pure and wholesome tonic-stimulant by the medical fraternity everywhere. Gives life, strength and happiness to the weak, sick, aged and infirm.

If you cannot procure it of your druggist or liquor dealers, upon receipt of $1.50 we will express prepaid to an address a full quart sample bottle of Old Elk Rye or Bourbon.

STOLL, VANNATTA & CO., DISTILLERS, Lexington, Ky.

M'NAGNY BLUNDERS AGAIN!

The Kendallville P. O Matter Shows Him at His Best. The Most Gigantic Fiasco in the Long List of His Blundering.

The COURIER has several times called attention to the ridiculous performances of our member of Congress, especially in the matter of appointments, and as a few have criticised us for this, we propose to go into details in one instance of the many. And we think by the time this article is read over carefully, every reasonable man, no matter to what party he belongs, will agree with us. Going past all the needless blunders he has made over the district, let us take the latest—the appointment of a postmaster at Kendallville. There, as in many other places, he could have appointed a respectable and influential man, and had to choose from such able and well known democrats as Ex-mayor Charles Aichele, Prof. W. P Myers, who was a captain in the service and a man of fine ability, Dr Parker, editor of the News, and several others whose names escape us. But with all this array of good men, he did his usual thing—he went out of the way to take up a man nobody would ask for or cared for and who was totally unfit. He took a man named Orr. To bring about this state of things, he took over a year from the time of the last election. Recently Orr came out and refused to run, as people had learned of his unfitness, a thing which it would appear McNagny had not heard of, or if he had, did not object to. Now, instead of going at once, and appointing one of the good men named above, he sent word to them to hold an election—a plan he had up to that time opposed. Several of the available democrats refused to let their names go to the election as candidates, and the field narrowed down to a few. Just before the day came, Harrison, clerk at the Kelley House, it is said, suggested the name of Jerry Foley, an insurance man, and one that we are informed is on excellent terms with the saloons there. Foley's crowd took up the idea and gave him a majority. But as he was not a representative democrat and was not acceptable to the better sort of people, many objected to him. The election had been held under the forms of the Australian law, but for some reason the returns were not certified to and sent to McNagny. When he did receive them, he claims a sheet or two with the names on had been torn off so he could not tell how the vote was. He at once wrote a savage letter to Mr. Campbell, the inspector of the election, in whose hands the paper had been, charging Campbell with purposely mutilating the returns.

This is pretty rough on Campbell, who is a man of the highest respectability and has the confidence of the community. But all this did not prevent McNagny from recommending Foley to the department and seeing that his name was sent to the senate for confirmation, though it does not appear whether McNagny is acquainted with Foley or not. All parties in Kendallville are talking of the affair, and both papers have articles reflecting on this last and most foolish performance of the man who, unfortunately for this district, happens to be its representative just at this critical time—just when we need a man with a clear head and a disposition to appoint men to office who are at least respectable and competent. McNagny seems in most cases to have gone to the most undesirable element in the democratic party to get the men he chooses for the various offices in his gift. Some of these are an outrage on the party, and very few of them do him or the party any credit. Why his tastes take this level it is impossible for us to explein, and we have called for an explanation several times, but with no result. To give our readers a better idea of the Kendallville fiasco, we append some articles from the papers there, including McNagny's letter to Mr Campbell, that we mention above. The first two are from the Standard.

WHO DID IT AND WHY?

More About Those Pesky Returns.

A few days ago as will be remembered we noticed the delay in sending forward the returns of the recent election for postmaster in this city to Congressman McNagny. We also stated that Mr. Foley, after being informed that the election returns had not been sent, called upon Mr. Campbell, who handed the same to him and he (Mr. Foley) sent them out by the first mail. The envelope containing the returns was addressed to Congressman McNagny, who received it Sunday afternoon, Jan. 28th It was generally supposed this would end the "returns" question, but not so, as the following letter received last week by Mr. Campbell will show:

House of Representatives U. S.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 '94

Henry Campbell, Esq., Kendallville, Ind.

DEAR SIR:—I have received your letter containing the poll list of the recent election held in your city, and one half of the tally sheet with the bill for the expenses of said election. I will see that these expenses are paid in a few days. I cannot conceive your purpose in mutilating the tally sheet by tearing it in two and retaining one half of it. If you think that by so doing you can defeat consideration of said election by the postoffice department, you are greatly mistaken, as I will fully present the whole subject as I understand it. How can you reconcile the mutilation of this tally sheet with your conscience and duty as the man who was entrusted by the public with the supervision and conduct of said election? You first retain all papers in your possession with the evident intention of not forwarding any of them, either to myself or the postoffice department, and when you finally conclude to do so, you so mutilate the most important paper that it shows nothing whatever as to the result of said election. Such conduct may be considered correct and proper by some people in your city, but I believe it to be a betrayal of the trust which the people repose in you.

Yours truly, W. F. McNAGNY.

Mr. Campbell was dumbfounded upon receiving this letter and unable to explain anything about the mutilation described. He insists that he did not open the envelope after receiving it from the polling clerks, M. S. Lyman and W. H Gappinger, who prepared the returns and sealed the envelope which enclosed them, with sealing wax in the usual way. He was so chagrined and mortified upon receiving Mr. McNagny's letter that he went before an officer and executed an affidavit, setting forth his innocence and giving a complete history of the part he had in the election, his care of the returns, etc.

As we understand the matter, the poll clerks had two poll lists and two tally sheets, both of which were duly executed. One poll list and one tally sheet after being duly made out and signed by the full board were put into a large (common) envelope, and in addition to the gum sealing, was sealed with sealing wax. The envelope was handed to Mr. Campbell as inspector of the election. The question arises, by whom were the returns mutilated and for what purpose? Mr. Aichele was with Mr. McNagny when the returns were received by him in Washington on Sunday morning. He describes Mr. McNagny as being much displeased, etc., as is indicated in his letter.

After Mr. Foley received the envelope he showed the same to Mr. Lyman and asked him if it was the correct one and if was in the same condition as when given to Mr. Campbell. It was Mr. Lyman's opinion that it was the same and all right. The seals bore no mark of violence that he or Mr. Foley observed The matter is shrouded in mystery and it is extremely uncertain who tampered with the papers and for what purpose Mr. McNagny evidently regards it as an insult, intended to show disrespect and contempt to his wishes and the election as well. Mr. Campbell has the respect and confidence of the people here, and we believe very few, if any, think he would be guilty of such an act.

Election Expenses.

The expenses of the recent election for postmaster, a bill of which we observe has been forwarded to Congressman McNagny, amount to about $47. This includes the bill from The News office of $29 and over for printing. Just how much of this amount, if any, is for publishing the McNagny letter, we are not advised, but suppose it is included in the items. Mr. McNagny has kindly offered to meet this expense, though in the end we presume the lucky man will be expected to "whack up" the amount Some criticism is expressed that the bill was sent to Washington at such an early stage in the proceedings. But "all's well that ends well."

The "News" Takes a Hand.

The Kendallville News (democratic), Dr. Parker's paper, also takes a hand in the fight and is very severe on McNagny We give four articles from the News, so as to give Dr. Parker's view of the muddle. His first is headed,

"Humiliated."

Wm. F. McNagny, the man whom the democracy of the 12th congressional district sent to congress as their representative, has finally got in his work and a postmaster of Kendallville has been appointed. To say that the people of this city are disappointed, chagrined and feel disgraced over his conduct is simply putting it very mild. The effect of this appointment will be the utter demoralization and complete overthrow of the democratic party in this city—a blow that it will take years to recover from. The democratic organization of Kendallville has been a formidable one and it can point with pride to its successes, but this blow, this stab, has wrecked it. To those who have served in the democratic organization of this city for years, spent their time and their money to build it up, to them the disgrace is almost unbearable.

The cause of our disgrace is the incompetency of W F. McNagny,—the man without principle—the man without judgment—the man without honor,—totally unfit to hold the position he fills to-day—he is the author of our misfortunes and the cause of the calamity which has overtaken us.

This we are positive is the judgment of every fair minded man to-day who has interested himself in McNagny's work or knows his course.

The next article relates to the mutilation of the returns:

"The Fort Wayne Journal of February 6th had a defamatory article in regard to our postoffice election. It censures Mr. Campbell, the inspector, for not forwarding the returns to Mr. McNagny. And now as to the returns. A question arose in Mr. Campbell's mind on the evening of the election what to do with the papers. Mr. McNagny did not say in his letter that the papers should be sent to him and therefore Mr. Campbell laid them in his desk in his shop, (not a barn) as the Journal had it. The facts are the Foley people should have known enough to have had the papers sent to McNagny the evening of the election, but they failed to do this, but they did send a telegram and then adjourned to more congenial quarters. The leading man of the crowd was a horse buyer by the name of Foley, who did the business and wrote the dispatch and said that was all sufficient. In regard to mutilating the returns Mr. Campbell made affidavit that the returns were not out of his possession from the evening of the election until he handed them to Mr. Foley, and Mr. Lyman, one of the judges at the election, examined the envelope and said it was just as the board left it, and the opinion is here by all good people that if the returns were mutilated Wm. F. McNagny did it. It is believed that the honorable gentleman had been indulging in too much fluidity that muddles the brain to know just what he did do, a condition that Mr. McNagny is often in.

The News makes the direct charge that McNagny mutilated the "returns" His purpose was to scandrlize the citizens of this city and impress the department with the worthlessness of the people who contended for better things."

The Columbia City Commercial thinks it strange that Mr. McNagny should be called on to pay the election expenses. If it had read McNagny's letter it would be able to see where that comes in. McNagny says, if the successful candidate will not pay the expenses he would upon a certified copy of the expenses. It was simply Mr. McNagny's own proposition.

Vick's Floral Guide, 1894.

It contains descriptions that describe, not mislead; illustrations that instruct, not exaggerate. This year it comes to us in a suit of gold. Printed in eight different colors besides black. Colored plates of Chrysanthemums, Poppies and Vegetables. On the front cover is a very exquisite bunch of Vick's New White Branching Aster, and on the back is the New Double Anemone; 112 pages filled with many new novelties of value as well as all the old leading varieties of flowers and vegetables.

We advise our friends who intend to do anything in the garden this year to consult Vick before starting operations. Send 10 cents to James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y., for Vick's Guide, it costs nothing, as you can deduct the 10 cents from first order It certainly will pay you

CALIFORNIA MIDWINTER FAIR

Harrington's Excursion Feb. 24, 1894.

Send for book giving full particulars as to how the party will travel, list of hotels where they will stop, price of tickets and map showing route over which this excursion will pass. Seven thousand miles will be traveled in elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars, with Dining Car attached, for the exclusive use of this party. Do not forget that if you are going to California and do not wish to return with this party, you can do so, and so have the benefit of this special service of elegant Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, as well as visit all the many points of interest mapped out for this tour en route to San Francisco

Call on or address 27

G. L. HARRINGTON,
46 N. High Street,
Telephone 868. COLUMBUS, O.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

FAYETTE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Is beautifully located and its buildings are very attractive. In order to give ample accommodation for the present demand, another large building has been added. No saloons. Equipments are excellent; pure associations. Teachers are specialists—men and women of power and culture, carefully selected for their special work. Normal, Commercial, Scientific, Shorthand, Typewriting, Elocutionary and Musical departments in addition to the regular college courses. Our aim is to endow each pupil with the four great essentials to true success: vigorous health, accurate knowledge, right purpose, and executive ability. $27. pays tuition, board and room-rent, for 10 weeks; $75. for 30 weeks.

For Catalogue, address, J. E. DODDS, Pres't, Fayette. O.

The Best History OF THE EXPOSITION
The Best Souvenir
Is Found in the

ART PORTFOLIOS OF WORLD'S FAIR VIEWS

From Photographs by the Official Artist of the

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT,

Distributed by The Inter Ocean.

16 BEAUTIFUL ART PORTFOLIOS. | 256 SUPERB PHOTOGRAPHIC REPRODUCTIONS.

How to Secure This Valuable Interesting Instructive Educational Series.

CLIP 5 Art Portfolio Coupons from The Inter Ocean and send them with 10 cents in stamps or coin, to cover cost of postage, wrapping, etc., to Art Portfolio Department, Inter Ocean Building, Chicago, and one portfolio containing 16 pictures 11x13 inches in size, with interesting and authentic descriptions, will be mailed to you. The entire series of 16 Portfolios, 256 Photographs, if purchased at retail, would cost at a low estimate $125. No such opportunity was ever before presented. No such opportunity can ever again be offered.

BACK NUMBERS of the Portfolio may be had for a set of 3 week-day and one Sunday coupon, which will accumulate, and 10 cents for each Portfolio.

$30,000 Was appropriated by the U. S. Government to cover the expense of securing these photographs for preservation in the archives at Washington.

REMEMBER The Inter Ocean has the Exclusive Right to make the distribution of these reproductions from the Official Government Photographs.

SPECIAL REQUEST Please favor your friends who may not be regular readers of The Inter Ocean by informing them of the particulars of this unequaled offer.

PROVIDE FOR BACK NUMBERS This series began Nov. 13 and one book a week has been issued since. Back Portfolios can be secured in exchange for 3 WEEKDAY AND 1 SUNDAY COUPON. By saving the extra coupons each week all back Portfolios can thus be easily obtained.

CAUTION In sending for Portfolios do not include any other business or requests with your order. It is impossible to answer letters in this department. State plainly the Portfolio you desire, giving its number. Send coupons, etc., to

ART PORTFOLIO DEPT., INTER OCEAN BLDG., CHICAGO.

WEAK, NERVOUS AND DISEASED MEN.

Thousands of Young and Middle Aged Men are annually swept to a premature grave through early indiscretion and later excesses. Self abuse and Constitutional Blood Diseases have ruined and wrecked the life of many a promising young man. Have you any of the following Symptoms: Nervous and Despondent; Tired in Morning; No Ambition; Memory Poor; Easily Fatigued; Excitable and Irritable; Eyes Blur; Pimples on the Face; Dreams and Drains at Night; Restless; Haggard Looking; Blotches; Sore Throat; Hair Loose; Pains in Body; Sunken Eyes; Lifeless; Distrustful and Lack of Energy and Strength. Our New Method Treatment will build you up mentally, physically and sexually.

Read What DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN Have Done.

Cured in one month

"At 14 years of age I learned a bad habit which almost ruined me. I became nervous and weak. My back troubled me. I could stand no exertion. Head and eyes became dull. Dreams and drains at night weakened me. I tried seven Medical Firms, Electric Belts, Patent Medicines and Family Doctors. They gave me no help. A friend advised me to try Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. They sent me one month's treatment and it cured me. I could feel myself gaining every day. Their New Method Treatment cures when all else fails." They have cured many of my friends."

Dr. Moulton.

Cured 5 years ago.

CURES GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

"Some 8 years ago I contracted a serious constitutional blood disease. I went to Hot Springs to treat for syphilis. Mercury almost killed me. After a while the symptoms again appeared. Throat became sore, pains in limbs, pimples on face, blotches, eyes red, loss of hair, glands enlarged, etc. A medical friend advised Drs. Kennedy & Kergan's New Method Treatment. It cured me, and I have had no symptoms for five years. I am married and happy. As a doctor, I heartily recommend it to all who have this terrible disease—syphilis." It will eradicate the poison from the blood."

Capt. Townsend.

Cured in 1891.

15 YEARS IN DETROIT. 150,000 CURED.

"I am 33 years of age, and married. When young I led a gay life. Early indiscretions and later excesses made trouble for me. I became weak and nervous. My kidneys became affected and I feared Bright's disease. Married life was unsatisfactory and my home unhappy. I tried everything—all failed till I took treatment from Drs. Kennedy and Kergan. Their New Method built me up mentally, physically and sexually. I feel and act like a man in every respect. Try them."

No Names Used Without Written Consent of Patient.

Our New Method Treatment never fails in curing Diseases of men. It strengthens the body, stops all drains and losses, purifies the blood, clears the brain, builds up the nervous and sexual systems and restores lost vitality to the body.

We Guarantee to Cure Nervous Debility, Failing Manhood, Syphilis, Varicocele, Stricture, Gleet, Unnatural Discharges, Weak Parts and All Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

REMEMBER Drs. Kennedy & Kergan are the leading specialists of America. They guarantee to cure or no pay. Their reputation and fifteen years of business are at stake. You run no risk. Write them for an honest opinion, no matter who treated you. It may save you years of regret and suffering. Charges reasonable. Write for a Question List and Book Free. Consultation Free.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN 148 Shelby St. Detroit, Mich.

YOUR BOY will look trim and tip top, if he is clothed—back, legs, head and feet—with The Hub's

"HEAD TO FOOT" BOY'S OUTFIT FOR $5.00

It's an unusual offer—includes A FULL SUIT OF CLOTHES, Ages 5 to 15 years—every thread all wool—double breasted coat—pants made with double knees—double seats—taped seams (will outwear 2 pairs of the usual kind)—A Stanley cap, made like illustration—to match the suit—and A Pair of Shoes of solid leather, first-class, strong and neat,—the entire head-to-foot outfit for $5.00.

Sent on receipt of price, or C. O. D. with privilege of examination to any part of the United States if $1.00 deposit is sent with order. If not satisfactory we agree to refund the purchase price. Samples of cloth FREE. In ordering include 65c postage.

THE HUB, Clothiers, Hatters, Furnishers and Shoers. CHICAGO, ILL. State and Jackson St.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXIV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY FEBRUARY 22, 1894. NUMBER 8.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

No. 342. 170 Acres of fine land well adapted to grain or stock purposes, 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler.

Frame dwelling: main 22 x 24, wing 14 x 28, wing 14 x 31; 11 rooms, cellar under entire building.

Three good barns, all in good repair conveniently located; one 36 x 50, another 30 x 66, and the last one 22 x 28. Two good wells, 1 cistern, windmill and elevated tank. Two orchards of about 150 in the two. Fences in fine condition. 150 acres in fine state of cultivation, balance timber. No waste land. Sandy, loamy soil. Easy payment plan.

No. —. 44 Acres of land in Wilmington township.

Frame dwelling, 2 story, 16 x 28; wing, 12 x 28, and summer kitchen. Cellar and well.

Frame barn 40 x 65, granary, wagon house and corn crib combined, 20 x 26, and hog and hen house.

4 Acres orchard, all winter grafted fruit; fences in A1 condition; 5 acres timber; 60 rods tiling. No waste land. Soil, black loam.

Price, $2,500. Easy payments.

No. —. Fine residence property on South VanBuren street.

Elegant property. Splendid location. Fruit in large variety and of best quality.

Price, $1,500.

Vacant lots in Widney's addition on long time, easy terms.

No. 157. 40 Acres, 4 miles north of Butler, Ind.

Good log house and barn. 20 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Soil, black loam. Good fences. ¾ mile to school and church

Price, $1,200. Long time, easy terms.

Dwellings, vacant lots and other desirable property in Garrett to exchange for land in this county and pay cash difference.

80 Acres land in good cultivation to exchange for town property in Auburn, or will exchange for a well located meat market. Will trade for smaller farm.

Price, $3,300.

80 Acres good land in Butler township, located near school and church and with in 1 mile of railroad.

Good buildings and fences and plenty of fruit.

Price, $4,200.

Will exchange for a smaller tract near some good town.

No 1890. 120-acre farm, 3½ miles from Butler, 95 acres clear, fences good, 30 acres timber, well drained, part tiled; 2 good orchards and a fine pear orchard; has a good 8-room house, with cellar, cistern, well and barn. Will sell very low and on long time.

No. 1810. 80 acre farm, 1½ miles from Newville, 65 acres clear, 15 acres timber, good fences; good 9 room house; barn 36x50 feet; orchard of 70 trees; well and cistern; mostly black soil, no waste land; 40 acres in timothy and clover. Farm is in good state of cultivation; 1 mile to school and church. Price $3,200, $500 cash down, balance on long time. This is a bargain.

No. 2600. 80 acre farm, 2½ miles S.E. of Auburn, 65-acres clear, balance in timber, no waste land; good 2-story house; good barn 48x80; corn crib, hog pen, wagon and tool shed; cistern, good well with new wind pump and tank; good orchard; good fences; splendid soil. Will sell cheap on long time; will take good house and lot in Auburn or Garrett at what it is worth.

No. 1717. 90 acres of land about 7 miles from Auburn; house 18x24 with L 13 x 17; barn 17x23 with shed 12x23; large granary, well and cistern, orchard; 35 acres under cultivation, 15 acres good timber, balance well drained low land for pasture. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time.

No. 1725. 44½ acre farm, all clear, no waste land; good 4-room house; bank barn 47x76; good orchard; 2 wells. Price $1,800, ½ cash, balance on reasonable time.

No. 3,000. 64-acre farm 6 miles east of Auburn, 60 acres clear, 4 acres timber, well drained, all black sandy loam; fair house; good barn, 38x48; one of the best orchards in the county, an abundance of peach, pear, cherries, grapes, currants, berries, etc.; about 18 acres in wheat, 20 acres in grass, no waste land. This farm can be sold very low on terms that will certainly suit the purchaser.

No. 315. 60-acre farm in Jackson tp.; has a 7-room, 2-story brick house, with cellar, well and cistern; barn 32x64; orchard of 80 trees; all clear and in good cultivation. Will sell for $3,000, ½ cash, balance on long time, easy payments This is a bargain.

MONEY! MONEY! Do you want to borrow any money? We can loan you any amount you want, from $500 to $20,000, at a low rate of interest, on long time, with privilege of partail payments. If you need money, do not put it off very long, but call at once. The demand for long time loans is increasing and our money cannot hold out long at the present rate of interest.

Do you need any Fire Insurance or Life Insurance? If you call on us and learn our terms, we have a line of the very best companies that pay losses promptly. Call at our office, for we have no agents running through the country soliciting. We can save you money if you need any thing in this line.

Are you going to travel? If so, come and see us. We can sell you a Railroad or Steamship ticket to any point in the world. If you want any information about rates or tickets—cheerfully given, call on us. No harm done if you do not buy.

We represent the National Building Ass'n. of Indianapolis, the best company of its kind in Indiana. Do you want to build or pay off a mortgage on your home, and pay it off in small payments. Parties having money to invest will do well to call on us at once.

If you want to buy or sell a farm, town property or personal property, give us a call. Our commission will be reasonable.

We make a specialty of handling stocks of goods of all kinds. Can either sell or trade them. We take pleasure in showing our property, free of charge, to any who think of buying.

(We have a number of Western and Southern farms that we can trade for land or town property here. Will give or take the difference.)

Rickel & Sprott,

Auburn, Ind.

— UNDER FARMERS BANK.

THE DEETERS MURDER TRIAL.

SCENE OF THE SHOOTING.

The above plan shows the scene of the murders. Deeters was striking his mother and her screams attracted Mrs. Lowe, who lived at Bachtel's, her father's. She came over to see what was the matter, and as she started back home, he shot her. Then he went to the railway crossing and shot Yates, who was coming home from Butler. Yates was not seriously hurt and got away. Deeters loaded his now empty revolver, and got up to the main road in time to meet Bachtel going to Butler for a doctor for his daughter. Deeters shot him, and later on set fire to the barn.

THE TRIAL.

As mentioned last week, the great trouble is to get a jury. One reason that had been advanced to satisfy people who objected to the expense of a trial at a distance, was that a jury could be had so promptly that quite a sum would be saved in that item. This, they said would offset some of the other extra expense. But it does not turn out that way. Work began Monday afternoon and the examination of jurors went forward all the week. "Many were called, but few were chosen." By Saturday night extra men to the number of 100 had been called, and then 20 more were added to this list. The panel was kept full all the time and as one man would be excused, leaving a vacant seat, another was called to it. Among the questions put to the men were whether they did or did not believe in hanging; whether they did or did not believe in the plea of insanity on general principles, that is whether they thought a plea of insanity ought to excuse a crime, and whether in this case they had formed an opinion in advance as to Deeters' sanity or insanity, and if they had so formed an opinion, whether testimony might or might not induce them to change their minds. Also, whether they were or were not willing to allow full weight to the testimony of the mother and sisters as to Deeters' insanity. In bringing out these points the attorneys took pains to ask carefully prepared questions in order to prevent the juror from purposely concealing anything from them. Even after a man had apparently satisfied both sides he was in several cases put out with or without a reason being given—sometimes after he had been in his place half a day or a day. All this made delay. In order to give our readers some idea of the details, we quote a few extracts from the very full accounts given by the Angola papers, especially from the Magnet and the Republican by whose courtesy we are in possession of full reports.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Marcus Moore of York had some knowledge of the case, read an account of it in the Republican and talked some about it. Had some opinion about case. No conscientious scruples against inflicting death penalty. Talked with Mr. Sattison about case at one time, but not about the question of defendant's insanity. No opinion that would influence his action on trial of case or embarrass him as a juror.

Alexander Halstead, of Pleasant, read about matter in paper, and had no opinion as to guilt or innocence of defendant, and had no scruples about inflicting death penalty in proper case. Thought he could give defendant a fair trial, render a just verdict on the law and the evidence. If the law is that if there is a reasonable doubt of defendant's sanity he should be acquitted, then he would acquit him even if he was unable to give any reason for such doubt. Would give same credit to testimony of defendant's mother and sisters as to that of other witnesses, would be governed by law and evidence and not by any other consideration.

Homer Robinson excused for cause, having formed an opinion which it would require some evidence to remove.

John Cameron, of Otsego, read about the matter in the Republican and talked some about it with others, and formed some opinion and it was hard for him to say whether such opinion would prevent him giving the defendant an impartial trial. Thought it might prevent him to some extent from fairly considering the case. Excused for cause.

Horace N. VanAuken, of Steuben, read about matter in Herald, Plaindealer, Chicago and Indianapolis papers. From what he read he had formed some opinion which he rather thought would prevent him from fairly trying case. Thought defendant pretty guilty. Excused for cause.

Prof. A. W. Long, of Steuben, had heard about the case. First intimation he had of matter he read in Waterlooo Press sent him by his brother soon after it occurred. Brother of B. B. Long, of Waterloo, with whom he had talked about the matter. Brother had lived near the Deeters' once and felt a good deal of interest in the matter. Had no such conscientious scruples as would preclude him from inflicting death penalty if defendant should be found guilty.

Stephen Weiss had no scruples against death penalty. Excused.

Delmer Squier, being further interrogated, said he feared he did form an opinion when he first heard of the tragedy, but thinks he has none now. As to hanging, thought he might consent to it in some extreme cases, but they would be rare. Replying to questions put by Mr. Barr, said that if Deeters was sane and coolly murdered Bechtel he would agree to a verdict to hang him. Judge McClellan's challenge for cause being overruled by the court, Mr. Squier retired on a peremptory challenge by the state.

John Carey, of Salem, has relatives in DeKalb county, one of them living in Butler. Has a decided opinion. Could change his mind, if convinced that he was wrong, otherwise not. He was examined at some length, but strenuously maintained the position just outlined. Challenged by the defense, and excused.

John H. Elliott, of Jackson, being examined by Mr. Barr, said he had a slight opinion, but it would yield to good evidence. In regard to doubt, said he must have a strong doubt as to sanity before he would acquit. (At this point Mr. Elliott complained that Mr. Barr's questions were so long, and contained so many propositions, that he got lost in trying to remember them, and Mr. Barr said he would try to make them plain.) Mr. Elliott declared that what he had heard had not prompted him to entertain any bias or prejudice against the defendant. Could give testimony of mother and sisters such credit as he might think it deserved, and had no objections to hanging in proper cases. Challenged for cause by the defense.

Mortimer Lord, of Clear Lake, had heard nothing of the tragedy, till two days ago, and did not know till he arrived in court, that the defense is to be insanity. No prejudice againt the testimony of mother, sisters or doctors. Should he have doubts as to the sanity of respondent, would acquit. No objections to capital punishment. Mr. Lord appeared to fill the bill, and he was retained.

Before adjourning Saturday evening the court ordered twenty more special jurors drawn, and summoned to be in attendance next Monday morning.

The eleven men in the jury box were instructed that they must remain together over Sunday; that they would be provided with meals and lodging as heretofore; that they must not converse about the case on trial, nor communicate with people outside their own body on any subject; that they might go out for exercise during Sunday, provided they all go, and they march together; but they must not speak to anybody, nor permit people to talk to them. One juror asked if they might attend church, and Judge Powers said that it could not be permitted; that he believed in going to church, but that under the circumstances, the best way to avoid technical objections which might be raised hereafter, was for them to stay away

Adjourned till Monday at 8:30 a. m.

Of the twenty peremptory challenges to which each side is entitled, the state had used nine and the defense ten, when court adjourned Saturday evening.

MONDAY MORNING

Court was opened at 8:30 this a. m., with but few spectators present. The prisoner was brought in a few minutes later. He had not been shaved for several days, and his stubby black beard partially covered his snow-white skin, so that he did not look so pale as he did the early part of the week. His gaze was not so intently riveted to the floor as it was during the first few days of the trial. His mother took her seat by his side, and the trial was resumed.

Cyrus J. Helmer, of Salem, was the first man called, and Mr. Butler interrogated him for the prosecution. He had heard something of the tragedy, but had no opinion, bias, nor prejudice. No objections to capital punishment. State passed the jury for the present, and Mr. Barr examined him for the defense. Knows Croxton by sight, but don't know any of the other attorneys by sight. Did not know till now, that insanity is to be the defense. Would consider the testimony of mother and sisters same as that of other witnesses. In case of reasonable doubt as to the sanity of respondent, he would acquit. No prejudice against testimony of medical experts, Pros. Atty. inquired if any had been on a jury within the past year. All said they had not. Being asked whether they knew of any reason why they should not try the case, all answered in the negative. The defense announced a willingness to have the jury sworn. The court inquired of Mr. Kinsie and Mr. Hackett as to their health, and while they were not so robust and strong as some others, neither side objected to them.

Pros. Atty. Butler expressed a wish that the swearing of the jury be deferred till Judge McClellan should arrive on the 1 o'clock train. The defense objected, and the court ordered that the jury be sworn; and at 9:35 the clerk administered the oath to them.

The following named are the jurors sworn:

John Willmer, Steuben.
Alexander Halstead, Pleasant.
Mortimer Lord, Clear Lake.
Wesley Showalter, Pleasant.
Moses Gonser, Salem.
Edwin J. Hackett, Milgrove.
Cyrus J. Helmer, Salem.
John H. Elliott, Jackson.
Ira Reed, Jamestown.
Elias Kinsey, Fremont.
Geo H. Deller, Steuben.
Wm. Sherwood, Pleasant.

MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Court opened promptly on time and the room was at once crowded, and has continued so. Deeters' mother and sisters are present. Not five feet away sits Mrs. Bachtel whose husband and daughter were killed. There was a little delay to wait for Judge McClellan, and when he came work began. Notwithstanding the throng, there was almost deathlike silence as Judge McClellan proceeded in measured tones to present the case upon the part of the state. He commented upon the grave responsibility resting upon the jury, the court and the attorneys engaged in trying the case. He said that the jury must look upon the prisoner as an innocent man, at the outset; that their minds should be like a blank sheet of paper, ready to receive such impressions as the testimony, and the law when applied to the testimony, should make upon their minds and judgment; that he had a painful duty to peform, as the representative of the community, which he would endeavor to do in a just and fearless manner.

Judge McClellan then proceeded to describe the locality where the tragedy was enacted—a place beside the Air Line Division of the Lake Shore railroad, about 3 miles west of Butler and 5 east of Waterloo—a region which was a dense swamp in early days. The Deeters home was in that locality; a small log house, perhaps 16 or 18 feet square, standing but a few feet from the public highway leading from Butler to Waterloo. Its surroundings were in a dilapidated condition. There was a family of six or seven children, and while they were still small, some 30 or more years ago, Mr. Deeters, the husband and father, disappeared and has not been heard from since.

THE EVIDENCE.

Wm. Campbell was first witness. Saw Deeters make three shots at Mrs. Lowe, but was not close enough to see clearly who it was. Saw Deeters coming down railroad to meet Mr Yates, who was in a wagon with his wife and three children. Deeters shot at Yates five times, then went back to his mother's house Yates escaped by getting behind wagon; was wounded, but not seriously. Saw Deeters come out into road and meet Bachtel, who was going east, and take hold of Bachtel's horse and fire shot at him.

Abram Smith sworn. Saw Deeters Aug 31 in front of his mother's house; was 50 yards away, coming from Butler. Saw Bachtel coming on horse. Deeters ran and met him, held up a revolver and a moment later saw flash of smoke, from revolver. Bachtel slid off the horse and tried to keep horse between him and Deeters. Deeters went back to his mother's house. Bachtel got on horse again and galloped to where witness and others were, but soon after got over the fence and went toward home. Saw Deeters' barn burning soon after Saw Deeters go into barn and saw smoke soon after. Wm. Hanes and Mr. Sidelberger went to Deeters and got him to go to Butler.

Viola Nodine sworn. Was riding home with Abram Smith, but got out at Campbell's. Saw Deeters shoot Bachtel, but could not hear report, was fifty rods away. After he was shot Bachtel led the horse part of the way, then got on and rode. After that he got over fence and sat down under tree. I staid with him while Mrs. Campbell went to ring the bell.

Lemuel Campbell sworn. Came home about 4 p. m. Saw Deeters at his mother's home at 6 p. m. Saw him run into road and shoot at a woman who ran into Mr. Bachtel's. She had her hand behind her. Saw smoke of another shot. Later saw Deeters go towards Yates who was in wagon. Deeters motioned to Yates, who stopped Saw Deeters fire two shots, when Yates jumped off and got behind wagon and they disappeared on other side of railroad embankment, could not see, but heard three more shots. Mrs. Yates came and asked him to go for doctor for Yates. Before starting saw Deeters shoot Bachtel.

G. F. Gengnagle sworn. Is in hardware business in Butler. Sold Deeters a revolver about two years ago. This looks like the one. By order of court witness took out four cartridges that still remained in it.

Freddie Barnhart, a lad 13 years old, who has lived with the Bachtels six years, was in the front yard and heard Mrs. Deeters scream, "My God, he's nearly killed me!" Mrs. Lowe stopped work and ran over to see what was the matter. Saw Mrs Lowe come back on a run. Lowe and Bachtel were both at a distance at work, but got there in about ten minutes. Lowe rang the bell, I went to Smurr's after Mrs. Bachtel, and Mr. Bachtel took a horse and started for Butler. At the time Mrs. Lowe was shot, Mrs Deeters came over and staid at Bachtel's till Sam was taken to Butler, but staid all night at her own house. Remembers that Deeters came to Bachtel's one night, had a revolver, and staid till morning. Thinks they were friendly. Saw Mrs. Deeters' house next day and saw that furniture was smashed up, as well as dishes, clock, table, etc.

We have no reports for yesterday, but the examination of witnesses is going on and may last some days. Deeters is being tried for the murder of Bachtel, but of course all the facts of the tragedy will will be discussed at the same time. Opinions differ as to the outcome. There is a rumor that the defense offered to compromise on a verdict of 21 years, but was not agreed to by the prosecution.

"Standing on the Corner, Didn't Mean no Harm."

The above is the name of a new song just received by us, and we must say, for a comic affair it goes ahead of anything we have seen for some time. All the negro phrases, such as "My Baby," "Honey," "Sweet Thing," "'deed he did," etc., occur in it, besides the music is very pretty. Ask your music dealer for it or send ten two cent stamps to the publishers, J. C. Groene & Co., No. 19 Arcade, Cincinnati, Ohio, and it will be mailed prepaid.

Every Lady in Auburn

Is requested to call on her druggist and try a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the great guaranteed remedy for coughs, colds and all lung and throat troubles. It is as sweet and pleasant to take as chewing gum or candy and the price is only 25 cents. It is selling entirely upon its own merits, and is guaranteed or money refunded by all druggists.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Awarded, Highest Honor World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

THE PHŒNIX "A"

Is Fitted with the Famous PALMER TIRE.

BEARINGS TOOL STEEL and DUST PROOF.

SPOKES WILL STAND A TENSILE STRAIN OF 1,200 POUNDS.

Weight, 27 lbs.

A Beautiful Machine, - - and - Thoroughly Guaranteed.

Auburn Cyclery.

R. W. COBB, Manager, Auburn, Ind.

Catalogues mailed on application.

Standard Patterns.

A Few Words About Patterns.—We have taken the Agency for The Standard Patterns, of which we now have a complete assortment in stock. These patterns are

More Stylish, Less Wasteful and Cheaper than Any Other in the Market. We are also Agents for

The STANDARD MAGAZINE

Which no household can afford to be without, and which we can furnish the coming two months at only 25c. per year. Call and see a Sample Copy and you will subscribe. Fashion Sheets Free. Call and get one. Mail Orders will receive Prompt and Careful Attention. Our

CARPETS AND LACE CURTAINS

For Spring are now open for your inspection. Never before have we shown so Large and Elegant Lines, and at so ridiculously low prices. We have a few pieces of Ingrain which we carried over from last year, for which we did get 70 cents per yard. We offer them to close at All Wool 52½ cts.

Our Great sale of Domestics and Ladies' Wraps still continues. Our store is crowded with Bargains. We are trying hard to merit your patronage.

SCHAAB & BRO.

INEBRIETY IS A DISEASE NOT A CRIME.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

Auburn, Indiana.

Incorporated under the Laws of Indiana and Endorsed by the U. S. Government. With Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Remedies we Cure

DRUNKENNESS AND Morphine Habit.

HOME TREATMENT for the Tobacco Habit and Nerve Exhaustion. No BOLTS. No BARS. No PAIN whatever. Absolute Freedom. IMITATORS, by adroitly worded advertisements, seek to convey the impression that they are handling Dr. Keeley's Remedies and employ his methods of treatment. Such persons are only Imitators and impose an imitation on the Public for the Genuine. For full information as to the Keeley Cure, both at the Institute and by home treatment address

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE,

AUBURN, IND.

All Correspondence Strictly Confidential.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Are you at all Weak-chested or inclined to be Consumptive, with just a touch of Cough now and then? "Try this Wonderful Medicine." The Cough and Weakness will disappear as if by magic, and you will feel a strength and power never had before.

HAVE YOU A COLD? A Dose at Bedtime will Remove it.

HAVE YOU A COUGH? A Dose will Relieve it.

Bronchitis and Asthma it relieves instantly. The Spasms of Coughing so dreadful in Whooping Cough become less with each dose of medicine. It is an old adage, "To be forewarned is to be forearmed." So let it be in your case, who read this, and keep on hand ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Directions accompany each bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AT 25cts., 50cts., AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNES, - - - PUBLISHER.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

The Boston Unemployed Make a Demonstration—Pennsylvania Election—Michigan Sunday Law Constitutional—President Peixoto's Troops Defeated in Brazil.

WANT RELIEF.

Five Thousand Workmen Out of Employment at Boston Grow Restive.

Boston special: Five thousand workmen assembled on the commons the other day. A couple of hours were occupied by a half dozen speakers, and local labor leaders, then the crowd entered the rotunda of the State House. A committee was appointed to see Governor Greenhalge and present a petition asking alleviation of their suffering. The Governor read the petition and then addressed the crowd. He expressed his sympathy and told them just what he could and could not do. His talk gave them no satisfaction and some hissed, but the majority applauded.

The House of Representatives considered the petition from the mob. It decided to appoint a committee of seven to meet representatives of the unemployed to consider means for relief. Speaker Meyer sent a message to the crowd apprising them of this decision and it appeased them greatly.

The rotunda was packed with a crowd of men who were wanting to hear the result of their leaders' efforts to present their grievance to the assembled solons, and when Addison Swift, an avowed anarchist and the spokesman of the mob, appeared in one of the balconies, he told them that the Legislature had refused to accept their petitions and they broke into yells of derision and hisses of contempt. Swift leaned over the balcony railing and launched out into an impassioned tirade against the legislators, who, he said, were too busy creating corporations to listen to the voices of starving men. His voice shook with emotion as he denounced the treatment the men had received, and his ominous threats to clean out the State House were received with hoarse shouts of approbation. The brass buttoned officials and door-keepers seemed paralyzed with fear, and Gov. Greenhalge who, but a few minutes before, was mingling with the mob, wisely retired to the Legislative Chamber.

All Are Indicted.

The grand jury at Chicago has returned indictments against the following officers of the National Building, Loan and Investment Society: Oran C. Kneale, Benjamin F. Stout, alias Will-Smith, Charles Chrysler, and Dr. J. H. Hetrick. Each is charged with conspiracy and practicing fraud. The particular transaction upon which the indictments are based is in connection with a loan of $75,000 on land and improvements, at Jewett Mills, Wis., which, it is alleged, is worth less than $10,000. Stout, alias Smith, bought the land from Kneale and the loan was voted to Smith by the directors. Indictments against other building and loan officers will follow.

Bill Nye.

Speaking of his illness at Niagara Falls, Bill Nye said: "It was not heart disease, but only an attack that came from overwork. I am trying to do too much work. My writing is only a small part of my work. It is the traveling about and strain of lecturing, combined with late nights, that is pulling me down. My season closes the middle of April and I shall give up lecturing then for good. My health is of too much importance to take the risk."

An Indiana Tragedy.

James Spradlin, who shot the two Mitchell brothers near Petersburg, Ind., several days ago, was captured at Union City, Tenn., by Sheriff Kinsman, and lodged in Petersburg jail. One of Spradlin's victims is dead and the other is slowly dying. The shooting was a cold-blooded affair, and it is feared that Spradlin will be lynched.

Postoffice Robbery.

The postoffice at Woodlawn, a suburb of Birmingham, Ala., was blown up in a mysterious manner and $14,000 worth of property burned. It is supposed to have been done by robbers who, it is believed, used dynamite. Government detectives are at work on the case. All the postoffice money and stamps were stolen by the robbers or burned.

Pennsylvania Election.

Philadelphia special: Returns from forty-seven counties, including Philadelphia and Allegheny, give Grow, (Rep.) for Congressman-at-large, a plurality of 140,876. The twenty-one counties to hear from will carry the plurality beyond 150,000. This city gives Grow a plurality of 60,000.

Military Tournament.

Chicago special: The Military Rifle Association of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, and Minnesota, have arranged a tournament beginning September 10.

Indiana Pension Agency.

Martin V. B. Spencer of Fort Wayne, has been appointed Pension Agent for Indiana with headquarters at Indianapolis.

Sunday Law Constitutional.

The Supreme Court of Michigan has affirmed the constitutionality of the barber's Sunday closing law of 1893.

Another Battle.

A dispatch from Buenos Ayres says that a battle has been fought at Itapeva, 160 miles west of the city of Sao Paulo, between the insurgents and Government forces. President Peixoto's troops were defeated.

New York Left Out.

The appointment of Judge White to the Supreme Court leaves New York State without a representative in that tribunal for the first time since 1806.

Seized by Uncle Sam.

Port Townsend (Wash.) special: The schooner Alexander of San Francisco was condemned and forfeited to the Government in the District Court, Sitka, Alaska, on a charge of hunting and killing seal otter in Alaska water between the Islands and over banks, or sounding, more than three miles from the shore. The decision is very important to Alaska fur interests for the reason that it involves a question of whether the United States can exercise jurisdiction more than three miles from shore to protect fur bearing animals. The Alexander was owned by the Pacific Trading Company, and was seized last July by the revenue cutter Rush near the Shumagin group. An appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court.

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY.

Southern Pacific Express Held Up Near Los Angeles.

Los Angeles (Cal.) special: Passenger train No. 20 on the Southern Pacific road, was wrecked by train robbers at Roscoe Station, twelve miles north of here. The highwaymen blew open the express car with dynamite and fired several shots at the trainmen who attempted to escape. Those shot by the robbers or injured in the wreck are:

Fireman Arther Masters, shot and killed while extricating himself from the wrecked locomotive; —— Granger, who was stealing a ride on the train, shot and killed by robbers; Wells-Fargo Express messenger, supposed to be buried under his car; Engineer David Thomas, probably fatally injured by falling off his locomotive; Brakeman Foster, cut on head and badly bruised.

The robbers made their escape with several strong boxes belonging to the Wells, Fargo Express Company, containing currency and half a dozen sacks of gold. None of the passengers, so far as known, with the exception of the tramp Granger, was injured. The robbery was the most daring and cruel piece of work done in the West in years, and it is believed that Chris Evans and Morrell, the outlaws for whom California officers have been searching for months, planned and executed the crime. It is impossible to tell at present how much money the robbers secured, but as the express shipments were unusually large it is certain the gang got away with a rich haul. Posses of officers are scouring the country for the highwaymen.

A SOUTHERNER CHOSEN.

The Vacancy on the Supreme Bench Finally Filled.

Senator White of Louisiana has been nominated for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. The nomination was a complete surprise. No one had the slightest intimation of it. Those nearest the President believed that he would nominate Judge Cullen of New York.

Shortly after the nomination came in, the Senate, on motion of Senator Caffery of Louisiana, went into executive session. Senator White was at once confirmed Senator Hill did not oppose the nomination.

Edward Douglas White was born in the parish of Lafourche, Louisiana, in November, 1845; was educated at Mount St. Mary's, near Emmitsburg, Mayland, at the Jesuit College, in New Orleans, and at Georgetown College, District of Columbia; served in the Confederate army; was licensed to practice law by the Supreme Court of Lousiana in December, 1868; elected State Senator in 1874; was appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana in 1878; was elected to the United States Senate as a Democrat against James B. Eustis, receiving 119, against 11 for H. C. Warmouth, Republican. Took his seat March 4, 1891. His term will expire March 3, 1897.

A BIG BATTLE.

Admiral Da Gama Led the Rebel Hosts.

A special from Rio Janeiro, via Montevideo says: The insurgent charge at Nictheroy on Friday, February 9, was notable for acts of bravery. Admiral Da Gama himself led the storming party. He shot Col. Tasso Fragoso, of the Government garrison, mounted that officer's horse and rode ahead. His example caused wild enthusiasm among his men. Six sailors obtained horses in a similar manner and galloped after him. Behind these seven horsemen the insurgents rushed to the plaza. There, their force was divided and attacked by an overwhelming number of infantry and cavalry. The insurgents were pushed back slowly, without giving any signs of panic. Admiral De Gama, who was the last man to embark, was wounded in the arm and neck. Neither wound is severe and there is no doubt of his recovery.

Every officer of the insurgent force was injured in the charge. The total loss of the insurgents was 270. The government loss was little short of 600.

Cleveland Wins.

Cincinnati special: At the opening of the session of the book commitee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the sub-committee on salaries made their report and after a little discussion it was decided not to change the list from that now in vogue.

The report of the New York book concern was presented to the book committee for the year ending June 30, 1893. The total assets for the year are $2,537,465.65, and the liabilities are $419,116.61. There was a net capital June 30, 1893, of $2,029,977.16. The sales for the year amounted to $442,651.77.

The contest for the general conference, to be held in 1896, was resumed but it soon dwindled down to a fight between Indianapolis and Cleveland. By a very close vote it was finally decided to award the contest to Cleveland.

An Ocean Mystery.

A London dispatch says: A small bottle has been picked up on the coast of Gigah, one of the Hebrides Islands, containing a piece of paper on which, written with a pencil, is the following:

September 1893. Sinking mid-Atlantic; Hornhead; collision iceberg.
(Signed) MATE.

The steamer Hornhead was a British vessel of 2,368 tons, owned by the Ulster Steamship Company, limited, of Belfast. She was commanded by Capt. Scott. She sailed from Baltimore Aug. 19, and Hampton Roads Aug. 20, for Dublin, and nothing was afterwards heard of her. The Hornhead was built at Belfast by Harland & Wolf in 1884. She was 320 feet and 8 inches long, 37 feet 3 inches beam and 36 feet deep of hold.

Frozen Beef.

Notwithstanding the enormous distance between Australia and Austria, and the difficulties of transportation by water and rail, it appears that it is not only practicable but profitable to ship frozen beef from Australia to compete in the markets of Vienna with native beef. Max Judd, the United States Consul at Vienna, records the arrival there of a lot of beef amounting to 5,000 kilos, which sold at from 50 to 60 kreutzers per kilo. The charges, aside from transportation expenses, were a duty tax of 3.25 florins and 3 per cent. commission. This leads the Consul to ask why if Australian meat can be sold in Vienna at a profit Americans should not be able to open up a market for their products.

White Caps Arrested.

John Comingo and William Graves were arrested at Harrodsburg, Ky., while attending court, upon indictments charging them with murdering Joshua Mitchell at Leesburg, January 16. The arrests caused great excitement. Mitchell was killed by a body of fifty White Caps, who rode up to his door, called him out, and riddled his body with bullets. The indictment and arrest of these two is the first indication that a clue is found to the gang. Four more indictments will be served and the grand jury will be continued in session to make further investigation. Graves is a young farm hand aged 23; Comingo, married, aged 35. They were refused bail.

Indians Suffering.

Mermosillo (Mex.) special: Reports have been received here of intense suffering among the Yaqui Indians, whose territory is situated in the heart of the Sierra Madre Mountains, west of here. In that high altitude the winter has been very severe, and this, together with a shortage in food supplies, has brought the Indians to the verge of starvation, many of them subsisting entirely on roots and dried herbs. Game is scarcer in the mountains than ever before known, and the Indians get but little food from that source.

Boss McKane Gets Six Years.

Brooklyn special: John Y. McKane, the convicted Gravesend political boss, was sentenced by Justice Willard Bartlett, in the court of Oyer and Terminer, to six years imprisonment in the State's Prison at Sing Sing. The sentence was a great surprise to every one. It was expected that the jury's recommendation to mercy would induce Justice Bartlett to be more lenient. When the Judge pronounced sentence, McKane turned deathly pale and clutched the railing before him and tears rolled down his cheeks.

Death of Chaplan Strouse of the Prison South.

The Rev. W. H. H. Strouse, Chaplain of Prison South, Jeffersonville, dropped dead from heart trouble. Chaplain Strouse was appointed six months ago, Vice Cullop, resigned. His home was in Daviess County, and he was 70 years old. During the war he served as a Government scout. In earlier life he was a practicing physician, but of later years he was a regularly licensed minister of the Christian Church.

Chapter of Accidents.

Massillon, Ohio, was prolific of accidents one day recently. Benjamin Vaughn, a Welch miner, married, was killed by a falling rock in exactly the same manner that his father and brother met death several years since. Seventeen-year-old Fred Radtke was seriously hurt in another mine by a stone falling on him, and William F. Lipps, a prominent citizen, had his skull crushed by being thrown from a sleigh against a hitching-post, and is dying.

Gas Well Explosion.

People within a radius of three miles from Yorktown, five miles west of Muncie, Ind., was startled the other night by a mighty roar, accompanied by a trembling of the earth, caused by the explosion of a mighty gas well to which some miscreant had applied a match. The flames shot up eighty feet in the tower, lighting up the country for a great distance, and the roar was deafening. After fifty hours of work the well was brought under control.

Attempt to Kidnap a Child.

Gustavas Gamble of Boone County, Ark., appeared at the school house in Hazelwood, a suburb of Anderson, Ind., and calling for Ethel, an 8-year-old daughter, forcibly carried her to a hack and drove to Pendleton to catch a train for St. Louis. The mother put officers on the track promptly, and he was arrested and brought back. Several years ago he was divorced from his wife who was given possession of the girl. He has made four attempts to steal the child.

Want the Fight.

A strong movement is being made to secure the Corbett-Mitchell fight at Johnson's Island, Lake Erie, a few miles from Sandusky, Ohio. The site was selected by Sandusky capitalists, who argue that Gov. McKinley and the Sheriff of Ottawa County will be unable to prevent the mill. It is undoubtedly in serious contemplation to raise $100,000 for Johnson's Island, one brewer offering half the amount.

Roasted Alive.

At Muncie, Ind., Myrtle, the 8-year-old daughter of George Richmond, was fairly cooked alive. Her clothes caught on fire from a red-hot stove and were burned off. Her hair was also burned off, leaving the scalp a solid blister. An older sister who ran to her assistance was badly burned. The mother is visiting in Connersville.

The Cartoonist of Puck Dies.

Joseph Keppler, the cartoonist and editor of Puck, died suddenly at his home 252 Seventy-ninth street, New York, from spinal trouble. He was born in Viedna, February 1, 1833.

Bandits Captured.

Visalia (Cal.) special: Evans and Morrell, the bandits have surrendered to the officers. Great excitement exists among the citizens of this place.

Fire at Indianapolis.

The Maize and Hominy Works at North Indianapolis, the property of Lowe Cary, burned. Loss, $15,000; fully insured.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3 50	@ 5 25
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4 00	@ 5 50
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	2 25	@ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	55	@ 56
CORN—No. 2	34	@ 35
OATS—No. 2	29	@ 30
RYE—No. 2	43	@ 46
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	26	@ 27
EGGS—Fresh	18	@ 19
POTATOES—Per bu	50	@ 60
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3 00	@ 5 00
HOGS—Choice Light	3 00	@ 5 25
SHEEP—Common to Prime	2 00	@ 3 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	54	@ 54½
CORN—No. 2 White	34½	@ 35½
OATS—No. 2 White	31	@ 32
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 5 00
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	52	@ 53
CORN—No. 2	32	@ 32
OATS—No. 2	29	@ 30
RYE—No. 2	52	@ 54
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 4 75
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 50
SHEEP	2 00	@ 3 75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	57	@ 57½
CORN—No. 2	37	@ 38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	30½	@ 31½
RYE—No. 2	51	@ 53
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 4 75
HOGS	3 00	@ 5 50
SHEEP	2 00	@ 3 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	57	@ 57½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	36	@ 37
OATS—No. 2 White	31	@ 32
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	55	@ 56
CORN—No 3 Yellow	35	@ 35½
OATS—No. 2 White	31	@ 32
RYE—No. 2	49	@ 51
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	69	@ 69½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	40	@ 41
OATS—No. 2 White	35	@ 36
RYE—No. 2	53	@ 55
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	57	@ 57½
CORN—No. 3	33	@ 34
OATS—No. 2 White	29½	@ 30½
RYE—No. 1	43	@ 45
BARLEY—No. 2	48	@ 50
PORK—Mess	12 00	@ 12 50
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3 00	@ 5 00
HOGS	3 75	@ 6 00
SHEEP	2 00	@ 4 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	62	@ 63
CORN—No. 2	43	@ 45
OATS—White Western	38	@ 41
BUTTER—Choice	21	@ 27
PORK—Mess	12 50	@ 14 25

DOLE STRIKES BACK.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THE HAWAIIAN CASE.

Specifications Demanded by Minister Willis Are Furnished Without Hesitation—Our Representative Charged with Withholding Information and Playing a Boaster's Part.

Talks Very Plainly.

Advices received from Honolulu by steamer Alameda give the full text of President Dole's letter to Minister Willis in reply to the latter's request for specifications and statements made in a previous letter from Dole in regard to the attitude of the United States Government. Dole's letter is very lengthy. He says: "In compliance with your request for certain specifications concerning my letter of Dec. 27, I reply thereto as follows: You inquire as to the meaning of the word 'attitude' as used in my letter. I reply that word was used by me in its ordinarily accepted sense, meaning bearing, posture, as indicating purpose of those referred to. You further say, 'Will you point out where and when and how a representative of the United States assumed any attitude toward supporters of the Provisional Government other than one essentially and designedly expressive of peace?' In reply I would say that the attitude of a person is to be ascertained only by inferences drawn from known words and acts of such person and conditions and circumstances under which they take place."

President Dole then cites the withdrawal of the treaty of annexation from the Senate by President Cleveland without any notice to the Hawaiian representative; the appointment of Blount and his visit as a secret emissary of the United States and the refusal of Secretary Gresham to explain to the Hawaiian representative the object of Blount's mission or even that he had been commissioned. He also criticised Blount's actions while in the country and the report which he subsequently made to President Cleveland.

President Dole next refers to Gresham's letter to President Cleveland last October, and says: "You have intimated that the foregoing letter, being a domestic transaction, is not a subject of diplomatic correspondence. I must submit, however, that a communication from the chief of the Department of State to the President, in which he charges this Government and its officers with conspiracy, weakness, timidity and fraud, and recommends its subversion, which letter is officially furnished to and published by the public press, without any information concerning the same being afforded to this Government, is not a domestic transaction, and is pre-eminently a proper subject for inquiry on the part of this Government as to the intentions of your Government concerning the subject matter.

"On Nov. 14 Mr. Thurston, the Hawaiian Minister at Washington, called upon the Secretary of State and inquired if the above letter was authentic, and was assured by Mr. Gresham that it was. Mr. Thurston then said: 'I wish, then, to further ask whether it is the intention of the United States Government to carry out the policy therein indicated by force, or, in other words, whether, if the Provisional Government decline to accede to the request of the United States Government to vacate in favor of the Queen, United States troops will be used to enforce the request.' Do we need to state that Mr. Thurston received no satisfactory reply to this question?"

President Dole then recalls the arrival of the United States dispatch boat Corwin at Honolulu last December with private copies of the President's Hawaiian message to Congress for Mr. Willis, and says:

"Up to the time of the arrival of the Corwin the United States naval officers in port were in the habit of coming ashore in citizen's dress, the crews received their usual liberty on shore, and no unusual warlike preparations were visible on board. Immediately on the arrival of the Corwin the liberty of the crews was stopped and so was that of most of the officers. Those who came on shore were in service uniform. Rifles were stacked. Cartridge belts were filled with ball cartridges and knapsacks packed, for immediate use were conspicuous on the decks of the ships and were seen there by visiting citizens, who in reply to an inquiry as to the meaning of such preparations were informed by the officers that they were ready to land at a moment's notice. When asked if the landing would be to protect or fight us the reply of the officers of the Philadelphia was that no one on board knew what orders would be received."

MURDERER STONE HANGED.

Slayer of the Wratten Family Pays the Penalty of His Revolting Crime.

James E. Stone, commonly known as "Bud" Stone, was executed at midnight in the Indiana State prison south by Warden J. B. Patten. The crime of which James E. Stone, or "Bud" Stone, as he was familiarly known, was convicted was committed near the village of Glendale, nine miles east of Washington, Ind., the night of Sept. 18, 1893, and was the peculiarly atrocious and bloody murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Wratten, her son Denson Wratten, and his wife and three children. All were killed instantly with the exception of the little girl Ethel, who lived for several days. Arming himself with a corn knife, he went to the home of his victims at a late hour the night of the crime. Stone knocked on the door and was answered by the younger Mrs. Wratten. He struck her a blow on the head with a corn knife that rendered her lifeless. Jumping over the form of the prostrate woman he killed the children as he came to them, and going to the bed upon which Denson Wratten lay sick, with typhoid fever, he dealt him a blow that ended his life.

JAMES E. STONE.

The elder Mrs. Wratten slept in an adjoining room, and finding her door locked he kicked in the window and, entering the room, finished his bloody work. Stone confessed the crime to his wife, and she, being unable to keep the awful secret, when summoned before the grand jury told all she knew. The assassin entered plea of guilty, and within three hours' time had been tried, convicted, and sentenced to be hanged.

ELIZABETH WRATTEN.

A short time ago he added another horror to his crime by stating to his aged father who visited him in prison that he had smothered the little girl Ethel with an apron at a neighbor's house, where she had been removed in a dying condition, while the folks were at dinner, as he feared if she recovered her evidence might convict him. The murder was undoubtedly planned for robbery, but, becoming frightened at the enormity of the crime, the murderer fled, leaving over $600 untouched in a bureau drawer. His father is a respected farmer, and up to the time of the murder Bud Stone had led a quiet, uneventful life.

GREAT OUTPUT OF GOLD.

Over $150,000,000 Worth of the Yellow Metal Mined in 1893.

Returns received at the Treasury Department indicate that the gold output for 1893 will reach the almost unprecedented amount of $37,000,000, an increase over 1892 of $4,000,000. In Colorado the output has increased from $3,000,000, in 1892, to $5,000,000 in 1893, while the gains in other gold-producing sections are unusually large. The Australian production will carry the production of the world, it is thought, to $150,000,000, which is a gain of $12,000,000 for the year. With one or two exceptions this is the largest output ever known. The gold fields of South Africa seem to be rapidly taking the place of the California and Australian fields as the bonanza finds of the present decade.

Reports from the Witwetersrandt region alone show a total product for 1893 of 1,479,476 ounces of ore, yielding a product of refined gold of a value in excess of $25,000,000. The production in this region is increasing at an astonishing rate and South Africa bids fair during the present year to push her way to the head of the list of gold-producing countries. The figures for 1892 put Australia at the head of the list with a production of $35,870,800, the United States second at $33,000,000, Russia third at $24,806,200, and Africa fourth at $23,706,600. The full returns from South Africa for 1893 will probably show a production in excess of $30,000,000, which will force her into third place, and if the increase continues she will pass Russia during 1894, and will be beaten by the United States in aggregate production only by means of a large increase in this country.

The production of silver, according to the reports received at the mint, has fallen off during the last year and will not exceed $175,000,000 in coining value for 1893. As the coining value is now more than twice the market value the actual mercantile value of the silver mined will drop below $90,000,000, the smallest figure for many years.

TO FOLLOW VAILLANT.

The Anarchist Who Hurled the Bomb at the Barcelona Theater.

The next dynamiter to follow Vaillant to the scaffold, if he lives, will probably be Jose Salvador Franch, the man who threw the bomb at the Barcelona Theater.

JOSE SALVADOR FRANCH.

Like Vaillant, Franch has deplorable antecedents. Though belonging to a respectable family at Castelseras, he ran away when only 14 to Barcelona, where he joined the anarchists, and has lived from hand to mouth ever since. His wife Antonia was obliged to go out charing, and, according to her own account, she lived in fear of her husband poisoning her lest she should divulge anarchist secrets. Franch was a great friend of Pallas, who threw the bomb at Marshal Campos, and was the prime mover in a grand conspiracy for a general rising at Barcelona, where the anarchists were to burn the houses of the upper classes, loot shops, and assassinate indiscriminately. The anarchists were afraid to carry out the project, so Franch consoled himself by throwing the bomb in the Liceo Theater, whence he escaped in the confusion. He remained in hiding in various places till the police pounced upon him in Saragossa, when he tried to kill himself.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS.

Annual Convention of the National Association in Washington.

The twenty-sixth annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association began in Washington with a large attendance of delegates representing all parts of the country. The session was devoted to the presentation of reports. The report of the Executive Committee recommended that the special effort of the association be concentrated on the campaign in Kansas and New York, the two States where there is to be a test vote this year. Mrs. Lillie D. Blake, the member of the Executive Committee from New York, spoke of the work there, and predicted success for woman suffrage in the coming constitutional convention in New York. Mrs. Laura M. Johns, of Kansas, said that the work for the enfranchisement of women had progressed farther in Kansas than in New York.

The night session of the convention was very largely attended, and those seated on the platform included District Commissioner Ross, Senator Teller, of Colorado, and Representatives Pence and Bell, of the same State. The President's address was then delivered by Miss Anthony. It was a brief, interesting, and critical review of the cause of woman suffrage, with frequent caustic allusions to the action of the courts in their decisions affecting the laws passed by the States for the enfranchisement of women.

JUDGE GRESHAM'S PENSION.

It Is Still Accumulating in Chicago—Now Amounts to $570.

A Chicago dispatch says: If Secretary of State Gresham has relinquished his pension of $30 a month the information has not been conveyed to Pension Agent Anderson, whose pension-rolls are open for inspection in the federal building. Judge Gresham's name has not been erased from the list, and the entry shows that he last drew his allowance in July, 1892. Were he to appear in Gen. Anderson's office with his certificate, he would receive a check upon the Subtreasury for about $570, the amount due him since the last payment. July 29, 1891, Judge Gresham's pension was transferred from the jurisdiction of the pension agent at Indianapolis to the Chicago office. Unless word is received from Commissioner Lochren, the name of Judge Gresham will remain upon Gen. Anderson's roll until the time specified by law for the expiration of an undrawn pension—three years and three months, lacking one day from the date of the last payment.

MEMBERS of the Michigan Canvassing Board are making a fight against the Governor's order of removal for negligence.

THE NATION'S SOLONS.

SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Law-Makers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed, and Acted Upon.

Doings of Congress.

The Hawaiian resolution was again the subject of discussion in the Senate Tuesday. Senator Gray resumed his argument in support of President Cleveland's policy and reiterated his charges that the revolutionists were dependent upon the United States minister and the United States forces for support of their movement. The House spent the day in debate on the Bland seigniorage bill, the principal speeches being those by Mr. Culberson of Texas in favor of the measure and Mr. Coombs of New York in opposition. Mr. Warner, a Democrat from New York, who concluded the debate for the day, announced himself in favor of permitting the Government to coin and issue all kinds of money.

The entire time of the Senate Wednesday was consumed in the discussion of the House bill to compel the Rock Island Railway Company to stop its trains at the new towns of Enid and Round Pond, in Indian Territory. The whisky tax and the position of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union on the question was brought up by Senator Frye. Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, presented a resolution, which was adopted, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for the record in the case of the investigation of the Boston custom house. Senator Palmer spoke in favor of the Rock Island bill. Senators Craig, of Wyoming, and Martin, of Kansas, opposed, while Peffer, of Kansas, advocated it. The day in the House was given up to the discussion of Bland's seigniorage bill. The debate was without incident.

Vice President Stevenson came to the rescue of the Oklahoma town-site bill in the Senate Thursday, and by his vote broke the tie and passed the bill compelling the Rock Island Railroad Company to stop its trains at the new towns of Enid and Round Pound. The measure on the final vote stood 27 to 27, and the Vice President promptly exercised his prerogative by casting the deciding vote in favor of the bill. The debate on the Bland seignorage bill in the House was characterized by several strong Democratic speeches against the measure.

The Senate adjourned a few minutes past 4 o'clock Friday afternoon after spending the better part of two days considering the nomination of W. H. Peckham of New York to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. The vote had just been taken on a motion to confirm the nomination, and the result, which was a rejection by a vote of 32 to 41, was known. In the House Mr. Bland began his coercive tactics to compel a vote on the silver seignorage bill. Most of the Republicans and the Democratic opponents of the measure started a filibuster with the intention of forcing him to produce a quorum of the advocates of the bill to pass it, and the entire day was consumed in roll calls. At 4 o'clock Mr. Bland abandoned any further attempt to secure a quorum, and after having passed a resolution instructing the sergeant-at-arms to telegraph for absentees a recess was taken until 8 o'clock, the evening session being devoted to the consideration of private pension bills. Mr. Kilgore of Texas blocked all proceedings.

The President sent to the Senate Monday afternoon the nomination of Edward D. White, Senator from Louisiana, to succeed Justice Blatchford on the Supreme bench, and it was promptly confirmed. The other work of that body was confined to consideration of the Wilson bill. The House filibustered all day over Bland's silver seignorage bill.

Coins from Private Mints.

The Constitution of the United States provides that no State shall coin money; but it seems that individuals might do so, up till about the time of the late civil war. Of course, it has always been against the law to counterfeit or imitate the coinage of the United States, and so, necessarily, a coin issued by a private mint would have to be so distinctive in shape or markings as to show that it was not intended to pass as Federal money. For this reason the $50 gold coins or tokens issued by several private mints in California during the flush times of the 50's were octagonal in shape. Gold coins were also issued by the Mormons of Utah at about the same time, and the same thing had been done by parties in Georgia and North Carolina.

Probably the latest of these private mints was the one established in Denver in the early 60's. It is said that the coinage of this establishment being brought to the attention of Secretary Chase, that eminent financier was much astonished to find a respectable firm of bankers engaged in making and uttering money, and was still further surprised when the Attorney General of the United States declared they had the right to do so. This incident caused the passage of a law absolutely prohibiting individuals from issuing or circulating anything intended in any manner to serve as money.—Washington Star.

Why, Indeed?

Why should a police officer in chase of a fugitive in the street feel called upon to use firearms? That is a query which it is difficult for the police to answer. A man on the police force draws a good salary—about twice as much as, with his education, he could make in any business. He is supposed to be in good physical condition, so that he may run down any criminal who seeks safety in flight. But it would be safe to wager that no two police officers in ten on the San Francisco force could overtake a fairly athletic criminal if the fugitive were given a start of half a block. The majority of our police are too fat; their lungs are in such poor condition that if a fugitive runs up a steep street the chances are all in favor of his escape. It is only fair to demand of the police that they keep in as fair condition as the regular army, but every one knows that such a comparison would be fatal to the force. Why not have regular police inspection and throw out the men who accumulate fat on beer and idleness?—San Francisco Chronicle.

Applying a Drastic Remedy.

"I suppose, now, that you will be going home to your mother in the morning?"

"I just won't. I have tried that and it doesn't seem to do any good. I am going to bring mother here this time."—Indianapolis Journal.

Knew His Business.

"I don't see how you can afford to give a pair of rubbers with every pair of shoes."

"My friend, there is nothing equal to a pair of rubbers for getting away with shoes. See?"—Indianapolis Journal.

Personal Paragraphs.

DANIEL WEBSTER still lives to some people in this country. Letters are still occasionally received at Marshfield addressed to "Hon. Daniel Webster."

UNITED STATES SENATOR CAFFREY, of Louisiana, is a lover of neckties. He changes his ties daily, and they are always of a blue color, but differ in shades.

HERR MUCH, of Vienna, the master of every language in Europe, has gone to Ireland to learn Irish. His instructor is the Professor of Irish at Trinity College.

THIRTY-NINE KILLED.

Bursting of a Steam Pipe on the German Ship Brandenburg.

Thirty-nine men were killed and a score of others badly injured by the explosion of a steam pipe on board the German man-of-war Brandenburg at the entrance to Kiel Bay. The accident occurred while the war ship was undergoing a forced draught trial near the Government drydocks. The explosion occurred without warning, and officers, marines and sailors were among the victims. Kiel is the headquarters of the Government Baltic fleet, and the Government works are quite extensive. All the vessels of the Baltic fleet put in here for coaling and repairs, and recently the Brandenburg has been undergoing a number of trials to increase her speed.

Friday morning these experiments were in full operation. None of the crew had shore leave, and many of them were on deck. Suddenly, while the vessel was forging ahead at a rapid speed, there was a loud explosion, the waist of the ship seemed to rise up as though lifted by a giant hand, and the next instant the air was filled with intermingled debris and humanity. A large number of the victims, torn and mangled, were thrown into the water and drowned before assistance could reach them. Others were thrown into the air and fell on the decks, where they lay dead or dying in the midst of a mass of wreckage. The effects of the explosion were only felt within a limited area, although the big war vessel quivered under the shock, and those in the bow and stern quickly rushed to the assistance of the injured.

Owing to the force of the explosion the dead outnumbered the injured, and the scene was sickening in the extreme. The vessel presented the appearance of a warship after a sanguinary battle, and dead and wounded had their clothing nearly torn from their bodies. As quickly as possible the shore was communicated with, and several vessels were dispatched to the scene with medical supplies and surgeons. The accident occurred near the place made memorable last year by the disaster on board the German man-of-war Baden, in which two lieutenants and seven marines were killed by the premature explosion of a gun during target practice.

SENATE REJECTS PECKHAM.

The Upper House Refuses to Confirm Mr. Cleveland's Nominee.

President Cleveland has enjoyed another test of strength between himself and the New York Senators, and again he has been defeated. On the 16th day of January last the Senate, by a vote of 30 to 24, rejected the nomination of William B. Hornblower to be an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and, by a vote of 41 to 32, the Senate rejected the nomination of Wheeler H. Peckham to the same office. Mr. Peckham said to a reporter that he had nothing to say to the press in regard to his rejection. William B. Hornblower was seen at his home and said: "I am very sorry that the Senate has refused to confirm Mr. Peckham's nomination. Of course, under the circumstances, it is proper that I should say very little on the subject."

W. H. PECKHAM.

The charges Mr. Peckham's opponents made against him were that he is a lawyer of but ordinary ability; that he is not known outside of his own State and hardly beyond his own district; that he is pettish, quick-tempered and overbearing; and that he is in no manner of the ability and does not possess the qualifications for filling the eminent position for which he was nominated.

YELLOW FEVER IN RIO.

Dreaded Scourge Breaks Out in the United States Ship-of-War Newark.

Yellow fever is increasing in Rio de Janeiro. There were sixty deaths from that disease Friday in addition to fifteen deaths from other fevers. The captain of an Austrian war ship in Rio waters is dead. Numbers of other cases have been found on board the same ship. A Portuguese war ship is also infected with yellow fever and the situation is growing serious so far as foreigners are concerned.

The American warships only communicate with the shore by means of a hired tug and the greatest precautions are observed on board all the American ships. Admiral Benham has been in conference with the commanders of the American vessels and nothing will be left undone which can lead to preserving the health of the American sailors. The British warship Racer has several cases of fever on board. The merchant vessels are reported to have several members of their crews sick under suspicious circumstances.

TAILLESS CATS.

A Colony of Queer Felines at Long Beach, N. J.

At Long Beach, N. J., there is the only tribe of tailless cats in the country. The cats are born that way. Early in this century a large English brig was wrecked on this part of the Jersey coast. She became a total wreck, but the sailors' lives were saved and so were a lot of cats. These felines came from the Isle of Man, and belonged to a curious breed found on that island and known as Manx cats.

At first the animals were quite tame and frequented the vicinity of the lighthouse, where they nightly held open-air concerts that were not harmonious enough to merit the appreciation of the light-keepers, and ultimately resulted in their being driven away. The felines took to the woods and managed to subsist during the first winter on birds, thousands of which lived in the swamps. The cats increased rapidly in number, and in a few years small packs of them could be found almost anywhere in Barnegat's woods.

Their out-door life made them savage, and the breed

AT WAR WITH HERSELF.

The Story of a Woman's Atonement, by Charlotte M. Braeme.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Leonie, called Countess of Charnleigh, went home that Sunday morning, after her conversation with the country minister, a changed being. The sunlight lay broad on the hills, the birds seemed to understand that it was the one day of rest, and to sing their sweetest songs in its honor. She felt utterly reckless, utterly careless.

"I will enjoy my life while I can," she said to herself; "it seems that there is no heaven for me."

"No heaven"—with the golden sunshine lying around her, and the fragrance, the warmth of the summer Sabbath making earth all beautiful. She repeated the words to herself—"no heaven"—and they fell like a funeral knell on her heart. "No heaven"—what did it mean? Was the far-off land, the heaven of her childish dreams, to be closed forever? There was to be no such heaven for her, because she unjustly took possession of her neighbor's inheritance—because she had been guilty of crime, of which she would not repent.

She groaned aloud as she came in sight of the pretty villa where the Duchess held high court.

"Is it such a bad exchange?" she asked herself. "I have given my peace of mind, my quietness of conscience, my lightness of heart, my true, deep love, and heaven, for a title and wealth—to be called Lady Charnleigh, and to live at Crown Leighton. My life will be short and brilliant. People will talk of me after I am dead—they will say at least that I held my own with grace and dignity. Where shall I be when they are talking so? Shall I be paying the price of my sin?"

Nobler thoughts struggled for supremacy, but she would not hear them. "A short life and a merry one," she said to herself; "I will enjoy life while I can."

People thought her changed before, but she was doubly changed now; what had been brilliancy became recklessness. She was never for one moment without excitement of some kind or other; as for leisure, tranquillity, quiet, they were pursuits she detested.

"Are you ever at rest, Lady Charnleigh?" asked Captain Armitage one day. "I thought I turned every moment of my life to some pleasant profit, but you far exceed me."

"No," she answered; "I like to live my life all at once, as it were. I like to crowd as much pleasure as possible into every moment;" and then in an undertone she added: "I am at war with myself."

She was indeed at war with her brightest, best, and noblest self. She was by nature good and true—generous even to a fault. Love of riches, ambition, and vanity had crept in, and had brought with them deadly sin.

On the day she was leaving the villa the duchess said to her—"I had hoped, Lady Charnleigh, that you would have a little rest here. I am sorry to say that you look worse than you did when you came. I do not think you have had one hour's quiet."

She raised her lovely face to the kindly one bent over her.

"If I were to be quiet, I should soon die. Excitement is to me more than the air I breathe or the food I eat—it keeps me alive."

"Do you know, that is the saddest confession I ever heard from a girl's lips? Your case should be different, Lady Charnleigh. I can understand people almost without a soul—people weighed down by remorse—leading such a life; but a girl so young as you—pardon me, my dear—ought not to require excitement to make life endurable; it ought to be pleasant enough without it."

"But I do not find it so," returned Leonie.

"I should like to ask you one question: if you require this perpetual, never-ending whirl of gayety now, what shall you do when you are old?"

"I shall never live to be old," she answered, carelessly. "I am living all my life at once. I have no wish to be old."

And, not caring to hear any more, she went away with a smile on her face that hid surely the heaviest heart that ever beat.

The Duchess looked after her.

"There is something wrong about that girl," she said. "What can it be? Is she disappointed in anything? Have her love affairs all gone wrong, I wonder? What can it be? I must find out."

This spirit of unrest had taken full possession of Lady Charnleigh. In vain the duchess tried to talk to her—to find two minutes for a sensible conversation—Leonie was more like a butterfly on the wing than anything else. She never seemed to be in the same mood or the same place for ten minutes at a time. She left the villa, and the friend who had been kind to her felt anxious about her.

Once again in town, Leonie ufing herself heart and soul into the gayeties of the season; she went almost everywhere—she refused no invitations; and, if by chance a day came when she was free from engagements, she filled her own house with visitors. Lady Fanshawe began to feel alarmed—she gave her young relative lectures about the folly of dissipation. Leonie laughed. How little they knew, those who preached to her, that this was the price of her sin—that to enjoy these things she had forfeited her own soul and had lost heaven! Enjoy them? Most certainly she would. Had ever woman paid a higher price for title and wealth? She had given up her lover for both—she had periled her soul—surely she might enjoy what she had purchased.

Did she enjoy it? There were times when she asked herself that question, and an aching heart answered, "No—a thousand times No." There were times when the wild, feverish gayety collapsed, when a terrible reaction set in, and Leonie would lie in a darkened chamber unable to bear the light of day, unable to raise her tired head from the pillow, worn out, body and mind, with the war forever going on with herself.

People wondered at the change that had come over her beauty; she was not one whit less lovely, but a worn look had come over her radiant face, the smile that rippled over the beautiful lips was hard and cold, the thirst, the constant craving that filled her, completely altered the expression of her face. It struck Paul Flemyng suddenly one day when he was talking to her. Once upon a time she had been full of sweet fancies, of bright, tender, beautiful thoughts. She never expressed such now, but in their place came a cold, cynical sarcasm, all unsuited to those fresh young lips.

She had just given utterance to one of her bitter reflections when Captain Fleming looked up at her suddenly.

"Leonie," he said, "how changed you are!"

She had heard the same thing so often that it struck her she would ask in what the change consisted.

"Tell me," she said, "how I am changed, Paul. Am I older-grown, or what? Every one tells me the same thing, and I want to understand it."

"Your face is changed, to begin with. Nay, do not misunderstand me; it is as beautiful as ever, perhaps more beautiful, but now one never sees it in repose. You used to be very earnest, but more gentle, more given to tender and graceful, womanly ways; you have grown colder, harder, more cynical."

"Is that all?" she asked.

"No, not quite. You give every one the idea that some secret trouble, some hidden sorrow, is eating your life away."

She looked at the noble, handsome man whom she had so cruelly defrauded.

"Surely you do not believe in such nonsense?" she said. "What secret, what sorrow should I have? What sentimental nonsense for you to talk, Paul."

"Is it nonsense?" he asked, sadly. "There are times when I feel very unhappy about you, Leonie."

"Then you are not so sensible as I imagined you to be," she laughed. "What a droll idea, to be unhappy over one so young and so free from care as I am! Do not waste any more sympathy on me, Paul; you will find ample opportunities as you pass through life for sympathizing with others far more deserving."

"You have grown cynical and sarcastic," he continued; "you have lost what, after all, is the greatest charm a woman can have—trust and faith."

"I believe in you," she opposed; "surely that should content you, Paul?"

"It does not," he said, gently. "I would fain see your old, bright, sunny, trusting nature back again; you are brilliant and polished like a diamond, but you are also just as cold and hard. Do you not know, Leonie, that it is better to believe too much than not enough?"

"Who says I do not believe enough?" she asked, impatiently. "What nonsense you are talking to me, Paul! What makes you say such things?"

"My darling Leonie, while you were talking to Lord Falcon last evening, I analyzed what you said, and I was startled. Do you know what cynical, worldly maxims those beautiful lips of yours put forth, what cold, heartless sentiments you uttered, what worldly ideas came in place of the bright, sweet fancies that used to distinguish you?"

"I am worldly," she confessed, with a careless smile; "you know I am worldly, Paul—you knew it when you began to like me."

"I am loath to believe it; my idea of woman is so grand, Leonie—so pure, so unworldly."

She turned away, saying to herself, with a bitter sigh:

"I am at war with myself!"

CHAPTER XXXIX.

"Possession is nine points of law," said Leonie, with a hard, half-bitter laugh.

"Possession is nothing of the kind," contended Captain Flemyng; "at least, it should not be. Honor should stand before everything, Leonie."

In the drawing-room of Lady Charnleigh's magnificent town mansion there was being discussed a celebrated law suit that was attracting the attention of all England. It was a bright, sunny afternoon, and Leonie, whose perfect artistic taste reigned paramount, had half drawn the rose-colored blind, so that the room was full of mellow, half-roseate, half-golden light; the fragrance of costly flowers floated on the soft breeze that blew in softly from the open windows. Several visitors were there—Captain Flemyng, Lord Seaton, Lady Westgrave, and Miss Dacre, who was still remaining with Lady Charnleigh; Lady Fanshawe was also present. Some desultory conversation had taken place, when Lord Seaton asked if they had read the day's evidence of the Pytchley trial.

"What is the trial about?" asked Leonie. "I have not read any of it."

They told her that it was the appeal of the elder brother for the recovery of title and estate from a younger one, who was in full enjoyment of them.

"It is hard, I must acknowledge," said Lord Seaton. "The elder was supposed to have died fourteen years ago, and now he returns to claim his possessions. The younger one, believing himself to be the true heir, married, and has lived as the master of the estate. He has children growing around him, and it seems to me hard that he should be suddenly deprived of all he has, and turned adrift in the world."

"It is hard," assented Lady Westgrave. And then Leonie put in—

"Possession is nine points of law."

"No amount of possession can give an honorable claim to that which belongs to another," said Paul Flemyng again contradicting Lady Charnleigh's dictum. "I think the young brother did wrong to allow the matter to come to trial at all. He must have felt sure of the elder one's identity."

"Still, it could not be easy to give up everything in the world," objected Leonie.

"It could not be easy to one who is conscientious to keep anything belonging to another," said Miss Dacre.

"You are right, Ethel," corroborated Paul Flemyng. "There are different kinds of dishonesty; sometimes it passes under grand names, but, rely upon it, the man who keeps an estate from another to whom it justly belongs is quite as much a thief as the man who slips his hand into your pocket and steals your purse."

"A thief!" cried Lady Charnleigh, her beautiful face growing ghastly in its pallor—"a thief, Paul!"

"Yes," he replied, looking at her in astonishment; "most certainly—a thief, neither more nor less."

"It is a very ugly word," she said, the pallor giving way to a deep flush.

"The deed is still more ugly," he returned. "I have often wished, too, that men who fail in business dishonestly, and bring untold distress on hundreds of their fellow creatures, were also called thieves. There is nothing like plain speaking."

"Thieving is such a contemptible crime," said Miss Dacre; "I think it is the meanest of all vices."

"It shocks people of refinement the most," observed Paul Flemyng. "Now, Leonie, shall I look at the photograph we were speaking of?"

But she drew back as though his words stabbed her; she shrank from him.

"Never mind about it now," she answered; "I can show it to you at another time."

"What a variable child you are!" said Paul, with a smile and a sigh.

A few minutes since and all she cared for was that he should see the photograph and give his opinion upon it. Then she was laughing, eager, and animated—now she drew back, pale, grave, and evidently anxious to escape from them all.

"What can have caused the change?" Paul Flemyng asked himself—he did not in any way connect the subject of their conversation with her difference of mood.

Lady Westgrave suddenly bethought herself how pale and tired the young countess was looking, and rose to take her leave.

"Of course we shall see you at Gower House this evening, Lady Charnleigh? The ball will be a brilliant one."

"Yes, I shall be there," replied Lady Charnleigh.

Lady Westgrave, who was herself one of the happiest of young wives looked at the lovely, wearied face.

"You are not so accustomed to late hours and London life as we who have borne the heat and burden of many summers," she remarked. "Take my advice and rest before you go out again; you look very tired."

"I am not tired," said Leonie, her face flushed with impatience. "People seem to have but one idea about me, and that is—that I require rest."

"You give me that impression," observed Lady Westgrave, kindly.

And when she had gone Leonie turned away abruptly.

"I cannot talk to you any more now, Paul. I am going out. No—pray do not follow me. Ethel will entertain you. I assure you that I do not want a companion."

Paul, who had risen eagerly to accompany her, drew back at her words. Seeing a pained look on his face, she went up to him and laid her hand on his, with one of those shy, pretty, caressing movements that suited her so well.

"Lady Westgrave spoke truthfully, Paul—I am tired; and to go out among the flowers—even those in a London conservatory—does one good. If I have been extra disagreeable this morning, I will be all that is most amiable to-night."

"You are always charming," he returned, bending down to kiss the little white hand that lay on his.

"Ethel, did you hear that? Teach Captain Flemyng to tell the truth. Honestly speaking, I know no one so tiresome as myself when I am in a bad temper."

So saying she went out through the glass doors into the conservatory, leaving Ethel to entertain Paul. Captain Flemyng sighed as the flowing folds of the white dress disappeared, and the next moment Ethel was by his side.

"Do not sigh about her—do not be anxious over her," she said kindly. "She does not seem like herself at present; but it will all pass away; the novelty of this new life will disappear, and then you will see the original noble nature in all its frank sweetness again."

"Yes; she has not had time to grow accustomed to the novelty yet," he remarked. It would have been easier for him to discover spots on the sun than to find fault with this girl whom he worshiped with so passionate a love; but he did wish then that she had more of Ethel's sweet, wise ways—more constancy.

Then Ethel chatted with him—that is, she won him from his graver thoughts, she talked of all that most interested him, cheering and soothing him, as a woman only can, until he felt in better spirits than he had for many days past.

"You really think then, Ethel, that my beautiful Leonie is only a little bewildered by the novelty of all around her?"

"It can be nothing else," she said. "We know all her history, and we must own that the change has been enough to bewilder her. She is at this moment the most lovely, the most envied, the most popular, and the wealthiest woman in London. Is not that enough to make any young girl capricious?"

"Yes, certainly—I had not thought of that."

"She has a noble nature, and a most generous, loyal heart," continued Ethel. "You will see in a short time, when she begins to understand how little there is in all that now seems to her most desirable, she will be all and even more than you wish her to be."

"You are the sweetest of comforters, Ethel," said Captain Flemyng. "I think you have a peculiar talent for dispelling unpleasant thoughts."

